63 See Alciatus, Daly Edition; Michael Bath, Speaking Pictures: English Emblem Books and Renaissance Culture ⊠ (London, Eng.: Longman, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). See also Rosemary Freeman, English Emblem Books ⊠–⊠ (London, Eng.: Chatto ⊠ Windus, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); The Telling Image: Explorations in the Emblem (Ayers L. Bagley, Edward M. Griffin, ⊠ Austin J. McLean, eds., New York, NY: AMS Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Denis Drysdall called Alciatus's work ⊠one of the great publishing successes of the sixteenth century⊠ Drysdall at ⊠⊠⊠.

64 Drysdall at ⊠⊠⊠. The word ⊠emblem⊠ of Greek origin, means to ⊠insert⊠ or to ⊠add on⊠ Id. Drysdall noted that Alciatus ⊠never commented⊠ on the illustrations that came to be seen as an ⊠essential component⊠ Id.

65 See Andrea Alciato and the Emblem Tradition: Essays in Honor of Virginia Woods Callahan (Peter M. Daly, ed., New York, NY: AMS Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰); Ernst Gombrich, ⍰tones S⍰m⍰olicae⍰The ⍰isual ⍰na⍰e in Neo⍰Platonic Thou⍰ht, ⍰⍰ J. Warburg ⍰ Courtauld Inst. ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Alciatus embodied a Renaissance sensibility that held that visual images (pace Gombrich) expressed (rather than only illustrated) concepts: ⍰Words signify, things are signified.⍰ Kelley at ⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰ (citing Alciatus's ⍰De verborum significatione⍰). In Alison Saunders's view, for ⍰the bulk of the sixteenth-century emblem writers (as opposed to the seventeenth-century theorists) the emblem was . . . a didactic tool essentially used for teaching the path of virtue.⍰ Saunders at ⍰⍰.

66 Andrea Alciati, ⍰Emblemata⍰ in Opera omnia (⍰Emblems⍰ in Collected Works) vol. ⍰, column ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (unpaginated) (Basilae, apud Thomas Guarinum, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Translations of the Latin are by Nicholas Salazar. Our thanks to Mike Widener, Rare Book Librarian at the Lillian Goldman Law Library of the Yale Law School, for his assistance in locating and permitting our use of the Alciatus image in figure ⍰⍰.

67 See Davis at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ and fig. ⍰⍰, explained at ⍰⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰, providing the plate from Livret des Emblemes de maistre Andre Alciat, mis en rime francoyse (Paris, Fran.: Chrestien Wechel, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. ⍰, emblem ⍰⍰⍰ (unpaginated), reproducing the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ French edition. Evans explained that Alciatus might have gotten the image from the figure of Integrity by Marten de Vos or from Plutarch, available in Latin in Louvain in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See Michael Evans, Two Sources for Maimed Justice, ⍰⍰ Source: Notes on the History of Art ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

68 Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. ⍰, emblem ⍰⍰⍰ and motto (from a French edition of ⍰⍰⍰⍰).We have excerpted the quote, deleting words that were translated, such as ⍰main⍰ for hand. In the four other versions (from ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, and ⍰⍰⍰⍰), the translations have modest textual differences. All describe princes, kings, or judges who are ⍰without eyes,⍰ ⍰deprived of sight⍰ or ⍰blind⍰ The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ German version reads: ⍰Here you see the council of the good prince. Why does he sit⍰ That shows the understanding and constant mind of a wise man. What does it mean that they have no hands⍰ That they are above gifts. Why is the prince himself blind⍰ So that he may recognize no-one's status and the judge according to his council⍰ A ⍰⍰⍰⍰ edition included the explanation that the hands were cut off so that the judges could not take gifts that could corrupt them. The explanation proffered was that the chief judge would not be ⍰improperly swayed⍰ and that the other judges can take ⍰no money or other presents⍰ Davis, at ⍰⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰, provided the point in French; the paraphrase is ours.

69 Ripa, Padua–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

70 Ripa, Padua–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Ripa editions vary in terms of their sets of Justices. The particular version of Justice⍰ with dog and snake⍰ could also be found in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ French edition under the heading ⍰Iustice Inviolable⍰ (⍰Justice Inviolate⍰), with a text that ⍰the dog . . . signifies that ⍰Justice⍰ must faithfully love Virtue. And the snake that she is obliged to hate vice, like a fatal and contagious venom.⍰ French Ripa–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰. The Dutch version from the same year described ⍰a dog, symbolizing friendship ⍰and⍰ a snake, symbolizing hate.⍰ Dutch Ripa–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰. In the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Hertel, Maser Edition at plate ⍰⍰⍰, the text referred back to the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ edition and read, ⍰The snake and the dog represent friendship and hatred, neither of which must be allowed to influence true justice⍰ By the time the Richardson edition was published in England in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the dog and snake had disappeared.

71 Ripa, Padua–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰.

72 Deonna, Les ⍰res⍰ues at ⍰⍰⍰. See also Waldemar Deonna, La Justice ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰tel de ⍰ille de ⍰en⍰ve et la fres⍰ue des ⍰⍰es au⍰ mains coup⍰es, ⍰⍰ Revue Suisse d'Art et D'Archéologie ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Deonna, La Justice). Deonna analyzed what he termed ⍰cette sc⍰ne bizarre⍰ in both essays. Deonna, La Justice at ⍰⍰⍰. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Professor Deonna became the director of the Mus⍰e d'Art et d'Histoire and the Mus⍰e Arch⍰ologique in Geneva. See generally ⍰ omma⍰es ⍰ Waldemar Deonna, ⍰⍰ Collection Latomus: Revue d'études Latines ⍰–⍰⍰ (Brussels, Belg.: De Meester, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Our thanks to Ursula Baume-Cousam and to Isabelle Brun-Ilunga of Le Centre d'Iconographie Genevoise (begun in ⍰⍰⍰⍰) for assistance in obtaining figure ⍰⍰, the images reproduced in figures ⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰, and for providing information about the setting, as well as to Julia Schiesel and Allison Tait for extensive research on the Town Hall of Geneva. The images from the Town Hall are reproduced with permission of the Centre d'Iconographie Genevoise.

73 Barbara Roth-Lochner ⍰ Livio Fornara, The Town Hall of Geneva ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Jean Gunn, trans., Geneva, Switz.: Chancellerie d'Etat, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Although scholars of the Geneva Town Hall agree on this attribution, one, Camille Martin, noted that the record of Giglio's presence in the city's register put him there for only five months, which is thought to have been too short a time to complete the mural but sufficient time to repaint some of the portraits in the room. Camille Martin, La Maison de ville de Gen⍰ve ⍰⍰ (Geneva, Switz.: A. Jullien, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

74 The figures are identified by Deonna in La Justice at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ and in Les ⍰res⍰ues at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Biblical history had particular authority in Geneva, whose ruling Calvinists saw Bible stories as more relevant than Medieval Catholic and feudal traditions. See The Identity of Geneva: The Christian Commonwealth, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰ (John B. Roney ⍰ Martin I. Klauber, eds., Westport, CT: Greenwood Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Roney ⍰ Klauber).

75 Deonna, Les ⍰res⍰ues at ⍰⍰⍰. The French that is legible reads, ⍰Quel de nous demeurera avec les ardeurs ⍰ternelles.⍰

76 Deonna, La Justice at ⍰⍰⍰. The words are no longer all clear. The French that is visible reads: ⍰Dieu . . . siste . . . g . . . . David Psaume ⍰⍰⍰ (with the ellipses indicating the portions of the passage no longer legible). Deonna completed the second half of the passage based on a ⍰⍰⍰⍰ version of the Geneva Bible, Psalm ⍰⍰, which could have been available to Giglio at the time he painted Les Ju⍰es. Deonna's completion of the passage reads: ⍰Dieu assiste en l'assembl⍰e et juge au milieu des juges,⍰ which translates into English as ⍰God stands in the congregation, and judges among the judges⍰ However, Psalm ⍰⍰ from a ⍰⍰⍰⍰ version of the Geneva Bible in English reads: ⍰God standeth in the assemblie of gods: hee iudgeth among gods.⍰ The Bible: That is, the Holy Scriptures Conteined in the Olde and Newe Testament. Translated According to the Ebrew and Greeke, and Conferred with the Best Translations in Divers Languages (London, Eng.: Christopher Barker, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Similarly, a Louvain Bible from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ also refers to judging among the gods, not judging among judges. Bible (Moyen fran⍰ais ⍰⍰⍰⍰) ⍰⍰⍰ (Cambridge, MA: Omnisys, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), Bibliotheque National de France, http://gallica.bnf.fr/ark:/⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰/bpt⍰k⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰d.item. As William Nelson pointed out to us, the reference to the ⍰assembly⍰ provides a basis for the image of witnesses or a court-like scene at the time of judgment.

77 This translation is from Roth-Lochner ⍰ Fornara at ⍰⍰. Davis, at ⍰⍰, did not discuss this image from Geneva but did, as one of her epigraphs to the chapter, ⍰Gifts, Bribes, and Kings⍰ quote the same passage from ⍰⍰odus ⍰⍰:⍰, translated slightly differently as: ⍰And thou shalt take no gift; for the gift blindeth the wise, and perverteth the words of the righteous⍰ The New ⍰n⍰lish Bi⍰le offers yet another translation: ⍰You shall not accept a bribe, for bribery makes the discerning man blind and the just man give a crooked answer.⍰

78 See, for example, Deonna, La Justice at ⍰⍰⍰ (mentioning that the Geneva scene could have been a reference to a municipal official named Blondel, condemned in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ for treason after assisting the effort by the Duke of Savoy to take Geneva in ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

79 Deonna posited that Plutarch and Ripa were likely sources for the room's imagery. Deonna, La Justice at ⍰⍰⍰. Deonna noted that Alciatus was also a possible source for the Geneva frescoes. Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒. Christian-Nils Robert cited Plutarch and Diodorus as sources, perhaps also partly through an edition of Alciatus that was published in Lyon in ☒☒☒☒. Robert at ☒☒.

80 Deonna, La Justice at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒.

81 Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒. The Ulm image, as detailed by Deonna, would have predated that in Geneva because it was painted by the town's painter, a German artist, Georg Rieder, who died in ☒☒☒☒. Rieder did four panels for the courtroom☒ a Last Jud☒ment now in the Ulmer Museum, the ☒☒☒☒ Sie☒e of ☒ lm (that remains on the site), and two paintings now lost, a Jud☒ment of Solomon and the The☒an Law Court. See Artnet Research Library, Artists' Biographies, http://www.artnet.com/library/☒☒/☒☒☒☒/T☒☒☒☒☒☒.asp. Under the Ulm The☒an Law Court was a Latin inscription dated ☒☒☒☒ that read, in part, ☒eo quod iustitia nec levitate mentis delectetur nec muneribus capiatur nec hominum vultu flectatur☒ (☒because justice neither delights in lightness of mind nor is captured by gifts nor is turned by the face of men☒). Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒. The Augsburg Town Hall was built between ☒☒☒☒ and ☒☒☒☒, while the Danzig image, in the building named Arthur's Court, sat alongside a Last Jud☒ment (attributed by some to Hans Memling) and was, according to Deonna, centered on an older man (☒Judex terrarum☒) seated on a throne between two women holding a law book and a balance and surrounded by twelve magistrates, all without hands. Id. at ☒☒☒, n. ☒☒☒. Arthur's Court was the ☒second most important secular building in the city after the Town House☒ See Miziolek at ☒☒.

The The☒an Law Court (Gericht von Theben) is part of a layered scene on the front of the Regensburg Town Hall. At the center is an ☒lle☒ ☒orie des ☒uten ☒e☒iments der ☒eichsstadt ☒e☒ens☒ur☒ (☒lle☒or☒ of ☒ood ☒overnment of the ☒mperial Cit☒ of ☒e☒ens☒ur☒). Below was a scene with a presiding judge at the center and three judges on each side, with hands cut off, below which were decorative figures and lions. The fresco, now in the Museum of Regensburg, is by Melchior Bocksberger and is dated around ☒☒☒☒–☒☒☒☒. See Tipton at ☒☒☒, fig. ☒☒. Our thanks to Elizabeth McGrath for directing us to this image.

82 Groebner at ☒☒.

83 Groebner at ☒☒.

84 Groebner at ☒☒.

85 Evans at ☒☒.

86 Evans at ☒☒, translating a Latin text attributed to Dominus Albertus and reproducing the two manuscripts in figures ☒ and ☒ at ☒☒.

87 Evans at ☒☒–☒☒ and fig. ☒. Evans commented that the ☒bizarre motif☒ of handless or armless figures, which ☒enjoyed a brief vogue in forensic allegorical painting c. ☒☒☒☒, derives from Plutarch☒ Id. at ☒☒.

88 Roth-Lochner ☒ Fornara at ☒. This building, which was previously a private home, was adapted for use by the government at some point around ☒☒☒☒–☒☒☒☒. It was altered during the seventeenth century to accommodate the Council. Id. at ☒. Explanations of the administration of justice in Geneva from its early times through the eighteenth century is provided in Barbara Roth-Lochner, Messieurs de la Justice et leur greffe (Lawmakers and Their Office) (Geneva, Switz.: Soci☒☒ d'Histoire et d'Arch☒ologie de Gen☒ve, ☒☒☒☒). Tribunals, dating from ☒☒☒☒, provided procedures to guide judges (described, in a loose translation) as requiring judges to provide an expedited form of justice, to resist all forms of corruption, to pronounce justice according to the law and, above all else, to seek the triumph of truth. Id. at ☒☒–☒☒.

At several points during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, the Council modified the procedures, which were compiled for publication in ☒☒☒☒. Id. at ☒☒–☒☒. Also provided are details of the Council's routines, personages, and calendar during the mid-sixteenth century, when it met weekly. Id. at ☒☒–☒☒. The tribunal's typical audience included clerks, secretaries, the prosecutor, and some young lawyers, as well as an occasional member of one of the Town's Councils. At times their numbers filled the room so that the general public was left without space to gain attendance. Judges and parties sometimes retreated to a small room to seek settlement. Id. at ☒☒.

89 Martin at ☒.

90 Roney ☒ Klauber at ☒. Geneva remained independent until ☒☒☒☒, when France annexed it; Geneva returned to its free state after Napoleon's defeat in ☒☒☒☒ and joined the Swiss Confederation in ☒☒☒☒. Id. at ☒☒–☒☒.

91 Roney ☒ Klauber at ☒. See also Richard Stauffer, Calvin, in International Calvinism ☒☒☒☒–☒☒☒☒ at ☒☒, ☒☒, ☒☒–☒☒ (Menna Prestwich, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon Press, ☒☒☒☒) (hereinafter International Calvinism).

92 Richard A. Muller, Calvin, Be☒a, and the ☒☒e☒etical ☒ istor☒ of the ☒omans ☒☒☒☒☒, in Roney ☒ Klauber at ☒☒, ☒☒–☒☒.

93 Roney ☒ Klauber at ☒. The town became a center of small manufacturing and by ☒☒☒☒, its population numbered about ☒☒,☒☒☒. Id. at ☒.

94 Roney ☒ Klauber at ☒–☒.

95 The Geneva Les Ju☒es au☒ mains coup☒es was painted in ☒☒☒☒, two years after the Catholic Duke of Savoy had unsuccessfully tried to take the city. Roney ☒ Klauber at ☒. The other frescoes are much earlier, from before the Calvinist ☒heyday☒ that ran from ☒☒☒☒ to ☒☒☒☒. See Gillian Lewis, Calvinism in ☒eneva in the Time of Calvin and of Be☒a ☒☒☒☒☒☒☒☒☒☒, in International Calvinism at ☒☒, ☒☒. As Lewis also recounted, Calvinism brooked no ☒false doctrine☒ insisting on an austere and severe regime with a strict moral code. Id. at ☒☒–☒☒.

96 Martin, at ☒☒☒, provided this information; the translation comes from the New ☒n☒ish Bi☒le. The Hebrew word Jehoshaphat can be translated ☒God is judge.☒

97 Roth-Lochner ☒ Fornara at ☒☒. The redecoration that hid the mural was done in ☒☒☒☒, and the murals' recovery in ☒☒☒☒ was part of a restoration that included bringing the original windows back into view. Id. According to Roth-Lochner, the frescoes in the room are among the ☒most important secular group of murals known☒ in the region. Id. According to another account, trials were held and sentences pronounced in the open square (the Vieux-M☒zel) in front of the Geneva Town Hall. See Martin at ☒–☒.

98 Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒. Martin, at ☒☒, also expressed the belief that the choice of figures was likely guided by the Council. Martin speculated that the figure of Justice was akin to that of the Virgin on her throne, surrounded by saints. Id. at ☒☒.

99 Martin at ☒☒–☒☒. For example, one image of an old, bearded man was accompanied by a text in Latin from Virgil's ☒eneid. The passage from Virgil reads: ☒Ah, but you Romans, remember to rule people, to govern, there's your art☒ to make peace like a custom, to spare humble men and war on the pompous.☒ Virgil, The Aeneid ☒☒☒ (Edward McCrorie, trans., Ann Arbor, MI: U. of Michigan Press, ☒☒☒☒) (hereinafter Virgil, Aeneid). Remaining legible on the wall, translated from Latin, is ☒this will be your art: to make peace like a custom, to spare humble men and war on the pompous☒ Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒.

Martin's view was that the Council proffered specific phrases to guide the artists' decisions. Martin at ☒☒–☒☒. Deonna, in contrast, attributed both text and representations to the artists. Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒. Deonna also provided a layout of the room. Id. at ☒☒☒. Some of the texts have been identified, and others are unclear. For example, Deonna initially believed that one partially destroyed Latin inscription (translated from Deonna's French into English) read: ☒He who does not devote his life to the pursuit of Justice does not merit a seat in this room☒ Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒. See also Martin at ☒☒. Thereafter Deonna came to believe that the passage likely came from a Zurich author who misattributed it to St. Augustine rather than properly attributing it to Possidius's Life of Saint ☒u☒ustine. Deonna's new understanding of the text was (again, translated into English): ☒He who loves to insult with words those who are absent, must know that this room is forbidden to him☒ Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒.

100 Deonna, Les ☒res☒ues at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒. The Last Judgment theme stems from a fresco featuring Sybil of Erythraea, accompanied by a Latin text from St. Augustine that can be translated to read, ⊠Here is the sign of the Last Judgment. The earth will be wet with sweat. He will come from the heavens to reign as a king for centuries and centuries⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. St. Augustine invoked the Sibyl as prophesying the Last Judgment. See Saint Augustine, The City of God (De Civitate Dei) (⊠Of the evident prophecy of the Erythraean Sibyl concerning Christ⊠), ch. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (John Healey, trans., R. V. G. Tasker, ed., London, Eng.: J. M. Dent ⊠ Sons, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

101 Deonna's analysis of the frescoes as glorifying Justice, necessary for good government and inseparable from it, linked that ideology to Brunetto Latino (see Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠⊠⊠), as did Skinner's analysis of Lorenzetti's Siena ⊠lle⊠ories, discussed in Chapter ⊠. Deonna, writing before Skinner, noted the parallel to Siena's iconography⊠ particularly the role played by Concord and the other Virtues. Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ and n. ⊠⊠⊠. He further explained that the theme of Good Government, with analogous deployments of Virtues and other figures, had become part of German iconography as exemplified by works in Lüneburg, Regensburg, and K⊠nigsberg. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

102 Martin at ⊠⊠.

103 Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠. Martin, in contrast, read the figure to be Tertullian (Tullius), an early Christian author, and identified another figure as Cicero. Martin at ⊠⊠.

104 Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠. The Latin text was apparently adapted from Walter of Ch⊠tillon's ⊠le⊠andreis, as ⊠If you should judge a suit, balance the scales of Justice evenly. Let love not turn your mind; beware lest your resolve be bent by awe of the persons or by flatterers' bribes.⊠ The Alexandreis of Walter of Ch⊠tillon: A Twelfth-Century Epic ⊠ (David Townsend, trans., Philadelphia, PA: U. of Pennsylvania Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Those verses, in turn, are reminiscent of Leviticus ⊠⊠:⊠⊠ (⊠You shall not pervert justice, either by favouring the poor or by subservience to the great. You shall judge your fellow-countryman with strict justice⊠) and Deuteronomy ⊠⊠:⊠⊠ (⊠You shall not pervert the course of justice or show favour, nor shall you accept a bribe; for bribery makes the wise man blind and the just man give a crooked answer.⊠) (New English Bible translations).

In addition to the murals in the room, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Samuel de Rameru painted a giant figure of Justice that initially hung in the Salle du Petit Counseil and in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ was moved to the Salle des Pas Perdus⊠ literally the ⊠room of lost steps⊠⊠ which remains the nomenclature in French for waiting areas in courthouses. The ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Justice is shown standing outside in a square near the town's market and almost equal in height to the two stories depicted of the Geneva Town Hall. She has a helmet on her head, a sword upright in one hand and scales unevenly balanced in the other. See Roth-Lochner ⊠ Fornara at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ and fig. ⊠⊠.

105 Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠; Martin at ⊠⊠.

106 Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠, identifying the source of the quote as Cicero's De ⊠⊠ ciis, para. ⊠⊠. A nearby paragraph in De ⊠⊠ ciis refers to the obligation to give elders a role in public affairs and has been read to affirm Geneva's magistrates as mature, experienced leaders. Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠. Noonan offered an analysis of Cicero's rhetorical commitment against bribery. Noonan at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

107 Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠. The original, in Latin, reads: ⊠Justitia est praeclarissima virtutum⊠ translated into French by Deonna to read ⊠La Justice est la plus belle de toutes les vertus⊠ This passage has been variously translated in English to read Justice as the ⊠best⊠ or ⊠greatest⊠ virtue.

108 Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. The actual phrase from McCrorie's translation of Virgil's ⊠eneid reads: ⊠be warned: learn justice: stop scorning the sky-gods.⊠ Virgil, Aeneid at ⊠⊠⊠.

109 Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠. The original, in Latin, reads: ⊠Justitia habet duas venas, pietatem et equitatem.⊠

110 Deonna, Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠. Deonna thought that the reference was to Cicero's Laelius de ⊠micitia, made accessible through Brunetto Latino's Tr⊠sor. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Another image, of the first-century BCE Roman historian Sallust, included a Latin inscription, ⊠Concordia parve res crescunt. Discordia maxime dilabuntur⊠ Deonna, in Les ⊠res⊠ues at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, took these words to mean that living in concord enabled even small states to thrive, but living in discord destroyed even the powerful. On the importance of friendship to Renaissance polities and the sense that friendship was ⊠incompatible with tyranny⊠ see Ullrich Langer, Perfect Friendship: Studies in Literature and Moral Philosophy from Boccaccio to Corneille ⊠⊠ (Geneva, Switz.: Librairie Droz, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

111 Davis at ⊠⊠. In contrast, focused on the Swiss Confederacy, Groebner detailed a ⊠repetoire of terms for evil gifts . . . between the Burgundian wars and the Reformation⊠ as he also counseled against assuming a concomitant ⊠continuity of underlying attitudes⊠ about permissible and illicit gifts from the repetition of various narratives and sayings over the centuries. Groebner at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

112 Davis at ⊠⊠.

113 Davis at ⊠⊠.

114 In contrast to our focus on obedience to earthly rulers, Robert Jacob has argued that the deployment of images of the Last Judgment and of the crucifixion in town halls signaled to judges that they were subject not only to kingly authority but also to that of God. That ⊠double delegation⊠ created, from Jacob's perspective, a critical space for judges and a form of separation of powers long before that idea became entrenched through the Enlightenment. See Robert Jacob, Le ⊠⊠⊠ement de Dieu et la formation de la fonction de ⊠⊠⊠er dans ⊠⊠histoire europ⊠enne (Divine Jud⊠ment and the Development of the Judicial ⊠unction in ⊠uropean ⊠istor⊠), ⊠⊠ Archives de Philosophie du Droit ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

115 Our understanding of this building and its interior has been informed by the intellectual generosity of Dr. Eymert-Jan Goossens, who served as the head curator for exhibitions and research for the Royal Palace, Amsterdam; by Dr. Lodewijk Wagenaar, Conservator of the Amsterdam Historische Museum Willet-Holthuysen; by Pieter Vlaardingerbroek, an architectural historian who authored a Ph.D. dissertation titled The Town Hall of Amsterdam, The Construction of the Town Hall, Its Conversion into Royal Palace and Restoration (University of Utrecht, Utrecht, Neth., ⊠⊠⊠⊠); and by Sarah van Walsum of the Vrije Universiteit in Amsterdam.

116 See Katharine Fremantle, The Baroque Town Hall of Amsterdam ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (Utrecht, Neth.: Haentjens Dekker ⊠ Gumbert, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafater Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall). The designer, Jacob Van Campen, who was also an artist, embraced Vitruvius's premise that buildings should be ⊠durable, functional and beautiful⊠ Further, he had a view of God as the ⊠supreme architect, Creator of heaven and earth⊠ and of the universe and the human body as harmonious, with rules discoverable by those who tried. See Eymert-Jan Goossens, Treasures Wrought by Chisel and Brush: The Town Hall of Amsterdam in the Golden Age ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Amsterdam, Neth.: Royal Palace, Zwolle, Waanders Publishers, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Vitruvius's De architecturae li⊠ri decem (Ten Books of ⊠rchitecture), written during the first century BCE, linked the symmetrical proportions of classical temples, the human body, and the universe.

Van Campen, who was born in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ into a wealthy family in Haarlem and died in Amersfoort in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, was a disciple of Rubens. See Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⊠⊠⊠. Van Campen was trained in Italian classicism and influenced by Italian scholars Palladio and Scamozzi. Van Campen brought Italianate decorative themes, specifically allegorical and classical imagery, into Dutch buildings, which had before then displayed only ⊠still life, genre and portraiture⊠ Barbara Joyce Buchbinder-Green: The Painted Decorations of the Town Hall of Amsterdam xvi (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art History, Northwestern University, Evanston, IL, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠). He is credited with designing many of the sculptures, crafted by others. See also Jacobine Huisken, Koen Ottenheym, ⊠

Gary Schwartz, Jacob Van Campen, Het klassieke ideaal in de Gouden Eeuw (Amsterdam, Neth.: Stichting Koninklijk Paleis te Amsterdam, ⌧⌧⌧⌧), and Katharine Fremantle, Book ⌧eview of ⌧Jaco⌧ van Campen, Schilder en Bouwmeester⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Oud Holland, Quarterly for Dutch Art History ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). Van Campen may also have drawn guidance from what was understood to have been Solomon's Palace, for the burgomasters saw themselves, like Solomon, as bringing peace and justice to the city. Correspondence from Pieter Vlaardingerbroek (March ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Van Campen provided the building's principal design, but he withdrew in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and was replaced by Daniel Stalpaert, who had been appointed to serve as the city's architect. Goossens at ⌧⌧. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. Some of Van Campen's original plan was ⌧abandoned due to financial constraints imposed by the First Anglo-Dutch War (⌧⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧⌧)⌧ Goossens at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. A scale model of the building by Van Campen can be found in the Amsterdam Historisch Museum. Some of the design was changed after he withdrew. Buchbinder-Green at xvii.

117 Goossens at ⌧⌧. The burgomasters, sheriff, and magistrates were also known as ⌧My Lords of the Court⌧ and the city's administration functioned as both a court of law and a governing body, proclaiming laws and running city business. See Sjoerd Faber, Jacobine Huisken, ⌧ Friso Lammertse, Of Lords, Who Seat nor Cushion do Ashame. the Government of Amsterdam in the ⌧⌧th and ⌧⌧th Centuries at ⌧⌧ (Amsterdam, Neth.: Stichting Koninklijk Paleis te Amsterdam, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Their sense of the city's importance, linked to its role in trade, was exemplified in the city's seal, which, from ⌧⌧⌧⌧ to around the ⌧⌧⌧⌧s, included a ⌧cog⌧⌧ a small wooden boat with a single mast. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⌧, n. ⌧, figure ⌧⌧⌧. In terms of the organization of its trading capacities, the two central institutions, the Dutch East India Company and the Dutch West India Company, were formed in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and ⌧⌧⌧⌧, respectively. Id. at ⌧.

118 Goossens at ⌧⌧.

119 See Jan Peeters, Peter C. Sutton, Eymert-Jan Goossens, ⌧ Deirdre Carasso, The Royal Palace of Amsterdam in Paintings of the Golden Age at ⌧⌧ (Zwolle, Neth.: Waanders Publishers, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (hereinafter The Royal Palace). See generally Simon Schama, The Embarrassment of Riches: An Interpretation of Dutch Culture in the Golden Age (New York, NY: Alfred A. Knopf, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Schama argued that the Dutch lacked the ⌧self-evident markers of territory, tribe, language or dynasty that were customarily held to be the criteria for national self-consciousness⌧ and substituted, when filling the ⌧vacuum left by the collapse of monarchy⌧ a mixture of ⌧Calvinism, humanism, and commercial pragmatism⌧ Id. at ⌧⌧. ⌧The most extraordinary invention of a country that was to become famous for its ingenuity was its own culture⌧ Id.

120 See generally Maarten Prak, The Dutch Republic in the Seventeenth Century (Diane Webb, trans., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Prak objected to the focus on the Dutch Republic as a remarkable precursor to what followed and argued that it should be understood in its own context. His view was that it thrived during the seventeenth century because its small size and large number of independent cities produced unusually successful local governments that enabled more control and efficiency, which, in turn, produced more faith in government. Id. at ⌧–⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧. For example, in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ the Dutch Republic had twenty-one cities of ten thousand or more, whereas England, with three times the number of people, had eleven such cities. Id. at ⌧⌧⌧. The Dutch worldwide trading system, involved with the slave trade, was another source of its wealth during the seventeenth century. Id. at ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧.

121 Prak at ⌧⌧⌧, citing Constantijn Huygens, who addressed the town's councillors as the ⌧founders of the eighth wonder of the world⌧ Goossens noted that the verse, carved in ⌧Lydian stone⌧ and gilded by Elias Noski, can still be seen in the Burgomasters' Chambers. Goossens at ⌧⌧, n. ⌧⌧, and at ⌧⌧; Buchbinder-Green at ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧. The Royal Palace's ⌧⌧⌧⌧ exhibition, ⌧The Eighth Wonder of the World⌧ provided a history of the building project. Goossens at ⌧.

122 ⌧Peace, commerce and justice were the central issues in Jacob van Campen's iconographic programme for the building.⌧ Lyckle de Vries, Gerard de Lairesse: An Artist between Stage and Studio ⌧⌧ (Amsterdam, Neth.: Amsterdam U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

123 The building shown in figure ⌧⌧ became a palace in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ under King Louis Napoleon, whose brother, Emperor Napoleon, declared Louis as the King of the Netherlands. Goossens at ⌧⌧. The interiors were left largely intact through that occupation. They were restored during the twentieth century, when the Amsterdam Town Hall was put to use for royal gatherings as well as for public tours. See Goossens at ⌧⌧; Jacobine E. Huisken, The Royal Palace on the Dam in a Historical View ⌧–⌧⌧ (Rollin Cochrane, trans., Amsterdam, Neth.: De Walburg Pers, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Our thanks to the Amsterdam City Archives for providing us with photographs of the Town Hall and permission to reproduce them.

124 As Fremantle explained, at xxii, the records available include models, aspects of architect Jacob van Campen's plans that were not executed, and papers of the sculptor, Artus Quellinus (also called Quellien or Quellin). A foundation also supports research and exhibitions related to the building. See Goossens at ⌧ (describing the exhibits and research prompted by the ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Fremantle book). Many others have written about the imagery in Amsterdam as well. See, for example, Weegschaal ⌧ Zwaard: De Verbeelding van Recht en Gerechtigheid in Nederland (Scales and Sword: The Depiction of Law and Justice in the Netherlands) (M. A. Moelands ⌧ J. Th. de Smidt, eds., The Hague, Neth.: Jongbloed Juridische Boekhandel ⌧ Uitgeverij, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (including chapter summaries in English) (hereinafter Scales and Sword). An excellent overview of other town halls is provided in Wouters Kuyper, The Triumphant Entry of Renaissance Architecture into the Netherlands (Alphen aan den Rijn, Neth.: Canaletto, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

125 ⌧Townscapes⌧ of Amsterdam came into prominence between ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and ⌧⌧⌧⌧, preceding such city scenes of Venice by about a half-century. Key to the distribution of images of Amsterdam were the workshops of several artists. For example, between ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and ⌧⌧⌧⌧ the artist Gerrit Berckheyde did more than twenty such scenes. See The Royal Palace at ⌧–⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

126 The Royal Palace at ⌧–⌧.

127 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

128 See Scales and Sword at ⌧⌧, discussing both the Medieval tradition of justice done in the open air and the development of rooms open to spectators in town halls, ⌧where the judge, the schepenen and those seeking justice or answers are gathered and where the judge issues orders, which the schepenen pronounce.⌧

129 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⌧⌧.

130 Katharine Fremantle, The ⌧pen ⌧ierschaar of ⌧msterdam⌧ Seventeenth⌧Centur⌧ Town ⌧all as a Settin⌧ for the Cit⌧⌧ Justice, ⌧⌧ Oud Holland, Quarterly for Dutch Art History ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (hereinafter Fremantle, ⌧pen ⌧ierschaar).

131 Prak at ⌧⌧; Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⌧⌧.

132 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⌧⌧. Fremantle noted that Pieter Saenredam's ⌧⌧⌧⌧ painting of the old Town Hall (reproduced as figure ⌧ in Goossens at ⌧–⌧⌧) showed the stonework ⌧rotting and crumbling away⌧ Id. at ⌧⌧. The old building had also been damaged by fire in ⌧⌧⌧⌧. That painting identified the building as it was in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (and stated that Saenredam did the painting from July ⌧⌧ to ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧); on the steps of the portico, text⌧ added later⌧ stated that ⌧the old town hall of Amsterdam . . . burnt down in three hours on ⌧ July ⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧ (an error, as the fire was in ⌧⌧⌧⌧). See Perspectives: Saenredam and the Architectural Painters of the ⌧⌧th Century ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧ (Rotterdam, Neth.: Museum Boymans-van Beuningen; Seattle, WA: Distribution U.S.A., U. Washington, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

133 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰. Fremantle's research, the ⍰first comprehensive study and art-historical analysis⍰ of the building, prompted exhibitions and additional research. Goossens at ⍰.

134 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰.

135 Goossens at ⍰.

136 Van Campen was selected by a committee functioning under the direction of burgomasters, and that group also directed the building's construction. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰, ⍰–⍰. According to Goossens, the burgomasters reviewed ⍰at least eight different designs until in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ their choice fell upon the ⍰outstanding' plan submitted by Jacob van Campen⍰ who was also the ⍰scion of a distinguished patrician family.⍰ Goossens at ⍰.

137 See The Royal Palace at ⍰.

138 Prak at ⍰⍰⍰, fig. ⍰.

139 Agnes Schreiner, Henny Bouwmeester, ⍰ Anne Van Dooren, In de ban van het recht (Captured by Justice) ⍰, ⍰ (Amsterdam, Neth.: Uitgeverij Duizend ⍰ Een, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (summaries translated by Dolph Heyning).

140 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰. The architecture, sculpture, and painting were ⍰deliberately and consciously thought out during the planning of the building⍰ to make ⍰one complex statement⍰ Id. at ⍰. Buchbinder-Green added, at ⍰–⍰, ⍰–⍰, that ⍰monumental painting⍰ weaving allegories and myths into a didactic whole had been common in Italy but not in the Netherlands until the sixteenth century.

141 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰. ⍰There can be no doubt that they ⍰representations of the elements⍰ were based on these descriptions⍰ Other statues either were the ⍰invention of the person who designed them⍰ or were ⍰taken from another source of information, for they do not correspond with Ripa's account⍰ Id. at ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (discussing the Ripa editions then available in Amsterdam and pointing out that some variations existed). See also Katharine Fremantle, Themes from ⍰ipa and ⍰u⍰ens in the ⍰o⍰al Palace of ⍰msterdam, ⍰⍰⍰ Burlington Mag. ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Fremantle, Themes from ⍰ipa and ⍰u⍰ens). Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

142 Simon Schama described the connections in a section of his book devoted to ⍰patriotic scripture⍰ (Schama at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰). The Dutch claimed connections to both the Batavians, who revolted against the Roman emperor, and the Israelites. Id. at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. See also G. Groenhuis, Calvinism and National Consciousness⍰ The Dutch ⍰epu⍰lic as the New ⍰srael, in Britain and the Netherlands, vol. ⍰: Church and State since the Reformation ⍰⍰⍰ (A. C. Duke ⍰ C. A. Tamse, eds., The Hague, Neth.: Martinus Nijhoff, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Groenhuis argued that the idea ⍰of Holland as a new Israel evolved out of the numerous comparisons⍰ made to Jewish history and that the premise ⍰coincided exactly with Calvinist views on the proper relationship that should exist between Church and State⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰. Yet, as he noted, Calvinism did not succeed in complete domination, for the ministers remained a minority within a more secular nation. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

Further, when the ⍰States of Holland finally outlawed the mass in March ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and insisted that Philip II had ⍰forfeited his sovereignty over the United Netherlands, only a small fraction of that province professed the Reformed faith⍰ Alastair Duke, The ⍰m⍰ivalent ⍰ace of Calvinism in the Netherlands, ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰, in International Calvinism at ⍰⍰⍰. Moreover, even after the national synod of ⍰⍰⍰⍰ in Dort ⍰marked the triumph of Calvinist theology within Dutch Protestantism⍰ the Reformed Church was not the religion of a majority of the Dutch. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

Prak, at ⍰⍰⍰, made a similar point, that the ⍰high moral standards and exemplary conduct in daily life required by the orthodox made it impossible for the Reformed Church to grow into a true church of the people, with whose precepts most Dutchmen could agree⍰ He estimated that Reformed Church membership was relatively small (perhaps between ⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰ percent in several cities in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s), as was that of other churches; by the early ⍰⍰⍰⍰s, a majority of some cities were members of the Reformed Church. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

143 Goossens at ⍰. ⍰The belief that events in the United Provinces could not have taken place without God's special blessing was widely shared⍰ Groenhuis at ⍰⍰. Parallels were also drawn between the Amsterdam Town Hall and Solomon's Temple. Goossens at ⍰⍰. See also Groenhuis at ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰As Canaan was honoured to serve as an abode for the people of Israel, the Netherlands have now been chosen as the dwelling-place of God's second Israel⍰). In the view of ⍰orthodox Calvinists . . . the State existed for the sake of the Church⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰. Yet in terms of governance, ⍰at no time did the Dutch Republic resemble a theocracy led by God's elect⍰ for orthodox Calvinism did not command allegiance by the country's rulers. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. For parallel assertions made about Venice, see David Rosand, Myths of Venice: The Figuration of a State (Chapel Hill, NC: U. of North Carolina Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

144 Goossens at ⍰⍰.

145 Goossens at ⍰⍰, also noting a resulting ⍰sanctimonious climate⍰ (id. at ⍰⍰) and that the burgomasters were ⍰pompous, grandiose and conspicuously wealthy⍰ (id. at ⍰⍰). More generally, during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, classical themes that had once been seen as ⍰anti-Christian⍰ became acceptably integrated, as if classical forms had been proto-Christian, making them apt for Amsterdam. Id. at ⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰.

The Stanza della Segnatura, discussed in relationship to Raphael's Justice in Chapters ⍰ and ⍰, similarly exemplifies the stance of a unity between classical and Christian traditions, shared by both Catholic and Protestant cities. And, returning to Amsterdam's Town Hall, the turn to classicism was ⍰safe ground⍰ aimed to counterbalance ⍰ecclesiastical discord⍰ (which was plentiful) through the promotion of ⍰a religiously neutral civic ideology dependent on a past that need not offend anyone.⍰ Prak at ⍰⍰⍰. Or, as Fremantle put it, ⍰knowledge of antiquity illuminated the history of Amsterdam.⍰ Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰⍰.

146 Goossens at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

147 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

148 See Faber, Huisken, ⍰ Lammertse at ⍰.

149 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰.

150 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

151 Prak at ⍰⍰⍰.

152 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

153 Prak at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰. Scholars agree that plans for a new building had begun in the late ⍰⍰⍰⍰s or early ⍰⍰⍰⍰s and that the building plans were revised while construction was underway. Scholars differ as to whether the construction began ⍰ten days before the signing of the Peace of Münster⍰ (Prak at ⍰⍰⍰), months after the signing (Goossens at ⍰), or in connection with the treaty (Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ noting that the official first cornerstone was laid in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ as part of the celebration of the Peace of Münster, ratified in July of that year). The commemorative stone reads, ⍰On ⍰⍰ October ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the year which marked the end of the war waged for over eighty years by the United Netherlands against the three Philips, mighty kings of Spain, on land and at sea in almost every part of the world, and in which the freedom and faith of the fatherland were vouchsafed, the first stone of this town hall was laid during the term of office of the burgomasters and peacemakers, by Gerb. Pancras, Jac. de Graeff, Sib. Valckenier, Pet. Schaep, sons and kin of the burgomasters⍰ Goossens at ⍰⍰, n. ⍰.

154 Goossens at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

155 Prak at ⍰⍰⍰.

156 Vlaardingerbroek at ⍰–⍰ (summary of dissertation).

157 Aspects, including some of the commissioned art work, were finished long thereafter. See Faber, Huisken, ⍰ Lammertse at ⍰. A commemorative medal coined for the inauguration had on its back the ship Argo, invoking the golden fleece, sailing home into the harbor of Amsterdam. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Prak, at ⍰⍰⍰, noted the length of the Vondel poem, which Fremantle quoted as describing Amsterdam's Town Hall as a ⍰refuge⍰ and as the ⍰heart of the whole city⍰ which provided a ⍰living glow⍰ Vondel, ll. ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, cited by Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. Goossens took the title of his book from these Vondel lines: ⍰O marvel that the human brain can conceive / Such treasure wrought by chisel and brush / Under a single roof, and each in its proper place⍰ Vondel, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, r. ⍰⍰⍰⍰, translated in Goossens at unnumbered front page. See also Goossens at ⍰⍰, n.⍰. Another of Vondel's verses provided the title for the Faber, Huisken, and Lammertse volume and for an exhibition of the same name devoted to the ⍰tasks discharged by the city fathers⍰ These verses read: ⍰But crown this edifice with titles and with names, / Of lords, who seat nor cushion do ashame.⍰ Faber, Huisken, ⍰ Lammertse at unnumbered front page, ⍰.

158 How much Quellinus did personally is debated. Fremantle noted that ⍰Van Campen designed the Town Hall's sculptural decoration in considerable detail⍰ and that it paralleled some of his work elsewhere. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Artus Quellinus, from Antwerp, was born in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. His brother, Erasmus, trained in the studio of Peter Paul Rubens. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. That brother is sometimes called Artus I Quellin. A cousin, Artus II Quellin, worked under Quellinus's direction. See H. Gerson and E. H. ter Kuile, Art and Architecture in Belgium, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Baltimore, MD: Penguin Books, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The statues on the facade, of Justice, Prudence, and Peace, were cast in bronze by Fran⍰ois Hemenoy. Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰⍰.

159 The statue of Peace weighs about eight thousand pounds. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰. Peace holds an olive branch and a staff; at her feet is a cornucopia, symbolic of the ⍰good fortune that peace brought to many of Amsterdam's inhabitants.⍰ Goossens at ⍰⍰. Fremantle posited that all three sculptures were influenced by the work of Fran⍰ois Duquesnoy and that Justice looked like Duquesnoy's St. Susanna. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

160 Goossens at ⍰⍰. See also Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (noting that images of Justice were common in front of ⍰smaller town halls⍰ and detailing them at Schmalkalden, Tübingen, Gda⍰sk, Zaltbommel, Haarlam, Maastricht, The Hague, Leiden, and Harderwijk). Many other town halls used a Justice to mark their entrances. See Kuyper, vol. ⍰ (⍰The Plates⍰) at plate ⍰⍰⍰ (Antwerp, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), plate ⍰⍰⍰ (Bruges, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), plates ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (Bolsward, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), plates ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (Appingedam, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), plate ⍰⍰⍰ (Nieuwkoop, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The photograph in figure ⍰⍰ was provided by and is reproduced with permission of the Amsterdam City Archives.

161 Goossens at ⍰⍰. Van Campen had proposed Fortitude, but when he was succeeded by Daniel Stalpaert, Fortitude was replaced by Vigilance.

162 Goossens at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (also noting that the room was the building's ⍰heart⍰ working on the theory that the building corresponded to a person's body, which in turn corresponded harmoniously with the universe).

163 Goossens at ⍰⍰.

164 Goossens at ⍰⍰.

165 Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰⍰.

166 Goossens at ⍰⍰; Fremantle, Themes from ⍰ipa and ⍰u⍰ens at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

167 Vondel, l. ⍰⍰⍰⍰, as translated and quoted in Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰, n. ⍰.

168 Gerard de Lairesse, The Art of Painting ⍰⍰⍰ (London, Eng.: Printed for S. Vandenbergh, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

169 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰.

170 Goossens at ⍰⍰; Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰ (noting that Backer was paid in ⍰⍰⍰⍰) and at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. That painting, extending fifty-six feet, was made from three canvases and showed ⍰Christ, seated on the clouds and a rainbow⍰ with angels trumpeting the elect and a skeletal figure at the bottom emerging from a grave. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

171 That painting portrayed either the Christian God Almighty or Jesus ⍰in the guise of Zeus seated on a cloud and holding a bolt of lightning.⍰ Goossens at ⍰⍰. Its vivid conflation of Christian and pagan sources continues to occasion controversy; in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s ⍰a church council in Amersfoort refused to display the painting because of God's too obvious resemblance to Zeus⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰.

172 See Faber, Huisken, ⍰ Lammertse at ⍰⍰, fig. ⍰⍰.

173 See Steven Robert Golan, Scenes from Roman Republican History in Seventeenth-Century Dutch Art: ⍰⍰empla ⍰irtutis for Public and Private Viewing (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art History, University of Kansas, Lawrence, KS, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰). As Golan detailed, Roman subjects were popular in many cities in the Netherlands. Sources for such paintings included Valerius Maximus, ⍰acta et dicta memora⍰ilia, which provided a ⍰comprehensive collection of the deeds of various Roman Republican figures⍰ (id. at ⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰); Franciscus Junius's handbook for artists, De pictura veterum, ⍰in which he discussed the function of images in terms of their relationship to poetic verse⍰ (id. at ⍰⍰), reprinted as The Paintin⍰ of the ⍰ncients in Three Books, available in England in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and in Holland in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (id. at ⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰); and the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ prints The ⍰oman ⍰ eroes, by Herdrick Goltzius (id. at ⍰⍰). Golan argued that the burgomasters turned to ⍰public building precedents from the city-state republics of the Italian Renaissance⍰ in particular Siena's Palazzo Pubblico⍰ for inspiration in promoting similar virtues of a strong state⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰. In that sense, he concluded that the imagery was not ⍰truly Dutch⍰ but that the burgomasters deployed these ⍰foreign⍰ traditions to further their own agendas. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

In addition to allegories discussed in the text, another display was the Conspirac⍰⍰or ⍰ ath⍰of Claudius Civilis, recording the story of the Batavians, who swore allegiance to each other under Claudius Civilis's leadership in the rebellion against Rome. This episode continued to underscore the relationship between Amsterdam and the Romans as is also a theme in the depiction of the Judgment of Brutus, depicted in the text later. Other related images included depictions of the fidelity of Lucretia (who killed herself after being raped by Sextus Tarquinius; Golan at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰) and the magnanimity of Scipio Africanus (who ⍰returned a captive young woman to the Celtiberian prince Allucius⍰ rather than claim a right to her body; id. at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰). These allegories can also be found in other town halls. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

The Amsterdam Town Hall's Civilis has a literature of its own in that one commissioned from Rembrandt hung briefly in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and was then rejected by the burgomasters in favor of a version by Jürgen Ovens. Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. In general, commentators believe that Rembrandt's version lacked the ⍰hero-worship⍰ sought by the burgomasters, who saw themselves in a more glorious light. See Henri van de Waal, The ⍰onolo⍰ical Back⍰round of ⍰em⍰randt⍰ Civilis, ⍰–⍰ Konsthistorisk Tidskrift (Art Review) ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also David R. Smith, ⍰nversion, ⍰evolution, and the Carnivales⍰ue in ⍰em⍰randt⍰ Civilis, ⍰⍰ RES ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Cynthia Lawrence, ⍰Worth⍰ of Milord⍰ ⍰ ouse⍰⍰ ⍰em⍰randt, ⍰ u⍰⍰ens, and Dutch Classicism, ⍰⍰ Konsthistorisk Tidskrift ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Lawrence, Milord⍰ ⍰ ouse). Lawrence also concluded that Rembrandt had not complied with the conventions of Dutch classicism, which sought ⍰staged presentation⍰ and ⍰theatrical overstatement⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰. Another theory for the rejection of Rembrandt's painting is that the leaders of Amsterdam were moderating their hostility toward the Houses of Orange and Nassau and wanted to focus less on warfare and more on moderation and political consensus. See Margaret Deutch Carroll, Civic ⍰deolo⍰⍰ and ⍰s Su⍰version⍰⍰ em⍰randt⍰ ⍰ ath of Claudius Civilis, ⍰ Art History ⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

174 Luscinus reportedly said, ⍰Your gold made no impression on me yesterday, neither does your beast today⍰ Bernadette Perrin's translation of Plutarch's Lives at ⬚.⬚, quoted by Buchbinder-Green at ⬚⬚ and ⬚⬚, n. ⬚. See also The Royal Palace at ⬚; Goossens at ⬚–⬚.

175 Goossens at ⬚.

176 At least seven images of Justice appear outside and inside the building. Figure ⬚ is reproduced with the permission of the Amsterdam City Archives. In addition to those discussed in the text, a clear-eyed Justice with scales and sword is depicted (along with other Virtues) in a painting by Erasmus Quellinus called the Maid of ⬚m⬚sterdam, which hangs in the Council Chamber. See Goossens at ⬚–⬚, and fig. ⬚; The Royal Palace at ⬚, fig. ⬚a. On the ceiling of the Citizens' Hall (Bur⬚er⬚aal), at one of its four corners was Justice, joining the other Cardinal Virtues⬚ there called Wisdom (instead of Temperance), Vigilance (instead of Fortitude), and Prudence. Buchbinder-Green at ⬚⬚. Another Justice could be seen inside a portrait of Justinian. Id. Also, one painting of Prince Willem I was shown surrounded by Justice, Wisdom, Prudence, Valour, Constancy, Strength, and Impartiality. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚. Inside the council room were ⬚a crossed sword and scepter of justice⬚ Buchbinder-Green at ⬚⬚.

177 See Vlaardingerbroek at ⬚–⬚.

178 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚, Goossens at ⬚. As Fremantle detailed, those to be married first registered their ⬚intentions⬚ in the Chamber of Matrimonial Affairs (where clasped hands, symbolizing faithfulness, were carved in the center of its mantelpiece), and then, after public announcements were made in church or from the ⬚publication gallery of the Town Hall,⬚ couples ⬚returned to be married before the law in the magistrates' court.⬚Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚. When magistrates presided to decide disputes or enact laws, they sat on a cushion ⬚embroidered with the coat of arms of the Province of Holland⬚ with a ⬚rod of justice⬚ to their right. Id. at ⬚–⬚.

179 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚.

180 Goossens at ⬚.

181 Fremantle, at ⬚, translated a description by Hubertus Quellien, the brother of the sculptor and author of a book of engravings on the Town Hall's ornamentation⬚ ⬚The rewarding of good and the punishment of evil: with the measure with which one measures one shall be measured⬚⬚ attributing that ⬚saying⬚ to Luke ⬚:⬚. Baroque Town Hall at ⬚, n. ⬚; see also Fremantle, Themes from ⬚ipa and ⬚u⬚ens at ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚.

182 Goossens at ⬚.

183 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚, n. ⬚ (saying that ⬚a single eye signifies the watchful Father of Lights, God⬚ quoting Van Mander). See also Goossens at ⬚.

184 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚.

185 Goossens at ⬚.

186 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚; Goossens at ⬚.

187 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚. The layout and the room were not quite as Van Campen had planned. See Goossens at ⬚. For example, according to Fremantle, a draft plate had indicated ⬚that the scales of justice were to have been painted on the panels of its doors.⬚Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚.

188 Buchbinder-Green at ⬚⬚. One image, called Justice, Stren⬚th and Truth (or Justice with Wisdom and Prudence), was lost through deterioration and repainting. Id. Another, called Justice, was ⬚touched up⬚ by Jan Engelbrechts. See Faber, Huisken, ⬚ Lammertse at ⬚–⬚, and figs. ⬚ and ⬚.

189 The painting measures approximately five feet, eight inches, by seven feet, three inches. See Harry Schmidt, J⬚rgen Ovens, sein Leben und seine Werke. Ein Beitrag zur Geschichte der Niederl⬚ndischen Malerei im XVII. Jahrhundert (J⬚rgen Ovens, His Life and His Work. A Contribution to the History of the Art of the Netherlands in the Seventeenth Century) ⬚⬚, item ⬚⬚ (Kiel, Ger.: Selbstverlag des Verfassers Dr. Harry Schmidt, ⬚⬚). The artist, Ovens, was born in the German state of T⬚nning in ⬚⬚ and became a pupil of Rembrandt in the ⬚⬚s. Ovens lived in Amsterdam during much of his life before ⬚⬚, then moved between countries before returning to his home region of Schleswig-Holstein in ⬚⬚. Justice was an oft-repeated theme. Our thanks to Dr. Eymert-Jan Goossens and to Marianna van der Zwaag for assistance in obtaining images of the Amsterdam Town Hall. The photography for figure ⬚, copyright Stichting Koninklijk Paleis Amsterdam, was provided by the Royal Palace Foundation.

190 Schmidt at ⬚⬚.

191 See Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚. The ceiling paintings represent ⬚Justice flanked by Strength and Prudence.⬚

192 Philipp von Zesen, Description of the Town of ⬚msterdam (⬚⬚) as quoted in Schmidt at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚.

193 Goossens at ⬚.

194 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at fig. ⬚ reproduces the frieze, discussed in Goossens at ⬚, fig. ⬚.

195 Ferdinand Bol, a pupil of Rembrandt, was born in ⬚⬚ in Dordrecht, the Netherlands. Buchbinder-Green at ⬚⬚. The textual source is ⬚⬚odus ⬚:⬚–⬚. The painting is dated variously, from ⬚⬚ through ⬚⬚. Buchbinder-Green at ⬚⬚; Goossens at ⬚; Schama at ⬚⬚. See generally Albert Blankert, Ferdinand Bol (⬚⬚–⬚⬚): Rembrandt's Pupil (Doornspijk, Neth.: Davaco Publishers, ⬚⬚) (hereinafter Blankert, Bol). The photograph in figure ⬚ was provided by and is reproduced with permission of its copyright holder, the Royal Palace Foundation Amsterdam.

196 See Gad B. Sarfatti, The Ta⬚lets of the Law as a S⬚m⬚ol of Judaism, in The Ten Commandments in History and Tradition ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚ (Arnold Schwartz, trans., Ben-Zion Segal ⬚ Gershon Levi, eds., Jerusalem, Isr.: Magnes Press, Hebrew University, ⬚⬚). In some of the earlier representations, Moses received scrolls, not tablets. Id. at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚. The tablets also came to denote Judaism, as did Synagoga, discussed in Chapter ⬚. Over time, Jewish art came to rely on the tablets as a symbol of Judaism, and they came, along with the menorah, to eclipse the ⬚Holy Ark⬚ Id. at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚. A review of the imagery of the Ten Commandments is provided by Olivier Christin, Les yeux pour le croire, les Dix Commandements en images, XVe–XVIIe si⬚cles (Paris, Fran.: Seuil, ⬚⬚). We discuss the display of the Ten Commandments in the United States in Chapter ⬚.

197 Schama at ⬚⬚.

198 Schama at ⬚⬚. The details of efforts, such as seeking to suppress ⬚Vondel's controversial play Lucifer,⬚ are provided at ⬚⬚. See Albert Blankert, Kunst als Regeringzszaak in Amsterdam in de ⬚⬚e Eeuw: Rondom Schilderijen van Ferdinand Bol ⬚⬚ (Lochem, Neth.: De Tijdstroom B.V., ⬚⬚) (with summaries of chapters in English) (hereinafter Blankert, Amsterdam).

199 See Blankert, Amsterdam at ⬚. The linkage of the burgomasters to Moses affected not only the Calvinists but also Jews then living in Amsterdam. See Michael A. Rosenthal, Wh⬚ Spino⬚a Chose the ⬚ e⬚rews⬚The ⬚⬚emplar⬚ ⬚unction of Prophec⬚ in the Theolo⬚ical⬚ Political Treatise, in Jewish Themes in Spinoza's Philosophy ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚ (Heidi M. Ravven ⬚ Lenn E. Goodman, eds., Albany, NY: State U. of New York Press, ⬚⬚).

200 See Schama at ⬚⬚.

201 Buchbinder-Green at ⬚⬚, translating line ⬚⬚ of the Vondel verse. These lines have drawn the attention of several scholars, all offering slightly different English translations. See Blankert, Bol at ⬚ (⬚The free state begins to blossom when the people honour the laws⬚); Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⬚, n. ⬚ (⬚The Hebrew Moses has received the Law from God, with which he returns from above to the people, who greet him reverently and welcome him eagerly. The free State begins to flourish when the people respect the laws⬚); Schama at ⬚⬚ (⬚So they become respectful and welcome them with longing. As the people honor the laws, so shall a Free state stand⬚).

202 Blankert, Bol at ⬚. Schama, at ⬚⬚, translated Jan Vos's lines as ⬚Those who govern the people will need a strong hand. / The laws should strike terror in godless living / Where wise laws are kept; there virtue makes its stand.” Fremantle presumed that Vondel’s lines had been inscribed beneath the Bol painting and then “painted out.” Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰, n. ⍰ (citing an eighteenth-century source). However, subsequent scholarship indicates that no text was there. According to Blankert, “Neither verse (of Vondel or Vos) pleased the patrons; in the end no poem at all was inscribed beneath the painting.” Blankert, Bol at ⍰⍰. Both poems predate the installation of the Bol painting in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Letter from Dr. Goossens to the authors (March ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

203 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰.

204 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰. We return to this phrase and its depictions in Chapter ⍰⍰.

205 Sidsel Helliesen, Thronus Justitiae⍰⍰ Series⍰⍰of Pictures of Jus⍰ tice, ⍰⍰ Oud Holland, Quarterly for Dutch Art History, ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Discussed there is an early seventeenth-century book called Thronus Justitiae, by Joachim Wtewael, which consisted of a series of thirteen signed and numbered engravings accompanied by verses. This genre, relying on a mixture of judicial and biblical stories, was part of a Dutch and German tradition. In that volume, an image titled “le⍰ander the ⍰reat as a Jud⍰e was accompanied by Latin text, translated by Helliesen to read that Alexander > never declared a judgment before he had heard both sides

> Unbiased, he is renowned because he kept favoritism away from Justice.
> He offered therefore only one ear to the prosecutor
> The other remained open for the troubled defense.
> For whoever condemns without listening or releases from guilt,
> Although he may judge fairly, he will not be a fair judge.

(Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ and n. ⍰⍰.)

206 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰; Faber, Huisken, ⍰ Lammertse at ⍰⍰ (noting that the presence of the sheriff, at least two magistrates, and a secretary was required).

207 John H. Langbein, Torture and the Law of Proof: Europe and England in the Ancien Régime ⍰ (Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰d ed. ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (tracing the development of “judicial torture” in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s in the north of Italy and its spread through the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s into Europe). Langbein pointed to the abolition of torture in the eighteenth century as he debunked the “fairy tale” that it ended because of public consciousness of its horrors. Id. at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. Rather, he argued that alternative forms of proof were an important part of its displacement.

208 See generally John Langbein, Prosecuting Crime in the Renaissance: England, Germany, France (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

209 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. Fremantle detailed the special cushions on which the magistrates sat, the robes worn, the placement of the rod of justice nearby, and the movement of a prisoner, pronounced “a child of death.” Id. at ⍰⍰. See also Fremantle, ⍰ pen ⍰ ierschaar at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰; Goossens at ⍰⍰.

210 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

211 Fremantle, ⍰ pen ⍰ ierschaar at ⍰⍰⍰.

212 Goossens at ⍰⍰. The details of the ceremony are provided in Fremantle, ⍰ pen ⍰ ierschaar and in Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall.

213 As Goossens explained, “Onlookers gathered in Dam Square could witness the proceedings through the bronze bars on the windows.” Goossens at ⍰⍰. A caveat is in order, which is that space was limited, as Fremantle mentioned, and although such proceedings were out in the open, the “ceremony had begun to lose its public nature while the medieval Town Hall was still in use” in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s. City records indicated that the sheriff had insisted that the crowd be quiet, and the move inside in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ building further limited public access. Fremantle, ⍰ pen ⍰ ierschaar at ⍰⍰⍰. After the death sentence was announced, city bells rang and the sheriff went to the window of the “publication gallery” where he displayed the Rod of Justice, and all sentences were read “out.” Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

214 The photographs in figures ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰, and ⍰⍰, all of the interior of the Tribunal, are reproduced with permission of the copyright holder, Stichting Koninklijk Paleis Amsterdam, and were provided by the photographers, Erik ⍰ Petra Hesmerg / Amsterdam.

215 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰ (translating from the Latin: “Discite Justitiam Moniti et Non Temnere Divos.” Virgil, Aeneid at ⍰:⍰⍰⍰). An alternative, provided by Goossens, at ⍰⍰, is the translation “Heed these words: learn to be just and defy not the gods.”

216 Gerson ⍰ ter Kuile at ⍰⍰.

217 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰, quoting Vitruvius, De ⍰rchitectura at I.i., ⍰, and translated by her. The photograph in figure ⍰⍰ was provided by and is reproduced with permission from the Royal Palace Foundation Amsterdam.

218 Fremantle, in Baro⍰ue Town ⍰ all, commented (at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰) that the “likeness of the arrangement of the stage set of the theater Van Campen designed for Amsterdam to the arrangement of the reliefs showing scenes of justice in the Vierschaar . . . is so strong as to suggest a common authorship” (describing the attribution of the sculptural plan to Van Campen, perhaps influenced by Quellinus’s abilities).

219 Goossens at ⍰⍰; Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰.

220 Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰.

221 Goossens at ⍰⍰. The painting, now owned by Amersfoort, is reproduced at ⍰⍰, fig. ⍰⍰; see also id. at ⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰⍰. During the nineteenth century it was called ⍰ e⍰dense ⍰ pper ⍰ od Jupiter (The Supreme ⍰ eathen ⍰ od Jupiter). Scales and Sword at ⍰⍰. One possibility is that the design, with its unconventional Zeus-like Jesus, was rejected and the room redesigned as a consequence. Another possibility is that the redesign drove the decision not to change the painting; a third explanation is that revisions were driven by “reasons of economy.” Id. at ⍰⍰. The full set of Last Judgment imagery is known from an engraving by Jacov Vennekool, draftsman of Jacob van Campen. The display was aimed to show that the “prophets not only were the proclaimers of Divine Justice, but also exhorted the magistrates to be good administrators and the citizens to obey.” The ceiling was to have a Sol Justitiae (Sun of Justice).

222 Quoted and translated from the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ edition by Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰.

223 Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰.

224 Golan, at ⍰⍰, noted the absence of didactic verse in the Vierschaar.

225 The sculptural references, possibly to Brunelleschi and Ghiberti, are detailed in Fremantle’s book at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Terracotta studies for all three have survived. Judikje Kiers ⍰ Fieke Tissink, The Glory of the Golden Age: Dutch Art of the ⍰⍰th Century ⍰⍰⍰ (Zwolle, Neth.: Waanders Publishers, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

226 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰.

227 See Scales and Sword at ⍰⍰, discussing the similarity of subject matter in the town halls of Belgium, Germany, and the Netherlands, with some local variations relating to particular personages. Further, as Goossens explained, “Difficult as it may be to understand how . . . to combine the imagery of both the classics and the Bible in the sanctimonious climate of the seventeenth century, the town hall is proof that it could be done. The burgomasters, who saw themselves . . . at the helm of a new empire and at the center of a unified community, were described . . . as ‘the representatives of God’s seat and city,’ ” and they borrowed liberally from “Graeco-Roman metaphors and narratives.” Goossens at ⍰⍰.

228 For example, paintings of the Judgment of Zaleucus could be found in the Town Halls of Haarlam, Emden, Gda⍰sk, Hoorn, and Eglisau (see Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰); in Nuremberg, along with a Judgment of Solomon and likely a Cambyses (see Van der Velden, Cam⊠⊠ses for ⊠⊠ample at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠); in Zurich (Lederle at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠); on the ceiling of the Hall of Consistory in Siena, painted in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s and ⊠⊠⊠⊠s (see Marianna Jenkins, The ⊠ono⊠raph⊠ of the ⊠ all of the Con⊠sistor⊠ in the Pala⊠⊠o Pu⊠⊠lico, Siena, ⊠⊠ Art Bulletin at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); on medals (Gans ⊠ Kisch at ⊠⊠⊠); and in stained glass from about ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (see Rijskmuseum, www.rijskmuseum.nl/collectie/zoeken/asset.jsp⊠id⊠BK-⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ lang⊠en).

The rendition of Zaleucus for the ⊠wall-paintings in Basel Town Hall⊠ was by Hans Holbein. See Arthur B. Chamberlain, Hans Holbein the Younger, vol. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (New York, NY: Dodd, Mead, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). The Zaleucus in Haarlam, by Jan de Braij (or Bray), dated from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (and thus following the rendition in the Amsterdam Town Hall), was displayed above a ⊠chimney-piece in the courtroom of the Haarlem Town Hall⊠ See Michael Kitson, ⊠msterdam, ⊠i⊠ksmuseum Dutch ⊠istor⊠ Paintin⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Burlington Mag. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); see also Lawrence, Milord⊠ ⊠ouse at ⊠⊠. See generally Albert Blankert, Gods, Saints ⊠ Heroes: Dutch Painting in the Age of Rembrandt ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Washington, DC: National Gallery of Art, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Blankert, Gods, Saints ⊠ Heroes). Further, in the frontispiece of a book of etchings, Thronus Justitiae, providing exempla of justice, the figures featured were Justice, Jesus, and Moses at the top; David and Solomon in niches; and at the bottom on the left, Otanes seated on his father's skin, while on the right Zaleucus was shown ⊠grabbing the caryatid's foot in pain as his eye is put out⊠ See Helliesen at ⊠⊠⊠ and fig. ⊠⊠. As Tipton, at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, argued, images in the law books drew upon town hall art and provided source material for artists. As noted, the flaying of Cambyses was often shown in combination with these narratives. See Miziolek at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. The scene was also in the Town Hall in Toru⊠. Id. at ⊠⊠, n. ⊠⊠.

229 Van der Velden, Cam⊠⊠ses for ⊠⊠ample at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, citing Gans, in part, at ⊠⊠⊠. Zaleucus and Cambyses (at ⊠⊠) are together on a single sheet of the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ frontispiece of Justinus Gobler's Der ⊠erichtlich Pro⊠ess (The Judicial Trial). Also at ⊠⊠, fig. ⊠⊠.

230 Van der Velden, Cam⊠⊠ses for ⊠⊠ample at ⊠; Miziolek at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. As McGrath commented at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, the ⊠Judgement of Solomon was virtually inevitable in this context⊠ The scene was displayed, for example, in Alkmaar, Augsburg, Basel, Bremen, Breslau, Edam, Elbing, Frankfurt am Main, Gda⊠sk, The Hague, Leiden, Leipzig, Lüneburg, Münster, Rothenburg, Thorn, Ulm, and ⊠ berlingen. This list is a composite taken from references in Buchbinder-Green at ⊠⊠; Lederle at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; Miziolek at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. The scene was also in English court halls. See Karen Hearn, ⊠n ⊠n⊠lish ⊠entleman Painter, ⊠enr⊠ ⊠i⊠s, ⊠⊠⊠ Burlington Mag. ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). See also Rafii at ⊠⊠⊠ and at ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠⊠ (discussing the Solomon fresco, painted in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s and attributed to Bartolam⊠us Bruyn in Bremen and restored when discovered in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s); Scales and Sword at ⊠⊠, fig. ⊠ (discussing the Chamber of the Schepenen, in the Kampen Town Hall, where a Solomon was also deployed in the sixteenth century). Further, the Judgment of Solomon and an image of him enthroned as a judge or conflated with Jesus was common in illustrated manuscripts and Bibles and used in domestic imagery to symbolize a mother's love. See Isa Ragusa, Ter⊠ror Demonum and Terror ⊠nimicorum⊠The Two Lions of the Throne of Solomon and the ⊠pen Door of Paradise, ⊠⊠ Zeitschrift F⊠r Kunstgeschichte ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Diane Cole Ahl, ⊠enaissance Birth Salvers and the ⊠ichmond Jud⊠ment of Solomon, ⊠–⊠ Studies in Iconography ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Not all biblical scenes found in town halls were specifically commissioned for them; many were brought from ⊠other locations, usually from the churches⊠ thus permitting the town halls to be a ⊠repository of a city's heritage⊠ Buchbinder-Green at ⊠⊠. Moreover, biblical scenes, including the popular Solomon, were subjects of paintings in places other than town halls and churches. See Gina Strumwasser, Heroes, Heroines and Heroic Tales from the Old Testament: An Iconographic Analysis of the Most Frequently Represented Old Testament Subjects in Netherlandish Painting, ca. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Ph.D. dissertation, University of California, Los Angeles, CA, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠). Some of the Solomon scenes were accompanied by texts. For example, in Lüneburg the maxim stated that ⊠the judge should be pure of heart and, when listening to the case, should be able to distinguish between good and evil⊠ Lederle at ⊠⊠.

231 See Bernd Nicolai, ⊠rders in Stone⊠Social ⊠ealit⊠ and ⊠rtistic ⊠pproach⊠The Case of the Stras⊠our⊠South Portal, ⊠⊠ Gesta ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The continuing saliency of the Judgment of Solomon can be seen through its deployment in the courthouse in Moita, Portugal, where a tiled illustration of the story was added to the courtroom's back wall. See J⊠lio Pomar ⊠ Ant⊠nio Lobo Antunes, Justi⊠a de Salom⊠o (Lisbon, Port.: Mediatexto, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

232 A volume prized in the Renaissance and then called the Book of Solomon, ⊠now recognized as a Pythagorean product of the first century⊠ had Sophia or Wisdom as a central figure reflecting the essence of God's thinking and helping man ⊠achieve salvation⊠ See Christiane L. Joost-Gaugier, Raphael's Stanza della Segnatura: Meaning and Invention ⊠⊠ (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Solomon appeared in the Vatican's Stanza della Segnatura, and his influence came from being seen as ⊠supreme among legendary jurists in Medieval and Renaissance times⊠ More generally his image served to refer to ⊠the discipline of Jurisprudence as it was known in Renaissance libraries⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠. See generally Michael Hattaway, Para⊠do⊠es of Solomon⊠Learnin⊠ in the ⊠n⊠lish ⊠enaissance, ⊠⊠ J. History of Ideas ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Solomon was also a bridge figure, as can be seen from his role in Mughal art. Ebba Koch, Jahan⊠ir and the ⊠n⊠els⊠ ⊠ecentl⊠ Discovered Wall Paintin⊠s under ⊠uropean ⊠n⊠uence in the ⊠ort of Lahore, in Mughal Art and Imperial Ideology ⊠⊠ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

233 That painting, signed and dated ⊠⊠⊠⊠, is reproduced in Goossens; see color illustration XIX at ⊠⊠ and the discussion at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. The reference is to ⊠⊠ in⊠s ⊠:⊠–⊠⊠. Described is the question from God to Solomon about what he most wanted and his reply that he sought wisdom to help him rule well: ⊠Give thy servant, therefore, a heart with skill to listen, so that he may govern thy people⊠ See New English Bible. In the painting Solomon is given a book and a scepter by an angel. Below the painting is explanatory text, by the poet Vondel, that includes the line ⊠Where wisdom guides, there naught shall surpass.⊠ Goossens at ⊠⊠ (his translation; see also Buchbinder-Green at ⊠⊠⊠). Also inscribed was ⊠the prayer and offering of Solomon was so pleasing to God that he granted Solomon Wisdom, Riches, and everything that his heart desired⊠ Lederle at ⊠⊠.

234 See ⊠ ⊠in⊠s ⊠:⊠⊠–⊠⊠. The passage closes with the sentence ⊠When Israel heard the judgement which the king had given, they all stood in awe of him; for they saw that he had the wisdom of God within him to administer justice⊠ See New English Bible. One source for the Renaissance versions was the Antiquitates Iudaicae of Josephus Flavius (VIII, ⊠, ⊠), which were ⊠immensely popular and frequently illustrated in the ⊠⊠th and ⊠⊠th century⊠ Miziolek at ⊠⊠.

235 See Gans ⊠ Kisch at ⊠⊠⊠ (their translation from the German).

236 See Martha L. Minow, The Jud⊠ment of Solomon and the ⊠⊠perience of Justice, in The Structure of Procedure ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Robert M. Cover ⊠ Owen Fiss, eds., Mineola, NY: Foundation Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

237 Some call him Seleucus, a variation on Zaleucus. See F. E. Adcock, Literar⊠ Tradition and ⊠ar⊠ ⊠reek Code⊠Makers, ⊠ Cambridge Historical J. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). He was said to have ⊠brought the people of Thurii to abide by his laws⊠ (id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠), and some ascribe to him the earliest written code (id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠).

238 The story was told by Valerius Maximus: ⊠Nothing could be braver than the following examples of justice. Zaleucus protected the city of Locri with very salutary and useful laws. His son was convicted on a charge of adultery and according to a law constituted by Zaleucus himself was due to lose both eyes. The whole community wished to spare the young man the necessity of punishment in honour of his father. For some time, Zaleucus resisted, but in the end, overborne by the people's entreaties, he first gouged out one of his one eyes, then one of his son's, leaving the faculty of sight for them both. See Memorable Doings and Sayings, vol. ⍰, bk. ⍰:⍰, ext. ⍰ at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. A description was also provided in ⍰esta ⍰omanorum, compiled during the first half of the fourteenth century in Latin and then translated in various European vernaculars. In the original version the ⍰violated woman was a virgin⍰ and a ⍰daughter of a widow⍰ See Miziolek at ⍰⍰.

239 Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰. In the version of this story that Hans Holbein the Younger painted for the Basel Town Hall, this ⍰severe object-lesson in the majesty of the law is witnessed by a great crowd of spectators.⍰ Chamberlain at ⍰⍰⍰.

240 See Memorable Doings and Sayings, vol. ⍰, bk. ⍰.⍰, ext. ⍰ at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

241 See Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰. This scene was also set forth in the Nuremberg Town Hall in a rendition by Hans Sebald Beham and in a stained-glass window in Emden (Van der Velden, Cam⍰⍰ses for ⍰⍰ample at ⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰⍰), as well as in the magistrates' chambers in Leiden in a painting by Karel de Moor, who lived in the second half of the seventeenth century. Id. Brutus was also depicted in the Hall of the Consistory in Siena's Palazzo Pubblico in paintings by Domenico Beccafumi, executed between ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰. His was one of several exemplars on narrations of aspects of justice. See Jenkins at ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰. Brutus, denoting ⍰severity⍰ was shown with the heads of his sons, whom he had ordered decapitated, while Zaleucus, nearby, represented a somewhat less harsh form. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Both scenes relied on ⍰actorum et dictorum memora⍰ilium, libri ix, of Valerius Maximus. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

242 See Livy, The Early History of Rome ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰.⍰⍰ (Aubrey De S⍰lincourt, trans., Harmondsworth, Eng.: Penguin Books, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Memorable Doings and Sayings, vol. ⍰, bk. IV.⍰.⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. A critical reading of Livy's account is provided in Ian Donaldson, The Rapes of Lucretia: A Myth and Its Transformations ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The book traced the ways in which the two stories⍰ of Brutus and of Lucretia⍰ together purported ⍰to explain the origins of the Roman Republic.⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

243 See Livy at ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰.⍰.

244 See Memorable Doings and Sayings, vol. ⍰, bk. V.⍰.⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

245 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at ⍰⍰. Plutarch described the scene as follows: ⍰Most of the people standing mute and sorrowful, some only, out of kindness to Brutus, mentioning banishment . . . .⍰ See Plutarch, Poplicola, in Lives ⍰⍰⍰ (John Dryden, trans., Boston, MA: Little, Brown, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Brutus showed no sympathy and instructed the lictors, ⍰what remains is your duty.⍰ Id. At the execution, Brutus did not look away ⍰but sternly watched his children suffer.⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

246 In the background is a building identified as the Temple of Jupiter built by Brutus. Goossens at ⍰⍰.

247 Donaldson at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

248 Donaldson provided this overview in reference to both Brutus and the story of the rape of Lucretia. Donaldson at ⍰⍰⍰.

249 We found this excerpt through Donaldson at ⍰⍰⍰ and have used his version (emphasis in the original); other translations have slight variations. See Niccolo⍰ Machiavelli, The Discourses, bk. ⍰, discourse ⍰ (Bernard Crick, ed., Leslie J. Walker, trans., Middlesex, Eng.: Pelican Books, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). A printed edition of The Discourses on the ⍰irst Ten Books of Titus Livius was not published during Machiavelli's lifetime and circulated only as a manuscript. Machiavelli left the work incomplete. Id. at ⍰⍰. Harvey C. Mansfield and Nathan Tarcov estimated that Machiavelli wrote it between ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The first publication was in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See Niccolo⍰ Machiavelli, Discourses on Livy xlii (Harvey C. Mansfield ⍰ Nathan Tarcov, trans., Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

250 See Donaldson at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Donaldson detailed the banning in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ of Nathaniel Lee's tragic play Lucius Junius Brutus by Lord Chamberlain as too negative toward government. He saw the subsequent careful deployment of the narrative in the eighteenth century in England as efforts to avoid appearing to offend the Crown. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

251 David's painting was met with a mixed reception; it was seen as ⍰antiquarian⍰ and lacking in artistic brilliance, albeit politically supportive of French revolutionary ideas. See Thomas Puttfarken, David⍰ Brutus and Theories of Pictorial ⍰nit⍰ in ⍰rance, ⍰ Art History ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Puttfarken argued that the criticism missed the more modern sensibilities, in which the public is invited to view ⍰moral conflict⍰ with ⍰our sympathies are divided.⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. See also Stefan Germer and Hubertus Kohle, ⍰rom the Theatrical to the ⍰esthetic ⍰ ero⍰ ⍰ n the Privati⍰ation of the ⍰dea of ⍰irtue in David⍰ Brutus and Sa⍰ines, ⍰ Art History ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

252 See also Marie-Hélène Huet, Rehearsing the Revolution: The Staging of Marat's Death, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Robert Hurley, trans., Berkeley, CA: U. of California Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). As Huet noted, ⍰Voltaire's Brutus was not only the play most often performed during the revolutionary period, it became a symbol of civic uprightness.⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰.

253 See Herbet J. Storing, The Complete Anti-Federalist (Chicago, IL: U. Chicago Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The seven-volume set was published after Professor Storing's death and provides a compendium of the many anti-federalist writings. Among those deemed most important were the essays by ⍰Brutus⍰ that were published in the New ⍰ork Jour⍰ nal between October ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and April ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Id. at vol. I, vii, and vol. ⍰.⍰, at ⍰⍰⍰ ⍰⍰⍰. Scholars debate whether the name was intended to reference the Lucius Brutus depicted in Amsterdam or Marcus Brutus, Julius Caeser's assassin. Michael Zuckert read the reference to be Lucius Brutus; ⍰According to Brutus, then, he and other enemies of the proposed constitution are, like the original Brutus, the true friends and saviors of the revolution and republicanism.⍰ See Michael Zuckert, Who ⍰s Pu⍰⍰ lius⍰ The De⍰ate ⍰ ver the Constitution and the ⍰ merican ⍰ evolution, in Enlightening Revolutions: Essays in Honor of Ralph Lerner ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (Ralph Lerner, Svetozar Minkov, ⍰ St⍰phane Douard, eds., Lanham, MD: Lexington Books, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

254 The Roman Consul doomed his sons to die, they ⍰Who had betrayed their country. The stern word / Afforded (may it through all time afford) / A theme for praise and admiration high.⍰ William Wordsworth, The Complete Poetical Works of William Wordsworth ⍰⍰⍰ (Henry Reed, ed., Philadelphia, PA: Hayes ⍰ Zell, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See Sharon M. Setzer, Precedent and Perversit⍰ in Wordsworth⍰s Son⍰ nets ⍰ pon the Punishment of Death, ⍰⍰ Nineteenth-Century Literature ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

255 See Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon, Sermon ⍰⍰⍰: Justice Satisfied (May ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), The New Park Street Pulpit, http://www.spurgeon.org/sermons/⍰⍰⍰⍰.htm (about punishing sin). Spurgeon, who lived in England from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to ⍰⍰⍰⍰, was a popular figure, and his preaching attracted large audiences. See generally James J. Ellis, Charles Haddon Spurgeon (New York, NY: Flemming H. Revell Company, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

256 Donaldson at ⍰⍰⍰.

257 Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰⍰. The painting was done around ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

258 Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰⍰, translating Vondel at l. ⍰⍰⍰.

259 Alfred Acres, ⍰o⍰ier van der We⍰den⍰ Painted Te⍰ts, ⍰⍰ Artibus et Historiae ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). The panels were lost when the French bombarded Brussels in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. A tapestry woven in Brussels before ⍰⍰⍰⍰ provided a record of the images. A woodcut by Hans Holbein reiterated the legend. See Campbell Dodgson, ⍰n ⍰lustration ⍰⍰⍰ o⍰ein of the Le⍰⍰ end of ⍰ erkin⍰ald, ⍰ J. Warburg ⍰ Courtauld Insts. ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

260 Acres at ⍰⍰.

261 See Buchbinder-Green at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. Pictures of this tale were displayed in the magistrates' chambers in Hoorn and in Nuremberg (designs by Dürer). Id. The story dates from ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See Diane Wolfthal, [illegible] ue and a Cr[illegible] Medieval [illegible]ape [illegible]ma[illegible]er [illegible] and [illegible]s Transformation, [illegible] Art Bulletin [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (also noting that the image appeared in the Cologne Town Hall).

262 Acres at [illegible]–[illegible]; Wolfthal at [illegible].

263 See Christian Müller, New [illegible]vidence for [illegible]ans [illegible]o[illegible]ein the [illegible]oun[illegible]er[illegible] Wall Paintin[illegible]s in Basel Town [illegible]all, [illegible] Burlington Magazine [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

264 See Chamberlain at [illegible]. Holbein did the images between [illegible] and [illegible]. Other [illegible]judgment stories[illegible] included ones more local to the Netherlands, such as the Jud[illegible]ment of Count Willem [illegible] and the [illegible] rdeal of [illegible]tto [illegible] Buchbinder-Green at [illegible]–[illegible].

265 Donaldson at [illegible].

266 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at [illegible]; Goossens at [illegible].

267 Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at [illegible]. The city council, whose members were appointed for life, [illegible]had no real power[illegible] See Faber, Huisken, [illegible] Lammertse at [illegible].

268 See Julia Adams, The Familial State: Ruling Families and Merchant Capitalism in Early Modern Europe (Ithaca, NY: Cornell U. Press, [illegible]).

269 See Van der Velden, Cam[illegible]ses [illegible]econsidered at [illegible], n. [illegible].

270 The quoted text is borrowed from Regensburg in [illegible], and translated by Zapalac.

271 Robert M. Cover, [illegible]iolence and the Word, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Robert M. Cover, The Supreme Court [illegible] Term [illegible]oreword[illegible]Nomos and Narrative, [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. [illegible] ([illegible]). Both underscore the role that stories that enfold precepts serve to give meaning to the legal rules. See also Oscar G. Chase, Law, Culture, and Ritual: Disputing Systems in Cross-Cultural Context [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: New York U. Press, [illegible]) (arguing that [illegible]oracular[illegible] qualities persist in Anglo-American processes).

Chapter [illegible]

1 Katherine Allen Smith, Footprints in Stone: Saint Michael the Archangel as a Medieval Saint, [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible] (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of History, NYU, New York, NY, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]), citing Sharon Farmer, Communities of Saint Martin: Legend and Ritual in Medieval Tours [illegible]–[illegible] (Ithaca, NY: Cornell U. Press, [illegible]).

2 The photograph of Justice in figure [illegible] was taken by Erik [illegible] Petra Hesmerg / Amsterdam and is reproduced with their permission and that of the Stichting Koninklijk Paleis Amsterdam.

3 The photograph of the east wall of the Tribunal with Justice and Prudence in figure [illegible] was taken by Erik [illegible] Petra Hesmerg / Amsterdam and is reproduced with their permission and that of the Stichting Koninklijk Paleis Amsterdam.

4 Katharine Fremantle, The Baroque Town Hall of Amsterdam [illegible] (Utrecht, Neth.: Haentjens Dekker [illegible] Gumbert, [illegible]) (hereinafter Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall).

5 A vivid published image of Prudence is in the volume Weegschaal [illegible] Zwaard: De Verbeelding van Recht en Gerechtigheid in Nederland (Scales and Sword: The Depiction of Law and Justice in the Netherlands) [illegible], fig. [illegible] (M. A. Moelands [illegible] J. Th. de Smidt, eds., The Hague, Neth.: Jongbloed Juridische Boekhandel [illegible] Uitgeverij, [illegible]) (hereinafter Scales and Sword). English summaries of the chapters are provided.

6 Katharine Fremantle, The [illegible]pen [illegible]ierschaar of [illegible]msterdam[illegible] Seven[illegible]teenth[illegible]Centur[illegible] Town [illegible]all as a Settin[illegible] for the Cit[illegible] Justice, [illegible] Oud Holland, Quarterly for Dutch Art History [illegible], [illegible], n. [illegible] ([illegible]).

7 See, for example, Martin Kuijer, The Blindfold of Lady Justice: Judicial Independence and Impartiality in Light of the Requirements of Article [illegible] ECHR (Leiden, Neth.: Wolf Legal Publishers, [illegible]); Andrew R. Simmonds, The Blindfold of Justice, [illegible] American Bar Association Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

8 The designs are attributed to Jacob van Campen. Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at [illegible]–[illegible]. The versions in the niches in the Tribunal, like those outside, have classical drapery reminiscent of statues by Duquesnoy. Id. at [illegible], n. [illegible].

9 The [illegible] Dutch edition of Ripa commented that [illegible]her eyes are bound . . . because she is to set an example for the judge, who cannot give in to temptation and should not be led astray.[illegible] Cesare Ripa van Perugien, Iconologia, of uytbeeldingen des Verstands [illegible] (Amstelredam, Neth.: Dirck Pietersz Pers, [illegible]) (hereinafter Dutch Ripa–[illegible]; all translations from this edition are by Chavi Keeney Nana). The [illegible] Torino edition has similar language; see Cesare Ripa, Iconologia [illegible] (Padua, Ital.: Pietro Paolo Tozzi, [illegible]; New York, NY: Garland Publishing, [illegible]) (hereinafter Ripa, Padua–[illegible]). Translations of Italian Ripa editions are by Tess Dearing and Allison Tait.

10 According to some descriptions of the building, the Town Hall had a room called a Torture Chamber, but we have not located information detailing whether Justices were depicted within. Fremantle explained that prisoners who refused to confess were [illegible]examined . . . in the torture chamber in the presence of sheriff, burgomasters, and magistrates[illegible] and that [illegible]instruments of torture[illegible] were carved in the ceiling's vaulting. See Fremantle, Baroque Town Hall at [illegible].

11 See Geraldine Pinch, Egyptian Mythology: A Guide to the Gods, Goddesses, and Traditions of Ancient Egypt [illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: ABC–CLIO, [illegible]), discussing the Egyptian ideology that conceived of the [illegible]solar eye[illegible] or [illegible]Eye of Ra[illegible] and spoke of Ra as the [illegible]creator sun god[illegible] Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. The eye of Horus, or udjat eye, was described as sharing a significance represented by Maat, [illegible]that justice and harmony ruled once more[illegible] See Erik Hornung, Idea into Image: Essays on Ancient Egyptian Thought [illegible]–[illegible] (Elizabeth Bredeck, trans., New York, NY: Timken Publishers, [illegible]).

12 See The Complete Engravings, Etchings and Drypoints of Albrecht D[illegible]rer [illegible], No. [illegible], Sol Justitiae, or The Jud[illegible]e (Walter L. Strauss, ed., New York, NY: Dover Publications, [illegible]). The Augustinian tradition understood light as indicating intellect, in contrast to the [illegible]blind man fumbling along the wall[illegible] who, because of a lack of sight, lacks understanding. See Kristin Eldyss Sorensen Zapalac, [illegible]In His Image and Likeness[illegible]: Political Iconography and Religious Change in Regensburg, [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible] (Ithaca, NY: Cornell U. Press, [illegible]). Further, it [illegible]was believed that God's influence entered the world along rays of light; . . . the obsession with the illumination of Gothic cathedrals, therefore, was not merely a practical concern but an attempt to expand the presence of the divine in a sacred space.[illegible] Theodore K. Rabb, The Last Days of the Renaissance and the March to Modernity [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Basic Books, [illegible]). Rabb commented that the invention of eyeglasses in the thirteenth century could have been a [illegible]silent tribute to the power of allegory[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

13 Robert Freyhan, The [illegible]volution of the Caritas [illegible]ure in the Thir[illegible]teenth and [illegible]ourteenth Centuries, [illegible] J. Warburg [illegible] Courtauld Inst. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

14 The Great Seal of the United States, reprinted on the dollar bill and also discussed in notes to Chapter [illegible], displays on one side an eye inside the cap of a pyramid and surrounded by rays. This eye, said to have been called the [illegible]Eye of Providence[illegible] appeared in a first design proposed by a committee of three[illegible] John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, and Thomas Jefferson. Although their version was superseded, the eye remained, with its implicit reference to divinity. As for specific sources, candidates include the Egyptian Eye of Horus or of the god Ra, the Old and New Testaments, and a host of other religious and mystical traditions ([illegible]astrology, kabala, Rosicrucianism, and Freemasonry[illegible]). See Albert M. Potts, The [illegible]e of Providence, [illegible] Documenta Opthalmologica [illegible] ([illegible]).

15 These themes can be found in the Old and New Testaments. We are here indebted to the research of Laura Heiman, who searched electronic databases for the terms blind, blindfold, and bandage in the Jewish and Christian Bibles and in the Koran. Web-based versions of each source permitted identifying the word blind more than fifty times, whereas very few references were made to blindfolds or to bandages over eyes. For the biblical quotations we used Old and New Testaments, such as The New English Bible with the Apocrypha (Charles Harold Dodd, ed., Oxford and Cambridge, Eng.: Oxford and Cambridge U. Presses, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter New English Bible); The Twentieth Century New Testament: A Translation into Modern English, Made from the Original Greek (New York, NY: Fleming H. Revell, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, revised ⍰⍰⍰⍰); and The Good News Bible with Deuterocanonicals/Apocrypha, Today's English Version (Robert G. Bratcher, trans., New York, NY: American Bible Society, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

16 In some English versions, reference is made to ⍰bandaged⍰ or ⍰veiled⍰ eyes. In several Ripa editions the terms ⍰blindfold⍰ and ⍰bandaged⍰ were used interchangeably. However, the word bandages is today associated with wounds, while a blindfold is presumed to be obstructing vision.

17 Leviticus ⍰⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰No man with a defect shall come, whether a blind man, a lame man, a man stunted or overgrown.⍰ Leviticus ⍰⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰You shall present to the Lord nothing blind, disabled, mutilated, with running sore, scab, or eruption, nor set any such creature on the altar as a food-offering to the Lord.⍰ New English Bible.

18 Jo⍰ ⍰⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰Blindness will fall on the wicked.⍰ New English Bible.

19 Mark ⍰⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰Some began to spit on him, blindfolded him, and struck him with their fists.⍰ In earlier translations the phrase ⍰cover his face⍰ was used in lieu of the word blindfold. In some iterations, the word appears as ⍰blyndfolded⍰; in other places where modern translations use the word ⍰blindfold⍰ earlier translations had used the phrase ⍰hath covered his face⍰ See Luke ⍰⍰:⍰⍰–⍰⍰: ⍰They beat him, they blindfolded him, and they kept asking him, ⍰Now, prophet, who hit you?⍰ New English Bible.

20 ⍰saiah ⍰⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰Israel's watchmen are blind, all of them unaware. They are all dumb dogs who cannot bark.⍰ New English Bible.

21 Psalm ⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰They rush blindly down to Sheol, the wicked.⍰ Matthew ⍰⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰Blind fools! Which is the more important?⍰ New English Bible.

22 ⍰ Samuel ⍰⍰:⍰: ⍰⍰W⍰hom have I oppressed? From whom have I taken a bribe, to turn a blind eye?⍰⍰ ⍰ Corinthians ⍰:⍰: ⍰Their unbelieving minds are so blinded by the god of this passing age, that the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the very image of God, cannot dawn upon them and bring them light.⍰ New English Bible.

23 ⍰⍰in⍰s ⍰⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰Then the prophet went off, with a bandage over his eyes, and thus disguised waited by the wayside for the king.⍰ New English Bible. Earlier versions used the phrase ⍰disguised himself with ashes upon his face.⍰

24 Deuteronom⍰ ⍰⍰:⍰⍰, New English Bible.

25 ⍰ enesis ⍰⍰:⍰–⍰⍰, New English Bible.

26 See Bart Westerweel, Cupid⍰s Blindfold⍰The Development of an ⍰tono⍰raphical Topos, in The European Emblem: Selected Papers from the Glasgow Confernece, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ August ⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰ (Bernard F. Scholz, Michael Bath, ⍰ David Weston, eds., Leiden, Neth.: Brill, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). A counterpart to ⍰⍰odus ⍰⍰:⍰⍰ (⍰Moses put a veil over his face⍰) is the New Testament's ⍰ Corinthians ⍰:⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ that the Israelites' ⍰minds had been made insensitive, for that same veil is there to this very day.⍰ New English Bible.

27 ⍰⍰odus ⍰⍰:⍰⍰. Steven D. Fraade, ⍰ earin⍰ and Seein⍰ at Sinai⍰ ⍰nterpretive Tra⍰ectories, in The Significance of Sinai: Traditions about Sinai and Divine Revelation in Judaism and Christianity (George J. Brooke, Hindy Najman, ⍰ Loren T. Stuckenbruck, eds., Leiden, Neth.: Brill, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Fraade has also suggested that in the context of the Sinaitic revelation ⍰seeing⍰ was a complicated and nuanced activity implicating multiple⍰ and contrasting⍰ values. Moreover, ⍰auditory and ocular modes of revelatory reception . . . remain in tension with one another.⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

28 ⍰ Corinthians ⍰:⍰⍰, New English Bible. Alternately, the veil could be read as a sign of humility. See Moshe Barasch, Blindness: The History of a Mental Image in Western Thought ⍰⍰ (New York, NY: Routledge, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), interpreting the Old Testament description at ⍰⍰odus ⍰⍰:⍰⍰.

29 ⍰saiah ⍰⍰:⍰, ⍰⍰, New English Bible.

30 Psalm ⍰⍰⍰:⍰: ⍰The Lord restores sight to the blind and straightens backs.⍰; Matthew ⍰⍰:⍰: ⍰⍰Go and tell John what you hear and see: the blind recover their sight, the lame walk.⍰; Matthew ⍰⍰:⍰⍰: ⍰Then they brought him a man who was possessed; he was blind and dumb; and Jesus cured him.⍰ New English Bible. Saul is also temporarily blinded during the process of his conversion (⍰cts ⍰:⍰–⍰).

31 Robert Bagg, ⍰ edipus the ⍰in⍰, in The Oedipus Plays of Sophocles ⍰⍰ (Robert Bagg, trans., introduction and notes by Robert and Mary Bagg, Amherst ⍰ Boston, MA: U. of Massachusetts Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

32 ⍰⍰odus ⍰⍰:⍰, New English Bible.

33 Jo⍰ ⍰:⍰⍰, New English Bible. In older translations available online, including the King James, Geneva, Rheims Douai, and others, the translation was ⍰covereth the face.⍰

34 ⍰saiah ⍰⍰:⍰⍰ in The Good News Bible with Deuterocanoicals/Apocrypha, Today's English Version. Again the term was translated in earlier versions as ⍰hath he covered.⍰

35 Natalie Kononenko-Moyle, ⍰ omer, Milton, and ⍰ sik ⍰e⍰sel⍰ The Le⍰end of the Blind Bard, III/IV Harvard Ukrainian Studies ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Barasch at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

36 See William R. Paulson, Enlightenment, Romanticism, and the Blind in France ⍰–⍰ (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

37 Kononenko-Moyle at ⍰⍰⍰. See also Richard E. Doyle, ⍰TH: Its Use and Meaning, A study in the Greek Poetic Tradition from Homer to Euripidies ⍰–⍰⍰ (New York, NY: Fordham U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Barasch commented on the revival of interest in Homer during the Renaissance but noted the relatively rare presentations of images of Homer as blind. Barasch at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. According to Plato, blindness was Homer's punishment for slandering Helen of Troy: ⍰There's an ancient tradition governing how those who commit an offence in the domain of story-telling have to purify themselves, which Homer may have failed to recognize, but Stesichorus didn't. After losing his sight as a result of slandering Helen, Stesichorus didn't fail to recognize his fault, as Homer had.⍰ Plato, Phaedrus ⍰⍰ (Robin Waterfield, trans., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Milton wrote the entirety of his twelve-book epic poem Paradise Lost after becoming blind; his sonnet, ⍰On His Blindness⍰ reflected on the role that the loss of sight had played in bending his ⍰soul⍰ to serve his ⍰maker⍰ See John Milton: Complete Shorter Poems, Sonnet XVI at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (John Carey, ed., London, Eng.: Longman, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

38 Translations of the term ⍰th included ⍰blindness,⍰ ⍰infatuation,⍰⍰folly,⍰⍰ruin,⍰⍰calamity⍰ or ⍰disaster.⍰ Doyle at ⍰–⍰⍰.

39 Barasch at ⍰⍰.

40 Barasch at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

41 Barasch at ⍰⍰.

42 Michael Camille, The Gothic Idol: Ideology and Image-making in Medieval Art ⍰⍰⍰ (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The name has numerous variations, including Synagogue, Sinagogue, and others.

43 Wolfgang S. Seiferth, Synagogue and Church in the Middle Ages: Two Symbols in Art and Literature ⍰⍰ (Lee Chadeayne ⍰ Paul Gottwald, trans., New York, NY: Frederick Ungar, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Margaret Schlauch, The ⍰lle⍰or⍰ of Church and S⍰na⍰ ⍰o⍰ue, ⍰⍰ Speculum ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Beginning sometime in the early Middle Ages, both the ⍰New Law⍰ and the ⍰Old Law⍰ were depicted through female figures, but they did not frequently appear paired in an apparent confrontation until sometime during the eleventh century. See Ruth Mellinkoff, Three M□sterious Ladies □nmasked, □□ J. Jewish Art □□, □□ (Center for Jewish Art of Hebrew University, □□□□). Special thanks are due to Phu Nguyen for thoughtful research on blindness, sight, and light and to Nina Rowe for reviewing a draft of the discussion of Synagoga.

44 Figures □□ and □□ were provided by and are reproduced with permission of Foto Marburg / Art Resource, New York.

45 They are □perhaps the most celebrated examplars of their genre□ See Nina Rowe, □deali□ation and Su□□ection at the South Portal of Stras□our□ Cathedral, in Beyond the Yellow Badge: Anti-Judaism and Antisemitism in Medieval and Early Modern Visual Culture □□□ (Mitchell B. Merback, ed., Leiden: Brill, □□□□) (hereinafter Rowe, □deali□ation and Su□□ection).

46 The city has also been under German rule; during the later part of the twentieth century, the city's name□ Strasbourg□ came to serve as shorthand for the European Court of Human Rights, situated there and discussed in Chapter □□.

47 Bernd Nicolai, □rders in Stone□ Social □ealit□ and □rtistic □pproach□ The Case of the Stras□our□ South Portal, □□ Gesta □□□, □□□–□□□ (International Center of Medieval Art, □□□□).

48 Inside was the □eighteen-meter-high□ Second Coming scene that included sculptures of angels and of Christ. Rowe, □deali□ation and Su□□ection at □□□.

49 See Heinz Schreckenberg, The Jews in Christian Art: An Illustrated History □□–□□ (New York, NY: Continuum, □□□□). The two have been described as □sisters□ in such iterations. Seiferth at □□□. This tradition has been termed □Concordia Veteris et Novi Testamenti (Agreement of the Old and New Testaments)□ See Henry N. Claman, Jewish Images in the Christian Church: Art as Mirror of the Jewish–Christian Conflict, □□□–□□□□ CE at □□–□□ (Macon, GA: Mercer U. Press, □□□□). One source for that exchange was De altercatione □cclesiae et S□na□o□ae dialo□us, detailing the debate between the □rich widow Synagoga, clad in purple and holding a scepter□ and Ecclesia, also wearing purple and with □a crown on her head.□ Barasch at □□. That □pseudo-Augustian writing . . . was probably written in the second half of the fifth century.□ Schreckenberg at □□. Another source was the □ortus Deliciarum, an encyclopedia for nuns prepared from □□□□–□□□□ at the Hohenburg Convent in Alsace. Seiferth at □□□. See also Barasch at □□–□□; Kenneth R. Stow, Alienated Minority: The Jews of Medieval Latin Europe □–□□ (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, □□□□).

50 Seiferth at □□. Synagoga is □the antithesis of the Church. While Ecclesia's luxuriant robe provides stability, Synagoga's diaphanous drapery falls in a tangle around her ankles□ Rowe, □deali□ation and Su□□ection at □□□.

51 Rowe put the imagery in the context of the era in which □keeping the Jews in their place was a central component of keeping order more generally□ Rowe, □deali□ation and Su□□ection at □□□. She argued that the appearance of the pair as a thirteenth-century motif stemmed from fears of □real-world Jews□ Id. at □□□. The □public, monumental form . . . proclaimed the rectitude of Jewish containment within a well-ordered society□ run by men. Id. at □□□. The beauty of the Synagoga figure was □essential□ to capturing both toleration and subjagation. Id. at □□□.

52 Seiferth at □□. For example, Giotto showed Synagoga turning her head left toward darkness and away from the □light that is Christ in the Gospel of John□ Laurine Mack Bongiorno, The Theme of the □ld and the New Law in the □rena Chapel, □□ Art Bulletin □□, □□–□□ (□□□□). According to Barasch, at □□, in the thirteenth century, Albert the Great mandated a description that added the blindfold in lieu of shaded or otherwise obscured or darkened eyes.

53 Barasch at □□, □□.

54 Seiferth at □□, detailing descriptions of Jews as □murderers of Christ□ See generally Anthony Bale, The Jew in the Medieval Book: English Antisemitisms, □□□□–□□□□ at □ (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, □□□□). In a painted rendition by Peter Paul Rubens called Triumph of the Church over □norance and Blindness (also called The Triumph of □cclesia and displayed in the Prado Museum in Madrid, Spain), Ecclesia rides in a chariot while prisoners are falling about on the ground below. A man □who gazes heavenward but wears a blindfold, the age-old symbol of the unseeing Synagogue□ is among the defeated. See Irving Lavin, Divine □nspiration in Caravaggio□ Two □St□ Matthews, □□□ Art Bulletin □□, □□ (fig. □□), □□–□□ (□□□□). The Prado's collection also includes an earlier example of S□na□o□a shown as a man. In the □□□□ painting The □ountain of □ race and the Triumph of the Church over the S□no□o□ue, based on another panel in the Cathedral of St. Bavon in Ghent, Jan Van Eyck displayed an enthroned Christ at the center at the top of the image. On the bottom are a group identified as Jews, who, with unkempt clothing and in distress, are contrasted with the well-dressed, calm assembly of the Church on the opposite side. Among the Jews is one man□ S□na□o□a□ shown bent over, blindfolded, and wearing a large pointed hat. The cluster of □defeated Jews□ resembles those in other such renditions. See Josua Bruyn, □ Pu□□lin□ Picture at □□erlin□ The □ountain of Life, □□ Allen Memorial Art Museum Bulletin □, □ (□□□□). In addition to the version at that college's museum, an earlier drawing, The Defeat of the S□na□o□ue, from about □□□□, has a similar group of Jews, again with a blindfolded male/S□na□o□a. See Otto P□cht, Panof□sk□□ □□arl□ Netherlandish Paintin□□ □□, □□ Burlington Magazine □□□, □□□, fig. □□ (□□□□).

55 Mellinkoff at □□. Scholars describe this approach as □Adversus Judaeos□ or Against Jews. Claman at □□–□□. The positions of Concord and Adversarialism were attributed to Paul, whose commentary varied on Christianity's relationship to Judaism. Schreckenberg, at □□–□□, provided and explicated dozens of the different portrayals of Synagoga.

56 See Nina Rowe, S□na□o□a Tum□les, a □ider Triumphs□ Clerical □iewers and the □□rstenportal of Bam□er□ Cathedral, □□ Gesta □□, □□, and fig. □□ (□□□□). See also Barasch at fig. □□ (between pages □□ and □□); □cclesia versus S□na□o□a□ The Dispute □etween the Two □lle□orical Personifications and Their □econciliation, in Schreckenberg at □□, fig. □□ (stained glass at Chartres Cathedral, first half of the thirteenth century).

57 See Sara Lipton, The □oot of □ll □vil□ Jews, Mone□ and Metaphor in the Bi□les moralis□es, □ Medieval Encounters □ (□□□□); Camille at □□□. Lipton examined the development of a literature casting Synagoga □not in opposition to Ecclesia . . . but in complex relations to a range of masculine figures□ Lipton at □□□. Synagoga □draws heavily on venerable antifeminist tropes□ (id. at □□□) to represent □carnality□ greed, lust, literalness, philosophy□□ perceived to be dangerous to Christian society. Id. at □□□.

58 Barasch at □□. For the more literate, □bibles moralis□es□ also displayed images of Synagoga, blinded to Christianity's light. See Katherine H. Tachau, □od□ Compass and □□ana Curiositas□□ Scientific Stud□ in the □ld □rench Bi□le Moralis□e, □□ Art Bulletin □, □□–□□ (□□□□).

59 Seiferth at □□.

60 The Roman Missal, Compiled by Lawful Authority from the Missale Romanum □□□ (Adrian Fortescue, intro., New York, NY: Macmillan, □□□□).

61 In □□□□ Pope John XXIII removed the term □perfidious□ (per□ fidis in the Latin is translated as both □perfidious□ and □faithless□). The □□□□ Roman Missal, changed in conjunction with the Second Vatican Council, □was published shortly before the beginning of Holy Week in □□□□ as a separate booklet in order to revise the Good Friday prayer from that point forward□ Translation of the □□□□ version can be found in □The □□□□ Roman Missal and Catholic–Jewish Relations□ at a website of the International Council of Christians and Jews, http://www.jcrelations.net/en/□item□□□□□. A different version of the Missal from [illegible] reads: [illegible]Let us pray for the Jewish people, the first to hear the word of God, that they may continue to grow in the love of his name.[illegible] THE NEW AMERICAN SUNDAY MISSAL [illegible]–[illegible] (Bernard Benziger, ed., New York, NY: William Collins [illegible] World Publishing, [illegible]).

62 John Thavis, Pope [illegible]eformulates Tridentine [illegible]ite[illegible] Pra[illegible]er for Jews, for Catholic News Service, http://www.catholicnews.com/data/stories/cns/[illegible].htm. Criticism followed thereafter, from Jewish groups distressed at the continuing reference to their need to be converted and from some Catholic groups unhappy about the changes. See Ian Fisher, Pope[illegible] [illegible]ewrite of Latin Pra[illegible]er Draws Criticism from [illegible] Sides, NEW YORK TIMES, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible]. The Vatican's announcement of the change can be found on its website, http://www.vatican.va/roman[illegible]curia/secretariat[illegible]state/[illegible]/documents/rc[illegible]seg-st[illegible]nota-missale-romanum[illegible]en.html.

63 See Edgar Wind, [illegible]rpheus in Praise of Blind Love, in PAGAN MYSTERIES IN THE RENAISSANCE [illegible] (London, Eng.: Faber and Faber, [illegible]) (hereinafter Wind, [illegible]rpheus in Praise of Blind Love); Erwin Panofsky, Blind Cupid, in STUDIES IN ICONOLOGY: HUMANISTIC THEMES IN THE ART OF THE RENAISSANCE [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Harper [illegible] Row, [illegible]) (hereinafter Panofsky, Blind Cupid).

64 See CESARE RIPA, BAROQUE AND ROCOCO PICTORIAL IMAGERY: THE [illegible]–[illegible] HERTEL EDITION OF RIPA'S [illegible]ICONOLOGIA[illegible] WITH [illegible] ENGRAVED ILLUSTRATIONS [illegible] (Edward A. Maser, ed., New York, NY: Dover Publications, [illegible]) (hereinafter RIPA, MASER EDITION) (citing page [illegible] of a [illegible] edition of Ripa). That text has a translation stating that Fortuna is [illegible]blind[illegible] but also a picture showing her eyes covered with a bandage. She typically also held a wheel or stood near a globe. A blindfolded Fortuna can be found in works from the fifteenth century and thereafter. See EHRENGARD MEYER-LANDRUT, FORTUNA: DIE G[illegible]TTIN DES GL[illegible]CKS IM WANDEL DER ZEITEN (FORTUNE: THE GODDESS OF LUCK THROUGHOUT THE AGES) (Berlin, Ger.: Deutscher Kunstverlag, [illegible]). Examples are at [illegible], fig. [illegible] (dated [illegible]); at [illegible], fig. [illegible] (dated [illegible]–[illegible]); and at [illegible], fig. [illegible] (dated [illegible]). See also Horst W. Janson, [illegible] [illegible]Memento Mori[illegible] amon[illegible] [illegible]ar[illegible] [illegible]talian Prints, [illegible] J. WARBURG [illegible] COURTAULD INST. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Wendy Roworth, Salava[illegible] tor[illegible] osa[illegible] Lost Paintin[illegible] of [illegible]ortuna,[illegible] BURLINGTON MAGAZINE [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Barasch at [illegible]–[illegible]; Stefano Pierguidi, [illegible] iovanni [illegible] uerra and the [illegible]lustrations to [illegible]ipa[illegible] [illegible]conolo[illegible]ia, [illegible] J. WARBURG [illegible] COURTAULD INST. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], n. [illegible] ([illegible]).

65 BARASCH at [illegible].

66 RANDOLPH STARN, AMBROGIO LORENZETTI: THE PALAZZO PUBBLICO, SIENA [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: George Braziller, [illegible]). Shown is a blindfolded man hanging, with his coat blowing in the wind.

67 Panofsky, Blind Cupid at [illegible].

68 The version reproduced in figure [illegible] was provided by the Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library, Yale University. This image, like other illustrations, was not signed and has occasioned a debate about which artist created it. According to Guilia Bartrum, the Assistant Keeper of German Prints and Drawings in the Department of Prints and Drawings at the British Museum, the attribution of this and various of the other [illegible] illustrations is unclear. Our thanks to Giulia Bartrum, email correspondence (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]), and to Professor Christopher Wood, Yale University. Others have presumed that Dürer was the artist responsible for it and for other of the woodcuts. See THEODORE ZIOLKOWSKI, THE MIRROR OF JUSTICE: LITERARY REFLECTIONS OF LEGAL CRISES [illegible], [illegible] (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter ZIOLKOWSKI, MIRROR OF JUSTICE).

It is known that in [illegible] Dürer was working on woodcuts and that he contributed to three volumes published in Basel, including Brant's Narrensch[illegible], which was printed in [illegible]. But Dürer left that city that year. PANOFSKY, D[illegible]RER, vol. [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. Further, the number of illustrations varied by edition. According to Panofsky, the first edition ([illegible]) contained [illegible] woodcuts (with about [illegible] repeated), resulting in about [illegible] illustrations. In a second edition (printed in Basel in [illegible]), [illegible] of the originals were replaced ([illegible]three for purely technical or aesthetic reasons . . . and three in favor of a new iconography[illegible]). That arrangement persisted, albeit not consistently. See ERWIN PANOFSKY, ALBRECHT D[illegible]RER, vol. [illegible] (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter PANOFSKY, D[illegible]RER, vol. [illegible]), catalogue note no. illegible. But, Panofsky argued, Dürer was himself uneven[illegible] making it [illegible]possible to attribute to Dürer the design, not only of[illegible] the superior but also other woodcuts of various styles. Id. at [illegible]. In Panofsky's view, about one-third of the prints in Brant's Narrensch[illegible] were by Dürer and [illegible]about two-thirds of the whole cycle[illegible] (which comprises well over a hundred different pictures) have no appreciable connection with Dürer. Id. Others attribute more prints to Dürer. See Kathleen Wilson-Chevalier, Se[illegible]astian Brant[illegible] The [illegible]e[illegible] to [illegible]nderstandin[illegible] Luca Penni[illegible] [illegible]Justice and the Seven Dead[illegible] Sins,[illegible] ART BULLETIN [illegible], [illegible], n. [illegible] ([illegible]).

69 See SEBASTIAN BRANT, THE SHIP OF FOOLS, TRANSLATED INTO RHYMING COUPLETS WITH INTRODUCTION AND COMMENTARY BY EDWIN H. ZEYDEL (Edwin H. Zeydel, trans., New York, NY: Columbia U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter ZEYDEL'S BRANT). Zeydel argued that earlier English versions were [illegible]free adaptations[illegible] based on the Latin and French editions rather than on the original, written in vernacular German. ZEYDEL'S BRANT at vii. Zeydel delineated among the woodcuts those done by a [illegible]master,[illegible] [illegible]perhaps a master[illegible] or an [illegible]inferior artist[illegible] and attributed The [illegible]ool Blindfoldin[illegible] Justice to a [illegible]master[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Zeydel thought that the [illegible]master of the Bergmann shop[illegible] could have been responsible for this and about seventy-five of the prints. Id. at [illegible]. In Zeydel's view, Brant was unlikely to have dictated the design: [illegible]Brant had no ability whatsoever as an artist[illegible] and [illegible]the cuts are usually superior to his verse[illegible] Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

70 See JOHN VAN CLEVE, SEBASTIAN BRANT'S T[illegible] S[illegible]P [illegible] [illegible]LS IN CRITICAL PERSPECTIVE, [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible] (COLUMBIA, SC: CAMDEN HOUSE, [illegible]). [illegible]The nature of reader response . . . was sustained and unprecedented. Published in [illegible], the poem was reprinted three times before the year was out[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. A first edition in Latin was published in [illegible], a Dutch-Flemish edition in [illegible], one in English in [illegible]. Zeydel counted six editions published before Brandt's death in [illegible]. ZEYDEL'S BRANT at [illegible]–[illegible]. Ziolkowski, at [illegible] in Mirror of Justice, reported that at least seventy editions were in circulation.

71 See Wilson-Chevalier at [illegible]–[illegible]. In her view, Penni's depictions would have been incomprehensible to viewers unless they were familiar with Brant, and therefore that Penni's work attests to Brant's [illegible]popularity in mid-sixteenth-century France[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Zeydel claimed that the book, which he termed a [illegible]masterpiece[illegible] was [illegible]the most famous book of its time[illegible] that it [illegible]exercised a tremendous influence[illegible] in England and in continental Europe, serving as a forerunner of German humanism. ZEYDEL'S BRANT at vii (Preface). Erasmus is said to have found Brant [illegible]incomparable[illegible] See Wilson-Chevalier at [illegible]. As Ziolkowski, at [illegible] in Mirror of Justice, put it, few modern readers [illegible]would suspect that the work was favorably compared by its contemporaries to Homer's [illegible] d[illegible]sse[illegible],[illegible] for later literary critics have not been as admiring.

Van Cleve mapped the book's [illegible]canonicity[illegible] as well as the critical response to its text and tone, as he explored how such a [illegible]supposedly disorganized, soporific sermon in German verse[illegible] was so [illegible]wildly popular for well over a century[illegible] on the European continent. Van Cleve at [illegible]. Van Cleve described The Ship of [illegible]ools as the [illegible]most successful work of German literature[illegible] during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Id. at [illegible]. As to more recent reappraisals, Van Cleve credited Zeydel, whose translation [illegible]reintroduced the poem to the English-speaking world [illegible] years after its first publication[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Ziolkowski, at [illegible], found it [illegible]a survey of European society and morals during the transition from late-medieval to early-modern times.[illegible]

72 See, for example, KATHERINE ANN PORTER, THE SHIP OF FOOLS (Boston, MA: Little, Brown, [illegible]), which was also made into a film in [illegible] by Stanley Kramer. Brant, on the other hand, used the metaphor of the ship erratically and relatively rarely. In the various chapters, fools serve as exemplars for moral conduct. Zeydel's Brant at ⍰–⍰.

73 Brant, who was born in Strasbourg, had been a student at the University of Basel, where he studied Aristotle and did a doctorate in law before returning to Strasbourg, where he was ⍰an active and respected legal advisor⍰ Wilson-Chevalier at ⍰. According to Ziolkowski, Brant, an ⍰imperial loyalist⍰ moved from Basel in ⍰, after the city left the Holy Roman Empire and joined the Swiss Confederation. Ziolkowski, Mirror of Justice at ⍰.

74 Wilson-Chevalier at ⍰ and n. ⍰. The volume gave ⍰voice to the common fear that, with the year ⍰ approaching, God's patience with man's sins was coming to an end and the world would soon be destroyed⍰ Id. at ⍰. A few of the chapter headings in Brant's The Ship of ⍰ools illustrate the book's tone, as one can read in ⍰e⍰del⍰ Brant: ⍰Of Greed⍰ (at ⍰); ⍰Of Not Following Good Advice⍰ (at ⍰); ⍰Of Insolence toward God⍰ (at ⍰); ⍰Of Useless Riches⍰ (at ⍰).

75 Several authors have identified this image as perhaps the first to add a blindfold to Justice. See, for example, Wolfgang Pleister ⍰ Wolfgang Schild, Recht und Gerechtigkeit im Spiegel der europ⍰ischen Kunst (Law and Justice Reflected in European Art) ⍰–⍰, fig. ⍰ (Cologne, Ger.: Dumont Buchverlag, ⍰); Otto Rudolf Kissel, Die Justitia: Reflexionen ⍰ ber ein Symbol und seine Darstellung in der bildenden Kunst (Justice: Reflections on a Symbol and Its Representation in The Plastic Arts) ⍰–⍰ (Munich, Ger.: Verlag C. H. Beck, ⍰); G. Overdiep, Justitia, Waar ⍰s ⍰w Blinddoek⍰ (Justice⍰ Where ⍰s Th⍰ Blindfold⍰) in Overdruck uit pro excolendo iure patrio ⍰–⍰, ⍰–⍰ and n. ⍰ (Groningen, Neth.: J. B. Wolters, ⍰).

76 Zeydel's Brant at ⍰–⍰ (Chapter ⍰, ⍰Quarreling and Going to Court⍰). The italicized header reads: ⍰He'll get much raillery uncouth, / Who fights like children tooth for tooth, / And thinks that he can blind the truth.⍰

77 Zeydel's Brant at ⍰. Brant's ⍰Prologue to the Ship of Fools⍰ explained his purpose: ⍰For profit and salutary instruction, admonition and pursuit of wisdom, reason and good manners: also for contempt and punishment of folly, blindness, error, and stupidity of all stations and kinds of men: with special zeal, earnestness, and labor compiled at Basel by Sebastian Brant, doctor in both laws.⍰

78 See, for example, Zeydel's Brant, Prologue at ⍰: ⍰blinded sinfulness⍰ and Chapter ⍰ (⍰Of the Teaching of Children⍰) at ⍰: ⍰A fool is he and blind indeed / Who ne'er to children pays much heed⍰ See also Chapter ⍰ (⍰Of the Power of Fools⍰) at ⍰: ⍰T⍰is need that many fools there be / For some are blind and cannot see⍰ and later in that chapter, at ⍰: ⍰Blind justice is and dead indeed⍰ Note here, at ⍰, that the admonition is against taking ⍰money, gift, or bribe: / The man who takes a bribe's not free, / Accepting gifts breeds Treachery⍰ In Chapter ⍰, we discuss the normative efforts to circumscribe gifts to judges.

Further, in Chapter ⍰ (⍰Of Reward for Wisdom⍰) at ⍰, the author explained: ⍰The Lord has given us the light / Of wisdom, making all things bright. / To darkness wisdom puts an end⍰ And the book ends by repeating the opening admonition: ⍰Here ends the Ship of Fools, which for profit, salutary instruction, admonition and pursuit of wisdom, reason and good manners, also for contempt and punishment of folly, blindness, error, and stupidity of all stations and kinds of men . . . is compiled by Sebastianus Brant⍰ Id. at ⍰.

79 The Bam⍰er⍰ische Peinliche ⍰ als⍰erichtsordnun⍰ (The Penal Code of the Bam⍰er⍰ Criminal Court) is a legal code in vernacular German that was written in ⍰ for the Prince-Bishop of Bamberg. The book gets its title⍰ The ⍰Halsgericht⍰⍰ from a particular kind of court whose full name was the ⍰Hochnotpeinliches Halsgericht⍰ In Medieval Germany that court dealt with serious crimes, including rape and murder. The term ⍰ als⍰ericht was later used to describe courts that were empowered to impose the death penalty.

At least eight editions of the Bam⍰er⍰ensis were printed prior to ⍰. See Josef Kohler ⍰ Willy Scheel, Die Bambergische Halsgerichtsordnung in Die Carolina und Ihre Vorg⍰ngerinnen: Text, Erl⍰uterung, Geschichte (The Penal Code of the Bamberg Criminal Court in The Carolina and Its Predecessors: Text, Explanation, History), vol. ⍰ at VIII–IX (Aalen, Ger.: Scientia Verlag, ⍰). The ⍰ book reprints a ⍰ edition, itself a reproduction that is a composite of different sixteenth-century editions of the Bam⍰er⍰ensis. We draw from that composite as well as from an original edition, Johann Freiherr von Schwarzenberg, Bambergische Peinliche Halsgerichtsordnung (Bambergensis) (The Penal Code of the Bamberg Criminal Court ⍰Bambergensis⍰), vols. ⍰–⍰ (Mainz, Ger.: Johann Sch⍰ffer, ⍰), in the collection of the Yale Law Library Rare Book Room, that was translated for us by Stella Burch Elias. Additional discussion of the history and use of the Bam⍰er⍰ensis can be found in Gerald Strauss, Law, Resistance, and the State: The Opposition to Roman Law in Reformation Germany ⍰, ⍰, ⍰, ⍰ (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, ⍰) (hereinafter Strauss, Law, Resistance, and the State); Joy Wiltenburg, The Car⍰olina and the Culture of the Common Man⍰ ⍰evisitin⍰ the ⍰mperial Penal Code of ⍰, ⍰ Renaissance Quarterly ⍰ (⍰).

The text of the Bam⍰er⍰ensis is attributed to Johann Freiherr zu Schwarzenberg. Strauss, Law, Resistance, and the State at ⍰. Schwarzenberg, who lived from around ⍰ to ⍰, has variously been described as a court of appeals judge, a knight in the service of the Prince-Bishop of Bamberg, and a local untrained judge. See Kohler ⍰ Scheel at LXV–LXIX; Gottfried G. Krodel, The ⍰ pposition to ⍰oman Law and the ⍰eformation in ⍰ erman⍰, ⍰ Journal of Law and Religion ⍰, ⍰ (⍰–⍰), reviewing the book Law, ⍰esist⍰ ance and the State by Gerald Strauss.

Other discussions of The Tri⍰unal of ⍰ools include Robert Jacob, Images de la Justice: Essai sur l'iconographie judiciaire du Moyen ⍰ge ⍰ l'⍰ge Classique ⍰, fig. ⍰ (Paris, Fran.: Éditions Le L⍰opard d'Or, ⍰) (discussing Bambergische Halsgerichts und Rechtlich Ordnung in Peynlichen Sachen (Bamberg Criminal Court and Legal Code in Penal Matters), published in Mainz in ⍰); Simmonds at ⍰ (⍰), and Theodore Ziolkowski, The ⍰i⍰ ure of Justice in Western ⍰rt and Literature, ⍰ Inmunkwahak, Journal of Humanities, ⍰ (⍰) (hereinafter Ziolkowski, The ⍰i⍰ure of Justice).

80 Figure ⍰, reproduced courtesy of the Rare Book Room of the Lillian Goldman Law Library at Yale Law School, comes from the ⍰ edition in that collection to which we were directed by its librarian, Mike Widener. In the illustration, reproduced by Kohler and Scheel at LXI from a ⍰ edition, seven blindfolded jurists (six lay judges, or ⍰Sch⍰ffen⍰ who are all dressed the same) and one presiding judge or ⍰Richter⍰ (dressed differently to denote his higher status) are all wearing jester's caps as well as blindfolds. The ⍰ and ⍰ versions that we can compare include the same text (with minor variations in spelling) but with slightly different placements of the words. The text in the ⍰ Kohler and Scheel picture appears in a scroll held by a hand emerging from the clouds on high; the text of the ⍰ edition floats on a scroll unfolded above the heads of the five blindfolded judges.

81 Others have provided slightly different translations. For example, Simmonds offered the translation ⍰Out of bad habit all that these blind fools do is give sentences contrary to what is right⍰ Simmonds at ⍰ (referring to a ⍰ edition). Another translation is ⍰To pass judgments repugnant to what is right and out of sheer bad habit, is the whole life of these blind fools⍰ See Ziolkowski, The ⍰i⍰ure of Jus⍰ tice at ⍰.

82 See Kohler ⍰ Scheel at XXIX–LXIII.

83 A reproduction can be found in Pleister ⍰ Schild at ⍰, fig. ⍰. Other legal texts also included scenes of the Last Judgment, intended to draw parallels between earthly and divine judgment. Id.

84 Kohler and Scheel numbered a series of pictures found in and taken from the different editions of the Bam⍰er⍰ensis. The first image shows a variety of instruments likely used for punishment, followed by a scene of the Last Judgment that, as discussed in Chapter [illegible], was commonplace in Justice iconography. Other pictures are of judges, accused and complainants, executions, oath takings, and sentences being imposed.

85 See Kohler [illegible] Scheel at LIII and at LIX, images [illegible] and [illegible]. In image [illegible], a judge appears to be deciding how much to charge in court fees. The text in the scroll above the figures' heads reads: [illegible]Your Honor, rich in virtue, lets everyone pay the same fees[illegible] The picture shows one person holding a bag of money and tossing coins into a judge's hand while the other person is empty-handed. Kohler and Scheel indicate that the image appeared near Article [illegible], titled [illegible]Of Court Costs[illegible] which discussed ways for poor people to help each other so that they would not suffer from an inability to pay fees.

Image [illegible] (accompanying Article [illegible] of the Bam[illegible]er[illegible]ensis, titled [illegible]The Judge Should Not Accept Any Money[illegible]) is what we would today call a cartoon, complete with speech bubbles placed in scrolls. Shown is a professional judge, labeled a [illegible]pocket judge[illegible] to describe his habit of keeping money for himself. Above a figure of a court bailiff is a scroll that directs a bag of money (personified) to give coins to the judge in order to [illegible]live longer[illegible] The money, held in the stocks by the bailiff, has a scroll attached to it about how [illegible]false judges have taught[illegible] disputants to yield up hard-earned money. On the left, a devil-like person is taking a figure identified as a robber baron away. That robber baron, in turn, comments (via a scroll) that [illegible]robbers rob in the open air and in houses but [illegible]pocket judges' rob more[illegible] Article [illegible] directs judges to avoid becoming [illegible]pocket judges[illegible] by taking money to influence their judgments in penal matters. Kohler [illegible] Scheel at [illegible]–[illegible].

86 For example, Kissel argued that the blindfold was emblematic of a growing separation of powers, whereas Christian-Nils Robert posited that the blindfold was bivalent, as a [illegible]gesture that is both madness and truth[illegible] ([illegible]un geste tout [illegible] la fois fou et vrai[illegible]). See Christian-Nils Robert, La Justice: Vertu Courtisane et Bourreau (Justice: Virtue as Courtesan and Executioner) [illegible] (Geneva, Switz.: George Editeur, [illegible]).

87 Zeydel's Brant at [illegible]–[illegible]; chapter [illegible], illustrated by The [illegible]ool Blindfoldin[illegible] Justice, provides the following verses:

> Now of that fool I would report
> Who always wants to go to court,
> And amicably end no suit
> Before he's had a hot dispute
> When cases would protracted be,
> And men from justice hide or flee. . . .
> A foreign speaker must be brought > Imported here from far-off port,
> That he may well pervert the case
> And cheat the judges to their face.

The chapter ends:

> The man who'd rather sue than eat
> Should have some nettles on his seat.

88 Translation by Ziolkowski at [illegible]–[illegible] in Mirror of Justice. He argued that the blindfold bespoke an ambivalence toward both customary and Roman law, with concerns about abusive litigants and corruptible judges. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

89 Strauss, Law, Resistance, and the State at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

90 Jacob at [illegible]–[illegible]. Jacob argued that judges across Europe used, and transformed, derisive images of justice to further their own ends.

91 The Carolina was promulgated by the Augsburg Parliament under Emperor Charles V in [illegible] and ratified by the Regensburg Parliament in [illegible]. Wiltenburg at [illegible]. Both codes were derived from an amalgam of Roman and Church law. See Strauss, Law, Resistance, and the State at [illegible]–[illegible]. Wiltenburg at [illegible].

92 Wiltenburg at [illegible]–[illegible] and n. [illegible].

93 Wiltenburg at [illegible].

94 See Strauss, Law, Resistance, and the State at [illegible]–[illegible]. The [illegible] publication of the Carolina [illegible]obliged lay judges who were [illegible]not learned, experienced, or practiced in our imperial laws . . . to seek counsel' in criminal matters [illegible]at the nearest university, city, or other source of legal knowledge.' [illegible] Id. at [illegible] (quoting and translating Article [illegible] of the Carolina). Whether the local law was itself traditionally German or already reflected [illegible]Roman law and early Medieval theology[illegible] is a question debated in the literature. See Krodel at [illegible]–[illegible]. More generally, Europe was a [illegible]mosaic[illegible] of many different versions of local practice. A struggle ensued between those customary legal regimes and university-based jurisprudence that aimed to systemize rules that would have binding force. See Constantin Fasolt, [illegible] ermann Conrin[illegible] and the [illegible]uropean [illegible]istor[illegible] of Law, in Politics and Reformations: Histories and Reformations (Essays in Honor of Thomas A. Brady, Jr.) [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Christopher Ocker, Michael Printy, Peter Starenko, [illegible] Peter Wallace, eds., Leiden, Neth.: Brill, [illegible]).

95 See Andreas Alciatus, The Latin Emblems: Index Emblematicus, vols. [illegible] [illegible] (Peter M. Daly, ed., Toronto, Can.: U. of Toronto Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Alciatus, Daly Edition) (unpaginated edition with numbered emblems); see also the [illegible] Padua edition of Ripa's [illegible]ronolo[illegible]ia. This is not the original edition but one of the early illustrated editions.

96 The two major works, discussed in Chapter [illegible], that are referenced in this context are Horapollo's [illegible] iero[illegible][illegible]phica and Francesco Colonna's [illegible] [illegible]pnerotomachia Poliphili.

97 See Denis L. Drysdall, [illegible]m[illegible]lema [illegible] uid[illegible] What [illegible]s an [illegible]m[illegible]lem[illegible] in Under the Aegis, The Virtues [illegible]–[illegible] (Peter Shand, ed., Auckland, New Zeal.: Fortuna Press, [illegible]), discussed in Chapter [illegible]. Another classic source for this discussion is Ernst Gombrich, [illegible]tones S[illegible]m[illegible]oli[illegible]cae[illegible] The [illegible]isual [illegible]na[illegible]e in Neo[illegible]Platonic Thou[illegible]ht, [illegible] J. Warburg [illegible] Courtauld Inst. [illegible] ([illegible]). Gombrich read Ripa as a [illegible]rationalist[illegible] rooted in the [illegible]Aristotelian theory of definition. . . . In Ripa's theory the human figure stands for the substance, or essence, the emblems it holds or wears, for its [illegible]attributes.' [illegible] Id. at [illegible].

98 Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. [illegible] at emblem [illegible] and motto (from the [illegible] German).

99 Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. [illegible] at emblem [illegible] and motto (from the [illegible] French). Martin Jay argued that the Reformation embraced the [illegible]Hebrew interdiction of images[illegible] as a way to [illegible]resist what Augustine had famously called the [illegible]lust of the eyes,' [illegible] and thus made the blindfold no longer a sign of inferiority but a marker of [illegible]neutrality[illegible] See Martin Jay, Must Justice Be Blind[illegible] in Law and the Image [illegible]–[illegible] (Costas Douzinas [illegible] Lynda Nead, eds., Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, [illegible]). See also Jacob at [illegible]–[illegible]. As detailed in the text of this chapter, we are less confident that the blindfold was by then read as uncomplicatedly positive.

100 Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. [illegible] at emblem [illegible], [illegible]Just Vengeance.[illegible]

101 Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. [illegible] at emblem [illegible]. The motto translated from the Paris [illegible] edition reads: [illegible]Love of virtue overcomes Cupid[illegible]; in the [illegible] Paris edition, the accompanying picture shows [illegible]a blindfolded Eros[illegible] being tied to a column by Anteros, brother of Eros and god of requited love.

102 Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. [illegible] at emblem [illegible]. In the image a lame man is seated on the shoulder of a blind man; the [illegible] Paris text is translated [illegible]Then the lame man has himself carried and puts the blind man on the right road.[illegible]

103 A word of explanation is needed as to the different Ripas and their illustrations. As noted, the [illegible] Ripa had no drawings. Further, scholars do not believe that Ripa had direct involvement in the drawings used in subsequent editions. See Pierguidi at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Pierguidi noted that Ripa neither referred to nor appeared ⊠to have had close relations with contemporary artists⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. More than twenty editions in almost a dozen languages were published. We have relied on the following editions: Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠; Cesare Ripa, Iconologia, vols. ⊠⊠ ⊠ (Padua, Ital.: Pietro Paolo Tozzi, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; Torino, Ital.: F⊠gola Editore in Torino, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠); Cesare Ripa, Iconologie (I. Baudoin, ed., Paris, Fran.: Chez Mathieu Guillemot, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter French Ripa–⊠⊠⊠⊠); Dutch Ripa–⊠⊠⊠⊠; Ripa, Maser Edition; Cesare Ripa, Iconology London ⊠⊠⊠⊠ in Two Volumes by George Richardson (New York, NY, ⊠ London, Eng.: Garland Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Ripa, Richardson Edition). Translations of the French edition are by Allison Tait.

The Richardson edition was the ⊠very last iconology in the tradition of Ripa⊠ See Thomas Fr⊠schl, ⊠epu⊠lican ⊠irtues and the ⊠ree State⊠Conceptual ⊠rame and Meanin⊠ in ⊠ar⊠ Modern ⊠urope and North ⊠merica, in Iconography, Propaganda, and Legitimation ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (Allan Ellenius, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). By the time of that publication, emblems were coming to serve other purposes. See Michael Bath, Speaking Pictures: English Emblem Books and Renaissance Culture ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (London, Eng.: Longman, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). While emblems continued to evoke ⊠divine secrets or hidden realities⊠their allegorical emphasis was moving to accommodate demands for ⊠reason and commonsense⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

104 Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠; Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. ⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (invoking Seneca); Ripa, Maser Edition at fig. ⊠⊠.

105 Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. ⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠; French Ripa–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠.

106 Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. ⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. In the Ripa, Maser Edition, this transforms into ⊠Incredulity⊠ (at ⊠⊠⊠), and the entry cites Ripa, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠, ⊠Cecit⊠ della Mente⊠ and at ⊠⊠⊠ ⊠Ignoranza⊠ Another figure of Ignorance is a man with ⊠bandaged eye⊠ to denote a figurative ⊠blindness to all matters of the intellect.⊠

107 Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. ⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

108 Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. ⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠.

109 Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. ⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

110 Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. ⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (invoking St. Thomas Aquinas and the idea of hiding with a veil).

111 See Ripa, Maser Edition at ⊠⊠⊠, citing a ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Ripa edition at ⊠⊠⊠. In this edition, veils or blindfolds can also be found in images of ⊠the Rational Soul⊠ at ⊠ (⊠Her head is covered with a transparent veil, since the soul, according to St Augustine . . . is invisible to human eyes⊠), as well as in ⊠False Splendor⊠ at ⊠⊠ (⊠blind to her own faults and to the light of God⊠).

112 Injustice (⊠ingiustitia⊠) is portrayed in both text and image with one blind eye in Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠; an identical image and abbreviated text appear in Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. ⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠. Later editions shift the imagery to the scimitar, turban, and other attributes used to denote justice gone awry⊠ broken tablets, scales, and scrolls. The toad, however, remains as a marker of greed, ⊠upon which much injustice is founded⊠ (Ripa, Maser Edition at ⊠⊠⊠, citing the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ edition at ⊠⊠⊠). We also discuss this iconography in Chapter ⊠.

113 Panofsky, Blind Cupid at ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠⊠.

114 Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Excerpts of descriptions from various editions are quoted in this and other chapters. Here we provide a comprehensive overview of how all seven were detailed in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ version.

One, ⊠Justice According to Aulus Gellius⊠ was accompanied by an illustration. Gellius was a Latin grammarian of the second century CE who authored Noctes atticae (⊠ttic N⊠hts). The image accompanying the description shows a richly robed woman wearing a necklace that has an eye engraved in the pendant, referencing Plato, as is detailed in the Ripa text describing ⊠Justice According to Aulus Gellius⊠

> A woman who is a beautiful virgin, crowned and dressed in gold, who, with honesty and discipline, shows herself worthy of reverence, with eyes of the most acute vision and a necklace around her throat that is decorated with an eye.
>
> Plato said that Justice sees all and that from ancient times priests were called seers of all things. From whence Apuleius swore by the eye of the Sun and Justice together to show that one is as insightful as the other . . . ⊠and they are⊠qualities that ministers of Justice must have, because they must also be able to discover truth and, in the manner of virgins, must be exempt from passion, not . . . corrupted by flattery, gifts, or anything else . . . . To indicate Justice and intellectual integrity the ancients used a jug, a basin, a column⊠ as is verified on old marble sepulchers and by diverse antiquities, such that Alciatus said: A good judge must be pure of soul and clean of hands, if he wishes to punish crime and avenge injury.

Note what was not mentioned⊠ scales, sword, or other implements or animals. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

The next Justice (at ⊠⊠⊠), ⊠Justice of Pausanias⊠ refers to the Greek traveler and geographer Pausanias, of the second century CE, who lived in the times of Hadrian, Antoninus Pius, and Marcus Aurelius and became famous through his Description of ⊠reece, a lengthy work used in the Renaissance to illuminate classical literature and archaeology.

> A woman of beautiful bearing, richly adorned, who with her left hand clutches an old, ugly woman and beats her with a stick.
>
> And this old woman, called Pausania, represents injury, from which just judges must always be kept, such that the truth is not hidden from them and they are able to listen patiently to each person's defense.

Ripa (at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠) proffered, as his third ⊠worldly⊠ Justice, a woman called ⊠Principled Justice⊠ or ⊠Strict Justice⊠

> A woman with a raised sword, regal crown, and scales; on one side of her, there is a dog signifying friendship and a serpent on the other signifying hate.
>
> The raised sword denotes that Justice should not bend to either side, neither for friendship nor for hatred of any person . . . ⊠

The fourth Justice (at ⊠⊠⊠), ⊠Rigorous Justice⊠ was:

> A skeletal figure like that used to depict death, in a white robe, . . . we can see her face, feet and hands with a bared sword and scales . . . . This figure teaches us that rigorous justice does not pardon any crime, no matter the excuse given . . . just like death, who is not touched by excuses and who has no regard for the station or quality of the person.
>
> The fearsome aspect of this figure demonstrates that this sort of Justice is frightening to the people and that there is no occasion for the law to be interpreted lightly.

The fifth worldly Justice, whose description is provided in the text, was the only one described with bandaged eyes. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

A sixth worldly Justice was ☒Justice on the medals of Hadrian, Antoninus Pius and Alexander☒ Hadrian was the Emperor of Rome from ☒☒☒ CE to ☒☒☒ CE, succeeded by Antoninus Pius, who served from ☒☒☒ to ☒☒☒ CE. The other Alexander mentioned, also called Alexander the Great, was the Greek king of Macedonia who ruled from ☒☒☒ to ☒☒☒ BCE and conquered a large swath of the European and Asian continents. This Justice (at ☒☒☒) was:

> A seated woman wearing a bracelet and holding a scepter in one hand and a chalice in the other.
>
> She is seated because it befits the gravity of a wise person and it is for this reason that judges render decisions while seated.

A seventh Justice (at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒) was the only one deemed ☒Divine☒:

> A woman of singular beauty, dressed in gold and with a gold crown on her head, above which a dove is circling; she has hair scattered across her shoulders with eyes upturned, looking away from low concerns, and is holding in her right hand an unsheathed sword and scales in the left.
>
> There is every reason to portry this figure as exceedingly beautiful because she is a part of the divine being . . . that is all perfection and beauty.
>
> She is dressed in gold to demonstrate, through the nobility and splendor of this metal, the excellence and sublime nature of Justice.
>
> The crown of gold is to show that she has power over all other earthly powers.
>
> The balance indicates that divine Justice regulates all actions just as the sword signifies the punishment of criminals.
>
> The dove signifies the Holy Ghost, third member of the Holy Trinity . . . .

The Dutch version from ☒☒☒☒ provides the same list of seven as did Ripa, Padua☒☒☒☒. The seven Justices did not, however, reappear in all Ripa editions. In Ripa, Padua☒☒☒☒, for example, only two (☒Justice According to Aulus Gellius☒ and ☒Justice☒) are mentioned. Moreover, slightly different descriptions of various of the Justices can be found. For example, the four in the ☒☒☒☒ French edition (under the entry ☒Diverses Justices☒) include ☒Justice☒ (☒Iustice☒), ☒Rigorous Justice☒ (☒Iustice Rigoureuse☒), ☒Divine Justice☒ (☒Iustice Divine☒), and ☒Justice Inviolate☒ (☒Iustice Inviolable☒).

As we discuss in Chapters ☒ and ☒, by the eighteenth century, Justice iconography was compressed into a narrower range; the Ripas of that era offer one description of and one image for Justice. In the ☒☒☒☒ Hertel edition, Justice ☒is blindfolded, for nothing but pure reason, not the often misleading evidence of the senses, should be used in making judgments.☒ Ripa, Maser Edition at ☒☒☒. Richardson's ☒☒☒☒ edition retains the blindfold and notes ☒She is sitting with a bandage over her eyes. The white robes and bandage over her eyes, allude to incorrupt justice, disregarding every interested view, by distributing of justice with rectitude and purity of mind, and protecting the innocent.☒ Ripa, Richardson Edition, vol. ☒ at ☒☒. See also Overdiep at ☒☒☒ and n. ☒.

115 Ripa, Padua–☒☒☒☒ at ☒☒☒; Ripa, Padua–☒☒☒☒, vol. ☒ at ☒☒☒. See also the discussion of Aulus Gellius in Chapter ☒ and Ziolkowski's translation of the Gellius description (☒uminibus oculorum acribus☒) as giving Justicia a ☒piercing gaze☒ Ziolkowski, The ☒ti☒ure of Justice at ☒☒☒.

116 Ripa, Padua–☒☒☒☒ at ☒☒☒.

117 This passage can be found in both the ☒☒☒☒ (at ☒☒☒) and the ☒☒☒☒ (at ☒☒☒) editions from Padua under the description of Justice (☒Giustitia☒).

118 Dutch Ripa–☒☒☒☒ at ☒☒☒; Ripa, Maser Edition at ☒☒☒; Ripa, Richardson Edition, vol. ☒ at ☒☒.

119 Ripa, Padua–☒☒☒☒ at ☒☒☒. The Latin version of Alciatus quoted by Ripa☒ ☒Ius hic forma monet dictum sine sordibus esse Defunctum, puras aiq; habuisse mansus☒☒ can be translated: ☒In the image he advises that the Dead Man held court without filth, and that he had clean hands☒ (translation by Nicholas Salazar). The ☒☒☒☒ Ripa, written in French, could be understood as saying (at ☒☒): ☒A good judge must be pure of soul and clean of hands, if he wishes to punish crime and avenge injury.☒

120 Panofsky, Blind Cupid at ☒☒☒, n. ☒☒.

121 Panofsky, Blind Cupid at ☒☒☒, n. ☒☒

122 Panofsky, Blind Cupid at ☒☒☒, n. ☒☒. Panofsky argued that valorization of the blindfold was a ☒questionable concept ☒that☒ did not appeal to classical antiquity, which, on the contrary, ☒had☒ imagined Justice with piercing and awe-inspiring eyes☒ (A. Gellius, Noctes ☒tti☒cae, XIV, ☒). Id.

123 See Jay at ☒☒–☒☒.

124 See, for example, ☒saiah ☒☒:☒☒–☒☒:

> The man who lives an upright life and speaks the truth, > who scorns to enrich himself by extortion, > who snaps his fingers at a bribe, > who stops his ears to hear nothing of bloodshed, > who closes his eyes to the sight of evil☒ > that is the man who shall dwell on the heights . . . . .

In Psalm ☒☒☒:☒☒, the admonition is ☒turn away my eyes from all that is vile, / grant me life by thy word☒ Both quotes come from the New English Bible. See generally Almuth Seebohm, The Crucified Monk, ☒☒ J. Warburg ☒ Courtauld Inst. ☒☒ (☒☒☒☒).

125 Wind, ☒rpheus in Praise of Blind Love at ☒☒.

126 Ripa, Maser Edition at ☒☒☒ (quoting from page ☒☒☒ of a ☒☒☒☒ edition of Ripa).

127 Martin Jay noted that by ☒☒☒☒ the blindfold had ☒lost its satirical implication☒ (at ☒☒), but as we discuss here and in Chapters ☒ and ☒, the blindfold has some edginess. Moreover, we do not share Jay's presumption that blindfolds became typical of Justice. See Jay at ☒☒.

128 Philip Galle's engraving, published by Hieronymus Cock in either ☒☒☒☒ or ☒☒☒☒, is after Bruegel's original drawing of about ☒☒☒☒. See Scales and Sword at ☒☒☒, fig. ☒☒. This image is one of fourteen drawings for engravings, all of which are preserved, signed and dated between ☒☒☒☒ and ☒☒☒☒. All were done in Antwerp, and they have inspired a significant literature aimed at interpreting their import. See Charles de Tolnay, The Drawings of Pieter Bruegel the Elder with a Critical Catalogue (New York, NY: Twin Editions, ☒☒☒☒); Irving L. Zupnick, Brue☒el and the ☒evolt of the Netherlands, ☒☒ Art Journal ☒☒☒ (☒☒☒☒); Nina Eugenia Serebrennikov, Pieter Bruegel The Elder's Series of ☒Virtues☒ and ☒Vices☒ (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art, U. of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, NC, ☒☒☒☒; UMI Publication No.: AAT ☒☒☒☒☒☒☒); Lionello Puppi, Torment in Art: Pain, Violence and Martyrdom at ☒☒–☒☒ (New York, NY: Rizzoli, ☒☒☒☒). The original drawings are in the Print Room of the Biblioth☒que Royale Albert ☒er, in Brussels. Id. at ☒☒.

129 Figure ☒☒, the Galle etching after the drawing by Pieter Bruegel the Elder, comes from the Rosenwald Collection in the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., and is reproduced with permission of the Board of Trustees of the National Gallery.

130 See Edward Snow, Inside Bruegel: The Play of Images in Children's Games ☒☒–☒☒ (New York, NY: North Point Press, ☒☒☒☒).

131 Snow at ☒☒.

132 John H. Langbein, Torture and the Law of Proof: Europe and England in the Ancien Régime [illegible]–[illegible] (Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, [illegible], [illegible]d ed., [illegible]); Scales and Sword at [illegible], fig. [illegible].

133 This translation comes from Adriaan J. Barnouw, The Fantasy of Pieter Bruegel [illegible] (New York, NY: Lear Publishers, [illegible]). The inscription reads: [illegible]Scopus legis est; aut ut eum que[illegible]n[illegible] punit emendet, aut poena eius caeteros meliores reddet aut sublatis malis caeteri securiores vivant[illegible] Damhoudere's [illegible] book was translated into both Dutch and French; see Serebrennikov at xxiv–xx. A slightly different translation, provided by Serebrennikov at [illegible], is: [illegible]The aim of the law is that one may correct him whom one punishes or that one render others better by means of his punishment or that others may live more secure by the removal of the wicked[illegible] See also Puppi at [illegible]. We return to another volume of Damhoudere when discussing the image of a Janus-faced Justice.

134 Bruegel the Elder is assumed to have been born in the Netherlands around [illegible]. He lived in Antwerp, probably traveled to Italy, died in [illegible], and is buried in Brussels. His influences included Netherlandish art in general and Hieronymus Bosch specifically. See Perez Zagorin, Lookin[illegible] for Pieter Brue[illegible]el, [illegible]/[illegible] Journal of the History of Ideas [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

135 Walter S. Gibson, Bruegel [illegible] (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). See also Arthur H. Klein and Mina C. Klein, Pieter Bruegel the Elder, Artist of Abundance: An Illustrated Portrait of His Life, Era, and Art, [illegible] (New York, NY: Macmillan, [illegible]).

136 Barnouw at [illegible].

137 See Mitchell B. Merback, The Thief, The Cross and The Wheel: Pain and The Spectacle of Punishment in Medieval and Renaissance Europe [illegible]–[illegible] (Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, [illegible]); Samuel Y. Edgerton Jr., When [illegible]ven [illegible]rtists [illegible]ncoura[illegible]ed the Death Penalt[illegible]S[illegible]mposium on the [illegible]rt of [illegible]ecution, [illegible] Law and Literature [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

138 Zupnick at [illegible]. Details of the conflict in the Netherlands are part of our discussion of Gerard David's painting of Cambyses (figs. [illegible] and [illegible]) in Chapter [illegible].

139 See Puppi at [illegible]. Charles de Tolnay argued that Bruegel's Virtues series presented a [illegible]topsy-turvy world[illegible] in which various of the Virtues lack objects normally associated with them. Fides (Faith), for example, has no candle, and her face looks dark, and Justice is without her [illegible]cushion, symbol of mercy.[illegible] Tolnay at [illegible]–[illegible]. For a reading of Bruegel's Fides (Faith) as also a critique, see Philipp P. Fehl, Peculi[illegible]arities in the [illegible]elation of Te[illegible]t and [illegible]ma[illegible]e in Two Prints [illegible] Peter Brue[illegible]el, [illegible]–[illegible] North Carolina Museum of Art Bulletin [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). A parallel interpretation of the Temperance image[illegible] in which [illegible]intemperance and confusion reign[illegible] is found in Howard McParlin Davis, [illegible]antas[illegible] and [illegible]ron[illegible] in Peter Brue[illegible]el[illegible] Prints, [illegible] Metropolitan Museum of Art Bulletin [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Davis referenced Tolnay's research as informing some of his views. Id. at [illegible] (hereinfter Davis, [illegible]antas[illegible] and [illegible]ron[illegible]).

Bruegel also did a series of seven Vices (Greed, Gluttony, Pride, Lust, Envy, Sloth, and Anger), all depicted as women rather than, more conventionally, as men. Bruegel's Vices were set in fantastic scenes, while his Virtues were in places looking like the Netherlands or Antwerp. See Pieter Bruegel the Elder: Drawings and Prints, Catalogue for the Metropolitan Museum of Art [illegible] Exhibition at [illegible]–[illegible] (the Virtues) and at [illegible]–[illegible] (the Vices) (Nadine M. Orenstein, ed., New York, NY: The Metropolitan Museum of Art; New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Metropolitan Museum Bruegel Catalogue).

140 Zagorin at [illegible] (citing Pierre Francastel).

141 Snow, at [illegible], also noted that the [illegible]docile bodies . . . have been completely colonized by the governing apparatus[illegible] Tolnay, at [illegible], described the scene as having [illegible]only onlookers, torturers, and tortured, and the idea that it might be otherwise is entirely outside the realm of consciousness of this world without Nature[illegible] Alternatively, the works might be more quietly sarcastic. See also Jacques Lavalleye, Pieter Bruegel the Elder and Lucas Van Leyden: The Complete Engravings, Etchings and Woodcuts [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Harry Abrams, [illegible]).

For some of these interpretations, commentators draw on details such as the distance at which the cross stands, on the hill behind the man shown dangling from ropes, whereas the robed priest closer to the foreground is not wearing a cross. Further, seventeen shields of the various provinces line the walls of the City Hall but are skewed rather than upright. Our colleague, Peter Schuck, has argued one other interpretation[illegible] that the image represents the marginality of law, unable to control either human vitality or cruelty.

142 Davis, [illegible]antas[illegible] and [illegible]ron[illegible] at [illegible]. Davis thought it customary for Justices to be shown with a bed, [illegible]symbolical of the repose the judge needs to prepare his sentence[illegible] and a pillow, [illegible]of pity, which tempers justice[illegible] Id.

143 Zupnick at [illegible].

144 See Metropolitan Museum Bruegel Catalogue at [illegible] (noting that this scene, like that of others of the Virtues, could constitute a [illegible]pointed criticism[illegible]).

145 Figure [illegible], provided by Mike Widener, Rare Book Librarian, and reproduced with permission of the Rare Book Collection of the Lillian Goldman Law Library, Yale Law School, is from a [illegible] edition of Pra[illegible]is rerum civilium (Le[illegible]al Practice in Civil Matters). The [illegible] edition has a few other woodcuts, including a portrait of the author and some pictures representing different stages of civil proceedings. Although sometimes mentioned as a frontispiece, the image in figure [illegible] does not occupy that position in the volume. One might characterize it as an emblem of the sort used by Alciatus.

146 In terms of these opening pages, the cover page indicates that the book is a Dutch translation of a Latin text on [illegible]Methods in Civil Law, Essential for all Bailiffs, Mayors, Magistrates, and other Judges. Described by Joost de Damhoudere of Bruges, Knight and Doctor of Law and Ordinaris of his Majesty Karl the Fifth[illegible]an edition from [illegible] by G. V. Hertevelt. The cover page further detailed that permission to print and distribute the volume in the United Netherlands had been provided to the publishing house, which forbade reproduction in whole or part. Damhoudere then proceeded to call for government regulation of trials as well as for sanctions for frivolous misuse of the judicial system.

147 First published in [illegible], the Pra[illegible]is rerum civilium was subsequently published in Venice in [illegible] and in Antwerp in [illegible] and [illegible], and then republished in [illegible] as part of Damhoudere's collected works. Editions were also published in French in [illegible]; in Dutch in [illegible], [illegible], and [illegible]; and in German several times in the sixteenth century. We have not located an English translation. We are therefore indebted to Nicholas Salazar for translation of the Latin (hereinafter Damhoudere[illegible]Sala[illegible]ar) and to Chavi Keeney Nana for translation of the Dutch. All of the material quoted in the text comes from the Salazar translation of the [illegible] Latin version that is in the Yale Rare Book Room, and the Salazar translation is available through the Yale Law Library website and the Yale University Press website. The authorship of the woodcut itself is not clear, but from the accompanying text it appears that Damhoudere directed the design.

148 See John H. Langbein, The [illegible]istorical [illegible]ri[illegible]ins of the Sanction of [illegible]mprisonment for Serious Crime, [illegible] Journal of Legal History [illegible], [illegible], n. [illegible] ([illegible]). Damhoudere also wrote a book called Pupillorum patrocinium (Antwerp, [illegible]) on the law of guardianship of wards.

149 Kissel provided a picture from a [illegible] edition. See Kissel at [illegible], plate [illegible] (described as a Janus-faced Justice with sword and scale, [illegible]illustration by Jodocus Damhouder in Pra[illegible]is [illegible]erum Civilium [illegible]Antwerp [illegible]); Jacob, at [illegible] (fig. [illegible]), identifying the image as [illegible]La Justice aux deux visages, l'un voile et l'autre aux yeux ouverts (frontispice de J. de Damhoudere, Pra[illegible]is rerum civilium . . . , Anvers, [illegible]); Jay at [illegible]–[illegible] (fig. [illegible]) (showing a copy described as [illegible]Justice with two faces, one veiled, the other with eyes open, frontispiece of the J. de Damhoudere, Praxis rerum civilium . . . Anvers, [illegible]). Martin Jay, for example, wrote that [illegible]the first [illegible]face[illegible] has eyes that are wide open, able to discern difference, alterity, and nonidentity, looking in the direction of the hand that wields her sword, while the second, facing the hand holding the calculating scales of rule-governed impartiality, has eyes that are veiled[illegible] He then posited that [illegible]for only the image of a two-faced deity, a hybrid, monstrous creature that we can in fact see, an allegory that resists subsumption under a general concept, only such an image can do, as it were, justice to the negative, even perhaps aporetic, dialectic that entangles law and justice itself[illegible] Jay at [illegible].

150 The dog is not labeled, and it could be decorative or perhaps evocative of friendship and loyalty.

151 [illegible]Iustitia est virtus, qua tribuitur unicuique quod suum est.[illegible] Damhoudere[illegible]Sala[illegible]ar.

152 Damhoudere[illegible]Sala[illegible]ar.

153 For example, Damhoudere copied some of Psalm [illegible] ([illegible]Deliver me from bloodshed, O God[illegible]) as an explication of his title [illegible]The Justice of the Master.[illegible]

154 Moreover, God can [illegible]hear the cry of a cause[illegible] (or case) even when [illegible]the oppressed themselves do not call out.[illegible] Damhoudere[illegible] Sala[illegible]ar.

155 The text is an adaptation of [illegible]odus [illegible]:[illegible]. See Chapter [illegible], fig. [illegible].

156 Ovid, who lived from [illegible] BCE to [illegible] CE, wrote:

> Look Germanicus, Janus proclaims a happy year
> For you and is present to start my song.
> Two-headed Janus, source of the silent-gliding year,
> Who alone of the gods see your own back,
> Be present for our leaders, whose labours secure
> Peace for the teeming earth, peace for the ocean.
> Be present for your senators and Quirinus' folk;
> Unlock our gleaming temples with your nod. . . .
> Yet what god am I to call you, biformed Janus[illegible]
> For Greece has no deity like you.
> Produce the reason why you are the only god
> To see what is behind and what is ahead . . . .
> [illegible]Janus replied:[illegible]
> The ancients (since I'm a primitive thing) called me > Chaos, . . .
> Then I, who had been a ball and a faceless hulk,
> Got the looks and limbs proper to a god.
> Now, as a small token of my once confused shape,
> My front and back appear identical. . . .
> The vast world's safekeeping belongs to me alone;
> Only I have the right to turn its hinge. . . .
> Every door has two fronts, this side and that:
> . . .
> Just as your janitor seated by the threshold
> Watches the exits and entrances,
> So I the [illegible]*an*itor of the celestial court
> Observe the East and the West together.

Ovid, Fasti I, January [illegible] (Kalends), excerpts from lines [illegible]–[illegible] (emphasis in the original) (Anthony J. Boyle [illegible] Roger D. Woodard, trans. and eds., London, Eng.: Penguin Books, [illegible]).

157 Boyle and Woodard at [illegible]. They noted that [illegible]varying interpretations in antiquity[illegible] addressed the significance of the open and closed doors, including that during peace the closed doors held war back, or that closed doors denoted that people were safe inside. [illegible]Ovid has it both ways[illegible] Id. See also Ronald Syme, Pro[illegible]lems a[illegible]out Janus, [illegible] American Journal of Philology [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Syme collected other classical sources on Janus and tracked the variations related to the opening and closing of the gates.

158 Others have puzzled about why the blindfold gained a positive valence during the late sixteenth century and the seventeenth. Kissel argued that when Justice, who had earlier denoted a goddess of supranatural dimensions, became incorporated in secularized spaces, her separation from other Virtues [illegible]brought her to earth[illegible] He thought that the blindfold came to represent a neutrality and distance previously enjoyed by virtue of the abstraction, even as he also noted that the overwhelming majority of visual art depictions of Justice continue to show her with open eyes. Kissel at [illegible]–[illegible].

159 The artist is identified as Gaspard Heuvick. A nineteenth-century engraving is reproduced and described in Juliaan H. A. Ridder, Gerechtigheidstaferelen Voor Schepenhuizen in de Zuidelijke Nederlanden in de [illegible]de, [illegible]de, en [illegible]de Eeuw (Images of Justice in Courthouses in the Southern Netherlands in the [illegible]th, [illegible]th, and [illegible]th Centuries) fig. [illegible] (Brussels, Belg.: Paleis der Academi[illegible]n, [illegible]). Pleister and Schild, who note that Justice can be found in a few depictions in the ranks of the Theological Virtues of Faith, Hope, and Charity, identify the figures to Justice's left and right as Piety and Aequitas, explained as denoting honesty and fair dealing. Yet another alternative for the woman with the mirror and a snake is Wisdom. See Pleister and Schild at [illegible], fig. [illegible].

160 See Susan Tipton, Res publica bene ordinata: Regentenspiegel und Bilder vom guten Regiment, Rathausdekorationen in der Fr[illegible]hen Neuzeit (The Well-Ordered Public Sphere: Images of Sovereignty and Pictures of Good Government, Town Hall Decoration in the Early Modern Period) [illegible], fig. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Hildesheim, Ger.: Georg Olms Verlag, [illegible]). Figure [illegible] shows The Personification of Justice by Jakob Züberlin, [illegible]. The image was restored around [illegible], covered by another oil painting in [illegible], and uncovered and restored in [illegible].

161 Tipton at [illegible], fig. [illegible], and discussion at [illegible]–[illegible]. Near the inscription is the date of a [illegible] restoration, which thus raises the possibility of a change in text at that time. Another sculpted blindfolded Justice, from [illegible], is at the Münster Town Hall. Kissel at [illegible], fig. [illegible].

162 Between the text and this note, we catalogue those of which we are aware. In some instances these blindfolded images are ambiguous and in others more obviously celebratory. Examples of blindfolded Justices in Kissel include a [illegible] Naked Justice Blindfoldin[illegible] the [illegible]mperor (Kissel at [illegible], fig. [illegible]); a [illegible] image of a blindfolded Justice labeled Justitia von [illegible]ir[illegible]il Solis (Justice [illegible] ir[illegible]il Solis) (Solis, born in [illegible], was one of Nuremberg's most prolific book illustrators and printmakers) (id. at [illegible], fig. [illegible]); a [illegible] Justice wearing a blindfold and sitting on top of the globe, described by Kissel as [illegible]Justice, sitting on a globe, litigants stand on her left and right [illegible]the scales of Justice tilt towards the side of the poor and oppressed'[illegible]) (id. at [illegible], fig. [illegible]); a [illegible] Frankfurt image of Justice blindfolded, her sword behind her head and scales near to the ground (id. at [illegible], fig. [illegible]); a reconstruction of a [illegible] Justice with a blindfold partially obscuring her sight, a sword raised high in her left hand and scales in her right, placed in an alcove of the arcade above the old Cologne Town Hall (id. at [illegible], fig. [illegible]). Another less well-clad but otherwise similarly outfitted Justice, by Benedikt Walzelbauer and dated to the [illegible]s, is on a fountain outside the St. Lorenz Church in Nuremberg. Id. at [illegible], fig. [illegible]. A few blindfolded Justices appear as stone statutes in front of town halls; their covered eyes are, we presume, meant to be valued. Already noted from Kissel is the [illegible] statue at the Old Town Hall in Cologne. In addition are a [illegible] Justice in Nurenberg (at [illegible], fig. [illegible]), and the replica of a [illegible] Justice on the Münster Rathaus (at [illegible], fig. [illegible]). Some Justices of this early period wear diaphanous blindfolds through which one can see Justice's eyes, sometimes open, sometimes closed, and sometimes not clearly either. See Jost Amman, Justitia, Sittin[illegible] top the World (ca. [illegible]) (Kissel at [illegible], plate [illegible]); Hans von Steenwinkel, Justitia (ca. [illegible]), stained glass in the Emden Town Hall, West Germany (Kissel at [illegible], plate [illegible]).

Another often reproduced image is Jacob Jordaens's Das men[illegible] schliche [illegible] eset[illegible]asiert auf dem [illegible]ttlichen ([illegible] uman Law [illegible]ounded on the Divine), showing a woman looking through a thin veil, with a tablet nearby and a sword and scales held by a winged male angel who is either handing them to her or taking them away. Aaron and Moses are nearby, and on the Commandment-shaped tablets are excerpts from Deuteronom[illegible]:[illegible] that (in the King James Bible) reads: [illegible]And I charged your judges at the time, saying Hear the causes between your brethren and judge righteously between every man and his brother, and the stranger that is with him[illegible] The painting, now at the Royal Museum of Fine Arts in Antwerp, Belgium, was given by the artist to the St. Lucas Guild in [illegible], and the museum literature has described it as a critique of the political and religious situation of the era. This image is the frontispiece to Pleister [illegible] Schild; see also Scales and Sword at [illegible]–[illegible], fig. [illegible].

Another example of an ambiguous deployment that relies on a diaphanous blindfold is a print aimed at criticizing Spanish rule. In [illegible]ices [illegible]ule the World[illegible]Truth and Justice Sleep, by Theodor de Bry, circa [illegible], one can see[illegible] because of a diaphanous blindfold[illegible] that Justice's eyes are closed. Her skewed scales are touching the ground, and nearby Truth also has her eyes closed. A man depicting Vice has his hand on Justice's head. See James Tanis and Daniel Horst, Images of Discord: A Graphic Interpretation of the Opening Decades of the Eighty Years' War [illegible]–[illegible] (Grand Rapids, MI: William B. Eerdmans in arrangement with Bryn Mawr College, [illegible]). Yet other diaphanous blindfolds can be found in designs for stained glass windows in northern Europe in the collection of the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, England. See Dennis E. Curtis and Judith Resnik, [illegible]na[illegible]es of Justice, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible], [illegible], fig. [illegible] ([illegible]) (Christopher Murer, Design for a Swiss Stained Glass Window, [illegible]). As this overview suggests, the see-through blindfolds of which we are aware come from northern Europe. The ambiguity of the blindfold is further explored and depicted in Chapters [illegible] and [illegible].

163 Scales and Sword at [illegible], fig. [illegible].

164 See Wim G. M. Cerutti, Het Stadhuis van Haarlem: Hart van de Stad (The City Hall of Haarlem: Heart of the City) [illegible]–[illegible] (Haarlem, Neth.: Gottmer/Schuyt, [illegible]). These materials and the other Dutch works referenced were translated for us by Chavi Keeney Nana. The architect for the renovations was Haarlem's Salomon de Braij, and the statue was by sculptor Jan Louverissen. The interior included the Jan de Braij Jud[illegible]ment of [illegible]aleucus, a graphic [illegible] painting showing a man about to extract one of Zaleucus's eyes. A group, including a Justice holding scales and sword, is looking on. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

165 A painting by Theordorus Vander Schuer is described by a Hague City archivist as having [illegible]the eye of Justice[illegible] appearing [illegible]high on the heavens while the sun rising is shining at the base. The blindfolded Lady Justice is depicted directly beneath it with a sword and two angels, one holding fasces and the other holding the legal tablets[illegible] See J. C. Herpel, Het oude Raadhuis van's Gravenhage, Deel I and Deel II (The Old City Hall of The Hague, Parts I and II), [illegible]–[illegible], fig. [illegible] (pt. I), and [illegible], fig. [illegible] (pt. II) ('s Gravenhage, Neth.: Uitgave van de Gemeente, [illegible]). A painting called [illegible]lle[illegible]or[illegible]of the [illegible]ame of [illegible]mster[illegible]dam, by Gerard de Lairesse, shows a blindfolded Justice near the Maid of [illegible]msterdam. See Jan Peeters, Peter C. Sutton, Eymert-Jan Goossens, [illegible] Deirdre Carasso, The Royal Palace of Amsterdam in Paintings of the Golden Age [illegible] (Royal Palace, Zwolle, Neth.: Waanders Publishers, [illegible]).

166 See, for example, the [illegible] frontispiece for Thronus Justitiae, by Joachim Wtewael, reproduced in Van der Velden, Cam[illegible]ses for [illegible]ample at [illegible]. See also Scales and Sword at [illegible], fig. [illegible], reproducing the engraving and poem, titled Who [illegible]s This [illegible]oddess[illegible] in which a partially blindfolded Justice, with scales and sword, is near scenes of Zaleucus and Cambyses. The accompanying poem includes the lines [illegible]Why have her eyes been blind-folded you are asked / Because neither tears nor gifts will move her.[illegible]

A [illegible] bookplate by Hans Hellwig for Blasius Hellwig shows a Justice with a blindfold over most of her eyes and holding scales and sword. See Hans-Joachim Kretz, Exlibris f[illegible]r Juristen [illegible], [illegible], fig. [illegible] (Munich, Ger.: Verlag C. H. Beck, [illegible]). In addition, a [illegible] engraving by Gerhard Altzenbach of the Town Hall of the Free City of Cologne, dedicated by the artist to that city's council, also showed a blindfolded Justice, again with scales and sword, drawn floating in a space above the building itself. Tipton at [illegible], fig. [illegible], and text at [illegible]–[illegible]. Pleister and Shield provide a few other images of blindfolded Justices, not all of which are dated. See, for example, Pleister and Shield at [illegible], fig. [illegible] (an allegory of Justice from Basil); [illegible], fig. [illegible] (a Metsu Justice from the seventeenth century); [illegible], fig. [illegible] (a blindfolded Justice from [illegible] by Joseph Weiner, in the Bern Museum).

167 See Scales and Sword at [illegible], fig. [illegible]; [illegible], fig. [illegible]; [illegible], fig. [illegible]; [illegible], fig. [illegible].

168 Robert at [illegible]–[illegible].

169 Tarot, which appears to have been a game invented in Italy, was popular there and in France and Switzerland in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and then spread north and east in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. See Michael Dummett, The Visconti-Sforza Tarot Cards [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: George Braziller, [illegible]). Card packs had kings, knights, queens, Temperance, Justice, Fortitude, Fortune, and many other personifications. In the reproductions of various sets of cards, Justice is usually shown with sword and scales but not blindfolded. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. On the other hand, the woman at the center of the [illegible]Wheel of Fortune[illegible] is blindfolded. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. Other sets showed the imagery somewhat differently, but in the reproductions we have located, all the Justices are clear-sighted. See, for example, [illegible]Tarocchi[illegible] Menschenwelt und Kosmos: Landenspelder, D[illegible]rer and die [illegible]Tarock-Karten des Mantegna[illegible] ([illegible]Tarocchi[illegible] Earth and Cosmos: Landenspelder, D[illegible]rer, and the [illegible]Magenta Tarot Cards[illegible]) [illegible]–[illegible] (fig. [illegible]); [illegible]–[illegible] (fig. [illegible]); [illegible] (fig. [illegible]) (Uwe Westfehling, ed., Cologne, Ger.: Wallraf-Richartz-Museum der Stadt Koln, [illegible]) (hereinafter Westfehling Catalogue). Stella Burch Elias provided us with translation.

170 One source is a series of photos of seventeenth-century German buildings. See Karl Emil Otto Fritsch, Denkmaeler Deutscher Renaissance: [illegible] Tafeln mit Erlaeuternden Text (Monuments of the German Renaissance: [illegible] Plates with Explanatory Text) (Berlin, Ger.: Wasmuth, [illegible]) (unpaginated). Justice was often the sole or specially situated Virtue used to mark a city's town hall. All came with scales and sword, but many Justices did not have blindfolds. Examples include pictures from Bremen, Danzig, G[illegible]rlitz, Halberstadt, and Wittenberg.

171 Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. [illegible] at emblem [illegible] and motto (from the [illegible] German version).

172 Alciatus, Daly Edition, vol. [illegible] at emblem [illegible] and motto (from a French edition of [illegible]).

173 See Tipton at [illegible], fig. [illegible].

174 Ripa, Padua–[illegible] at [illegible].

175 The detail of Justice in figure [illegible] is reproduced with permission of Scala / Art Resource, New York. It sits in a room that has spawned a scholarly debate about its original purpose, its import, and who painted the frescoes aiming to convey what messages. The contemporary consensus, relying on both the iconography and an understanding of other major libraries of the era, is that it was first used as the personal library of Pope Julius. See Christiane L. Joost-Gaugier, Raphael's Stanza Della Segnatura: Meaning and Invention [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention). See also Christiane L. Joost-Gaugier, The Concord of Law in the Stan[illegible]a della Se[illegible]natura, [illegible] Artibus et Historiae [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Joost-Gaugier, The Concord of Law); James Beck, Raphael: The Stanza Della Segnatura (New York, NY: George Braziller, [illegible]); Luitpold Dussler, Raphael: A Critical Catalogue of His Pictures, Wall-Paintings, and Tapestries [illegible]–[illegible] (London, Eng.: Phaedon, [illegible]); John Shearman, The [illegible]atican Stan[illegible]e[illegible]unctions and Decorations, Proceedings of the British Academy, vol. [illegible] (London, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]); D. Redig de Campos, The [illegible]Stanze[illegible] of Raphael (Rome, Ital.: Del Turco Editore, [illegible]); Edgar Wind, The [illegible]our [illegible]le[illegible]ments in [illegible]aphael[illegible] [illegible]Stan[illegible]a della Se[illegible]natura,[illegible] J. Warburg [illegible] Courtauld Inst. [illegible] ([illegible]). For a view, based in part on comparisons with other paper libraries, that the room did not have that original use, see James E. Callaghan, Reason and Faith in the Renaissance: The Stanza Della Segnatura (Ph.D. dissertation, Temple U., Philadelphia, PA, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]).

From the eighth century through the nineteenth (and the unification of Italy in [illegible]), the popes had both territorial authority and legal authority for members of their church. As one scholar put it, beginning at the end of the seventh century, [illegible]a series of resolute and like-minded popes acting in concert with the local Roman nobility deliberately emancipated central Italy from the Byzantine Empire and transformed the region into a genuine state, the Republic of St. Peter[illegible] which obtained protection from the then-new Carolingian monarchy. See Thomas F. X. Noble, The Republic of St. Peter: The Birth of the Papal State [illegible], xxi (Philadelphia, PA: U. of Pennsylvania Press, [illegible]). The State of the Vatican City gained distinct recognition as a sovereignty through the Lateran Treaty of [illegible]; see Hyginus Eugene Cardinale, The Holy See and the International Order [illegible] (Gerrards Cross, Eng.: Colin Smythe, [illegible]).

176 Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible] and plate IX. The images on the Jurisprudence wall, [illegible]representing the Law[illegible] are Tri[illegible]onian [illegible]andin[illegible] the Pandects to Justinian, [illegible]re[illegible]or[illegible] [illegible]eceivin[illegible] the Decretals, and the Three Cardinal [illegible]irtues or (according to Joost-Gaugier) the Three [illegible]races. Id. at [illegible]. Also seen are the Jud[illegible]ment of [illegible]aleucus, Moses [illegible]ivin[illegible] the Laws to the Jewish People, and Solon [illegible]ivin[illegible] the Laws to the [illegible]thenians. Callaghan at [illegible]. [illegible]As virtually all scholars agree, the divided south wall of the Stanza . . . offers a balance of Civic Law and Canon Law as its subjects to the left and right respectively[illegible] Joost-Gaugier, The Concord of Law at [illegible]. The frescoes on the other walls are [illegible]the Disputa, representing Theology, the School of [illegible]thens, representing Philosophy, [illegible]and[illegible]the Parnassus, representing Poetry.[illegible] Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible].

177 See Dussler at [illegible]. Writing in the mid-sixteenth century, Vasari was another source. Giorgio Vasari, Lives of the Artists, vol. [illegible], [illegible] (George Bull, trans., New York, NY: Penguin Books, [illegible]). Returning to the discussion about the identity of figures [illegible], [illegible], and [illegible] in Chapter [illegible], Joost-Gaugier (Meanin[illegible] and [illegible]nvention at [illegible]) reads them to be the three Graces and not the other Cardinal Virtues.

178 Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible]. The inscription ius suum unicuique tribuens is attributed to Plato by Joost-Gaugier, and according to Callaghan, it came [illegible]from the introduction to Justinian's Decretals, but is based upon Justinian's definition of Justice in the Corpus [illegible]uris Civilis: [illegible]Justice is the constant and perpetual desire to render to each man his right.' [illegible] Callaghan at [illegible], n. [illegible]. See also Dussler at [illegible].

179 In the other medallions of Theology, Philosophy, and Poetry, putti also hold Latin letters. Dussler identified them, respectively as: divinar/rer, noti/tia (from Justinian); cavsa/rvm, cogni/tio (from Virgil's Georgica II); and nvmi/ne, affla /tvr (from Virgil's [illegible]eneid). Dussler at [illegible]. Joost-Gaugier, in Meanin[illegible] and [illegible]nvention at [illegible], read the inscription for Philosophy to suggest that [illegible]knowledge of things leads to the primary cause, or God[illegible] and cites Cicero as the likely source; she posited the text for Theology as a reference to Plato, suggesting that [illegible]to learn the things of God is to have knowledge of the Divine.[illegible]

180 Dussler at [illegible]; Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible].

181 Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible].

182 Joost-Gaugier, The Concord of Law at [illegible] (noting that Pope Julius saw himself as [illegible]a descendent of the Caesars[illegible]); Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible] (suggesting that Julius is [illegible]conflated[illegible] with Apollo as well as linked to the Old Testament through the frescoes of the Judgment of Solomon). She noted that [illegible]ample precedent[illegible] in Italian art existed for depictions of Justice but that no rich tradition of [illegible]narratival scenes[illegible] then existed. The Concord of Law at [illegible].

183 See also Shearman at [illegible] (arguing that the popes sought to promote their [illegible]New Style of Government[illegible] and the [illegible]benefits such as Peace, Commerce, and Law[illegible] that flowed from it). Shearman also believed that Julius used the space as a [illegible]semi-public and institutional[illegible] passage. Id. at [illegible].

184 Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible]. See also Joost-Gaugier, The Concord of Law at [illegible]. She argued that Pope Julius was threatened by King Louis XII of France, who, with the support of Emperor Maximilian I, wanted to depose Julius. By the time the frescoes were finished, the Pope had gained a more secure footing. In terms of the intellectual resources for this effort, given the Pope's lack of knowledge of Greek, she cited the work of his librarian, Tommaso Inghirami, as an enormous influence on Raphael's frescoes. Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible], [illegible].

185 Joost-Gaugier, Meaning and Invention at [illegible].

186 See also Edgar Wind, Platonic Justice, Des[illegible]ned [illegible] [illegible]aphael, [illegible] J. Warburg [illegible] Courtauld Inst. [illegible] ([illegible]). Wind stated that the [illegible]riddle[illegible] in the arrangement of depicting Justice above the figures whom he identified as Prudence, Fortitude, and Temperance was that, according to Plato's [illegible]epu[illegible]lic, when in search of Justice, Socrates encountered the other three but not Justice, who was [illegible]not a particular virtue juxtaposed[illegible] to the others but [illegible]that fundamental power in the soul which assigns to each of them their particular function[illegible] Id. at [illegible], referencing Plato's [illegible]epu[illegible]lic, bk. [illegible], [illegible].

187 See Nancy Rash-Fabbri, [illegible] Note on the Stan[illegible]a della Se[illegible]natura, [illegible], [illegible] Gazette des Beaux-Arts [illegible] ([illegible]).

188 Because the Justice sits at the level of the disciplines (Poetry, Theology, and Philosophy), she could also be read as Jurisprudence. The ceiling imagery is also a source for the identification of the room as once a library; the four disciplines were the system by which books were organized. See Shearman at [illegible] (also noting that the lack of a fireplace indicated that the room was designed as a library).

189 Figure [illegible] was provided courtesy of the Library of Congress. Four rooms in the Vatican bear the name of Raphael. Three[illegible] the Stanza della Segnatura, Stanza d'Eliodoro, and Stanza dell'Incendio[illegible] are each about the same size, ten meters. The fourth, the Sala di Constantine, is [illegible]more spacious.[illegible] De Campos, appendix at [illegible]; Jean-Pierre Cuzin, Raphael: His Life and Works [illegible] (Sarah Brown, trans., Secaucus, NJ: Chartwell Books, [illegible]).

190 Romano, who lived from [illegible] to [illegible], was born in Rome. After completing work in the Vatican he also did projects for the Duke of Mantua. See Michael Jaffl[illegible], [illegible]u[illegible]ens and [illegible] iulio [illegible]omano at Mantua, [illegible] The Art Bulletin [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Richard Aste, [illegible] iulio [illegible]omano and [illegible] is master, [illegible]aphael, in Richard Aste, Janet Cox-Rearick, and Bertha and Karl Leubsdorf Art Gallery, Guilio Romano, Master Designer: An Exhibition of Drawings in Celebration of the Five Hundredth Anniversary of His Birth [illegible] (New York, NY: Bertha and Karl Leubsdorf Art Gallery, Hunter College of the City U. of New York; Seattle, WA: U. of Washington Press, [illegible]); Frederick Hartt, [illegible]aphael and [illegible] iulio [illegible]omano[illegible]With Notes on the [illegible]aphael School, [illegible] Art Bulletin [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Hartt, [illegible]aphael and [illegible]omano); Frederick Hartt, Giulio Romano (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]). Giorgio Vasari devoted a segment to Romano in Lives of the Painters, Sculptors and [illegible]rchitects, vol. [illegible], [illegible] (London, Eng.: J. M. Dent [illegible] Sons; New York, NY: E. P. Dutton, Everyman's Library, [illegible]). The attribution is made by several commentators. See De Campos, appendix at [illegible] (also commenting that none of the room's decoration painted from [illegible] was by the [illegible]master[illegible] Raphael, and that (unfortunately) it showed how little [illegible]Raphael's pupils were capable of without the guidance of the master[illegible]). Others see more of the [illegible]master's[illegible] hand. See Phillipp P. Fehl, [illegible]aphael as a [illegible] istorian[illegible]Poetr[illegible] and [illegible] istorical Accurac in the Sala di Costantino, ⍰⍰ Artibus et Historiae ⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Fehl, Raphael as Historian).

191 Depicted are stories related to Constantine, including his baptism, his address to his troops, a battle, and the ⍰triumph of Christianity over the pagan world⍰ The frescoes are ⍰all painted as if they were tapestries with flapping edges.⍰ De Campos at ⍰⍰. In addition to Justice, other Virtues (Moderation and Comity) are depicted, as are emblems of Popes Leo X and Clement VII. Id. at ⍰⍰. Other Virtues depicted include Innocence, Truth, Prudence, and Peace. See Fehl, Raphael as Historian at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. Their placement is part of a pictorial array in which ⍰each corner of the room is treated as if constructed in stone⍰ with ⍰fictitious architecture⍰ creating niches and podia. Each niche is topped by a canopy, and under ⍰each canopy a figure of a pope, flanked by two angels, is seated on a low chair, which is generally hidden behind his flowing garments⍰ See Hartt, Raphael and Romano at ⍰⍰. On the podia stand male and female caryatid figures, and on each ⍰secondary podium⍰ are seated Virtues. Id.

192 To the Justice's left is the Battle of Constantine and Maxentius at the Milvian Bridge (also called the Victor⍰ of Constantine over Maxentius), the ⍰only extended Central Italian High Renaissance battle piece.⍰ John Pope-Hennessy, Raphael ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ and figure ⍰⍰⍰ (New York, NY: New York U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Depicted to the right, seated higher than Justice, is Pope Urban I, who has Charity on his other side. Hartt, Raphael and Romano at fig. ⍰⍰ (unnumbered page between ⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰). Urban I appears to point ⍰towards both Iustitia, with scales and an ostrich⍰ and Charity, with her ⍰three suckling children⍰ thereby linking and justifying the ⍰papal plenitude of power⍰ by means of a Cardinal and a Theological Virtue. See Loren Partridge, ⍰eview of ⍰olf ⍰uednau, Die Sala di Costantino in ⍰atikanischen Palast, ⍰⍰ Art Bulletin ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

193 See Liana de Girolami Cheney, ⍰ior⍰io ⍰asari⍰ ⍰straea⍰⍰ S⍰m⍰ol of Justice, ⍰⍰ Visual Resources ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (noting that a drawing, circa ⍰⍰⍰⍰, for a Justice in the Sala dei Cento of the Palazzo della Cancelleria in Rome showed her with fasces, ostrich, shield, scepter, and lion). In addition to the Luca Giordano renditions, an ostrich also sits in an eighteenth-century oil painting, ⍰n ⍰lle⍰or⍰ of the Justice and Peace, painted by Corrado Giaquinto at the behest of King Ferdinand VI. Giaquinto, appointed in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ as King Ferdinand's ⍰First Painter⍰ executed sketches and two large-scale versions, one of which hangs in the Academy of Fine Arts in Madrid, Spain. The ⍰lle⍰ ⍰or⍰, painted soon after Giaquinto assumed his official duties, celebrated the new Bourbon ruler's authority and the prosperity, peace, and justice flowing from his rule.

194 This text can be found in the Padua editions from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Ripa, Padua–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰ and Ripa, Padua–⍰⍰⍰⍰, vol. ⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰. As the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Dutch edition explained: ⍰The ostrich shows that, although the lessons of the law are sometimes difficult to decipher, one must always try to uncover the true meaning of justice and the law.⍰ Dutch Ripa–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰.

195 See Beryl Rowland, Birds with Human Souls ⍰⍰⍰ (Knoxville, TN: U. of Tennessee Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

196 See Ripa, Padua–⍰⍰⍰⍰, vol. ⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰. In the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Padua edition as well as the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Richardson, the ostrich is also mentioned in relation to gluttony. The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Padua edition noted, at ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰Her ⍰right hand rests on an ostrich, an animal about which Alciato says: The ostrich is like those who never close their mouths and whose hunger is never satisfied⍰ In the English ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Richardson edition (vol. ⍰, fig. ⍰⍰⍰), the ostrich can be found under the entry ⍰Voracity⍰ because, according to Richardson, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ all the feathered tribe, the ostrich is the most voracious, it devours leather, grass, hair, stones, metals, or any thing that is given to it. This animal is perhaps obliged to fill up the great capacity of its stomach, in order to be at ease; and when nutritious substances are not to be obtained, it supplies the void with any thing that offers.⍰

197 Pinch at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

198 Virpi Harju, The ⍰rtistic ⍰aces of Justice, in Oikeuden Kuva: Bilden Av Ratten Och Rattvisan ⍰⍰⍰ (Helsinki, Fin.: Eduskunnan kirjasto, Valtion taidemuseo, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (translation provided by Kirsti Langbein).

199 Partridge at ⍰⍰⍰; Cheney at ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰, and n. ⍰⍰, citing Gombrich's ⍰tones S⍰m⍰olicae at ⍰⍰⍰. A second Hieroglypica was by Valeriano.

200 Cheney at ⍰⍰⍰ (and at ⍰⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰), citing Boas, ⍰ iero⍰⍰phics of ⍰ orapollo, under an entry ⍰A Man Who Distributes Justice Equality to All⍰ stated that the ostrich wing needed to be drawn because ⍰the ostrich has its wings more equally balanced than any other bird.⍰

201 Rowland at ⍰⍰⍰ (citing Horapollo's comment that ⍰the feather of an ostrich symbolized a man who distributed justice impartially, ⍰for this bird has the feathers of its wings equal on every side, beyond all other birds'⍰).

202 Cheney, ⍰ S⍰m⍰ol of Justice at ⍰⍰⍰.

203 Cheney at ⍰⍰⍰. In the Farnese ⍰straea painting, Justice has an ostrich that ⍰carries a load containing the tablets of the law on which the Roman numeral twelve is inscribed⍰ referring to the Ten Commandments plus the ⍰two books of civil and canonical institutions⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (quoting Vasari).

204 Letter from Vasari to his patron, Cardinal Farnese, quoted by Cheney at ⍰⍰⍰.

205 See Creighton Gilbert, ⍰The ⍰⍰⍰ ⍰eopened⍰ ⍰⍰ain, ⍰⍰ Art Bulletin ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

206 Millard Meiss, ⍰ vum Struthionis, in Studies in Art and Literature for Belle da Costa Greene ⍰⍰ (Dorothy Miner, ed., Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Other biblical references are examined by Arthur Walker-Jones in The So⍰called ⍰ strich in the ⍰ od Speeches in the Book of Jo⍰ ⍰Jo⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Biblica ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

207 Meiss at ⍰⍰ (discussing an egg in Mantegna's San Zeno altarpiece).

208 This explication comes from Spaightwood Galleries, http://www.spaightwoodgalleries.com/Pages/Giulio⍰Romano.html.

209 Francis Ames-Lewis, ⍰ar⍰ Medicean Devices, ⍰⍰ J. Warburg ⍰ Courtauld Inst. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Partridge at ⍰⍰⍰. The three feathers were said to represent the three Theological Virtues of Faith, Hope, and Charity. Ames-Lewis at ⍰⍰⍰. Others have argued that the feathers on the Medici ring came from a ⍰moulting falcon⍰ a symbol of the faithful. Id. See also Marilyn Perry, ⍰Candor ⍰laesvs⍰⍰The ⍰mpresa⍰ of Clement ⍰⍰⍰ and other Medici Devices in the ⍰atican Stan⍰e, ⍰⍰⍰ Burlington Magazine ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

210 Ames-Lewis at ⍰⍰⍰. But St. Gregory saw ostrich feathers as associated with hypocrites; falcon feathers denoted the faithful. Id. at n. ⍰⍰.

211 The series is documented in Éva Nyerges, ⍰ pere ⍰ iordanesche in ⍰ n⍰heria, ⍰⍰ Acta Historiae Artium ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Giordano, nicknamed ⍰Luca fa presto⍰ as well as ⍰Thunderbolt⍰ because he worked so quickly, was ⍰one of the most prolific painters who ever lived⍰ See Judith Colton, Luca ⍰ iordano, ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰, in A Taste for Angels: Neapolitan Painting in North America, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Art Gallery, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Our thanks to Professor Colton and Professor Wayne Meeks for helping us to understand these images, to Professor G⍰bor Hamza of the ELTE R⍰mai Jogi Tanszek in Budapest for introducing us to this painting and helping us to obtain permission for its reproduction, to Istv⍰n N⍰meth, Curator Department of Old Master Paintings, and to the Sz⍰pm⍰v⍰szeti M⍰zeum, Budapest, Hungary, for providing us with the photograph in figure ⍰⍰ and permitting its use.

212 Giordano, born in Naples, traveled and worked throughout Italy. Several scenes in which Virtues appear can be found in a catalogue of his work mounted in ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ in Naples, Vienna, and Los Angeles. Luca Giordano, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ (Naples, Ital.: Electa Napoli, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

213 Different versions can be found in the Museum of Fine Arts in Budapest, the Pushkin Museum in Moscow, and the Schloss Rohrau just outside of Vienna. See Nyerges at ⍰⍰⍰, figs. ⍰ and ⍰.

214 Art historians place this painting between the years [illegible]–[illegible], in which the last Venetian territory, the island of Crete, came to be occupied by the Turks. The struggle against the Ottoman empire for control in the Mediterranean, which began in [illegible], ended in [illegible] with the loss of Crete. Nyerges at [illegible]–[illegible] (translation by Allison Tait). One could interpret it to show Justice disarmed by both love and vice. Pleister and Schild at [illegible] and fig. [illegible]. The Jacob Jordeans painting, discussed earlier, could be read as part of this genre of discombobulated justices.

215 Ripa, Padua–[illegible] at [illegible]; French Ripa–[illegible] at [illegible]; Dutch Ripa–[illegible] at [illegible].

216 See Westfehling Catalogue at [illegible]–[illegible] (fig. [illegible]).

217 For example, the [illegible]lle[illegible]or[illegible] of Jud[illegible]ment in the Oudenaarde Town Hall (discussed in an earlier note) shows Justice in the middle between Faith and Wisdom, Aequitas, or Prudence; a crane is nearby. See Ridder at [illegible], figs. [illegible]–[illegible]. As for Vigilence, the crane is found in both the [illegible] and the [illegible] Padua editions of Ripa for [illegible]Vigilanza[illegible] The crane, at the foot of a woman holding a book in one hand and a rod and lamp in the other, stands on one leg and holds a stone with his other leg, teaching the reader that [illegible]one must be vigilant in guarding oneself.[illegible] Ripa, Padua–[illegible] at [illegible]; Ripa, Padua–[illegible], vol. [illegible] at [illegible]. The Hertel [illegible] edition explains: [illegible]Next to [illegible]Vigilance[illegible] stands a large crane, holding a stone in one foot. . . . Both Pliny (Natural History, Book [illegible], ch. [illegible]) and Horapollo (Hieroglyphica, II, [illegible]) use the crane as a symbol of watchfulness, for the crane is supposed to sleep with a stone in its claws to use as a weapon if surprised . . . when acting as a sentinel guarding a group of its fellows, [illegible]the crane[illegible] holds a stone so that, if it falls out of his grasp because he has fallen asleep, the others will be alerted by the noise.[illegible] Ripa, Maser Edition at [illegible]. The crane appeared under [illegible]Service[illegible] (at [illegible]) and [illegible]Protection[illegible] (at [illegible]) in this edition as well.

218 Dutch Ripa–[illegible] at [illegible].

219 That description fits [illegible]Strict Justice[illegible] ([illegible]Giustitia Retta[illegible]) in Ripa, Padua–[illegible] at [illegible] and in the [illegible] Dutch Ripa at [illegible]. The [illegible] Dutch Ripa also described the Giudice, or Judge, as an old man holding a staff around which a snake was wrapped to remind the judge to be careful. Dutch Ripa–[illegible] at [illegible]. Serpents sometimes signified good and evil within the same painting. See Ronald Millen, Heroic Deeds and Mystic Figures: A New Reading of Rubens' Life of Maria de' Medici [illegible] (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]).

220 The image in figure [illegible] was provided by Noortman Master Paintings, Maastricht, the Netherlands, which authorized its reproduction. Unlike most of the images reproduced in this volume, it is not known where this [illegible]lle[illegible]or[illegible] of Justice hung. This large panel [illegible]sketch[illegible] sixty-five by forty-five centimeters (twenty-five and a half inches by eighteen inches)[illegible] was likely for a tapestry that has not yet been identified. See Julius Held, The Oil Sketches of Peter Paul Rubens: A Critical Catalogue, vol. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] and plate [illegible] (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]). Held suggested that this work resembled the preparatory work for Rubens's series Triumph of the [illegible]ucharist, a cycle of tapestries. Id. at [illegible]. See also Michael Jaff[illegible], [illegible]npu[illegible]lished Drawin[illegible]s [illegible] [illegible]u[illegible]ens in [illegible]rench Museums, [illegible] Gazette des Beaux-Arts [illegible], [illegible] and fig. [illegible] ([illegible]); Nora de Poorter, The Eucharist Series, vol. [illegible], [illegible] and fig. [illegible] (London, Eng.: Harvey Miller-Heyden [illegible] Son, [illegible]). The sketch could also have been part of an independent series of Virtues. See Guy Delmarcel, The Cardi[illegible] Cartoons, [illegible] Burlington Magazine [illegible] ([illegible]).

A better-known Justice by Rubens is his allegory The [illegible]elicit[illegible] of the [illegible]e[illegible]enc[illegible], part of his series of twenty-four monumental paintings on the life of Marie de Medici. In this episode she is on a throne, scales in one hand and sword or [illegible]main de justice[illegible] in the other, and, like the Justice here, with one breast bared. See Millen at [illegible]–[illegible] and figure [illegible]. On the baring of the breast to signify the complex and less-than-complete hold on power by females, see Geraldine A. Johnson, Pic[illegible]tures [illegible]it for a [illegible]ueen[illegible]Peter Paul [illegible]u[illegible]ens and the Marie de[illegible]Medici C[illegible]cle, in Reclaiming Female Agency: Feminist Art History after Post-modernism at [illegible]–[illegible] (Norma Broude [illegible] Mary D. Garrard, eds., Berkeley, CA: U. of California Press, [illegible]).

221 Held, at [illegible], also made the parallel to a Ripa description[illegible] in a Rome [illegible] edition[illegible] of [illegible]Divine Justice[illegible] or [illegible]Strict Justice[illegible] ([illegible]Giustitia Retta[illegible]).

222 Edward Muir, [illegible]na[illegible]es of Power[illegible] [illegible]rt and Pa[illegible]eantr[illegible] in [illegible]enais[illegible]sance [illegible]enice, [illegible] American Historical Review [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Muir, [illegible]na[illegible]es of Power).

223 From [illegible] to [illegible], [illegible] doges served. Edward Muir, Civic Ritual in Renaissance Venice [illegible] (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Muir, Civic Ritual). They were elected for life and had both special authority and specified restrictions, resulting in scholarly debate about their actual power. See Staale Sinding-Larsen, Christ in the Council Hall: Studies in the Religious Iconography of the Venetian Republic [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] (Norwegian Research Council for Science and the Humanities, [illegible]); Edward Muir, The Do[illegible]e as [illegible]primus inter pares[illegible] [illegible]intere[illegible]num [illegible]ites in [illegible]ar[illegible] Si[illegible]teenth[illegible]Centur[illegible] [illegible]enice, in Essays Presented to Myron P. Gilmore, vol. [illegible] History [illegible]–[illegible] (Sergio Bertelli [illegible] Gloria Ramakus, eds., Florence, Ital.: La Nuova Italia, [illegible]) (hereinafter Muir, [illegible]intere[illegible]num [illegible]ites); [illegible]sa Boholm, The Doge of Venice: The Symbolism of State Power in the Renaissance [illegible]–[illegible] (Gothenburg, Swed.: Institute for Advanced Studies in Cultural Anthropology, [illegible]). In his essay Muir mapped the shift in the ceremonial investitures of doges. In earlier eras, the ceremony had included the approval of the community, reflecting a more popular basis for the Venetian Republic. Later the ceremony demonstrated the degree to which the office of the doge was controlled by ruling families. Muir, [illegible]intere[illegible]num [illegible]ites at [illegible]–[illegible]. Throughout, the doge served as a figure of the Venetian Republic in a variety of ceremonies. Muir's Civic [illegible]itual in [illegible]enaissance [illegible]enice is the [illegible]pivotal study [illegible]that [illegible]inaugurated what would become the most defining element of Venetian historiography: the study of political culture, which we shall see remains the most prominent characteristic of Venetian studies to this day[illegible] Liz Horodowich, The New [illegible]enice[illegible] [illegible]istorians and [illegible]istorio[illegible]raph[illegible] in the [illegible]st Centur[illegible] La[illegible]oon, [illegible] History Compass [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

224 In Chapter [illegible], we discuss the [illegible]constant intermingling of religious and civic life[illegible] in Europe[illegible] captured by one historian's description of [illegible]civic Christianity.[illegible] David Herlihy, Medieval and Renaissance Pistoia: The Social History of an Italian Town, [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible] (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]). See also Bruce Cole, Sienese Painting: From Its Origins to the Fifteenth Century ix (New York, NY: Harper [illegible] Row, [illegible]) (referring to buildings in Siena and elsewhere in Tuscany).

225 Muir, [illegible]na[illegible]es of Power at [illegible]–[illegible].

226 Muir, [illegible]na[illegible]es of Power at [illegible].

227 Our thanks to David Rosand, Meyer Schapiro Professor of Art History, Columbia University, for providing us with his photograph, reproduced in figure [illegible]. Jacopo Sansovino was born Jacopo Tatti in Florence and adopted the name of his master, Andrea Sansovino. Tatti [illegible]spent his early career in Florence and Rome, in close contact with the great artists of the High Renaissance[illegible] and it was not until he was forty-one that he came to Venice to [illegible]take refuge from the atrocities of the Sack of Rome[illegible] See Deborah Howard, Jacopo Sansovino: Architecture and Patronage in Renaissance Venice [illegible]–[illegible] (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]). The timing was [illegible]particularly fortuitous[illegible] because Doge Andrea Gritti was devoting great resources to the arts. With the backing and patronage of the Doge, Sansovino was responsible for helping to revive much Venetian architecture. Id. Sansovino's renovations of the loggetta began in [illegible] and turned the arcade into an important piece of architecture. [illegible]The fact that the Loggetta was extremely small in scale compared with the other buildings in the Piazza was a major influence on the design . . . . [illegible]It had to be sufficiently eye-catching to compensate for its diminuitive proportions[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Accordingly, no expense was spared, and the loggetta can be considered ⊠the most complete surviving visual representation of the ⊠myth of Venice.' ⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠.

228 Muir, ⊠ma⊠es of Power at ⊠⊠. The interior, which included a Hall of the Great Council, had displayed a series of monumental paintings of the military victories of Venice. After they were lost in fires during the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, other grand paintings took their place, including a Last Jud⊠ment in prominent view near an enthroned queen representing the city. Muir, ⊠ma⊠es of Power at ⊠⊠. See also Sinding-Larsen at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. A Justice labeled ⊠enecia also appears in medallions in the Ducal Palace. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

229 See David Rosand, ⊠enetia ⊠i⊠urata⊠ The ⊠tono⊠raph⊠ of a M⊠th, in Interpretazioni veneziane: Studi di storia dell'arte in onore di Michelangelo Muraro ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, fig. ⊠ (David Rosand, ed., Venice, Ital.: Arsenale Editrice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Rosand, ⊠ene⊠tia ⊠i⊠urata). This figure is sometimes attributed to Filippo Calendario and has been dated anywhere from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (the year of Filippo Calendario's death) to ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠. Rosand also noted that some commentators do not believe that this Venetia is a Justice figure or was derived from that iconography but rather that it stands for ⊠Buon Governo⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠.

230 See Dennis Romano, Patricians and Popolani: The Social Foundations of the Venetian Renaissance State ⊠⊠⊠, plate ⊠ (Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

231 Rosand, ⊠enetia ⊠i⊠urata at ⊠⊠⊠, fig. ⊠, Justice, Porta Della Carta, Ducal Palace. That figure, by Bartolomeo Buon, once stood ⊠against the sky⊠but can now be seen near the door to the doge's palace and its law courts. See David S. Chambers, The Imperial Age of Venice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, fig. ⊠⊠ (London, Eng.: Thames ⊠ Hudson, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Bartolomeo's earliest work dates to ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and comprises a significant variety of styles. See Anne Markham Schulz, The Sculpture of ⊠iovanni and Bartolomeo Bon and Their Workshop, ⊠⊠ Transactions of the American Philosophical Society ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

232 David Rosand, Myths of Venice: The Figuration of a State ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ and fig. ⊠⊠ (Chapel Hill, NC: U. of North Carolina Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Rosand, Myths of Venice).

233 Chambers at ⊠⊠⊠, fig. ⊠⊠⊠ (Justice, by Alessandro Vittoria, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Vittoria was a student of Sansovino, and the two worked jointly on many important architectural projects. Vittoria was primarily a sculptor known for his portrait busts and medals. See Lorenzo Finocchi Ghersi, Alessandro Vittoria ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Udine, Ital.: Forum, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

234 Rosand, ⊠enetia ⊠i⊠urata at ⊠⊠⊠. In the interior one can find a Jud⊠ment of Solomon. Id.

235 Rosand, ⊠enetia ⊠i⊠urata at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

236 Rosand, Myths of Venice at ⊠. The palace, in turn, was to be ⊠considered a palace of Solomon⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠.

237 Muir, ⊠ma⊠es of Power at ⊠⊠. Rosand, ⊠enetia ⊠i⊠urata at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Some Venetians also linked their republic to the Old Testament's Israel. Sinding-Larsen at ⊠⊠⊠.

238 Muir, Civic Ritual at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Muir explained that there was, ⊠in fact, neither a naval victory nor even a naval battle; in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the Lombard League defeated the imperial army at the battle of Legnano⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. Further, because Venice did not participate, it was chosen as a site for peace negotiations, but the peace marked the ⊠failure of the German emperors to assert political control over northern Italy, a reality that explains the anti-imperial tone of the story⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. Frederick did give Venetian traders a ⊠complete exemption from imperial tolls⊠ throughout the empire. Id.

239 Muir, Civic Ritual at ⊠⊠⊠.

240 Muir, Civic Ritual at ⊠⊠⊠.

241 Muir, ⊠ma⊠es of Power at ⊠⊠. Muir added that the display did not necessarily match the ⊠underlying realities⊠ Id.

242 Muir, Civic Ritual at ⊠⊠⊠, commenting that ⊠position was everything.⊠

243 Muir, Civic Ritual at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

244 Sinding-Larsen at ⊠⊠⊠ (that author's translation).

245 Chambers at ⊠⊠.

246 Giovanni Antonio Canal, called Canaletto, lived from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠; his scenes of Venice are one of the sources of his fame. Canaletto painted several such ⊠veduti⊠ (views) of this event. The version in figure ⊠⊠ was provided by Scala / Art Resource, New York. The painting hangs in the Aldo Crespi Collection in Milan. Other versions include ⊠enice⊠ The Basin of San Marco on ⊠scension Da⊠, in the National Gallery, London; Bacino di San Marco with the ⊠Bucintoro⊠ on ⊠scen⊠sion, in the Pushkin Museum, Moscow; The Bucintoro at the Molo on ⊠scension Da⊠, at the Philadelphia Museum of Art, Philadephia. See generally Dorothea Terpitz, Canaletto: ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (K⊠ln, Ger.: K⊠nemann, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Many other artists depicted the Bucintoro, which was occasionally used for other ceremonial purposes. The J. Paul Getty Museum in California has two such paintings by the Venetian Luca Carlevarijs, who lived from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠. One canvas, from ⊠⊠⊠⊠, is called ⊠e⊠atta on the ⊠rand Canal in ⊠onor of ⊠rederick ⊠⊠, ⊠in⊠ of Denmark, and the other, from ⊠⊠⊠⊠, is called The Bucintoro Departin⊠ from the Bacino di San Marco. Another, painted in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ by Giambattista Brustolini (⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠) and called The Departure of the Bucintoro to Porto Lido on ⊠scension Da⊠, is in the Museum Boymans–van Beuningen collection, in Rotterdam, the Netherlands. The Guardi family of Venetian artists did several renditions. See Alvise Zorzi, Venice: The Golden Age ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (New York, NY: Abbeville Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Decio Gioseffi, Canaletto and His Contemporaries ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (New York, NY: Crown Publishers, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

247 The Ascension, the moment when Jesus, in the presence of his apostles, ascended to Heaven, is generally understood in Christian doctrine to have taken place forty days after the Resurrection. Venetian ceremonies on Ascension Day included ⊠blessings⊠ of the sea and ⊠a ceremony during which the Doge contracted marriage with the sea by dropping a gold ring overboard from his boat⊠ See Boholm at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

248 Documents from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ refer to a ducal ship as a Bucentaurum. Boholm at ⊠⊠⊠. In ⊠⊠⊠⊠ a more elaborate Bucintoro replaced its predecessor, and in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ yet another was launched. Id. The route taken by the Bucintoro is mapped in Zorzi at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

249 See Lina Urban Padoan, Il Bucintoro: la festa e la fiera della ⊠sensa⊠ dalle origini alla caduta della Repubblica ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Venezia, Ital.: Centro Internationale della Grafica di Venezia, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). The ceremony itself was described in materials dating from ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Boholm at ⊠⊠⊠.

250 One commentator suggested that the boat became more elaborate as the Venetian political situation declined. See Padoan at ⊠. The last Bucintoro was built in ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠. Martin Clayton, Canaletto in Venice ⊠⊠ (London, Eng.: Royal Collection Publications, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

251 Boholm at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

252 Boholm at ⊠⊠⊠.

253 Boholm at ⊠⊠⊠.

254 The details and order of events are provided in Boholm at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

255 Muir, Civic Ritual at ⊠⊠⊠. The statements included ⊠We wed you, o sea, as a sign of true and perpetual dominion⊠ See Zorzi at ⊠⊠. Muir pointed out the gendered roles; under Venetian law, husbands and fathers had authority over wives and children. Muir, Civic Ritual at ⊠⊠⊠. Muir interpreted the ritual as dimming the sea's ⊠frightening⊠ aspects by feminizing it. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. He also noted that the ceremony persisted long past the time when Venice had lost such authority. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

256 ⊠By Canaletto's day, . . . the decline of Venice was becoming obvious. . . . The City seemed trapped in an outdated version of itself. The aristocratic constitution was an anachronism, and the great annual ceremonies of the Republic . . . were now spectacles that had lost their vital meaning⊠ Clayton at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

257 A German, Arnold von Harff, wrote in [illegible] about the pageantry. He explained the [illegible]gilt maiden[illegible] on the ship as holding a [illegible]naked sword[illegible] and [illegible]golden scales[illegible] signifying [illegible]that she will do justice; for the same reason the maiden holds the scales in the left hand.[illegible] Rosand, Myths of Venice at [illegible].

258 [illegible]enice in the [illegible]orm of Justice (woodcarving from the sixteenth century, wood and polychrome, Museo Storico Navale di Venezia); this piece is what remains of the [illegible]–[illegible] Bucintoro on which it once sat. See Padoan at [illegible]Tavola,[illegible] fig. [illegible]. Figure [illegible], undated, and Figure [illegible], from a [illegible] Bucintoro, were provided and reproduced with the courtesy of the Museo Storico Navale di Venezia.

259 Muir, Civic Ritual at [illegible].

260 Rosand, [illegible]enetia [illegible]urata at [illegible].

261 Before [illegible], the monarchy had more control over art patronage than after that time, when [illegible]political parties began to exercise far greater influence on patronage.[illegible] Simon Thurley, Hampton Court: A Social and Architectural History [illegible] (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]).

262 Anne is sometimes portrayed as lacking force, but some scholarship finds her a powerful monarch, deliberately linking her authority to that of Elizabeth and insisting on her true [illegible]English[illegible] stature, in contrast to that of William III. See Charles Beem, The Lioness Roared: The Problems of Female Rule in English History [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] (New York, NY: Palgrave Macmillan, [illegible]); R. O. Bucholz, [illegible]Nothin[illegible]ut Ceremon[illegible] ueen [illegible]nne and the Limitations of [illegible]o[illegible]al [illegible]itual, [illegible] J. British Studies [illegible] ([illegible]). Commentators on the public sphere identify Anne's reign as a time when the impact of public opinion on politics was clear. See Heinz-Joachim Müllenbrock, Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]pinion in [illegible]ighteenth[illegible]Centur[illegible]n[illegible]land, in Sites of Discourse [illegible] Public and Private Spheres[illegible] Legal Culture [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Uwe B[illegible]ker and Julie A. Hibbard, eds., Amsterdam, Neth.: Rodopi, [illegible]).

263 Figure [illegible], [illegible] ueen [illegible]nne as Justice, was provided and is reproduced with permission of the Historic Royal Places under license from the Controller of Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

264 Thurley at [illegible]–[illegible]. Verrio, who was born around [illegible] and died in [illegible], was an Italian who worked a good deal in England. In [illegible] he was appointed as a principal painter to the King, and he left the Court in [illegible] after the Glorious Revolution. Verrio's work for Windsor Castle was destroyed by fire in the [illegible]s. The image is reproduced with the permission of the Historic Royal Palaces under license from the Controller of Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

265 Thurley at [illegible]–[illegible]. Anne was then not quite fifty. Under one of the provisions of the [illegible] Act of Settlement, the English sovereign had to be a Protestant. Anne, daughter of James II and his first wife, Anne Hyde, qualified over James's son, Francis Edward, a Catholic born to the King's second wife. Roy Nash, Hampton Court: The Palace and the People [illegible] (London, Eng.: MacDonald, [illegible]). The role played by the [illegible] Act of Settlement in shaping a form of judicial independence is discussed in Chapter [illegible].

266 Thurley at [illegible]–[illegible]. During the first part of Anne's reign (before [illegible], when her husband, Prince George, died), she spent little time at Hampton Court.

267 Ernest Law, The History of Hampton Court Palace [illegible], vol. [illegible] (London, Eng.: George Bell and Sons, [illegible]); Thurley at [illegible] (also noting that the assemblies were [illegible]thinly attended[illegible]). Exactly why, in [illegible] and [illegible], Anne began the restoration is unclear. She had expressed little interest in being at Hampton Court and was, in fact, financially strapped. [illegible]The financial records show that painting the room was never a priority, and money did not flow easily into Verrio's pocket.[illegible] Thurley at [illegible]. [illegible]Half-way through he begged for more money as he hadn't enough to buy the colours he needed.[illegible] R. J. Minney, Hampton Court [illegible] (London, Eng.: Cassell, [illegible]). Thurley speculated (in part because of some of the paintings in the Drawing Room) that Anne's spouse, Prince George, liked Hampton Court, and after his death she returned to it out of affection for him. Thurley at [illegible]–[illegible].

268 Thurley at [illegible].

269 Great Britain, Ministry of Public Works, Hampton Court Palace: A Hand List of the Pictures [illegible] (London, Eng.: Her Majesty's Stationery Office, [illegible]).

270 Law at [illegible].

271 The cornucopia appeared in numerous entries in the various Ripa editions, including those featuring Abundance, Prosperity, Agriculture, Tranquility, Peace, and Charity. The cornucopia also stood as a symbol for the autumn season and for particular geographic regions such as Europe, Italy, and Africa. Below the cornucopia the three Graces can be identified, each holding a wreath. Below them is the figure of Vigilance, with a crane and a lantern.

272 See Matthias Winner, The [illegible]r[illegible] as the S[illegible]m[illegible]ol of the State in the Pictorial C[illegible]cle of [illegible]u[illegible]ens Depictin[illegible] the Life of Maria de[illegible]Medici, in Iconography, Propaganda, and Legitimation [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Allan Ellenius, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon Press, [illegible]). Winner explained that the image shows France as a [illegible]subjugated province brought by Saturn before Justitia, the ruler of the world[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

273 Thurley at [illegible]. By the time he did this work, Verrio had cataracts and relied on assistants. Id. Verrio died in [illegible].

274 See Edgar Wind, Julian the [illegible]postate at [illegible]ampton Court, [illegible] J. Warburg [illegible] Courtauld Inst. [illegible] ([illegible]/[illegible]). Wind focused on the Verrio decoration of the King's Staircase at Hampton Court, which Walpole described as poorly done[illegible] [illegible]as if he had spoiled it out of principle[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. See also Paul Monod, Painters and Part[illegible] Politics in [illegible]n[illegible]land, [illegible], [illegible] Eighteenth-Century Studies [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Wind thought that Verrio ([illegible]a faithful Catholic[illegible]) did not want to work for the Crown but was persuaded to do so by Lord Exeter. Id. See also Thurley at [illegible]. Monod examined the lack of a robust English tradition of history painting, which he attributed (at [illegible]) to [illegible]the lack of a suitable royal patron[illegible] as well as to the distrust of such work born of its [illegible]association with continental Roman Catholicism[illegible] and its propagandistic purposes. Monod at [illegible]–[illegible].

275 [illegible]Verrio's ceiling depicts the Queen in the role of Justice and one can only hope that the irony of the chosen subject afforded the artist some quiet satisfaction.[illegible] Nash at [illegible].

276 Law at [illegible]. Nash, at [illegible], reported that the wall paintings were covered from [illegible] until [illegible].

277 Bucholz at [illegible], [illegible].

278 Bucholz at [illegible].

279 Bucholz at [illegible].

280 See David M. Bergeron, English Civic Pageantry [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible] (London, Eng.: Edward Arnold, [illegible]) (hereinafter Bergeron, Civic Pageantry). See generally The Invention of Tradition (Eric Hobsbawm [illegible] Terence Ranger, eds., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

281 Email from Dominic Reid, Pageantmaster of the Lord Mayor's Show, to the authors (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]), providing lecture notes. See generally Celina Fox, Lord Mayor's Coach (London, Eng.: Museum of London, [illegible]).

282 [illegible]Lord Mayor's Show: Obstacles and Accidents[illegible] http://www.lordmayorsshow.org/visitors/history/obstacles.

283 David M. Bergeron, The [illegible]li[illegible]a[illegible]ethan Lord Ma[illegible]or[illegible] Show, [illegible] Studies in English Literature, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Bergeron, Lord Ma[illegible]or[illegible] Show). The [illegible]processional through the city of London each [illegible]th of October[illegible] for the oath taking was followed by a feast at the Guildhall. Id. at [illegible]. See also Bergeron, Civic Pageantry at [illegible]–[illegible].

284 Moreover, the Lord Mayor's Show was [illegible]the dominant form of civic pageantry[illegible] during the era of James I and Charles I. See Bergeron, Lord Ma[illegible]or[illegible] Show at [illegible]. Bergeron categorized the civic pageantry of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries as of three types[illegible] sovereign [illegible]progresses[illegible] through various parts of the country, [illegible]royal entries[illegible] in official processionals, and pageants such as the Lord Mayor's Show that included ritualistic vignettes and dramatization. Bergeron, Civic Pageantry at [illegible]. A fourth type involved the public ceremonies of execution. See Thomas W. Laqueur, Crowds, Carnival and the State in [illegible]nglish [illegible]ecutions, [illegible], in The First Modern Society: Essays in English History in Honour of Lawrence Stone [illegible]–[illegible] (A. L. Beier, David Cannadine, [illegible] James M. Rosenheim, eds., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

285 [illegible]Lord Mayor's Show: The Show in Art and Literature[illegible] http://www.lordmayorsshow.org/visitors/history/literature. The Lord Mayor's barge can be seen in some Thames views by Canaletto, such as a painting called Westminster Bridge from the North on Lord Mayor's Day, [illegible] (Yale Center for British Art, Paul Mellon Collection), reproduced in Fox at [illegible], fig. [illegible]. See also Tessa Murdock, The Lord Mayor's Procession of [illegible]The Chariot of the [illegible]ir[illegible]in [illegible]ueen, [illegible] Transactions of the London [illegible] Middlesex Archaeological Society [illegible], [illegible], plate [illegible] (The Lord Mayor's Procession [illegible] Water to Westminster, [illegible], a photogravure based on an oil painting in the Royal Collection) ([illegible]). In [illegible], the Lord Mayor [illegible]ceased to be transported by water to Westminster.[illegible] Fox at [illegible]. Coaches were the ordinary means of travel at that time, with more than [illegible],[illegible] privately owned large carriages and [illegible],[illegible] light wheelers[illegible] still in use in [illegible]. See David Cannadine, The Conte[illegible]t, Performance and Mean[illegible] in[illegible] of [illegible]itual[illegible]The British Monarch[illegible] and the [illegible]nvention of Tradition[illegible], in The Invention of Tradition [illegible]–[illegible] (hereinafter Cannadine, Meanin[illegible] of [illegible]itual).

286 In addition, Charles Catton ([illegible]coach-painter to George III[illegible]) painted the heraldic devices. Both were founding members of England's Royal Academy of Arts. See Fox at [illegible], [illegible].

287 Fox at [illegible]–[illegible], figs. [illegible]–[illegible]. The nomenclature Truth (instead of Prudence) for a woman with a mirror is also used for the sculptures in Dublin Castle, discussed later. In the rendition on the Lord Mayor's Coach, Justice has a blindfold, scales, and sword; Temperance a bridle; and Fortitude a column. In addition, panels show an allegory of the [illegible]Genius of the City[illegible] surrounded by a cornucopia, Neptune, coins, fruit, and representations of [illegible]Fame[illegible] and [illegible]Riches and Plenty[illegible] Id. at [illegible]–[illegible], figs. [illegible]–[illegible].

288 [illegible]Lord Mayor's Show: The Lord Mayor's Procession[illegible] http://www.lordmayorsshow.org/visitors/procession.

289 See J. Robert Browning, Spectacle and the Public Sphere in Seventeenth-Century England [illegible] (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of English, Indiana U., Bloomington, IN, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]) (emphasis in the original).

290 Michel Foucault, Discipline and Punish: The Birth of the Prison (Alan Sheridan, trans., New York, NY: Vintage Books, [illegible]nd ed., [illegible]).

291 Figure [illegible], reproduced with the assistance of the Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library of Yale University, is an [illegible] print by George Cruikshank, who lived from [illegible] to [illegible]. Cruikshank was a famous satirist who generated thousands of images, some lampooning English customs and politics and others mild-mannered. About [illegible] etchings were first published through the Comic [illegible]lmanack, founded in [illegible] and in circulation until [illegible]. See Frank Palmeri, Cruikshank, Thackera[illegible], and the [illegible]ictorian [illegible]clipse of Satire, [illegible] Studies in English Literature [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Michael Wynn Jones, George Cruikshank: His Life and London xiii, [illegible] (London, Eng.: Macmillan, [illegible]). Cruikshank was its principal illustrator, and the magazine was priced to be affordable to lower-middle-class households. Palmeri at [illegible]. The politics of the magazine and of Cruikshank changed over time, moving from more radical satire toward [illegible]respectable social satire and middle-class comedy[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. See generally [illegible]eor[illegible]e Cruikshank[illegible] [illegible]eevaluation (Robert L. Patton, Guest Editor), [illegible] Princeton U. Library Chronicle vii et seq. ([illegible]–[illegible]). This print is one of many examples of royal traditions criticized by the press. See Cannadine, Meanin[illegible] of [illegible]itual at [illegible]–[illegible].

292 See Fox at [illegible]–[illegible], fig. [illegible], The [illegible]ndustrious [illegible]Prentice Lord Ma[illegible]or of London, [illegible]. Fox proffered the view that the mob was [illegible]disorderly[illegible] and the militia inert. Id. at [illegible]. This print is one of a series by Hogarth published under the name [illegible]ndustr[illegible] and [illegible]dleness.

293 Fox at [illegible]–[illegible], fig. [illegible], Lord Ma[illegible]or's Da[illegible], [illegible]. The wood engraving is [illegible]after George Cruikshank ([illegible]–[illegible]).[illegible] The publication of this [illegible] image followed the enactment in that year of the Municipal Reform Act. Id. at [illegible].

294 See Sites of Discourse[illegible] Public and Private Spheres[illegible] Legal Culture; David Zaret, Origins of Democratic Culture: Printing, Petitions, and the Public Sphere in Early-Modern England (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]); J[illegible]rgen Habermas, The Structural Transformation of the Public Sphere: An Inquiry into a Category of Bourgeois Society (Thomas Burger, trans., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]); Habermas and the Public Sphere (Craig Calhoun, ed., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]). The formation of opinions fairly described as held by [illegible]a public[illegible] and its impact on governments has produced a body of scholarship that identifies examples from as early as the sixteenth century. See Donald Veall, The Popular Movement for Law Reform, [illegible]–[illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford Clarendon Press, [illegible]). Veall argued (based on readings of the works of many [illegible]pamphleteers[illegible]) that the participants in reforms that had lasting effects (despite the Restoration) included not only social leaders but English workers and the poor, distressed about the corruption of the bench and bar, about legal procedures then in use, and about the reliance on Latin and French, inaccessible to many. Id. at ix–xii, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. The development of a literate public is detailed in Tim Blanning, The Pursuit of Glory: Europe, [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Viking, [illegible]). We return to examine these issues and adjudication's relationship to them in Chapter [illegible].

295 Fox at [illegible], fig. [illegible], reproducing the painting, called The Ninth of Novem[illegible]er, [illegible] by William Logsdail, that details the [illegible]brilliant entourage[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

296 David Cannadine, The Transformation of Civic [illegible]itual in Mod[illegible]ern Britain[illegible]The Colchester [illegible] [illegible]ster [illegible]east, [illegible] Past [illegible] Present [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Cannadine, Meanin[illegible] of [illegible]itual.

297 George Newenham Wright, An Historical Guide to the City of Dublin [illegible] (Dublin, Ire.: Four Courts Press [illegible] Irish Academic Press, [illegible]; originally printed in [illegible]).

298 [illegible]The Four Courts: Heritage[illegible] at the website An tSeirbhís Ch[illegible]irteanna Courts Service, http://www.courts.ie (follow hyperlinks) (hereinafter [illegible]The Four Courts[illegible]).

299 See generally David Evans, Theatre of Deferral[illegible]The [illegible]na[illegible]e of the Law and the [illegible]rchitecture of the [illegible]ns of Court, [illegible] Law [illegible] Critique [illegible] ([illegible]). Evans argued that, in their London instantiation, the Inns exemplified the labyrinthine and specially guarded body of the law. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

300 The foundations of Dublin Castle date from the rule of King John in [illegible]. R[illegible]is[illegible]n Kennedy, Dublin Castle Art: The Historical and Contemporary Collection [illegible] (Dublin, Ire.: Government of Ireland, [illegible]).

301 Wright at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Edward McParland, The [illegible]arl[illegible] [illegible]istor[illegible] of James [illegible]andon's [illegible]our Courts, [illegible] Burlington Magazine [illegible] ([illegible]).

302 McParland at [illegible].

303 Wright at [illegible].

304 McParland at [illegible].

305 The beginning of construction of the Four Courts is variously dated as [illegible] or [illegible], with designs by Thomas Cooley. McParland at [illegible]; Wright at [illegible]. In [illegible] James Gandon added to the plans, and the buildings were completed in [illegible]. Wright at [illegible]. Whether it was initially intended as a court is not clear. The [illegible] notes by Cooley detail the laying out of a building to house [illegible]public Law Offices, the Hall and Law Library[illegible] for use by the Society of the King's Inns, but no mention was made of courtrooms. McParland at [illegible]. During the civil wars, much destruction occurred, including the [illegible]irreparable loss[illegible] of the Public Records Office, which housed the complete records of the Irish Parliament. Renovation and restoration followed after the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ civil war. ⍰The Four Courts⍰ at ⍰; Pat Liddy, Dublin: A Celebration: From the ⍰st to the ⍰⍰st Century ⍰⍰ (Dublin, Ire.: Dublin Corporation, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

306 Maurice Craig, Burlin⍰ton, ⍰dam and ⍰andon, ⍰⍰ J. Warburg ⍰ Courtauld Insts. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Craig added that it was ⍰ironical⍰ that James Gandon, ⍰this son of a French Protestant, who had never been to Rome, should have given this design to the Irish capital in the Indian summer of the Protestant Ascendancy⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

307 Wright at ⍰⍰⍰.

308 Wright at ⍰⍰⍰. ⍰None of Gandon's original interiors survive⍰ nor do the Edward Smyth ⍰plaster figures⍰ that represented Justice, Wisdom, and the like. Christine Casey, Dublin ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

309 Kennedy at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. See also Peter Costello, Dublin Castle in the Life of the Irish Nation ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Dublin, Ire.: Wolfhound Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Kennedy noted that other statuary of ⍰monarchs or political figures . . . became the target for the public's anger⍰ and presumed that allegorical figures were less politically provocative. Kennedy at ⍰⍰. The interior iconography includes another Justice in the allegory ⍰ eor⍰e ⍰⍰ Supported ⍰⍰ Justice and L⍰ert⍰, by Vincenzo Waldr⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰.

310 ⍰Lead was quite a common material for outdoor sculpture⍰ in this era, and it was ⍰cheaper than bronze or marble.⍰ Kennedy at ⍰⍰. When restored in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s, this statue was found to have had ⍰thirty layers⍰ of paint. Placed on a new stone base, Justice was given a new stainless steel blade. Id.

311 Van Nost, who lived from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰was the dominant sculptor in Dublin in the mid-⍰⍰th century.⍰ Kennedy at ⍰⍰. One commentator described him as having ⍰almost a monopoly on sculptural work in Ireland⍰ no ⍰native artists⍰ compared. See Walter George Strickland, A Dictionary of Irish Artists ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (Shannon, Ire.: Irish U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

312 Kennedy at ⍰⍰.

313 Kennedy at ⍰⍰. Another statue, a helmeted male figure called either Fortitude or Mars, also has his back to the city. Id.

314 Our thanks to Stephen Jones, Building Manager of London's Central Criminal Court (the ⍰Old Bailey⍰), who provided us with information and a tour and enabled us to obtain the photograph reproduced in figure ⍰⍰ courtesy of the Corporation of London. The building opened officially in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The sculpture of Justice was cast and mounted in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Many other sculptures adorn the exterior, but only Justice and the trio above the front entrance, titled ⍰ortitude, Truth, and the ⍰ecordin⍰ ⍰ n⍰el, were named. See Philip Ward-Jackson, Public Sculpture of the City of London ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (Liverpool, Eng.: Liverpool U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Inscribed next to the group is the legend, paraphrased from Psalm ⍰⍰, ⍰Defend the children of the poor and punish the wrongdoer⍰ See The ⍰⍰ cial ⍰uide to the ⍰ ld Baile⍰ ⍰⍰ (London, Eng.: Corporation of London, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter ⍰ ld Baile⍰ ⍰⍰ cial ⍰uide).

315 ⍰ ld Baile⍰ ⍰⍰ cial ⍰uide at ⍰⍰. The booklet also noted that this Justice is ⍰especially distinguished from other statues of Justice by not being blindfolded⍰ Id. That refrain was also heard when the building opened; a local weekly paper called the Buildin⍰ News also noted that Justice was ⍰without her eyes bandaged.⍰ Ward-Jackson at ⍰⍰. In contrast, three other buildings in London⍰ the Institute of Chartered Accountants, the Norwich Union Insurance Building, and ⍰⍰ Moorgate⍰ built in the same era portrayed Justice with a blindfold. Id. Other news commentary at the time focused on the gesture of the Old Bailey's Justice. The London newspaper, the Times, saw a reference to Christian imagery, pointing out that ⍰Justice . . . has her arms stretched out . . . so as to form a kind of cross . . . . The arms of Justice seemed stretched out in an ecstasy of rage and despair⍰ Id.

316 See Edward W. Mountford, The New Sessions ⍰ ouse, London, ⍰⍰ Architectural Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Mountford's design has been described as the ⍰first public building in the City in the mature Edwardian Baroque manner.⍰ Simon Bradley ⍰ Nikolaus Pevsner, London I: The City of London ⍰⍰⍰ (London, Eng.: Penguin Group, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also ⍰History of the Old Bailey Courthouse⍰ Old Bailey Online, http://www.oldbaileyonline.org/static/The-old-bailey.jsp (hereinafter History of the Old Bailey). The nickname comes from the street on which the building sits, which follows the lines of the old fortified walls⍰ baileys⍰ of London. Newgate Prison, ⍰for those accused of serious crimes⍰ was once nearby, and the current building stands on the prison's earlier site. ⍰ ld Baile⍰ ⍰⍰ cial ⍰uide at ⍰–⍰, ⍰⍰.

Several buildings were its predecessors, with a first built on that site in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ after the Great Fire of London of ⍰⍰⍰⍰ had destroyed an earlier Medieval court. The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Old Bailey was a three-storied Italianate building. The ground floor was open so that fresh air might limit the spread of disease. That space was enclosed in a renovation in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, and thereafter a typhus epidemic killed dozens, ⍰including the Lord Mayor and two judges⍰ The building was again renovated in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See ⍰History of the Old Bailey⍰ See generally Allyson N. May, The Bar and the Old Bailey, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ (Chapel Hill, NC: U. of North Carolina Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ building included ⍰⍰⍰ cells for temporary reception of prisoners awaiting trial⍰ Stones from a demolished prison that had once occupied the site were used in its facade. ⍰ ld Baile⍰ ⍰⍰ cial ⍰uide at ⍰⍰. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, during World War II, the building was hit by a bomb that obliterated a courtroom and did other damage. The lunettes were repainted under the supervision of Gerald Moira, who had done some of the earlier work. Id. at ⍰⍰.

317 Email from Howard Doble, Senior Archivist, Old Bailey (Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), citing a report in which Mountford stated that for the ⍰Bronze Figure of Justice on the summit of the dome, and the Allegorical figures over the principal entrance, I should propose to employ a sculptor of know⍰n ⍰reputation⍰ The architect, in turn, was selected through a competition among six architects nominated by the Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA). The competition was juried by members of the House of Lords' Special Sessions House Committee and a professor. Id. Mountford served a term as the president of the Architectural Association; he designed the Battersea Town Hall (⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰) and won a competition in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ for the Sheffield Town Hall. Mountford employed Pomeroy as the sculptor in Sheffield. Susan Beattie, The New Sculpture, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (New Haven, CT: Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art, Yale U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Pomeroy, who lived from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ until ⍰⍰⍰⍰, was particularly attentive to the relationship between sculpture and architecture, insistent that ⍰sculptors' work is bound up with that of the architect⍰ and arguing that an architect ought to ⍰carefully select his sculptor and give him a fairly free hand in carrying out his work⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰. Pomeroy and Mountford had a ⍰working ⍰marriage'⍰ during the first decade of the twentieth century. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Pomeroy was part of a group that formed a Society of British Sculptors, representing a move away from prior collaborative work in the Art Workers Guild and aspiring to define a specific sculptural idiom. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

318 Mountford at ⍰⍰⍰; Beattie at ⍰⍰⍰, fig. ⍰⍰⍰. ⍰ ld Baile⍰ ⍰⍰ cial ⍰uide at ⍰⍰. The other lunettes in that hall represent ⍰Mosaic and English Law⍰ through Moses and King Alfred. Mountford at ⍰⍰⍰. In another hall, references are made to Greek and Roman law as well as to a ⍰Golden Age before laws became a necessity⍰ in a scene by Sir William Richmond. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Gerald Moira was also the artist for the allegories of Truth, Wisdom, Knowledge, and Labour. As in the discussion of the statuary in Ireland, a woman with a mirror is identified as Truth, whereas on the continent she is often called Prudence. See, for example, Mountford at ⍰⍰⍰. The development of the statuary of the Old Bailey was part of a period in which decorative sculptors, working in partnership with architects, made many monumental carvings that were ⍰accepted⍰ as features of ⍰grandiose commercial premises and public offices.⍰ Beattie at ⍰⍰⍰. Pomeroy used many classical figures in his work, crafting them in a style he termed ⍰imaginative realism⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰.

319 Old Bailey Official Guide at [illegible].

320 Mark Herber, Legal London: A Pictorial History at [illegible] (Chichester, Eng.: Phillimore, [illegible]).

321 The statue does not have a Phrygian cap, long associated with liberty rather than enslavement, but instead has a pointed crown.

322 A parody of the Old Bailey Justice was used for "Injustice" in [illegible] when a [illegible]-ton, twenty-foot-high bronze statue was erected on Clerkenwell Green. The mocking blindfolded version, "an amalgam of the Statue of Liberty and the Old Bailey's Statue of Justice," addressing wrongful convictions and other miscarriages of justice, had her skirt hiked up to reveal thigh-high PVC boots and a garter belt with U.S. dollars in it. "Oh, the Injustice of [illegible]," Western Daily Press (Bristol, Eng.), Aug. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

323 See Thomas Frängsmyr, "Republican Virtues and the Free State: Conceptual Frame and Meaning in Early Modern Europe and North America," in Iconography, Propaganda, and Legitimation [illegible], [illegible] (Allan Ellenius, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon Press, [illegible]).

324 In [illegible] Kansas's legislature authorized the construction of the Kansas Judicial Center, which was completed in [illegible]. The building, "located on a direct axis with the Capitol," houses the Supreme Court, Court of Appeals, offices of the Attorney General, and a law library. Brochure of the [illegible]ce of Judicial Administration (Topeka, KS: undated) (hereinafter "Kansas Brochure").

325 Jim Richardson, "Ward Dawes Labor of Love," Topeka Capital-Journal, Apr. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. The cost of the marble, its importation, and the work came to [illegible]. After the legislature declined to pay, a member of the Kansas business community, A. B. Hudson, donated the funds. Letter from Richard Ross, Reporter of Decisions of the Kansas Supreme Court (Nov. [illegible], [illegible]) (hereinafter Ross Letter). Our thanks to him and to Chief Justice Kay McFarland for providing us with the history of the sculpture and assistance in obtaining the photograph in figure [illegible], reproduced courtesy of the Kansas Judicial Branch.

326 "Kansas Brochure."

327 Ross Letter.

328 "Kansas Brochure."

329 The original design for the transparently covered building, modified somewhat thereafter, was by Arthur Erickson and Bing Thom, described on the Vancouver website as crafting a building to express their commitment "that justice should not only be done but also be seen to be done." "Tourism Vancouver: Serious Architecture," http://www.tourismvancouver.com/media/media_kit/arts-and-culture/architecture. The Law Courts are part of a civic center and public plaza encompassing three blocks in downtown Vancouver. In addition to the seven-story courthouse, the complex includes a "government office building, an indoor mall, outdoor plazas, and an old courthouse transformed into the Vancouver Art Gallery." "Robson Square," Arthur C. Erickson, Great Buildings Online, http://www.greatbuildings.com/buildings/Robson_Square.html.

330 Harman, born in Vancouver in [illegible], studied in Europe before returning to Vancouver, where he taught art and established "the first sculpture foundry in B.C.," thereby providing space for many other artists to cast in bronze. He received the Order of British Columbia and died in [illegible]. "O.B.C. Biography," Jack Harman, http://www.protocol.gov.bc.ca/protocol/prgs/obc/[illegible]/[illegible]JHarman.htm (site owned by the Government of British Columbia Protocol & Events Branch). The Justice depicted in figure [illegible] is formally called Justice [illegible], Themis, Goddess of Justice. Our thanks to Harman Sculpture Foundry, Ltd., Alberta, Canada, and to the Law Courts Education Society of British Columbia for the use of this image, and to Geoff Cowper, Greg Pun, and Dave Nolette for locating a high-resolution image.

331 City of Vancouver Public Art Registry, http://vancouver.ca/PublicArtNet/. That website also reports that Harman was inspired by "the mythical character Diana," who was a goddess of the hunt and related to the Greek Artemis. Id.

332 Eric Hobsbawm, "Introduction: Inventing Traditions," in The Invention of Tradition at [illegible], [illegible].

333 Ruling powers relied on more, of course, including personifications of themselves to assign magical authority to their persons. See Allan Ellenius, "Introduction: Visual Representations of the State as Propaganda and Legitimation," in Iconography, Propaganda, and Legitimation [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (hereinafter Ellenius, "Introduction"); Kurt Johannesson, "The Portrait of the Prince as a Rhetorical Genre," in Iconography, Propaganda, and Legitimation at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

334 As Wim Blockmans and Jean-Philippe Genet put it: "[illegible] justice was a more effective factor in establishing the authority of the state, and in rendering it effective, than was legislation." Wim Blockmans & Jean-Philippe Genet, Preface to Iconography, Propaganda, and Legitimation at vii–ix.

335 Ripa, Padua–[illegible] at [illegible].

336 The explanations for that retreat are multiple, ranging from a postmodern critique of semiotics to ideas about how the invention of machinery shifted the metaphor of the world from an organism to a machine requiring clarity about its internal mechanical operation. See Ellenius, "Introduction" at [illegible]–[illegible].

337 One argument for Justice's endurance is that her placement does not displace a "prevailing sense of decorum." See Van der Velden, "Cambyses for Example" at [illegible]. He commented that the "age during which judges exhorted themselves to keep to the path of true justice by gazing upon shining examples" such as Cambyses and Zaleucus came to an end in the eighteenth century and that, thereafter, scenes "less violent" took their place. Id.

Chapter [illegible]

1 "Justice," from The Collected Poems of Langston Hughes by Langston Hughes, edited by Arnold Rampersad with David Roessel, Associate Editor (New York, NY: Knopf, [illegible]) (hereafter Hughes, "Justice"). The poem, "[illegible]" by the Estate of Langston Hughes, is used with the permission of Alfred A. Knopf, a division of Random House Inc. and Harold Ober Associates (as required by Random House under grant [illegible], February [illegible], [illegible]). The poem appears on page [illegible] of that collection.

2 Rex A. Collings Jr., "Review of Cavalcade of Justice by Bernard [illegible] O'Donnell," [illegible] Virginia Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). O'Donnell's other works included The Trials of Mr. Justice Over and The World's Strangest Murders.

3 See Bernard O'Donnell, The Old Bailey and Its Trials [illegible] (New York, NY: Macmillan, [illegible]).

4 Ramona Markalunas, Pitkin County Courthouse, Centennial Celebration, [illegible] (Aspen, CO: Aspen Historical Society, [illegible]). Another example of the claim that a Justice without a blindfold is anomalous can be found in Bailey Van Hook, "Clear-Eyed Justice: Edward Simmons's Mural in the Criminal Courts Building, Manhattan," [illegible] New York History [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (describing the image as "rare but not unprecedented" and citing as another example the clear-eyed sculpture on top of New York City Hall that we depicted in Chapter [illegible], fig. [illegible]).

5 The photograph in figure [illegible] was provided to us by the photographer, William Clift, who took the picture as part of the Joseph E. Seagram & Sons Court House Project, documented in the publication of Court House: A Photographic Document (Richard Pare, ed., New York, NY: Horizon Press, [illegible]). The Clift photograph of Aspen's Justice appears in plate [illegible] of Court House; the building's architect is there identified as William Quay. Our thanks to Anna Lookabill Scott, the archivist of the Aspen Historical Society, for providing us with research materials and images of the building. According to the Aspen Preservation Committee (in minutes, circa [illegible]), the statue, manufactured in Salem, Ohio, cost [illegible].

6 Eva Hodges, Where the Blindfold, Empire Magazine, Sept. [illegible], [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible] (quoting a local county judge).

7 See Otto Rudolf Kissel, Die Justitia: Reflexionen über ein Symbol und seine Darstellung in der Bildenden Kunst (Justice: Reflections on a Symbol and Its Representation in the Plastic Arts) [illegible] (Munich, Ger.: Verlag C. H. Beck, [illegible]). Kissel stated that the Minister of Public Works, in agreement with the Minister of Justice, ordered that depictions of Justice in new court buildings show her clear-eyed.

8 See Van Hook at [illegible], citing "Open[illegible]ed Mural Works Courtroom, New York Times, Oct. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. Spectators also objected to "scales that were unevenly balanced." Id.

9 See generally Hans Belting, The End of the History of Art" (Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, [illegible]).

10 Battisti Fiera, De Iusticia Pingenda, On the Painting of Justice: A Dialogue between Mantegna and Momus (James Wardrop, trans., London, Eng.: Lion and Unicorn Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Fiera/Wardrop). Wardrop reproduced the Latin, provided a translation, and offered commentary. Fiera's work is also mentioned in Esther Gordon Dotson, "An Eu[illegible]ustinian Interpretation of Michelan[illegible]elo's Sistine Ceilin[illegible], Part [illegible]," [illegible] Art Bulletin [illegible], [illegible], n. [illegible] ([illegible]), and in Michael A. Jacobsen, The Meanin[illegible] of Mante[illegible]na's Battle of Sea Monsters, [illegible] Art Bulletin [illegible], [illegible], n. [illegible] ([illegible]).

11 See Fiera/Wardrop at [illegible]. The destruction occurred in [illegible] under Pius VI.

12 The painting is dated circa [illegible] and is alternately titled "[illegible]pul[illegible]sion of the [illegible]ices from the [illegible]arden of the [illegible]irtues. See Marina Warner, Monuments [illegible] Maidens: The Allegory of the Female Form [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Atheneum, [illegible]), and Rose Marie San Juan, The Court Lad[illegible] Dilemma[illegible]sa[illegible]ella d[illegible]ste and [illegible]rt Collectin[illegible] in the [illegible]en[illegible]aissance, [illegible]:[illegible] Oxford Art Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

13 See David Cast, Marten van [illegible]eemskerck[illegible] Momus Criticizing the Works of the Gods[illegible] Pro[illegible]lem of [illegible]rasmian [illegible]cono[illegible]raph[illegible], [illegible] Simiolus: Netherlands Quarterly for the History of Art [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Randolph Starn, [illegible] Postmodern [illegible]enaissance[illegible] Renaissance Quarterly [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (describing Momus as "part mortal, part god" and appearing in many guises). In the United States, the name retains some currency through its use by a group calling itself Momus as it regularly participates in New Orleans's Mardi Gras celebrations.

14 Plato, Republic VI, [illegible], [illegible]a (G. M. A. Grube, trans., revision by C. D. C. Reeve, Indianapolis, IN: Hackett, [illegible]).

15 Cast at [illegible]–[illegible].

16 Cast at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]. For example, for Erasmus, Momus offered a form of critique that could lead to "true wisdom." Id. at [illegible].

17 Cast at [illegible].

18 Cast at [illegible].

19 Cast at [illegible], translating the lines near the [illegible] painting Momus Critic[illegible]in[illegible] the Works of the [illegible]ods by Marten van Heemskerck.

20 Wardrop suggested that Fiera made a direct reference to Mantegna's commission and Pope Innocent's patronage. Wardrop cited a sentence from Fiera's text: "Sic iussit qui omnia potest," which means "thus commanded he who has power over all" (translation by Allison Tait). Wardrop then inferred that "the designation can be none other than the Pope's." Fiera/Wardrop at [illegible].

21 Fiera/Wardrop at [illegible]. Lawyers were also described as "inane," "longwinded," and "needlessly contentious," and philosophers as persons who did not often "agree among themselves." Id.

22 These excerpts come from the English translation, provided in Fiera/Wardrop at [illegible]–[illegible]. Fiera did not mention obscuring Justice's eyes, arguably because blindfolds were not yet signifiers of incorruptibility, nor did they later become common in Italy in Justice displays.

23 See Jacobsen at [illegible]. That practice was one advised for painters by Leone Battista Alberti, recommending that artists have associations with "poets and literary men whose knowledge" would be useful for artists' "inventions." Dotson at [illegible], citing Alberti, De Pictura, III at [illegible]. See also Fiera/Wardrop at [illegible] (assuming that the dialogue had a factual predicate and also citing Mantegna's [illegible] commission from Innocent VIII, for which the painter traveled to Rome).

24 Also from Mantua was the Vicar General of the Carmelite Order, invoked as a "philosopher" in Fiera's dialogue. See Dotson at [illegible], n. [illegible].

25 See Ernst Gombrich, Personification, in Classical Influences on European Culture AD [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible] (R. R. Bolgar, ed., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]). Gombrich focused on a line from one of Fiera's scholastic theologians, that "Justice cannot be depicted at all because she is identical with the will of God." This paper can also be found online at the Gombrich archive: http://www.gombrich.co.uk/showdoc.php?id[illegible].

26 Fiera/Wardrop at [illegible]. Yet Wardrop thought it might also be an "elaborate parody of a situation common to the experience of Renaissance painters . . . "in an "age . . . beginning to run mad on allegory." Id. at [illegible].

27 On hostility to imagery and the sense of it as false, see Costas Douzinas [illegible] Lynda Nead, Law and [illegible]esthetics, in Law and the Image: The Authority of Art and the Aesthetics of Law [illegible]–[illegible] (Costas Douzinas [illegible] Lynda Nead, eds., Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Law and the Image).

28 See Luther Link, The Devil: A Mask without a Face (London, Eng.: Reaktion Books, [illegible]).

29 Christian-Nils Robert argued that Justice was the "perfect allegory" ("la Justice est d[illegible]s lors all[illegible]gorie parfaite") from the sixteenth century through the eighteenth. He posited that a female brandishing a sword, holding scales, and sometimes blindfolded both captured an idealized state power (in that real women could neither be soldiers nor use swords" the common means of execution in France between [illegible] and [illegible]) and denoted some ambivalence toward centralized authority. Christian-Nils Robert, La Justice: Vertu, Courtisane et Bourreau [illegible] et passim (Geneva, Switz.: Georg, [illegible]).

30 Exemplary of the worldwide embrace of adjudication was the [illegible] adoption by the United Nations of principles on adjudication, accompanied by the deployment of a special rapporteur charged with monitoring implementation of these precepts. See, for example, Basic Principles on the Independence of the Judiciary, endorsed by G.A. Res. [illegible]/[illegible], U.N. Doc. A/Res/[illegible]/[illegible] (Nov. [illegible], [illegible]), and G.A. Res. [illegible]/[illegible], U.N. Doc. A/Res/[illegible]/[illegible] (Dec. [illegible], [illegible]). We discuss the changing contours of adjudication in Chapters [illegible] and [illegible].

31 Another scholar of this iconography has argued that the image of Justice emerged in the Renaissance as Roman law sought to displace customary law. The statue's deployment was a propagandistic effort to renovate Roman law through classical imagery that conflated civil law with canon law and that laid claim to Justice in a quasi-religious sense of mercy. See Theodore Ziolkowski, The [illegible]ture of Justice in Western [illegible]rt and Literature, [illegible] Inmunkwahak, The Journal of Humanities [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

32 See John Locke, An Essay Concerning Human Understanding [illegible] (Peter H. Nidditch, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). Various words are in italics in that edition. The text explained that sight was "the most comprehensive of all our Senses, conveying to our Minds the Ideas of Light and Colours, which are peculiar only to that Sense." Id.

33 Charles de Secondat, Baron de Montesquieu, The Spirit of the Laws, vol. [illegible], [illegible] (Kitchener, Ont.: Batoche, [illegible], reprinting a [illegible] translation by Thomas Nugent). The paragraph continued: "But as we have already observed, the national judges are no more than the mouth that pronounces the words of the law, mere passive beings, incapable of moderating either its force or rigour. That part, therefore, of the legislative body, which we have just now observed to be a necessary tribunal on another occasion, is also a necessary tribunal in this; it belongs to its supreme authority to moderate the law in favour of the law itself, by mitigating the sentence."

34 Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, Tasso [illegible] (Robert David MacDonald, trans., London, Eng.: Oberon Books, [illegible]) (hereinafter Goethe/MacDonald). Torquato Tasso lived from [illegible] to [illegible] in Italy and was an author famous for the epics [illegible]inaldo ([illegible]) and Jerusalem Delivered ([illegible]). Paranoid and living through the Inquisition, Tasso was incarcerated for a period before his death, and his [illegible]sensational life[illegible] provided inspiration for Goethe. Goethe/MacDonald at [illegible]–[illegible]. Goethe's play engaged the [illegible]disproportion of talent to life[illegible] Id. at [illegible] (quoting a letter of [illegible] about the play). The play centers on misjudgments. See Mark Boulby, Jud[illegible]ment [illegible] [illegible]pithet in [illegible]oethe[illegible] Torquato Tasso, [illegible] PMLA [illegible] ([illegible]). Changing attitudes toward the play are mapped in Irmgard Wagner, Critical Approaches to Goethe's Classical Dramas: Iphigenie, Torquato Tasso, and Die Nat[illegible]rliche Tochter [illegible]–[illegible] (Columbia, SC: Camden House, [illegible]).

The exchange that preceded the quote has the character Antonio saying that Fortune[illegible] rather than [illegible]the Gods[illegible] [illegible]s blind[illegible] Tasso replied: [illegible]Justice is blindfolded too, to avoid being dazzled by imposters[illegible] Antonio then continued, [illegible]The ones whom Fortune favours, favour her: but, of course, they think she has a hundred eyes, all on the look-out for the slightest merit, and sparkling with judgment and good taste.[illegible] Goethe/MacDonald at [illegible].

35 Pless[illegible] v[illegible]er[illegible]uson, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (Harlan, J., dissenting). Harlan continued that the Constitution [illegible]neither knows nor tolerates classes among citizens[illegible] His metaphor of color-blindness was later used by a five-person majority in [illegible] when invalidating an affirmative action effort aimed at achieving some racial diversity in education. See Parents [illegible]nvolved in Communit[illegible] Schools v[illegible] Seattle School District No[illegible], [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]).

36 Hughes, Justice.

37 John Rawls, A Theory of Justice [illegible] (Cambridge, MA: Belknap/Harvard U. Press, [illegible]).

38 Chaya T. Halberstam, Rabbinic Responsibility for Evil: Evidence and Uncertainty [illegible] (Ph.D. dissertation, Yale University, New Haven, CT, May [illegible]: UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]) (citing early Talmudic literature of the Second Temple era). See also Madeline H. Caviness, [illegible]ma[illegible]es of Divine [illegible]rder and the Third Mode of See[illegible] in[illegible], [illegible] Gesta [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). Caviness mapped how artists in the Middle Ages represented different forms of insight, modeled by imagery that linked wisdom, sight, and divine knowledge.

39 The recovery of Plutarch's work and its use by Alciatus is, as noted in Chapter [illegible] and [illegible], one source for the imagery of blindness, which, when coupled with handlessness, was a shield against corruption. See Robert Jacob, Images de la Justice: Essai sur l'iconographie judiciare du Moyen [illegible]ge [illegible] l'[illegible]ge classique (Images of Justice: Essays in Judicial Iconography from the Middle Ages to the Classical Period) [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] (Paris, Fran.: Le L[illegible]opard D'Or, [illegible]) (hereinafter Jacob, Images of Justice). Sometime during the [illegible]s, Plutarch came to the attention of Renaissance thinkers. Plutarch's [illegible]is and [illegible]siris, published in Louvain in [illegible], provided a description of the sightless Chief Judge of Thebes that could have been a source for artistic depictions of Justice's eyes covered, closed, or sightless. See Michael Evans, Two Sources for Maimed Justice, [illegible] Source: Notes in the History of Art [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Waldemar Deonna, Les [illegible]res[illegible]ues de la Maison de [illegible]ille de [illegible]en[illegible]ve, [illegible] Revue Suisse d'Art et D'Archéologie [illegible], [illegible], n. [illegible] ([illegible]). Deonna noted a [illegible]contradiction ophtalmologique[illegible] in the images of Justice. Id. Some showed a many-eyed figure to denote the need to see everything, while others, such as a [illegible] hieroglyph of a young, seated woman without a head, as well as images of Justice with eyes closed or bandaged, illustrated the idea that sight was problematic.

40 Debate exists about when the camera obscura came into being, how it was used, which artists had access to such a device, and the import of its existence. Aristotle and [illegible]the [illegible]th-century Arab scholar Ibn Al-Haytham[illegible] noted the effects of the sun projected through small apertures; other scholars (including Leonardo da Vinci) commented on the phenomenon. But it was not until [illegible] that [illegible]a Milanese astrologer and physician Girolamo Cardano suggested a dramatic improvement to the camera obscura in his work [illegible]n Su[illegible]tlet[illegible] See Michael John Gorman, [illegible]rt, [illegible]ptics and [illegible]istor[illegible] New Li[illegible]ht on the [illegible]ock[illegible]ne[illegible] Thesis, [illegible] Leonardo [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). In [illegible] Giambattista Della Porta described [illegible]a[illegible]another version of the camera obscura[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. After a visit to Venice in [illegible], Della Porta fashioned a remarkably improved instrument that made his earlier version obsolete. Id. at [illegible]. See also Kenneth Clark, Leon Battista [illegible]erti on Paintin[illegible], [illegible]nnual [illegible]ta[illegible]ian Lecture of the British [illegible]cadem[illegible], [illegible] Proceedings of the British Academy [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

Gorman, among many others, questioned the thesis that some Renaissance painters relied on the camera obscura, as argued in David Hockney, Secret Knowledge: Rediscovering the Lost Techniques of the Old Masters (London, Eng.: Penguin Putnam, [illegible]). Further contested is the camera obscura's relationship to photography and to an understanding of an objective point of view. See Jonathan Crary, Techniques of the Observer: On Vision and Modernity in the Nineteenth Century [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Crary, Techniques of the Observer).

41 Marjolein Degenaar, Molyneux's Problem: Three Centuries of Discussion on the Perception of Forms [illegible] (Michael J. Collins, trans., Dordrecht, Neth.: Kluwer Academic Publishers, [illegible]).

42 Ian Hacking, The Emergence of Probability: A Philosophical Study of Early Ideas about Probability, Induction and Statistical Inference [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]). Hacking noted that the word [illegible]probability[illegible] had been used in the sense of something being worthy of approval. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. Hacking described the interest in probability emergent in the early seventeenth century as [illegible]Janus–faced,[illegible] with some focused on the statistical side and others engaged epistemologically, [illegible]dedicated to assessing reasonable degrees of belief in propositions quite devoid of statistical background[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Leibniz is an example of the latter approach, [illegible]concerned with degrees of proof in law[illegible] Id. Modern views [illegible]claim that probability is a relation between an hypothesis and the evidence for it[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. As for what constituted evidence, by the mid-seventeenth century, the evidence of [illegible]things[illegible] was seen as [illegible]internal,[illegible] whereas evidence from testimony was [illegible]external[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

43 Cesare Ripa, Iconologia [illegible] (Padua, Ital.: Pietro Paolo Tozzi, [illegible]; New York, NY: Garland Publishing, [illegible]) (hereinafter Ripa, Padua–[illegible]).

44 See René Descartes, Meditations on First Philosophy with Selections from the Objections and Replies (John Cottingham, trans., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]). [illegible]I will now shut my eyes, stop my ears, and withdraw all my senses[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. These lines started the Third Meditation, subtitled The [illegible]istence of [illegible]od, in which Descartes put those constraints on himself as a predicate to his inquiry into the existence of God in his attempt to begin from a position hampered by as few assumptions as possible. Descartes was also intrigued by the camera obscura. Crary, Techniques of the Observer at [illegible]–[illegible].

45 See Kissel at [illegible], nn. [illegible] and [illegible]. Kissel noted that Luther wrote of the [illegible]love of truth[illegible] to bring [illegible]light[illegible] but also that a judge [illegible]must be blind, his eyes and ears covered[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Specifically, [illegible]Therefore he must be quite blind, have his eyes and ears closed, neither see nor hear, but go straight forward in everything that comes before him, and decide accordingly[illegible] Martin Luther, The Lar[illegible]e Catechism, in Triglot Concordia: The Symbolical Books of the Ev. Lutheran Church [illegible] (F. Bente [illegible] W. H. T. Dau, trans., St. Louis, MO: Concordia Publishing, [illegible]). Yet Luther can also be quoted as stating: [illegible]W[illegible]hat kind of judge would he be who should blindly judge matters which he neither heard nor saw[illegible] Martin Luther, Secular [illegible]uthorit[illegible] To What [illegible]tent [illegible] Should Be [illegible]e[illegible]ed, in Martin Luther: Selections from His Writings [illegible] (John Dillenberger, ed., New York, NY: Anchor Books, [illegible]). Lutheran theological approaches fit with seventeenth-century images in Germany and the Netherlands, in which Justice wears either blindfolds or diaphanous scarves. As discussed in Chapter [illegible], Zapalac argued that Lutheranism was a source for the replacement of scenes of the Last Judgment with images of Justice. See Kristin Eldyss Sorensen Zapalac, [illegible]In His Image and Likeness[illegible]: Political Iconography and Religious Change in Regensburg, [illegible]–[illegible] (Ithaca, NY: Cornell U. Press, [illegible]).

46 See Beth A. Berkowitz, Ne[illegible]otiatin[illegible] [illegible]iolence and the Word in [illegible]a[illegible]inic Law, [illegible] Yale Journal of Law and Humanities [illegible] ([illegible]).

47 Deuteronom[illegible] [illegible]:[illegible] in The New English Bible (Charles Harold Dodd, ed., Oxford [illegible] Cambridge, Eng.: Oxford [illegible] Cambridge U. Presses, [illegible]).

48 Halberstam at [illegible]. An alternative view was advanced by Bernard M. Levinson, who argued that Deuteronom[illegible] both subjected decisionmaking to due process and also established a form of separation of powers by [illegible]sundering any connection between justice and monarchy[illegible] A system of clan justice was replaced by local appointments and forms of professionalization. See Bernard M. Levinson, Deuteronomy and the Hermeneutics of Legal Innovation [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

49 The blindfold did not, however, lose all its [illegible]satirical implication[illegible] See Martin Jay, Must Justice Be Blind[illegible] in Law and the Image at [illegible]–[illegible]. Jay argued that by [illegible] the positive connotations had become pervasive. As we discuss in Chapter [illegible], several negative examples from later than that point in time can be identified.

50 A few commentators see the religious imagery surrounding judges in the Renaissance as signaling some degree of independence from rulers. See Jacob, Images of Justice at [illegible]–[illegible]. Jacob argued that Justice was thus constrained by law as part of the triumph of positivism and of the commitment to rationality.

51 See Robert Jacob, Le [illegible]ement de Dieu et la formation de la fonc[illegible]tion de [illegible]er dans [illegible]istoire europ[illegible]enne [illegible]The Jud[illegible]ment of [illegible]od and the [illegible]ormation of the Judicial [illegible]unction in [illegible]uropean [illegible]istor[illegible] [illegible] Archives de Philosophie du Droit [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). Christian-Nils Robert concurred but viewed that critical space as waning during the sixteenth century as religious imagery was replaced in town halls with more secular stories. See Christian-Nils Robert, La Justice dans ses décors (Xve–XVIe siècles) (Justice in Its Settings during the [illegible]th and [illegible]th Centuries) [illegible]–[illegible] (Geneva, Switz.: Libraire Droz S.A., [illegible]).

52 Montesquieu at [illegible].

53 Robert Cover, The [illegible]olktales of Justice[illegible]Tales of Jurisdiction, [illegible] Capital University Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]). For example, Cover described a story growing out of attempts to explain the Talmudic maxim [illegible]The king does not judge and we do not judge him[illegible] Mishneh Sanhedrin [illegible]:[illegible], quoted in [illegible]olktales of Justice at [illegible]. As Cover related this [illegible]folktale[illegible] Simeon ben Shetah, Chief Judge of the Sanhedrin, called on King Yannai to testify in a case involving the King's slave. The King replied that he would do so only if all of the seventy-one judges would so command him. The judges other than Simeon ben Shetah were intimated by the King and backed away from demanding that he testify. After the King left, Simeon called on God to call the weak judges to account; the Angel Gabriel responded by killing them all. Id. at [illegible].

54 See Theodore K. Rabb, The Last Days of the Renaissance and the March to Modernity [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Basic Books, [illegible]). Rabb also argued that what distinguished the Renaissance from the modern period were different ideas about the relationship of divine authority to the political order and about the import of wars. Modern leaders[illegible] as he defined them[illegible] do not think godly guidance and supernatural signs ought to affect their judgments and, in light of the violence enabled by gunpowder and other technological advances, no longer see war as glorious. For him (as for us), the new attitudes are revealed in part in art. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Quentin Skinner, Liberty before Liberalism [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Skinner, Liberty before Liberalism).

55 Skinner, Liberty before Liberalism at [illegible]. Skinner captured the interest in constraining kingly power as [illegible]where law ends, liberty begins[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

56 Skinner, Liberty before Liberalism at [illegible]–[illegible]. This freedom within government, deeply focused on a community rather than an individual's freedom, was not to be equated with [illegible]the modern notion of civil society as a moral space between rulers and ruled[illegible] Id. at [illegible], [illegible].

57 [illegible]The Judges, both of the supreme and inferior Courts, shall hold their Offices during good Behaviour, and shall, at stated times, receive for their Services, a Compensation, which shall not be diminished during their Continuance in Office.[illegible] U.S. Const. Art. III, sec. [illegible].

58 This political explanation was offered by the jurist Otto Kissel, who noted that the blindfold became a popular attribute of Justice during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and argued that its inclusion coincided with the establishment of professional, independent judges who stood apart from the sovereign state and were not simply acting at its behest. The replacement of lay judges by judges with legal training highlighted the distinction developed between the state and the judiciary. Kissel saw the blindfold as signifying the need for the employee-judge not to decide cases to please the employer-state, and he explained the subsequent popularity of the blindfold in northern Europe as a constant reminder of the need for impartiality (vis-[illegible]-vis the state) of the newly independent judiciary. Justice blindfolded could not see whatever signals a sovereign sent about how to decide a case. Kissel at [illegible]–[illegible].

59 Martin Kuijer, The Blindfold of Lady Justice: Judicial Independence and Impartiality in Light of the Requirements of Article [illegible] ECHR (Leiden, Neth.: Wolf Legal Publishers, [illegible]).

60 See William R. Paulson, Enlightenment, Romanticism, and the Blind in France [illegible]–[illegible] (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]); Michael J. Morgan, Molyneux's Question: Vision, Touch and the Philosophy of Perception (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]). Molyneux was a member of the Irish Parliament and the author of The Case for [illegible]reland ([illegible]) and Diopica nova ([illegible]). He lived from [illegible] to [illegible], and his interest in optics may have come in part because his wife was blind. Morgan at [illegible]; Degenaar at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible].

61 Degenaar at [illegible], citing Aristotle's De anima ([illegible] n the Soul[illegible], bk. II, ch. [illegible].

62 Mark Paterson, [illegible]Seein[illegible] with the [illegible] and[illegible]Blindness, Touch, and the [illegible]nli[illegible]ntenment Spatial [illegible]ma[illegible]inar[illegible], [illegible] British Journal of Visual Impairment [illegible] ([illegible]). Paterson's title referred to a [illegible] discussion by Descartes arguing that tactility was a lesser sense than sight. Id. at [illegible].

63 See Harry A. Wolfson, The [illegible]nternal Senses in Latin, [illegible]ra[illegible]ic, and [illegible]e[illegible]rew Philosophical Te[illegible]ts, [illegible] Harvard Theological Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Katherine H. Tachau, Vision and Certitude in the Age of Ockham: Optics, Epistemology, and the Foundations of Semantics, [illegible]–[illegible] (Leiden, Neth.: E. J. Brill, [illegible]). Wolfson examined the impact of Aristotelian understandings, including that [illegible]sensations and images remain in the sense-organs even when the sensible objects are withdrawn[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Tachau's focus was on the centuries just before the appearance of blindfolds on Justice; her interest was in debates among philosophers at Oxford and in Paris about how individuals gained knowledge, the distinctions drawn between intuitions and abstractions, and the relationship of both to judgment. Further, she detailed (at [illegible]) Ockham's theory of [illegible]adjudicative acts[illegible] that entailed not only apprehending information but assessing its truth. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

64 Locke at [illegible]–[illegible]. Locke was joined by other philosophers who assumed that tactile and visual sensations differed in significant ways. Degenaar at [illegible]–[illegible]. Locke also distinguished between [illegible]primary qualities that he posited exist independent of a person's observations (shape, for example) and secondary qualities that are artifacts of observation (color, for example). Those distinctions and their coherence have spawned debate. See Samuel C. Rickless, Locke on Primary and Secondary Qualities, PACIFIC PHILOSOPHICAL QUARTERLY [illegible] ([illegible]); E. M. Curley, Locke, Boyle, and the Distinction between Primary and Secondary Qualities, PHILOSOPHICAL REVIEW [illegible] ([illegible]).

As for the Molyneux problem, Paulson commented that the hypothetical permitted philosophers to conceive of a mind without experience, to verify that what is in the understanding is property acquired through experience. PAULSON at [illegible]. As Morgan pointed out, a modern version of this question would consider whether such a person could see but Locke and Molyneux assumed that sight would follow and focused on what ideas came with the presumed full range of visual experience. MORGAN at [illegible]. Jonathan Crary argued that the view of knowledge of space and depth as built up out of an orderly accumulation and cross-referencing of perceptions on a plane independent of the viewer was an eighteenth-century attitude that thought the senses to be an adjunct of a rational mind; in the nineteenth century that view was superseded by an understanding of a world organized by exchange and flux where knowledge was bound up in touch. CRARY, TECHNIQUES OF THE OBSERVER at [illegible].

65 In [illegible] William Cheselden, a surgeon, published an article describing his operation on a young man with cataracts. DEGENAAR at [illegible]. See also Paterson at [illegible].

66 PAULSON at [illegible], [illegible].

67 PAULSON at [illegible]. A chronology from the [illegible] publication of Locke's Essay Concerning Human Understanding through the mid-nineteenth century is provided by Morgan at [illegible].

68 Denis Diderot was born in [illegible] and died in [illegible]. His Lettre sur les aveugles à l'usage de ceux qui voient (generally translated in abbreviated form as Letter on the Blind) was first published in [illegible]. The essay is divided into segments, the first written as if a surgeon were aggrieved at the philosophes who examine his patients. The second is addressed to the psychology of a congenitally blind person, followed by Diderot's engagement with the Molyneux problem. Diderot raised the question of whether, after an operation, a person would see at all. Diderot's book ends with a poetic affirmation of our ignorance of ultimate reality. For this Diderot was put into a dungeon in Vincennes. MORGAN at [illegible]. Morgan provided an English translation of Diderot's Letter at [illegible], and we use his translation for our references to Diderot's argument, which we denote DIDEROT/MORGAN.

69 DIDEROT/MORGAN at [illegible]. See also DEGENAAR at [illegible]. As noted, Diderot disentangled the question of what could be seen immediately to which he thought the answer was a multitude of confused sensations from the question of whether a blind person would be able to distinguish among shapes by naming them. DIDEROT/MORGAN at [illegible]; DEGENAAR at [illegible].

70 DIDEROT/MORGAN at [illegible]; PAULSON at [illegible]. Further, as Degenaar explained (at [illegible]), Diderot also argued that the preparations made before an eye operation would be relevant to the knowledge of the blind person and thus added more variables to be considered. Paulson commented that Diderot undermined the scientific validity of any such real experiments in that Diderot insisted that none of the observers would themselves be dispassionate. PAULSON at [illegible].

71 PAULSON at [illegible].

72 PAULSON at [illegible].

73 PAULSON at [illegible]. Diderot outlined different conditions under which a blind person learned to see. He posited that some aspects of understanding (a reliance on tactile sensations) might be uniform but that background knowledge (such as an expertise in mathematics) would alter understanding and approaches. DIDEROT/MORGAN at [illegible].

74 PAULSON at [illegible]. Paulson noted that for Diderot, every individual has at his disposal those signs with which his senses and education have provided him. Id. at [illegible]. Diderot himself stated: Information has three routes sight, hearing, and touch into our mind, and we keep it out by a failure to invent suitable signs. DIDEROT/MORGAN at [illegible]. Diderot then imagined a system akin to Braille, presuming that if a tactile language existed, the blind would not be disadvantaged. Perhaps they would acquire ideas if we made ourselves understood to them . . . if we were to draw on their hands the same characters that we draw upon paper, and if we always attached consistent meanings to such impressions. Is this language not as easy as another Is it any more arbitrary Id. at [illegible].

75 PAULSON at [illegible]. In Promenade d'un sceptique (Skeptic's Promenade), published in [illegible], Diderot equated the blindfold with the irrationality and unreason of faith; those who are clear-sighted are endowed with reason, knowledge, and understanding based on observation and experience. Diderot, Promenade d'un sceptique, in OEUVRES COMPLÈTES, vol. [illegible] at [illegible] (Paris, Fran.: Le Club français du livre, [illegible]).

76 MORGAN at [illegible], [illegible]. In contrast, contemporary readers offer a different appraisal. For example, Morgan credited Diderot's Letter on the Blind for standing out a mile from all other eighteenth-century psychological writing for its attention to detail, and its concern for fact against speculation. Id. at [illegible].

77 See MORGAN at [illegible]. Contemporary studies make plain that perception is not necessarily to be equated with the input from particular sense organs. Id. at [illegible].

78 Paterson at [illegible].

79 Paterson at [illegible].

80 See, for example, HEURISTICS AND BIASES: THE PSYCHOLOGY OF INTUITIVE JUDGMENT (Thomas Gilovich, Dale Griffin, & Daniel Kahneman, eds., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]); Kristin A. Lane, Jason P. Mitchell, & Mahzarin R. Banaji, Me and My Group: Cultural Status Can Disrupt Cognitive Consistency, SOCIAL COGNITION [illegible] ([illegible]).

81 In law, cognitive psychological insights have prompted efforts to model decisionmakers' processes. See, for example, Daniel Kahneman & Cass R. Sunstein, Cognitive Psychology of Moral Intuitions, in NEUROBIOLOGY OF HUMAN VALUES (Jean-Pierre Changeux, Yves Christen, Antonio Damasio, & Wolf Singer, eds., Berlin, Ger.: Springer-Verlag, [illegible]).

82 RAWLS at [illegible]. Rawls's imagery of the veil denoting that a decisionmaker does not know who will benefit or be harmed by a principle is frequently deployed in the legal academy. See, for example, Adrian Vermeule, Veil of Ignorance Rules in Constitutional Law, [illegible] YALE LAW JOURNAL [illegible] ([illegible]).

83 RAWLS at [illegible]. In addition to imposing the condition of the veil of ignorance, Rawls also imposed conditions that did not rank end-systems in terms of value. He further presumed that each person has the requisite ability to understand and to act upon whatever principles are adopted. Id. In contrast, Michael Walzer has argued for the desirability of situated, engaged criticism, understood as predicated on particularized knowledge. See MICHAEL WALZER, INTERPRETATION AND SOCIAL CRITICISM (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, [illegible]).

84 RAWLS at [illegible].

85 RAWLS at [illegible]. In this part of his discussion Rawls took pains to relate his theory to and distinguish it from that of Immanuel Kant.

86 RAWLS at [illegible].

87 Rawls also posited that coercive sanctions cushioned concerns that others were not complying with the rules. RAWLS at [illegible].

88 RAWLS at [illegible], [illegible]. Both contract and publicity also entailed a notion that people would honor the agreements to which they subscribed. Publicity also induced stability. Id. at [illegible].

89 RAWLS at [illegible].

90 See Jay, Must Justice Be Blind, in LAW AND THE IMAGE at [illegible]. Jay offered that proposition in connection with the reproduction of the engraving of the Janus-faced image (fig. [illegible]) from a [illegible] Anvers edition of the Damhoudere volume. As we discuss in Chapter [illegible], the image can be read to deploy the blindfold derisively.

91 Figure [illegible] is provided courtesy of Thomas Agnew [illegible] Sons, Ltd. The series was executed between [illegible] and [illegible]. Reynolds, who lived in England from [illegible] until his death in [illegible], was a noted portrait painter. He was also a founding member of the [illegible]Literary Club[illegible] formed in [illegible] by a group including the essayist Samuel Johnson, the political theorist Edmund Burke, and the actor David Garrick. In [illegible] King George III approved the incorporation of the Royal Academy of Arts and appointed Reynolds the first president. Claude Phillips, Sir Joshua Reynolds [illegible]–[illegible] (London, Eng.: Seely, [illegible]).

92 Thomas Jervais was born in Dublin, Ireland, and died in [illegible]. He moved to England in [illegible]; in addition to the New College Chapel windows, he also did a Resurrection commissioned for St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle. Jervais used a glass-painting technique that involved burning enamel color into white glass. Martin Postle, Joshua Reynolds: The Subject Pictures [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

93 Harry J. Powell, The Picture Windows in New Colle[illegible]e [illegible]nte[illegible] Chapel, [illegible] Burlington Magazine [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

94 Postle at [illegible]. Others refer to Raphael as a source. Phillips at [illegible].

95 Phillips at [illegible]. Reynolds designed the Nativity scene as well and included a self-portrait of himself and a portrait of Jervais. Id. at [illegible].

96 For some, the lack of a blindfold was also notable. See Martin Postle, The West Window of New Colle[illegible]e Chapel, [illegible] Apollo [illegible] ([illegible]); see generally Reynolds, Royal Academy of Arts Catalogue, entry for [illegible]Justice[illegible] (Nicholas Penny, ed., London, Eng.: Weidenfeld [illegible] Nicholson, [illegible]) (hereinafter Reynolds, Royal Academy Catalogue).

97 Postle at [illegible], quoting a newspaper, The Morning Post, May [illegible], [illegible].

98 See, for example, Reynolds, Royal Academy Catalogue at [illegible], noting that the [illegible]shadow falling over the eyes of Justice serves as a substitute for the traditional blindfold[illegible] Reynolds conveyed the point that Justice ought to be [illegible]unswayed by superficial evidence[illegible] Id.

99 Heather McPherson, Picturin[illegible] Tra[illegible]ed[illegible] Mrs[illegible] Siddons as the Tra[illegible]ic Muse [illegible]evisited, [illegible] Eighteenth Century Studies [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Postle called this Justice the [illegible]finest figure[illegible] of the Virtues and one that was [illegible]perfectly poised.[illegible] Postle at [illegible].

100 The building in figure [illegible] was annexed to the James C. Cleveland Federal Building that had opened in [illegible]. The thirty-million-dollar renovation, by the architectural firm of Shepley Bulfinch Richardson and Abbott, was completed in [illegible]. That firm dates from the nineteenth century. See J. D. Forbes, Sheple[illegible] Bulfinch, [illegible]ichardson [illegible] [illegible]ott, [illegible]rchitects[illegible]n [illegible]ntroduction, [illegible]: [illegible] Journal of the Society of Architectural Historians [illegible] ([illegible]). The architect on the project, Jean Paul Carlhian, also designed the base for the Justice statue. See Nancy West, Statue for [illegible]ederal Court Drawin[illegible] Mi[illegible]ed [illegible]eviews, New Hampshire Sunday News, July [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible] (hereinafter West, Statue Drawin[illegible] Mi[illegible]ed [illegible]eviews).

Carlhian and the artist, Diana Moore, had differences during the design phase as to the size of the base, Justice's clothing, her stance, and the placement of her feet. Staff notes, General Services Administration (GSA) Art-in-Architecture Archive AA [illegible], Diana Moore (hereinafter GSA, AA [illegible] Moore). Carlhian did note his admiration for Moore's [illegible]willingness[illegible] to respond to the judges' concerns while remaining committed to her approach. Letter from Jean Paul Carlhian to Susan Harrison, chief of the Art-in-Architecture Program of the GSA (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]), GSA, AA [illegible] Moore.

Diana Moore was born in [illegible] in Norfolk, Virginia, and studied art in the Midwest. Her work is displayed in many museums, as well as at three federal courthouses. As discussed in Chapter [illegible], in the early [illegible]s, she sculpted a colossal head, Justice, placed flush with the plaza of the Martin Luther King Jr. Federal Building and Courthouse in Newark, New Jersey. In [illegible] she executed two large [illegible]rns of Justice (faces, with eyes blindfolded and skulls open at the top) for the Federal Courthouse in Lafayette, Louisiana. Both the [illegible] New Jersey sculpture and the [illegible] Concord Justice won GSA Design Awards, and the [illegible] Louisiana project was awarded a citation. General Service Administration, Justice[illegible] [illegible] Justice for Concord[illegible] [illegible]or[illegible]in[illegible] To[illegible]ether the [illegible]ncient and the Modern (undated and unpaginated monograph from about [illegible], published to recognize the renovation of the courthouse and the installation of the art) (hereinafter GSA, Concord Justice).

Our thanks to Diana Moore for meeting with us to discuss the project's development and for photographs of her work, to the Honorable Joseph DiClerico, then Chief Judge of the Federal District Court for the District of New Hampshire, who also gave us a detailed understanding of the courthouse renovation and of its art, to the architectural firm of Shepley Bulfinch Richardson and Abbott for permission to use photographs of the building and of its art, and to Susan Harrison of the Art-in-Architecture Program of the GSA who provided us with background information and facilitated our meeting with participants. The photographs in figures [illegible]–[illegible] are by Nick Wheeler; these images were provided to us and are reproduced with permission of Shepley Bulfinch Richardson and Abbott and of Diana Moore.

101 See Ralph Jimenez, [illegible] [illegible]eturn to Classical St[illegible]le, Boston Globe, Feb. [illegible], [illegible] (hereinafter Jimenez, [illegible] [illegible]eturn to Classical St[illegible]le). Jimenez also commented that the [illegible]symmetry is really the agony of judgment and therefore it should convey that there are equal options of right and left, right and wrong[illegible] The renovation included the [illegible]Palladian arch of glass and anodized aluminum[illegible] that formed the atrium. Id.

102 The statue was [illegible]cast as seven separate pieces[illegible] that were welded together. GSA, Concord Justice.

103 GSA, Concord Justice.

104 The [illegible]inwardly contemplative expression of Moore's Justice is partly inspired by the meditative faces of the Hindu goddesses depicted in Cambodian sculpture of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries[illegible] GSA, Concord Justice. In Moore's proposal, she described the influences of the [illegible]Cambodian sculpture of the Khmer Period. There is a stillness; an ageless purity of form in this work to which I feel a strong connection[illegible] Moore, A Proposal for a Sculpture of Justice in the New United States Courthouse Annex at [illegible] (undated), GSA, AA [illegible] Moore.

105 In lieu of scales, the GSA described Justice's [illegible]asymmetrical, yet perfectly balanced, arms[illegible] as representing that idea. GSA, Concord Justice.

106 In a letter explaining the proposed work, Moore wrote that her Justice's eyes were to be [illegible]closed and wrapped, looking inward toward the [illegible]perfect judgment.' In this state of concentration she will stand, an inspiration; illusive, and ever present[illegible] Moore letter to the GSA (undated), GSA, AA [illegible] Moore.

107 Moore also placed diaphanous blindfolds on other courthouse commissions[illegible] the colossal head in Newark, New Jersey, and the two [illegible]rns of Justice in Lafayette, Louisiana[illegible] enabling the viewer to see through the blindfold to a Justice who has closed her eyes.

108 The import of a Justice deliberately imposing a blindfold on herself is explored by Cover in his [illegible]olktales of Justice, in which he argued that the self-imposed distance enabled judges to stand up to oppressive powers that sought to intimidate them.

109 GSA, Concord Justice.

110 GSA, Concord Justice.

111 John A. Parks, Modern Sculpture from [illegible]ncient Sources, [illegible] American Artist [illegible], [illegible] (October [illegible]) (discussing Moore's work for the Newark, New Jersey, courthouse). See also Robin Rice, Diana Moore, Philadelphia citypaper.net, May [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], http://www.citypaper.net/articles/[illegible]/article[illegible].shtml.

112 Editors, The Blindfold of Justice, Legal Affairs Magazine, July–Aug. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠ (hereinafter Editorial: Blindfold of Justice). See also Nancy West, Dressin⊠ Naked Statue Proves Costl⊠, Union-Leader News, July ⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠. By the time of the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ approval of the contract, the figure was described as ⊠a plainly clothed statue of a woman wearing a full length dress that flows close to the pedestal. . . . The woman's arms are raised in the air, tying a blindfold on her head⊠ Approval of Diana Moore's Proposed Work of Art, Memorandum (Nov. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), GSA, AA ⊠⊠⊠ Moore.

113 Jimenez, ⊠ ⊠eturn to Classical St⊠le.

114 ⊠The earliest clay studies for the sculpture were actually rendered nude, so that the artist could mold the figure to her satisfaction. Once the artist was pleased with the figure's form, she clothed it in a series of different garments. Through this evolutionary process, Moore developed the version that was finally cast⊠ GSA, Concord Justice.

115 Jimenez, ⊠ ⊠eturn to Classical St⊠le. Notes from the panel meeting reflect that a woman described her regret at having to give ⊠⊠up the navel and the nipples.'⊠ Concord Panel Members (undated notes), GSA, AA ⊠⊠⊠ Moore. However, one of the court's judges opined that ⊠a courthouse was not an appropriate place to see an exposed navel⊠ The judge subsequently wrote to object to the visibility of nipples, commenting that the garment's ⊠informality . . . and what it reveals made it unsuitable⊠ Oct. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, minutes and addendum on Artist Proposal Meeting of April ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, GSA, AA ⊠⊠⊠ Moore. The artist then made modifications so that the gown shifted ⊠further away from any ⊠anatomical reading' of the underlying form⊠ Id., Moore Letter (May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

116 West, Statue Drawin⊠ Mi⊠ed ⊠eviews.

117 Moore also drew on those images when crafting the two monumental ⊠rns of Justice for the Federal Courthouse in Lafayette, Louisiana, and the similar colossal concrete head for the Federal Court in Newark, New Jersey.

118 Editors, The Blindfold of Justice.

119 Editors, The Blindfold of Justice.

120 Pless⊠ v⊠⊠er⊠uson, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (Harlan, J., dissenting).

121 August Meier ⊠ John H. Bracey Jr., The N⊠⊠CP as a ⊠eform Movement, ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠: ⊠To ⊠each the Conscience of ⊠merica⊠⊠⊠ Journal of Southern History ⊠, ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

122 Elmer C. Jackson Jr. ⊠ Jacob U. Gordon, A Search for Equal Justice by African-American Lawyers: A History of the National Bar Association ⊠⊠ (New York, NY: Vantage Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (describing Gertrude E. Rush, the one woman among the twelve founders).

123 Jackson ⊠ Gordon at ⊠⊠, quoting Raymond Pace Alexander. In the late ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, the objectives were to ⊠improve economic conditions (of all American citizens) regardless of race, sex or creed in their efforts to secure a free and untrammeled use of the franchise⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. In the original constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, there was no mention of race in the section on objectives.

124 Jackson ⊠ Gordon at xi (quoting an inaugural address given in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ by President Thurman L. Dodson).

125 See generally Margalynne J. Armstrong ⊠ Stephanie M. Wildman, Teachin⊠⊠ace ⊠Teachin⊠ Whiteness ⊠Transformin⊠ Color ⊠lindness to Color ⊠nsi⊠ht, ⊠⊠ North Carolina Law Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

126 See, for example, Ariela J. Gross, ⊠The Caucasian Cloak ⊠⊠Me⊠⊠ican ⊠mericans and the Politics of Whiteness in the Twentieth ⊠Centur⊠ Southwest, ⊠⊠ Georgetown Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

127 See Parents ⊠nvolved in Communit⊠ Schools v⊠Seattle School District No⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Chief Justice John Roberts's opinion for the five-person majority quoted from the Pless⊠ opinion (id. at ⊠⊠⊠), while the concurrence by Justice Clarence Thomas used the phrase ⊠color-blind⊠ several times (id. at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠). The impassioned dissent by Justice Stephen Breyer argued that no case had followed the version of colorblindness proposed by Justice Thomas but rather had attended to the ⊠asymmetry between that which seeks to e⊠clude and that which seeks to include members of minority races⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠ (emphasis in the original).

128 Chisholm v⊠⊠ eor⊠ia, ⊠ U.S. (⊠ Dall.) ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (Wilson, J.). The five justices sitting each filed an opinion. Justice Iredell dissented. The decision's rule, that the suit could proceed, was subsequently revised by the Eleventh Amendment of the United States Constitution, stating that the ⊠judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by Citizens of another State, or by Citizens or Subjects of any Foreign State⊠ U.S. Const., Amend. XI. The question of how to interpret the reach of this provision remains intense, with several decisions in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s rendered five to four.

129 Mar⊠ur⊠ v⊠Madison, ⊠ U.S. (⊠ Cranch) ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

130 ⊠oster v⊠⊠linois, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

131 ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. at ⊠⊠⊠ (Rutledge, J., dissenting).

132 Nachova v⊠Bu⊠⊠aria (No. ⊠), App. Nos. ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ Eur. H.R. Rep. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (quoting Menson v⊠⊠ nited ⊠in⊠dom, ⊠⊠⊠⊠-V Eur. Ct. H.R. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠). At issue was the investigation into the deaths of two individuals who were Bulgarian nationals of Roma origin. A subsequent decision using the same phrasing is ⊠n⊠elova and ⊠iev v⊠ Bu⊠⊠aria, App. No. ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠ (Eur. Ct. H.R. ⊠⊠⊠⊠) at the European Court of Human Rights' website, http://www.echr.coe.int/eng.

133 See Case C-⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠, ⊠ llon⊠⊠ v⊠⊠ ccrin⊠ton ⊠ ⊠ossendale Col⊠ le⊠e, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ E.C.R. ⊠-⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ (opinion of Advocate General Geelhoed).

134 Cassell v⊠Te⊠as, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (Frankfurter, J., concurring, joined by Justices Burton and Minton). Justice Frankfurter returned to the metaphor in his concurrence in a subsequent case on discrimination against blacks for selection to serve as regular jurors. In Walker County, Georgia, jurors were selected by drawing their names from a box; ⊠the names of white persons⊠ were printed on white tickets, while ⊠the names of Negroes⊠ were printed on yellow tickets. ⊠ver⊠ v⊠⊠ eor⊠ia, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The Supreme Court found that system unconstitutional, and Frankfurter added that the ⊠mind of justice, not merely its eyes, would have to be blind to attribute⊠ the absence of black jurors to ⊠mere fortuity⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. at ⊠⊠⊠.

135 The poem first appeared in the ⊠msterdam News on April ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠. See Hans Ostrom, A Langston Hughes Encyclopedia ⊠⊠⊠ (Westport, CT: Greenwood Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Hughes Encyclopedia). Eight years later, in Scotts⊠oro Limited, the poem was published with three others: Scotts⊠oro, Christ in ⊠la⊠ama, and The Town of Scotts⊠oro. The four poems served as a prelude to a one-act drama that included eight defendants, plus ⊠eight white workers, a white man, and two white women⊠ and called for audience participation. Recreated are parts of the trial showing both racism and class exploitation. See Joseph McLaren, Langston Hughes: Folk Dramatist in the Protest Tradition, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Westport, CT: Greenwood Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Richard Wright used the blindness metaphor again in his book Native Son, published in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Id. at ⊠⊠. See also Hughes Encyclopedia at ⊠⊠⊠. Hughes republished Justice in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ in a book of poems titled ⊠ New Son⊠. There, however, the phrase ⊠we black⊠ in the second line of the poem became ⊠we poor⊠ See Langston Hughes, The Collected Works of Langston Hughes, vol. ⊠: The Poems, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠ (Arnold Rampersad, ed., Columbia, MO: U. of Missouri Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

136 Dan T. Carter, Scottsboro: A Tragedy of the American South ⊠–⊠⊠ (Baton Rouge, LA: Louisiana State U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

137 See Carter at ⊠⊠⊠; Hughes Encyclopedia at ⊠⊠⊠.

138 Hughes, who lived from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠, was a leader of what is termed the Harlem Renaissance, in which a host of talented African Americans generated art and literature. Many accounts of the events and the protests that surrounded the Scottsboro trial have been written. See, for example, Hugh T. Murray Jr., Chan⊠in⊠ ⊠merica and the Chan□in□□□ma□e of Scotts□oro, □□ Phylon □□ (□□□□). Hughes's involvement is tracked in Michael Thurston, Black Christ, □ed □la□□Lan□ston □ u□hes on Scotts□oro, □□:□ College Literature □□, □□–□□ (□□□□) (describing Hughes's distress at the initial absence of attention paid in the □Negro schools and colleges□ and Hughes's composition of the first poem, opening with the line □Christ is a Nigger□).

139 Haywood Patterson had been in jail for seventeen years. Murray at □□–□□.

140 McLaren at □□. The year was □□□□.

141 By the late □□□□s, more than □□,□□□ black lawyers, judges, legal scholars, and students were members, and six women had served among the fifty-six presidents, according to President Beverly McQueary Smith, who served in □□□□–□□□□, quoted in Jackson □ Gordon at xii.

142 Gilbert Ware, □ntroduction, Proceedin□s□□oundin□ Convention of the Judicial Council of the National Bar □ssociation, □□ Journal of Public Law □□□□, □□□ (□□□□). Eligible for membership were persons who were or had been in □judicial or quasi-judicial□ positions. Jackson □ Gordon at □□. As the bylaws also detailed, one of the aims was to □hasten the meaningful integration of the judiciary□ Id. at □□; Program of the Founding Convention of the Judicial Council of the National Bar Association, Aug. □–□, □□□□.

143 Honorable George W. Crockett Jr., quoted by Ware at □□□.

144 The group identified judicial discretion and courts as sources of □racism□ including differential treatment by police and prosecutors, exclusion from juries, inattentive witnesses, and abuse from lawyers. See George W. Crockett Jr., □acism in the Courts, □□ Journal of Public Law □□□ (□□□□). The first program's agenda included that topic□ □Racism in the Courts□□ as well as seminars on problems in different kinds of courts and on economic inequality. At the time, of about □□,□□□ judges nationwide in state and federal courts, some □□□ were black. The group hoped that black judges would be better able to see and remediate racism. Crockett at □□□–□□□.

145 The facsimile by Yale University Press in figure □□ is reproduced with the permission of the Honorable Michael Bagneris, □□□□ Chair of the Judicial Council of the National Bar Association, and with the assistance of Maurice Foster of that organization. Our thanks to the Honorable Ulysses Gene Thibodeaux, Chief Judge, Court of Appeals, Third Circuit, State of Louisiana, for bringing this image to our attention and for his tireless efforts to make it available to us.

146 Crockett at □□□.

147 For example, a decade after the founding of the Judicial Council, a federal appellate judge, Damon Keith, speaking at the fifty-sixth annual National Bar Association Convention, specifically objected to the idea that law be □color-blind□ Then one of two black judges on the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit (including the federal courts of Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, and Tennessee), Judge Keith pointed out that the dictionary provided the words □insensitive□ and □oblivious□ as synonyms for being blind, and he argued that to be color-blind was to ignore hundreds of years of discrimination on the basis of color. Honorable Damon J. Keith, Should Color Blindness and □epresentativeness Be a Part of □merican Justice□ □□ Howard Law Journal □, □–□ (□□□□).

148 See □nited States v□Leviner, □□ F. Supp. □d □□ (D. Mass. □□□□). There the Honorable Nancy Gertner decided to □depart□ (a term of art) from sentencing guidelines because a defendant's prior convictions were □largely motor vehicle offenses□ and a good deal of literature □strongly suggests that there is racial disparity in the rates at which African Americans are stopped and prosecuted for traffic offenses□ Id. at □□.

149 See, for example, Irfan Nooruddin, Blind Justice□□Seein□□□ace and □ender in Cases of □iolent Crime, □ Politics □ Gender □□□ (□□□□); and Andrew E. Taslitz, □acial Blindsi□ht□ The □□surdit□ of Color□Blind Criminal Justice, □ Ohio State Journal of Criminal Law □ (□□□□). Taslitz borrowed the psychological term for □seeing without knowing it□ with examples of blind individuals able to avoid harms as if they could see them coming, and mixing the idea of the trauma of slavery with blindness to its consequences.

150 See Kimberl□ Williams Crenshaw, □oreword□Towards a □ace□ Conscious Peda□o□□ in Le□al □ducation, □□ National Black Law Journal □, □ (□□□□) (discussing the purported □perspectivelessness□ of legal discourse).

151 I. Bennett Capers, □ n Justitia, □ace, □ender, and Blindness, □□ Michigan Journal of Race □ Law □□□, □□□ (□□□□).

152 Capers at □□□–□□□.

153 See Alex Stein, Constitutional □vidence Law, □□ Vanderbilt Law Review □□ (□□□□).

154 See generally Stefano Maffei, The European Right to Confrontation in Criminal Proceedings: Absent, Anonymous and Vulnerable Witnesses at □□–□□ (Groningen, Neth.: Europa Law Publishing, □□□□).

155 U.S. Const., Amend. VI. See generally Richard D. Friedman, □□ace to □ace□□□ediscoverin□ the □i□ht to Confront Prosecution Wit□nesses, □ International Journal of Evidence □ Proof □ (□□□□).

156 The United States Supreme Court has concluded that the provision bars □admission of testimonial statements of a witness who did not appear at trial unless he was unavailable to testify, and the defendant had had a prior opportunity for cross-examination.□ Crawford v□ Washin□ton, □□□ U.S. □□, □□–□□ (□□□□). A key question is when a person has provided □testimonial statements□ as contrasted with □other hearsay that, while subject to traditional limitations upon hearsay evidence, is not subject to the Confrontation Clause□ In Davis v□Wash□in□ton, □□□ U.S. □□□, □□□–□□□ (□□□□), in the context of whether statements made by a victim of domestic violence in her phone call to an emergency help center or thereafter to the police were subject to Confrontation Clause rights, the Court held: □Statements are nontestimonial when made in the course of police interrogation under circumstances objectively indicating that the primary purpose of the interrogation is to enable police assistance to meet an ongoing emergency. They are testimonial when the circumstances objectively indicate that there is no such ongoing emergency, and that the primary purpose of the interrogation is to establish or prove past events potentially relevant to later criminal prosecution.□

157 Article □(□)(d) of the European Convention on Human Rights states that everyone charged with a criminal offense has the right to □examine or have examined witnesses against him and to obtain the attendance and examination of witnesses on his behalf under the same conditions as witnesses against him□ Given varying legal traditions throughout Europe, that requirement has been translated to require that defendants have the opportunity to have evidence against them tested, but not necessarily that confrontation occur at one time in a consolidated trial. See Sarah J. Summers, The □i□ht of Confrontation after Crawford v. Washington: □ □Continental □uropean□ Perspective, □ International Commentary on Evidence □, □□ (Berkeley Electronic Press, http://www.bepress.com/ice, □□□□). Not all statements used in evidence need be heard in open court. Id. at □. Rather, the focus is on the □examination□ of witnesses rather than on confrontation, which has a more adversarial focus. See Maffei at □□–□□, □□–□□.

158 See generally John H. Langbein, □ istorical □oundations of the Law of □vidence□□ □ □iew from the □□□der Sources, □□ Columbia Law Review □□□□ (□□□□). Langbein provided examples of prohibitions against self-serving statements by □interested□ parties and concerns about falsification of documents, arguing that the central purpose of evidentiary rules in England was to □guard against the inherent weaknesses of jury trial□ Id. at □□□□.

159 □In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defence.⊠ U.S. Const., Amend. VI.

160 Drew L. Kershen, ⊠icina⊠e, ⊠⊠ Oklahoma Law Review ⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

161 After conviction challenges are sometimes refused, even, for example, when a convicted defendant learns that a juror was a childhood friend of the victim. See ⊠ushen v⊠Spain, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

162 See Fed. Rule Evid. ⊠⊠⊠ (Exclusion of Relevant Evidence on Grounds of Prejudice, Confusion, or Waste of Time) (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

163 Terms such as ⊠the lemon problem⊠ (that knowing about one bad experience⊠ for example, a friend's poorly performing car⊠ skews one's assessment of the brand in general) and ⊠implicit bias⊠ (that cultural attitudes toward race, age, or sex generate presumptions without a person's awareness) capture concerns about how certain pieces of data overwhelm one's ability to assess the import of information. See generally George A. Akerlof, The Market for ⊠Lemons⊠⊠ ⊠ ualit⊠⊠ ncertaint⊠ and the Market Mechanism, ⊠⊠ Quarterly Journal of Economics ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); see also Lane, Mitchell, ⊠ Banaji.

164 See Elizabeth F. Loftus, Eyewitness Testimony (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Brian L. Cutler ⊠ Steven D. Penrod, Mistaken Identification: The Eyewitness, Psychology, and the Law (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Samuel R. Sommers ⊠ Phoebe C. Ellsworth, White Juror Bias⊠ ⊠n ⊠nvesti⊠ation of Pre⊠udice a⊠ainst Black Defendants in the ⊠merican Courtroom, ⊠ Psychology, Public Policy ⊠ Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Chet K. W. Pager, Blind Justice, Colored Truths and the ⊠eil of ⊠⊠norance, ⊠⊠ Willamette Law Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Pager proposed that screens be erected so that jurors could not see the race of a person testifying. In practice, eyewitness testimony was neither the dominant source of information in criminal prosecutions nor the only unreliable form relied on. See Steven B. Duke, Ann Seung-Eun Lee, ⊠ Chet K. W. Pager, ⊠ Picture⊠ Worth a Thousand Words⊠Conversational versus ⊠⊠e⊠ witness Testimon⊠ in Criminal Convictions, ⊠⊠ American Criminal Law Review ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The authors noted that between ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠ hundreds of articles focused on the attention paid to eyewitness testimony and its inaccuracies and sought to draw attention to the limitations of ⊠conversational testimony⊠ Id. at ⊠–⊠.

165 ⊠stelle v⊠Williams, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The majority, however, concluded that the defendant had not raised the objection in a timely fashion and permitted the conviction to stand. The Court has also sanctioned gagging a disruptive defendant. See ⊠llinois v⊠⊠llen, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). But such restraints, as well as putting ⊠visible shackles⊠ on a defendant, are permissible only if ⊠justified by an essential state interest⊠ See Deck v⊠Missouri, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); and ⊠ ol⊠rook v⊠⊠⊠nn, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

166 The Book of Jud⊠es, Treatise ⊠ ne⊠Sanhedrin, in The Code of Maimonides (Mishneh Torah), bk. XIV, ch. xxi, paras. ⊠–⊠ at ⊠⊠ (Yale Judaica Series, Abraham M. Hershman, trans., New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

167 Care⊠ v⊠Musladin, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

168 See generally Jennifer L. Mnookin, The ⊠ma⊠e of Truth⊠Pho⊠ to⊠raphic ⊠vidence and the Power of ⊠nalo⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ Yale Journal of Law ⊠ Humanities ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). There Mnookin invoked Oliver Wendell Holmes's phrase referring to the photograph as ⊠a mirror with a memory⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠.

169 See Ira P. Robbins, The ⊠strich ⊠nstruction⊠Deli⊠erate ⊠⊠no⊠ rance as a Criminal Mens ⊠ea, ⊠⊠ Journal of Criminal Law ⊠ Criminology ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The term ⊠willful blindness⊠ can be found in both English law and that of the United States. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; ⊠ nited States v⊠⊠lston⊠⊠ raves, ⊠⊠⊠ F.⊠d ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (D.C. Cir. ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (also citing the Model Penal Code of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ as approving of the concept of the ostrich charge).

170 See the discussion of the ostrich in Chapter ⊠ and figs. ⊠/⊠⊠ and ⊠/⊠⊠. Ripa explained that Justice had to unravel problems through a ⊠patient attitude⊠ like that of the ostrich, reputed to be able to digest everything if it did so slowly. As one translation of Ripa put it: ⊠The ostrich ruminates its food as Justice should testimony put before her.⊠ Ripa, Padua–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠.

171 ⊠ nited States v⊠⊠ iovannetti, ⊠⊠⊠ F.⊠d ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠th Cir. ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

172 ⊠ iovannetti, ⊠⊠⊠ F.⊠d at ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Posner, J.). The court concluded that the evidence was not sufficient to support an ostrich charge, because the record did not include efforts to cut off ⊠one's normal curiosity by an effort of will⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Judge Posner returned to the issue of ostriches and ⊠ostrich⊠ instructions, stating that ⊠the legend that ostriches when frightened bury their head in the sand⊠ is a ⊠canard on a very distinguished bird⊠ Quoting the Zoological Society of San Diego, Judge Posner noted that ostriches do not bury their heads but rather fall to the ground when they sense danger. Since the color of their head and neck blends in with the color of the sand and ⊠only the body is visible⊠ the head only appears to be buried. He concluded that it was ⊠too late, however, to correct this injustice.⊠ ⊠ nited States v⊠Black, ⊠⊠⊠ F.⊠d ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠th Cir. ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Chapter ⊠

1 See David Cast, Marten van ⊠ eemskerck⊠ Momus Critic⊠in⊠ the Works of the ⊠ ods⊠⊠ Pro⊠lem of ⊠rasmian ⊠cono⊠raph⊠, ⊠ Simiolus: Netherlands Quarterly for the History of Art ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

2 De Iusticia Pingenda, On the Painting of Justice: A Dialogue between Mantegna and Momus by Battisti Fiera, The Latin Text of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Reprinted with Translation, an Introduction and Notes by James Wardrop ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (London, Eng.: Lion and Unicorn Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), discussed in Chapter ⊠.

3 We discuss later in this chapter how efforts to hide the offensive imagery evoke the analyses of Michel Foucault's Discipline and Pun⊠ ishment about state attempts to silence conflict through making the grounds for protest invisible. See Michel Foucault, Discipline and Punish: The Birth of the Prison (Alan Sheridan, trans., New York, NY: Vintage Books, ⊠d ed., ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

4 See William L. F. Felstiner, Richard L. Abel, ⊠ Austin Sarat, The ⊠mer⊠ence and Transformation of Disputes⊠Namin⊠, Blamin⊠, and Claimin⊠⊠. , ⊠⊠ Law ⊠ Society Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠).

5 ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). See generally Richard Kluger, Simple Justice: The History of Brown v. Board of Education and Black America's Struggle for Equality (New York, NY: Knopf, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Kenneth Mack, ⊠ethinkin⊠ Civil ⊠i⊠⊠hts Law⊠erin⊠ and Politics in the ⊠ra Before Brown, ⊠⊠⊠ Yale Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

6 See, for example, the Civil Rights Act of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Pub. L. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, now codified at ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠⊠e et seq.; the Fair Housing Act of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Pub. L. ⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠, codified at ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ et seq.; the Equal Pay Act of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Pub. L. ⊠⊠-⊠⊠, codified at ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ et seq. See generally Robert C. Post ⊠ Reva B. Siegel, Le⊠islative Constitutionalism and Sec⊠ tion ⊠ive Powers⊠Policentric ⊠nterpretation of the ⊠ami⊠ and Medical Leave ⊠ ct, ⊠⊠⊠ Yale Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

7 See Judith Resnik, Lessons in ⊠ederalism from the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s Class ⊠ ction ⊠ule and the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Class ⊠ ction ⊠airness ⊠ ct⊠⊠The Political Safe⊠ ⊠uards⊠of ⊠⊠re⊠ate Translocal ⊠ ctions, ⊠⊠⊠ U. of Pennsylvania Law Review ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

8 See Jonathan Crary, Techniques of the Observer: On Vision and Modernity in the Nineteenth Century ⊠–⊠ (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Crary, Techniques of the Observer).

9 See generally Critical Issues in Public Art: Content, Context and Controversy (Harriet F. Senie ⊠ Sally Webster, eds., New York, NY: Harper Collins, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Critical Issues in Public Art).

10 See Donald W. Thalacker, The Place of Art in the World of Architecture xii (New York, NY: Chelsea House, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

11 Senator William Proxmire gave the commission a ⊠Golden Fleece of the Month⊠award⊠ for fleecing the public by using ⊠⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ of taxpayer dollars for the sculpture. Thalacker at ⊠⊠.

12 The public protests about Tilted ⊠rc resulted in its removal in ⊠⊠⊠⊠; the Batcolumn remained in place. See generally Critical Issues in Public Art; see also Harriet F. Senie: The Tilted Arc Controversy: Dangerous Precedent (Minneapolis, MN: U. of Minnesota Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Judith H. Balfe and Margaret J. Wyszomirski, Pu⊠lic ⊠rt and Pu⊠lic Polic⊠ ⊠⊠ Journal of Arts Management and Law ⊠ (Winter, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Conflicts over public art in the second half of the twentieth century resulted in changes to the methods by which commissions were awarded. In the early ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, when set-asides for public art in federally funded buildings were put into place, architects played a major role in selection. After the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) came into being, it played a significant role in the selection of panels commissioning public art projects for the GSA. The NEA, in turn, gave artists a major role in panels, often comprised of their peers. In the early ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, GSA procedures shifted to put the project architect in charge of submitting an art-in-architecture proposal as part of the overall design, including providing proposed descriptions of the kind and placement of artworks. The GSA then asked the NEA to appoint qualified artists to review proposals, with final decisions made by the Design Review Panel of the GSA Public Building Service. Thalacker at xiii. In ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ the process was revised again, and more community representatives, including the ⊠mayor or an appropriate local government official⊠ along with key civic groups, were added. That system was designed to win wider public acceptance of GSA commissions. Id. at xiii.

A review of forty-one GSA commissions from the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s through the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s sought to analyze when and why controversies emerged. See Steven J. Tepper, ⊠nfamiliar ⊠⊠⊠ects in ⊠amiliar Places⊠ The Pu⊠lic ⊠esponse to ⊠rt⊠n⊠⊠ rchitecture, ⊠ International Journal of Cultural Policy ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). From his sample, Tepper concluded that half entailed no conflict and only a few resulted in organized protests. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. When conflicts did arise, they occurred ⊠over substantively neutral artworks⊠ i.e., works that were not intended to be especially provocative⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. In the subset involving protest, ⊠abstract art provoked more controversy than representational art⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. Tepper found that smaller cities were somewhat more often the sites of protest than larger ones (id. at ⊠⊠⊠), that community involvement had a modest effect in reducing the likelihood of conflict (id. at ⊠⊠⊠), and that some objections were predicated on the lack of connection between the art and the locality in which it was placed. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. In Chapters ⊠ and ⊠, we return to interactions among government agencies when selecting courthouse art in the United States.

13 Eug⊠ne Delacroix's Li⊠ert⊠ Leadin⊠ the People (⊠⊠⊠⊠) hangs in the Louvre in Paris. Delacroix's Li⊠ert⊠ is but one iteration of the female allegorical figure that represents the Republic and is named either Liberty or Marianne. This figure is likely derived from Roman antiquity and brought to the French through ⊠the whole allegorical apparatus ⊠that⊠ was codified for the benefit of artists in the seventeenth century⊠ See Maurice Agulhon, Marianne into Battle: Republican Imagery and Symbolism in France, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠ (Janet Lloyd, trans., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Agulhon cited ⊠Libert⊠⊠ in Cesare Ripa's ⊠onolo⊠ia, reprinted in Paris in ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, as a primary influence. Id. at ⊠⊠, n. ⊠. See Cesare Ripa, Iconologie (J. Baudoin, ed., Paris, Fran.: Matthieu Guillemot, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter French Ripa–⊠⊠⊠⊠).

The name Marianne may have been chosen for its populist origins (in spite of or because ⊠Marianne was a derisive nickname given to the Republic by her adversaries⊠) or because of its similarity to the Christian Mary. Agulhon at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Lynn Hunt summarized Agulhon's explanations of Marianne's attractions: ⊠The Phrygian bonnet or liberty cap of the goddess provided a particularly clear contrast with the crown of royal authority (and the female figure reinforced that contrast); Catholicism made the French more receptive to a Marian figure (the sobriquet Marianne was certainly semantically close to Mary, mother of Jesus); and the French Republic could find in the feminine allegory a figure suitably distant from the real life heroes-turned-villains of the revolutionary process⊠ See Lynn Hunt, ⊠ercules and the ⊠adical ⊠ma⊠e in the ⊠rench ⊠evolution, ⊠ Representations ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

In ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the National Convention provided that the new Republic's seal would depict the allegorical figure of Liberty, holding a spear with a Phrygian cap at its top in her right hand and resting her left hand on a sheaf of fasces, to symbolize ⊠La R⊠publique.⊠ Agulhon at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (describing and reproducing the first seal of the Republic). After the Second Republic, formed in the wake of the Revolution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the government invited artists to submit new images for coins, stamps, medals, and paintings, to symbolize the ⊠figure of the French Republic⊠ While no winner was chosen for the painted figure, the image selected for stamps was of a woman in profile with a ⊠complicated crown composed of ears of corn . . . grapes . . . and laurel⊠ that became known as the ⊠Ceres⊠ stamp. Agulhon at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

Two visions of the Republic emerged; one (by then traditional) was a female in a warlike posture with bared breast and a Phrygian cap ⊠ aimed at capturing a ⊠people's Republic that is impetuous and rebellious⊠ The other was more sedate, and through a range of attributes (⊠the cap, the level, clasped hands, beehives, a voting urn, etc⊠), could be seen as depicting ⊠the cautious Republic of order and reconciliation⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠.

Marianne was again reconfigured in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ when the French star Brigitte Bardot was chosen as a model for the figure, followed by other French actresses. In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the Association of Mayors of France sponsored a contest to select a twenty-first-century ⊠Marianne⊠ and picked a model and actress, Laetitia Casta, who was said to have ⊠once declared that her breasts were raised on butter and cr⊠me fra⊠che⊠ Some objected that this ⊠Mariannization of the stars⊠ was a ⊠travesty of national values⊠ See Debra Ollivier, Li⊠erti, ⊠⊠aliti, ⊠⊠C, Salon.com (Feb. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.salon.com/people/feature/⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠/⊠⊠/mkarianne/index.html. In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, after another contest, the television star Évelyne Thomas was chosen.

14 The images are available at the website of the French National Assembly, http://www.assemblee-nationale.fr/evenements/mariannes.asp.

15 Elaine Sciolino, Paris Journal, New York Times, Aug. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at A⊠. What shapes and forms to use on American coinage has also been entwined with gender and with controversy. The Susan B. Anthony coin gave way to Sacagawea, a Shoshone woman pivotal in the exploration of the West, and then to presidents and their wives. See Reva Siegel, Collective Memory and the Constitution: Remembering (and Forgetting) the Nineteenth Amendment (lecture given at Rutgers Law School, Camden, New Jersey, March ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

16 Sciolino, Paris Journal.

17 Sciolino, Paris Journal.

18 See Agulhon at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. That cap has come to signify the freedom of ⊠Liberty⊠ by using a symbol from the ⊠Roman custom in which the manumission of a slave was signaled by the wearing of a cap⊠ Yvonne Korshak, Paris and ⊠elen ⊠⊠ Jac⊠ues Louis David⊠ Choice and Jud⊠ment on the ⊠ve of the ⊠rench ⊠evolution, ⊠⊠ Art Bulletin ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Again, Cesare Ripa's ⊠onolo⊠ia provided an example. Korshak at ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠⊠. Ripa specified that a female be shown with a scepter, a cap, and a cat as her attribute; Ripa explained that the cap represented ⊠an ancient custom, ⊠by which⊠ the Romans had those slaves who were to be set free⊠ wear that cap. See French Ripa–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. The ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Padua edition has this description under the heading ⊠Liberty.⊠ Cesare Ripa, Iconologia ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Padua, Ital.: Pietro Paolo Tozzi, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; New York, NY, ⊠ London, Eng.: Garland Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). See generally Yvonne Korshak, The Li⊠ert⊠ Cap as a ⊠evolutionar⊠ S⊠m⊠ol in ⊠merica and ⊠rance, ⊠ Smithsonian Studies in American Art ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

19 A comparable ability to abstract the ⊠noble savage⊠ as providing analogies to Greek gods dissolves with awareness of the treatment of Indian tribes by the United States. Examples in public buildings of images of Indians as conquered subjects either to be civilized or to become relics, such as those on prominent display in the Capitol, can be seen as painful reminders of the injuries imposed. See Vivien Green Fryd, Art and Empire: The Politics of Ethnicity in the United States Capitol, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠–⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Athens, OH: Ohio U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

20 Jonathan Harris, Federal Art and National Culture: The Politics of Identity in New Deal America ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

21 Marlene Park ⊠ Gerald E. Markowitz, Democratic Vistas: Post Offices and Public Art in the New Deal ⊠ (Philadelphia, PA: Temple U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

22 In ⊠⊠⊠⊠ President Franklin Roosevelt established the Civil Works Administration. From December ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to June ⊠⊠⊠⊠, funding went to the Public Works of Art Project. Its successor, in existence from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠, was termed the Federal Art Project of the Works Progress (later called Projects) Administration (WPA). From ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the Treasury-based project was called the Section of Painting ⊠ Sculpture and, from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the Section of Fine Arts. From ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the program was called the Section of Fine Arts of the Public Buildings Administration of the Federal Works Agency.

Key to its leadership were George Biddle, who was both an artist and a friend of Roosevelt; Edward Bruce, a lawyer and administrator in the Treasury Department who was put in charge; and Edward Rowan, who administered the program, in part through sixteen regional divisions. The initial focus of the Public Works of Art Project had been to support needy artists (⊠on the rolls⊠). The Bruce-led program did not use economic need as a requirement for selection but aimed to employ artists thought able to enhance the decoration of federal buildings. See generally Belisario R. Contreras, Tradition and Innovation in New Deal Art ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Lewisburg, PA: Bucknell U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); The New Deal Art Projects: An Anthology of Memoirs ⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Francis V. O'Connor, ed., Washington, DC: Smithsonian Institution Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter New Deal Art Projects).

A rich literature informs our understanding of the politics, aesthetics, and history of this period. See Harris at ⊠–⊠; Sue Bridwell Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals and Southern Culture: A Gentle Reconstruction ⊠–⊠⊠ (Baton Rouge, LA: Louisiana State U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals); Park ⊠ Markowitz at ⊠–⊠; Karal Ann Marling, Wall-to-Wall America: A Cultural History of Post Office Murals in the Great Depression (Minneapolis, MN: U. of Minnesota Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); and Harriet W. Fowler, New Deal Art: WPA Works at the University of Kentucky ⊠⊠⊠ (Louisville, KY: U. of Kentucky Art Museum, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

23 Park ⊠ Markowitz at ⊠. Because the Section of Fine Arts also hoped to use local talent when possible, some of the competitions were limited by region. Artists were asked to ⊠submit designs⊠ for murals, many of which were not painted in place but installed by specialized firms. Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

24 This approach has been called ⊠conservative⊠ in that it put individuals in competition with each other (see Park ⊠ Markowitz at ⊠), as it also sought to shape artists' identities as ⊠productive citizens.⊠ Harris at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

25 The move to the representational was understood by some to relax the ⊠stranglehold of the romantic-escape school.⊠ Lois Craig, The Federal Presence: Architecture, Politics, and Symbols in United States Government Building ⊠⊠⊠ (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) .

26 Marling, at ⊠⊠, quoting a letter from Biddle to President Franklin Delano Roosevelt dated May ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Biddle expressed his desire to see the government support young artists who had the ability and vision to express the ideas of America's ⊠social revolution . . . in a permanent art form⊠ Biddle also wrote that the ⊠Mexican artists have produced the greatest national school of mural painting since the Italian Renaissance⊠ The full text is reproduced in George Biddle, An American Artist's Story ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Boston, MA: Little, Brown, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). As discussed in Chapter ⊠⊠, Biddle was himself called to Mexico in the early ⊠⊠⊠⊠s to paint murals for that country's new Supreme Court building. More of his role and the influence of Mexican muralists are detailed in a laudatory dissertation from ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Tax Payers' Murals, by Erica Beckh Rubenstein (Ph.D. dissertation, Harvard U., Cambridge, MA, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, History and Principles of Fine Arts).

27 Park ⊠ Markowitz at ⊠–⊠.

28 Marling at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; Harris at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. See also New Deal Art: New Jersey (Newark, NJ: Newark Museum and Rutgers U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). That catalogue for an exhibition described how ⊠a growing fear of Communism or any form of radicalism tainted⊠ the efforts in the views of ⊠many conservatives⊠ while ⊠radicals and leftists⊠ saw the project as ⊠another reactionary bulwark against true revolutionary change⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠.

29 Harris at ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠⊠.

30 New Deal Art: New Jersey at ⊠⊠.

31 See Jane De Hart Mathews, ⊠rt and Politics in Cold War ⊠mer⊠ica, ⊠⊠ America History Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). As for how diverse a group was employed, evaluations depend on baselines. One count reported ⊠⊠⊠ artists and identified ⊠⊠⊠ women and ⊠ blacks (whether women or men) among the total involved in a set of commissions. Park ⊠ Markowitz at ⊠. Some regional diversity was apparent from commissions given to artists from Western states, but few Southern artists were in the mix.

32 Even the ⊠well-known George Biddle⊠ was chided for ⊠the rather overly-prominent rear end of a horse in one of his mural panels⊠ in a New Jersey post office. New Deal Art: New Jersey at ⊠⊠. See also Suzan D. Friedlander, Broome County, New York's Government Sponsored Post Office Murals of the ⊠⊠⊠⊠'s (M.A. thesis, State U. of New York at Binghamton, Art History, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Friedlander's archival research found changes made in a post office mural to emphasize the federal government's role in mail services at the expense of local events and alterations to another mural to avoid references to forms of government other than that of the United States. Hence, Friedlander disagreed with an assessment of artistic freedom once commissions were given. Id. at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

33 WP⊠ Murals ⊠nder ⊠ire as a Stud⊠ in ⊠ed, Chicago Daily Tribune, July ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠ (discussing the claim that murals, painted by WPA-chosen artists for a municipal airport in Brooklyn, New York, were ⊠communist propaganda⊠ such as one showing ⊠the Wright brothers . . . clad in garments similar to those worn by Russian peasants, in a scene symbolic of the birth of aviation⊠). Another mural in a New Jersey high school was criticized for depicting shapes resembling sickles. A third, painted for Newark Airport by noted cubist Arshile Gorky, featured a red star that might well have been ⊠the trademark of the Texaco Oil Company⊠ rather than a reference to Soviet imagery. See Richard D. McKinzie, The New Deal for Artists ⊠⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠ (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). The Brooklyn airport mural was ordered removed and burned by a local WPA administrator. McKinzie at ⊠⊠⊠. In terms of the political views of artists, some were involved in organizations identified as left-wing. See Harris at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; Lincoln Rothschild, ⊠rtists⊠⊠ r⊠ani⊠ations in the Depression Decade, in New Deal Art Projects at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

34 See Emergency Relief Appropriation Act, Fiscal Year ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ ⊠⊠(f), ⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Emergency Relief Appropriation), providing that ⊠no alien, no Communist, and no member of any Nazi Bund Organization⊠ was eligible for WPA employment and that an affidavit affirming that one was not a Communist was required prior to being paid. Section ⊠⊠(a), requiring that persons take oaths to defend the Constitution; Section ⍰(b) provided that no money be given to those who advocated or were members of organizations advocating the ⍰overthrow of the Government of the United States through force or violence⍰ The appropriations for ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, and ⍰⍰⍰⍰ required the affiant to swear that he or she was not a ⍰Communist and not a member of any Nazi Bund Organization⍰ See, for example, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Emergency Relief Appropriation at ⍰⍰⍰(f) (⍰⍰⍰⍰). The political interactions producing these limitations are detailed by McKinzie at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

35 Harris at ⍰⍰⍰.

36 Harris at ⍰.

37 Marling at ⍰⍰⍰. Marling noted that one cubist mural, by Lloyd Ney, made it into a post office in Ohio in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

38 See Paintin⍰ and Sculpture Competition for Newark Post ⍰ ⍰ ce, ⍰nmediate ⍰elease, Mar. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Historical Society of the U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey (hereinafter N.J. Federal Court Historical Society Archives). The notice specified the scale of the models. The art for the Newark Courthouse was part of about fifty ⍰murals, reliefs and sculptures which represent the Treasury Section commissions⍰ from that era in New Jersey. New Deal Art: New Jersey at ⍰⍰. The District of New Jersey, organized and convened on December ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, is the second-oldest federal district court in the United States. See A. Ronald Nau, The ⍰ar⍰ ⍰istor⍰ of the ⍰nited States District Court for the District of New Jerse⍰, at the Historical Society's website, http://www.history.njd.uscourts.gov/courtHist/dist.html. See generally Mark Edward Lender, ⍰This Honorable Court⍰ The United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ (New Brunswick: NJ: Rutgers U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Lender reported that the five-story Newark building, with ⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰ square feet, cost ⍰⍰.⍰⍰ million. The picture of the Newark courthouse, ⍰modeled to look similar to the new Treasury Department building in Washington, D.C.,⍰ was put on a postcard. Lender at ⍰⍰⍰.

39 ⍰oun⍰ Sculptor on the ⍰elief ⍰olls Wins ⍰ederal ⍰ward with Scale⍰Less Justice, New York Times, Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰ (hereinafter Scale⍰Less Justice). That story reported that selection involved both a local and a Washington-based committee reviewing anonymous submissions. See also ⍰Justice⍰ to Brood in ⍰ederal Buildin⍰, Newark Evening News, Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The local committee included the Director of the Newark Museum as well as one of the building's architects, William Lehman. See Letter from George O. Totten Jr. to Olin Dows (April ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), N.J. Federal Court Historical Society Archives. That committee's first choice was not a statue by Kraus, although it was one recommended for consideration. See Eddie-Sue McDowell, Romuald Kraus: ⍰Justice⍰ and Other Work for the Works Progress Administration, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (M.A. thesis, U. of Louisville, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Kraus was born in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and died in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. During the period between ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰, he sculpted many female figures, and several have features similar to his Justice. From ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Kraus taught sculpture at the University of Louisville. See Justus Bier, ⍰⍰ituaries, ⍰omuald ⍰raus ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ College Art Journal ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter ⍰raus ⍰⍰ituar⍰). As noted, under Edward Bruce, the Section of Fine Arts at the Treasury Department had shifted from need to ⍰merit alone⍰ to select the ⍰best contemporary American art⍰ for federal buildings. Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at ⍰–⍰⍰.

40 The photographs for figures ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰, and ⍰⍰ were taken and provided for our use by James J. Waldron, the Clerk of the Bankruptcy Court for the United States District Court of New Jersey, and Director of the Historical Society of the District of New Jersey; he generously provided extensive research materials, as did the Honorable Katharine S. Hayden, United States District Judge for the District of New Jersey; Ronald Hedges, former Magistrate Judge of the District of New Jersey; and Gail Gilbert, Director of the Margaret M. Bridwell Art Library, University of Louisville. Much of the information and news clippings on Kraus come from the New Jersey Federal Court Historical Society Archives and from the Margaret M. Bridwell Art Library, University of Louisville, where the Romauld Kraus Papers are archived (hereinafter Kraus Papers).

A summary of the controversy that enveloped the Kraus statue can also be found in the brochure for the program, titled WP⍰ ⍰rt at the Newark ⍰ederal Courthouse⍰⍰ ur Continuin⍰ Le⍰ac⍰ (published by the N.J. Federal Court Historical Society). The program, held on May ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, celebrated both the relocation of the Kraus statue to the center of the rotunda of the third floor of courtrooms in what is now called the Frank R. Lautenberg U.S. Post Office and Courthouse and the installation of two murals that replicate original designs that were not placed in the courthouse in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s. See also Magistrate Judge Claire Cecci, Lad⍰ Justice⍰⍰ Controversial ⍰rtistic Depiction, in vol. ⍰ of the newsletter Nunc Pro Tunc (⍰Now for Then⍰) at ⍰ (U.S. District Court Historical Society, Summer ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

41 Scale⍰Less Justice at ⍰⍰. A local Newark newspaper put the number of artists who competed at forty-four. See Pu⍰lic ⍰ets Chance to Pass on ⍰Justice,⍰ Newark Star-Eagle, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (pages unnumbered).

42 Park ⍰ Markowitz at ⍰⍰.

43 Letter from Edward B. Rowan, Superintendent, Section of Painting ⍰ Sculpture, to Miss Beatrice Winser, Secretary and Director of the Newark Museum (and a member of the local selection committee), Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, N.J. Federal Court Historical Society Archives.

44 Scale⍰Less Justice at ⍰⍰.

45 McDowell at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

46 ⍰Justice⍰⍰ n⍰lindfolded, ⍰aises Newark ⍰ow, ⍰⍰ Art Digest ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Justice ⍰ n⍰lindfolded). Totten was quoted as stating that nothing ⍰in that figure is significant of American justice⍰ Id. McDowell reported that Totten had hoped to choose an artist directly. His effort to avoid having a competition produced protests from the American Institute of Architects and the Sculpture Society of America. McDowell at ⍰⍰. Totten then wrote to the Treasury Department's head of procurement that he had created a niche for a Justice image and sought the commission for his wife; having been told of the competition and reviewed sketches, he thought that his wife's proposal ought to be accepted or the ⍰niche left without sculptural adornment⍰ George O. Totten Jr., Letter to Admiral C. J. Peoples (Aug. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), N.J. Federal Court Historical Society Archives.

47 Justice ⍰ n⍰lindfolded at ⍰⍰. See also New Deal Statue in Newark Scored, New York Times, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰. The story quoted Judge Fake as describing himself as ⍰old fashioned enough to stand by the classical conception of a blindfolded Justice with sword and scales, and looking like a human being⍰ Id. In another news account, the judge was described as a ⍰Republican⍰⍰ presumably putting him at odds with the New Deal. McDowell at ⍰⍰. Guy Laverne Fake had been appointed in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ by President Herbert Hoover. Fake had served in the Spanish-American War, in the New Jersey Assembly, and as a state court judge. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, when Congress authorized a chief judge for each district, Judge Fake's seniority resulted in his assuming that position until he retired in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. He was known as a ⍰foe of many of the economic and political trends associated with the New Deal.⍰ Lender at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

48 Park ⍰ Markowitz at ⍰⍰.

49 See Pu⍰lic ⍰ets Chance to Pass on ⍰Justice,⍰ Newark Star-Eagle, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, from the N.J. Federal Court Archives. See also ⍰raus ⍰avors Statue thou⍰h Critics ⍰a⍰e, Newark Ledger, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (hereinafter ⍰raus ⍰avors Statue). That article reported that sixty-nine models were displayed at the Newark Museum. A few are reproduced in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ brochure WP⍰ ⍰rt at the Newark ⍰ederal Courthouse.

50 Justice ⍰ n⍰lindfolded at ⍰⍰. Kraus was born in what became Romania but was under Austrian rule in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Trained as a medalist, Kraus came to the United States in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. After the ⍰unsolicited notoriety⍰ involving his Newark Justice, he moved to the Midwest. McDowell at ⍰–⍰.

51 McDowell at ⍰⍰. That dissertation attributed this quote to an article published in the Newark Le⍰⍰er (⍰raus ⍰avors Statue, Newark Ledger) and questioned the accuracy of that quote.

52 Justice ⍰n⍰⍰lindfolded at ⍰⍰. This quote (slightly altered) can also be found in the article Thinks ⍰Justice⍰⍰s Christian, an undated news clipping (possibly from the New ⍰ork Sun) provided from the N.J. Federal Court Historical Society Archives. Other accounts report that Kraus said he had been influenced by his brother, a judge in Austria, to view Justice as ⍰a motherly figure, having understanding⍰ and that his statue's strong arms were to ⍰give strength to the judge⍰ to insist on ⍰earnest supplication for truth⍰ Cecci at ⍰ (drawing on materials from ⍰raus ⍰avors Statue).

53 ⍰raus ⍰⍰ituar⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰.

54 Edward Alden Jewell, ⍰nder ⍰ederal ⍰uidance⍰ Sculpture and Murals Produced in the Treasur⍰ Department⍰ Competitions, New York Times, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at X⍰.

55 Sculptor Defends Modern ⍰Justice,⍰ New York Times, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

56 McDowell, at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, described the photographs of the maquette. Government officials wrote Kraus to suggest how to improve the image. See, for example, Letter from Edward Rowan, Assistant Chief, Fine Arts Section, Federal Works Agency, Public Buildings Administration, to Romuald Kraus (July ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

57 The photograph in figure ⍰⍰, ⍰omuald ⍰raus with ⍰ull⍰Si⍰e Bron⍰e Cast of ⍰Justice,⍰ circa ⍰⍰⍰⍰, was provided by Gail R. Gilbert, Director of the Margaret M. Bridwell Art Library, University of Louisville and is reproduced with permission from that collection.

58 One of Kraus's teachers, Engelmann, had studied with Malliol. See ⍰raus ⍰⍰ituar⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰. McDowell, at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, suggested that the final version bore a resemblance to some versions of the Greek kore figure, which presented a ⍰frontal attitude.⍰

59 New ⍰lories for ⍰⍰iled Justice Statue, Newark Evening News, Nov. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, N.J. Federal Court Historical Society Archives; see also McDowell at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

60 The award of ⍰⍰⍰⍰ was given for this ⍰unconventional figure of Justice⍰ who lacked the ⍰customary attributes of sword, scales and blindfold⍰ See Cincinnatian Wins Pri⍰e with Controversial Statue, Cincinnati Times-Star, June ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (unpaginated news clipping from the N.J. Federal Court Historical Society Archives).

61 See Lad⍰ Justice ⍰eturnin⍰ as ⍰rt ⍰ eroine (news clipping, possibly from the Newark Ledger, undated). ⍰Instead of her small, prison-like surroundings ⍰locked in a room⍰ she will be given a place of honor in the central corridor facing the courtrooms⍰ Id. Before going to San Francisco, the statue was displayed in an exhibit at the Museum of Modern Art Gallery in Washington, D.C., and after receiving the award at the Golden Gate International Exhibition of Art at the World's Fair in San Francisco, the statue was also shown at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and then returned to Newark. WP⍰ ⍰rt at the Newark ⍰ederal Courthouse; see also Letter from Assistant Director of Procurement to Mr. R. J. McKinney, Golden Gate International Exposition (Dec. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), Kraus Papers; Letter from Inslee Hopper to Guy Fake (Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), Kraus Papers.

62 New ⍰lories for ⍰⍰iled Justice Statue.

63 The building opened that year. See Cherry Greve Llyford, Cov⍰in⍰ton Posto⍰ ce ⍰ets ⍰eplica of ⍰amous Statue, Cincinnati Times-Star, Apr. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰. Before its installation in the courthouse, the statue was in the Cincinnati Art Museum. See ⍰amous Statue⍰⍰eplica of Work That Causes Storm of Protest to Be Displa⍰ed ⍰ ere (undated news clipping, Kraus Papers). New York City's Museum of Modern Art also wanted a copy, but the wartime shortage of bronze stymied the proposed third version. McDowell at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. See also Letter from Inslee A. Hopper, Consultant to the Chief of the Section of Fine Arts of the Department of the Treasury, to Dorothy C. Miller, Associate Curator, Museum of Modern Art, N.J. Federal Court Archives (Dec. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, when Kraus died, a local paper, The Courier Journal, described him as Kentucky's ⍰greatest sculptor⍰ and the Justice as his ⍰most widely known work⍰ a ⍰serene⍰ figure that expressed his ⍰thankfulness for the freedom this country offers⍰ Justus Bier, ⍰omuald ⍰raus, Louisville Courier-Journal, Jan. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (unpaginated). As of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the Covington statue remained in place; the building in which it sat was no longer a courthouse but continued to function as a post office. See, for example, Jim Reis, Post ⍰⍰ ce Still ⍰ ccupies the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Buildin⍰, Kentucky Post, June ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, a new federal courthouse opened in Covington. The set-aside for its art was devoted to glassworks by Kenneth F. vonRoenn Jr., an artist with work in other federal courts as well. Our thanks to Mark Dwertman of the U.S. Post Office in Covington for verifying the current placement of the Kraus Justice.

64 In the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s, objections had also been leveled against two murals that had been designed by Tanner Clark. One showed children at play, and the other depicted an industrial accident in which a young person's hand caught in a rotary saw. The murals were stored and eventually destroyed. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, under the auspices of the Historical Society for the United States District Court of New Jersey, the artist Mark Romanoski recreated the murals for installation inside a courtroom. As noted, their display was celebrated in conjunction with the relocation of Kraus's Justice.

65 Memoranda of June ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, and August ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Treasury Department. The June ⍰⍰ memorandum stated that, given that the architect's wife had done some work and that the amount of funding was relatively small, ⍰in this case an exception to our usual procedure of holding a competition would seem to be justified⍰ The two medallions⍰ circular aluminum metal works more than four feet in diameter⍰ are on opposite walls of the rotunda at the center of the third floor where several courtrooms are located. As the photographs indicate, both medallions are in a style associated with Art Deco; each shows a woman in a flowing robe. The figure labeled Darkness is blindfolded. Totten received another commission for a post office relief in Spencer, West Virginia. See Karen Vuranch, The Post ⍰⍰ ce Murals of West ⍰ir⍰inia⍰New Deal ⍰rt in the Mountain State, People ⍰ Mountains: A Publication of the West Virginia Humanities Council ⍰, ⍰⍰ (Fall ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

66 See ⍰Justice⍰⍰s Done, Newark Star-Ledger, March ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The article quoted the sculptor on the work's monumentality and its placement without a pedestal: ⍰The blindfold Moore has chosen for her Themis, rather than concealing the eyes, accentuates their contours and reveals them through hooded slits in the fabric⍰ Moore's work in the Rudman Courthouse in New Hampshire is discussed in Chapter ⍰, figs. ⍰/⍰⍰–⍰/⍰⍰. The Newark King Courthouse, built for ⍰⍰⍰ million, joined the Peter W. Rodino Jr. Federal Office Building and the Lautenberg ⍰old⍰ Courthouse to shape a complex now defined by barriers erected after the September ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, bombings.

67 The poem is reproduced with the permission of Mark Strand. According to Moore, the composition was provided by Strand without her participation. See ⍰Justice⍰⍰s Done.

68 Our thanks to Susan Harrison of the Art-in-Architecture Program and to Kathryn Erickson and Erin Clay of the Collection of Fine Arts of the GSA for their generous help in obtaining historical materials and the photograph reproduced in figure ⍰⍰, courtesy of the Fine Arts Collection, United States General Services Administration. The conflict over the Hirsch mural is discussed in several books. See Jack Irby Hayes Jr., South Carolina and the New Deal ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Columbia, SC: U. of South Carolina Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰); Park ⍰ Markowitz at ⍰⍰; Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰; Marling at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. The Aiken building was subsequently named the Charles E. Simons Jr. Federal Courthouse after Judge Simons, who had served as the Chief Judge for the District of South Carolina from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

69 Marling at ⍰⍰. One commentator reported that part of the initial design, called Justice and Protection⍰ ⍰ven for the Prisoner, included ⍰a dramatic portrayal of a black man about to become the victim of a lynch mob being protected by the National Guard; by the time the mural was installed, the scene was omitted. See Martha R. Severens, Southern Scene, [illegible] American Art Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (reproducing that image).

70 August Meier & John H. Bracey Jr., The N[illegible]CP as a [illegible]eform Movement, [illegible]To [illegible]each the Conscience of [illegible]merica, [illegible] The Journal of Southern History [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

71 Marling at [illegible] (also calling it, perhaps ironically, a [illegible]white elephant[illegible]); see also id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

72 Hirsch, who died in [illegible], taught at Bennington and at Bard Colleges; his work is in the collections of major museums. See [illegible]Draft, Hirsch as Protector and Avenger[illegible] (undated), in GSA Archives, Public Building Services, Fine Arts Collection, [illegible], Stefan Hirsch (hereinafter GSA Archives/FA [illegible], Hirsch description). See also Stefan Hirsch and Elsa Rogo Papers, [illegible]–[illegible] (Boxes [illegible]–[illegible] and [illegible]) in the Archives of American Art, Smithsonian Institution, www.aaa.si.edu/collections/collection/hirstef.htm. The correspondence on the Hirsch mural comes from that collection. Quoted materials have been corrected for obvious typographical and spelling errors.

73 Letter from Edward B. Rowan, Superintendent, Section of Painting & Sculpture, U.S. Treasury Department, to Stefan Hirsch (Jan. [illegible], [illegible]). Hirsch replied that he had revised the sketches of both wings of the picture so that those protected by Justice looked [illegible]more hopeful and contented . . . . The old man smiles and smokes his pipe in a comfortable pose. The old lady is not staring ahead dejectedly waiting for help but is knitting and seems to be thinking of pleasant things. The two orphans . . . are consoling each other . . . . Even the cow has become a healthy well fed specimen instead of the emaciated, poverty-stricken creature she was and she has taken on an offspring, a promise of the future[illegible] Letter from Hirsch to Edward B. Rowan (Jan. [illegible], [illegible]). Hirsch continued that he had made [illegible]radical changes[illegible] to the side showing Justice as avenging wrongdoing: [illegible]I have shown the murderer-robber emptying a drawer flash-light under the arm. Behind him a part of the prone figure of his victim is visible and could be cut out if you consider even this too strong. The next scene shows the reward of crime: the criminal being led into his cell by the sheriff. The criminal is in prison garb which could be changed to tally with the prison garb of the state of South Carolina[illegible] Id.

Rowan replied that he found the improvements on the [illegible]undesirable elements of society[illegible] appropriate but that Hirsch had [illegible]not very materially[illegible] improved the other panel and that further revisions were needed. It [illegible]s necessary to ask you to eliminate the indication of a coffin and the tomb and to present the old man, the old woman and the two children as living in some degree of happiness without any implication of past or impending death. . . . It is this quality of living which should be depicted . . . if your mural is to tell a complete story[illegible] Letter from Rowan to Hirsch (Jan. [illegible], [illegible]).

74 [illegible] u[illegible]e Cover[illegible]p, The Post and Courier (Charleston, S.C.), Apr. [illegible], [illegible], at B[illegible].

75 Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at [illegible].

76 Hirsch invoked Mexican muralists (including Orozco, whose [illegible] mural in New York he cited as a model and whose [illegible] murals for the Supreme Court of Mexico are discussed in Chapter [illegible]) as he explained in a letter that murals must have a [illegible]profound interpretation of life or nature as the artist perceives them and therefore it will always be somewhat shocking at first sight. . . . The relation between the scale of the figures, the scale of the room and the size of the human onlooker is the crux of the artistry in mural painting. . . . The color, in my opinion, must be rich and glowing[illegible] Letter from Hirsch to B. A. Houck (July [illegible], [illegible]).

77 The quoted text comes from the GSA exhibit brochure, [illegible]Images of Justice[illegible]a traveling exhibit drawing on several images from the Fine Arts program that were on tour in [illegible]–[illegible] in various courthouses in the United States. A version of the picture and text can be found at General Services Administration, http://www.gsa.gov/gsa/cm[illegible]attachments/GSA[illegible]DOCUMENT/Justice[illegible]as[illegible]Protector[illegible]R[illegible]-w-x[illegible]Z[illegible]RDZ-i[illegible]K-pR.pdf. Information about the exhibit can be found at the website of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri, http://www.moed.uscourts.gov/community/ImagesOfJustice.pdf. The text is also available in the GSA Archives/FAA [illegible], Hirsch (hereinafter GSA/FA Justice as Protector and Avenger Display).

78 That explanation can also be found in a letter dated May [illegible], [illegible], from Hirsch to Forbes Watson, Advisor to the Section of Painting & Sculpture of the Treasury Department, who apparently had suggested a booklet, which Hirsch thought was [illegible]a swell idea[illegible] Letter from Hirsch to Forbes Watson (May [illegible], [illegible]) (hereinafter Hirsch Letter to Watson).

79 Some critics described the scene as including a [illegible]burning house, a [illegible]hyster' lawyer freeing a prisoner from jail and a burglar pursuing his trade.[illegible] Marling at [illegible].

80 [illegible]iken[illegible]The Trial of [illegible]Justice,[illegible] an information booklet related to the symposium New Deal Art Patronage in South Carolina, Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], South Carolina Humanities Council, in GSA Archives, FA [illegible]. See also Marling at [illegible].

81 Park & Markowitz at [illegible]. That description comes from the Hirsch letter to Watson.

82 Hirsch letter to Watson. Hirsch added that he hoped his use of the colors of the flag was not [illegible]too obvious[illegible] Id. The officials administering the Section of Painting & Sculpture were delighted; Rowan hoped that Hirsch was pleased and noted the appeal, particularly of the contrast of [illegible]the plough with the gun[illegible] See Letter from Edward B. Rowan to Stefan Hirsch (July [illegible], [illegible]).

83 Park & Markowitz at [illegible]. Marling, at [illegible]–[illegible], quoted a newspaper as reporting that spectators objected that Justice [illegible]resembled a [illegible]mulatto.' [illegible]

84 Matthew Boedy, Controvers[illegible] Shadows Mural, Augusta Chronicle, Aug. [illegible], [illegible], at C[illegible], in GSA Archives/FA [illegible]. Subsequently, the judge wrote to [illegible]rt Di[illegible]est that he would have no further comments in that he knew [illegible]nothing about art[illegible] and had received more publicity than he had desired from his comments objecting to the [illegible]ontemporary art' installed without my knowledge in the United States court room at Aiken.[illegible] Judicious [illegible]nswer, [illegible] Art Digest [illegible] ([illegible]).

85 Marling at [illegible], [illegible]. Marling suggested that the [illegible]corrupt fixer from Manhattan, played with curled-lip urbanity by William Powell and John Barrymore[illegible] was called to mind by the coat and the fedora hat. Id. at [illegible].

86 Statement for the Associated Press provided as an appendix, Letter from Hirsch to Rowan (Sept. [illegible], [illegible]) (hereinafter Hirsch's press statement). See also Letter from F. J. Crittenden to Stefan Hirsch (Aug. [illegible], [illegible]), mentioning that scene in the mural and reporting on the successful installation of the mural, as well as the need to repair two scratches, neither of which had affected any of the [illegible]faces or figures.[illegible]

87 GSA Archives/FA [illegible], Hirsch description.

88 GSA/FA Justice as Protector and Avenger Display. In the GSA Archives/FA [illegible], Hirsch description, a proposed text would have described the [illegible]Section of Painting and Sculpture officials[illegible] as having believed the [illegible]criticisms reflected racial prejudice.[illegible]

89 Letter from Hirsch to Edward B. Rowan (Sept. [illegible], [illegible]) (emphases in the original). That letter also noted that Hirsch had just read of the controversy over Kraus's Justice in Newark. On October [illegible], [illegible], Rowan replied that he thought waiting was appropriate, [illegible]to see if the matter will not die a natural death[illegible] and that in the interim Hirsch should [illegible]say nothing further about it.[illegible]

90 Hirsch's Press Statement.

91 Letter from Hirsch to a Mrs. Liebman (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]). Hirsch also objected to being described as receiving the commission in relationship to relief work and said that the judge was a citizen who had no more right than any other to alter government property. See Letter from Hirsch to Rowan (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]).

92 Letter from Hirsch to Rowan (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]). On November [illegible], [illegible], Rowan replied and attached a letter dated October [illegible], [illegible], from a person connected to the Federal Arts Project who had seen the mural and reported that [illegible]the flesh tones of the central figure do not suggest a mulatto woman[illegible] In March of [illegible], Hirsch reiterated his willingness to [illegible]go down there and make whatever corrections seem reasonable[illegible] if anyone not influenced by the judge reported seeing a person of color. However, [illegible]I shall not change the bare feet b[illegible]cause they are entirely defensible[illegible] from Southern or Northern point of view[illegible] in a [illegible]goddess like figure. I shall not change the [illegible]bright-hued clothing' since the colors are those of the flag of the United States. But [illegible]f there were[illegible]forthcoming any concrete and explicit criticism of the features of the face, I am ready to do something about it . . . .[illegible] Letter from Hirsch to Rowan (March [illegible], [illegible]).

93 Letter from Rowan to Hirsch (Feb. [illegible], [illegible]).

94 Letter from Rowan to Hirsch (Feb. [illegible], [illegible]).

95 GSA/FA Justice as Protector and Avenger Display.

96 Letter from Hirsch to Rowan (May [illegible], [illegible]).

97 [illegible]The mural . . . was approved by . . . well-qualified and experienced judges of art . . . . It is now public property, paid for by citizens' taxes. Hence, by arbitrarily ordering the painting covered and removed from the spectators' view, you have forced you[illegible]private opinion upon the public, denied citizens access to their common property, and grossly misused the power of your office[illegible]The letter demanded that the mural be [illegible]uncovered immediately[illegible]See Letter from The Artists' Union of Baltimore to Judge Frank Myers (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]).

98 Marling at [illegible], quoting a letter to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau (Feb. [illegible], [illegible]).

99 Marling at [illegible].

100 See Letter from Senator Strom Thurmond to Dwight Ink, Acting Administrator of the GSA (May [illegible], [illegible]). Thurmond described the approval of [illegible],[illegible] from the Aiken County Council to move the restored mural to the Aiken County Judicial Center. However, after obtaining advice from the Chief Conservator of the North Carolina Museum of Art, GSA staff concluded that the mural could not be removed without damage. See Letter from William F. Sullivan, Commissioner, GSA to Senator Strom Thurmond (unspecified date in [illegible]). GSA Archives/FA [illegible], Hirsch.

101 Boedy at C[illegible].

102 That courthouse, built in [illegible], was called the U.S. Post Office and Courthouse before being renamed in [illegible] after Senator James O. Eastland. The building remains in use by both the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, which began sitting there in [illegible]. Our thanks to the Fine Arts Collection's archives and to Kathryn Erickson of that program, who provided this photograph for figure [illegible] as well as information about the building and mural, about which we learned more from Rosie Tominello, Librarian, Fifth Circuit, Jackson Satellite Library.

103 Our thanks to Project Architect Nelson H. Creath Jr., who took the [illegible] photograph in figure [illegible], and to the the Fine Arts Collection of the United States General Services Administration Public Buildings Service, for permission to reproduce images of the courthouse mural.

104 Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at [illegible]. See also Simka Simkhovitch, [illegible]–[illegible]: Janet Marqusee, Paintings; A Catalogue (New York, NY: Janet Marqusee Fine Arts, [illegible]), included in [illegible]Simka Simkhovitch Papers, [illegible]–[illegible], in Archives of American Art, Smithsonian Institution, http://www.aaa.si.edu/collections/findingaids/index.cfm/fuseaction/Collections.ViewCollection/CollectionID/[illegible]term[illegible]Simkhovitch[illegible]Simkhovitch[illegible] (hereinafter Simkhovitch Papers).

105 Simkhovitch died in [illegible]. GSA Archives/FA [illegible] Simkhovitch, Page Report.

106 See Patti Carr Black, Art in Mississippi, [illegible]–[illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible] (Jackson, MS: U. Press of Mississippi, [illegible]). Under the WPA, twenty-two artworks were placed in federal buildings in Mississippi; three of the artists were from the state. Id. at [illegible]. More than three hundred WPA art projects made their way into federal buildings in the South. Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at [illegible]. Critics noted that many of the artists did not know the community for which the art was intended, and the portrayals often did not reflect then-current life patterns. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. In terms of the selection for Jackson, the local committee made three suggestions, all rejected, before the Section of Fine Arts settled on Simkhovitch. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

107 Sue Bridwell Beckham, The Spunk[illegible] Little Woman[illegible] [illegible]ou Can[illegible] Be[illegible] ne[illegible]f[illegible]ou[illegible]e White[illegible]ace, [illegible]ender, and a Little Bit of Class in Depres[illegible]sion Post[illegible] [illegible]ce Murals, in Bridging Southern Cultures: An Interdisciplinary Approach [illegible], [illegible] (John Lowe, ed., Baton Rouge, LA: Louisiana State U. Press, [illegible]).

108 Plaque accompanying mural, GSA Archives/FA [illegible] Simkhovitch. The initial drawings, about [illegible]youth/motherhood, work, and old age[illegible] did not match the final version: [illegible]The wheelchair, assumed to be a reference to President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's infirmity, was censored, and the artist's depiction of racial harmony, unusual for the period, was altered. The final painting regresses to traditional Southern stereotypes[illegible] Severens at [illegible].

Those stereotypes may have been the reason that editors of Life featured the mural on the cover for a story in [illegible] on a hearing, held in the courtroom, about whether to unseat Senator Theodore G. Bilbo, who had been the governor of Mississippi before being elected to the U.S. Senate. Bilbo was accused of inciting [illegible]Mississippians to prevent Negroes from voting[illegible] More than fifty witnesses testified that they had been [illegible]flogged, tricked or jailed[illegible] to ensure that they would not vote. Bilbo's [illegible]favorite target is the Negro whom he claims is constantly being incited by damn Yankees to rise up against his white superiors.[illegible] Bil[illegible]o [illegible] earin[illegible], Life, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]; also copied in the Simkhovitch Papers.

109 In the St. Joseph, Missouri, post office, a black minstrel scene in a [illegible] mural [illegible]outclasses[illegible] many others for its stereotyping, a point made by black community leaders then protesting the installation. Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], fig. [illegible].

110 Plaque accompanying mural, GSA Archives/FA [illegible] Simkhovitch.

111 Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at [illegible].

112 See Townsend Davis, Weary Feet, Rested Souls: A Guided History of the Civil Rights Movement [illegible] (New York, NY: W. W. Norton, [illegible]).

113 Constance Baker Motley, Equal Justice under Law: An Autobiography [illegible] (New York, NY: Farrar, Straus [illegible] Giroux, [illegible]). Our thanks to Kenneth Mack for bringing Motley's account to our attention. For further discussion of some courthouses as islands of integration and professional authority in an otherwise segregated South, see Kenneth Mack, A Cultural History of Civil Rights Lawyering, manuscript, [illegible].

114 Motley at [illegible]. She also noted that Carter and she may have been the first blacks since the early part of the century to try a case in Jackson.

115 As Motley describes the scene, it was [illegible]right out of Hollywood's antebellum South[illegible] with [illegible]white ladies in hoopskirts, frilly blouses, and silk bonnets . . . , tall, handsome white men in high silk hats and cutaway coats, standing next to a lavishly furnished horse-drawn carriage[illegible] whereas the black men were shown as farmworkers and the women [illegible]with Aunt Jemima appearances, wearing aprons and bandannas.[illegible] Motley at [illegible].

116 Motley at [illegible].

117 Motley at [illegible]. After the case was tried, the judge reserved decision and later ruled that, while the teachers had proved their rights on the merits, he could not provide relief because of a recent holding by the appellate court in a case involving teachers in Atlanta, Georgia. The court there had held that such suits could not be brought before administrative remedies were exhausted. That rule was applied to the Jackson case as well. See Bates v. Batte, ⍰⍰⍰ F. ⍰d ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰th Cir. ⍰⍰⍰⍰), cert. denied, ⍰⍰⍰ U.S. ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). In ⍰⍰⍰⍰ the Supreme Court reversed the requirement of exhaustion of administrative remedies in a case involving segregated public schools in Illinois. See McNeese v. Board of ⍰ducation for Communit⍰ ⍰nit School District ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ U.S. ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

118 Motley at ⍰⍰.

119 Davis at ⍰⍰⍰.

120 Davis at ⍰⍰⍰; Ed Williams, Co⍰ Defends Slaver⍰, Delta Democrat-Times (Greenville, MS), Apr. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰, ⍰. The article stated that, in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the judge was ⍰quoted by reporters as referring to black plaintiffs in a voting rights suit as a ⍰bunch of niggers' and saying they acted ⍰like a bunch of chimpanzees.' ⍰ See also Jack Bass, Unlikely Heroes ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (New York, NY: Simon ⍰ Schuster, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

121 Motley at ⍰⍰. As for the decision to cover the mural, she commented: ⍰I gather it was someone's determination not to destroy the mural but simply to draw a neutral-colored curtain on the past⍰ Id.

122 Black at ⍰⍰⍰; Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at ⍰⍰⍰, n. ⍰⍰. An alternative explanation of the drapes attributes their use in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s and the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s to redecoration programs. Co⍰ Defends Slaver⍰, Delta Democrat-Times (Greenville, MS) at ⍰ (citing information from a GSA representative). In ⍰⍰⍰⍰ removal of the drapes ⍰was recommended by an interior decorator as part of a general building renovation⍰ Id. At that time, when a lawyer complained about the depiction as an ⍰affront to the dignity of the court⍰ Judge Cox was quoted as replying that one had to ⍰possess a very warped mind to see anything derogatory, or insulting in the mural⍰; he insisted that the mural would ⍰remain in this courtroom whether you like it or not⍰ Id.

123 John Miller, ⍰Idaho⍰ I⍰nchin⍰ Murals to ⍰et ⍰⍰⍰planations, Indian Country Today, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (hereinafter Miller, ⍰Idaho⍰ I⍰nchin⍰ Murals). The state's legislative building was undergoing renovations. Our thanks to Paul Hosefros and to Lemley International for providing us with the photograph for figure ⍰⍰ and permission to reproduce it.

124 See John Miller, ⍰Idaho Murals of I⍰nchin⍰ Cause De⍰⍰ate, New York Times, Apr. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See also John Miller, Murals of I⍰nchin⍰ Divide ⍰ ⍰ cials, Denver Post, Apr. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Other aspects of the murals have drawn criticism. Horses are not connected to the stagecoach that they are supposed to be pulling, and one female figure is painted with two right arms. See John Miller, Criticl⍰ed Murals ⍰ an⍰ in Courthouse, Casper Star-Tribune (Casper, WY), May ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (hereinafter Miller, Criticl⍰ed Murals) Portrayals of ⍰Indians⍰ were not unique to the West; many appear in murals in federal buildings in the South. Beckham, Depression Post Office Murals at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Washington, D.C., is another site of many examples. See generally Fryd.

125 See Miller, Criticl⍰ed Murals.

126 The website of the Ada County Courthouse detailed the building's design under the WPA and adverted to the ⍰controversy⍰ over the content of the murals ⍰associated with Fletcher Martin, a national figure in Depression-era public art programs⍰ Ada County Courthouse, http://www.idahohistory.net/adacourthouse.html (as of ⍰⍰/⍰⍰/⍰⍰⍰⍰). Martin apparently withdrew from the project, and Ivan Bartlett was the ⍰final designer⍰ Miller, Criticl⍰ed Murals. Whether Martin or Bartlett created the lynching scene is not clear. See Boise, ⍰ID WPA Art⍰ WPA Murals, http://www.wpamurals.com/boise.htm. Further, some sources give the artist's name as Martin Fletcher, others as Fletcher Martin.

As we discuss in relationship to debate about the imagery in the Virgin Islands and in Chapters ⍰ and ⍰, more recent government processes involve community participation and, at times, community views prevail. An example comes from the installation in a federal courthouse in Kansas City in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The artist, Richard Haas, ⍰actively sought feedback from different minority groups⍰ to gather suggestions, then made modifications of the depictions of ⍰early Indian settlers⍰ to raise ⍰several figures from a kneeling posture to a more ⍰dignified' and proud stance⍰ Tepper at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Another account of the changes Haas made quoted his view that the criticism from the community ⍰forced⍰ him to make changes. Salik K. Ghandhi, The Pendu⍰lum of ⍰rt Procurement Polic⍰⍰ The ⍰rt⍰in⍰⍰rchitecture Pro⍰ram⍰ Stru⍰⍰le to Balance ⍰rtistic ⍰reedom and Pu⍰lic ⍰cceptance, ⍰⍰ Pub. Contract Law J. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

127 Idaho Council on Indian Affairs, Minutes of Jan. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰ (statement of Senator Michael Jorgenson).

128 Miller, ⍰Idaho⍰ I⍰nchin⍰ Murals.

129 John Miller, ⍰Indian Leaders ⍰iew Murals of I⍰nchin⍰, Casper-Star Tribune (Casper, WY), Jan. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

130 The building is discussed in Chapter ⍰⍰, where we consider transnational courts.

131 Ira Henry Freeman, Mohammed ⍰uits Pedestal ⍰ere on Moslem Plea after ⍰⍰ ⍰ears, New York Times, Apr. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰, ⍰⍰. The Manhattan Appellate Courthouse on Madison Avenue houses the Appellate Division, First Department, of the New York State Supreme Court, an entity first established in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ when the state reorganized its courts. The ⍰Appellate Division⍰ was chartered to hear appeals from civil and criminal cases in New York and the Bronx; it also serves as a court of first instance in some matters. The highest court of New York, the New York Court of Appeals, can review some decisions of the Appellate Division.

132 This building was one of several designed to accommodate the growing demand. See Robert A. M. Stern, Gregory Gilmartin, ⍰ John Montague Massengale, New York ⍰⍰⍰⍰: Metropolitan Architecture and Urbanism, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (New York, NY: Rizzoli, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). It was the ⍰first ⍰white' building completed in New York after the World's Columbian Exposition of ⍰⍰⍰⍰ in Chicago⍰ and provides an ⍰unusually fine⍰ example of Beaux-Arts classicism. See Paul Spencer Byard, ⍰ead⍰ in⍰the ⍰rchitecture of Toda⍰⍰ Courthouse, in Celebrating the Courthouse: A Guide for Architects, Their Clients, and the Public ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (Steven Flanders, ed., New York, NY: W. W. Norton, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Celebrating the Courthouse). Our thanks to Jon Fisher, the photographer; to Daniel McDevitt, Senior Administrative Assistant; and to Judith Kaye, Chief Judge of the New York Court of Appeals, for their assistance in enabling us to obtain and use the images in figures ⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰.

133 Department of Citywide Administrative Services, Manhattan Appellate Court, at its website, http://www.nyc.gov/html/dcas/html/resources/man⍰appellatecourt.shtml. See also New Court ⍰ouse Plans⍰ ⍰ andsome Structure for Justices of ⍰ppellate Division, New York Times, July ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The total cost was ⍰⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰. See Henry Hope Reed Jr., Supreme Court, Appellate Division, First Department, Courthouse History and Guide (unpaginated) (New York, NY: Municipal Art Society of New York, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). New York State has a diverse set of courts.

134 Michele H. Bogart, ⍰n Search of a ⍰nited ⍰ront⍰⍰ ⍰merican ⍰rchitectural Sculpture at the Turn of the Centur⍰, ⍰⍰ Winterthur Portfolio ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

135 Bogart at ⍰⍰⍰.

136 Bogart at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

137 Lord had an unusual degree of control (⍰complete⍰) over the ⍰artists and their work in decorating the building.⍰ Reed. More generally, architects of his era ⍰maintained control over building projects and often had the power to choose which sculptors got commissions. Architects, not sculptors, ultimately decided the subject matter, sizes, poses, and drapery of architectural sculpture and any modifications⍰ Bogart at ⍰⍰⍰. While Lord offers the example of an architect enthusiastic about classical figures, architects thereafter shaped modernist structures that emphasized shape and form and disdained allegorical references. As a consquence, architects were at the center and sculptors at the periphery in designs of much of the twentieth century. Moreover, even when federal policies began in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s to set aside one-half of one percent of construction costs for public art, ⊠the commissioning process began with the architect, who not only determined the type and location of the artwork but was also responsible for nominating at least three artists⊠ with the final choice being made by the GSA. See Thalacker at xii. In the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, Thalacker was the Director of the Art-in-Architecture Program, discussed in this chapter and in Chapter ⊠.

138 Bogart at ⊠⊠⊠. See also The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, First Judicial Department: A History of the Courthouse ⊠ (New York, NY: Dual Printing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter History of the Appellate Division Courthouse). An article published in the New ⊠ork Times on July ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠New Court House Plans⊠ detailed that the ⊠structure will consist of three stories and a basement, the height from the street to the top of the parapet being ⊠⊠ feet.⊠

139 History of the Appellate Division Courthouse at ⊠.

140 The sculptor Daniel Chester French did the composition. See History of the Appellate Division Courthouse at ⊠⊠; Bogart at ⊠⊠⊠.

141 The sculptor is Charles Niehaus. Bogart at ⊠⊠⊠. Also depicted are ⊠the crescent moon, the ram, Father Time with his scythe, the owl, the tables of law.⊠ Reed. Inside is a sixty-two-foot mural called Trans⊠ mission of the Law, by H. Siddons Mowbray, that includes images symbolizing a sequence from Moses through Egypt, Greece, Rome, and Byzantium, and then through the Norman Conquest to modernity. A Justice is flanked by figures representing Mercy and Law. Many Virtues, including Moderation, Eloquence, Unity, Truth, Courage, Patriotism, Prudence, and Justice, dot the interior of the primary courtroom. Id.; History of the Appellate Division Courthouse at ⊠⊠. The Four Cardinal Virtues can be found gracing corner panels. Id. at ⊠⊠.

142 History of the Appellate Division Courthouse at ⊠, quoting the sculptor Frederick Wellington Ruckstuhl. The head is said to be a ⊠composite of General Ulysses S. Grant, General Nelson A. Miles, and Admiral Francis M. Bunce.⊠ Id.

143 The Nebraska State Capitol, for example, opened in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Designed by Betram Grosvenor Goodhue, an architect trained in the Beaux-Arts style, the building has a parallel set that includes Minos, Hammurabi, Moses, Akhenaton, Solon, Ezekiel, Solomon, Socrates, Julius Caesar, Justinian, Charlemagne, Napoleon, Louis IX, and Isaac Newton. See ⊠ uide to the ⊠⊠terior ⊠ rt and S⊠m⊠olism, Ne⊠raska State Capitol (undated pamphlet).

144 Freeman at ⊠⊠. The other statues were resurfaced in Alabama Madre marble. Reed.

145 John Kifner, ⊠ma⊠es of Muhammad⊠ one for ⊠ ood, New York Times, Feb. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, sec. ⊠ at ⊠.

146 Office of the Curator, Supreme Court of the United States, Courtroom Friezes: Information Sheet (updated as of May ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.supremecourtus.gov/about/north⊠ southwalls.pdf and http://www.supremecourtus.gov/about/east⊠ westwalls.pdf (hereinafter Courtroom Friezes Information Sheets). Our thanks to Matthew Hofstedt, Associate Curator of the United States Supreme Court for analyses of the imagery, to the Public Information Office of the Supreme Court for providing a copy of Chief Justice Rehnquist's ⊠⊠⊠⊠ letter on the frieze, and to Sue Kriete, Print Room Librarian, who directed us to relevant subfiles in the Cass Gilbert Collection, PR ⊠⊠⊠, Department of Prints, Photographs, and Architectural Collections, New York Historical Society (hereinafter Gilbert Papers).

Relatively little academic work addresses Weinman, who was born in Karlsruhe, Germany, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and came to the United States when he was ten. His teachers included Charles Niehaus and Daniel Chester French, both of whom had done statuary for the Appellate Division building in New York. Weinman became famous as a medalist. See Sydney P. Noe, The Medallic Work of A. A. Weinman (New York, NY: American Numismatic Society, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). He was part of a ⊠circle of coin designers⊠ who had been students of Augustus Saint-Gaudens who in turn had served on the Senate's panel on the arts (see Chapter ⊠) and designed several U.S. monuments and coins. See August Saint-Gaudens: The ⊠⊠⊠⊠ United States Gold Coinage ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (monograph published by Eastern National, Cornish, NH, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Weinman designed the imagery for the ⊠Mercury dime⊠ as well as ⊠Walking Liberty⊠ for the half dollar. Both display his knowledge of classical imagery. The ⊠Mercury dime⊠ is unusual in that is does not actually depict Mercury but rather Liberty with a winged helmet, and its reverse shows the fasces, the symbol of authority, as well as an olive branch to denote peace. Those dimes were struck between ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠. The Walking Liberty half dollar, struck between ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠, has an unfurled American flag, and its Liberty holds olive branches. On its reverse is an eagle near a tree.

Weinman's work as an architectural sculptor included capitol buildings in Wisconsin and Louisiana and buildings in several cities. He served several times as president of the American Sculpture Society. In New York, he was employed by the architects McKim, Mead, and White and did the reliefs for several major buildings. Cass Gilbert contracted with Weinman for the Supreme Court friezes and paid him ⊠⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠. See Letter from Gilbert to Weinman (Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), Adolph A. Weinman Papers, Archives of American Art, Smithsonian Institution (hereinafter Weinman Papers). The letter specified that the material would be ⊠Ivory Veined marble⊠ and that Weinman was to ⊠give this work your best personal service to the end that it will be a work of art⊠ of very high merit, both in design and execution.⊠ Id. Gilbert died unexpectedly in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and Weinman died in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. See ⊠ ⊠ituar⊠, ⊠ dolph ⊠le⊠ander Weinman, ⊠⊠ Art Digest ⊠ (Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

147 Cass Gilbert Jr., The ⊠ nited States Supreme Court Buildin⊠, ⊠⊠ Architecture ⊠⊠⊠ (Dec. ⊠⊠⊠⊠). In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, under the prodding of then Chief Justice (and former President) William Howard Taft, Congress enacted legislation to authorize the building. The Architect of the Capitol would have been expected to guide the project, but Taft secured authority for himself as Chief Justice (along with another justice) to serve on the Commission overseeing the project. Taft also served as chair. See The Supreme Court⊠ esidences of the Court Past and Present, Part ⊠⊠, ⊠ Supreme Court Historical Society Quarterly at ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Supreme Court ⊠esidences).

148 Courtroom Friezes Information Sheets, East and West Walls. ⊠It was common practice during this period to allow the sculptor artistic freedom to create art that would fit within the framework of the architect's vision of the building.⊠ Id. Hofstedt's research has demonstrated that Weinman had the assistance of Harold A. Mattiace when selecting figures as influential historical lawgivers.

149 June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, memo at ⊠ in Gilbert Papers, Project Files, Box ⊠⊠⊠, folder ⊠ (hereinafter Gilbert Papers, project memo, June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

150 Gilbert Papers, project memo (June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) at ⊠–⊠. Gilbert offered John Singer Sargent's frieze ⊠showing Moses and the Prophets in the Boston Public Library as carrying some of the impression⊠ of a desirable design, but noted that it was ⊠too picturesque and too complicated.⊠ Id. at ⊠.

151 Gilbert Papers, project memo (June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) at ⊠. Gilbert's correspondence files indicate that sketches and photographs were seen by others, and one letter specifically noted that Chief Justice Hughes and a Mr. Lanham approved photographs of some of the figures. See Letter from Gilbert to Weinman (Apr. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), Weinman Papers.

152 The Commission, chaired by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, included Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter, Senators Henry W. Keyes and James A. Reed, Representatives Richard Nash Elliott and Fritz G. Lanham, and David Lynn, who was the ⊠Architect of the Capitol.⊠ The figures coiled in a snake prompted sufficient distress that Weinman changed the friezes to accommodate these concerns.

153 One could interpret the story as beginning with the depiction on the west wall of the struggle between Good and Evil, and moving through to an end point with the American system of government. Weinman was not the only artist providing historical scenes. John Donnelly Jr. created ⊠great bronze doors⊡ that weighed more than six tons apiece. Their eight panels displayed ⊠the development of the law from classical antiquity through the founding of the American Republic.⊡ Supreme Court ⊡esidences at ⊡.

154 Fred J. Maroon ⊡ Suzy Maroon, The Supreme Court of the United States ⊠⊠⊠ (New York, NY: Thomasson-Grant ⊡ Lickle and published in cooperation with the Supreme Court Historical Society, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Joan Biskupic, Law⊡ivers⊠⊠rom Two ⊡rie⊡es, ⊡ reat ⊡i⊠ ures of Le⊡al ⊡ istor⊡ ⊡ a⊡e upon the Supreme Court Bench, Washington Post, March ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at H⊡.

155 Courtroom Friezes Information Sheets, East and West Walls. Materials from the Supreme Court's historical archives do not document an intent to invoke the Ten Commandments. The placement of the bald eagle outstretched behind the tablets could be used to connect them to the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Bill of Rights, consisting of ten amendments to the Constitution.

156 Courtroom Friezes Information Sheets, East and West Walls. The title ⊠Good Versus Evil⊡ is attributed to Weinman.

157 As Weinman summarized his work, ⊠the North and South Wall Frieze of the Supreme Court Room are composed as a procession of Great Lawgivers of History, the procession terminating at both ends of each frieze in an allegorical group⊡ See Adolph Alexander Weinman, file memo, Project files, box ⊠⊠⊠, folder ⊡, Gilbert Papers. Weinman listed each figure by name and stated that the ⊠movement of these figures⊡ is toward allegorical groups clustered at the end. Id. As for Moses, the excerpts of the Commandments that are legible are edited versions of the Sixth through the Tenth Commandments, and Moses's beard obscures some of the text. See also Tony Mauro, The Supreme Court⊡ ⊡ wn Commandments, Legal Times, Mar. ⊡, ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

158 See Which Ten Commandments⊡ Positive Atheism Magazine, www.PositiveAtheism.org/crt/whichcom.htm. Contrasts are drawn among the texts of the Ten Commandments as set forth in the King James Version of the New Testament, those of the Catholic Catechism of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and those of a ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Old Testament.

159 Stone v⊠ raham, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (per curiam). Many monuments, in the United States and elsewhere, have been a font of conflict about whether to preserve, observe, or alter them as understandings of one's own national history change. See Sanford Levinson, Written in Stone: Public Monuments in Changing Societies (Durham, NC: Duke U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

160 See ⊡ lassroth v⊡Moore, ⊠⊠⊠ F.⊡d ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠th Cir. ⊠⊠⊠⊠), cert. denied sub nom. Moore v⊠ lassroth, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The appellate court ordered the monument's removal. See Adam Liptak, Court ⊡ rders ⊡emoval of Monument to Ten Commandments, New York Times, July ⊡, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at A⊠⊠. In contrast, that appellate court concluded that a stamp depicting two tablets, meant to denote the Ten Commandments, and used by a county clerk's office in Georgia since at least ⊠⊠⊠⊠, advanced the secular purpose of marking a document as law-related and was, therefore, permissible. See ⊡ in⊡ v⊠⊡ichmond Count⊡, ⊡ a., ⊠⊠⊠ F.⊡d ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠th Cir. ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

161 See ⊡ an ⊡ rden v⊡Perr⊡, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The stone included an ⊠eagle grasping the American flag, an eye inside of a pyramid, and two small tablets with what appears to be an ancient script . . . above the text of the Ten Commandments. Below the text are two Stars of David and the superimposed Greek letters Chi and Rho, which represent Christ⊡ Id. Carved beneath is an inscription that the ⊠Fraternal Order of Eagles of Texas⊡ presented the stone to the ⊠People and Youth of Texas⊡ in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Other monuments across the twenty-two acres include those dedicated to ⊠Heroes of the Alamo,⊡ ⊠Tribute to Texas School Children⊡ and ⊠Texas Peace Officers⊡ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊡.

162 McCrear⊡ Count⊡, ⊠⊠⊠, v⊠ merican Civil Li⊡erties ⊡ nion, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). After litigation was begun about those displays, the counties added other documents to offer a context about the ⊠Foundations of American Law and Government⊡ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Justice David Souter, writing for the Supreme Court majority, concluded that the lower courts had properly found that the purpose was insufficiently secular to sustain the display. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

163 This test includes exploration of the context of a display. Application of the test has varied as different justices interpret the purposes for a display and First Amendment values. In Stone v⊠ raham, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠), for example, the Supreme Court found unconstitutional the posting of the Ten Commandments in a classroom; the court concluded that the image, seen daily by students, had a predominantly religious purpose. In McCrear⊡, a five-person majority upheld a lower court's conclusion that the context was too religious (⊠⊠⊠ U.S. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠), whereas in ⊡an ⊡ rden, the majority found the Ten Commandments monument on the Texas state building grounds a permissible reflection of the ⊠strong role played by religion and religious traditions throughout⊡ the history of the United States. ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. at ⊠⊠⊠. The ⊡an ⊡ rden majority opinion by Chief Justice Rehnquist called the Court's jurisprudence in this area ⊠janus⊡like⊡ with one face looking toward the religious traditions and the other face looking at the ⊠principle that the governmental intervention in religious matters can itself endanger religious freedom⊡ Id.

164 Count⊡ of ⊡ lle⊡hen⊡ v⊠⊡ merican Civil Li⊡erties ⊡ nion, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (Stevens, J., concurring in part and dissenting in part, and joined by Justices Brennan and Marshall) (citations omitted). Justice Stevens further commented that it would be ⊠absurd⊡ to ⊠exclude religious paintings by Italian Renaissance masters from a public museum⊡ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. As for Weinman's frieze, Justice Stevens added that all of the leaders he had mentioned⊡ Moses, Confucius, Mohammed, Caesar, Blackstone, Napoleon, and Marshall⊡ ⊠appear in friezes on the walls of our courtroom⊡ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠, n. ⊠⊠.

The underlying litigation challenged two ⊠holiday displays located on public property in downtown Pittsburgh. The first is a cr⊠che placed on the Grand Staircase of the Allegheny County Courthouse. The second is a Chanukah menorah placed just outside the City-County Building, next to a Christmas tree and a sign saluting liberty⊡ ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. at ⊠⊠⊠ (majority opinion by Justice Blackmun). The Court held that the cr⊠che, set alone, conveyed an impermissible endorsement of a religious message. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. The combined display of the menorah, the Christmas tree, and the liberty sign, however, was not clearly an endorsement or disapproval of individual religious beliefs but could be read as the ⊠city's secular recognition of different traditions for celebrating the winter-holiday season⊡ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. A remand was ordered for the lower court to learn more about whether the second display was constitutionally problematic.

Justices O'Connor, Brennan, and Stevens each wrote separately explaining their concurrences and where they departed from the majority. Justice Stevens disagreed with the majority that the ⊠⊠⊠-foot evergreen tree⊡ next to the Chanukah menorah was constitutional, for it manifested ⊠governmental approval of the Jewish and Christian religions⊡ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. Justice Kennedy, in a dissent on behalf of himself, Chief Justice Rehnquist, and Justices White and Scalia, argued that both displays were constitutional. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

165 McCrear⊡ at ⊠⊠⊠. In a footnote, the majority also commented that it had been reminded by the dissent that ⊠Moses and the Commandments adorns this Court's east pediment. . . . But as with the courtroom frieze, Moses is found in the company of other figures, not only great but secular⊡ Id. at n. ⊠⊠.

166 ⊡an ⊡ rden, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. at ⊠⊠⊠. Chief Justice Rehnquist also described other displays in the Nation's capital and, in its filing before the court, the United States government listed courthouses in which displays of the Ten Commandments could be found. See Brief of the United States as Amicus Curiae Supporting Respondents, Appendix ⊠a-⊠a, ⊡an ⊡ rden, No. ⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠⊠ (filed Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), and its discussion by Justice Breyer (concurring), ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. at ⌧⌧⌧. Justice Stevens, joined by Justice Ginsburg, filed one dissent; Justice O'Connor filed another; and Justice Souter, joined by Justices Stevens and Ginsburg, filed another dissenting opinion. All objected to the religious content. Justice Souter's dissent distinguished the Court's frieze because the figures were a mixed assemblage of lawgivers and ⌧Moses enjoys no especial predominance⌧ Id. at ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧.

167 Council on American Islamic Relations, ⌧ Decade of ⌧ rowth, C⌧⌧ Tenth ⌧ nniversar⌧ ⌧ eport, ⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧ at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (hereinafter C⌧⌧ Tenth ⌧ nniversar⌧ ⌧ eport); Tamara Jones and Michael O'Sullivan, Supreme Court ⌧rie⌧e Brin⌧s ⌧ ⌧⌧ection, New York Times, March ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at A⌧.

168 Letter from Chief Justice William Rehnquist to Nihad Award and Ibrahim Hooper of the Council on American–Islamic Relations (Mar. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (hereinafter Rehnquist Letter of Mar. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧); see also C⌧⌧ Tenth ⌧ nniversar⌧ ⌧ eport at ⌧⌧; ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (Property in the Supreme Court Building and Grounds) (⌧It is unlawful to step or climb on, remove, or in any way injure any statue, seat, wall, fountain, or other erection or architectural feature, or any tree, shrub, plant, or turf, in the Supreme Court Building or grounds⌧). Chief Justice Rehnquist also stated that the sculpture of Muhammad was ⌧intended only to recognize him, among many lawgivers, as an important figure in the history of law⌧ Rehnquist Letter of Mar. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧; see also Biskupic; Sally M. Promey, The Pu⌧lic Displa⌧ of ⌧el⌧ion, in The Visual Culture of American Religions ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ (David Morgan ⌧ Sally M. Promey, eds., Berkeley, CA: U. of California Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

169 See Taha Jaber al-Alwani, ⌧⌧atwa⌧ Concernin⌧ the ⌧ nited States Supreme Courtroom ⌧rie⌧e, ⌧⌧ Journal of Law and Religion ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). This article took the posture of a fatwa, ⌧a legal opinion⌧ addressing the person seeking an opinion⌧ here Professor Azizah Y. al-Hibri of the University of Richmond Law School. His view relied on the ⌧necessary premises⌧ that ⌧each civilization . . . has its own means of self-expression⌧ (id. at ⌧); that Islamic traditions ⌧⌧value⌧ the Word more than images and statues⌧; and that ⌧Western culture⌧ relies on ⌧imagery and sculpture⌧ as ⌧paramount means of expressing sacred and centrally important truths. Id. at ⌧. The fatwa then analyzed the frieze and noted that while many lawgivers were present, including both Moses and Muhammad, another prophet of Islam⌧ Jesus, the Messiah⌧ was missing. Id. at ⌧⌧. On reviewing texts, interpretations, and practices (including that the ⌧spiritual leaders of Islam did not try to destroy the Pharaohic pyramids, the Persian throne, . . . or the Greek and Roman fortresses⌧ but rather preserved diverse cultural expressions even as they were committed to the ⌧arts of the Word⌧) (id. at ⌧), the fatwa concluded that the frieze was a ⌧positive gesture toward Islam⌧ Id. at ⌧⌧.

170 Rehnquist Letter of Mar. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧.

171 ⌧⌧⌧Supreme Court Depicts Muhammad; Mohammed Sculp⌧ture at Top ⌧ S Supreme Court Draws Mild ⌧e⌧uke from ⌧ S Muslim Leaders, Agence France Presse, Feb. ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, http://www.freerepublic.com/focus/f-news/⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧/posts. The Agence France story came in the wake of protests over cartoons published in Denmark that were seen as blasphemous renditions of the prophet.

172 Courtroom Friezes Information Sheets, North and South Walls.

173 St. Croix is a territory of the United States. Congress established its district court in ⌧⌧⌧⌧. See Organic Act of the Virgin Islands of the United States of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Pub. L. No. ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Stat. ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (codified at ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Its courthouse is named after Almeric L. Christian, who served as Chief Judge of that court. Our thanks to artist Jan Mitchell, to photographer Steffen Larsen, and to the Mitchell-Larsen Studio for information obtained through an interview on February ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, and for providing us with the photographs of Moco Jum⌧ie (fig. ⌧⌧), ⌧eachin⌧ Man (fig. ⌧⌧), and Lad⌧ of Justice (figs. ⌧⌧ and ⌧⌧) and permission to use them; to Susan Harrison of the GSA for suggesting this avenue of research and to the United States General Services Administration for reproduction permissions; and to the Honorable Anne E. Thompson of the United States District Court of New Jersey for additional pictures of the courthouse, its imagery, and the artist. A facsimile of the Lad⌧ of Justice statue is also used on the seal of the Virgin Islands Bar Association, adopted in ⌧⌧⌧⌧. See VI Bar Herald, Mar. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧.

174 Robert W. Nicholls, The Mocko Jum⌧ie of the ⌧⌧⌧⌧ ir⌧in ⌧slands⌧⌧ istor⌧ and ⌧ ntecedents, ⌧⌧ African Arts ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, n. ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). Our thanks to Robert Nicholls, an Associate Professor of Education at the University of the Virgin Islands, for his scholarly assistance as well as the use of his ⌧⌧⌧⌧ photograph of Moco Jumbies (fig. ⌧⌧) at the Virgin Islands Carnival.

175 CIA World Factbook, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/vq.html.

176 Nicholls at ⌧⌧.

177 The American Bar Association has proposed that Congress endow the Virgin Islands court with Article III status. See Judicial District of the Virgin Islands Act of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, H.R. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧th Cong., ⌧st Sess., ⌧⌧⌧⌧.

178 Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, U.S. District Court Judicial Caseload Profile (⌧ederal Judicial Caseload Statistics), http://www.uscourts.gov/viewer.aspx⌧doc⌧/cgi-bin/cmsd⌧⌧⌧⌧.pl. Two magistrate judges and one bankruptcy judge sat then in the Virgin Islands as well.

179 Mitchell, born in ⌧⌧⌧⌧, studied in Philadelphia and London. In ⌧⌧⌧⌧ she moved to St. Croix.

180 See generally Thalacker. Between ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and ⌧⌧⌧⌧, the GSA funded more than ⌧⌧⌧ projects, including those of well-known artists such as Alexander Calder, Isamu Noguchi, and Claes Oldenburg. Impetus for the program emerged in relationship to the charter by President John Kennedy of an Ad Hoc Committee on Government Office Space. Its ⌧⌧⌧⌧ report, ⌧ uidin⌧ Principles in ⌧ederal ⌧rchitec⌧ture, had considered calling for funds to be spent on public art from artists living in the United States. See John Wetenhall, Camelot⌧ Le⌧ac⌧ to Pu⌧lic ⌧rt⌧⌧ esthetic ⌧deolo⌧⌧ in the New ⌧rontier, ⌧⌧ Art Journal ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). Before the report was finalized, then–GSA Administrator Bernard L. Boutin (a committee member) instituted a policy for federal support of art commissions ⌧not to exceed one half of one percent of the construction budget.⌧ Thalacker at xii–xiv. With variations and a hiatus detailed in Chapters ⌧ and ⌧, that amount has remained a federal policy guideline.

181 See U.S General Services Administration, Art-in-Architecture Program, ⌧⌧ CFR Pt. ⌧⌧⌧ ⌧⌧⌧⌧.⌧ and http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do⌧contentType⌧GSA⌧OVERVIEW⌧ contentId⌧⌧⌧ ⌧⌧⌧ noc⌧T. Detailed memoranda of the various policy directives issued under the program are available in the GSA archives and discussed in Chapter ⌧.

182 GSA Archives, GSA/Public Building Service, Fine Art Collection, AA ⌧⌧⌧ (hereinafter GSA Archives/AA ⌧⌧⌧ Mitchell).

183 Some proposals prompted extensive control. See Harris at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

184 A panel of artists, the project architect, members of the court staff, and judges convened in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and then met several times thereafter as controversy developed. Notes of the initial meeting mentioned the group's strong preference for a ⌧local, if not native⌧ artist designing a work of ⌧local interest, expressing island style and concerns⌧ Selection Memos (date unclear), GSA Archives/AA ⌧⌧⌧ Mitchell.

185 GSA Archives, AA ⌧⌧⌧ Mitchell (undated notes in file from Jan Mitchell). The term is variously spelled, as Mocko Jumbie or Moko Jumbie, and we have used the spelling in the artist's notes. See also Nicholls at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

186 Nicholls at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

187 Nicholls at ⌧⌧. Nicholls has also proposed a link to the word ⌧bajumbi⌧ referring to a ⌧pea sized red and black seed of a vine⌧ made into necklaces and used as protection against jumbies. Correspondence of Nov. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧.

188 Nicholls at [illegible].

189 Nicholls at [illegible].

190 The photograph in figure [illegible], taken by Robert Nicholls, can also be found as figure [illegible] (Mystical Mocko Jumbies) in his article on the subject.

191 Nicholls at [illegible]. He further explained that jumbies [illegible]can be good or bad, but mostly they are mischievous[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

192 Nicholls at [illegible] (quoting Doris Green).

193 Nicholls at [illegible].

194 Nicholls at [illegible] (citing Hollis [illegible]Chalkdust[illegible] Liverpool).

195 Memo from Michael J. Costic, Director of the Caribbean Public Building Services Operations, to Peter Sneed, Director (June [illegible], [illegible]), at [illegible], GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Mitchell (hereinafter Costic memo).

196 Undated memo from the Clerk of the District Court of the Virgin Islands (around May [illegible]), GSA Archive/AA [illegible] Mitchell.

197 Moko Jum[illegible]ie[illegible] No Mocker[illegible] of Justice, Letter from Shirryl Hughes, St. Croix Avis, July [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible], [illegible], in GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Mitchell.

198 ST[illegible] Courthouse Sculpture [illegible]s Cultural Link, Virgin Islands Business Journal, Aug. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], in GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Mitchell.

199 Artist's Proposal Review, Art-in-Architecture Program, May [illegible], [illegible], in GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Mitchell. See also file memo of May [illegible], [illegible]. Mitchell described the work as [illegible]an Everyman striving to make something of himself.[illegible] Virgin Islands Council of the Arts News [illegible] (Spring [illegible]). In a later memo, that image was called Search for Truth; [illegible]the figure or positive space represents all of mankind, while the negative space symbolizes everything that mankind strives for[illegible] Art-in-Architecture Program Minutes, Jan. [illegible], [illegible], Artist Proposal Meeting, GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Mitchell.

200 Costic memo.

201 Memo from William J. Diamond, Regional Administrator, to John J. Landers, Assistant Commissioner (Feb. [illegible], [illegible]). See also Letter from the Public Building Services Contracting Officer to Mitchell (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]) telling her to suspend work and of the [illegible]intention to issue a modification to the contract whereby a new sculpture is designed and fabricated to the approval of the local art and other community representatives[illegible] Our thanks to the artist for providing us with these materials.

202 Artist Proposal Meeting, GSA/AA [illegible] Mitchell.

203 See Regina Austin, Sapphire Bound[illegible] Wisconsin Law Review [illegible].

204 See Stephen G. Breyer, [illegible]oreword to Celebrating the Courthouse [illegible]–[illegible]; Douglas P. Woodlock, Drawin[illegible] Meanin[illegible] from the [illegible] eart of the Courthouse, in Celebrating the Courthouse [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Douglas P. Woodlock, The [illegible]Peculiar [illegible]m[illegible]arrassment[illegible] n [illegible]rchi[illegible]tectural [illegible]istor[illegible] of the [illegible]ederal Courts in Massachusetts, Massachusetts Law Review [illegible]–[illegible] (Winter [illegible]). Our thanks to Stephen Breyer, Douglas Woodlock, Steve Rosenthal, William Young, Nancy Gertner, Ellsworth Kelly, and Robert Campbell, all of whom helped us to understand the form and function of this courthouse.

205 See Henry N. Cobb, The Shape of Justice[illegible]Law and [illegible]rchitec[illegible]ture, Third Lecture in the New York Court of Appeals Lecture Series, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], in an unpaginated monograph published by the Historical Society of the Courts of New York and the Court of Appeals of the State of New York ([illegible]) (hereinafter Cobb Lecture). Cobb is a member of the firm of Pei Cobb Freed [illegible] Partners.

206 Cobb Lecture.

207 Cobb Lecture. The building received mixed reviews, with some criticism of its [illegible]strange (postmodern) blend of International-style / pastiche architecture . . . [illegible]with[illegible]touches of art nouveau, futuristic, and techno-brute ornamentation[illegible] See Ann Wilson Lloyd, Three Trials for [illegible]llsworth [illegible]ell[illegible], [illegible] Art New England [illegible] (Feb.–Mar. [illegible]). The [illegible]almost solid brick wall it presents to the city on its landward side[illegible] also prompted criticism ([illegible]a major disappointment[illegible]), mitigated by the point that the courthouse was not meant to be a lonely building but to become part of a district crowded with other buildings. See Robert Campbell, [illegible] Mi[illegible]ed [illegible]erdict on New [illegible] S Courthouse, Boston Globe, Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible] (hereinafter Campbell, Mi[illegible]ed [illegible]erdict).

208 See Honorable Douglas P. Woodlock, Architecture and the Design of the New Federal Courthouse in Boston (Lecture for the Boston Society of Architects, [illegible]–[illegible], Jan. [illegible], [illegible]). Thanks to Steve Rosenthal for permission to reproduce his photographs (figs. [illegible] and [illegible]) of the court and its interior and to Ellsworth Kelly for permission, as well as to the Boston Courthouse, the GSA, and Judge Woodlock for facilitating the use of these images. The Boston Courthouse is also discussed and depicted in Chapters [illegible] and [illegible].

209 See United States Courthouse, Boston, Massachusetts, Courts and Community (undated) (hereinafter GSA, Boston Courthouse and Community), GSA Art-in-Architecture Archives [illegible] Ellsworth Kelly (hereinafter GSA/AA [illegible] Kelly). Boston's Federal Court Public Education Program included various curricula, including some aimed at young children and others that have older children involved in mock trials at which judges preside. See Children Discoverin[illegible] Justice and Mock Trials, Boston Law Tribune, Apr. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. The initiative was begun by the Boston Bar Association.

210 See General Services Administration, The Boston Panels, [illegible]llsworth [illegible]ell[illegible], [illegible]Courthouse (hereinafter GSA, Boston Panels) and General Services Administration, U.S. Courthouse, Boston, MA, The Artwork (hereinafter GSA Boston Memo). The reviewing panel, which included architect Cobb, Justice Breyer, Judge Woodlock, and nine others affiliated with art, law, or the locality, received more than [illegible] submissions and selected Kelly from a set of six finalists. Id. The artists in the group, in addition to Kelly, included James Carpenter, Sol LeWitt, Robert Mangold, Dorothea Rockburne, and James Turrell.

After meetings with other artists, Kelly was the panel's choice. Acquisition Memo (describing events in [illegible] and [illegible]), in Art-in-Architecture Project Report of [illegible]/[illegible]/[illegible], in GSA/AA [illegible] Kelly. The contract price was [illegible],[illegible]. See Award/Contract of [illegible]/[illegible]/[illegible], GSA/AA [illegible] Kelly. Also discussed was a commitment that [illegible]during the artist's lifetime . . . no single element may be removed[illegible] or rearranged and to the challenges of conservation of the [illegible]austere, flawless surface of each [illegible]panel[illegible] which makes fingerprints, drips, and dust highly noticeable[illegible] Id. at memo of June [illegible], [illegible]. The panels are dusted by using Japanese ostrich feather dusters (ironically thus linking the non-representational panels to the ostrich that was once seen at Justice's side, as shown in figs. [illegible]/[illegible] and [illegible]/[illegible]. Treatment Report of [illegible]/[illegible]/[illegible], GSA/AA [illegible] Kelly.

The GSA describes Kelly as [illegible]one of America's most celebrated artists of the postwar era[illegible] GSA, Boston Panels. Kelly was born in [illegible], studied at the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, and on his return from the army, he trained (with funding under the G.I. Bill) at the school associated with Boston's Museum of Fine Arts. In the late [illegible]s, Kelly went to Paris, where he lived for several years before returning to the United States. Kelly's works are in the [illegible] Holocaust Memorial Museum in the United States and in the renovated Reichstag, the German legislature's building. See generally Holland Cotter, [illegible]n [illegible]merican in Paris, Art in America [illegible] (Dec. [illegible]); Carol Vogel, [illegible]llsworth [illegible]ell[illegible] on the Wall, New York Times, Sept. [illegible], [illegible], part of the [illegible]Inside Art[illegible] series. As of [illegible], the Boston suite of [illegible] panels was the largest set of public art pieces by Kelly. See Christine Temin, Court of Man[illegible] Colors[illegible]llsworth [illegible]ell[illegible] [illegible]nstalls a Ma[illegible]or Commission in the Cit[illegible] Where [illegible]e [illegible]ot [illegible] is [illegible]rt Start, Boston Globe, Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at C[illegible] (hereinafter Temin, Court of Man[illegible] Colors, Boston Globe).

211 Harris at [illegible].

212 According to participants, our essay (Dennis E. Curtis [illegible] Judith Resnik, [illegible]na[illegible]es of Justice, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible])) had affected their view that the symbolism associated with justice had become popularized to a degree that diluted its meaning. See comments by the Honorable Douglas Woodlock, Symposium on the Art and Architecture of Civic Buildings, United States Courthouse, District of Massachusetts, Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰–⍰ (hereinafter Symposium on the Art and Architecture of Civic Buildings).

The committee chose a series of inscriptions, carved onto the inside and outside walls of the courthouse, to accomplish some of its educational goals. See The ⍰rt and Craft of Justice⍰⍰ ⍰uide to the Stone Carvin⍰s and ⍰nscriptions of the ⍰nited States Courthouse in Boston (Federal Court Public Education Fund, Boston, Mass. ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Boston Courthouse Stone Carvin⍰s ⍰uide). In addition, plans were to use the new space for civic education. See General Services Administration, Boston Courthouse and Community. A Federal Court Public Education Fund was established. See Maria Karagianis, The ⍰ederal Court Pu⍰lic ⍰ducation Pro⍰ect (sponsored by the Boston Bar Association and the Boston Bar Foundation, Spring ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

213 Minutes from the committee's considerations of other artists included comments by committee members that some were ⍰too partisan⍰or would highlight ⍰one culture⍰Draft Artist Selection Meeting Minutes, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰, GSA/AA ⍰⍰⍰ Kelly.

214 See Boston Courthouse Stone Carvin⍰s ⍰uide⍰The First Circuit also hears cases from the District of Puerto Rico.

215 Temin, Court of Man⍰ Colors at C⍰. In exchanges with the Community Arts Panel, Kelly had commented that he did not ⍰have any other content than the quality and clarity of the color⍰ Artist Proposal-Minutes, Dec. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰, GSA/AA ⍰⍰⍰ Kelly.

216 GSA, Boston Panels. See also Linda Nochlin, ⍰el⍰⍰Makin⍰ ⍰⍰⍰stra⍰tion ⍰new, Art in America ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Nochlin thought the black panel could reference the black of judges' robes or criminal law, but what it really serves to do is ⍰to remind us, simply by being where it is, of the contradictions that lie not merely at the heart of our visual apprehensions but, by analogy, in our institutional practices and their theoretical grounding as well.⍰

217 Remarks by Robert Campbell, Symposium on the Art and Architecture of Civic Buildings at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰. Campbell described the Kelly panels as ⍰the ultimate abstractions of what would have been representational paintings in the sense that the horizontal ones in the rotunda are landscapes and the vertical ones at the ends of the corridors are portraits. . . . ⍰T⍰hey are as if the message were yet to be inscribed⍰See also Campbell, Mi⍰ed ⍰erdict.

Not all abstractions have avoided conflict. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰ the GSA gave a commission to George Sugarman for a sculpture called Baltimore ⍰ed⍰ ⍰eral, which is a swirl of variously colored welded aluminum shapes in red, blue, green, orange, and yellow measuring approximately forty-five feet square by twenty feet high. The Chief Judge of the District Court objected that the sculpture was ⍰inappropriate⍰ for a federal building and posed a danger⍰ either of injuring those who climbed on it or of serving as a ⍰potential shelter for persons bent on mischief or assault on the public.⍰ Thalacker at ⍰. As the criticism escalated, the art world rallied in support, with one curator calling the object one of the ⍰most exciting works for a public space that I have seen⍰Id. at ⍰. A judge opposing the art countered that his concerns about safety deserved consideration from the FBI and that ⍰dissident groups⍰ could use the piece as a ⍰platform for speaking or hurling objects⍰Id. at ⍰⍰. After the GSA convened a public hearing, the judge's objections lost out to the sculptor's supporters, and the piece was installed in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Id. at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. See also Harriet F. Senie, Ba⍰loons, Pet ⍰ocks, and Bom⍰ Threats⍰Pu⍰lic ⍰rt and Pu⍰lic Perception, in Critical Issues in Public Art at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

The judges remained unhappy. When the building was under consideration for redesign in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s, they renewed their complaint that the sculpture was ⍰inconsistent with the dignity of the United States Courts⍰See Memorandum from Jan Ziegler to Dale Lanzone (Aug. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), General Services Administration, Arts and Historical Preservation Division, GSA Archives, Art-in-Architecture, AA ⍰⍰⍰. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, after the April ⍰⍰ bombing of a federal courthouse in Oklahoma City, interest in removing the sculpture intensified. See Marcia Myers, New Strate⍰⍰ ⍰foot to ⍰emove Controversial Sculpture, Baltimore Sun, June ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰A. The artist noted that security had not been a problem over the years, and further, that his work made a ⍰social place that people could participate in . . . reflective of the open democracy that a courthouse is supposed to represent in this country. It is a very idealistic piece⍰ Paul W. Valentine, Not Just a Matter of Taste⍰Much⍰ Disliked Court Sculpture Ma⍰ Be Securit⍰ ⍰isk, Washington Post, June ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at B⍰.

In ⍰⍰⍰⍰ the sculpture was disassembled into twenty pieces and removed for restoration. It was returned in ⍰⍰⍰⍰; the building's entrance and the surrounding plaza were reorganized and the sculpture relocated ⍰at the foot of the plaza⍰ The move was explained as enabling the sculpture to be better viewed from another street and enhanced by landscaping as well as providing easier handicap access to the building. Email memos exchanged among GSA staff, July ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, GSA/AA ⍰⍰⍰ Sugarman. See also Glenn McNatt, ⍰ Si⍰⍰ ⍰or Sore ⍰⍰es, Baltimore Sun, Aug. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰F; see also GSA, Courthouse Square Revisited: Report of the Design Charrette Team, GSA/AA ⍰⍰⍰ Sugarman, Dec. ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

218 Temin, Court of Man⍰ Colors, at C⍰.

219 Lloyd at ⍰⍰. The panels were ⍰large, cheerful, but innocuous color chips⍰Id.

220 Crary, Techniques of the Observer ⍰–⍰. The ⍰collapse of the camera obscura as a model for the condition of the observer⍰ meant that there was no longer a fixed place, but instead multiple points of view, no longer one fixed source of light, but vision as present in the perception. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

221 Crary, Techniques of the Observer at ⍰ (emphasis in the original).

222 Crary, Techniques of the Observer at ⍰⍰, citing The Works of John ⍰uskin, vol. ⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰. Ruskin had described the ⍰innocence of the eye⍰as ⍰a sort of childish perception of these flat stains of color . . . as a blind man would see them if suddenly gifted with sight.⍰

223 Crary, techniques of the observer at ⍰–⍰.

224 Crary, techniques of the observer at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, citing Foucault's Discipline and Punish. Crary also builds on Jean Baudrillard's La soci⍰⍰ ⍰de consommation (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Crary's project is to engage with the relevance of the sense of touch to sight. Crary, Techniques of the Observer at ⍰⍰.

225 Maija Jansson, Matthew ⍰ale on Jud⍰es and Jud⍰in⍰, ⍰ Journal of Legal History ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). A glowing account of Hale (a great jurist as well as ⍰the greatest historian of English law before Maitland⍰) is provided by Sir William S. Holdsworth, Sir Matthew ⍰ ale, ⍰⍰ Law Quarterly Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Hale was the author of a history of the common law, first published anonymously in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰.

226 Jansson, excerpting Hale's diary; this segment is quoted at ⍰⍰⍰.

227 Jansson at ⍰⍰⍰.

228 Holdsworth at ⍰⍰⍰. At the time, ⍰the sentence was in accordance with the law, and the existence of witches was vouched for by the Bible⍰Id.

229 Jansson at ⍰⍰⍰.

230 In addition to political transformations, an amalgam of technology and critical science splintered the unity of a single objective point of view and gave new shape to the role of spectators who gained the stature of observers. See generally Crary, Techniques of the Observer.

231 See Larry Berkson, Scott Beller, ⍰ Michele Grimaldi, Judicial Selection in the United States : A Compendium of Provisions (Chicago, IL: American Judicature Society, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), online at American Judicature Society, http://www.ajs.org/selection/sel⍰states elect.asp.

232 See generally Lee Epstein, Jack Knight, ⍰ Olga Shvetsova, Selectin⍰ Selection S⍰stems, in Judicial Independence at the Crossroads: An Interdisciplinary Approach (Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage Publications, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

233 Act of Settlement, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ ⌧ ⌧⌧ Will. ⌧, c. ⌧; see also David Lemmings, The ⌧ndependence of the Judiciar⌧ in ⌧⌧⌧⌧nteenth⌧Centur⌧ ⌧n⌧land, in The Life of the Law: Proceedings of the Tenth British Legal History Conference ⌧⌧⌧ (Peter Birks, ed., London, Eng.: Hambledon Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧), and Robert Stevens, The Independence of the Judiciary: The View from the Lord Chancellor's Office (Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

234 U.S. Const. Art. ⌧, sec. ⌧.

235 As of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, the group of individuals against whom impeachments were voted by the House numbered fourteen, and some resigned before proceedings, while three (Samuel Chase, ⌧⌧⌧⌧; Charles Swayne, ⌧⌧⌧⌧; Harold Louderback, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) were acquitted. See Impeachments of Federal Judges, Federal Judicial Center, http://www.fjc.gov/history/home.nsf/page/topics⌧ji⌧bdy. The experience of the United States is not sui generis. In several democracies committed to judicial independence, judges are rarely removed from office. See Mary L. Volcansek, Judicial Misconduct: A Cross-National Comparison ⌧⌧⌧ (Gainesville, FL: U. of Florida Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Further, in many countries, service on constitutional courts may be for limited and nonrenewable terms and retirement required for judges on other courts.

Many systems rely on controlling lower-level problems and lower-level judges through internal judicially administered systems. In the United States federal system, provisions were put into place in ⌧⌧⌧⌧. See Judicial Councils Reform and Judicial Conduct and Disability Act of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, Pub. L. No. ⌧⌧-⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Stat. ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (codified as amended at ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧(c) (⌧⌧⌧⌧)), amended by Judicial Discipline and Removal Act of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, Pub. L. No. ⌧⌧⌧-⌧⌧⌧, ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧(a), ⌧⌧⌧ Stat. ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (codified as amended at ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧(c)(⌧) (⌧⌧⌧⌧)), superseded by Judicial Improvements Act of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, Pub. L. No. ⌧⌧⌧-⌧⌧⌧, ch. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ Stat. ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (codified at ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧⌧ ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧)). In England and Wales, superintendence of lower-level judges came through the Lord Chancellor. See Constitutional Reform Act, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ch. ⌧, ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧ (Eng.); Explanatory Notes to Constitutional Reform Act ⌧⌧⌧⌧, paras. ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧); Office of Judicial Complaints, http://www.judicialcomplaints.gov.uk. Civil court systems generally rely on administrative control for their regular judiciaries. Volcansek at ⌧. Italy adopted this method in ⌧⌧⌧⌧.

236 Stump v⌧Sparkman is a vivid example. The approval by a judge of an order that a young woman be sterilized was a ⌧judicial⌧ act entitling him to immunity from liability. ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

237 The speech was not only important at the time but was later reprinted in ⌧⌧ Journal of the American Judicature Society ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧), and its themes reengaged a century later. See Randall L. Shephard, ⌧ntroduction⌧The ⌧ undred⌧⌧ear ⌧un of ⌧oscoe Pound, Confer⌧ence of Chief Justices and Conference of State Court ⌧dministrators ⌧ nnual Meetin⌧Jul⌧⌧⌧⌧ u⌧ust ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧ndianapolis, ⌧ndiana, ⌧⌧ Indiana Law Journal ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

238 See Russell Benedict, ⌧thics of the Bench, ⌧ American Bar Association Journal ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧); John W. Davis, Some Current ⌧ctivities of the ⌧merican Bar ⌧ssociation, ⌧⌧ West Virginia Law Quarterly ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

239 See Canons of Judicial Ethics, Canon ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (⌧Avoidance of Impropriety. A judge's official conduct should be free from impropriety and the appearance of impropriety; he should avoid infractions of law; and his personal behavior, not only upon the Bench and in the performance of judicial duties, but also in his everyday life, should be beyond reproach⌧); see also Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (⌧⌧a⌧ judge should avoid impropriety and the appearance of impropriety⌧); Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (⌧⌧a⌧ judge shall avoid impropriety and the appearance of impropriety in all of the judge's activities⌧); Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (⌧⌧a⌧ judge shall avoid impropriety and the appearance of impropriety in all of the judge's activities⌧); Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (⌧⌧a⌧ judge shall uphold and promote the independence, integrity, and impartiality of the judiciary, and shall avoid impropriety and the appearance of impropriety⌧).

A word on sources is in order. The American Bar Association has promulgated ⌧model codes⌧ of conduct, setting forth ⌧canons,⌧⌧⌧rules⌧ and ⌧comments⌧ meant to indicate different levels of obligation⌧ from binding rules to ⌧aspirational goals⌧ These codes, however, have no force unless adopted affirmatively by a jurisdiction; many have done so, sometimes with modifications. Details of the structure of the current code are provided in American Bar Association (ABA), Model Code of Judicial Conduct, ⌧Scope⌧ (Chicago, IL: ABA, ⌧⌧⌧⌧), http://www.abanet.org/judicialethics/ABA⌧MCJC⌧approved.pdf. (hereinafter ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Model Code of Judicial Conduct). In the years since ⌧⌧⌧⌧, the ABA has put forth several versions that varied somewhat. We cite specific examples with dates provided to delineate the different iterations.

As Charles Geyh explained, the idea of an appearance of unfairness could be found earlier, including in an ⌧⌧⌧⌧ judgment of the English courts concluding that judges could not be shareholders in a corporation that was bringing a lawsuit, for to do so could give rise to a suggestion that ⌧personal interest⌧ influenced the judgment; the court warned judges to ⌧avoid the appearance of laboring under such influence.⌧ Dimes v⌧⌧rand Junction Canal, ⌧⌧ Eng. Rep. ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ (H.L. ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (Campbell, J., concurring), discussed in Charles Gardner Geyh, Preservin⌧ Pu⌧lic Confidence in the Courts in an ⌧⌧e of ⌧ndividual ⌧r⌧hts and Pu⌧lic Skepticism, in Bench Press: The Collision of Courts, Politics, and the Media ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ (Keith J. Bybee, ed., Stanford, CA: Stanford U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Further, as Geyh and other scholars have noted, the inclusion of an ⌧appearance⌧ standard came in part from a specific example: after a scandal involving corruption of a baseball team (the Chicago White Sox) in the World Series, a federal judge agreed to serve as a paid baseball commissioner while continuing to sit as a judge. The judge was charged with neglect of duties, but the evidence was found insufficient for impeachment. His conduct was nonetheless seen as ⌧derogatory to the dignity of the Bench⌧ See John P. MacKenzie, The Appearance of Justice ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧ (New York, NY: Scribner, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Geyh also charted the problems of implementing the ⌧appearance⌧ standard, with its vague and ill-defined contours, yet noted its ongoing popular appeal. For further discussion of the contemporary standard, see M. Margaret McKeown, Don⌧ Shoot the Canons⌧ Maintainin⌧ the ⌧ppearance of Propriet⌧ Standard, ⌧ Journal of Appellate Practice and Process ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

240 Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon ⌧(c) (⌧⌧⌧⌧); Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon ⌧.⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). The ⌧⌧⌧⌧ text provides: ⌧A judge shall not hold membership in any organization that practices invidious discrimination on the basis of race, sex, gender, religion, national origin, ethnicity, or sexual orientation⌧ Further, a ⌧judge shall not use the benefits or facilities⌧ (including attending events at such organizations) if the judge knows of the organization's practices. Membership in such groups, if part of religious observance, is not ⌧a violation⌧ of the rule. See also Andrew L. Kaufman, Judicial Correctness Meets Constitutional Correctness⌧Section ⌧C of the Code of Judicial Conduct, ⌧⌧ Hofstra Law Review ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

241 See, for example, Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Preface to the Code (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (⌧The canons and text establish mandatory standards unless otherwise indicated⌧). The ⌧⌧⌧⌧ version provided that the Code ⌧establishes standards⌧ that are not ⌧exhaustive⌧ but serve as guidance for both judges and judicial candidates. See ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Preamble. Further, its language states that judges ⌧shall uphold and promote the independence, integrity, and impartiality of the judiciary, and shall avoid impropriety and the appearance of impropriety⌧ Id., Canon ⌧.

242 Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Preamble (□□□□). In □□□□ the ABA revisions retreated somewhat from the mandatory preamble and relied on the word □should□ instead of □shall□ in some instances. By then, most states had created commissions to review complaints against judges for misconduct. Geyh at □□.

243 Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Comment □ to Rule □.□ (□□□□). See Richard L. Fruin, □ow Judicial □utreach Became Part of the Model Code of Judicial Conduct, □□ Judges' Journal □□ (Fall, □□□□).

244 See Rule □ (Scope) of the Rules Governing Judicial Conduct and Disability Proceedings Undertaken Pursuant to □□ U.S.C. □□ □□□–□□□ (adopted □□□□). The development of new rules came in the wake of criticism of the ways in which courts had been administering the complaint procedure. As a consequence, Chief Justice William Rehnquist had appointed a committee, chaired by Associate Justice Stephen Breyer, to develop standards for implementation of the internal procedures of courts as they sit to hear complaints about colleagues. See Judicial Conduct and Disability Act Study Committee (Breyer Committee), Implementation of the Judicial Conduct and Disability Act of □□□□: A Report to the Chief Justice (Sept. □□□□), Supreme Court, http://www.supremecourtus.gov/publicinfo/breyercommitteereport.pdf. In □□□□ the Judicial Conference promulgated new, uniform rules for handling complaints under the act. See Judicial Conference of the □nited States, □ules for Judicial□Conduct and Judicial□Disa□ilit□ Proceedin□s (Mar. □□□□), U.S. Courts, http://www.uscourts.gov/library/judicialmisconduct/jud□conduct□and□disability□□□□□app□B□rev.pdf.□

245 See Dr. Bonham's Case, □□ Eng. Rep. □□□ (K.B. □□□□). There Lord Coke ruled that the board members deciding physicians' qualifications could not impose and receive fines. As detailed in Chapter □, Tume□ v□□ hio, □□□ U.S. □□□ (□□□□), made that precept a part of the constitutional law of due process in the United States.

246 Two federal statutes are illustrative. The first, □□ U.S.C. □ □□□, provides that parties may file □a timely and sufficient affidavit that a □district□judge before whom the matter is pending has a personal bias or prejudice□ against that or another party, and the judge □shall proceed no further□ if that judge concurs. A more recently enacted statute, □□ U.S.C. □ □□□(b) (□□□□), called □Disqualification of justice, judge, or magistrate judge□ provides more detail and applies more broadly. It states that

> (a) Any justice, judge, or magistrate □magistrate judge□ of the United States shall disqualify himself in any proceeding in which his impartiality might reasonably be questioned□ Under subsection (b), disqualification is mandatory:
>
> (□) Where he has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, or personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding;
>
> (□) Where in private practice he served as lawyer in the matter in controversy, or a lawyer with whom he previously practiced law served during such association as a lawyer concerning the matter, or the judge or such lawyer has been a material witness concerning it;
>
> (□) Where he has served in governmental employment and in such capacity participated as counsel, adviser or material witness concerning the proceeding or expressed an opinion concerning the merits of the particular case in controversy;
>
> (□) He knows that he, individually or as a fiduciary, or his spouse or minor child residing in his household, has a financial interest in the subject matter in controversy or in a party to the proceeding, or any other interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the proceeding;
>
> (□) He or his spouse, or a person within the third degree of relationship to either of them, or the spouse of such a person:
>
> (i) Is a party to the proceeding, or an officer, director, or trustee of a party;
>
> (ii) Is acting as a lawyer in the proceeding;
>
> (iii) Is known by the judge to have an interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the proceeding;
>
> (iv) Is to the judge's knowledge likely to be a material witness in the proceeding.

Financial interests are defined as □ownership of a legal or equitable interest, however small□ but exclude mutual funds. Further, if an issue of disqualification related to financial investments arises □after substantial judicial time has been devoted to the matter□ and the judge divests him or herself of the assets, disqualification is not mandatory.

In addition, model rules also require disqualification under parallel provisions. See Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Rule □.□□ (Disqualification) (□□□□). The evolution of federal recusal law is mapped by Amanda Frost, □eepin□ □p □ppearances□ □ Process□□riented □pproach to Judicial □ecusal, □□ Kansas Law Review □□□, □□□–□□□ (□□□□). For discussion of innovative responses from state courts, see Judith Resnik, □n the Bias□□eminist □econsiderations of the □spirations for □ur Jud□es, □□ Southern California Law Review □□□□ (□□□□).

247 See □□□□ Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Rule □.□□.

248 A review that includes such examples is provided by Peter W. Bowie in The Last □□□ □ears□□ n □ra of □□pandin□ □ppearances, □□ South Tex. Law Review □□□ (□□□□).

249 See, for example, Cal. Civ. Proc. Code □□ □□□–□□□.□ (Deering □□□□).

250 The federal statutes by which litigants make such challenges are illustrative. See □□ U.S.C. □ □□□; □□ U.S.C. □ □□□. The decisions made by lower court judges may eventually be subjected to review.

251 Requirements for reporting of such support as gifts and of precluding such trips for lower court federal judges have been considered. See, for example, Fair and Independent Federal Judiciary Act of □□□□, S. □□□, □□□th Cong. (□□□□); Fair and Independent Judiciary Act of □□□□, S. □□□□, □□□th Cong. (□□□□). Arguments for regulating this conduct come from Douglas T. Kendall □ Jason C. Rylander, Tainted Justice□□ ow Private Judicial Trips □ndermine Pu□lic Confi□dence in the Judiciar□, □□ Georgia Journal of Legal Ethics □□ (□□□□). Another issue is judges' acquisition of knowledge through their own research. See George D. Marlow, □rom Black □o□es to White La□ Coats□The □thical □nplications of a Jud□□□ Sua Sponte, e□ Parte □c□uisition of Social and □ ther Scientific □vidence durin□ the Decision□ Makin□ Process, □□ St. John's Law Review □□□ (□□□□).

252 The Model Code of Judicial Conduct addresses some of these issues with varying degrees of specificity. For example, parameters are set forth limiting judges from becoming involved in fundraising for organizations and encouraging public commentary related to □the law, the legal system, and the administration of justice□ but not issues likely to come before a judge. See American Bar Association, Model Code of Judicial Conduct (Chicago, IL: ABA, □□□□), http://www.abanet.org/judicialethics/ABA□MCJC□approved.pdf.

253 Born in □□□□, Jeff Danziger is an independent political cartoonist whose work, syndicated through the New □ork Times, appears in newspapers around the world. He is also a novelist whose book is in Like the Tucson (New York, NY: Doubleday,) reflected his experiences as an intelligence officer serving during the Vietnam War. From to , he worked for the Christian Science Monitor. In Danziger was awarded the Herblock Prize for editorial cartoons. Our thanks to the artist for his permission to use the cartoon in figure .

254 See Cheney v. U.S. Dist. Ct., U.S. ().

255 Cheney, U.S. at .

256 Cheney, U.S. at .

257 See Monroe H. Freedman, Duck Blind Justice Justice Scalia Memorandum in the Cheney Case, Georgia Journal of Legal Ethics , ().

258 See U.S.C. App. II –.

259 By arguing that a nondiscretionary duty existed, the plaintiffs could invoke the federal court's jurisdiction under the Mandamus Act, U.S.C. .

260 Cheney, U.S. at –.

261 Justice Scalia disagreed with press reports that Cheney's host was an energy industry executive and described him as the owner of a company that provides services and equipment rental to oil rigs in the Gulf of Mexico. Cheney v. U.S. Dist. Ct., Memorandum of Justice Scalia, U.S. , () (hereinafter Scalia, Cheney Memorandum).

262 Scalia, Cheney Memorandum at –.

263 See Scalia, Cheney Memorandum at . See also Model Code of Judicial Conduct, Rule . ().

264 Sierra Club Motion to Recuse (Appellate Brief), WL at –.

265 Scalia, Cheney Memorandum at .

266 Scalia, Cheney Memorandum at .

267 Scalia, Cheney Memorandum at .

268 Scalia, Cheney Memorandum at –. There Scalia referenced a memorandum of the Court of that was a Statement of Recusal Policy and quoted its view that Justices ought not recuse themselves out of an excess of caution but only when necessary.

269 Scalia, Cheney Memorandum at .

270 Cheney, U.S. at –.

271 Cheney, U.S. at –.

272 In re Cheney, F.d (D.C. Cir.). The D.C. Circuit issued a writ of mandamus to the district court ordering dismissal of the complaint. The appellate court determined that, in light of severe separation-of-powers problems it would narrowly construe the reach of the statute mandating public access. The court then concluded that if a committee were composed wholly of federal officials and no one other than a federal official has a vote in, or, if the committee acts by consensus, a veto over the committee's decisions the Act did not apply. Id. at . In contrast, participation in committee meetings . . . even influential participation did not make a person a committee member, for the executive needed to be free to seek confidential information from many sources inside and outside of government. Id. The appellate court decided that the plaintiffs (still lacking the requested discovery) had not established that the nongovernmental members had voted, and therefore that the Energy Policy Group was not a committee that fell under the statute's parameters. Id. at .

273 See, for example, Frost at ; Freedman at ; Adam Liptak, Word for Word Scalia's Defense A Case of Blind Justice among a Bunch of Friends, New York Times, Mar. , , at .

274 Controversy had also emerged when litigants requested that William Rehnquist recuse himself in a case involving a challenge to a program on which he had worked when at the Department of Justice. He declined. See Laird v. Tatum, U.S. () (statement of Justice Rehnquist). The case was decided (in favor of the government) five to four, with Rehnquist's participation in the majority. See Laird v. Tatum, U.S. ().

275 Brian Barry, Justice as Impartiality: A Treatise on Social Justice, vol. (Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon Press,).

276 Barry at .

277 A few are reproduced in Chapter (Critics charge that recent decisions manifest a blind disregard for the Constitution, Alternative to Roe vs. Wade, and a cartoon accompanying the article A Trial for Chinese Justice figures , , and).

278 John Rawls, A Theory of Justice (Cambridge, MA: Belknap / Harvard U. Press,). The potential for that positioning is explored (and critiqued) in Michael Walzer, Interpretation and Social Criticism (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press,). Our thanks to Daniel Markovits for his engagement with this segment of our work and for his suggestions on the interrelationships between Rawls and Walzer on this point.

279 Report of the Committee on Diversity in Legal Education to the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar ( ). Its preliminary report on the implementation of recommendations was made to the Council in August at its meeting in Newport, Rhode Island, on June –, . See the ABA website, http://www.abanet.org/legaled/committees/diversityreports/diversity-report-.doc.

280 Comparisons among countries need to take into account that in some places, such as the United States and Canada, law is a graduate degree, while in many other countries, law can be studied as part of an undergraduate curriculum, resulting in a Bachelor of Law. With that caveat, one can find parallel trends. For example, in Germany in , women were about one-third of the students pursuing university-based legal studies, and by women were almost one-half of the students. Ulrike Schultz, The Status of Women Lawyers in Germany, in Women in the World's Legal Professions (Ulrike Schultz & Gisela Shaw, eds., Portland, OR: Hart Publishing,) (hereinafter Women in the World). Moving to those obtaining licenses to practice law, in the United Kingdom in , women represented about percent of those authorized to be solicitors; in women were less than percent of those admitted as barristers. By women were about half of those entering the profession as solicitors and as barristers. See Clare M. S. McGlynn, The Status of Women Lawyers in the United Kingdom, in Women in the World at –. In Israel, similar trends were seen; women were percent of those licensed to practice law in the decade – and about a third of those licensed in the s. Bryna Bogoch, Gender, Trials and Professional Performance in Israel, in Women in the World at –. In Australia, women were under percent of the bar in and about a quarter of those in the bar in . Rosemary Hunter, Women in the Legal Profession The Australian Profile, in Women in the World at –.

281 See Gideon v. Wainwright, U.S. () (). See generally Anthony Lewis, Gideon's Trumpet (New York, NY: Random House,).

282 The effort to use law to redress the unfairness of law is chronicled in several accounts of the NAACP. See, for example, Gilbert Jonas, Freedom's Sword: The NAACP and the Struggle against Racism in America, – (New York, NY: Routledge,).

283 Letter from Will Shafroth to Alfred P. Murrah (March ,), in Judicial Conference Committee Records, Box , Folder Pretrial Committee, Record Group , Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, National Archives, Washington, D.C. Further discussion of teaching judges is provided in Judith Resnik, Trial as Error, Jurisdiction as Injury Transforming the Meaning of Article III, Harvard Law Review , – ().

284 McCleskey v. Kemp, U.S. ().

285 The data on sentencing in Georgia were collected and analyzed by David C. Baldus, Charles Pulaski, and George Woodworth. The majority noted their effort to consider whether other variables explained the outcome; the researchers used variables. Even taking account of [illegible] nonracial variables, defendants charged with killing white victims were [illegible] times as likely to receive a death sentence as defendants charged with killing blacks. McCleskey, [illegible] U.S. at [illegible]. Subsequent studies in other states have found comparable racialized effects. See David C. Baldus, George Woodworth, David Zuckerman, Neil Alan Weiner, [illegible] Barbara Broffitt, [illegible]acial Discrimination and the Death Penalty in the Post-[illegible]urman [illegible]ra[illegible]n [illegible]mpirical and Le[illegible]al [illegible]verview, with [illegible]ecent [illegible]indin[illegible]s from Philadelphia, [illegible] Cornell Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

286 McCleskey, [illegible] U.S. at [illegible].

287 McCleskey, [illegible] U.S. at [illegible]–[illegible].

288 Baldus et al. at [illegible].

289 Baldus et al. at [illegible].

290 Crary, Techniques of the Observer at [illegible], identifying the understanding of nineteenth-century modernity that no objective visual position existed and the relocation of the viewpoint in the observer.

291 A new entity[illegible] the National Judicial Education Program to Promote Equality of Women and Men in the Courts[illegible] was formed to run such activities. Norma Juliet Wikler, the first director of the National Judicial Education Program, substituted the term [illegible]gender bias[illegible] for [illegible]sexism[illegible] after she discovered [illegible]in [illegible] that judges attending the first judicial education programs on this topic were less resistant if the former term was used[illegible] Norma Juliet Wikler, [illegible]esearchin[illegible] [illegible]en[illegible]der Bias in the Courts[illegible]Pro[illegible]lems and Prospects, in Investigating Gender Bias: Law, Courts and the Legal Profession [illegible], n. [illegible] (Joan Brockman and Dorothy Chunn, eds., Toronto, Can.: Thompson Educational Publishing, [illegible]) (hereinafter Investigating Gender Bias). See also Lynn Hecht Schafran, [illegible]ender [illegible]ualit[illegible] in the Courts[illegible]Still on the Judicial [illegible]enda, [illegible] Judicature [illegible] ([illegible]).

292 In [illegible] New Jersey was again first in creating a [illegible]Minority Concerns[illegible] task force. In [illegible] the chief justices of all state courts adopted a resolution calling for study of gender, racial, and ethnic bias in the courts. In [illegible] judges and lawyers of color formed the [illegible]National Consortium of Task Forces and Commissions on Racial and Ethnic Bias in the Courts[illegible] to generate nationwide study and education. Initially the work was based in state courts. In [illegible], the Ninth Circuit (encompassing federal trial and appellate courts in nine Western states) became the first in the federal system to issue a report on the effects of gender throughout courts. Soon thereafter, the Judicial Conference of the United States (the policy-making body of the federal judiciary) voiced support for studies of bias, and other federal circuits began such work. Congressional encouragement for federal court studies came in [illegible] in a section of the Violence against Women Act. In the spring of [illegible], the Federal Judicial Center (the national educational arm of the federal courts) published a research guide for federal gender task forces. See Judith Resnik, [illegible]skin[illegible] a[illegible]out [illegible]ender in Courts, [illegible] Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society [illegible] ([illegible]).

293 Connecticut Task Force on Gender, Justice, and the Courts, Report of the Connecticut Task Force on Gender, Justice, and the Courts to the Chief Justice at [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Connecticut Task Force Report on Gender).

294 Federal Judicial Center, Studying the Role of Gender in the Federal Courts: A Research Guide [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

295 See Deborah R. Hensler, Stud[illegible]in[illegible] [illegible]ender Bias in the Courts[illegible] Stories and Statistics, [illegible] Stanford Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

296 New York Task Force on Women in the Courts, [illegible]eport of the New [illegible]ork Task [illegible]orce on Women in the Courts [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]), reprinted in [illegible] Fordham Urban Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]–[illegible]).

297 Connecticut Task Force Report on Gender at [illegible].

298 New York State Judicial Commission on Minorities, Report of the New York State Judicial Commission on Minorities, vols. I–IV ([illegible]), in vol. I, Executive Summary, at [illegible] ([illegible]).

299 Michigan Supreme Court Task Forces on Racial/Ethnic Issues in the Courts, Final Report of the Michigan Supreme Court Task Force on Racial/Ethnic Issues in the Courts [illegible] ([illegible]). Similarly, New York's report on minorities found that the [illegible]perception [illegible]s[illegible] that minorities are stripped of their human dignity, their individuality and their identity in their encounters with the court system[illegible] See New York State Commission on Minorities Report, vol. II: The Public and the Courts at [illegible]. A few reports also noted areas of progress. See, for example, the gender reports from Georgia, Kentucky, New Mexico, and both the federal and local courts of the District of Columbia, as well as the Report of the Third Circuit. See Commission on Gender and Commission on Race [illegible] Ethnicity, [illegible]eport of the Third Circuit Task [illegible]orce on [illegible]ual Treatment in the Courts, [illegible] Villanova Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

300 See, for example, [illegible]n re Swan, [illegible] F. Supp. [illegible] (C.D. Cal. [illegible]), rev[illegible] su[illegible] nom. [illegible][illegible]v[illegible]Wunsch, [illegible] F.[illegible]d [illegible] ([illegible]th Cir. [illegible]); Catchpole v[illegible]Brannon, [illegible] Cal. App. [illegible]th [illegible] (Cal. Ct. App. [illegible]); State v[illegible]Pace, [illegible] S.E.[illegible]d [illegible] (S.C. [illegible]).

301 Powell v[illegible]llstate [illegible]nsurance Co., [illegible] So. [illegible]d [illegible] (Fla. [illegible]); [illegible]n re [illegible]incenti, [illegible] A.[illegible]d [illegible] (N.J. [illegible]). See also Sheri Lynn Johnson, [illegible]acial [illegible]na[illegible]er[illegible] in Criminal Cases, [illegible] Tulane Law Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

302 Stop [illegible]Politic[illegible]in[illegible]Courts, Women[illegible] [illegible]roup [illegible]r[illegible]es in [illegible]esponse to [illegible] [illegible]eport, PR Newswire, Washington Dateline, March [illegible], [illegible]. A few Republican senators entered into the Congressional Record their recommendation that no federal funds be spent for such work, while several Democratic senators voiced their support. See [illegible] Cong. Rec. S[illegible]-[illegible] at S[illegible]–S[illegible] (daily ed. Dec. [illegible], [illegible]); [illegible] Cong. Rec. E[illegible]-[illegible] (daily ed. Dec. [illegible], [illegible]).

303 Mallor[illegible] v[illegible] [illegible]arkness, [illegible] F. Supp. [illegible] (S.D. Fla. [illegible]), a[illegible], [illegible] F.[illegible]d [illegible] ([illegible]th Cir. [illegible]).

304 Commission on Systemic Racism in the Ontario Criminal Justice System, Report of the Commission on Systemic Racism in the Ontario Criminal Justice System (Toronto, Can.: Queen's Printer for Ontario, [illegible]). Critics also complained that gender bias [illegible]disguises sexual oppression and reflects a liberal way of thinking about the phenomenon[illegible] Joan Brockman [illegible] Dorothy E. Chunn, [illegible]ender Bias in Law and the Social Sciences, in Investigating Gender Bias at [illegible].

305 See generally John Rajchman, [illegible]oucault[illegible] [illegible]rt of Seein[illegible], [illegible] October [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

Chapter [illegible]

1 Bernhard van Zutphen, Practycke der nederlansche rechten van de daghelijcksche soo civile als criminele questien (Dutch Law and Practice in Civil and Criminal Matters) (Tot Leewarden [illegible]Louvain, Belg.[illegible] G. Sijbes, [illegible]). Zutphen was well known for his work on criminal law. See James Q. Whitman, The Moral Menace of [illegible]oman Law and the Makin[illegible] of Commerce[illegible]Some Dutch [illegible]vidence, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

2 Our thanks to Mike Widener, Rare Book Librarian, Rare Book Collection, Lillian Goldman Law Library, Yale Law School, for bringing figure [illegible] to our attention and to the Library's Rare Book Collection for permitting its reproduction.

3 Nearly identical images, complete with the small Justice statue at the back behind the presiding jurist, can be found in Johan van den Sande, Rervm in Svprema Frisiorum curia iudicatarum libri V (Five Books of Matters in the Supreme Court of Friesland) (Leeuwarden [illegible]Louvain, Belg.[illegible] Ioannis Iansscnil, [illegible]) (Leovardiae: impensis Ioannis Iansscnil, [illegible]); Johan van den Sande, Vijf boecken der gewijsder saken voor den hove van vrieslandt (Five Books on Legal Issues for the Court of Friesland) (Leeuwarden [illegible]Louvain, Belg.[illegible] Eyvo Takus Wielsma, [illegible]). Two other engraved title pages that we have located provide a similar court scene but without a depiction of Justice. See Hugo Grotius, Inleiding tot de hollandsche rechts-geleertheyd (Introduction to Dutch Law) (S'Graven-hage: De weduwe van H. P. van Wou, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Jacob Coren, D. Iacobi Cooren in Supremo Senatu Hollandiae: Zeelandiae, Frisiae, dum viveret assessoris; Observationes rerum in eodem Senatu judicatarum; Item Consilia quaedam: Auctiora ⊠ emendatiora (Amstelaedami) (roughly Commentary on the Decisions of the Supreme Court of Holland, Zeeland, and West-Friesland) (Amsterdam: Apud J. Ravesteinium, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

4 See Robert Tittler, Architecture and Power: The Town Hall and the English Urban Community c. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Tittler counted ⊠⊠⊠ such purpose-built structures in ⊠⊠⊠ towns over the time period he studied. The buildings went by a variety of names (including town house, market house, tolsey, tollbooth, guild-hall, yeldehall, moot hall, mote hall, boot hall) and provided a range of functions related to ⊠local civic administration⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Many such structures were specifically constructed ⊠for the holding of courts by the manorial authority of the day⊠ Id., and at ⊠⊠⊠. Buildings were often also public markets that housed clocks, weights, and bells⊠ providing a modicum of economic regulation. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. About ⊠⊠ percent of those structures survived through the twentieth century; a few, restored, ⊠still actually host some forms of deliberative or judicial function⊠; others are museums. Id. at ⊠⊠.

5 Tittler at ⊠⊠.

6 Tittler at ⊠⊠. Tittler mapped the relationship between stages of political development and town hall construction in England during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Id. at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. For example, on receiving a charter of incorporation, localities often created permanent sites of governance, and some charters expressly called for a new building. Id. at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Some localities chose to situate halls near markets, but others placed such buildings at some distance from commercial arenas in an effort to shift from the disorder of the Medieval marketplace to a world of restrained officialdom. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

Tittler attributed a spurt in construction in sixteenth-century England to town leaders' concerns about growing risks of conflict, their hopes for some degree of autonomous authority, and their desires to succeed in providing security for persons and property records. Id. at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Ornamentation ⊠was not common⊠; the buildings were more ⊠didactic than aesthetic or frivolous in intent⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠. Further, the public buildings were less grand than private ones. Id. at ⊠⊠. Over the period Tittler studied, some objects that denoted the trappings of office gained import, including the mayor's seat and the magistrate's table. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. Civic leaders also sought to inscribe their authority by developing a practice of ⊠civic portraiture⊠ through displays of paintings of mayors and other leaders in town halls. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

7 Tittler at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. In addition, Tittler noted that halls ⊠were often let for the day for performances⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. These ⊠steady sources of revenue⊠ were modest, insufficient to confer important financial benefits. Id. at ⊠⊠.

8 See Carl R. Lounsbury, The Courthouses of Early Virginia: An Architectural History ⊠⊠ (Charlottesville, VA: U. of Virginia Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); see also id. at ⊠⊠, fig. ⊠⊠ (depicting a ceremonial procession of judges). Lounsbury discussed the English practices as historical antecedents to those in the colonies.

9 Lounsbury at ⊠⊠.

10 Tittler at ⊠⊠.

11 Tittler at ⊠⊠⊠.

12 Tittler at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

13 Chapter ⊠ provided details on the Amsterdam Town Hall. Through colonial authority, some of the Netherlands' traditions had an impact on North American practices. For example, in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, judges on a colonial New York tribunal, called the Court of Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens, had a form of judicial independence. ⊠They were the first judges in the colony in any way independent of the proprietary company⊠ Alden Chester in collaboration with E. Melvin Williams, Courts and Lawyers of New York: A History, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, vol. I at ⊠⊠⊠ (New York, NY: American Historical Society, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

14 A few books address the relationship between transportation and courthouses. For example, one volume provided a chronological list of Georgia courthouses built from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and of their architects, as well as of train routes, lines, and depots. The argument was that courthouses and depots provided places to gather. See Wilber W. Caldwell, The Courthouse and the Depot: A Narrative Guide to Railroad Expansion and Its Impact on Public Architecture in Georgia, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, appendices A–C at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Macon, GA: Mercer U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

15 Illustrative volumes, usually rich with photographs and prints, come from many jurisdictions. The supreme or constitutional courts of a country often have books specifically devoted to their buildings, and several other volumes survey courthouses within a particular state or country. Volumes range from scholarly studies providing social histories of law and architecture to travel guides of courthouses in a given territory. These volumes also illustrate ⊠a renewed interest in the courthouse and the sociological, legal, and cultural implications of its form within the community.⊠ Carole Cable, The Courthouse and the Law Court: Their Design and Construction (Monticello, IL: Vance Bibliographies, Architecture Series: Bibliography No. A-⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (a compendium of books, articles, and newspaper materials from the United States and abroad).

Listed in alphabetical order by jurisdiction are several publications from the end of the twentieth century. This spate of materials reflects shifts in academic pursuits as well as the resources for and concern about historical preservation, a consciousness of the turning of the millennium, and some nostalgia for eras seen as passing. See, for example, Marisa G. Loren, Court Houses in Adelaide, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ (South Australia, Aust.: Swift Printing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); David Mittelstadt, Foundations of Justice: Alberta's Historic Courthouses (Calgary, Alberta, Can.: U. Calgary Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Courthouses of California: An Illustrated History (Ray McDevitt, ed., San Francisco, CA and Berkeley, CA: California Historical Society and Heyday Books, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Courthouses of California); William L. Virden, Cornerstones and Communities: A Historical Overview of Colorado's County Seats and Courthouses (Loveland, CO: Rodgers ⊠ Nelsen, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Clare Graham, Ordering Law: The Architectural and Social History of the English Law Court to ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Aldershot, Eng.: Ashgate, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Robert K. Sloane, The Courthouses of Maine (Woolwich, ME: Maine Lawyers Review, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Martha J. McNamara, From Tavern to Courthouse: Architecture ⊠ Ritual in American Law, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (focusing on Massachusetts); Victor C. Gilbertson, Minnesota Courthouses (Lakeville, MN: Galde Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Doug Ohman ⊠ Mary Logue, Courthouses of Minnesota (St. Paul, MN: Minnesota Historical Society Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Oliver B. Pollak, Images of America: Nebraska Courthouses: Contention, Compromise, ⊠ Community (Chicago, IL: Arcadia Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Ronald M. James, Temples of Justice: County Courthouses of Nevada (Reno, NV: U. of Nevada Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Susan W. Thrane, County Courthouses of Ohio (Bloomington, IN: Indiana U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Gene Waddell and Rhodri Windsor Liscombe, Robert Mills's Courthouses and Jails ⊠of South Carolina⊠ (Easley, SC: Southern Historical Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Mavis P. Kelsey Sr. ⊠ Donald H. Dyal, The Courthouses of Texas: A Guide (College Station, TX: Texas A⊠M U. Press, ⊠nd ed., ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Lounsbury; Marv Balousek, Wisconsin's Historic Courthouses (Oregon, WI: Badger Books, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

In addition, a few volumes cut across jurisdictions. See, for example, Celebrating the Courthouse: A Guide for Architects, Their Clients, and the Public (Steven Flanders, ed., New York, NY: W. W. Norton, [illegible]) (hereinafter Celebrating the Courthouse); Court House: A Photographic Document (Richard Pare, ed., New York, NY: Horizon Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Pare, Court House). Cele[illegible]ratin[illegible] the Courthouse addresses courthouse construction primarily in the United States; the [illegible] volume Court [illegible] ouse includes more than three hundred photographs from around the United States to show how [illegible]these particularly American buildings[illegible] have served as [illegible]an integral part of the life of every settlement as it evolved into a county[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Another volume relies on images other than courthouses to capture legal history in the Northwest. See Dorothy Harley Eber, Images of Justice: A Legal History of the Northwest Territories as Traced through the Yellowknife Courthouse Collection of Inuit Sculpture (Montreal, Can.: McGill-Queen's U. Press, [illegible]).

16 See, for example, Charles T. Goodsell, The Social Meaning of Civic Space: Studying Political Authority through Architecture (Lawrence, KS: U. Press of Kansas, [illegible]); The Power of Place: Bringing Together Geographical and Sociological Imaginations (John A. Agnew [illegible] James S. Duncan, eds., Boston, MA: Unwin Hyman, [illegible]); Vincent Scully, American Architecture and Urbanism (New York, NY: Henry Holt [illegible] Co., rev. ed., [illegible]).

17 Lounsbury at [illegible].

18 Lounsbury at [illegible]. Lounsbury detailed the development and use of courts in Virginia from the [illegible]s through the [illegible]s. McNamara makes a parallel point in a study of courts and the legal profession in Massachusetts: [illegible]The nature and pace of county court sessions alternated between frenetic activity and crashing tedium. While notorious trials occasionally generated dramatic moments . . . , the majority of court sessions moved at a steady, predictable pace.[illegible] McNamara at [illegible].

19 Lounsbury at [illegible].

20 The safekeeping of records improved when stone rather than wood was used but, in many instances, localities did not succeed in protecting information from [illegible]fires, dampness, and rats.[illegible] Lounsbury at [illegible]. See also Tittler at [illegible]–[illegible].

21 In Massachusetts, records provided the names of litigants and their lawyers (but not the names of whatever spectators were present) and had a [illegible]remarkable consistency over time[illegible] evidencing the role of court records in legitimating the power of government. McNamara at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

22 James at [illegible], quoting Myron Angel's [illegible] istor[illegible] of Nevada with [illegible]lus[illegible] trations and Bio[illegible]raphical Sketches of [illegible]s Prominent Men and Pioneers [illegible] ([illegible], reprinted Berkeley, CA: Howell-North, [illegible]). [illegible]M[illegible]ost of the . . . [illegible],[illegible] counties[illegible] in the United States probably had [illegible]at least one impressive courthouse[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. During one century, some thirty courthouses were erected in the state's seventeen counties. Id. at [illegible], [illegible]. The styles ranged from Spanish Colonial to Greek Revival and Beaux-Arts Classical, and a few were influenced by twentieth-century Bauhaus or International styles. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. In several states, county-level administration has been superseded by state-wide centralized systems. See Ray McDevitt, [illegible]ntroduction, in Courthouses of California at xvi–xvii; Invested in Justice: [illegible] Judicial Council Annual Report [illegible] (San Francisco, CA: Judicial Council of California Administrative Office of the Courts, Public Information Office); Trial Court Unification, Administrative Office of the Courts, Judicial Council of California (Feb. [illegible]), www.courtinfo.ca.gov/reference/documents/factsheets/tcunif.pdf.

23 Classical designs and oversized proportions aimed to achieve such [illegible]monumentality[illegible] See James at [illegible]–[illegible] (describing building in Nevada). Lounsbury identified a Virginia courthouse built in Yorktown in the [illegible]s as [illegible]one of the first structures in the colony that self-consciously used academic architectural forms to assert the corporate identity of the country authorities.[illegible] Lounsbury at [illegible]. He mapped the shift from [illegible]clapboarded courthouses[illegible] that were [illegible]domestic in scale[illegible] to [illegible]the construction of buildings with greater pretensions[illegible] befitting the aspirations of the gentry. Id. at [illegible].

A volume devoted to Robert Mills tracked his buildings in South Carolina from [illegible] to [illegible]; he designed [illegible]twenty-eight of the forty courthouses and jails erected during the decade.[illegible] Waddell and Liscombe at [illegible]. Mills's designs ranged from [illegible]gable-ended[illegible] buildings to a [illegible]temple form[illegible] some of which had a [illegible]monumental portico[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. The buildings also housed offices for clerks and sheriffs as well as meeting rooms for local committees. Id. Materials on Texas provided overviews of more than [illegible] courthouses as well as the details of the initial use of trees, tents, and log courthouses before more substantial buildings were placed on town squares; jails were often nearby. Kelsey and Dyal at [illegible], [illegible].

24 Several of the books on courthouse construction[illegible] in both the United States and England[illegible] focus on lawyers as the lobbyists for the erection of such buildings. See, for example, Graham; McNamara. See also David Sugarman, [illegible]nal[illegible]es of Law[illegible]Le[illegible]al Buildin[illegible]s, [illegible]n[illegible]lish[illegible]ness[illegible] and the [illegible]eproduction of Power, in Rechtssymbolik und Wertevermittlung (The Symbolism of Justice and the Conveyance of Moral Values), [illegible] Schriften zur Europ[illegible]ischen Rechts- und Verfassungsgeschichte (Letters on European Legal and Constitutional History) [illegible] (Berlin, Ger.: Duncker [illegible] Humblot, [illegible]). Sugarman detailed the pressure imposed by the Law Society in England in the nineteenth century to create new courts in an English Gothic design resembling the Palais de Justice in Paris. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. The [illegible] Royal Courts resulted. Id.

25 This pattern can be found in England from the fifteenth through the seventeenth centuries. See Tittler at [illegible]–[illegible]. The [illegible]largest and most important towns were least likely to include room for prisons, except for the temporary cell proximate to the court chamber. . . . [illegible]T[illegible]he greater need for such facilities . . . warranted larger space than the hall could provide[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

26 Antoinette J. Lee, Architects to the Nation: The Rise and Decline of the Supervising Architect's Office [illegible] (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

27 Lounsbury at [illegible]–[illegible]. During the late [illegible]s, courthouses in Virginia [illegible]shed their domestic appearance in favor of the stylistic and structural features employed in churches[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Most were made of wood; brick structures were exceptional and rare. Id. at [illegible]. Moving north to Massachusetts, most presiding jurists in the seventeenth century had no legal training, and local courts met in taverns. McNamara at [illegible]–[illegible]. Special government structures, called [illegible]town houses,[illegible] served as the [illegible]governmental, judicial, and economic center[illegible] One such building in Boston included spaces for merchants. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. In other shires of Massachusetts, Puritan meeting houses would have served as a place for judicial proceedings, but because some lacked heat, taverns were also used. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

28 The term [illegible]purpose-built[illegible] is regularly used by architectural historians, several of whom focus specifically on courts. For example, Clare Graham's project was to ask why [illegible]English trials came to be housed in purpose-built accommodation, and what made that accommodation architecturally distinctive.[illegible] Graham at [illegible]. Her answer is that the [illegible]royal bureaucracy[illegible] sparked such creations [illegible]remarkably early[illegible] in England; by the early part of the fourteenth century Westminster Hall had three separate courts. Id. at [illegible]. See also Tittler at [illegible]–[illegible].

In terms of courthouses in the colonies, specialized structures appeared in Massachusetts by the [illegible]s and [illegible]s, and the [illegible]first function-specific courthouse built in larger eighteenth century shire towns went up in Boston[illegible]around [illegible]. McNamara at [illegible]–[illegible]. In buildings thereafter, the courthouse and jail were often part of a linked complex. Id. at [illegible]. Other buildings also served public functions. For example, a [illegible]growing number of coffeehouses[illegible] came to serve in Boston as places for merchants to do business and exchange information. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

29 Lounsbury provided examples from [illegible] of rules from the Lancaster Country Court in Virginia. Lounsbury at [illegible].

30 Lounsbury at [illegible] (describing patterns in Virginia and Maryland courtrooms) and at [illegible].

31 Lounsbury mapped those shifts in Virginia. For example, in [illegible], [illegible]no more than three or four of the twenty-five counties in existence[illegible] had courthouses made of brick; by [illegible], [illegible]slightly more than half of the sixty counties had brick courthouses.[illegible] Lounsbury at [illegible]. The shape, design, and quality of bricks also improved, but what [illegible]distinguished[illegible] the courthouses as civic structures were their [illegible]compass-headed windows, large-scale openings, arcaded piazzas, and by the end of the eighteenth century, pedimented porticoes[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Virginia's distinctive regional contribution was the use of arcades. Id. at [illegible], [illegible]. Further, unlike the layout of courtrooms in Maryland, Tennessee, and elsewhere, Virginia relied on a [illegible]long jury bench that faced the courtroom[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. As for jurists, many used a curved bench. Id. at [illegible].

32 Lounsbury at [illegible]. In Virginia, the [illegible]chairs, benches, and tables were expressions of the power and status of those who used them. . . . [illegible]A[illegible]canopied armchair with a cushioned seat raised on a platform and a backless bench were not merely two different forms of seating; the former was viewed as a seat of honor, the latter as a seat of communality[illegible] Id. As the system became more lawyer-dependent, courtrooms acknowledged the import of lawyers by assigning them specific places. Id. at [illegible].

33 Lounsbury at [illegible]–[illegible]. At [illegible]least two dozen examples appear in early Virginia records of . . . direct copying of one public building after another[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Graham detailed the development and evolution of law courts as [illegible]building types[illegible] in England. Graham at [illegible]–[illegible].

34 McNamara at [illegible].

35 McNamara provided an example from Massachusetts where, in [illegible], Chief Justice Samuel Sewall opened a new town house in Boston that included windows made of [illegible]large, transparent, costly Glass,'[illegible] which, he explained, would [illegible]oblige the Attorn[illegible]ys always to set Things in a True Light.'[illegible] McNamara at [illegible] (quoting Samuel Sewall). She read the comment as evidence of [illegible]deep-seated suspicions harbored toward pliers of the legal trade[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Alternatively, Sewall may have been trying to justify the expense of glass.

36 Lounsbury at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also McNamara at [illegible]–[illegible]. McNamara discussed the impact of professional architects in Massachusetts in the nineteenth century. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

37 McNamara at [illegible]–[illegible]. She argued that lawyers wanted courthouses to express both the exclusivity of their authority in those spaces and the degree to which lawyers were [illegible]an integral part of the social fabric[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

38 In contrast, [illegible]-[illegible]ighteenth-century courts had few specialized spaces[illegible] Katherine Fisher Taylor, [illegible]irst [illegible]ppearances[illegible]The Material Set[illegible]tin[illegible] and Culture of the [illegible]arl[illegible] Supreme Court, in The United States Supreme Court: The Pursuit of Justice [illegible], [illegible] (Christopher Tomlins, ed., Boston, MA: Houghton Mi[illegible] in, [illegible]) (hereinafter Taylor, [illegible]irst [illegible]ppearances). The changing role of lawyers and their impact on courts is detailed in several volumes. See, for example, Allyson N. May, The Bar and the Old Bailey, [illegible]–[illegible] (Chapel Hill, NC: U. of North Carolina Press, [illegible]); John Langbein, The Origins of the Adversary Criminal Trial (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). Langbein mapped the transition from what he termed a lawyer-free process for felony trials during the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries to a system in which [illegible]lawyers came to dominate the felony trial[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Before the advent of criminal defense counsel and rules of evidence, trials lasted fifteen to twenty minutes. Id. at [illegible]. McNamara's account of Massachusetts's justice facilities identified the impact of lawyers, reflected in part by mention of a [illegible]Lawyer Table[illegible] in a plan for a courthouse in the [illegible]s. McNamara at [illegible]–[illegible]. While segregated spaces for jury deliberation were not common in Massachusetts until the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries (McNamara at [illegible]–[illegible] and [illegible], n. [illegible]), Virginia's courthouses did provide such spaces. See Lounsbury at [illegible]–[illegible].

In some instances, judges insisted on separate pathways into the courtroom. In the [illegible]s, for example, judges objected to a design that would have required them to [illegible]pass through the court-room to get to the bench[illegible] In response, architect Robert Mills changed the access routes so judges would go [illegible]through the marshal's room[illegible] to enter the courtroom. See Serial Set Vol. No. [illegible], Session Vol. No. [illegible], [illegible]th Congress, [illegible]d Sess., H. Rpt. [illegible], p. [illegible], Jan. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible]The Committee for the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the petition of James Dixon, praying [illegible]for[illegible] compensation for extra work done by him on the court house in the town of Alexandria, in this District[illegible]). The subject of separate routes for circulation is one to which we return in Chapters [illegible]–[illegible].

39 Parallels from England over a longer time span are provided in Graham at [illegible]–[illegible].

40 Lounsbury explained this layout in Virginia. Lounsbury at [illegible]–[illegible]. McNamara provided parallel information on Massachusetts; for the Newburyport courthouse, Charles Bulfinch provided places for lawyers to be seated near the judge's bench and set aside space for jurors. McNamara at [illegible]–[illegible]. The delineation of the elite from the populace had English roots; seventeenth-century town halls had special chambers for conferences, and certain ceremonies were open only to the designated few. Tittler at [illegible]–[illegible]. His view was that this development reflected the increasingly oligarchical forms of government.

41 Taylor, [illegible]irst [illegible]ppearances at [illegible].

42 See Michael Kammen, Temples of Justice[illegible]The [illegible]tono[illegible]raph[illegible] of Jud[illegible]ment and [illegible]merican Culture, in Origins of the Federal Judiciary: Essays on the Judiciary Act of [illegible] at [illegible], [illegible] (Maeva Marcus, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Origins of the Federal Judiciary). Thomas Jefferson designed a well-known [illegible]templelike[illegible] state house in Virginia. See Taylor, [illegible]irst [illegible]ppearances at [illegible]. In [illegible], Jefferson drew a plan for a courthouse in Charlotte County; included was a bench [illegible]stretched polygonally around the back of the room in three segments.[illegible] Lounsbury at [illegible]. His building, the [illegible]Jeffersonian temple design[illegible] (id. at [illegible]), served as a [illegible]paradigm for courthouses[illegible] See Andrea P. Leers, [illegible]r[illegible]an Desi[illegible]n and the Courthouse[illegible] [illegible]ow Sites Shape Solutions, in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible], fig. [illegible]-[illegible] at [illegible]. Kammen contrasted the celebratory terminology for Jefferson's designs with the critique by some colonialists that courts, [illegible]dominated by royal governors and their creatures[illegible] were sources of injustice and sites for demonstrations. Kammen at [illegible]–[illegible]. Jefferson's influence spanned the country, as is evident from the emulation of his building styles around the country. See McDevitt, [illegible]ntroduction at x–xi, Courthouses of California.

43 Ohman [illegible] Logue at [illegible]–[illegible]; Kammen at [illegible].

44 See Rick Bernstein, Foreword to Balousek at [illegible]–[illegible]. The reference was to the Act of May [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]th Cong., [illegible]st Sess., ch. [illegible] (later published in [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible])) that provided for the [illegible]right of preemption to one quarter section of land, . . . in trust for said counties . . . for the establishment of seats of justice therein[illegible] provided that the [illegible]proceeds of the sale of each of said quarter sections shall be appropriated for the purpose of erecting public buildings in the country or parish for which it is located, after deducting there from the amount originally paid for the same.[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

45 McNamara at [illegible]. She argued that the proliferation of courts was driven not by the needs of the state but by lawyers who used their monopoly power to generate law-specific buildings (courthouses and jails) that marked the distinction between their profession and other municipal functions. Id. at [illegible].

46 McNamara at [illegible].

47 Pare, Court House at [illegible]. That volume also noted that some constructions, such as that in Macoupin County, Illinois (plate [illegible]), produced [illegible]exorbitant public debt[illegible] Id.

48 See William Seale, [illegible]merican [illegible]ernacular[illegible]The Courthouse as a Buildin[illegible] T[illegible]pe, in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible]–[illegible]; Goodsell at [illegible]–[illegible]. Goodsell argued that among many public buildings were ⊠overdone versions⊠ of architectural styles, monumental in size and featuring heavy stonework. Id. at ⊠⊠.

49 Other examples can be found in Kammen at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. For some in Minnesota, see Ohman ⊠ Logue at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (showing a Justice on top of the Blue Earth Country Courthouse in Mankota, of the the Jackson County Courthouse, and of the Brown County Courthouse). For examples in England, see Graham at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

50 Figures ⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠ come from the Brochure for the Lady Justice banner exhibit, Albany, New York, Summer ⊠⊠⊠⊠. The figures are reproduced with permission of the New York Court of Appeals. Our thanks to Chief Judge Judith Kaye and Gary Spencer for assisting us in obtaining these materials and for permission to reproduce them. The banners were designed and photographed by Teodors Ermansons.

51 See Historical Society of the Courts of the State of New York, The Art of Justice: A Portfolio of ⊠Lady Justice⊠ from Courthouses in New York State (photographed by Teodors Ermansons, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter New York State Justice Portfolio). In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the Historical Society also produced a calendar and notecards, and information on the various Justices comes from the Historical Society materials.

52 In the Chenango County Courthouse in Norwich, a seven-foot Justice of white pine ⊠crowned the structure⊠ and, after restoration, the original was placed in a glass case while a replica ⊠overlooks the city from atop the dome⊠ In the Ontario County Courthouse in Canandaigua, the original wood statue of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, replaced in the intervening years with wood, was replicated in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ by one in cast aluminum and covered in gold leaf. In Monroe County in Rochester, a wood Justice was placed on the fourth story of the facade of the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ courthouse that, after a new facility was built in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, has been used as a county office building. In Wampsville in Madison County, a statue from around ⊠⊠⊠⊠ is on the dome of the courthouse and its replica, in zinc, is in the rotunda. See New York State Justice Portfolio.

53 In the Appellate Division Courthouse, New York, whose exterior and roof are shown in figures ⊠/⊠⊠ and ⊠/⊠⊠, murals from the beginning of the twentieth century show two versions of imposing, enthroned Justices on opposite walls; both are flanked by other large figures, such as female allegories of Peace and Prosperity. In the Onondaga County Courthouse in Syracuse, a mural from around ⊠⊠⊠⊠ features a clear-sighted Justice with scales and pointing to a tablet held by a small boy, while an armor-suited man stands to her right. In the New York County Courthouse in New York City, a ⊠⊠⊠⊠s trompe l'oeil Justice is provided with other figures representing Clemency and Authority. New York State Justice Portfolio.

54 The Great Seal, adopted in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, includes female figures of Liberty and Justice. That seal can be found in the Montgomery County Courthouse in Fonda; when the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ courthouse was expanded in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, a Great Seal was installed on an interior staircase. Another courthouse was built in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and the ⊠old⊠ courthouse was put to use to house the county's historical archives. In the New York County Court, New York City, a ⊠⊠⊠⊠ carved stone Justice is a part of the Great Seal. In the Bronx, the Bronx County Courthouse has a Justice on the Great Seal, carved in stone; that image is on all four sides of the building. In the New York Court of Appeals in Albany, the Great Seal is part of a ⊠⊠⊠⊠s mural in the dome of the rotunda of the court, with another version carved on a table in the anteroom of a courtroom. See New York State Justice Portfolio.

55 Michael R. Corbett, Continuit⊠ and Chan⊠e in California Court⊠ house Des⊠n, ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, in Courthouses of California at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠.

56 Pollak at ⊠. The state's courthouses provided a jury room, a judge's chambers, and housing for several officers (including a registrar of deeds, a county treasurer, and an assessor), as well as places for detention, for commissioners to meet, and for clerks to issue marriage licenses and death certificates. Id.

57 Thrane at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠.

58 Gilbertson at xiii.

59 Comments provided by Governor Mitchell Daniels at the Annual Conference of Chief Justices and of Chief Administrators of State Courts, Indianapolis, Indiana, July ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Governor Daniels took office in January of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and, in his inaugural address, he characterized his election efforts as a ⊠⊠⊠-month interview⊠ in which he met people from ⊠the largest of our cities, from the tiniest of our towns, and from the rural spaces in between⊠ Mitchell E. Daniels Jr., ⊠nau⊠ ⊠ural ⊠emarks, January ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Indiana State Government, http://www.in.gov/gov/⊠⊠⊠⊠.htm.

60 According to the National Center for State Courts, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ some forty-two million cases were filed throughout the fifty-state court systems. Included in that count were all kinds of trial courts and all kinds of cases except traffic offenses. Excluding ⊠domestic relations⊠ and ⊠juvenile courts⊠ the numbers come down to ⊠⊠ million. Bureau of Justice Statistics, Special Report, State Court Organization, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠. The data are imperfect in that what legal proceedings count as ⊠cases⊠ differs from state to state. See National Center for State Courts, Juris⊠ diction and State Court ⊠eportin⊠ Practices, Figure H: Method of Counting Civil Cases in State Trial Courts, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, in State Court Caseload Statistics, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, National Center for State Courts Online, http://www.ncsconline.org/D⊠Research/csp/⊠⊠⊠⊠Files/⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠SCCS.html. Variation in counting of criminal cases is particularly acute as states ⊠differ on whether they count charges, defendants, or indictments⊠ Id., Appendix ⊠, Methodology, at ⊠⊠⊠. As noted elsewhere in this volume, by ⊠⊠⊠⊠, state courts reported about ⊠⊠ million filings.

61 McDevitt, ⊠ntroduction at xvii, Courthouses of California. Many of the facilities were neither easily accessible to disabled participants nor secure. Id. Further, more space was needed, requiring investments of about three billion dollars. Id. McDevitt argued that courthouses were once a ⊠center of the community⊠ and needed to be not only markers of their jurisdictions' heritage but also able to deliver the services currently needed. Id. at xviii, quoting the California Task Force on Court Facilities. We return to these questions of accessibility and use in Chapters ⊠, ⊠, and ⊠⊠.

62 McDevitt, ⊠ntroduction at xv, Courthouses of California.

63 As one historian explained, ⊠After ⊠⊠⊠⊠, southern courtrooms were universally segregated without statutory mandate.⊠ Michael J. Klarman, From Jim Crow to Civil Rights: The Supreme Court and the Struggle for Racial Equality ⊠⊠ (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). See also Gilbert Thomas Stephenson, ⊠ace Distinctions in ⊠merican Law, ⊠⊠ American Law Review ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

64 As one judge who has been in the forefront of contemporary courthouse design explained, the ⊠familiar architectural language and iconography⊠ has also been a marker of ⊠tragic⊠ failures to live up to principles of equality, making particularly complex efforts to ⊠transmit . . . aspirations through structures whose history bears witness⊠ to the failure to live up to them. See Douglas P. Woodlock, Drawin⊠ Meanin⊠ from the ⊠eart of the Courthouse, in Celebrating the Courthouse at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

65 Constance Baker Motley, Equal Justice under Law: An Autobiography ⊠⊠ (New York, NY: Farrar, Straus ⊠ Giroux, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

66 Johnson v⊠ in⊠inia, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (per curiam).

67 Brief for Respondent in Opposition to the Petition for Writ of Certiorari, Johnson v⊠ in⊠inia, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (No. ⊠⊠⊠).

68 Johnson, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. at ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

69 McNamara at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

70 McNamara at ⊠⊠⊠ (quoting the Colum⊠ia Centinel, a local paper).

71 See, for example, Moore v⊠ Dempse⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). There Justice Holmes recounted the allegations of a habeas petitioner, who averred that African-American men were convicted in Arkansas and sentenced to death ⊠under the pressure of a mob⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠. ⊠The trial lasted about three-quarters of an hour and in less than five minutes the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree.

According to the allegations and affidavits there never was a chance for the petitioners to be acquitted; . . . any prisoner [illegible]that[illegible] had been acquitted . . . could not have escaped the mob[illegible] Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. The Court concluded that a federal district judge had the obligation to ascertain if these allegations were true and, if so, to find that due process had been denied. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

72 Laws now limit the areas in which protests can take place, both to acknowledge First Amendment rights to assemble for peaceful protests and to insulate judges and participants from the pressures that such protests might impose. See Co[illegible] v[illegible] Louisiana, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]). The majority upheld a Louisiana statute prohibiting picketing [illegible]near[illegible] a courthouse [illegible]with the intent of interfering with . . . justice[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. As Justice Hugo Black explained, [illegible]Justice cannot be rightly administered, nor are the lives and safety of prisoners secure, where throngs of people clamor against the processes of justice right outside the courthouse or jailhouse doors[illegible] Id. at [illegible] (concurring in part and dissenting in part). Federal provisions can be found in the Subversive Activities Control Act of [illegible], [illegible] [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible])). The act provides that anyone [illegible]with the intent of interfering with, obstructing, or impeding the administration of justice, or with the intent of influencing any judge, juror, witness, or court officer, in the discharge of his duty, pickets or parades in or near a building housing a court of the United States . . . shall be fined . . . or imprisoned not more than one year, or both[illegible] Id. While protests are kept at bay, the United States Supreme Court has held that protests on sidewalks adjacent to its building are constitutionally protected. See [illegible] nited States v[illegible] race, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]). Indeed, media coverage often includes photographs or televised displays of placards and protests on the plaza near the steps of the main entrance.

State laws similarly regulate the places of protest near courts. Examples include California (Cal. Penal Code [illegible] [illegible] (Deering [illegible])); Louisiana (La. Rev. Stat. Ann. [illegible] [illegible]:[illegible] ([illegible])); Massachusetts (Mass. Gen. Laws ch. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible]A ([illegible])); Mississippi (Miss. Code Ann. [illegible] [illegible]-[illegible]-[illegible] ([illegible])); Pennsylvania ([illegible] Pa. Cons. Stat. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible])); Utah (Utah Code Ann. [illegible] [illegible]-[illegible]-[illegible] ([illegible])); and Washington (Wash. Rev. Code [illegible].[illegible].[illegible] ([illegible])). The language is parallel to that of the federal statute. For example, California's statute provides that [illegible]a[illegible]ny person who pickets or parades in or near a building which houses a court of this state with the intent to interfere with, obstruct, or impede the administration of justice or with the intent to influence any judge, juror, witness, or officer of the court in the discharge of his duty is guilty of a misdemeanor.[illegible]

73 Our work on federal courthouse construction has been aided by the extraordinary research abilities of Marin Levy, who identified more than one hundred relevant documents from [illegible]the bound, sequentially numbered volumes of all the Reports, Documents, and Journals of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives[illegible] available under U.S. Congressional Serial Set, thereby facilitating access to materials from [illegible] through [illegible] (the [illegible]th through the [illegible]th Congress). See Marin K. Levy, Memorandum on the Origins of Federal Courthouse Construction, July [illegible], [illegible] (hereinafter Levy, Federal Courthouse Construction).

74 [illegible]He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the Tenure of their Offices, and Amount and Payment of their Salaries,[illegible] Declaration of Independence para. [illegible] (U.S. [illegible]).

75 U.S. Const. Art. III, [illegible].

76 U.S. Const. Art. III, [illegible]. See Judith Resnik, [illegible]nterdependent [illegible]ed[illegible]eral Judiciaries[illegible]Pu[illegible]lin[illegible]a[illegible]out Wh[illegible] [illegible]ow to [illegible]alue the [illegible]ndependence of Which Jud[illegible]es, [illegible] Daedalus [illegible] (Fall [illegible]).

77 Judiciary Act of [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] (hereinafter Judiciary Act of [illegible]).

78 Judiciary Act of [illegible], [illegible].

79 See Jeffrey Brandon Morris, Calmly to Poise the Scales of Justice: A History of the Courts of the District of Columbia Circuit [illegible]–[illegible] (Durham, NC: Carolina Academic Press, [illegible]).

80 The original Judiciary Act had called for circuit courts of three, but the number was reduced to two in [illegible]. See Judiciary Act of March [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible].

81 Peter Graham Fish, Federal Justice in the Mid-Atlantic South: United States Courts from Maryland to the Carolinas, [illegible]-[illegible] at [illegible] (Washington, DC: Administrative Office of the United States Courts, [illegible]) (hereinafter Fish, Federal Justice in the Mid-Atlantic South).

82 Fish, Federal Justice in the Mid-Atlantic South at [illegible]–[illegible].

83 Robert P. Reeder, The [illegible]irst [illegible] omes of the Supreme Court of the [illegible] nited States, [illegible] Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society [illegible] ([illegible]). The justices [illegible]first assembled on February [illegible], [illegible] in the Merchants Exchange Building[illegible] in New York City, which was then the country's capital. See The Court as an [illegible]nstitution, U.S. Supreme Court, http://supremecourt.gov/about/institution.aspx.

84 Taylor, [illegible]irst [illegible] ppearances at [illegible]. The Supreme Court subsequently delegated factfinding to special masters. [illegible]The only public trial of original jurisdiction ever held in the present-day Supreme Court building[illegible] took place in the [illegible]s. Id. at [illegible]. The lawsuit[illegible] New Jerse[illegible] v[illegible] New [illegible]ork, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible])[illegible] involved a conflict about which state had sovereignty over parts of Ellis Island. By scheduling the proceedings before the Special Master during the Court's recess and locating them in one of the reception rooms, the Supreme Court's [illegible]unified character[illegible] as an appellate body was protected. Id.

85 Taylor, [illegible]irst [illegible] ppearances at [illegible]. In [illegible], the Court moved up one level as the Senate again gave over its cast-off space. Id. Pictures can also be found in Robert Shnayerson, The Illustrated History of the Supreme Court of the United States [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Harry N. Abrams in association with the Supreme Court Historical Society, [illegible]), and more of the details of the early settings are provided by Taylor, [illegible]irst [illegible] ppearances at [illegible]–[illegible].

86 Taylor, [illegible]irst [illegible] ppearances at [illegible]. She described the early customs of the justices[illegible] for example, their shift from red to black robes[illegible] as well as the layout of the courtrooms in which they worked. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

87 Locations of courts prompted disputes in Maryland and in South Carolina. Fish, Federal Justice in the Mid-Atlantic South at [illegible]–[illegible].

88 For example, after courts were created for the District of Columbia in the [illegible]s, federal judges relied on these alternative spaces. See Morris at [illegible]. When the Circuit Court for the District first convened, it likely worked in the [illegible]room in the Capitol assigned to the Supreme Court[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. In the [illegible]s the District got its own City Hall, which also housed courts, the registrar of wills, and other municipal officers. Id. at [illegible].

89 Fish, Federal Justice in the Mid-Atlantic South at [illegible].

90 Fish, Federal Justice in the Mid-Atlantic South at [illegible]–[illegible]. Rental space was also used for court marshals. For example, an [illegible] act authorized funding and provided that [illegible]the marshall shall not incur an expense of more than twenty dollars in any one year for furniture, or fifty dollars for rent of building[illegible] without prior authorization from the Secretary of the Interior. See Act of Feb. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible].

91 Initially, federal conformity to state practice was [illegible]static[illegible] in that federal courts had to follow the practices of states as of [illegible], even when states no longer did so in their own courts. This [illegible]static conformity[illegible] was replaced after the Civil War with [illegible]dynamic conformity[illegible] permitting federal courts to follow the rule changes that occurred in each of the states in which they sat.

92 See An Act to Establish the Treasury Department, ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]) (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible])). See also Federal Judicial Center, [illegible]ecutive Branch [illegible]dministration of the [illegible]ed[illegible]eral Judiciar[illegible], http://www.fjc.gov/history/home.nsf/page/admin[illegible].html (hereinafter [illegible]ecutive Branch [illegible]dministration of the [illegible]ederal Judi[illegible]ciar[illegible]); [illegible]act Sheets[illegible] [illegible]istor[illegible], [illegible] Department of the Treasur[illegible], U.S. Treasury, http://www.ustreas.gov/education/fact-sheets/history.

93 See Chapter [illegible], [illegible]th Congress, Session [illegible], An Act: To establish the home department, and to provide for the treasury department an assistant secretary of the treasury and a commissioner of the customs, Mar. [illegible], [illegible]. See generally [illegible]ecutive Branch [illegible]dministration of the [illegible]ederal Judiciar[illegible].

94 [illegible]ecutive Branch [illegible]dministration of the [illegible]ederal Judiciar[illegible].

95 U.S. Const. Art. I, [illegible], cl. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible].

96 An Act for the Relief of Sick and Disabled Seamen, Pub. L. No. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]) (repealed by Act of June [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]). See Lee at [illegible] and at [illegible], quoting William M. Meredith, Secretary of the Treasury, describing the rationale in [illegible].

97 See Lee at [illegible]–[illegible]. We have borrowed the phrase [illegible]a federal presence[illegible] from Lois Craig's book The Federal Presence: Architecture, Politics, and Symbols in United States Government Building (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]). That history of [illegible]government attempts to house its services and activities[illegible] was prompted by the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA), which, as discussed in Chapter [illegible], was concerned that federal buildings were architecturally dreary. Id. at vii (Foreword, by Nancy Hanks, Chair of the NEA, [illegible]–[illegible]).

98 Lee at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Bates Lowry, Building a National Image: Architectural Drawings for the American Democracy, [illegible]–[illegible] (Washington, DC: National Building Museum, [illegible], published in conjunction with an exhibition of the same title). In addition to documenting the work of Major Pierre Charles L'Enfant and others in Washington, D.C., Lowry addressed the impact of the public architecture around the country. As for the growth of a federal bureaucracy, inspection and regulation of steamboats proved to be the federal government's [illegible]first major health and safety regulatory program[illegible] See Jerry L. Mashaw, [illegible]dministration and [illegible]The Democrac[illegible] dministrative Law from Jackson to Lincoln, [illegible], [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

99 See, for example, Act of Feb. [illegible] [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]. Congress authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to find a [illegible]convenient site, belonging to the United States, in the city of New Orleans, a good and sufficient house, to serve as an office and place of deposit for the collector of the customs[illegible] The act appropriated [illegible],[illegible] for building costs.

100 For example, [illegible]b[illegible]nce an appropriation was available for a building, no monies could be spent on the purchase of the property or the design of the building until the legislature of the relevant state ceded jurisdiction and the right to tax the property.[illegible] Lee at [illegible]. See also A Joint Resolution Making It the Duty of the Attorney General to Examine into the Titles of the Lands or Sites for the Purpose of Erecting Thereon Armories and Other Public Works and Buildings, ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] (Sept. [illegible], [illegible]).

101 Lowry at [illegible].

102 Lowry at [illegible]. Further, some held the [illegible]conviction that the arts truly flourished only during a state of liberty and freedom[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Not all architects uncritically embraced the Greek architectural tradition; some argued that it needed to be Americanized, in part through reliance on Renaissance iterations. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. Exemplary were the Boston and New York Custom Houses, both of which were replacements of smaller buildings with [illegible]grander and larger [illegible]ones[illegible] Id. at [illegible] and at [illegible]–[illegible], figs. [illegible] and [illegible].

103 Craig at [illegible]–[illegible].

104 The population of the United States doubled between [illegible] and [illegible]. Federal expenditures more than quadrupled during those same thirty years. See U.S. Bureau of the Census, Historical Statistics of the United States, Colonial Times to [illegible], pt. II at [illegible], http://www.census.gov/prod/www/abs/statab.html. The beginnings of a national administrative apparatus thus predate the Civil War, not only through the Customs Office but also through regulatory oversight of patents, land claims, and steamboats. See Mashaw at [illegible]–[illegible].

105 Craig at [illegible].

106 Craig at [illegible].

107 Craig at [illegible]. While [illegible]frontier customhouses were utilitarian structures,[illegible] the [illegible]closer[illegible] to Washington, the more federal structures [illegible]spoke in the classical tongue[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

108 See Craig at [illegible]; Lee at [illegible]. See generally Federal Judicial Center, Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses [illegible] (A Description of Historical Photographs Exhibited at the Federal Judicial Center, undated essay) (hereinafter Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses). The exhibit is also described in the Federal Judicial History Office newsletter: Constructin[illegible] Justice[illegible] n [illegible]hi[illegible]it of Courthouse Photo[illegible]raphs at the [illegible]ederal Judicial Center, [illegible] The Court Historian [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Constructin[illegible] Justice, FJC Newsletter), Federal Judicial Center http://www.fjc.gov/public/pdf.nsf/lookup/couhis[illegible].pdf/[illegible]File/couhis[illegible].pdf. The set of photographs is available by the database Historical Federal Courthouses, http://www.fjc.gov/history/courthouses.nsf.

109 For example, Act of March [illegible], [illegible], appropriating money for a Custom House in Savannah, Georgia, noted that funds were to be used for [illegible]furniture and fixtures for the accommodations of the officers of the revenue, and also for the post-office, and United States Courts[illegible] See also Edwin Surrency, History of the Federal Courts [illegible] (Dobbs Ferry, NY: Oceana Publications, [illegible]d ed., [illegible]).

110 Illustrative is the [illegible] designation by Congress of acreage in Little Rock for the [illegible]erection of a courthouse and jail[illegible] for the Territory of Arkansas. See Act of June [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]. Provisions were also made in [illegible] for funds for a courthouse in Alexandria, Virginia. See Serial Set Vol. No. [illegible], Session Vol. No. [illegible], [illegible]th Congress, [illegible]st Sess., H. Doc. [illegible], [illegible] p. Dec. [illegible], [illegible], Expenditure.

111 Darrell Hevenor Smith, The Office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury: Its History, Activities, and Organization [illegible] (Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins U. Press, [illegible]); Lowry at [illegible]. A few of the custom houses were the largest federal structures of their eras. Craig at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. Customs officials were themselves a [illegible]federal presence[illegible] for, as Lee explained, the [illegible]customs collector not only collected duties on imported goods, but also served as the eyes and ears of the federal government at the local level[illegible] These officials reported on the conditions of roads and of local industries, worked as agents for marine hospital funds and superintendents of lighthouses, and oversaw the construction of new buildings. Lee at [illegible]–[illegible]. In [illegible], Congress insisted on some regularization of the decision to buy land. In order to have the legal authority to purchase and build government structures, Congress imposed the requirement that the Attorney General provide opinions on the [illegible]validity of title.[illegible] Smith at [illegible].

112 Each of the following states had one federal judge: Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, and Wisconsin. California, Florida, Louisiana, New York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia each had two judgeships. Our count does not reflect federal judges in the territorial courts, including those in the District of Columbia. See Chrono[illegible] lo[illegible]ical [illegible] istor[illegible] of [illegible] uthori[illegible]ed Jud[illegible]eships in [illegible] [illegible] District Courts [illegible] rran[illegible]ed [illegible] State[illegible], in History of Federal Judgeships: U.S. Courts of Appeals and U.S. District Courts, U.S. Courts, http://www.uscourts.gov/judgesandjudgeships/authorizedjudgeships/chronologicalhistoryofauthorizedjudgeshipsindex.aspx. (hereinafter Chronolo[illegible]ical [illegible] istor[illegible] of [illegible] uthori[illegible]ed Jud[illegible]eships in [illegible] [illegible] District Courts). The database is provided by the Article II Judges Division, Office of Judges Programs of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts.

113 Act of Sept. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]. A reorganization reduced the number to one in [illegible] but returned it to two in [illegible]. See Act of July [illegible], [illegible], and Act of Aug. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]. As noted earlier, five other states (Florida, Louisiana, New York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia) also had two judgeships allotted.

114 For example, in [illegible] the Secretary of the Interior and the Postmaster General called for [illegible]sites for court houses and post offices[illegible] in Boston, New York, and Philadelphia. See Sites for Court House and Post Office, Message from the President of the United States, Serial Set Vol. No. [illegible], Session Vol. No. [illegible], [illegible]rd Congress, [illegible]d Sess., H. Doc. [illegible], [illegible] p., January [illegible], [illegible].

115 The work of that office is chronicled by Darrell Smith, Antoinette Lee, and others. Prior to its creation, federal officials who worked in the Treasury Department on federal building had various titles including [illegible]Engineer in Charge of This Department[illegible] and [illegible]Supervising Architect.[illegible] Lee at [illegible]–[illegible]. No statutory authority supported the Secretary of the Treasury when he first created the unit, but legislation in the [illegible]s and thereafter made mention of that job. Smith at [illegible]–[illegible]. For example, Act of March [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible], provided the Treasury with [illegible]one superintending architect, one assistant architect[illegible] several clerks, and a messenger.

The first architect appointee, Ammi B. Young, served from [illegible] until [illegible] as the [illegible]chief designer of all federal buildings[illegible] that fell within the Treasury Department's control. Lee at [illegible]. Young, credited with designing some seventy buildings, also made iron work the preferred material to provide fireproofing and permanency. Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses at [illegible]–[illegible]; Lee at [illegible]–[illegible]. An example of his work is the Galveston, Texas, Custom House (fig. [illegible]). The authority of the Supervising Architect grew after the Civil War. By [illegible], Congress required that no funds be spent on public buildings without approval from the Secretary of the Treasury, [illegible]after drawings and specifications, together with estimates of costs thereof, shall have been made by the Supervising Architect[illegible] in that Department. See Act of March [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]. See also Smith at [illegible]–[illegible]. Almost a century after its founding, the Office of Supervising Architect became a part of the Public Buildings Administration that in [illegible] was placed within the General Services Administration, discussed later in this chapter and in Chapters [illegible] and [illegible].

116 In [illegible], the task of administering courts fell to the newly created Department of the Interior, charged with management of public lands and parks as well as the fiscal responsibility for the federal court system. See [illegible]ecutive Branch [illegible]dministration of the [illegible]ederal Judiciar[illegible].

117 See Habeas Corpus Act of [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] et seq. ([illegible])).

118 See Civil Rights Act of [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible])).

119 See Act of March [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible])). Congress has also, upon occasion, seen the courts as unreliable and responded by divesting jurisdiction. The example well known to scholars of the federal courts is the case [illegible] Parte McCardle, in which McCardle, the editor of the [illegible]icks[illegible]ur[illegible] Times, was detained by the occupying military authorities. The authorities objected to his anti-Reconstruction editorials, and he, in turn, argued that the Military Reconstruction Act was unconstitutional. While his case was pending on appeal before the United States Supreme Court, Congress withdrew the jurisdictional provision that had provided him with a route to the court, and the justices concluded that Congress had the power to do so. See [illegible] Parte McCardle, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]), and Daniel Meltzer, [illegible] Parte McCardle and the Power of Con[illegible]ress to Limit the Supreme Court[illegible] [illegible]ppellate Jurisdiction, in Federal Courts Stories (Vicki C. Jackson [illegible] Judith Resnik, eds., New York, NY: Thomson Reuters / Foundation Press, [illegible]).

120 An Act to establish the Department of Justice, ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] (June [illegible], [illegible]). In contrast, the First Judiciary Act had created the Office of Attorney General, to be held by a person [illegible]learned in the law[illegible] to prosecute suits for the United States and to provide advice on legal questions to the Executive Branch. See Judiciary Act of [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. Inventing an office not mentioned in the Constitution, Congress had neither provided staff nor given the Attorney General authority over government lawyers, then called [illegible]district attorneys[illegible] (and now called United States Attorneys), who had the power to represent the United States in the lower federal courts. See Susan Low Bloch, The [illegible]arl[illegible] [illegible]ole of the [illegible]ttorne[illegible] [illegible]eneral in [illegible]ur Constitutional Scheme[illegible]n the Be[illegible]innin[illegible] There Was Pra[illegible]ma[illegible]tism, [illegible] Duke Law Journal [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; Antonio Vasaio, The Fiftieth Anniversary of the U.S. Department of Justice Building, [illegible]–[illegible], at [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, [illegible]). As Bloch noted, the [illegible] Act did not expressly grant authority to the President to appoint these lawyers, but the President took it upon himself to do so, arguably relying on the power to appoint officers under Article II, [illegible]. Likewise, there was no explicit provision in the Act for a confirmation process, but it was [illegible]assumed[illegible] that the Senate would provide [illegible]advice and consent[illegible] Bloch at [illegible], n.[illegible]. Thereafter, statutes provided for presidential nomination and senatorial confirmation. See [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] (Attorney General) and [illegible] [illegible] (United States Attorneys). Both before and after the creation of the Department of Justice in [illegible], attorneys general worked in various spaces, such as in offices at the Treasury Department. Id. at [illegible]. The Department of Justice did not get a building of its own until [illegible]. Vasaio at [illegible]–[illegible].

121 Act of June [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] [illegible]. Congress also gave the Justice Department authority over commissions.

122 See David S. Clark, [illegible]dj[illegible]udication to [illegible]dministration[illegible] [illegible] Statis[illegible]tical [illegible]nal[illegible]sis of [illegible]ederal District Courts in the Twentieth Centur[illegible], [illegible] Southern California Law Review [illegible], [illegible], Table [illegible] ([illegible]). Clark also detailed the change in the mix of cases; the proportions of criminal and civil cases varied over time as did the ratio of civil filings by private parties to those brought by the government.

123 Alabama got its second district judge in [illegible]. See Act of Aug. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]. In [illegible], Arkansas was given a second judge. See Act of March [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]. As noted, the states that received second judgeships included California ([illegible]); Georgia ([illegible]), Iowa ([illegible]); Louisiana ([illegible], returning it to two judgeships); Michigan ([illegible]); Missouri ([illegible]); North Carolina ([illegible]); Tennessee ([illegible]); Texas ([illegible]); Virginia ([illegible], returning to a two judgeship provision); and Wisconsin ([illegible]). The District of Columbia did as well in [illegible]. Illinois and Ohio received a second judgeship in [illegible], and New York received a third in [illegible]. See Chronolo[illegible]ical [illegible]istor[illegible] of [illegible]uthori[illegible]ed Jud[illegible]eships in [illegible]District Courts.

124 Craig at [illegible]. The federal workforce grew from [illegible],[illegible] employees in [illegible] to [illegible],[illegible] employees in [illegible]. Id.

125 Lowry at [illegible].

126 Craig at [illegible].

127 Lowry at [illegible]. Some prior bills had authorized that buildings be constructed in several different locations. See, for example, Act of Aug. [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible], providing for [illegible]custom-house, post-office, and United States courts[illegible] in various cities. Another omnibus construction bill providing [illegible] million in funds was enacted in [illegible]. See Act of March [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]. A third such bill, Act of May [illegible], [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], authorized construction of several kinds of federal buildings[illegible] [illegible]courthouses, post offices, immigration stations, customhouses, marine hospitals, quarantine stations, and other public buildings[illegible] While that list was similar to those found in bills from the late nineteenth century, the order had changed[illegible] the [illegible] legislation put courthouses at the front. As discussed later, this bill also authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to find a place for a building for the Supreme Court.

128 Lowry at [illegible]. As for the style of the buildings, many designs adopted the Beaux-Arts style popularized by the Chicago Exposition of [illegible]. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]; Craig at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. Concerns about pork-barrel funding led to cutbacks in [illegible] in the workforce of the Office of Supervising Architect and to a hiatus between [illegible] and [illegible] in omnibus funding bills. Craig at [illegible]–[illegible].

129 Craig at [illegible].

130 Clark reports that there were [illegible] federal judges per million people at the beginning of the twentieth century and [illegible] judges per million in [illegible]. See Clark, Table [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. The statutory requirement that appointees reside in the districts in which they worked, a requirement extant from the First Judiciary Act of [illegible], aimed to mitigate the perception of control from Washington. See [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible].

131 Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses at [illegible].

132 See, for example, U.S. Senate Committee on Commerce, Memorial of the Governor, Judges, Officers, and Members of the Legislature and Citizens of New Jersey, S. Misc. Doc. No. [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]d Sess. [illegible]). Levy identified similar requests from Missouri's general assembly, Alabama's legislature, Iowa's general assembly, and Illinois's representatives. Levy, Federal Courthouse Construction at [illegible]–[illegible]. One can find requests both before and after the Civil War. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

133 See, for example, Petition of the Grand Jury of the Criminal Court for the District of Columbia, seeking an appropriation for additional accommodations for the United States Courts of that district. July [illegible], [illegible], Serial Set. Vol. No. [illegible], Sess. Vol. No. [illegible], [illegible]th Congress, [illegible]st Sess. S. Misc. Doc [illegible].

134 Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses at [illegible]. Tracking construction projects requires turning to a range of sources. For example, a few of the books devoted to courthouses in a particular state also detail federal court buildings. The volume on Nebraska courts includes photographs of more than a dozen federal courthouse buildings. The first such structure, in Omaha, designed by Supervising Architect Alfred B. Mullet, was completed in [illegible] and housed the courts, customs, and a post office. Pollak at [illegible]. Facilities followed in [illegible] in Lincoln, Nebraska, where a freestanding federal courthouse was erected in [illegible] and another in [illegible]. Id. at [illegible], [illegible]. Nebraska City got its post office and courthouse in [illegible], and Omaha got a second and larger building in [illegible], another in [illegible], and a third in [illegible]. Id. at [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. Norfolk, Nebraska, was the site of its own post office and courthouse in [illegible], and the building was a [illegible]replica of a building in Annapolis, Maryland[illegible] that was designed by Supervising Architect James Knox Taylor. Id. at [illegible]. Another building, in Hastings, opened in [illegible]; it was described as the [illegible]finest structure of the city[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Thereafter post offices and courthouses were constructed in Grand Island ([illegible]), North Platte ([illegible]), McCook ([illegible]), and Chadron ([illegible]).

The number of buildings represents the success of the bench, the bar, and elected leaders in obtaining funding for each of these projects. Buildings outstripped demand. For example, by [illegible] Nebraska's population was under one and a quarter million. See the Nebraska censuses for [illegible] and [illegible], at Resident Population and Apportionment of the U.S. House of Representatives, Nebraska, U.S. Census Bureau, http://www.census.gov/dmd/www/resapport/states/nebraska.pdf. In terms of the caseload, in [illegible], the federal district court had [illegible] pending cases, civil and criminal, and in [illegible], it had a total of [illegible] pending cases. See the Annual Report of the Attorney General of the United States for the Year [illegible], H. Doc. [illegible]-[illegible] at [illegible] ([illegible]); Annual Report of the Attorney General of the United States for the Year [illegible], H. Doc. [illegible]-[illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

135 Craig at [illegible].

136 Craig at [illegible].

137 Lee at [illegible]. See generally Mary N. Woods, From Craft to Profession: The Practice of Architecture in Nineteenth-Century America [illegible]–[illegible] (Berkeley, CA: U. of California Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Woods, From Craft to Profession). The term architect derives from a Greek term meaning [illegible]master carpenter[illegible] and was used in reference to various craftspersons. The term did not denote a person with special design authority until the Renaissance in Italy. Id. at [illegible]. In early America, the word architect referred to various people working on the design of buildings. The professionalization of the term came through organizations like the American Institute for Architects (AIA), which called for training and credentials as qualifications of specialization to use the appellation architect. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. Woods cited Louisa Tuthill as one of the first[illegible] in [illegible] to call on [illegible]young men to become professional architects[illegible] and hence to have both a [illegible]lucrative and honorable profession.' [illegible] Id. at [illegible].

138 The AIA, founded in [illegible], had its counterparts in the Royal Institute of British Architects (begun in [illegible]) and the French Soci[illegible]t[illegible] Centrale des Architectes (founded in [illegible]). By the [illegible]s, the AIA was promoting professional education and helping to develop architectural programs in various universities. See the American Institute of Architects, http://www.aia.org. In terms of its efforts to affect contracts for federal buildings, the AIA sought to confine the Treasury's architect's role to [illegible]supervising[illegible] rather than designing federal construction. The argument made was that the requisite [illegible]artistic and administrative[illegible] talents were not to be found in the same person and that government design plans were inferior to those of private architects. Lee at [illegible]–[illegible].

139 Lee at [illegible]. That critique was apparently not shared by many localities. [illegible]New federal buildings were consistently well received in America's Peorias[illegible] where they symbolized [illegible]membership in the Union.[illegible] Craig at [illegible].

140 Craig at [illegible]. The first Supervising Architect, Ammi B. Young, [illegible]was dismissed amid charges of extravagance and waste[illegible] Another, Alfred Mullett, was [illegible]subjected to no less than five investigations[illegible] and, according to one review, while he was not corrupt, his subordinates were. Id.

141 See Mary Woods, The [illegible]irst [illegible]merican [illegible]rchitectural Journals[illegible] The Profession[illegible] [illegible]oice, [illegible] Journal of the Society of Architectural Historians [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

142 Lee at [illegible]; Lowry at [illegible]; Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses. Woods credited the success of the Chicago World's Fair with making plain what [illegible]professional architects could accomplish.[illegible] Woods, From Craft to Profession at [illegible]. The bill provided that the Secretary of the Treasury had the [illegible]discretion to obtain plans, drawings, and specifications for the erection of public buildings . . . by competition among architects under such conditions as he may prescribe[illegible] provided that [illegible]not less than five architects[illegible] be invited for competitions and that the work be done under the [illegible]general supervision[illegible] of the Office of Supervising Architect. Act of Feb. [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. The act was first used for the Norfolk, Virginia, Custom House. Lee at [illegible].

143 In [illegible], after the Tarsney Act was passed, members of the Cleveland Administration were slow to implement its provisions. Lee at [illegible]–[illegible]; Lowry at [illegible]. In response, Congress sometimes intervened directly by stipulating procedures when appropriating funds for construction; for example, a bill funding the Chicago Post Office required that the Secretary of the Treasury [illegible]hire a Chicago architect to prepare designs for the building.[illegible] Lee at [illegible]. When Lyman Gage, who had been on the board of directors for the Chicago World's Fair, became Secretary of the Treasury, commissions went to private architects such as Cass Gilbert. Woods, From Craft to Profession at [illegible]–[illegible]. But the legislation was not mandatory and during the fifteen years of the Tarsney Act, [illegible]–[illegible], some thirty-five buildings were designed according to its provisions. Lowry at [illegible].

144 Craig at [illegible]. Smith also reported on the conflicts between private architect and public supervisors when the Tarsney Act was in use. Smith at [illegible]–[illegible].

145 Act of Mar. [illegible], [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]. Congress asked for information about appropriate standards, sizes, and costs.

146 Craig at [illegible] (quoting the Secretary of the Treasury).

147 Craig at [illegible]. The group began publication of its magazine, The [illegible]ederal [illegible]rchitect, in [illegible]. Id. The publication and the association [illegible]faded away[illegible] in [illegible]. Id.

148 See Act of May [illegible], [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], and Act of March [illegible], [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible]

Stat. ⧈⧈⧈; Lee at ⧈⧈⧈. Private architects' interest in federal contracts varied with the funds supporting them. The ⧈⧈⧈⧈ Act provided ⧈⧈⧈ million for new buildings in Washington; the outcomes were the components of the monumental set that formed the ⧈Federal Triangle.⧈ Lee at ⧈⧈⧈. See generally George Gurney, Sculpture and the Federal Triangle (Washington, DC: Smithsonian Institution Press, ⧈⧈⧈⧈).

The question of how to select architects remained. Otha Wearin, a member of the House of Representatives from Iowa, argued that architectural competitions produced the ⧈most famous buildings in America⧈ and should be required by statute. See Otha D. Wearin, Wanted⧈ Competitions for ⧈ederal Buildin⧈s, Magazine of Art ⧈⧈⧈ (⧈⧈⧈⧈). But some members of the AIA remained unenthusiastic, viewing competitions as a potentially ⧈costly roulette⧈ See Sara Amelia Butler, Constructing New Deal America: Public Art and Architecture and Institutional Legitimacy ⧈⧈⧈ (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Architectural History, U. of Virginia, Charlottesville, VA, ⧈⧈⧈⧈; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⧈⧈⧈⧈⧈⧈).

149 Lee at ⧈⧈⧈.

150 See Reorganization Plan No. I of ⧈⧈⧈⧈, ⧈ Fed. Reg. ⧈⧈⧈⧈ (Jul. ⧈, ⧈⧈⧈⧈), ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈⧈ (pursuant to the Reorganization Act of ⧈⧈⧈⧈, Pub. L. No. ⧈⧈-⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈). In that same year, the Treasury's Section of Painting and Sculpture became the Section of Fine Arts, under the auspices of Public Buildings Administration; it became ⧈inactive⧈ in the ⧈⧈⧈⧈s. See Lloyd Goodrich, ⧈overnment and ⧈rt⧈⧈istor⧈ and Back⧈round, ⧈ College Art Journal ⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈ (⧈⧈⧈⧈). In ⧈⧈⧈⧈ Congress enacted the Public Buildings Act, authorizing the site selection and construction of federal buildings. See Public Buildings Act of ⧈⧈⧈⧈, Pub. L. No. ⧈⧈-⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈ (codified as amended in scattered sections of ⧈⧈ U.S.C.).

151 Created under President Harry Truman at the end of World War II, the GSA was responsible for centralizing the procurement and superintendence of government property. Functions of other agencies were transferred to the GSA, which was run by an ⧈Administrator⧈ appointed by the President. See Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of ⧈⧈⧈⧈, Pub. L. No. ⧈⧈-⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈ (codified in scattered sections of ⧈⧈ U.S.C., ⧈⧈ U.S.C., and ⧈⧈ U.S.C.). A monograph by the GSA described its ⧈⧈⧈⧈ mandate as ⧈standardization, direct purchase, mass production, and fiscal savings.⧈ General Services Administration, Growth, Efficiency and Modernism: GSA Buildings of the ⧈⧈⧈⧈s, ⧈⧈s, and ⧈⧈s at ⧈⧈ (Washington, DC: GSA, ⧈⧈⧈⧈), http://www.gsa.gov/graphics/GEMbook.pdf (hereinafter GSA Modernism).

A series of other acts added to GSA responsibilities, and the Public Buildings Act of ⧈⧈⧈⧈ gave the GSA more direct control over federal construction. Public Buildings Act of ⧈⧈⧈⧈, Pub. L. No. ⧈⧈-⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈ (codified at ⧈⧈ U.S.C. ⧈⧈ ⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈–⧈⧈⧈, current version at ⧈⧈ U.S.C.A. ⧈⧈ ⧈⧈⧈–⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈⧈–⧈⧈⧈⧈). By the ⧈⧈⧈⧈s the GSA was seen as an ⧈iceberg⧈ in that its direct budget (then of about ⧈⧈⧈⧈ million) was dwarfed by the vastly larger sums (then more than ⧈⧈.⧈ billion) the GSA controlled through projects under its aegis. See Michael James Luciano, A Study of the Origin and Development of the General Services Administration as Related to Its Present Operational Role, Direction, and Influence ⧈⧈⧈ (Ph.D. dissertation in Public Administration, New York University, NY, ⧈⧈⧈⧈; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⧈⧈⧈⧈⧈⧈⧈).

152 Lee at ⧈⧈⧈–⧈⧈⧈. The GSA has also been controversial, with complaints about the wisdom of expenses as well as the management provided. Episodically, concerns from various sectors prompt legislative oversight or mandates. For example, in ⧈⧈⧈⧈ amendments, Congress instructed that the GSA report its ⧈determination and findings supporting⧈ the negotiation of purchase contracts ⧈in writing to the Committees on Public Works of the Senate and House of Representatives⧈ and that the ⧈maximum number of qualified sources⧈ be solicited for proposals. See Public Buildings Amendments of ⧈⧈⧈⧈, Pub. L. No. ⧈⧈-⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈, codified at ⧈⧈ U.S.C. ⧈⧈ ⧈⧈⧈ et seq. (specifically ⧈ ⧈⧈⧈) (⧈⧈⧈⧈), recodified as amended at ⧈⧈ U.S.C.A. ⧈⧈ ⧈⧈⧈⧈ et seq. (West ⧈⧈⧈⧈). The ⧈⧈⧈⧈ amendments added to the existing reporting rules in the Public Buildings Act of ⧈⧈⧈⧈, which required annual reports on recent and continuing constructions and acquisitions as well as ⧈building project surveys as may be requested by resolution⧈ of House or Senate committees. ⧈⧈ Stat. at ⧈⧈⧈. Further, the Public Buildings Act required that the GSA submit formal documents to the Office of Management and Budget as well as congressional committees as part of the authorization process. See ⧈⧈ U.S.C.A. ⧈ ⧈⧈⧈⧈ (West ⧈⧈⧈⧈); Congressional Research Service, General Services Administration Prospectus Thresholds for Owned and Leased Federal Facilities, RS⧈⧈⧈⧈⧈ (Aug. ⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈⧈) at ⧈–⧈ (hereinafter CRS Report). For each construction or acquisition project above a certain cost threshold, the GSA must submit a detailed prospectus to congressional committees. ⧈⧈ U.S.C.A. ⧈ ⧈⧈⧈⧈. Congress allocates funds ⧈only if the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives adopt resolutions approving the purpose for which the appropriation is made⧈ Id. The cost threshold triggering this process for new spaces in fiscal year ⧈⧈⧈⧈ was ⧈⧈.⧈⧈ million. CRS Report at ⧈.

153 See Lowry at ⧈⧈–⧈⧈. The Federal Triangle is one such example, with seven Neoclassical structures adorned by more than one hundred sculptures. Gurney at ⧈⧈–⧈⧈.

154 Congress gave a second judgeship to Indiana in ⧈⧈⧈⧈; see Act of Jan. ⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈. Maryland received a temporary judgeship in ⧈⧈⧈⧈ and a permanent one in ⧈⧈⧈⧈; see Act of Feb. ⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈, and Act of March ⧈, ⧈⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈⧈. Massachusetts received two temporary judgeships in ⧈⧈⧈⧈, both of which were made permanent in ⧈⧈⧈⧈; see Act of Sept. ⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈, and Act of Aug. ⧈⧈, ⧈⧈⧈⧈, ⧈⧈ Stat. ⧈⧈⧈. Chronolo⧈ical ⧈istor⧈ of ⧈uthori⧈ed Jud⧈e⧈ships in ⧈⧈⧈District Courts.

155 Constructin⧈ Justice, FJC Newsletter at ⧈.

156 Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses at ⧈. See also Surrency at ⧈⧈–⧈⧈.

157 Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses at ⧈–⧈.

158 Constructin⧈ Justice, FJC Newsletter at ⧈.

159 Lowry at ⧈⧈.

160 Craig at ⧈⧈⧈.

161 Lowry at ⧈⧈. Washington maintained enormous control. Id. at ⧈⧈. Craig provided examples; a congressional building committee committed to ⧈twelfth-century Normandy for the style⧈ for new federal institutions, with results such as the ⧈medieval castle of the Smithsonian⧈ completed in ⧈⧈⧈⧈. Craig at ⧈⧈.

162 Antoinette Lee's volume is a chronicle of the history of that office and its occupants.

163 Clark at ⧈⧈, Table ⧈, and ⧈⧈⧈, Table ⧈⧈.

164 The photographs of the historic federal buildings in Galveston, Texas (fig. ⧈⧈); Des Moines, Iowa (fig. ⧈⧈); Biloxi, Mississippi (fig. ⧈⧈⧈); Denver, Colorado (fig. ⧈⧈⧈); Missoula, Montana (fig. ⧈⧈⧈); San Diego, California (fig. ⧈⧈⧈); San Juan, Puerto Rico (fig. ⧈⧈⧈); Fairbanks, Alaska (fig. ⧈⧈⧈); and New York City, New York (fig. ⧈⧈⧈) and the United States Supreme Court, Washington, D.C. (fig. ⧈⧈⧈) come from the National Archives and Record Administration and are in the public domain. These images are available online through the website created by the Federal Judicial Center, Historic Federal Courthouses, http://www.fjc.gov/history/courthouses.nsf (hereinafter FJC Historic Federal Courthouses website). Our thanks to Steven Saltzgiver, Research Historian, and to Bruce A. Ragsdale, Director of the History Office at the Federal Judicial Center, for providing us with copies for reproduction and for helping us obtain information about the courthouses. The photograph in figure ⧈⧈⧈ is by Wm. Henry Jackson. The ⧈⧈⧈⧈ Denver Post Office is called the United States Court House and Post Office on the FJC historic courthouse database. The photograph comes from the Denver Public Library, Western Historical Collection and is reproduced with its permission. Our thanks to Kyle Mattews of the Tenth Circuit's Space and Facilities staff for assistance in locating this photograph.

165 Galveston Historical Foundation, More □□out the □□□□ Cus□ tom □ouse, http://www.galvestonhistory.org/□□□□□US□Custom□ House□.asp (hereinafter Galveston Historical Foundation, □□□□ U.S. Custom House).

166 Texas gained independence from Mexico in □□□□ and, in □□□□, the United States annexed that area.

167 Act of Aug. □, □□□□, □□, □□ Stat. □□□, □□□. That act also called for buildings (of unspecified kinds) in New Haven, Connecticut; Newark, New Jersey; Buffalo and Oswego, New York; Wheeling, West Virginia; Chicago, Illinois; and Detroit, Michigan; and, in each, for accommodations to be provided for □steamboat inspectors□ Id. In a bill a few years later, custom officials were specifically told that they could use funds for the construction of distinct federal facilities□ □Custom-Houses, Court-Houses, Post-Offices, and Marine Hospitals□ See, for example, Act of June □□, □□□□, □ □□, □□ Stat. □□□, □□□.

168 U.S. General Services Administration, Historic Building Posters □ Brochures, U.S. Custom House, Galveston, TX, http://www.gsa.gov/portal/ext/html/site/hb/category/□□□□□/actionparameter/explorebybuilding/buildingid/□□□ (hereinafter GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, Galveston Custom House). GSA information for courthouses is available both online and in print publication format. At the GSA website, information about historic courthouses is found in a section headed □Buildings □ Real Estate□ http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/home.do□tabId□□. One subsection, □Regional Buildings□ is geographically ordered. See http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do□contentType□GSA□OVERVIEW□ contentId□□□□□. More detailed information can often be found in the subsection □Historic Building Posters □ Brochures□ also organized by geographic region. See http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do□contentType□GSA□OVERVIEW□ contentId□□□□□. A second online source is the searchable database available through the □Historic Federal Courthouses□ section of the Federal Judicial Center website, http://www.fjc.gov/history/courthouses.nsf. To distinguish the sources, our shorthand for the different cites is GSA website, Regional Buildings, (name of building); GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, (name of building); and FJC Historic Federal Courthouses website, (name of building).

169 U.S. Const. Amend. XVI. The full text continues that the federal taxing power is □without apportionment among the several States, and without regard to any census or enumeration.□

170 Lawrence Wodehouse, The Custom □ouse, □alveston, Te□as, □□□□□□□□□, by Ammi Burhham Young, □□ Journal of the Society of Architectural Historians □□, □□, n. □ (□□□□).

171 Galveston Historical Foundation, □□□□ U.S. Custom House □rchitectural Details, http://www.galvestonhistory.org/custom□house□architectural□details.asp.

172 Wodehouse at □□, n. □. □□C□ommon detailing was used in all buildings□ and several had □identical□ designs. Id. During one two-year period in the □□□□s, □only fifteen different designs were prepared□ for thirty-five new buildings. Lowry at □□. As noted earlier, Young designed about seventy structures during his tenure as the first Supervising Architect. Craig at □□.

173 Craig at □□.

174 The building was occupied by the Confederate Army, was hit by a shell from a Union gunboat, and was the □site of the ceremony ending the Civil War in Galveston□ See GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, Galveston Custom House.

175 See FJC Historic Federal Courthouses website, Galveston, Texas, □□□□ U.S. Post Office, Custom House and Court House.

176 Lee at □□. Mullett designed the State, War, and Navy Building in Washington, D.C., and had □near total control over public building□ during much of his service. Id. at □□–□□□. □He is best known for his six immense, richly decorated Second Empire edifices□ combining customhouses, courthouses, and post offices. Craig at □□□. In the interval between Young and Mullet, Isaiah Rogers was the Supervising Architect. Lee at □□–□□. See also FJC Historic Federal Courthouses website, Des Moines, Iowa, □□□□ U.S. Courthouse and Post Office.

177 The Public Buildings Act of □□□□ allocated □□□□,□□□ for the second building's construction, and the □□□□ structure was demolished in □□□□. GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, □□□□ U.S. Courthouse, Des Moines, Iowa.

178 The □□□□ building joined several other □monumental public buildings□ along the riverfront, and their style and placement reflected the efforts of the City Beautiful Movement to create important civic spaces. GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, □□□□ U.S. Courthouse, Des Moines, Iowa.

179 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, □□□□ U.S. Courthouse, Des Moines, Iowa.

180 Lee at □□□; Craig at □□□–□□□. See also FJC Historic Federal Courthouses website, □□□□ U.S. Post Office, Court House, and Custom House, Biloxi, Mississippi.

181 Lee at □□□–□□□. More discussion of Taylor can be found at GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, □□□□ Byron White U.S. Courthouse, Denver, Colorado. Under Taylor's administration, □modest government buildings□ were often designed by staff of his office; commissions for larger buildings in major cities were given to private architects through the competitive selection process stipulated by the Tarsney Act of □□□□. Lee at □□□.

182 Lowry at □□.

183 Lowry at □□. Construction of the building was delayed by hurricanes, supply failures, and □incompetent contractors□ See City of Biloxi, The Early Years (an information sheet created to accompany a display celebrating the centennial of this building in June □□□□), http://biloxi.ms.us/pdf/centennialdisplay.pdf (hereinafter Biloxi, The Early Years). When the building finally opened in □□□□, its dedication was enhanced by □new electric trolleys□ that transported people around the city. Id.

184 See Biloxi, The Early Years. In □□□□, the building was listed on the National Register of Historic Places, which identified it as one of the best-documented in the state. Id.

185 Associated Press, New □ederal Courthouse Dedicated □rida□ in □ulfport, Nov. □□, □□□□, Lexis-Nexis, http://web.lexis-nexis.com/universe. The new construction was designed to be energy conserving. See U.S. Department of Energy, □S□□ □ulfport Courthouse□ □ New Construction Super □SPC, Federal Energy Management Program (FEMP) Focus at □, Jan.–Feb. □□□□, http://www□.eere.energy.gov/femp/pdfs/fempfocus□jan□feb□□□□□.pdf. Damage from Hurricane Katrina required the closure of the courthouse for many months.

186 Both are credited as designers of the building; Mi□ in E. Bell was Supervising Architect from □□□□ to □□□□; Will. A. Freret served briefly, from □□□□ to □□□□. See Lee at □□□–□□□.

187 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, □□□□ Byron White U.S. Courthouse, Denver, Colorado. Our thanks to the Honorable John Kane, who enabled us to tour the courthouse, and to the Circuit Executive Office of the Tenth Circuit and its staff for providing us with additional materials on the history of the building. See also The Federal Courts of the Tenth Circuit: A History (James K. Logan, ed., U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit, Denver, CO, □□□□). According to a □□□□ Report from the Senate's Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, although the first federal courthouse and post office building in Denver was authorized under the Act of May □, □□□□, it was not completed until □□□□. In the interim, the report explained that > the city had grown to such an extent that the building was not nearly large enough to accommodate the Federal business. From the beginning it was found impossible to find space in the building for all the Government offices located in Denver, and to-day many of the Federal officials in the city are housed outside the Government building, rendering necessary the payment of a very large rent account every month. . . .

>
> It is estimated that when the original bill was passed, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Denver had a population of less than ⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠. By ⊠⊠⊠⊠ that number had increased to ⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠, and to over ⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and there had been a corresponding growth in population of the State of Colorado and the entire Rocky Mountain region contiguous to that city. The result was an expansion of business far in excess of the calculations of the designers of the original building and the failure of the structure from the beginning to meet the demands upon it.
>
> The growth of the city and the contiguous country has continued since the occupancy of the present building, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, until now it is conservatively calculated that the city has a population of ⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠.
>
> The consequence is that there is a crowding together in public offices of officials, employees, and papers that should not be permitted, with a consequent congestion of business that is appalling.

See Public Building, Denver, Colo. Senate Report. No. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠th Cong., ⊠st Sess. March ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠–⊠ (hereinafter Denver Building Senate ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Report). The report noted that the Treasury was ⊠taxed to the extent of ⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ a year for the rent of public buildings⊠ and that the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ building houses ⊠the post-office, the Railway-Mail Service, the internal-revenue service, the Federal courts, the United States marshal, the clerks of the Federal courts, and the Weather Bureau Service⊠ Id. at ⊠.

188 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Byron White U.S. Courthouse, Denver, Colorado. See also the Tenth Judicial Circuit Historical Society, Byron White United States Courthouse, http://www.⊠⊠thcircuithistory.org/pdfs/courthouse/Byron⊠White⊠Courthouse⊠Brochure⊠⊠⊠⊠.pdf (hereinafter Tenth Circuit Denver Courthouse Brochure). Congress authorized the construction of the building in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ but did not allocate funds until ⊠⊠⊠⊠. The firm of Tracy, Swartwout, ⊠ Litchfield won the commission, and the marble for the building came from the Yule Marble Quarry in Colorado. Id.

189 Denver Building Senate ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Report at ⊠. Archival materials provided to us by the Tenth Circuit also described the role played by the Denver Chamber of Commerce and the state's congressional delegation in securing funds for a building to be in the tradition of monumental structures such as the Lincoln Memorial.

190 Denver Building Senate ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Report at ⊠ (reproducing a letter of Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, that reported an interview with ⊠Judge Hallet⊠).

191 In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the building was listed on the National Register of Historic Places. See Byron White United States Courthouse Building Preservation Plan, Denver, Colorado, GSA Project No. RCO ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, July ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠–⊠.

192 Tenth Circuit Denver Courthouse Brochure. The building's namesake, Byron White, was appointed by President John Kennedy to the Supreme Court and served from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ until ⊠⊠⊠⊠; he died in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Some of White's memorabilia are displayed at one end of the first-floor corridor. The building's acquisition, renovation, and conversion cost about ⊠⊠⊠ million or ⊠⊠⊠⊠.⊠⊠ per square foot⊠ resulting in a building valued at ⊠⊠⊠⊠ million dollars, which is about ⊠⊠⊠⊠.⊠⊠ per square foot⊠ Id.

The Tenth Circuit, which is comprised of the states of Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah, and Wyoming, regularly hears appeals in Denver and in Wichita, Kansas, and Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. See ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠(a). The district court has its own building that opened in ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ the Alfred A. Arraj U.S. Courthouse, a ten-story, ⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠-square-foot structure consisting of a pavilion and a tower that provides space for fifteen courtrooms. See Alfred A. Arraj U.S. Courthouse, Denver, Colorado, A Model of Sustainability, at the website of the National Renewable Energy Laboratory, http://www.nrel.gov/docs/fy⊠⊠osti/⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠.pdf. That building is named after a federal district judge who was nominated by President Eisenhower in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, served as the district court's chief judge from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and died in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. See ⊠lfred ⊠ ⊠ert ⊠ rra⊠⊠ Judicial Life (brochure available from the court). Included among the artworks displayed is an outdoor sundial at the top of the tower and an outdoor sculpture, ⊠re⊠ular ⊠orm, by Sol Lewitt.

193 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Byron White U.S. Courthouse, Denver, Colorado (translation by GSA). The texts, selected by architect Evarts Tracy, were placed on the friezes. Cicero's quote faces Eighteenth Street, while the Magna Carta excerpt faces Nineteenth Street. Inscriptions also appear on benches on the northeast and southwest sides of the building. One is inscribed ⊠Alternate rest and labor long endure⊠ the other ⊠If thou desire rest, desire not too much⊠ Id. Reflecting the building's initial use as a post office as well as a court, the front facade has inscriptions of the names of the cities to Denver's east and west ⊠to indicate the flow of mail across the country⊠ GSA memorandum of March ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

194 Tenth Circuit Denver Courthouse Brochure. ⊠Justitia Virtutum Regina⊠ is a traditional Latin proverb that is similar to Cicero's maxim ⊠Justice is the crowning glory of virtues⊠ (from De o⊠ ciis) and Aristotle's ⊠Justice is the most beautiful virtue⊠ (from Nichomachean ⊠thics), discussed in Chapter ⊠. The phrase ⊠Justiciae Soror Fides⊠ is very likely from Horace (Ode ⊠.⊠⊠, ⊠Lament for Quintilius⊠)⊠ although the exact phrase that is usually attributed to him is more often ⊠Justiciae Soror Incorrupta Fides⊠ (or Faith is the uncorrupted sister of Justice). See M. Owen Lee, Virgil as Orpheus ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Albany, NY: State U. of New York Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). ⊠Nemo Est Supra Leges⊠ and ⊠ita Lex Scripta Est⊠ can be found in Roman digests of legal precepts associated with the Justinian era and then invoked in English and American law. See Joseph Story ⊠ W. E. Grigsby, Commentaries on Equity Jurisprudence ⊠ (Clark, NJ: Lawbook Exchange, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

195 Tenth Circuit Denver Courthouse Brochure (translations of the Latin).

196 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, Federal Building, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ U.S. Post Office and Courthouse, Missoula, Montana.

197 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, Federal Building, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ U.S. Post Office and Courthouse, Missoula, Montana (citing the newspaper the Dai⊠ Missoulan). See also FJC Historic Federal Courthouses website, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Post Office and Courthouse, Missoula, Montana.

198 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, Federal Building, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ U.S. Post Office and Courthouse, Missoula, Montana. A second federal court, opened in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, was named the Russell E. Smith Courthouse in honor of a local district judge who served there from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ until ⊠⊠⊠⊠, when he died. The older building is no longer used as a court.

199 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, Jacob Weinberger U.S. Courthouse, San Diego, California.

200 That renovation recreated the original post office lobby, restored a marbled terrazzo floor and iron-cage elevators, and added a law library. The building is used by the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of California. See U.S. Court for the Southern District of CA, Courthouse History, U.S. Courts, http://www.casb.uscourts.gov/html/courthouse⊠history.htm.

201 See GSA Wins ⊠TOBY⊠ Awards for Real Estate Excellence, GSA News Release ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do⊠contentType⊠GSA⊠BASIC⊠ contentId⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ noc⊠T. The category was ⊠Historic Building.⊠

202 Honoring Excellence in Public Architecture and Design, GSA Web News, March [illegible], [illegible], http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do?contentType=GSA_BASIC&contentId=[illegible]&noc=T. An exhibit of award winners was then mounted at the National Building Museum. We discuss the provision of such awards in Chapter [illegible]. Id.

203 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, Jose V. Toledo Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse, Old San Juan, Puerto Rico. See also Guillermo A. Baralt, History of the Federal Court in Puerto Rico: [illegible]–[illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible] (Janis Palma, trans., Hato Rey, Puerto Rico: Publicaciones Puertorriqueñas, [illegible]). The judicial system in Puerto Rico was influenced by the Spanish Constitution of [illegible], id. at [illegible], and by a [illegible] Act of the United States Congress, which enacted a bill, "Temporarily to Provide Revenues and a Civil Government in Puerto Rico, and other Purposes" (also called the Foraker Act after its sponsor). Id. at [illegible]. Federal courts "opened their doors" in [illegible] for the "District of Porto Rico" (later "Puerto Rico"); the judges were appointed for four-year terms by the President. Id. at [illegible]. The building came by virtue of an executive order from President Theodore Roosevelt providing for the "first federal building" after the United States claimed sovereignty over the island. In [illegible] funds were approved for its construction. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

204 Baralt at [illegible], quoting the American Star of Aug. [illegible], [illegible]. Also noted was the effort to use as little wood as possible to avoid termites. Id. at [illegible]. Disputes between contractors about the building were litigated in the federal courts for several years. A first effort to reach the United States Supreme Court was rejected. See Guerini Stone Co. v. P.R. & Carlin Const. Co., [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]). The Supreme Court reached aspects of the contract dispute in [illegible]. See Guerini Stone Co. v. P.R. & Carlin Const. Co., [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]).

205 Baralt at [illegible]–[illegible]. The First Circuit was authorized to review appeals from the territory in [illegible]; before then, Puerto Rico's courts were subject to direct review by the United States Supreme Court. Id. at [illegible].

206 See Justice Facilities Committee Openness and Security, AAJ Journal (Newsletter of the Academy of Architecture for Justice), Spring [illegible], http://info.aia.org/nwsltr_caj.cfm?pagename=caj_a_courthouses.

207 See Efrén Rivera Ramos, The Legal Construction of Identity: The Judicial and Social Legacy of American Colonialism in Puerto Rico [illegible] (Washington, DC: American Psychological Association, [illegible]).

208 Our thanks to Dana Fabe, Chief Justice of the Alaska Supreme Court, and to Barbara Hood, Communications Counsel for the Alaska Court System, for their generous help in locating historical materials about courthouses in Alaska. The first facility used for that federal court is depicted in materials from the Eagle Historical Society and Museums. See http://www.eagleak.org/city.htm.

209 See Hon. James Wickersham, Old Yukon: Tales, Trails, and Trials [illegible] (Washington, DC: Washington Law Book Co., [illegible]). See also Evangeline Atwood, Frontier Politics: Alaska's James Wickersham [illegible]–[illegible] (Portland, OR: Binford & Mort, [illegible]).

210 See Claus-M. Naske, A History of the Alaska Federal District Court System, [illegible]–[illegible], and the Creation of the State Court System, ch. [illegible] at [illegible] (Fairbanks, AK: U. of Alaska, [illegible]).

211 See Melody Webb, Yukon: The Last Frontier [illegible]–[illegible] (Lincoln, NE: U. of Nebraska Press, [illegible]). Congress first created the district "with a single tribunal" in the Alaska Organic Act of [illegible]. Naske, ch. [illegible] at [illegible]. Naske recounted the legislative history of a bill described by some as a "crude piece of legislation" that created a larger district than any other but without methods for "serving its process or enforcing its decrees." Id. In [illegible], President Chester Arthur appointed the first district judge, Ward McAllister Jr., along with four commissioners who were to function as "probate judge, justice of the peace, land office registrar, notary public, and much more." Id., ch. [illegible] at [illegible]. They were based in Sitka, Alaska. Judicial officials changed with the presidency as well as with scandals about their governance. Id., ch. [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. In [illegible], revisions created a district court with three divisions, each with a district judge who was to be resident in the district, to hold office for four years, to receive an annual salary of [illegible],[illegible] a year, and to work under rules of civil procedure provided in that statute. Id., Appendix (Judges, District of Alaska). See also An Act making further provision for a civil government for Alaska and for other purposes, Act of June [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]. Wickersham was appointed in that year. The huge geographical expanse to which he was assigned had no federal facilities before he arrived. Wickersham served seven years and, beginning in [illegible], fourteen years as a delegate to Congress from Alaska. Wickersham at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; Naske, ch. [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible].

212 Wickersham at [illegible]–[illegible].

213 Webb at [illegible]; Wickersham at [illegible].

214 Webb at [illegible].

215 See James A. Wickersham Diary [illegible], Jan. [illegible], [illegible], to Dec. [illegible], [illegible], Alaska's Digital Archives, http://vilda.alaska.edu/cdm/item/viewer.php/CISOROOT/cdmg[illegible]/CISOPTR/[illegible]/REC/[illegible].

216 Alison K. Hoagland, Buildings of Alaska [illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). Naske concluded that because the "territorial governor was not a highly visible figure" the federal territorial judges in Alaska were "perceived as the central figures in the federal hierarchy which dominated the territory" and that the territorial court system had, after World War II, become unable to cope with its caseload. Naske, ch. [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible].

217 Alaska gained statehood in [illegible] and then established a state judicial system in addition to the federal district court, which became part of the Ninth Circuit. Naske, ch. [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. In the [illegible]s, the [illegible] federal building became a private facility; its tenants included the Alaska Public Lands Information Center.

218 GSA website, Historic Building Brochures, Thurgood Marshall U.S. Courthouse, New York, New York. Its "classical mode merges with the high rise imperative." Craig at [illegible].

219 See Authorized Judgeships: From [illegible] to Present, History of Federal Judgeships: U.S. Courts of Appeals and U.S. District Courts, U.S. Courts, http://www.uscourts.gov/history/allauth.pdf; Russell R. Wheeler & Cynthia Harrison, Creating the Federal Judicial System [illegible] (Washington, DC: Federal Judicial Center, [illegible]d ed., [illegible]), http://www.fjc.gov/public/pdf.nsf/lookup/creating.pdf/$file/creating.pdf. The judgeship numbers include all levels of the federal courts as reform efforts between [illegible] and [illegible] shifted the federal courts into the three-tiered structure (trial, appellate, and Supreme Court) staffed by different sets of judges having distinct jurisdictional mandates. See Felix Frankfurter & James M. Landis, The Business of the Supreme Court: A Study in the Federal Judicial System [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Macmillan Co., [illegible]).

220 Gilbert was born in [illegible] in Ohio, worked in various places, and built a national practice from his base in St. Paul, Minnesota, before moving to New York City. See Cass Gilbert, Life and Work: Architect of the Public Domain [illegible]–[illegible] (Barbara S. Christen & Steven Flanders, eds., New York, NY: W. W. Norton, [illegible]) (hereinafter Gilbert, Life and Work). Gilbert was in partnership with James Knox Taylor from [illegible] until [illegible], before Taylor became Supervising Architect in [illegible]. See Margaret Heilbrun, Preface in Inventing the Skyline: The Architecture of Cass Gilbert at xxix (Margaret Heilbrun, ed., New York, NY: Columbia U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Inventing the Skyline).

221 Gail Fenske, Cass Gilbert's Skyscrapers in New York: The Twentieth Century City and the Urban Picturesque, in Inventing the Skyline at [illegible], [illegible]. The Nebraska Capitol, designed by Bertram Goodhue, was built between [illegible] and [illegible]; the Boston Custom House, by Peabody and Stearns, dates from [illegible]–[illegible]. Id.

222 Steven Flanders, Preface to Gilbert, Life and Work at [illegible]–[illegible].

223 Catherine Hetos Skefos, The Supreme Court Gets a Home, in Yearbook [illegible] of the Supreme Court Historical Society [illegible], [illegible]

(□□□□). See generally Robert C. Post, Mr□Taft Becomes Chief Justice, □□ U. of Cincinnati Law Review □□□ (□□□□).

224 William Howard Taft, The Annual Message of the President, transmitted to Congress, Dec. □, □□□□ (Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, □□□□); John T. Woolley □ Gerhard Peters, The American Presidency Project □online□, http://www.presidency.ucsb.edu/ws/□pid□□□□□□.

225 An Act to provide for the construction of certain public buildings and for other purposes, Act of May □□, □□□□, □□ Stat. □□□, □□□ (codified at □□ U.S.C. □□ □□□, □□□, □□□–□□□).

226 Hearings before the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, U.S. House of Rep. □□th Cong, □st Session, on H.R. □□□□□ (and others), May □□ and May □□, □□□□, at □, □ (Statement of Hon. William Howard Taft, Chief Justice, Supreme Court of the United States) (hereinafter Taft May □□□□ Testimony). On the other hand, while supporting the effort to obtain new and larger space, Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter reported to the House that not all members of the Court wanted new quarters but hoped instead for □larger accommodations□ within the Senate building. Id. at □□, □□ (Statement of the Hon. Willis Van Devanter, Associate Justice, Supreme Court of the United States).

227 Taft May □□□□ Testimony at □.

228 Taft May □□□□ Testimony at □. He was blunt: □we do not want the Department of Justice in that building□ Id.

229 Skefos at □□. See Act of Dec. □□, □□□□ (□An Act to provide for submissions to the Congress of preliminary plans and estimates of costs for the construction of a building for the Supreme Court of the United States□), Pub. L. No. □□-□□□, □□ Stat. □□□□. Gilbert and Taft worked on the development of the plans. See Geoffrey Blodgett, The Politics of Pu□lic □rchitecture, in Gilbert, Life and Work at □□–□□.

230 Skefos at □□. Gilbert was a □supreme networker□ who advocated government support for the arts as he pressed for recognition of America's □fine arts as a distinct cultural category□ See Heilbrun, Pref□ace, in Inventing the Skyline at xviii.

231 Heilbrun, Preface, in Inventing the Skyline at xx, quoting Gilbert.

232 See Cass Gilbert, Description of the Design for the United States Supreme Court Building, Washington, D.C., May □□, □□□□, submitted to the □□st Congress, □st Sess., and included in The Final Report of the Supreme Court Building Commission in Connection with the Construction, Equipping, and Furnishing of the United States Supreme Court Building, S. Doc. No. □□ at □□–□□ (□□th Cong., □st Sess., June □□, □□□□).

233 Skefos at □□–□□, quoting the Report and Recommendation of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds of the House.

234 Blodgett at □□. Blodgett also recounted Gilbert's opposition to the New Deal programs of Franklin Roosevelt. When the Supreme Court struck some New Deal legislation in □□□□, a New □ork Times columnist commented that while a □new building□ had not been required for such an assault on the program, it did □symbolize the power and prestige behind□ the judgment. Id.

235 Fred J. Maroon □ Suzy Maroon, The Supreme Court of the United States □□ (quoting Associate Justice Harlan Fiske Stone) (New York, NY: Thomasson-Grant □ Lickle and published in cooperation with the Supreme Court Historical Society, □□□□).

236 John Brigham, □□plorin□ the □ttic□Courts and Communities in Material Life, Special Issue of Law in Context on Courts, Tribunals and New Approaches to Justice □□□ (Oliver Mendelsohn □ Laurence Maher, eds., Bundoora, Aus.: La Trobe U. Press, □□□□) (hereinafter Brigham, □□plorin□ the □ttic).

237 Priscilla Goodwin, □ Closer Look at the Bron□e Courtroom □ates, □ Supreme Court Quarterly □ (□□□□) (quoting Gilbert). Goodwin also quoted Gilbert's letter to Robert Aitken, the sculptor of the figures on the west pediment. Gilbert wrote that he did not □care very much what the figures mean. I assume of course that they may mean something or convey a certain symbolism□ but what I do care about is the composition□ the design□ the arrangement. . . □

238 As we show in Chapter □□, a large stone figure called Contem□plation of Justice sits to one's left as one ascends the imposing front steps. One of her hands rests on a book; in the other is a figure of a small blindfolded Justice who holds scales with the pans folded toward her. On the opposite side of the steps is a male figure called either □uardian of the Law or □uthorit□ of Law; he has a law tablet and a sheathed sword. Pictures can be found in Maroon □ Maroon at □□ and □□. Two other images of Justice (each blindfolded and holding a sword and scales) are sculpted into the base of each of the two marble candelabra that stand outside the courthouse on the plaza.

The authorship of that design is somewhat unclear. A sketch bears the initials of Cass Gilbert Jr., who worked on the building after his father's unexpected death in □□□□. Whether the initials indicate the son's direct design or his approval of another person's design is a matter under investigation by the curatorial staff of the Supreme Court. What is known is that the final design was refined and modeled by the John Donnelly Company before it was carved in stone. Another Justice, without a blindfold and holding a sheathed sword, appears in Adolph Weinman's frieze □ood versus □vil, on the west wall of the courtroom. See Office of the Curator, Supreme Court of the United States, □Figures of Justice□ Information Sheet, http://www.supremecourtus.gov/about/figuresofjustice.pdf.

239 Goodwin at □. The gates were designed by John Donnelly. Id.

240 See Letter of Submittal of The Final Report of the Supreme Court Building Commission in Connection with the Construction, Equipping, and Furnishing of the United States Supreme Court Building, Doc. No. □□ at v–vi (□□th Cong., □st Sess., June □□, □□□□). That report also provided the legislative history of the building as well as an accounting.

241 See Financial Services and General Government Appropriations for □□□□, Hearings before a Subcommittee of the Committee on Appropriations, U.S. House of Representatives, □□□th Cong., □st Sess. (□□□□) at □□ (Testimony of Justice Anthony Kennedy) (hereinafter □□□□ Kennedy Testimony).

242 Brigham, □□plorin□ the □ttic at □□□□ Brigham tracked the embrace of classical forms from the □□□□s until the middle of the nineteenth century, when it came to be □linked to the American South,□ and then its renewed importance via the □cult□ of the Supreme Court. Id. at □□□–□□□.

243 Brigham, □□plorin□ the □ttic at □□□. The focus on appellate decisionmaking, symbolized by the Supreme Court and its building, missed how much law was losing its character as the site of what Wolfe Heydebrand and Caroll Seron called □moral vision and political debate□ Id. at □□□ (quoting their volume Rationalizing Justice: The Political Economy of the Federal District Courts □□□ (Albany, NY: State U. of New York Press, □□□□)).

244 Paul Spencer Byard, □epresentin□ □merican Justice□ The □nited States Supreme Court, in Gilbert, Life and Work at □□□, □□□. Byard also noted that the □troubles that followed modernism□ the ghastliness of urban renewal, the horrors of highways in cities, were consequence of human imperfection, not of the modernist admonition□ Id. at □□□.

245 Byard at □□□.

246 See Shnayerson at □□. Major renovations were undertaken to maintain that image in the early part of the twenty-first century. See □□□□ Kennedy Testimony at □. Included was a two-story underground annex that provided space for the Court Police, □a function that was virtually non-existent when the building opened in □□□□□ See Supreme Court Public Information Office, The Supreme Court Building Modernization Project, http://www.supremecourtus.gov/publicinfo/modernization/home.htm. The □□□□ building cost less than □□□ million; the □□□□–□□□□ renovations were estimated to cost more than □□□□ million. Supreme Court Public Information Office, The Supreme Court Building Modernization Project, Project Fact Sheet, http:// www.supremecourtus.gov/publicinfo/modernization/facsheet[illegible].pdf; Joan Biskupic, [illegible]enovation [illegible]s Buildin[illegible] [illegible]irst since [illegible]s [illegible]penin[illegible] in [illegible], USA Today, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible].

247 Lee at [illegible]. A few exceptions from that era can be found, such as the Courthouse and Post Office built in [illegible]–[illegible] in Windsor, Vermont, and courthouses provided for the territories. See Craig at [illegible]. Craig noted that the Vermont building cost more than [illegible],[illegible] and that the population of the town when it was constructed numbered about [illegible],[illegible]. Id.

248 Lee mapped changing architectural trends in both public and private design. For example, while Robert Mills and Alfred Mullet had often relied on classical revival buildings, after the [illegible]s, taste turned toward Gothic and then Romanesque styles. Lee at [illegible], [illegible].

249 Craig at [illegible].

250 Craig at [illegible].

251 The authority to name and rename buildings is provided to the GSA. According to a [illegible] provision, the [illegible]Federal works administrator, with the approval of the Bureau of the Budget, is authorized . . . to change or rechange the name or designation of any building in the custody and jurisdiction of the Federal Works Agency[illegible] See Public Buildings Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). In addition, a [illegible] provision authorized the Administrator of General Services to rename a building [illegible]regardless of whether it was previously named by statute[illegible] See Public Law [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]) (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible]). It appears that [illegible]Congress first recognized an individual by a post office through freestanding legislation[illegible] in [illegible] to honor Charles A. Buckley, who had been a member of the House who had chaired the House Public Works Committee. In [illegible] the [illegible]th Congress named [illegible] post offices in honor of either persons of local renown, members of Congress, or other figures. See Congressional Research Service, Library of Congress Report, Naming Post Offices through Legislation, RS[illegible], July [illegible], [illegible]. As detailed in Chapter [illegible], beginning sometime in the [illegible]s or [illegible]s, courthouses were often named after retired judges but with a limitation, noted in [illegible] by the Judicial Conference that a courthouse could not be named after a judge who had retired and was practicing law in the building. See Committee on Security and Facilities, Naming Federal Courthouses, Report of the Proceedings of the Judicial Conference of the United States [illegible] (Sept. [illegible], [illegible]).

252 For example, of the major buildings commissioned for Washington, D.C., during the early part of the twentieth century, only the Department of Justice building had an integrated plan for its interior and exterior. Gurney at [illegible]. Comprehensive descriptions are provided in the Fiftieth Anniversary volume by Vasaio.

253 See Goodrich at [illegible]. Goodrich attributed the historical absence of public arts programs to the [illegible]American tradition of individualism[illegible] the federalist structure, and the [illegible]survival of Puritan proscription of the painted or graven image[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Details on the limited funds are provided in Anthony L. Barresi, The [illegible]ole of the [illegible]ederal [illegible]overnment in Support of the [illegible]rts and Music [illegible]ducation, [illegible] J. of Research in Music Education [illegible] ([illegible]).

254 GSA Modernism at [illegible]. As explained on the cover page by F. Joseph Moravec, Commissioner, Public Buildings Service, the book was a study of those buildings to [illegible]help the GSA better understand our modern-era buildings and inform future reinvestment decisions by taking into account our highest-quality and most distinctive buildings[illegible] By [illegible], the government footprint had grown to [illegible] million square feet of owned or leased space, housing the more than one million federal employees. Forty-nine percent of that space was leased from the private sector. [illegible] GSA Prospectus, Thresholds for Owned and Leased Federal Facilities, Congressional Research Service Reports, at CRS-[illegible].

255 Craig at [illegible]. As of then, another [illegible],[illegible] buildings were leased in the United States, and many more installations were outside the country. By [illegible], [illegible]d[illegible]rect federal public works spending . . . was about [illegible] billion annually[illegible] Id.

Chapter [illegible]

1 Randy Gragg, Monuments to a Crime[illegible]earin[illegible] [illegible]e, New York Times Magazine, May [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

2 As a history of the administrative expansion of the twentieth century reminded its readers, until [illegible] [illegible]the only salaried officers of the federal judiciary[illegible]were its judges, and all non-judge staff were paid on a fee-for-service basis. See A History of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts: Sixty Years of Service to the Federal Judiciary [illegible] (Cathy A. McCarthy [illegible] Tara Treacy, eds., Washington, DC: Administrative Office of the United States Courts, [illegible]) (hereinafter History of the AO).

3 William Howard Taft, Possi[illegible]le and Needed [illegible]eforms in [illegible]dminis[illegible]tration of Justice in the [illegible]ederal Courts, [illegible]th Conference Annual Report A.B.A. [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Taft, [illegible] Needed [illegible]eforms), reprinted at [illegible] A.B.A. Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

4 William Howard Taft, [illegible]de[illegible]uate Machiner[illegible] for the Judicial Busi[illegible]ness, [illegible]ddress [illegible]efore the Judicial Section of the [illegible]merican Bar [illegible]ssocia[illegible]tion (Aug. [illegible], [illegible]), [illegible] A.B.A. Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

5 Taft, [illegible] Needed [illegible]eforms at [illegible]. See also [illegible]dditional Jud[illegible]es, [illegible]s[illegible] District Courts, [illegible]earin[illegible]s on S[illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Before the Senate Com[illegible]mittee on the Judiciar[illegible], [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] ([illegible]).

6 Taft, [illegible] Needed [illegible]eforms at [illegible]–[illegible]. See generally Robert Post, M[illegible]Taft Becomes Chief Justice, [illegible] U. of Cincinnati Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

7 See Act of Sept. [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible])). In [illegible] Congress amended the [illegible] Act to include participation by a judge from the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in the Conference of Senior Circuit Judges. Act of July [illegible], [illegible], To provide for the representation of the United States Court of Appeal for the District of Columbia on the annual conference of senior circuit judges, Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], recodified at Act of June [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible])).

8 See Henry P. Chandler, Some Ma[illegible]or [illegible]dvances in the [illegible]ederal Judi[illegible]cial S[illegible]stem, [illegible], [illegible] Federal Rules Decision [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); U.S. Federal Judiciary, Authorized Judgeships, U.S. Courts, http://www.uscourts.gov/history/allauth.pdf.

9 Taft, [illegible] Needed [illegible]eforms at [illegible].

10 See Act of Sept. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

11 See Act of Sept. [illegible], [illegible], No. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible].

12 See [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] [illegible]. As that visiting practice became more commonplace, the Chief Justice created an administrative apparatus through the Judicial Conference Committee on Intercircuit Assignment to approve requests. See Nicholle Stahl-Reisdorff, The Use of Visiting Judges in the Federal District Courts: A Guide for Judges and Court Personnel (Washington, DC: Federal Judicial Center, [illegible]).

13 Some one hundred lawyers from twenty-one states gathered in Saratoga Springs, New York. See ABA home page, history section, http://www.abanet.org/about/history.html.

14 We have borrowed from the title of a speech by Roscoe Pound given before the ABA on August [illegible], [illegible], and then published as Roscoe Pound, The Causes of Popular Dissatisfaction with the [illegible]dmin[illegible]istration of Justice, [illegible] American Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]), reprinted from [illegible] Annual Report of American Bar Association [illegible] ([illegible]th Conference, [illegible]).

15 See Stephen N. Subrin, [illegible]ow [illegible]uit[illegible] Con[illegible]uered Common Law[illegible] The [illegible]ederal [illegible]ules of Civil Procedure in [illegible]istorical Perspective, [illegible] U. of Pennsylvania Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

16 See Rules Enabling Act, Pub. L. No. ⌧-⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Stat. ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (codified as amended at ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧⌧ et seq. (⌧⌧⌧⌧)). The legislative history and the role played by Taft are explored in Stephen B. Burbank's classic essay The ⌧ules ⌧na⌧lin⌧ ⌧ct of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U. of Pennsylvania Law Review ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). The ⌧⌧⌧⌧ rules governed law and equity, while earlier national rules governed only cases filed under the court's equity jurisdiction.

17 In ⌧⌧⌧⌧ the Court had prescribed thirty-three equity rules for lower courts, and it revised those rules in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ with a set of ninety. See ⌧⌧ U.S. xvii and ⌧⌧ U.S. xli. Neither set was as comprehensive as the Equity Rules of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧, and those, in turn, were superseded by the more comprehensive provisions for both law and equity promulgated in ⌧⌧⌧⌧.

18 See John Anthony Jolowicz, On Civil Procedure ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

19 See generally Stephen N. Subrin, ⌧ishin⌧ ⌧⌧peditions ⌧llowed⌧ The ⌧istorical Back⌧round of the ⌧⌧⌧⌧ ⌧ederal Discover⌧ ⌧ules, ⌧⌧ Boston College Law Review ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

20 The history of these developments is detailed in Judith Resnik, Mana⌧erial Jud⌧es, ⌧⌧ Harvard Law Review ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

21 Warren E. Burger, School for Jud⌧es, ⌧⌧ Federal Rules Decision ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

22 Taft died in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and was replaced by Charles Evans Hughes, who served until his retirement in ⌧⌧⌧⌧. Hughes was replaced by Harlan Fiske Stone, who died unexpectedly in ⌧⌧⌧⌧. Frederick Vinson became Chief Justice and served until his death in ⌧⌧⌧⌧, and Earl Warren was appointed thereafter. The Supreme Court Historical Society website provides a timeline of the justices. See http://www.supremecourthistory.org/history/supremecourthistory⌧history⌧timeline.htm.

23 History of the AO at ⌧–⌧. Some judges thought the Department of Justice was not sufficiently responsive to their needs, while others wanted to be independent of the Department, which represented the Executive in the courts. But not all were enthusiastic about a new administrative center in Washington, and some judges urged that clerks of courts be given budgetary authority rather than centralizing the process. During the late ⌧⌧⌧⌧s and ⌧⌧⌧⌧s, the proponents of a central agency gained sway and went to Congress with a bill to create the Administrative Office, with its director appointed by the Chief Justice. Id. at ⌧–⌧⌧. The first director was Henry Chandler, who had been a president of the Chicago Bar Association and who worked with Associate Director Elmore Whitehurst for many years. See generally Chandler at ⌧⌧⌧.

24 See Act of Aug. ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ch. ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧(⌧), ⌧⌧ Stat. ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (codified as amended at ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧⌧ ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧)). The political configuration that resulted in its enactment is explored in Peter Graham Fish, Crises, Politics, and ⌧ederal Judicial ⌧eform⌧The ⌧dministra⌧tive ⌧ ⌧ce ⌧ct of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Journal of Politics ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). Fish argued that struggles over status, including the failed effort in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ to expand (or ⌧pack⌧) the Supreme Court, had prompted the Conference of Senior Circuit Judges to want to shore up internal judicial administrative capacities. See also History of the AO at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. Michael Sollenberger, Congressional Research Service, ⌧dministrative ⌧ ⌧ce of the ⌧⌧⌧Courts⌧ ⌧istor⌧, ⌧perations, and Current ⌧⌧sues, May ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (RS⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧).

25 Some of the data collection aims to demonstrate the need for administrative support and for the budgetary requests of the judiciary. The kind and nature of data collected have drawn concerns from the perspective of researchers seeking to understand various dimensions of the judiciary's work. See Theodore Eisenberg and Margo Schlanger, The ⌧elia⌧ilit⌧ of the ⌧dministrative ⌧ ⌧ce of the ⌧⌧⌧Courts Data⌧ase⌧⌧ n ⌧⌧initial ⌧mpirical ⌧na⌧sis, ⌧⌧ Notre Dame Law Review ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

26 See John W. Winkle III, ⌧nter⌧ranch Politics⌧The ⌧dministrative ⌧ ⌧ce of the ⌧⌧⌧Courts as Liaison, ⌧⌧ Justice System Journal ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). In ⌧⌧⌧⌧ the AO created its Office of Legislative Analysis, which was later renamed the Office of Legislative Affairs. Id. at ⌧⌧.

27 See Act of June ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ch. ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Stat. ⌧⌧⌧ (codified at ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧)). See generally Judith Resnik and Lane Dilg, ⌧espondin⌧ to a Democratic Deficit⌧Limitin⌧ the Powers and the Term of the Chief Justice of the ⌧nited States, ⌧⌧⌧ U. of Pennsylvania Law Review ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

28 See Act of Dec. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, Pub. L. No. ⌧⌧-⌧⌧⌧, ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Stat. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (codified as amended at ⌧⌧ U.S.C. ⌧ ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧)).

29 Winkle at ⌧⌧. As of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, the Judicial Branch had more than ⌧⌧,⌧⌧⌧ employees. See Office of Personal Management, ⌧mplo⌧ment and Trends, ⌧ederal Civilian ⌧mplo⌧ees (Sept. ⌧⌧⌧⌧), at www.opm.gov/feddata. The U.S. Supreme Court employed ⌧⌧⌧ people. Included within the Judicial Branch are not only staff for judges and clerks of courts but also probation officers.

30 ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Annual Report of the Federal Judicial Center ⌧, at Federal Judicial Center, www.fjc.gov.

31 In ⌧⌧⌧⌧, for example, the AO received ⌧⌧⌧ million and the FJC ⌧⌧⌧ million from the federal judiciary's budget, which, in turn, was ⌧⌧.⌧ billion. See ⌧⌧ ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Bud⌧et and the ⌧ederal Judiciar⌧, ⌧⌧ Third Branch ⌧ (March ⌧⌧⌧⌧). As of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, the FJC reported that it devoted about two-thirds of its budget to education and training, and the rest to research. See ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Annual Report of the Federal Judicial Center.

32 See, for example, Annual Report of the Judicial Conference of the United States, reprinted in the ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Attorney General Annual Report Oct. ⌧–⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at i (hereinafter JCUS); JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧; JCUS Oct. ⌧–⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧–⌧.

33 See, for example, JCUS Oct. ⌧–⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at i–ii; JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧; ⌧⌧⌧⌧ JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧; Annual Report of the Director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts for ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office) at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ (hereinafter ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Director of the AO Report). The Director provides annual reports, and citations to them are by year reviewed.

34 ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Director of the AO Report at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; History of the AO at ⌧⌧.

35 ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Director of the AO Report at ⌧⌧. An effort to obtain congressional support for a new courthouse for the District of Columbia prompted hearings in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ as judges of that court argued that their space was antiquated and inadequate. See ⌧earin⌧s ⌧ eld ⌧efore the Committee on Pu⌧lic Buildin⌧s and ⌧rounds on S⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧th Cong. (July ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (declassified).

36 See History of the AO at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

37 See, for example, JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧.

38 See Report to the Judicial Conference of the Committee on Postwar Building Plans for Quarters for the United States Courts (⌧⌧⌧⌧); and JCUS Oct. ⌧–⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. The Committee stressed that its general guide would be ⌧conducive to a substantial increase in the usefulness and efficiency of the facilities to be provided for the Courts⌧ JCUS Oct. ⌧–⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧. That manual contained ⌧drawings of typical courtrooms, judges' chambers and court offices, and indications of dimensions and arrangement of facilities in the various rooms.⌧ ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Director of the AO Report at ⌧⌧.

39 JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧. The Assistant Postmaster General, who also presented a report, offered to cooperate but noted that the large volume of business made it unlikely that Post Office real estate could be used. Id. at ⌧⌧.

40 That proposal had been described in the ⌧⌧⌧⌧ Director of the AO Report. See JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧. Space demands increased as judicial personnel increased. For example, in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ the Conference urged the Buildings Service or the Post Office to find space for ⌧referees in bankruptcy . . . performing a very important judicial function⌧ and needing to be close to judges of the district courts. JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

41 JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧. The Conference reported that such complaints had been made at Senate hearings on appropriations.

42 JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧. As the Director of the AO explained in ⌧⌧⌧⌧: ⌧Court rooms are often so situated that it is necessary to keep the windows closed in order to shut out city noises that would make it hard and next to impossible to hear the proceedings. [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible].

43 JCUS Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible]; JCUS Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]; [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible].

44 JCUS Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]; [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]–[illegible]; JCUS Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible]. Funding continued thereafter. See JCUS Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible], and [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]–[illegible]. Air conditioning became part of the depiction of the use of the [illegible]Judicial Dollar[illegible] in drawings (see fig. [illegible]/[illegible]) in [illegible]. [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible].

45 [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible].

46 [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible].

47 Examples continue through the [illegible]s under Chief Justice Earl Warren. A [illegible] Judicial Conference Report commented on the completion of nine new federal buildings [illegible]containing court quarters[illegible] seventeen under construction, with eight more in the design stage and fifteen others approved by Congress. See JCUS Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible]. Thereafter, when Congress chartered [illegible] additional judgeships, more [illegible]quarters[illegible] courts and chambers[illegible] were needed, and the Judicial Conference duly recorded its cooperative work with the GSA to obtain appropriations. See, for example, JCUS March [illegible]–[illegible], Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]. Also detailed were needs for refurbishing, with [illegible]items of furniture, carpeting, draperies, etc., out of the regular appropriation designated for this purpose[illegible] to be upgraded when these items [illegible]had become antiquated[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. In [illegible], however, the GSA became responsible for providing all furnishings for court facilities. See JCUS March [illegible]–[illegible], Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. Another bill in the mid-[illegible]s added [illegible] additional judgeships, again driving up needs for space. See JCUS March [illegible]–[illegible], Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. Further, in [illegible] the Administrative Office noted the creation of a new judicial officer[illegible] a magistrate[illegible] for whom courtrooms and chambers were needed, at a projected cost of [illegible] million. See JCUS March [illegible]–[illegible], Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. In some instances, space was once again leased from state courts. See JCUS March [illegible]–[illegible], Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible].

48 Many social scientists have tried to model litigation, and others have studied the shifts in the dockets of both state and federal courts that point to a rise in cases involving government regulation (criminal cases included) and a homogenization across jurisdictions over time. For example, one study sampled cases filed from [illegible] through [illegible] in three federal appellate courts in different parts of the United States. The researchers concluded that while those courts' dockets had once been [illegible]dominated by private economic disputes[illegible] by the [illegible]s a large proportion of the caseload involved [illegible]government activity . . . essentially noneconomic in character. . . . Policies of the federal government and the problems associated with them now provide the basis for most federal appellate activity[illegible] See Lawrence Baum, Sheldon Goldman, [illegible] Austin Sarat, The [illegible]volution of Liti[illegible]ation in the [illegible]ederal Court of [illegible]ppeals, [illegible], [illegible] Law [illegible] Society Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

49 U.S. Const., Amend. VI.

50 See, for example, [illegible]ideon v[illegible] Wainwri[illegible]ht, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]); [illegible]ke v[illegible] klahoma, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]).

51 See Charles A. Reich, The New Propert[illegible], [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

52 See [illegible]olda[illegible]er[illegible] v[illegible]el[illegible], [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]).

53 The United States Supreme Court held that states had to waive access fees for a small subset of litigants. See Boddie v[illegible]Connecticut, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]) (requiring fee waivers for indigent persons seeking to obtain a divorce), as limited by [illegible]rtwein v[illegible]Schwa[illegible], [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]), and [illegible]nited States v[illegible]ras, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]). Statutory provisions can be found at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] ([illegible]), which was narrowed as amended in the Prison Litigation Reform Act, Pub. L. No. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]).

54 See Legal Services Corporation Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] et seq. ([illegible])) (amended by Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]) (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] et seq. ([illegible])).

55 See Lassiter v[illegible]Department of Social Services, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]) and M[illegible]L[illegible]B[illegible]w[illegible]S[illegible]L[illegible]J., [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]).

56 See generally Judith Resnik, Mone[illegible] Matters[illegible]Judicial Market [illegible]nterventions Creatin[illegible] Su[illegible]sidies and [illegible]wardin[illegible] [illegible]ees and Costs in [illegible]ndi[illegible]vidual and [illegible]re[illegible]ate Liti[illegible]ation, [illegible] U. of Pennsylvania Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

57 See Fed. R. Civ. Pro. [illegible] ([illegible]) (subsequently revised). See Owen M. Fiss, The Political Theor[illegible] of the Class [illegible]ction, [illegible] Washington and Lee Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Judith Resnik, [illegible]rom [illegible]Cases[illegible] to [illegible]Liti[illegible]ation[illegible] [illegible] Law [illegible] Contemporary Probs. [illegible] ([illegible]); Judith Resnik, Dennis E. Curtis, [illegible] Deborah Hensler, [illegible]ndividuals within the [illegible]re[illegible]ate[illegible] [illegible]elationships, [illegible]epresentations, and [illegible]ees, [illegible] New York U. Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

58 See the Multidistrict Litigation Act, Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]) (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] et seq. ([illegible])).

59 Between [illegible] and [illegible], some [illegible],[illegible] federal cases were filed, dividing roughly as two-thirds civil and one-third criminal. See David Clark, [illegible]d[illegible]udication to [illegible]dministration[illegible] Statistical [illegible]nal[illegible]sis of [illegible]ederal District Courts in the Twentieth Centur[illegible], [illegible] Southern California Law Review [illegible], [illegible], Table [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Clark, [illegible]d[illegible]udication to [illegible]dministration). Twenty years later, filings had doubled, again with more civil cases than criminal. Id. at [illegible], Table [illegible]. By century's end, the number of filings had risen to about [illegible],[illegible] civil cases and about [illegible],[illegible] criminal.

60 The filing data for [illegible] and [illegible] come from the Administrative Office of the United States Courts that, as noted, became the entity collecting statistics after its inception in [illegible]. The figures for [illegible] are drawn from a two-volume empirical study by the American Law Institute. See A Study of the Business of the Federal Courts (Philadelphia, PA: American Law Institute, [illegible]), at Vol. [illegible], [illegible] (Criminal Cases); Vol. [illegible], [illegible] (Civil Cases). The ALI statistics comport with those in the [illegible] and [illegible] Reports of the Attorney General during the era when the Department of Justice was charged with administration of the federal courts. See Exhibit A to the [illegible]nnual [illegible]eport of the [illegible]ttorne[illegible] [illegible]eneral of the [illegible]nited States for the [illegible]ear [illegible], U.S. House of Representatives, [illegible]th Cong. [illegible]d Sess. at [illegible] ([illegible]); Exhibit A to the [illegible]nnual [illegible]eport of the [illegible]ttorne[illegible] [illegible]eneral of the [illegible]nited States for the [illegible]ear [illegible], U.S. House of Representatives, [illegible]th Cong., [illegible]st Sess. at [illegible] ([illegible]).

The numbers for the [illegible] filings in figure [illegible] are extrapolated, as the ALI and the Attorney General reported pending and terminated, rather than filed, cases. The figures for civil and criminal filings for [illegible] were derived by subtracting the number of cases pending at the end of [illegible] from the sum of the cases terminated in and pending at the end of [illegible]. That method yielded [illegible],[illegible] criminal cases (the same number reported by Clark, [illegible]d[illegible]udication to [illegible]dministration at [illegible], Table [illegible]) and [illegible],[illegible] civil cases (or [illegible],[illegible] fewer civil cases than Clark had reported, id.).

61 See generally David S. Clark, Civil and [illegible]dministrative Courts and Procedure, Supplement to [illegible]S[illegible]Law in an [illegible]ra of Democrati[illegible]ation, [illegible] American Journal of Comparative Law [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Clark, Courts and Procedure). How much time was devoted to the different kinds of cases is a discrete question answered in administrative terms by a [illegible]weighted caseload[illegible] measure aiming to capture the distinctions between the many civil filings settled or withdrawn before a federal judge sees a case and the burdens of criminal defendants who must be heard before pleading guilty or being sentenced. The AO began to use [illegible]weighted case measures[illegible] in [illegible] and has refined those metrics several times. Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, Explanation of Selected Terms, http://www.uscourts.gov/library/fcmstat/cmsexpl[illegible].html. As Clark commented, the federal courts had also restructured to include magistrate judges, thereby reducing the burdens of filings. As we discuss in Chapter ⍰, the increase predicted by the federal judiciary in filings in their courts for the years between ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰ did not occur.

62 The photograph of the front exterior view of the Grand Forks Federal and Court Building, taken by Steve Silverman, is reproduced in figure ⍰⍰⍰ with his permission and that of the building's Property Manager Bryan Sayler. Our thanks to The Honorable Celeste Bremer, United States Magistrate Judge, Southern District of Iowa, and Janice Dinkel, Judiciary Regional Account Manager, Public Buildings Service, GSA Rocky Mountain Region, for helping us obtain this image.

Originally called the United States Post Office and Courthouse, the building was designed by Supervising Architect James Knox Taylor. Its Beaux-Arts design resembles several of his other buildings (see, e.g., the Missoula, Montana, Federal Building, United States Post Office and Courthouse, fig. ⍰/⍰⍰⍰). The Grand Forks building opened in ⍰⍰⍰⍰; an extension designed by Supervising Architect Louis A. Simon was completed in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The GSA explained that the building was to be a ⍰majestic⍰ structure recognizing the ⍰increasing prominence⍰ of Grand Forks as the ⍰agricultural hub of the Red River Valley⍰ U.S. General Services Administration, Ronald N. Davies Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse, http://gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/building View.do⍰pageTypeId⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰ channelPage⍰/ep/channel/gsaOverview .jsp⍰ channelId⍰-⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰ bid⍰⍰⍰⍰ (hereinafter GSA website, Historic Buildings, Ronald N. Davies Courthouse). In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the Post Office moved out and, in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the building was renamed after Ronald Davies, who had been appointed to a district court judgeship there by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s.

63 GSA website, Historic Buildings, Ronald N. Davies Courthouse. The courtroom has a twenty-four-foot coffered ceiling. Other interior ⍰public spaces are monumental in scale and classical in detail⍰ The lobby has a sixteen-foot ceiling and a central marble staircase. Id.

64 See Clark at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, Table ⍰. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ employees worked for the federal judiciary.

65 William G. Young, ⍰n ⍰pen Letter to ⍰⍰⍰District Jud⍰es, Federal Lawyer ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (July ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

66 Thomas F. Eagleton United States Courthouse, St. Louis, Missouri ⍰⍰ (Washington, DC: GSA, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter GSA Eagleton Courthouse Booklet). See also U.S. General Services Administration, Thomas F. Eagleton U.S. Courthouse, http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do⍰contentType⍰GSA⍰BASIC⍰ contentId⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰ noc⍰T (hereinafter GSA website, Regional Buildings, Thomas F. Eagleton U.S. Courthouse). United States Magistrate Judge David D. Noce for the Eastern District of Missouri provided the photograph of the Thomas F. Eagleton U.S. Courthouse that is reproduced with his permission in figure ⍰⍰⍰ and gave us additional information on the building.

67 GSA Eagleton Courthouse Booklet at ⍰⍰. The GSA website specifies that the Eagleton building is the largest single federal courthouse. The Southern District of New York has two courthouse buildings within blocks of each other⍰ raising questions about how to calculate size. The Eagleton Building is the third-tallest in St. Louis, designed to avoid being taller than the city's symbol, the Gateway Arch.

68 See City of St. Louis Development Activity, Eagleton Federal Courthouse, http://stlcin.missouri.org/devprojects/projinfo.cfm⍰DevProjectID⍰⍰⍰⍰; Randy Gragg, Monuments to a Crime⍰⍰earin⍰ ⍰⍰e, New York Times Magazine at ⍰⍰. Turning from federal to state facilities, a ⍰⍰⍰⍰ courthouse for the Brooklyn Supreme and Family Courts houses more than eighty courtrooms in more than ⍰.⍰ million square feet; that structure is thirty-two stories and ⍰⍰⍰ feet tall, making it the largest courthouse in the state of New York. See Brooklyn Supreme and Family Courthouse, Design Build Network, http://www.designbuild-network.com/projects/brooklyn-supreme.

69 ⍰In order to avoid the potential for perceptions of bias or conflict of interest⍰ in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ the Judicial Conference opposed ⍰naming a courthouse or other federal building⍰ after retired judges practicing law. See JCUS Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰ the Conference set forth the following conventions: that a facility solely occupied by a court be called a United States Courthouse; that a ⍰multi-tenant⍰ courthouse be denominated ⍰United States Courthouse and Federal Building⍰ or ⍰United States Courthouse and Post Office⍰ and that, if named after a judge, only the proper name be used and not titles such as ⍰Honorable⍰ or ⍰Judge⍰ JCUS March ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰. As noted, GSA had long been authorized to name buildings. Public Law No. ⍰⍰-⍰⍰⍰ stated that the Administrator of General Services could do so ⍰regardless of whether it was previously named by statute⍰ ⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (codified as amended at ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰)). See also Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰-⍰⍰⍰, ch. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰), discussed in Chapter ⍰.

70 Quoted is Gyo Obata, one of the founding partners of Hellmuth, Obata ⍰ Kassabaum, in GSA Eagleton Courthouse booklet at ⍰. See Linda Tucci, Courthouse Desi⍰n ⍰ ainin⍰⍰ espect as Com⍰ pletion Nears, St. Louis Business Journal (Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

71 GSA Eagleton Courthouse Booklet at ⍰.

72 The inscriptions also include the sources and their dates, stating that ⍰The Place of Justice is a Hallowed Place⍰ comes from ⍰Francis Bacon ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰The Administration of Justice is a Firm Pillar of Government⍰ from ⍰George Washington ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰

73 ⍰The government for security reasons wanted courtrooms without windows. The local judges wanted daylight in the courtrooms⍰ Tucci, quoting Obata. See also GSA Eagleton Courthouse booklet at ⍰⍰.

74 The federal courts within the Eighth Circuit sit in Arkansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota. The Eastern District of Missouri holds court in St. Louis and elsewhere. See ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰⍰ ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰(a).

75 GSA Eagleton Courthouse Booklet at ⍰⍰.

76 GSA Eagleton Courthouse Booklet at ⍰⍰.

77 GSA Eagleton Courthouse Booklet at ⍰⍰.

78 One, named for a former district judge (the Clyde S. Cahill Memorial Park), is across the street from the east-side main entrance of the building on Tenth Street. The other, designed by Valerie Jaudon, was named the Filippine Garden after a former chief district judge (Edward L. Filippine) who had been involved in the design and building of the courthouse. GSA files describe the Filippine Garden as echoing ⍰the symmetry, geometry, and proportions⍰ of the courthouse. See GSA Archives, Art-in-Architecture ⍰⍰⍰, Untitled Garden, Valerie Jaudon. Our thanks to Magistrate Judge Noce for providing us with information on these installations.

79 Our thanks to the Honorable Douglas P. Woodlock, United States District Judge of the District of Massachusetts, for assistance in obtaining the photographs of the Boston Courthouse, including figure ⍰⍰⍰, a picture taken by Steve Rosenthal and reproduced with permission.

80 Douglas P. Woodlock, Drawin⍰ Meanin⍰ from the ⍰ eart of the Courthouse, in Celebrating the Courthouse at ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (hereinafter Woodlock, ⍰eart of the Courthouse). See also Douglas P. Woodlock, The ⍰Peculiar ⍰m⍰arrassment⍰⍰ n ⍰rchitectural ⍰istor⍰ of the ⍰ederal Courts in Massachusetts, ⍰⍰ Massachusetts Law Review ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Douglas P. Woodlock, Lecture: The New Federal Courthouse in Boston (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (unpublished manuscript).

81 Woodlock, ⍰eart of the Courthouse at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

82 Woodlock, ⍰eart of the Courthouse at ⍰⍰⍰.

83 Woodlock, ⍰eart of the Courthouse at ⍰⍰⍰.

84 Woodlock, ⍰eart of the Courthouse at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰.

85 Woodlock, ⍰eart of the Courthouse at ⍰⍰⍰. Woodlock's response was that a courthouse needed to focus on the processional area that constituted the entryway, the movement to and entry into courtrooms, and the courtrooms themselves, in which (it should be plain) the government gave individual attention to its citizens. Justice Breyer and Judge Woodlock described the ⍰most arresting moment⍰ of the selection process as when Henry Cobb, the architect chosen, proffered a photograph of a [illegible] courthouse in Virginia. [illegible]This, he told us, was the sensibility to which he would aspire if selected to design the building[illegible] Stephen Breyer [illegible] Douglas P. Woodlock, The Past as Prolo[illegible]ue, in John Joseph Moakley United States Courthouse and Harbor Park [illegible] (Washington, DC: GSA, [illegible]) (hereinafter GSA Boston Courthouse). Their essay cited other courthouses as well as providing precedents on which they relied.

86 Henry N. Cobb in Vision [illegible] Voice: Design Excellence in Federal Architecture, Building a Legacy, [illegible], [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, Public Buildings Service, Office of the Chief Architect [illegible]) (hereinafter I Vision [illegible] Voice). Vision [illegible] Voice is a series of three volumes with slightly different titles. The second and third volumes, both published in [illegible], are Vision [illegible] Voice, vol. [illegible]: Changing the Course of Federal Architecture, and Vision [illegible] Voice, vol. [illegible]: Changing the Course of Federal Architecture (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, Public Buildings Service, Office of the Chief Architect [illegible]) (hereinafter, II Vision [illegible] Voice, and III Vision [illegible] Voice).

87 See Cobb in I Voice [illegible] Vision at [illegible].

88 Moakley served in the U.S. House of Representatives from [illegible] until he died in [illegible]. He helped to secure federal funds [illegible]to implement his vision of Boston with a clean harbor, renewed transportation system, and revitalized waterfront[illegible] GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible]. Cobb is one of the founders of the firm of Pei Cobb Freed [illegible] Partners, based in New York. Id. at [illegible]. Ellsworth Kelly, [illegible]one of America's most respected artists of the post-war era[illegible] (id.), is discussed in Chapter [illegible].

89 [illegible]It's been called everything from overpriced to an outright [illegible]leecing of America.' . . . The good news is that, price aside, the building is nothing short of spectacular[illegible] See Meghan S. Laska, The New [illegible]ederal Courthouse[illegible] Da[illegible]lin[illegible] [illegible]rchitecture and [illegible]eatures [illegible]riend[illegible] to Law[illegible]ers and the Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]hli[illegible]ht This [illegible]People[illegible] Court', [illegible] Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly B[illegible], B[illegible]–[illegible] (May [illegible], [illegible]).

90 GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible].

91 GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible].

92 GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible].

93 Paul Spencer Byard, [illegible]eadin[illegible] the [illegible]rchitecture of Toda[illegible] Court[illegible]house, in Celebrating the Courthouse [illegible] at [illegible] (hereinafter Byard, [illegible]eadin[illegible] the [illegible]rchitecture).

94 GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible].

95 GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible].

96 GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible].

97 See Discovering Justice: The James D. St. Clair Court Education Project (Nov. [illegible]). This monthly newsletter details the programs such as visits by school children and mock trials. See http://www.discoveringjustice.org.

98 GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible]. Included are quotes from [illegible]John and Abigail Adams, Lelia Josephine Robinson, Frederick Douglass, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Louis D. Brandeis, and John F. Kennedy[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. [illegible]The quotes speak of unalienable rights and self-evident truths . . . [illegible]and[illegible]reflect on the balance of power and on the morality of government[illegible]Id. All are written in English, although the building is the home of the First Circuit, with jurisdiction over Puerto Rico as well as Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts.

99 GSA Boston Courthouse at [illegible].

100 See Stephen G. Breyer, [illegible]oreword to Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible]. See also Woodlock, [illegible] eart of the Courthouse at [illegible].

101 When it opened, Union Station claimed to be the largest train station in the world and provided a dramatic gateway to the capital in the classic Beaux-Arts style. See http://www.unionstationdc.com/history.aspx for a history of the station.

102 The legislation authorizing the Marshall Building required that it [illegible]be designed in harmony with historical and Government buildings in the vicinity[illegible] See [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible]). A detailed account of the project is provided in George M. White, Final Report of the Architect of the Capitol to the Commission for the Judiciary Office Building, The Design and Construction of the Thurgood Marshall Federal Judiciary Building (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, [illegible]) (hereinafter Report on the Marshall Building). Responsibility for the building falls under the aegis of the Architect of the Capitol, responsible for the Capitol Hill complex. The photograph reproduced in figure [illegible] was provided courtesy of the Federal Judicial Center and with the thoughtful assistance of Steven G. Saltzgiver, Research Historian.

103 History of the AO at [illegible].

104 Winkle at [illegible]. Winkle noted that Mecham had been an experienced lobbyist, working as [illegible]a Washington representative for the Atlantic Richfield Company[illegible]before being appointed to direct the AO. Id. Mecham, the sixth person to serve as the Director of the AO, was appointed in [illegible] under the tenure of Chief Justice Warren Burger, by a committee on which Associate Justices Byron White and William Rehnquist served. History of the AO at [illegible].

105 History of the AO at [illegible].

106 By [illegible] the AO had a staff of [illegible] persons, up from [illegible] the year before. See [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]. Under the tenure of Acting Director William Ellis, most of the staff were moved from the Supreme Court to offices in a GSA building. Id. at [illegible]. See also [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]. Background on the early years of the AO can be found at James M. Collier, [illegible]iscal [illegible] ousekeepin[illegible] in the [illegible]ederal Courts, [illegible] Western Political Quarterly [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Additional discussions of the administrative apparatus can be found in Russell R. Wheeler, A New Judge's Introduction to Federal Judicial Administration (Washington, DC: Federal Judicial Center, [illegible]); Russell R. Wheeler [illegible] Cynthia Harrison, Creating the Federal Judicial System (Washington, DC: Federal Judicial Center, [illegible]nd ed., [illegible]).

107 See The Dolle[illegible] Madison [illegible] ouse (a brochure provided to us by Steven Saltzgiver, Federal Judicial Center historian, hereinafter Dolle[illegible] Madison [illegible]JC Brochure). James Madison lent the money for the construction and, after financial reversals for its builder, who died, Dolley Madison became the owner of the house. See the National Parks Service website, http://www.nps.gov/history/history/online[illegible]books/presidents/site[illegible].htm. The Cosmos Club bought the building in [illegible], sold it in [illegible] to the federal government, then leased and used it until [illegible]. During the [illegible]s and [illegible]s, the building was occupied by other federal agencies before becoming the home of the Federal Judicial Center in [illegible]. Figure [illegible] is provided courtesy of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts.

108 Dolle[illegible] Madison [illegible]JC Brochure at [illegible].

109 Report on the Marshall Building at [illegible]–[illegible]. A [illegible] report of the Ad Hoc Advisory Committee of Judges on the Administrative Office also called for a single building. See History of the AO at [illegible].

110 See JCUS March [illegible], Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]; [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]. As the discussion noted, the project, [illegible]begun in the early [illegible]s by former Chief Justice Warren Burger[illegible]aspired to be [illegible]monumental.[illegible] [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]. See also [illegible]th [illegible]nniversar[illegible] of [illegible]ederal Judiciar[illegible] Buildin[illegible], in [illegible] The Third Branch, Newsletter of the Federal Courts at [illegible] (Oct. [illegible]).

According to the Architect of the Capitol, what was [illegible]unprecedented[illegible] was the procurement of proposals from teams of architects and developers. Report on the Marshall Building at [illegible]. Legislative authority for the building provides for the building and improvements to revert to federal government ownership within thirty years of the leasing agreement. The land remains at all times in the ownership of the government, which pays rent to the private owners. See Judiciary Office Building Development Act, Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]).

This form of ownership is neither novel nor unique to the Marshall Judiciary Building. Congress has provided for the GSA to construct buildings through other such lease-purchase contracts that rely on private capital. The government makes installment payments that result in federal ownership at the end of the contract. See Clay H. Wellborn, Congressional Research Services, General Services Administration Prospectus Thresholds for Owned and Leased Federal Facilities, August ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (RS⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰) at ⍰. Another such partnership produced ⍰⍰.⍰ billion for post office buildings, ⍰financed entirely by private investors.⍰ Antoinette Lee, Architects to the Nation: The Rise and Decline of the Supervising Architect's Office ⍰⍰⍰ (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See generally Report on the Marshall Building at ⍰–⍰⍰.

111 See Act of Oct. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; Report on the Marshall Building at ⍰–⍰. Membership included seven senators, five members of the House, and two judges.

112 Barnes also designed the Walker Art Gallery in Minneapolis and the Dallas Museum of Art. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰ the AIA posthumously awarded Barnes its ⍰highest honor⍰ in recognition of the significant work he had done. In doing so, the AIA described his work as ⍰crisp, geometric buildings in both rural and urban landscapes that didn't call attention to themselves, much like the architect himself⍰ See Edward Larrabee Barnes, FAIA, Selected for the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ AIA Gold Medal, ⍰⍰ AIA, The News of America's Community of Architects, http://info.aia.org/aiarchitect/thisweek⍰⍰/⍰⍰⍰⍰/⍰⍰⍰⍰n⍰gold.cfm.

113 Report on the Marshall Building at ⍰.

114 Report on the Marshall Building at ⍰.

115 Report on the Marshall Building at ⍰, n. ⍰.

116 Congress did so after Marshall's death. See An Act To Designate the Federal Judiciary Building in Washington, D.C., as the ⍰Thurgood Marshall Federal Judiciary Building⍰ Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (codified as amended at ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰)). The building was to provide chambers for retired Supreme Court justices but justices had not, as of that date, moved in. Gregory Cerio and Lucy Howard, ⍰ronic ⍰ onor, Newsweek, vol. ⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰ (Feb. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Thereafter, retired Justices Byron White and Harry Blackmun used the space provided. History of the AO at ⍰⍰⍰.

117 Facilities Management of the Thurgood Marshall Federal Judiciary Building, Washington, D.C., http://www.fbodaily.com/archive/⍰⍰⍰⍰/⍰⍰-March/⍰⍰-Mar-⍰⍰⍰⍰/FBO-⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰.htm. Rentable areas total about ⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰ square feet, and the building can house ⍰,⍰⍰⍰ people. As of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ percent of the space was used by ⍰judiciary agency tenants⍰ and by the chambers available to retired Supreme Court Justices. Insufficient space was available for ⍰private-sector tenants⍰ See Report on the Marshall Building at ⍰–⍰, ⍰. Consistent with the shared uses Congress authorized in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s (discussed later), the building also has a cafeteria, a fitness center, credit union services, libraries, and conference facilities. See also ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Report of the Director of the AO at ⍰⍰.

118 Federal Judiciary Marks Building Milestone, press release, Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, http://www.uscourts.gov/Press⍰Releases/tmfjb⍰⍰y.html.

119 See History of the AO at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

120 At times Congress created ad hoc committees to garner expertise. See Sue A. Kohler, The Commission of Fine Arts: A Brief History, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

121 Kohler at ⍰. The official name for the Chicago World's Fair was ⍰A Century of Progress.⍰

122 The membership of the Commission, sometimes nicknamed after its sponsor Senator James McMillan of Michigan, included the architects Daniel H. Burnham and Charles F. McKim, landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted, and the sculptor and coin designer Augustus Saint-Gaudens. Art and Government: Report to the President by the Commission of Fine Arts ⍰ (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Commission on Fine Arts Report). The AIA was deeply involved in bringing the Senate Commission into being, and doing so helped the AIA develop its own national professional reputation. See William Brian Bushong, Glenn Brown, the American Institute of Architects, and the Development of the Civic Core of Washington, D.C., at ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (Ph.D. dissertation, George Washington U., ⍰⍰⍰⍰; UMI No.: AAT ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Brown founded the Washington Chapter of the AIA in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, facilitated the move of the headquarters of that organization from New York to Washington in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, and lobbied against the Supervising Architect's Office and for the arts. Id. at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. He then served as the Secretary of the AIA through ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Under his leadership the AIA expanded its membership from about four hundred architects in the late ⍰⍰⍰⍰s to more than seven hundred by ⍰⍰⍰⍰. He also helped create the ⍰architect-dominated⍰ Senate planning commission. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Over time, the AIA was able to overtake its rival, the Architectural League, and become the central professional organization for architects. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. See also Lois Craig, The Federal Presence: Architecture, Politics and Symbols in United States Government Building ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

123 See An Act Establishing a Commission of Fine Arts, Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰-⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (codified as amended at ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰)). A brief-lived predecessor was a thirty-person Council of Fine Arts, convened by President Theodore Roosevelt in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ through an executive order. A history written about the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Commission explained that Taft wanted an arts commission to be chartered by Congress rather than only through executive action. Kohler at ⍰.

124 See George Gurney, Sculpture and the Federal Triangle ⍰⍰ (Washington, DC: Smithsonian Institution Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

125 An Act Establishing a Commission of Fine Arts, Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰-⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰.

126 Kohler at ⍰. Union Station in Washington, D.C. is next to the Thurgood Marshall Judiciary Building. Burnham had also served on the Senate's Park Commission, as had Frederick Law Olmsted Jr., the architect Thomas Hastings, the sculptor Daniel Chester French, the painter Francis D. Millet, and Charles Moore, who had worked with Senator James McMillan, the sponsor of the Senate's Park Commission. Id.

127 The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Act had provided only for the Commission to provide advice on the siting of monuments and fountains. In October ⍰⍰⍰⍰, President William Howard Taft expanded the mandate to include giving advice on buildings in the District of Columbia. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, in the Shipstead-Luce Act (Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰-⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰ (codified as amended at ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰)), and in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, in the Old Georgetown Act (Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰-⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰), the Commission gained the authority to regulate height and design features in Washington. The Commission was thus involved in approving projects such as the headquarters of the AIA and the Kennedy Center. See Kohler at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. The Commission also was given a role in advising on park planning in the surrounding areas. The legislative and executive orders governing the commission are set forth in Kohler at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰, and its statutory authority is now found at ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (⍰Regulation of private and semipublic buildings adjacent to public buildings and grounds⍰).

128 Charles H. Atherton in I Vision ⍰ Voice at ⍰⍰. As of the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s, the Commission reviewed between four and five hundred submissions each year. Kohler at ⍰.

129 See ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰; U.S. Commission of Fine Arts, http://www.cfa.gov/.

130 Steven J. Tepper, ⍰nfamiliar ⍰⍰ects in ⍰amiliar Places⍰ The Pu⍰lic ⍰esponse to ⍰rt⍰n⍰⍰ rchitecture, ⍰ International Journal of Cultural Policy ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

131 See generally Sara Amelia Butler, Constructing New Deal America: Public Art and Architecture and Institutional Legitimacy (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Architectural History, U. of Virginia, ⍰⍰⍰⍰: UMI No.: AAT ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰). Butler attributed some of the conflict to the differing histories of the Office of the Supervising Architect, rooted in its nineteenth-century beginnings and by the [illegible]s a [illegible]well-oiled machine for producing federal architecture[illegible] (id. at [illegible]), and the Section on Fine Arts, which was [illegible]a child of the New Deal[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Butler's conclusion was that, despite a [illegible]cooperative public face[illegible] significant conflicts about authority existed between the Office of the Architect and the Section on Fine Arts. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

132 John Wetenhall, Camelot[illegible] Le[illegible]ac[illegible] to Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]rt[illegible] esthetic [illegible]de[illegible]olo[illegible] in the New [illegible]rontier, [illegible] Art Journal [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

133 [illegible] Commission on Fine Arts Report at [illegible]. The Preface to that report also noted that the Commission had been asked to [illegible]survey . . . activities carried on by the Federal Government in the field of art[illegible] but had been given no budget for witnesses to travel, so it relied on those proximate to Washington. Id. at [illegible]. Committee member George Biddle, who had been pivotal in funding New Deal art and was himself a noted muralist (as discussed in Chapters [illegible] and [illegible]), dissented in part. While agreeing that all art endeavors should not be centralized in a single bureau, he recommended that the Commission on Fine Arts be given a full-time staff including persons distinguished [illegible]in the fields of painting and sculpture[illegible] that leaders of major museums be appointed to join the Commission, and that the GSA and other federal agencies be required to consult the Commission and take its recommendations into account. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

134 [illegible] Commission on Fine Arts Report at [illegible].

135 [illegible] Commission on Fine Arts Report at [illegible].

136 [illegible] Commission on Fine Arts Report at [illegible]–[illegible].

137 Lee at [illegible]–[illegible].

138 Wetenhall at [illegible].

139 Goldberg had served as general counsel for the Congress of Industrial Organizations (the CIO and later the AFL-CIO). He became Kennedy's Secretary of Labor in [illegible] and was then appointed in [illegible] to the Supreme Court. He stepped down in [illegible] when President Lyndon Baines Johnson asked him to become the United States Ambassador to the United Nations; he held that post until [illegible]. He served a decade later as the United States Ambassador to the Belgrade Conference on Human Rights in [illegible]. He died in [illegible]. See generally David L. Stebenne, Arthur J. Goldberg: New Deal Liberal (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

140 Moynihan, a professor of sociology, focused on urban studies at Harvard. He served as an assistant to Arthur Goldberg from [illegible] to [illegible]. From [illegible] to [illegible] he was the United States Ambassador to India. In [illegible], New Yorkers elected Moynihan to the Senate, where he served until [illegible]. He died in [illegible]. Much praised for a good many projects, Moynihan was also a controversial policymaker whose arguments in the [illegible]s about the problematic structure of inner-city families gained him many critics. See Nathan Glazer, Daniel Patrick Moynihan and Federal Architecture, in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible]–[illegible]; Jeffrey O'Connell [illegible] Richard F. Bland, Mo[illegible]nihan[illegible] Le[illegible]ac[illegible], [illegible] Public Interest [illegible] ([illegible]). See generally Daniel Patrick Moynihan: The Intellectual in Public Life (Robert Katzmann, ed., Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins U. Press, [illegible]).

141 See, for example, I Vision [illegible] Voice. As noted, the GSA published two more volumes titled [illegible]ision [illegible] [illegible]oice, which include commentary and reflections from various participants (including architects, members of selection panels, and administrators) in the GSA programs. Published four decades after [illegible]Moynihan wrote the [illegible]Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture,' [illegible]the set credits his work with changing [illegible]the course of public architecture in our nation[illegible] Id., Preface by F. Joseph Moravec, Commissioner, Public Buildings Service. Volumes II and III, both titled [illegible]Changing the Course of Federal Architecture[illegible] were published in [illegible].

142 The [illegible]Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture[illegible] are reproduced in I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]–[illegible] (hereinafter Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice). The introductory four paragraphs of commentary to the three numbered principles overlap in several respects with the Principles themselves. Further, each of the three Principles is set forth in several paragraphs detailing various precepts.

143 As for the gestalt that produced the Guiding Principles, Wetenhall cited many influences including the publication of Jane Jacobs' Death and Life of [illegible]reat [illegible]merican Cities in [illegible]. Wetenhall at [illegible]–[illegible]. In commentary forty years later, Moynihan commented about the need to create [illegible]great moments in architecture[illegible] and he added that the Seagram Building, designed by Mies van der Rohe, had opened in the early [illegible]s and was one of the [illegible]best[illegible] Daniel Patrick Moynihan, quoted in I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible], [illegible].

144 The introductory comments noted that the [illegible]belief that good design is optional or in some way separate from the question of the provision of office space itself does not bear scrutiny, and in fact invites the least efficient use of public money[illegible] See [illegible]Guiding Principles[illegible] I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]. See also Wetenhall at [illegible].

145 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]. As detailed later, in the [illegible]s, the GSA reiterated this approach by using identical wording about its aspirations for the selection of art. See GSA, Public Buildings Service Commissioner Kenneth R. Kimbrough, Memorandum for Regional Administrators, Revised Art-in-Architecture Procedures, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

146 See Thomas Walton, Art in Architecture Workshop: Models and Themes (draft), Oct. [illegible], [illegible], GSA/AiA Archives. Walton, Associate Dean of the School of Architecture and Planning at Catholic University of America, reported on a workshop convened to reconsider GSA art selection processes and results.

147 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]; Wetenhall at [illegible].

148 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

149 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

150 Robert A. Peck, in I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible], [illegible] (citing Moynihan's [illegible] article New [illegible]oads and [illegible]r[illegible]an Chaos).

151 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

152 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible] .

153 The Tarsney Act, authorizing the use of private architects for public buildings, is discussed in Chapter [illegible].

154 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]. See also Wetenhall at [illegible]; Growth, Efficiency and Modernism: GSA Buildings of the [illegible]s, [illegible]s, and [illegible]s at [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, [illegible]) (hereinafter GSA Modernism).

155 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

156 Glazer, Mo[illegible]nihan and [illegible]ederal [illegible]rchitecture at [illegible]–[illegible].

157 Glazer, Mo[illegible]nihan and [illegible]ederal [illegible]rchitecture at [illegible].

158 Glazer, Mo[illegible]nihan and [illegible]ederal [illegible]rchitecture at [illegible]–[illegible].

159 GSA Modernism at [illegible]. Under Lyndon B. Johnson and the [illegible]Program for Beautification of Federal Buildings[illegible] landscaping did improve. Id. at [illegible].

160 Heckscher had been an editorial writer on the New [illegible]ork [illegible]er[illegible]ald Tri[illegible]une, and after his time in Washington, he served during the [illegible]s in New York City as its Park Commissioner and as its Administrator of Cultural Affairs.

161 Wetenhall at [illegible]–[illegible].

162 After President Kennedy was assassinated, Congress enacted the National Arts and Cultural Development Act of [illegible] (Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]), followed in [illegible] by the National Foundation on the Arts (NFA) and the Humanities Act of [illegible] (Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] et seq.), which created the NFA. See Wetenhall at [illegible]; Margaret Jane Wyszomirski, Con[illegible]ress, Presidents, and the [illegible]rts[illegible]Colla[illegible]oration and Stru[illegible]le, [illegible] Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); National Endowment for the Arts, [illegible]/[illegible]: [illegible] Brief Chronol[illegible]o[illegible] of [illegible]ederal Support for the [illegible]rts, http://www.arts.gov/about/Chronology/NEAChronWeb.pdf, [illegible]–[illegible]. The initial appropriation provided a budget of [illegible].[illegible] million. By [illegible] the budget was more than [illegible] million, but by [illegible] it had been cut to about [illegible] million. Id. at [illegible], [illegible].

163 See Bill N. Lacy, [illegible]ntroduction to Craig (hereinafter Lacy, [illegible]ntroduction). From [illegible] to [illegible] Lacy served as the Director of the Architecture [illegible] Environmental Arts Program, National Endowment for the Arts. He later served as executive director of the Pritzker Architecture Prize Committee.

164 The NEA was asked "to review and expand the Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture." See Federal Architecture: Multiple-Use Facilities: Staff Report for the Federal Architecture Project at [illegible] (Washington, DC: National Endowment for the Arts, November [illegible]) (hereinafter NEA Multiple-Use Facilities).

165 Lacy, "Introduction."

166 Craig at [illegible]. That phenomenon was not new; many a Neoclassical Beaux-Arts bank looked like federal courthouses in that style.

167 See Federal Architecture: A Framework for Debate: An Interim Report of the Federal Architecture Project (Washington, DC: National Endowment for the Arts, April [illegible]). That report came from a group of fifteen who had "special interest or training in architecture and related design fields." See NEA Multiple-Use Facilities at [illegible].

168 Bill Lacy, in I Vision & Voice at [illegible]–[illegible]. He called the initiation of an award program "very audacious and highly naive on our part." Id. at [illegible]. Lacy also noted that finding appropriate recipients for the awards was initially daunting. Id. at [illegible].

169 See "Introduction" in II Vision & Voice. "Reviving the program is an 'important milestone,' observed agency head Richard Austin." As awards went to seven restorations of federal buildings, and two went to visual artists for commissioned AiA works. Benjamin Forgey, "[illegible] onors [illegible] Desi[illegible]ns, Washington Post, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], at F[illegible]. "Citations" were given for energy conservation and other engineering elements. Id. at F[illegible]. In [illegible], the GSA put out a monograph on that year's winners, and it also commemorated the tenth anniversary of the inception of the award program. By then, three new buildings—courthouses designed by Harry Campbell for Las Vegas, Nevada, and by Richard Meier for Phoenix, Arizona, and Central Islip, New York, received awards; Diana Moore's "rns of Justice for the Lafayette, Louisiana, courthouse also received a citation. See U.S. General Services Administration, Desi[illegible]n [illegible]wards [illegible] [illegible]ward Winners, http://www.gsa.gov/graphics/pbs/DABook[illegible]lo.pdf, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible].

170 Or, as the GSA would later describe them, the styles then in vogue were "international," "formalism," "brutalism," or "expressionism." GSA Modernism at [illegible]–[illegible].

171 The Need for Architectural Improvement in the Design of Federal Buildings, Hearing Before the Subcomm. on Buildings and Grounds of the S. Comm. on Public Works, [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]) (hereinafter [illegible] Architectural Improvement Hearing). One issue was how the GSA had complied with its statutory mandate to give consideration to excellence in design. Id. at [illegible]. Senator Robert Stafford asked the GSA whether legislation was needed "to encourage better architectural style for Federal buildings." Id. at [illegible]. The GSA responded that such an effort could not be legislated but that the agency had improved its procedures to focus on excellent design and architecture. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

172 [illegible] Architectural Improvement Hearing at [illegible] (Statement of John McGinty, President, AIA).

173 [illegible] Architectural Improvement Hearing at [illegible]–[illegible] (Statement of Roy F. Knight, Acting Director, Architecture & Environmental Arts Program, NEA). Knight noted that both "critics and professionals alike" view many of the buildings of the last twenty-five years as "rather sterile in appearance and unfriendly in image." Id. at [illegible].

174 GSA Modernism at [illegible].

175 NEA, Multiple-Use Facilities at [illegible]. Further, federal building contributed to deserted streets after working hours. Id. at [illegible].

176 See Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]), codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] et seq. ([illegible]). The act imposed on the administrator of the Public Buildings Service the obligation to "encourage the location of commercial, cultural, educational, and recreational facilities and activities in public buildings" (id. at section illegible([illegible])) as well as to "acquire and utilize space in suitable buildings of historical architectural, or cultural significance" (id. at illegible([illegible])).

177 See Lacy, "Introduction."

178 GSA Modernism at [illegible]. The legislation was also responsive to the opinion of the GSA General Counsel that, absent new legislation, the agency lacked legal authority to rent space for other uses. See NEA Multiple-Use Facilities at [illegible]–[illegible]. The NEA argued instead that an Executive Order would have sufficed. Id. at [illegible].

179 See The [illegible]eds [illegible] eneral Services [illegible]dministration Puts New [illegible]mphasis on the [illegible]rts, Mi[illegible]ed [illegible]se in Pu[illegible]lic Buildin[illegible]s, AIA Journal, Mid-May [illegible], at [illegible].

180 Craig at [illegible].

181 I Vision & Voice at [illegible].

182 National Environmental Policy Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]) (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] et seq. ([illegible])).

183 GSA Modernism at [illegible].

184 GSA Modernism at [illegible]–[illegible].

185 Guiding Principles, I Vision & Voice at [illegible].

186 Architectural Barriers Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] et seq. ([illegible])).

187 Architectural Barriers Act of [illegible] at [illegible] [illegible]–[illegible].

188 The Americans with Disabilities Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], provided in Title II (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible]–[illegible]) that "no qualified individual with a disability shall, by reason of such disability, be excluded from participation in or be denied the benefits of services, programs or activities of a public entity, or be subjected to discrimination by any such entity." [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible].

189 Judicial Council of California, Pu[illegible]lic [illegible] earin[illegible]s [illegible] eport [illegible] ccess for Persons with Disa[illegible]ilities, sect. [illegible] at [illegible] (Executive Summary) (January, [illegible]), http://www.courtinfo.ca.gov/programs/access/documents/dis[illegible]hear.pdf.

190 See Summar[illegible] of Surve[illegible] and Pu[illegible]lic [illegible] earin[illegible] eports of the [illegible] ccess for Persons with Disa[illegible]ilities, Su[illegible]comm[illegible] of the California Judicial Coun[illegible]ci[illegible] [illegible] ccess and [illegible]airness [illegible] dvisor[illegible] Comm. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Jan. [illegible]). http://www.courtinfo.ca.gov/reference/documents/summarydisabilities.pdf.

191 Tennessee v. [illegible] Lane, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]). The legal question was whether the doctrine of sovereign immunity, embodied to some (contested) extent in the Eleventh Amendment of the United States Constitution, limited the power of Congress to authorize lawsuits against states for damages when the ADA was violated. In a five-to-four decision, with Justice Stevens writing for the majority, the Court upheld Congress's power to do so. Justice Souter, joined by Justice Ginsburg, concurred, explaining that courts had been in the business of perpetuating discrimination on the basis of handicap. Id. at [illegible]. Chief Justice William Rehnquist, joined by Justices Kennedy and Thomas, filed a dissent to argue that Congress lacked the power to subject states to monetary damages for the violations. Id. at [illegible]. Justices Scalia and Thomas each explained their further disagreements with the majority in separate dissents. Id. at [illegible] (Scalia, J., dissenting) and at [illegible] (Thomas, J., dissenting).

192 [illegible] U.S. at [illegible].

193 See, for example, Linda Greenhouse, Dispute [illegible] eard on States [illegible] Duties under Disa[illegible]ilities [illegible] ct, New York Times, Jan. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible]. For a period of time, the National Organization on Disability provided at its website several images of the "Tennessee v. Lane Disability Rights Public Action and Press Conference." http://www.nod.org/tennvlane/tennvlane.htm (Jan. [illegible], [illegible]). As it explained, the "crawlers were videotaped but not arrested." Figure [illegible], showing the demonstration, is provided by the Associated Press and used with its permission and that of photographer Gerald Herbert; the photograph was published in conjunction with the story "Court to Rule on Protections for Disabled," which ran in various newspapers on January [illegible] or ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧. Our thanks to Brewster Thackeray, who also photographed this scene, and to Chai Feldblum, Mary Dolan, and Emily Teplin for helping us to locate photographs of the demonstration.

194 ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. at ⌧⌧⌧. After the decision was issued, one lawyer who was herself ⌧in a power wheelchair⌧ lamented the narrowness of the ruling, which had not addressed impaired access to a range of state services. See Harriet McBryde Johnson, Stairwa⌧ to Justice, New York Times Magazine, May ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧. Accompanying her essay was a photograph by Zigy Kaluzny of an individual in a wheelchair attempting to scale a long, high staircase to an indeterminate site. ⌧For many decades, long flights of stairs made statements about the grandeur and the power of the law. . . . By design, they were humbling, even disempowering. Ramps, elevators and appropriate use of government spaces have the opposite effects. For people with disabilities, it is impossible to conceptualize equal protection of the law without them⌧ Id. at ⌧⌧.

195 Letter from Gerald Bard Tjoflat, Circuit Judge, United States Court of Appeals, Eleventh Judicial Circuit, to Judith Resnik, Jan. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧ at ⌧.

196 History of the AO at ⌧⌧⌧. The bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building also damaged the federal courthouse located nearby but separated by a plaza. ⌧Although the blast caused no permanent structural damage, it shattered more than ⌧⌧⌧ windows⌧ and rendered several of the building systems dysfunctional. Id. at ⌧⌧⌧.

197 Andrea Oppenheimer Dean, The nation⌧s ⌧ w⌧⌧est landlord ⌧ust found st⌧le, ⌧⌧⌧ Architectural Record ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (hereinafter Dean). The article's subtitle was ⌧⌧ S⌧ ⌧⌧ ncle Sam speaks up for hi⌧h desi⌧n⌧ In ⌧⌧⌧⌧, a conference of several hundred architects and engineers addressed the issues in the context of embassies as well as courthouses and other government buildings. See Benjamin Forgey, ⌧ear and Loathin⌧ in ⌧ rchitecture⌧ Mo⌧ nihan ⌧ pens De⌧ate on Securit⌧ vs⌧ ⌧ penness, Washington Post, Dec. ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at C⌧. See also Blair Kamin, ⌧ortress ⌧ rchitecture⌧ Don⌧ Let Terrorists Desi⌧n ⌧ ur Build⌧ in⌧s, Chicago Tribune, Dec. ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at C⌧; Jane Loeffler, Architecture of Diplomacy: Building America's Embassies (Princeton, NJ: Princeton Architectural Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

198 The Judicial Conference, for example, proposed relocation of day care programs into renovated or new facilities. JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. Further, in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ it amended its Design Guide to require ⌧ballistic-resistant glazing⌧ JCUS March ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧.

199 History of the AO at ⌧⌧⌧.

200 The Design Excellence Program Guide: Building a Legacy (Architect/Engineer Selection and Design Review) ⌧⌧ (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (hereinafter GSA Design Excellence Program Guide). Parallel concerns can be found in the Judicial Conference's annual reports. For example, in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ the Judicial Conference recommended background screening for personnel working in its buildings. JCUS Sept. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧. Further, the Conference committee that had once been called ⌧Space and Facilities⌧ put the term ⌧security⌧ first. Then, in ⌧⌧⌧⌧, the Conference divided ⌧the Committee on Security and Facilities into two committees: the Committee on Judicial Security, and the Committee on Space and Facilities⌧⌧. . . enabling a separate committee to devote its full attention ⌧to⌧ judicial security⌧ Lorraine H. Tong, Judicial Security: Responsibilities and Current Issues, Congressional Research Service, June ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (RL⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧) at ⌧⌧. Discussion of the Space and Facilities Committee is continued in Chapter ⌧.

201 GSA Design Excellence Program Guide at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

202 GSA Design Excellence Program Guide at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

203 GSA Design Excellence Program Guide at ⌧⌧.

204 Margaret McCurry, in II Vision ⌧ Voice at ⌧⌧; McCurry was a member of the ⌧⌧⌧⌧ GSA Design Awards committee.

205 Court House: A Photographic Document (Richard Pare, ed., New York, NY: Horizon Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧), ⌧⌧⌧, plate ⌧⌧⌧. The courthouse was completed after Wright died in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ by Taliesin Associated Architects.

206 Pare, Court House at ⌧⌧⌧, plate ⌧⌧⌧ (Orange County Court House, Goshen, New York).

207 II Vision ⌧ Voice at ⌧. Hugh Hardy, who chaired the ⌧⌧⌧⌧ GSA Design Awards Jury, said that none of the newer buildings were ⌧worthy of holding up as models⌧ Id. at ⌧.

208 See Dean at ⌧⌧. She cited Breyer and Woodlock as ⌧reinventing the standard⌧ Id.

209 See GSA Design Excellence Program Guide. For example, at AIA conventions the GSA cosponsored workshops focused on courthouse building. See, for example, The Future of the American Federal Courthouse: Continuing Education Seminar, AIA Convention, May ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧. In addition to courthouses, several other types of buildings have been produced, including what are called border stations (serving as bases for controlling boundaries), as well as government repositories for records and other office buildings.

210 In ⌧⌧⌧⌧ President George W. Bush's appointee, Joe Moravec, became the Commissioner of GSA's Public Buildings Service.

211 Neal Peirce, The ⌧eds⌧ Chief Landlord⌧⌧ nusual ⌧riend of the Cities, ⌧⌧ Nation's Cities Weekly ⌧ (Oct. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧); Tom Ichniowski, No nickel⌧ and⌧ dimin⌧ here, ⌧⌧⌧-⌧ Engineering News-Record ⌧⌧ (March ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

212 Peirce at ⌧.

213 See Michael Cannell, Doin⌧ Justice, Washington Post, Feb. ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at W⌧⌧. Others call Feiner ⌧the rarest of bureaucrats⌧ a visionary⌧ See Laura Fisher Kaiser, ⌧dward ⌧ ⌧⌧einer, ⌧⌧ Interior Design S⌧⌧–S⌧⌧ (Dec. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

214 ⌧ S⌧ Chief ⌧ rchitect ⌧d ⌧einer to ⌧etire, GSA No. ⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧ (Jan. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧), http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do⌧noc⌧T⌧ contentType⌧GSA⌧BASIC⌧ contentId⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧. Feiner's colleague Marilyn Farley was also instrumental in shaping the program and retired then as well. See Robert A. Ivy, Too ⌧ ood to Lose, ⌧⌧⌧ Architectural Record ⌧⌧ (March ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Thereafter, Leslie Shepherd became the Chief Architect. See Tim McKeough, ⌧ S⌧⌧ new chief archi⌧ tect vows to improve work environments, em⌧ race multiple desi⌧n voca⌧⌧ ularies, ⌧⌧⌧ Architectural Record ⌧⌧ (Jan. ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Thomas Gordon Smith, ⌧a practitioner of Classical-style architecture⌧ was given a position as a fellow, raising the potential of a return to that form of building. Id. See also Robert Campbell, Callin⌧ a Truce in the St⌧le Wars over ⌧ overnment Buildin⌧s, ⌧⌧⌧ Architectural Record ⌧⌧ (July ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

215 Reed Kroloff, ⌧d ⌧einer, Esquire Magazine, December ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧. The article opens with the claim that the ⌧most powerful architect in American today is not Frank Gehry⌧ nor David Rockwell, nor Robert Stern but ⌧Ed Feiner, a guy from the Bronx⌧ Id. Feiner was able to attract ⌧firms such as Thom Mayne's Morphosis that would not have applied for government commissions or, perhaps, even been considered under the old system⌧ Dean at ⌧⌧.

216 Kroloff; Branford McKee, ⌧dward ⌧einer⌧ The ⌧ederal Pres⌧ ence in the Power List, ⌧⌧ Architecture ⌧⌧⌧ (May ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

217 II Vision ⌧ Voice at ⌧. As one architect put it, under the old regime ⌧you had to spend a fortune trying to put together a whole team that might look better than any other team⌧ A. Eugene Kohn, in II Vision ⌧ Voice at ⌧⌧.

218 Cannell. As Feiner explained, ⌧design excellence is a holistic process that tries to meld every facet of a project . . . ⌧so as to ensure⌧ that the design is both inspiring and efficient, and can be delivered within budget⌧ II Vision ⌧ Voice at ⌧⌧. In ⌧⌧⌧⌧ this approach was then called the Construction Excellence Program, aiming to promote quality in building along with timely, cost-effective procedures that relied more on portfolios than on quantitative data. Id.

219 GSA Design Excellence Program Guide at ⌧, ⌧⌧. The GSA also provides guides with revisions of policies and sample documents. See, for example, Design Excellence: Policies and Procedures [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, [illegible]), GSA Design Excellence Program homepage: www.gsa.gov/design excellence.

220 GSA Design Excellence Program Guide at [illegible] ([illegible]Sample Advertisement[illegible]).

221 Guiding Principles, I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

222 II Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]. The goals are to reflect the [illegible]dignity, diversity, vigor, and stability of the federal government.[illegible]

223 Karen E. Steen, [illegible]ail to the Chief, Metropolis Magazine, Jan. [illegible], at [illegible].

224 Steen at [illegible].

225 I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]. [illegible]Every two years, GSA's Commissioner of the Public Buildings Service appoints [illegible]–[illegible] peers, based on recommendations from the Chief Architect[illegible] II Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

226 I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]; II Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

227 II Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]. From [illegible] through [illegible], more than one hundred [illegible]major Federal construction projects[illegible] were designed from selections made under this approach. I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

228 II Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible].

229 Moynihan's Guiding Principles were regularly invoked; the GSA called its Design Excellence Program [illegible]a manifestation of them[illegible] II Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]. But one of the [illegible] Ad Hoc Committee's principles was to have designs that [illegible]reflect the regional architectural traditions[illegible] of the part of the country where a building is located. I Vision [illegible] Voice at [illegible]. Whether that approach can fit within a transnational architectural market is unclear.

230 GSA Modernism at [illegible].

231 See Design Excellence: Policies and Procedures [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, [illegible]). As Peck put it in [illegible], [illegible]we are commissioning the best American architects and are winning praise for the courthouses' designs and functionality from architecture critics, judges, and other building users, and from local community leaders.[illegible] Status of Courthouse Construc[illegible]tion, [illegible]eview of New Construction [illegible]e[illegible]uest for the [illegible]Mission to the [illegible]nited Nations, and Comments on [illegible], To [illegible]mend the Pu[illegible]lic Buildin[illegible]s [illegible]ct of [illegible] to [illegible]nprove the Mana[illegible]ement and [illegible]perations of the [illegible]S[illegible] eneral Services [illegible]dministration[illegible] earin[illegible] of the Su[illegible]comm[illegible]on Pu[illegible]lic Buildin[illegible]s and [illegible]conomic Development of the [illegible] Comm[illegible]on Transportation and [illegible]nfrastructure, [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] (July [illegible], [illegible]) (Statement of Robert A. Peck, Commissioner, Public Buildings Service, GSA).

Chapter [illegible]

1 Vision [illegible] Voice: Design Excellence in Federal Architecture, Building a Legacy [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, Public Buildings Service, Office of the Chief Architect, [illegible]) (hereinafter I Vision [illegible] Voice). As noted in Chapter [illegible], Vision [illegible] Voice is a three-volume set. See Vision [illegible] Voice, vol. [illegible]: Changing the Course of Federal Architecture and Vision [illegible] Voice, vol. [illegible]: Changing the Course of Federal Architecture (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, Public Buildings Service, Office of the Chief Architect, [illegible]) (hereinafter, II Vision [illegible] Voice and III Vision [illegible] Voice).

Our understanding of efforts to build federal courts has been enhanced by published and unpublished materials from the GSA, the Administrative Office (AO) of the United States Courts, and the Federal Judicial Center (FJC), and from exchanges with several participants including the Honorable Jane Roth and the Honorable Brock Hornby, both of whom chaired Judicial Conference Committees; the Honorable Gerald Bard Tjoflat, who served as the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit (which includes Florida, Alabama, and Georgia); Ross Eisenman, Assistant Director of the AO Office of Facilities and Security; David Insigna, who worked at that AO Office and then joined the GSA as Director of Services for the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Zone; Richard Gilyard, who served as the Circuit Architect for the Eighth Circuit; Celeste Bremer, United States Magistrate Judge of the Southern District of Iowa and who served on that court's renovation committee; Ed Feiner and Les Shephard, both of whom served as Chief Architect in the GSA, Tom Grooms, Director of Excellence and the Arts, and Susan Harrison, Project Manager in the Art-in-Architecture division of the Chief Architect's Office.

2 Status of Courthouse Construction, [illegible]eview of New Construction [illegible]e[illegible]uest for the [illegible]S[illegible]Mission to the [illegible]nited Nations, and Comments on [illegible], To [illegible]mend the Pu[illegible]lic Buildin[illegible]s [illegible]ct of [illegible] to [illegible]mprove the Mana[illegible]ement and [illegible]perations of the [illegible]S[illegible] eneral Services [illegible]dministra[illegible]tion[illegible] earin[illegible] Before the Su[illegible]comm[illegible]on Pu[illegible]lic Buildin[illegible]s and [illegible]conomic Development of the [illegible]Comm[illegible]on Transportation and [illegible]nfrastructure, [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] (July [illegible], [illegible]) (Testimony of Robert A. Peck, Commissioner, Public Buildings Service, GSA) (hereinafter [illegible] Status of Courthouse Construction [illegible] earin[illegible]s).

3 The [illegible]uture of [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram[illegible]esults of a [illegible] Stud[illegible] on the Judicia[illegible]s [illegible]ental [illegible]lt[illegible]ations[illegible] earin[illegible] Before the Su[illegible]comm[illegible]on [illegible]conomic Development, Pu[illegible]lic Buildin[illegible]s, and [illegible]mer[illegible]enc[illegible] Mana[illegible]ement of the [illegible]Comm[illegible]on Transportation and [illegible]nfra[illegible]structure, [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] (June [illegible], [illegible]) (Statement of David L. Winstead, Commissioner, Public Buildings Service, GSA) (hereinafter [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s); see [illegible] Status of Courthouse Construction [illegible] earin[illegible]s at [illegible].

4 Our thanks to Karen Redmond and Linda Stanton from the Public Affairs Office of the AO of the U.S. Courts for facilitating our use of the public domain image in the fascimile by Yale University Press that is shown in figure [illegible], which accompanied the article The [illegible]enaissance of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse, [illegible] Third Branch: Newsletter of the Federal Courts [illegible], [illegible] (Dec. [illegible]) (hereinafter [illegible]en[illegible]aissance of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse).

5 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s at [illegible]. During a different time span, [illegible]–[illegible], fifty-two court projects [illegible]totaling [illegible].[illegible] billion[illegible] had been completed[illegible] producing a courthouse-building program that was the [illegible]largest in U.S. history[illegible] and was listed among the [illegible]major accomplishments[illegible] of the AO. A History of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts: Sixty Years of Service to the Federal Judiciary [illegible] (Cathy A. McCarthy [illegible] Tara Treacy, eds., Washington, DC: Administrative Office of the United States Courts, [illegible]) (hereinafter History of the AO). Another account comes from materials called GSA Properties, Courthouse Programs (describing the concern about space, the need for [illegible]the largest courthouse construction program in more than fifty years, estimated to cost [illegible] billion[illegible] and the establishment by the judiciary of a list of priorities) (undated, once available on the web). As of [illegible], the Government Accountability Office (GAO) reported that the actual outlays between [illegible] and [illegible] had been [illegible].[illegible] billion for seventy-eight courthouse projects. See Courthouse Con[illegible]struction[illegible]nformation on Pro[illegible]ect Cost and Si[illegible]e Chan[illegible]es Would [illegible]elp to [illegible]nhance [illegible]versi[illegible]ht, U.S. Government Accountability Office, GAO-[illegible]-[illegible] ([illegible]) at [illegible].

6 Report to the Judicial Conference of the Committee on Postwar Building Plans for Quarters for the United States Courts [illegible] ([illegible]).

7 Annual Report of the Director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts for [illegible] at [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office) (hereinafter [illegible] Director of the AO Report). In the annual report the following year, an updated listing identified [illegible] courtrooms. [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible].

8 To [illegible]sta[illegible]lish Certain Pu[illegible]lic Buildin[illegible]s Policies for the [illegible]ederal [illegible]ov[illegible]ernment[illegible] earin[illegible]s on [illegible] Before the Su[illegible]comm[illegible]on Pu[illegible]lic Build[illegible]in[illegible]s and [illegible]rounds of the [illegible]Committee on Pu[illegible]lic Works and Trans[illegible] portation, ⊠th Cong. ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠) (Statement of James E. Macklin Jr., Executive Assistant Director, Administrative Office of the United States Courts) (hereinafter Macklin ⊠⊠⊠ Statement).

9 Macklin ⊠⊠⊠ Statement at ⊠⊠. He cited a delay of twelve years from the original request to the building of a new courthouse in Madison, Wisconsin. Id. at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Macklin also noted that a few judges had threatened contempt against GSA personnel but said that such orders would not be appropriate. Id. at ⊠⊠.

10 Macklin ⊠⊠⊠ Statement at ⊠⊠.

11 Annual Report of the Proceedings of the Judicial Conference of the United States (hereinafter JCUS), March ⊠–⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠; JCUS Oct. ⊠–⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠. That committee was commissioned in ⊠⊠⊠.

12 See Federal Magistrates Act, Pub. L. No. ⊠-⊠⊠, ⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠), codified as amended at ⊠ U.S.C. ⊠ ⊠⊠ et seq.

13 See An act to provide for the appointment of additional district and circuit judges, and for other purposes, Pub. L. No. ⊠-⊠⊠, ⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠), codified in scattered sections of Title ⊠ of the United States Code.

14 JCUS Mar. ⊠–⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠. The Conference adopted resolutions calling for various sizes of courtrooms (twenty-eight by forty feet as a standard, with twelve-foot ceilings, and forty by sixty feet, with a sixteen-foot ceiling, as a larger space). JCUS Oct. ⊠–⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠–⊠. Thereafter the Conference adopted three sizes: ⊠,⊠⊠ square feet, ⊠,⊠⊠ square feet, and ⊠,⊠⊠ square feet. See ⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠. By the ⊠⊠⊠s the Conference had settled on four sizes of courtrooms, a standard used, in turn, by the GSA when making its design guide. See United States Courts Design Guide, ch. ⊠, the District Court ⊠ (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, Mar. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠ GSA Courts Design Guide), discussed later.

15 See JCUS Oct. ⊠–⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠.

16 See General Services Administration, Public Building Service, United States Courts Design Guide, ch. ⊠-⊠ (⊠ May ⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠ GSA Courts Design Guide). The word order of the directive was altered in the ⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ uide, and the section read in full: ⊠In accordance with the October ⊠⊠⊠, Judicial Conference resolution, no judge of a multiple-judge court will have the exclusive use of any particular courtroom. It is contemplated that a multiple-judge courthouse will contain various size courtrooms. Each courtroom will be available on a case assignment basis to any judge⊠ Id.

17 The concept of giving each judge a dedicated courtroom paralleled a shift in the way judges were assigned to work on cases. Under a ⊠master calendar system⊠ that had been commonplace through the ⊠⊠⊠s, whatever judge was available decided issues as they came up in cases. In contrast, under the ⊠individual calendar system⊠ that came into vogue in the ⊠⊠⊠s, cases were assigned, from filing to disposition, to a specific judge.

18 See Judicial Conference of the United States, Space and Facilities Committee, U.S. Courts Design Guide, ⊠⊠⊠ ed. at ⊠-⊠, ⊠-⊠. As later noted, that policy was addressed to district judges but was also applied to other judges (magistrate and bankruptcy) sitting in federal courthouses.

19 Macklin ⊠⊠⊠ Statement at ⊠⊠.

20 See JCUS and Director of the AO Report Mar. ⊠–⊠, June ⊠, and Sept. ⊠–⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠. The AO had a branch devoted to space and facilities, and that subgroup had studied the problem and developed an inventory of space and proposed budgets for rent. Id.

21 See ⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠; History of the AO at ⊠⊠. According to the ⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report, the study ⊠documented the need for the Judiciary to take a more aggressive role in managing its own space⊠ Or, as the AO put it in ⊠⊠⊠, the National Academy ⊠recommended that the judiciary play a greater role in planning for and designing court facilities.⊠ History of the AO at ⊠⊠. Thereafter the director of the AO and the administrator of the GSA entered into a ⊠Memorandum of Understanding, establishing a planning process involving both GSA and the Judiciary, and defining relationships for funding space and facility projects⊠ See ⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠. To provide such funding, the Judicial Conference launched a study of space standards and needs. Id. By the ⊠⊠⊠s the AO had created a ⊠space management information system.⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠.

22 History of the AO at ⊠⊠. In that volume, Director Mecham is given credit for setting the major goals of ⊠strengthening the space and facilities program, improving the judiciary's building stock . . . and securing new courthouses to accommodate the growth in workload⊠ Id.

23 See JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, and Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Mar. ⊠⊠, Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠).

24 ⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠⊠ (subsection ⊠Activities of the Administrative Office of the US Courts⊠ at ⊠⊠).

25 ⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠.

26 ⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠⊠ (subsection ⊠Activities of the Administrative Office of the US Courts⊠ at ⊠⊠).

27 See National Academy of Public Administration, Evaluation of the General Services Administration: Report to the Administrator at ix (Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠); Gregory Gordon, Travelin⊠ the ⊠ S⊠⊠ Bureaucratic Pu⊠⊠le, Los Angeles Daily Journal, Oct. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. Problems were raised again in the following decades. See Federal Buildings: Billions are Needed for Repairs and Alterations, GAO/GGD-⊠⊠-⊠⊠, Apr. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, and Capital Investment Hearing Questions, GAO/GGD-⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠R, May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠General Services Administration: Response to Follow-up Questions Related to Building Repairs and Alterations and Courthouse Utilization⊠), http://www.gao.gov/archive/⊠⊠⊠/gg⊠⊠⊠.pdf. Periodically, members of Congress proposed amendments to the GSA charter to provide more ⊠effective congressional oversight of GSA⊠ See, for example, Public Buildings Reform Act of ⊠⊠⊠, S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠d Cong. (⊠⊠⊠); Public Buildings Reform Act of ⊠⊠⊠, S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠th Cong. (⊠⊠⊠).

28 History of the AO at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

29 See JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠; JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

30 JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠.

31 History of the AO at ⊠⊠. See Judicial Space and Facilities Management Improvement Act of ⊠⊠⊠, H.R. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠st Cong. (⊠⊠⊠). The bill would have tied the AO mandate in ⊠ U.S.C. ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ to provide accommodations for the judiciary to a new authority to ⊠acquire, by purchase, condemnation, exchange, or otherwise, any space or facility⊠ determined to be necessary, as well as to construct, lease, or alter facilities, and to dispose of space already acquired. The Director of the AO would have gained authority either to ask the GSA to do acquisition and construction or to hire architects and engineers. Congressional approval would have been required for projects in excess of ⊠.⊠ million dollars. The companion bill, S. ⊠⊠⊠, was introduced in the ⊠⊠st Congress in ⊠⊠⊠ by Senator Moynihan.

32 See Judicial Space and Facilities Management Improvement Act of ⊠⊠⊠, H.R. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠st Cong. (⊠⊠⊠). See also the Judicial Space and Facilities Management Improvement Act of ⊠⊠⊠, S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠st Cong. (⊠⊠⊠), introduced by Senator Moynihan to accomplish the same end. In ⊠⊠⊠ Robert C. Broomfield, chair of Space and Facilities Committee of the Judicial Conference, went before the Senate Subcommittee on Water Resources, Transportation and Infrastructure to seek the legislation, but the GSA opposed the bill. The legislation was never enacted. See ⊠enaissance of the ⊠ederal Courthouse at ⊠.

33 History of the AO at ⊠⊠.

34 See Letter from Gerald Bard Tjoflat, Circuit Judge, United States Court of Appeals, Eleventh Judicial Circuit to Judith Resnik ⊠–⊠ (Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Tjoflat ⊠⊠⊠ Letter). During his tenure from ⊠⊠⊠ through ⊠⊠⊠ as Chief Judge of the Eleventh Circuit, he was involved in more than a dozen construction projects in that circuit's three states.

35 See Michael Cannell, Doin Justice, Washington Post, Feb. , at W (hereinafter Cannell, Doin Justice, Washington Post).

36 Cannell, Doin Justice, Washington Post.

37 Andrea Oppenheimer Dean, The Nation Bi est Landlord Just ound St le, Architectural Record (hereinafter Dean, The Nation Bi est Landlord).

38 Cannell, Doin Justice, Washington Post. He there repeated the estimate of eight billion dollars in costs.

39 History of the AO at . See also Heidi Landecker, ederal rchitecture New ra, Architecture , – ( ) (describing some of the building projects, including renovations).

40 These are the descriptions provided by the AO itself in its fiftieth anniversary self-history. See History of the AO at . See also John W. Winkle III, nter ranch Politics The dministrative ce of the Courts as Liaison, Justice System Journal , – ( ). Winkle discussed the quest for courthouses and AO lobbying that resulted in courthouse project funding for –.

41 uture of the ederal Courthouse Construction Pro ram earin s (Statement of David Winstead, Commissioner) at , http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do contentType GSA BASIC contentId noc T (hereinafter uture of the ederal Courthouse Construction Pro ram earin s, Commissioner Winstead Statement).

42 As noted, ad hoc committees focused on space had existed since the s. Chief Justice Rehnquist established standing committees. In two committees were delineated, one the Committee on Space and Facilities and the other the Committee on Security (later the Committee on Court and Judicial Security), both of which were reconfigured from a committee that had been called Court Administration. See JCUS Sept. , , at . In September , the two committees folded into one, the Committee on Security, Space, and Facilities. See JCUS Sept. , , at and Mar. , , at . In the late s, that Committee was renamed the Committee on Security and Facilities. See JCUS Sept. , , at . In the Judicial Conference again reconfigured tasks, returning to the two committees, one called the Committee on Judicial Security and the other the Committee on Space and Facilities. See JCUS Sept. , , Judicial Conference Proceedings, U.S. Courts at . The acute need to focus on security came in part from the brutal murders of the husband and mother of a United States federal court district judge. The killings occurred off-site and hence prompted a need for reconsideration of safety provisions. See JCUS Mar. , , at .

43 enaissance of the ederal Courthouse at . P. Gerald Thacker was the first head of the new division and was joined by Clarence A. Lee Jr., who had been a senior official of the GSA and who initially came on loan to the AO and then joined its staff permanently. Id.

44 Director of the AO Report at . By , all of the districts had completed plans, so that for the first time the judiciary had both a short and long-term view of its facilities requirements. History of the AO at .

45 versi ht of the Courthouse Construction Pro ram earin Before the Su comm on versi ht of overnment Mana ement and the District of Colum ia of the S Comm on overnmental airs, th Cong. ( ) (Statement of William Gadsby, Director of Government Business Operations Issues, General Government Division, GAO) (hereinafter Gadsby Statement). See also id. at – , – .

46 See Judicial Conference of the United States, Space and Facilities Committee, U.S. Courts Design Guide, ed. (hereinafter U.S. Courts Design Guide). As its preface explained, the Desi n uide was developed over a three-year period in a cooperative effort between the Federal Judiciary and a team of experts . . . under the direction of the National Institute of Building Sciences and the Judiciary Id. at . In the Judicial Conference joined the American Institute of Architects (AIA) and the National Center for State Courts as cosponsors of a conference on courthouse design, construction, and operation. See JCUS Sept. – , , at . A second edition of the judiciary's Desi n uide was published in and then revised in in the wake of the Americans with Disabilities Act. See JCUS Sept. , , at . That version was altered through a addendum prior to the revisions, which were, in turn, supplanted by a edition. U.S. Courts Design Guide, Preface at and Acknowledgements at – . The edition is thus the fifth edition, and by , it had already been revised in some respects. Staff of the AO did the drafting, with many references to general building standards and other GSA materials. See History of the AO at .

Our discussion draws mainly on the and versions, which overlap substantially, with various texts repeated verbatim. See U.S. Courts Design Guide; Space and Facilities Committee of the Judicial Conference of the United States, U.S. Courts Design Guide, ed. (hereinafter U.S. Courts Design Guide), General Services Administration, http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do P PME contentType GSA DOCUMENT contentId . The preface by Chief Justice John Roberts detailed the history of the revisions.

47 See U.S. Courts Design Guide, Introduction at ; U.S. Courts Design Guide at - . The uide had these same three objectives, slightly differently worded. U.S. Courts Design Guide at . The guide also provided diagrams to specify the spatial relationships, accessibility and circulation for courtrooms and other rooms. See, for example, id. at , – , – .

48 U.S. Courts Design Guide at - . The uide other audiences were the federal judges and key judicial personnel who are directly involved in the design of a federal court facility the Judicial Conference through its Committee on Space and Facilities and the AO. Id.

49 Tjoflat Letter at .

50 U.S. Courts Design Guide, Introduction at . It also cautioned users not to rely on the criteria as space entitlements or as a means of enlarging spaces beyond those originally contemplated in approved projects. Id., Introduction at . See also U.S. Courts Design Guide at - .

51 The Office of Supervising Architect created standards during the nineteenth century, and the GSA continued that function as it also regularly revised the standards. See, for example, eneral Ser vices dministration, acilities Standards for the Pu lic Buildin Service, http://www.gsa.gov/portal/category/ . In addition, federal law requires compliance with various building codes as well as statutes specifying environmental, preservationist, or other concerns. See, for example, Public Buildings Amendments of , Pub. L. No. - , Stat. (codified as amended at U.S.C. ( )).

52 Both the and the S uides are prefaced by a foreword from GSA Administrator Jay Solomon noting that they were crafted in cooperation with the AO. See GSA Courts Design Guide, Foreword; GSA Courts Design Guide, Foreword. Both also note that provisions relating to spaces for the U.S. Attorneys and for the U.S. Marshals were designed with input from those entities, and the texts of the two versions overlap a good deal. The GSA Courts Design Guide was not, however, approved . . . in its entirety by the Judicial Conference. See Macklin Statement at . In contrast, after circulation in to the judicial councils in each circuit, the updated uide was formally approved. See Director of the AO Report at (Mar. – , Sept. – ,). The AO took some ownership of the uide; a memorandum from AO Director William E. Foley explained its distribution within the federal courts. Memorandum to Chief Judges of various courts from William E. Foley, Apr. , , accompanying the GSA Courts

Design Guide. Thereafter, the Judicial Conference also made some modifications, reflecting changes in bankruptcy court jurisdiction and approving new provisions for parking. ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Director of the AO Report at ⬚⬚ (Mar. ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, June ⬚⬚, and Sept. ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚).

53 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guide, chs. ⬚, ⬚–⬚; ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guide, chs. ⬚, ⬚–⬚.

54 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guide, ch. ⬚ (⬚The District Court⬚) at ⬚.

55 Chapters ⬚ and ⬚ of both the ⬚⬚⬚⬚ and the ⬚⬚⬚⬚ ⬚S⬚ ⬚uides gave their users⬚ architects and engineers⬚ some basic information about the federal judiciary. The ⬚uides functioned as primers about the organization, the levels of courts, the auxiliary services such as court reporters, pretrial services, probation, and marshals and also cataloged the items needed to furbish each of the spaces accorded the different users.

56 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ and ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guides, ch. ⬚ (⬚Introduction⬚) at ⬚–⬚.

57 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guide, ch. ⬚ at ⬚–⬚.

58 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚⬚.

59 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚. The ⬚⬚⬚⬚ and the ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Design Guides have most of the same discussion of these goals. See the ⬚⬚⬚⬚ and the ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guides at ⬚-⬚ and ⬚-⬚, respectively.

60 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚. Thus the shift in ⬚⬚⬚⬚ to a focus on the impact of the architecture on the local community and the desire to convey ⬚integrity ⬚ and ⬚fairness⬚ through a courthouse's form (see ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚) was continued in ⬚⬚⬚⬚ with the elimination of references to large ⬚scale⬚ and ⬚strong and direct ⬚massing⬚⬚ They were replaced with a comment about ⬚the encounter between the citizen and the justice system.⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚.

61 As the judiciary brought the process in-house, it also brought expertise in-house, hiring architects as line employees, sometimes located in circuits (mirroring the regional allocation of GSA staff) and sometimes in the central office. As of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, eighteen judiciary employees were architects, engineers, or space planners, eleven of whom were assigned to the circuits. An additional forty architects were temporarily employed by the courts for specific projects. Interview with Ross Eisenman, Assistant Director of the Office of Facilities and Security, Dec. ⬚⬚⬚⬚.

62 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ and ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guides, ch. ⬚ at ⬚ (focusing on the layout of a district courtroom). While prisoners, judges, and the public had different entryways to the courtroom (id. at ⬚), a concept of maintaining discrete zones throughout the building was not put forth. Judges were encouraged, when possible, to have private elevators. Id., ch. ⬚⬚ at ⬚.

63 See also JCUS and Director of the AO Report at ⬚⬚⬚ (Apr. ⬚–⬚, Sept. ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚). That report had inventoried courtroom space and found that, as of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, the ⬚⬚⬚ courtrooms ranged in size from ⬚⬚⬚ to ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet and that ⬚⬚ percent measured ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ or more square feet. The following year, the number of courtrooms had grown to ⬚⬚⬚. JCUS and Director of the AO Report at ⬚⬚⬚ (Mar. ⬚–⬚, Sept. ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚).

64 Those layouts for trial-level courts were twenty-eight by forty, thirty-four by forty-four, thirty-five by fifty-two, and forty by sixty feet. Those guidelines had been provided by the Judicial Conference. See JCUS Oct. ⬚⬚ and ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚. As the ⬚⬚⬚⬚ and ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Design Guides explain, the Judicial Conference had prescribed three sizes in the early ⬚⬚⬚⬚s, but ⬚consultation⬚ with both Chief Justice Warren Burger and Attorney General Griffin B. Bell ⬚led⬚ to a reexamination of spatial requirements and the subsequent increase in size of the intermediate size courtroom⬚ ⬚⬚⬚⬚ and ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guides, ch. ⬚ at ⬚. Appellate courtrooms were to be from ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ to ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet. Id, ch. ⬚⬚ at ⬚ (⬚Circuit Courts of Appeals⬚). Some judges recall objecting to the downsizing, driven⬚ as they saw it⬚ by funding problems. See Tjoflat ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Letter at ⬚–⬚.

65 See, for example, ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guide, ch. ⬚ at ⬚ (limited-use courtrooms); ch. ⬚ at ⬚–⬚ (intermediate courtrooms); ch. ⬚ at ⬚–⬚⬚ (standard courtrooms); ch. ⬚ at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚ (large courtrooms).

66 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guide, ch. ⬚ at ⬚.

67 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚ (appellate courtrooms), ⬚-⬚⬚ (district courts), ⬚-⬚⬚ (magistrate courtrooms), ⬚-⬚⬚ (bankruptcy courtrooms); ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚⬚ through ⬚-⬚⬚; ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ (with a slightly smaller magistrate courtroom recommendation of ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet). All three ⬚uides provided for ⬚special proceedings courtrooms⬚ of ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet, with eighteen-foot ceilings. ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚⬚⬚; ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚⬚; ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚⬚.

68 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚.

69 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚⬚.

70 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚⬚-⬚. Details were provided on veneers, millwork, and the like. Id. at ⬚⬚-⬚ through ⬚⬚-⬚⬚.

71 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚⬚-⬚⬚. The ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Guide explained: ⬚Furniture and finishes in the courtroom should reflect the seriousness of the judicial mandate and the dignity of the judicial system.⬚ ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U. S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚⬚.

72 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚⬚. In ⬚⬚⬚⬚, as part of the cost-containment efforts, that provision was modified to make standard a jury box accommodating twelve in magistrate judge courtrooms, sixteen in district courtrooms (to provide space for alternates), and eighteen (for grand juries) in special proceedings courtrooms. JCUS Sept. ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚. In ⬚⬚⬚⬚ the Conference responded to concerns that rooms for jury deliberation were too small and shifted from requiring ⬚⬚⬚ square feet to permitting ⬚⬚⬚ square feet for one in every four rooms. See JCUS Sept. ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚.

73 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚⬚. The ⬚⬚⬚⬚ ⬚uide simply stated that spectator seating for en banc courts should provide ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ seats and, for panel courtrooms, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚ seats. ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U. S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚.

74 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚⬚ through ⬚-⬚⬚; ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚⬚.

75 General Accounting Office, GAO-⬚⬚-⬚⬚⬚, Courthouse Con⬚ struction⬚⬚⬚nformation on Courtroom Sharin⬚ at ⬚, n. ⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚).

76 General Accounting Office, GAO-⬚⬚-⬚⬚⬚, Courthouse Con⬚ struction⬚⬚⬚nformation on Courtroom Sharin⬚ at ⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚).

77 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Director of the AO Report at ⬚⬚.

78 See JCUS Mar. ⬚⬚, Sept. ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, at ⬚⬚.

79 See JCUS Sept.–Oct. ⬚⬚⬚⬚ at ⬚⬚. Relationships between local judges and members of Congress affected both the priority of projects and design changes. See Tjoflat ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Letter at ⬚.

80 See JCUS Sept. ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚.

81 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guide, ch. ⬚⬚ (⬚Space Summary⬚) at ⬚⬚-⬚ and ⬚⬚-⬚⬚; ⬚⬚⬚⬚ GSA Courts Design Guide, ch. ⬚ at ⬚ (district court) and ch. ⬚⬚ at ⬚ (circuit court of appeals). In ⬚⬚⬚⬚ the Judicial Conference had also specified that senior judges be provided with somewhat smaller chambers of ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet. In ⬚⬚⬚⬚ the Conference modified the standard to provide ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet for both kinds of judges, incurring ⬚modest increased rental costs⬚ that would be ⬚offset by the avoidance⬚ of construction to convert space for use by active judges once the senior judge retired. JCUS Sept. ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, at ⬚⬚.

82 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚ through ⬚-⬚⬚. Trial judges' chambers were also authorized to encompass a total of ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet if extra space for a deputy clerk was needed. Id. at ⬚-⬚⬚. The ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide increased the size of magistrate judges' chambers from ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ to ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet to ⬚accommodate larger jury trials⬚ ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide, Revisions–⬚.

83 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⬚-⬚, calling for ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet for circuit judges and ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet for district judges, ⬚,⬚⬚⬚ square feet for magistrate and bankruptcy judges.

84 See Serial Set Vol. No. ⬚⬚⬚, Sess. Vol. No. ⬚, ⬚⬚th Congress, ⬚d

Sess., H. Rpt. ⍰⍰, ⍰ p. Jan. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰The Committee for the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the petition of James Dixon, praying ⍰for⍰ compensation for extra work done by him on the court house in the town of Alexandria, in this District⍰), also noted earlier.

85 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ GSA Courts Design Guide, ch. ⍰ at ⍰ (district courts); ch. ⍰⍰ at ⍰ (⍰private corridor⍰) (appellate courts).

86 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ GSA Courts Design Guide at ch. ⍰ at ⍰ (district courts); ch. ⍰⍰ at ⍰ (court of appeals).

87 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ GSA Courts Design Guide at Appendix C at ⍰-⍰.

88 See, for example, JCUS and Director of the AO Report at ⍰⍰ (Mar. ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Oct. ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

89 Tjoflat ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Letter at ⍰.

90 See ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide ⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰-⍰, ⍰-⍰, ⍰-⍰⍰, ⍰⍰-⍰; ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰⍰.

91 Design Excellence: Policies and Procedures ⍰⍰⍰ (Washington DC: U.S. General Services Administration, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter GSA Design Excellence Policies and Procedures), ⍰sample charrette program⍰ for a federal court at ⍰⍰⍰.

92 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰⍰; ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰⍰.

93 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰⍰; ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰.

94 GSA Design Excellence Policies and Procedures ⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰. ⍰The general public enters the building through a security checkpoint at the primary public entry that feeds into a public vertical circulation core⍰ with its ⍰primary destinations⍰ the courtroom and the jury assembly area. Id.

95 See ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰⍰. This format is common to courthouses in both state and federal systems. See Don Hardenbergh, The Courthouse: A Planning and Design Guide for Court Facilities ⍰⍰ (Williamsburg, VA: National Center for State Courts, American Institute of Architects, Conference of State Court Administrators, National Center for Juvenile Justice, ⍰ American Bar Association, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). That volume provides a schematic, with ⍰public⍰ and ⍰private⍰ zones as well as their ⍰interface⍰ Id.

96 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰⍰. ⍰The plan for a courthouse should locate all high-pedestrian-traffic functions on the lower floors and provide dedicated elevator and stairway systems for the public, court staff and judges, freight, and prisoner movement⍰ Id.

97 Eric Gibson, Taste⍰ de⍰ustri⍰us⍰Medici and Mellons, Make Wa⍰⍰ ⍰ New Patron ⍰ as ⍰rrived, Wall Street Journal, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at W⍰⍰ (quoting Ed Feiner) (hereinafter Gibson, Taste).

98 Spacial segregation is not unique to the United States. See Julienne Hanson, The ⍰rchitecture of Justice⍰ ⍰cono⍰raph⍰ and Space Confi⍰uration in the ⍰n⍰lish Law Court Buildin⍰, ⍰ Architectural Research Quarterly ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). We return to questions of allocation of space and focus on courts outside the United States in Chapter ⍰⍰.

99 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰.

100 More Disciplined ⍰pproach Would ⍰educe Cost and Provide for Better Decisionmakin⍰, Testimon⍰ Before the Su⍰committee on ⍰versi⍰ht of ⍰overnment Mana⍰ement and the District of Colum⍰ia, GAO/T-GGD-⍰⍰-⍰⍰ at ⍰ (Testimony of William J. Gadsby).

101 See JCUS Oct. ⍰⍰–⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰.

102 This rule was formulated by ⍰⍰⍰⍰ as Judicial Conference policy: ⍰With regard to district judges, one courtroom should be provided for each active judge. In addition, with regard to senior judges who do not draw caseloads requiring substantial use of courtrooms and to visiting judges, judicial councils should utilize the following factors as well as other appropriate factors in evaluating the number of courtrooms at a facility necessary to permit them to discharge their responsibilities⍰ JCUS Mar. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰.

103 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰.

104 JCUS Mar. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰. See also ⍰⍰⍰⍰ U.S. Courts Design Guide at ⍰-⍰.

105 See Judicial Conference ⍰dopts Courtroom Sharin⍰ Polic⍰ as Latest Cost⍰Saver, ⍰⍰ Third Branch ⍰ (Sept. ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

106 Douglas P. Woodlock, Drawin⍰ Meanin⍰ from the ⍰eart of the Courthouse, in Celebrating the Courthouse: A Guide for Architects, Their Clients, and the Public ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (New York, NY: W. W. Norton ⍰ Co. ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Celebrating the Courthouse).

107 JCUS Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰.

108 See ⍰enaissance of the ⍰ederal Courthouse at ⍰.

109 Bradford McKee, ⍰ederal Desi⍰n ⍰⍰cellence, ⍰⍰ Architecture ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

110 Gibson, Taste at W⍰⍰.

111 II Vision ⍰ Voice at ⍰⍰. The architectural critic Paul Goldberger praised one building by Richard Meier as the ⍰best federal courthouse built since the early nineteen-sixties when the complex in downtown Chicago, designed by Mies van der Rohe went up⍰ See Paul Goldberger, Su⍰ur⍰an ⍰randeur⍰ ⍰lamorous ⍰overnment Buildin⍰ ⍰ as Just ⍰ one ⍰p in ⍰slip, New Yorker, Oct. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰. See also ⍰eco⍰ni⍰ed ⍰⍰ ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Third Branch ⍰ (Aug. ⍰⍰⍰⍰); ⍰ederal Courthouses ⍰eco⍰ni⍰ed for ⍰rchitectural and Desi⍰n ⍰⍰cellence, ⍰⍰ Third Branch ⍰ (Nov. ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The AIA's Justice Facilities Review had selected four federal courthouses to highlight, and two, in Alpine, Texas, and Wheeling, West Virginia, received ⍰citations for architectural and design excellence⍰ Id.

112 Civic Spirit⍰Chan⍰in⍰ the Course of ⍰ederal Desi⍰n, brochure for exhibit, Sept. ⍰⍰–Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (Center for Architecture, New York City, NY) (hereinafter Civic Spirit Brochure).

113 Civic Spirit Brochure, describing the Wayne L. Morse U.S. Courthouse, Eugene, Oregon, and the U.S. Courthouse, Jackson, Mississippi. At that time, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, neither courthouse was finished.

114 See Tom Grooms, Director, Excellence and the Arts, GSA, Messa⍰es from the ⍰orum, Summer Enews, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The program, held June ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, in Washington, brought together GSA staff, judges, architects, and commentators, including the Boston ⍰lo⍰e architecture critic, Robert Campbell, who ⍰suggested that . . . the ⍰trads' and the ⍰mods' needed each other⍰ Id. For more on the division between conservative versus modernist design advocates, see Robert Campbell, Callin⍰ a Truce in the St⍰le Wars over ⍰overnment Buildin⍰s, Architectural Record ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (July ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Tom Ichniowski, ⍰S⍰ Mulls Modest Chan⍰e in Desi⍰n Pro⍰ram, Engineering News Record, June ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰.

115 See Tom Grooms, Messa⍰es from the ⍰orum, GSA Summer Enews ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

116 Figure ⍰⍰⍰ is provided courtesy of the Design Excellence Program, Office of the Chief Architect of the GSA. Our thanks to Thomas B. Grooms, Director of GSA's Design Excellence and the Arts Program, and to Taylor Lednum of the GSA for the compilation of their photographs and that of Frank Ooms. From the top, moving left to right, the courthouses and their architects are John Joseph Moakley U.S. Courthouse (Boston, Massachusetts), designed by Henry Cobb of Pei Cobb Freed ⍰ Partners Architects LLP and Jung/Brannen Associates, completed ⍰⍰⍰⍰; Alfonse D'Amato U.S. Courthouse (Central Islip, New York), designed by Richard Meier ⍰ Partners and The Spector Group, completed ⍰⍰⍰⍰; United States Courthouse (Tallahassee, Florida), designed by Reynolds Smith and Hills Inc. and William Morgan Architects, completed ⍰⍰⍰⍰; Wayne Lyman Morse United States Courthouse (Eugene, Oregon), designed by Morphosis and DLR Group, completed ⍰⍰⍰⍰; William B. Bryant United States Courthouse Annex (Washington, D.C.), designed by Michael Graves ⍰ Associates and SmithGroup, completed ⍰⍰⍰⍰; Wilkie D. Ferguson United States Federal Courthouse (Miami, Florida), designed by Arquitectonica and Hellmuth, Obata ⍰ Kassabaum Inc., completed ⍰⍰⍰⍰; Corpus Christi Federal Courthouse (Corpus Christi, Texas), designed by Hartman-Cox Architects, William S. McCord⍰ AIA-Principal/Architect of Record, and WKMC Architects Inc., completed ⍰⍰⍰⍰; the Roman L. Hruska U.S. Courthouse (Omaha, Nebraska), designed by Pei Cobb Freed ⊠ Partners and DLR Group, completed ⊠⊠⊠⊠; and Spottswood W. Robinson III and Robert R. Merhige Jr. Federal Courthouse (Richmond, Virginia), designed by Robert A. M. Stern Architects and HLM Design, completed ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

Several of the courthouses renovated or constructed under the Design Excellence Program are discussed in individual booklets, published by the GSA, detailing the fabrication materials and providing photographs of the courts. We have referenced several in this chapter and in Chapter ⊠, and John Brigham provides a brief overview of those booklets in Desi⊠n ⊠⊠cellence⊠ The Courthouse Series (⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://works.bepress.com/john⊠brigham/⊠⊠.

117 See Construction of Certain Pu⊠lic Buildin⊠s, June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Serial Set Vol. No. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Sess. Vol. No. ⊠, ⊠⊠th Congress, ⊠d Sess., H. Rpt. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Statement of Herman Leon Humphrey). Humphrey, who had served as a county judge in Wisconsin, was a Republican member of Congress from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

118 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ederal Courthouse Construction ⊠ earin⊠s (Statement and Testimony of Mark L. Goldstein, Director of Physical Infrastructure Issues, U.S. Government Accountability Office); the GAO reproduced the hearings as ⊠ederal Courthouses⊠⊠ent ⊠ncreases Due to New Space and ⊠ rowin⊠ ⊠ner⊠⊠ and Securit⊠ Costs ⊠ e⊠uire Better Trackin⊠ and Mana⊠ement (Thursday, June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), GAO-⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠T, at ⊠, ⊠, www.gao.gov/new.items/d⊠⊠⊠⊠t.pdf (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ederal Court⊠ houses ⊠ent ⊠ncreases). See also The Judiciar⊠⊠ ⊠⊠ilit⊠ to Pa⊠ for Cur⊠ rent and ⊠uture Space Needs⊠⊠ earin⊠ Before the Su⊠comm⊠on ⊠co⊠ nomic Development, Pu⊠lic Buildin⊠s, and ⊠mer⊠enc⊠ Mana⊠ement of the ⊠ ⊠Comm⊠on Transportation and ⊠nfrastructure, ⊠⊠⊠th Cong. ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (Testimony of Leonidas Ralph Mecham, Director, AO of the U.S. Courts, and Secretary, JCUS) (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ earin⊠ on The Judiciar⊠⊠ ⊠⊠ilit⊠ to Pa⊠ for Current and ⊠uture Space Needs). ⊠With slightly over ⊠⊠ percent of its budget allocated for rent payments, in December ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the Judiciary requested a ⊠⊠⊠⊠ million permanent annual exemption from rent payments to GSA.⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ederal Court⊠ houses ⊠ent ⊠ncreases at ⊠.

119 See Public Buildings Amendments of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Pub. L. ⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ ⊠, ⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (codified as amended at ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠)). ⊠⊠The Administrator is authorized and directed to charge anyone furnished services, space . . . or other facilities . . . at rates to be determined by the Administrator.⊠

120 ⊠uture of the ⊠ederal Courthouse Construction Pro⊠ram⊠ ⊠esults of a ⊠ overnment ⊠ccunta⊠ilit⊠ ⊠ ce Stud⊠ on the Judiciar⊠⊠ ⊠ental ⊠ ⊠l⊠ations⊠⊠ earin⊠ Before the Su⊠comm⊠on ⊠conomic Devel⊠ opment, Pu⊠lic Buildin⊠s, and ⊠mer⊠enc⊠ Mana⊠ement of the ⊠ ⊠Comm⊠ on Transportation and ⊠nfrastructure, ⊠⊠⊠th Cong. ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (Statement of Rep. Bill Shuster, Chair, Subcomm. on Economic Development, Public Buildings, and Emergency Management).

121 See ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (a) (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Clay H. Wellborn, Congressional Research Service, ⊠eneral Services ⊠dministration Prospectus Thresholds for ⊠ wned and Leased ⊠ederal ⊠acilities, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (RS⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠) at ⊠–⊠ (exact threshold amounts for each fiscal year).

122 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. There noted was that the federal judiciary wanted more security than the GSA had allocated as standard, and hence had to pay an additional ⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ for each officer it added above the GSA level. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

123 JCUS and Director of the AO Report ⊠⊠⊠ (Mar. ⊠–⊠, Sept. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Later reports also focused on ⊠space utilization⊠ the return of space to the GSA, and the ability to downsize spaces dedicated to personnel such as court reporters. See, for example, JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, Sept. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠.

124 Judicial Dollar, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠⊠. Our thanks to Karen Redmond and Linda Stanton of the AO's Public Affairs Office for facilitating the facsimile reproduction of the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠Judicial Dollar⊠ charts, taken from records in the public domain of the AO Reports, for figures ⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠.

125 Judicial Dollar, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠⊠.

126 See, for example, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠ (both indicating that ⊠⊠ cents of the ⊠Judicial Dollar⊠ went to space and facilities); JCUS and Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠⊠ (p. ⊠⊠ of the Director's Report) (Mar. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; Sept. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠ (also ⊠⊠ cents). By ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the Annual Reports no longer included that image.

127 See, for example, JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠.

128 In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ million (then ⊠.⊠ percent of the national budget) went to the judiciary. By ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the number had grown to almost ⊠⊠ billion. Office of Management and Budget, Historical Tables, Budget of the United States Government at Table ⊠-⊠, http://www.whitehouse.gov/omb/budget/fy⊠⊠⊠⊠/assets/hist.pdf (hereinafter Historical Budget Tables). Included were costs for probation officials and U.S. Marshals.

129 In terms of the rate of change, the judiciary's budget rose from ⊠⊠.⊠⊠⊠ billion in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to roughly ⊠⊠ billion in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Given the increase in federal spending over those years, both figures represent approximately ⊠.⊠ percent of the national budget. Historical Budget Tables at Table H-⊠.

130 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Status of Courthouse Construction ⊠ earin⊠s at ⊠⊠ (Statement of Rep. Duncan, Member, House Comm. on Transportation and Infrastructure).

131 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠uture of the ⊠ederal Courthouse Construction Pro⊠ram ⊠ earin⊠s at ⊠⊠⊠ (Statement of David Winstead, Commissioner, GSA).

132 As the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Report from the AO Director explained it, congressional ⊠scrutiny⊠ was triggered because the judiciary was ⊠taking a large and increasing share⊠ of the GSA's Federal Buildings Funds⊠ because of the need to ⊠catch up after years of lack of attention from the GSA.⊠ See ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠. See also JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

133 See, for example, U.S. General Accounting Office, Courthouse Construction⊠⊠nproved ⊠⊠⊠⊠ear Plan Could Promote More ⊠nformed Decisionmakin⊠, GAO/GGD-⊠⊠-⊠⊠ (Dec. ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.gao.gov/archive/⊠⊠⊠⊠/gg⊠⊠⊠⊠.pdf.

134 Staff of Senate Comm. on Environment and Public Works, ⊠⊠⊠d Cong., ⊠nvesti⊠ation of the ⊠ederal Courthouse Construction Pro⊠ ⊠ram ⊠ (Comm. Print ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ⊠nvesti⊠ation of the ⊠ederal Courthouse Construction). See also David W. Dunlap, Soarin⊠ Costs Dela⊠ Buildin⊠ of ⊠ederal Courthouse, New York Times, Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at B⊠. Quoted are judges blaming the GSA for having ⊠bungled the bidding process⊠⊠ causing delays that added expenses. Id.

135 ⊠nvesti⊠ation of the ⊠ederal Courthouse Construction at ⊠.

136 Edward A. Adams, Session ⊠licits Blame ⊠ll ⊠round in Court⊠ house Costs, ⊠⊠⊠ New York Law Journal ⊠ (Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), noted that the judges blamed the GSA and the GSA blamed the judges, while Congress's GAO blamed both. Id. His example was the federal courthouse on Pearl Street, then the judiciary's largest, said to have had an ⊠overly generous construction budget⊠ that permitted use of unduly expensive materials; the original cost of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ million had grown by ⊠⊠⊠⊠ million from upgrades, including a ceremonial courtroom to seat forty judges. Id. The GAO's William Gadsby cited the Foley Square ⊠multipurpose courtroom⊠ with its ⊠high level of finishes⊠ and excessive space (⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ square feet⊠ ⊠½ times larger⊠ than called for by the Design Guide standards) and the expensive woods used in Boston as too luxurious. See Gadsby ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Statement at ⊠⊠⊠.

The press described the Senate investigation to have concluded that ⊠judges' demands for plush d⊠cor jacked up costs⊠ for the federal courthouse. See Kathleen Kerr, Senate ⊠eport ⊠ips ⊠ole⊠ S⊠⊠Court⊠ house, Newsday, Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Others called the Boston Courthouse a ⊠Taj Mahal⊠ See Dean, The nation⊠ ⊠⊠⊠est landlord. In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, proposed revisions to the Desi⊠n ⊠ uide aimed to lower some costs. For example, a new standard on a ⊠palette of finishes⊠ limited the range, and ⊠a separate dining area for judges⊠ could be authorized only if a cafeteria was planned for a building. See JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

137 ⊠nvesti⊠ation of the ⊠ederal Courthouse Construction at ⊠⊠.

Thereafter Senator Max Baucus, who had chaired the committee that issued the report, proposed amendments to the [illegible] Public Buildings Act to require more congressional oversight of costs for courthouses.

138 See The Public Buildings Reform Act of [illegible], S. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] ([illegible]). The GSA would have been charged with doing so [illegible]in consultation[illegible]with the AO. That proposal called for justification of the number of courtrooms planned for a courthouse. See [illegible].

139 See The Public Buildings Reform Act of [illegible], S. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] ([illegible]).

140 JCUS Mar. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

141 For example, in [illegible] the Judicial Conference set the imposition of [illegible]tighter restraints on future space and facilities cost[illegible] as one [illegible]objective[illegible] for [illegible]cost containment for fiscal year [illegible] and beyond[illegible] JCUS Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

142 In [illegible], the Committee on the Budget of the Judicial Conference concluded that [illegible]a proposal to seek a separate appropriation to cover GSA rental charges . . . would not be in the best interests of the judiciary[illegible]See JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. Instead the focus was on how to alter the way rent was calculated[illegible] a response that (as detailed later) succeeded but also made the amount of funding going to the judiciary less easily calculated.

143 JCUS Mar. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

144 See [illegible]ederal Judiciar[illegible]s: There a Need for [illegible]dditional [illegible]ederal Jud[illegible]es[illegible] earin[illegible]Before the Su[illegible]comm[illegible]on Courts, the [illegible]nternet, and [illegible]ntel[illegible]lectual Propert[illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible]Comm[illegible]on the Judiciar[illegible], [illegible]th Cong. [illegible]–[illegible] (June [illegible], [illegible]) (Statement of Dennis Jacobs, Chair, Committee on Judicial Resources, and Judge, United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit). For example, the judiciary relied on a measure of [illegible] [illegible]weighted[illegible] cases per district judge and [illegible] per panel of three appellate judges as appropriate but did not request additional judgeships until even larger ratios were reached. Id. at [illegible] (Jacobs's letter of May [illegible], [illegible]).

Those measures, in turn, prompted criticism from some sectors (such as the GAO) that the statistical techniques did not capture the work. Id. at [illegible] (Statement of William O. Jenkins, Director, Homeland Security and Justice Issues, General Accounting Office) (discussing the GAO Report Federal Judgeships: The General Accuracy of the Case[illegible] Related Workload Measures Used to Assess the Need for Additional District Court and Courts of Appeals Judgeships, GAO-[illegible]-[illegible]R ([illegible])). The GAO commented that the measures applied in the early [illegible]s were appropriate then but might no longer be accurate given changes in case filings and district court management practices. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

145 See JCUS Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

146 JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. See also [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]. As proposed projects had been in planning stages for years and had undergone [illegible]extensive review by the GSA and the judiciary[illegible] the AO described its efforts to put into place a [illegible]formal process of ranking pending projects in numerical order[illegible] Thereafter the Conference approved a five-year plan while also authorizing its Committee on Security, Space, and Facilities to modify it. JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

147 JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide, Revisions–[illegible]. Its [illegible]summary of revisions[illegible] explained that many changes were focused on [illegible]reducing costs.[illegible] 148 [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide, Revisions–[illegible].

149 JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible].

150 See JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible] and Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible].

151 JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

152 See JCUS Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible] and Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]; [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]. The report reproduced a [illegible]Memorandum of Understanding: between the Director of the AO and the Administrator of the GSA[illegible] and set forth procedures for approval. Changes subject to the rules were those that would alter estimates by either [illegible],[illegible] or [illegible] percent of the projected budget.

153 Chief Justice [illegible]ppeals to Con[illegible]ress for Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ects, [illegible] Third Branch [illegible] (Apr. [illegible]) (hereinafter Chief Justice [illegible]ppeals to Con[illegible]ress, Third Branch).

154 Chief Justice [illegible]ppeals to Con[illegible]ress, Third Branch at [illegible].

155 Chief Justice [illegible]ppeals to Con[illegible]ress, Third Branch at [illegible]. When the Space and Facilities Committee recommended a separate appropriation for rent again in [illegible], the Conference concluded that the pursuit of [illegible]administrative rather than legislative remedies[illegible] was more appropriate. JCUS Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. As noted, in [illegible] the Conference concluded that seeking such a clear and quantifiable earmark was not in the [illegible]best interests of the judiciary[illegible] JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

156 For example, in [illegible] Congress appropriated [illegible].[illegible] million for fourteen repair projects and [illegible].[illegible] million for twenty-one new projects. See [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible].

157 History of the AO at [illegible]. The budget increase was listed as one of the [illegible]major accomplishments[illegible] of that office.

158 See Courthouse [illegible]undin[illegible] S[illegible]uee[illegible]es Throu[illegible]h in [illegible]inal Confer[illegible]ence, [illegible] Third Branch [illegible] (Feb. [illegible]).

159 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s at [illegible], [illegible] (Statement of Jane R. Roth, Chair, Judicial Conference Committee on Space and Facilities) (hereinafter [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement).

160 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

161 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

162 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

163 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

164 The GSA rent bill also exposed intra-judiciary tensions in that the federal courts' central budget was taxed but at least some of the building design processes were controlled at a local level. See [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s, Commissioner Winstead Statementat [illegible]. The Judicial Conference responded in part by trying to rein in the circuits through the imposition of caps (subject to exceptions) on that regional basis. See JCUS Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. That report noted that the rent cap had been proposed in [illegible], but a mechanism to [illegible]translate the annual [illegible].[illegible] percent cap into circuit-level rent budgets[illegible] had not yet been organized. Id.

165 J[illegible]ent[illegible] Powerful Tool [illegible] elps Courts Monitor Space Costs, [illegible] Third Branch [illegible] (Dec. [illegible]).

166 [illegible] [illegible]ederal Courthouses [illegible]ent [illegible]ncreases at [illegible].

167 [illegible] [illegible]ederal Courthouses [illegible]ent [illegible]ncreases, inside front cover. This hearing was a continuation of a [illegible] inquiry. See [illegible] ouse Su[illegible] committee Wor[illegible] Back [illegible]ent Waiver, [illegible] Third Branch [illegible] (July [illegible]).

168 [illegible] [illegible] earin[illegible] on The Judiciar[illegible] [illegible]ilit[illegible] to Pa[illegible] for Current and [illegible]uture Space Needs at [illegible]–[illegible] (Statement of F. Joseph Moravec).

169 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible] earin[illegible]s at [illegible] (Statement of David Winstead, Commissioner, GSA). In [illegible] hearings Commissioner Moravec had concluded that, as measured in square feet, [illegible]the Judiciary is our largest customer.[illegible] [illegible] ear[illegible] in[illegible] on The Judiciar[illegible] [illegible]ilit[illegible] to Pa[illegible] for Current and [illegible]uture Space Needs at [illegible] (Statement of F. Joseph Moravec). Measured in terms of user charges for space [illegible]rent revenue[illegible] the judiciary was the GSA's second-largest customer in [illegible]. Id. at [illegible].

170 GAO Human Capital Reform Act of [illegible], Pub. L. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]) (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible])).

171 Goldstein provided [illegible]Percentage Net Change in Square Footage[illegible] by circuit. [illegible] [illegible]ederal Courthouses [illegible]ent [illegible]ncreases, fig. [illegible] at [illegible] (showing the differential increase that did not correlate with the geographical expanse and the number of judges of the circuits). For example, the Second Circuit (comprising Vermont, New York, and Connecticut) had a [illegible] percent increase in square footage, and the Ninth Circuit (consisting of Alaska, Hawaii, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, California, and Arizona) gained [illegible] percent.

172 [illegible] Federal Courthouses Rent Increases, inside front cover. Goldstein commented that separate security paths coupled with structural and architectural elements make courthouses among the most expensive federal facilities to construct. Id.

173 One GSA study had concluded that federal courthouses were about [illegible] percent or [illegible] per square foot more expensive to build than their state counterparts but that some of the extra cost came from more exacting government standards and the longer time it took to build. See Emilie Sommerhoff, Fed Courts Jur[illegible] [illegible] ut, [illegible] ARCHITECTURE [illegible] (June [illegible]). The study looked at costs from [illegible] to [illegible].

174 [illegible] Federal Courthouses Rent Increases, inside front cover.

175 [illegible] Report on Federal Courthouses Rent Increases at [illegible].

176 [illegible] Report on Federal Courthouses Rent Increases at [illegible]–[illegible].

177 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings at [illegible] (Statement of Rep. Shuster, Chair, Subcomm. on Economic Development, Public Buildings, and Emergency Management). Rep. Shuster also criticized the Judiciary for seeking a "get out of jail free card." Id. at [illegible]. Another critic of judicial building was Representative Eleanor Holmes Norton of the District of Columbia. Id. at [illegible].

178 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible]. Also attached was a detailed letter from the Director of the AO, Leonidas Ralph Mecham, criticizing a draft GAO report that had drawn unfavorable conclusions about the judiciary's space utilization. See [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings at [illegible]–[illegible].

179 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings, Roth/Judicial Conference [illegible] Statement at [illegible].

180 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

181 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

182 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings at [illegible] (Commissioner Winstead Statement). A [illegible] million rent credit was issued, followed by a [illegible] million credit for the Moynihan Courthouse in New York. See [illegible] DIRECTOR OF THE AO REPORT at [illegible]. Another set of credits came after verification of the actual space being used by the Judiciary in [illegible] locations. [illegible] DIRECTOR OF THE AO REPORT at [illegible].

183 [illegible] Hearing on The Judiciary's [illegible] to Pay for Current and Future Space Needs, Statement of Leonidas Ralph Mecham at [illegible]. "Rent payments to the GSA . . . have grown from [illegible] million in [illegible] to [illegible] million (est.) in fiscal year [illegible], almost a [illegible] percent increase. . . . "Space . . . has grown only [illegible] percent." Id. at [illegible].

184 "Either Pay Stay or Pay Rent, [illegible] THIRD BRANCH [illegible] (July [illegible]). The subheading read: "Caught in a Financial Bind, Federal Courts Ask Congress for Relief." Id.

185 [illegible] DIRECTOR OF THE AO REPORT at [illegible].

186 Chief Justice John G. Roberts Jr., [illegible] Year-End Report on the Federal Judiciary, [illegible] THIRD BRANCH [illegible] (Jan. [illegible]) (hereinafter Roberts, [illegible] Year-End Report). Roberts commented that a "more direct threat to judicial independence is the failure to raise judges' pay."

187 The question of how to measure the percentage of the judiciary's budget is also an issue. In some materials, for example, the AO reported that the rent "consumed [illegible] percent of the Judiciary's salaries and expenses budget," itself a subset of the overall budget. See [illegible] DIRECTOR OF THE AO REPORT at [illegible]. The Chief Justice cited a different percentage and, of course, what percentage is devoted to rent varied with the baseline chosen.

188 Roberts, [illegible] Year-End Report.

189 Roberts, [illegible] Year-End Report.

190 Letter from Leonidas Ralph Meacham to Mark Goldstein (June [illegible], [illegible]), Appendix III, [illegible] Federal Courthouses Rent Increases at [illegible], quoted in "House Subcommittee Wants Back Rent Waiver," [illegible] THIRD BRANCH [illegible] (July [illegible]).

191 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

192 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

193 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings at [illegible] (Submission of Leonidas Ralph Mecham, Director, AO of the U.S. Courts, and Secretary, JCUS).

194 [illegible] Federal Courthouses Rent Increases, inside front cover.

195 [illegible] Hearing on The Judiciary's [illegible] to Pay for Current and Future Space Needs at [illegible] (Statement of Mark L. Goldstein, GAO Director, Physical Infrastructure Issues) (Courthouse Construction: Overview of Previous Work and Ongoing Work, GAO [illegible]-[illegible]T, a summary of Goldstein's testimony, www.gao.gov/highlights/d[illegible]thigh.pdf). As the AO saw it, the "objective . . . was to pay only for the actual costs of operation and maintenance of the courts, since the costs of the land and buildings had already been paid." Further, the AO protested another aspect of the GAO rent policy" "which requires federal agencies to pay the equivalent of state and local taxes." See [illegible] DIRECTOR OF THE AO REPORT at [illegible].

196 [illegible] Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings at [illegible] (Statement of Bill Shuster). The GAO had counseled against it, noting that "rent exemptions were a principal reason why FBF "the Federal Building Fund" has accumulated insufficient money for capital investment." Wasted Space, Wasted Dollars "The Need for Federal Real Property Management Reform" Hearing Before the [illegible] Committee on Government Reform on [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] ([illegible]) (Statement of David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States).

197 See S. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]); Judiciary Rent Reform Act of [illegible], H.R. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]). Had it been enacted, the judiciary estimated that its rent would have declined by about [illegible] million. [illegible] DIRECTOR OF THE AO REPORT at [illegible]. The American Bar Association (ABA) supported enactment. See Resolution [illegible], approved by the ABA House of Delegates in August of [illegible].

198 Senators to "S[illegible] Reduce Judiciary's [illegible] Rent, [illegible] THIRD BRANCH [illegible] (June [illegible]). A group of eleven senators from both parties wrote the GSA to respond to the budgetary problems. Id.

199 [illegible] Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings at [illegible] (Statement of the Honorable Eleanor Holmes Norton). See also "House Subcommittee Skeptical of Judiciary's [illegible] Rent Relief Effort," [illegible] THIRD BRANCH [illegible] (July [illegible]); "House Subcommittee Wants Back Rent Waiver," [illegible] THIRD BRANCH [illegible] (July [illegible]).

200 That point was made by Joseph Moravec, Commissioner of the Public Building Service: "The rent/user charge is good public policy that promotes accountability for the amount and quality of space they use." [illegible] Hearing on The Judiciary's [illegible] to Pay for Current and Future Space Needs at [illegible] (Statement of F. Joseph Moravec).

201 JCUS, Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. The cap was to be for fiscal years [illegible]–[illegible]. As noted, the Conference also tried to impose limits on the regional level.

202 [illegible] Future of the Federal Courthouse Construction Program Hearings, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible], [illegible].

203 See also the [illegible] DIRECTOR OF THE AO REPORT at [illegible]–[illegible].

204 See Memorandum of Agreement between the U.S. General Services Administration Public Building Service and the Administrative Office of the United States Courts Concerning Rent Charges for Certain Courthouses, entered into by James C. Duff for the AO on Feb. [illegible], [illegible], and by David Winstead, Commissioner of Public Buildings Service of the GSA on February [illegible], [illegible]. Obtained through the Freedom of Information Act (hereinafter MOA GSA/AO, Feb. [illegible], [illegible]). Thus, "rent is the result of compromise." Tjoflat [illegible] Letter at [illegible].

205 Judicial Conference "Adopts Courtroom Sharing Policy as Latest Cost-Saver, [illegible] THIRD BRANCH [illegible]–[illegible] (Sept. [illegible]). The Conference also cut back on its building of "special proceedings courtrooms," which were large-sized. Unless a building served as a district headquarters or had four or more judges, it would be an ⊠exception⊠ to provide a special proceeding courtroom, and that ⊠exception⊠ would trigger GSA and congressional review. JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠.

206 Frederic L. Ledere, The Courtroom in the ⊠⊠e of Technolo⊠⊠ in Celebrating the Courthouse.

207 ⊠ overnment of ⊠ir⊠in ⊠slands v⊠Charleswell, ⊠⊠⊠ F.⊠d ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠d Cir. ⊠⊠⊠⊠). The appellate court noted that the ⊠unfortunate circumstances of this case illustrate the serious drawbacks of a courthouse planning philosophy that encourages sharing of courtrooms by a number of judges to promote efficiency in space utilization. . . . When a courtroom is not available as the need arises, the result is a loss of efficiency in other phases of judicial administration. . . . ⊠E⊠xperience teaches that the brick and mortar construction expense of building larger facilities may be less expensive in the long run than the other costs associated with delay in processing cases. The results of coping with an insufficient number of courtrooms demonstrates that the old adage of ⊠penny wise and pound foolish' is particularly apt⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

208 Marcia Coyle, ⊠ulin⊠ Slams Courtroom Sharin⊠, National Law Journal, June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at A⊠.

209 For example, the Judicial Conference objected to a proposed bill, the General Services Administration Improvement Act of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, H.R. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠th Cong. (⊠⊠⊠⊠), that would have required that the judiciary or GSA submit data on courtroom use, courtroom sharing, and the design guide. See JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠. On the other hand, the Judicial Conference registered its support for a bill pending in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, H.R. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠th Cong. (⊠⊠⊠⊠), because it would provide a ⊠m⊠ore realistic and favorable treatment of capital investments in the federal budget to the benefit of the judiciary⊠ JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

210 Discussion of that study's metric can be found in U.S. General Accounting Office, Courthouse Construction⊠ Su⊠ cient Data and ⊠nal⊠sis Would⊠ elp ⊠esolve the Courtroom⊠Sharin⊠⊠ssue, GAO-⊠⊠-⊠⊠, at ⊠, ⊠⊠ (Dec. ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠ Courthouse Construction ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.gao.org/new.items/d⊠⊠⊠⊠.pdf. See also General Accounting Office, Courtroom Construction⊠Better Courtrooms⊠ se Data Could ⊠nhance ⊠acilit⊠ Plannin⊠ and Decisionmakin⊠, GAO/GGD-⊠⊠-⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠ (May ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.gao.org/archive/⊠⊠⊠⊠/gg⊠⊠⊠⊠.pdf.

211 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Director of the AO Report at ⊠⊠.

212 ⊠⊠⊠ Courthouse Construction ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠, ⊠⊠. Ernst and Young had designated districts with fewer than five courtrooms in one category and looked at places with six to ten courtrooms in another. The GAO commented that ⊠⊠ percent of the courthouses fall within the category of five or fewer courtrooms. But ⊠about ⊠⊠ percent of all current, active district judges are located in the remaining ⊠ percent of the courtrooms⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠.

213 Congressional Budget Office, The ⊠ne⊠Courtroom, ⊠ne⊠Jud⊠e Polic⊠⊠ Preliminar⊠ ⊠eview, at ⊠⊠ (Apr. ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.cbo.gov/ftpdocs/⊠⊠xx/doc⊠⊠⊠⊠/onecourt.pdf.

214 In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, for example, the Office of Management and Budget did not include proposed funds for court construction. See JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

215 JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

216 See, for example, Comments from the Chair, Judicial Confer⊠ ence, Committee on Securit⊠ and ⊠acilities, Oct. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, appended at ⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠ Courtroom Construction ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (underscoring the ⊠value of unfettered access to a courtroom and its importance to the fair and efficient administration of justice⊠).

217 JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

218 JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠. See JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, for further protests.

219 JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

220 See, for example, To provide for the review ⊠⊠ Con⊠ress of pro⊠ posed construction of court facilities, H.R. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠th Cong. (⊠⊠⊠⊠); JCUS Sept.–Oct. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

221 JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

222 ⊠ eneral Services ⊠ dministration⊠ ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ Capital ⊠nvestment and Leasin⊠ Pro⊠ram⊠⊠ earin⊠ Before the Su⊠comm⊠ on ⊠conomic Development, Pu⊠lic Buildin⊠s, and ⊠mer⊠enc⊠ Mana⊠ement of the ⊠⊠ Comm⊠on Transportation and ⊠nfrastructure, ⊠⊠⊠th Cong. ⊠ (July ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (Statement of the Hon. Jane R. Roth, Chair, Judicial Conference Committee on Security and Facilities). Judge Roth had sounded a similar theme in previous years. As she explained, projects for the then-pending ⊠Five-Year Plan are urgently needed . . . and delays only exacerbate operational problems.⊠ Courthouse Construction Dela⊠s ⊠ urt Judiciar⊠, ⊠⊠ Third Branch ⊠ (Jun. ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

In ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the Conference set forth a definition of a ⊠space emergency⊠ as a building that is ⊠severely damaged or . . . has an excessive caseload that impacts its space. The Committee on Space and Facilities will examine each emergency situation on a case-by-case basis to determine whether to recommend⊠ that the project be declared an emergency. See JCUS Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

223 JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠. The effort was to ⊠convey critical housing needs⊠ in Southern California and Texas. The courts designated as in need of priority funding were those in Los Angeles, California; El Paso, Texas; San Diego, California; and Las Cruces, New Mexico. See JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

224 JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

225 JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

226 JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠.

227 JCUS Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

228 Letter from Rep. Bill Shuster, chairman of the Subcommittee on Economic Development, Public Buildings and Emergency Management of the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, to Jane R. Roth in her capacity as Chair of the Judicial Conference Committee on Space and Facilities (Nov. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), Appendix One to The ⊠se of Courtrooms in the ⊠⊠⊠District Courts⊠⊠ ⊠eport to the Judicial Conference Committee on Court ⊠ dministration ⊠ Case Man⊠ a⊠ement (Project Directors Donna Stienstra and Patricia Lombard, July ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.fjc.gov/public/home.nsf/autoframe⊠open form⊠ url⊠⊠/ public/home.nsf/inavgeneral⊠openpage⊠ url⊠r⊠/public/home.nsf/pages/⊠⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠JC Courtroom ⊠ se Stud⊠). See also James C. Duff, Director of the AO, Judicial Conference of the United States, ⊠eport on the ⊠sa⊠e of ⊠ederal District Court Court⊠ rooms, Sept. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, appended to the materials for the Judicial Conference meeting of Sept. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠JC Courtroom ⊠ sa⊠e ⊠eport). As that report outlined, Representative Shuster had asked that the study document based on a statistical sampling, how often courts were ⊠actually in use⊠ with people there for ⊠official functions⊠ that the study be designed with ⊠input of the GAO's Physical Infrastructure Division,⊠ and that it incorporate ⊠other factors as the Judiciary deems necessary.⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠JC Courtroom ⊠ sa⊠e ⊠eport at A-⊠, n. ⊠.

229 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠JC Courtroom ⊠ se Stud⊠ at Appendix ⊠, ⊠.

230 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠JC Courtroom ⊠ se Stud⊠ at ⊠, ⊠-⊠. In a questionnaire distributed to District Judges and Magistrate Judges, the FJC explained that actual ⊠courtroom use is fairly straightforward. . . . Some have suggested, however, that the availability of a courtroom serves important functions, even when the courtroom is not actively being used. This is known as latent use.⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠JC Court ⊠ se Stud⊠, Appendix ⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

The FJC used a variety of sources of information, including a questionnaire sent to all judges, a questionnaire to attorneys, and direct data collection in thirteen districts in two ⊠waves⊠ of two different three-month periods. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠JC Courtroom ⊠ se Stud⊠ at ⊠. A total of twenty-three districts were analyzed, and three were used as case studies. The information provided on shared courtrooms is based on one case study, the Southern District of New York. Id. at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. Appendix ⊠ of the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠JC Courtroom ⊠ sa⊠e ⊠eport detailed the kinds of proceedings coded, ranging from case proceedings conducted by a judge to ceremonies, education, set-up or short adjournments, maintenance, and unoccupied and usable or not. Id. at ⊠-⊠ to ⊠-⊠. The survey questionnaire went to more than [illegible] judges; more than [illegible] replied, yielding a response rate of [illegible] percent. Id., Appendix [illegible]-[illegible].

Courtrooms were, on average, in [illegible]actual use[illegible] for [illegible] hours a day if a judge was an active judge ([illegible] [illegible]JC Courtroom [illegible]se Stud[illegible] at [illegible]) and [illegible] hours if [illegible]scheduled time[illegible] (or latent use) was included. Id. at [illegible]. Judges spent a great deal of time in chambers, often in conferences. Id. at [illegible]. In the district where senior and active judges shared courtrooms, the actual use time was somewhat lower, as was the scheduled time. Id. at [illegible].

231 [illegible] [illegible]JC Courtroom [illegible]se Stud[illegible] at [illegible]. Eighty-one percent of judges believed that this latent use [illegible]often[illegible] prompted settlement.

232 [illegible] [illegible]JC Courtroom [illegible]sa[illegible]e [illegible]eport at A-[illegible], A-[illegible].

233 [illegible] [illegible]JC Courtroom [illegible]sa[illegible]e [illegible]eport at A-[illegible].

234 [illegible] [illegible]JC Courtroom [illegible]sa[illegible]e [illegible]eport at A-[illegible].

235 [illegible] [illegible]JC Courtroom [illegible]sa[illegible]e [illegible]eport at [illegible].

236 When approving additional appropriations for courthouse construction in San Diego, California, the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee resolved that within [illegible]one year of the date of approval of this Resolution, the Judicial Conference of the United States shall amend the U.S. Courts Design Guide to require that each U.S. Courthouse construction project provide one courtroom for every two senior judges[illegible] Also mandated were more process and oversight for departures. See [illegible]esolution, [illegible]mendin[illegible]a [illegible]esolution of Jul[illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Cong. Rec. H[illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]). See also JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. Although the resolution stated that the [illegible]uide was to be altered within a year, the Conference reported in [illegible] that its subcommittees and the AO were working with the House Committee on the issue. Id.

237 [illegible] [illegible]JC Courtroom [illegible]sa[illegible]e [illegible]eport at A-[illegible], A-[illegible]. That Report also noted that, while the Judicial Conference had no [illegible]formal position[illegible] on magistrate judge assignments, it had applied the [illegible]one-for-one policy[illegible] to them. Id. at A-[illegible]. One concern raised by a former chief judge of a circuit about the new approach was that magistrate and bankruptcy judges could have the most intense need for ready access to courtrooms. See Tjoflat [illegible] Letter at [illegible].

238 [illegible] [illegible]JC Courtroom [illegible]sa[illegible]e [illegible]eport at A-[illegible].

239 According to MOA GSA/AO, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], the different methods yielded a rent reduction from [illegible].[illegible] to [illegible].[illegible] per square foot. See Office of Real Property Asset Management, ROI Pricing (Sept. [illegible]) at [illegible] (appended to MOA). The estimate in [illegible] was that the revised method of accounting would, over twenty years, save the judiciary more than [illegible] million. Eisenman interview, Dec. [illegible].

240 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible]earin[illegible]s, Roth/Judicial Conference Statement at [illegible].

241 [illegible] [illegible]uture of the [illegible]ederal Courthouse Construction Pro[illegible]ram [illegible]earin[illegible]s, Commissioner Winstead Statement at [illegible].

242 See Jordan Gruzen with Cathy Daskalakis and Peter Krasnow, The [illegible]eometr[illegible] of a Courthouse Desi[illegible]n, in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible]. See also Charles Geyh, When Courts and Congress Collide: The Struggle for Control of America's Judicial System (Ann Arbor, MI: U. of Michigan Press, [illegible]).

243 See Joseph P. Fried, [illegible] Bi[illegible]er [illegible]ome for the [illegible]ederal Courts in Brook[illegible]n, New York Times, Sept. [illegible], [illegible]. That article detailed the cutbacks in the project, down from eighteen floors to fifteen, from [illegible] feet to [illegible] feet, and from twenty-four courtrooms to seventeen. Id.

244 The House had required the judiciary to [illegible]provide a specific list of each departure[illegible] from the parameters if costs would be raised, along with a [illegible]justification and estimated cost[illegible] for such departures. The resolution further required GSA to submit a recommendation to the relevant committees as to whether to approve departures from the Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uide. [illegible]esolution, [illegible]mendin[illegible]a [illegible]esolution of Jul[illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Cong. Rec. H[illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]); JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible], [illegible]. As the Judicial Conference noted, what constituted an [illegible]exception[illegible] was not always agreed upon by the GSA and the AO. Id. at [illegible].

245 [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide at [illegible]–[illegible].

246 JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

247 JCUS March [illegible], [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. The earlier policy statement, cited there, is found at [illegible]. In [illegible] the Conference had started to draft a plan to do so. JCUS Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. In [illegible] a bill to do so, the Judicial Space and Facilities Management Improvement Act of [illegible], H.R. [illegible], [illegible]st Cong. ([illegible]), had been introduced to create that separation. GSA had objected, and the sponsoring congressman had urged the two agencies to develop a compromise. See also To [illegible]acilitate the Construction of [illegible]Courthouses, and for [illegible]ther Purposes, S. [illegible], [illegible]st Cong. ([illegible]), introduced by Senator Moynihan to accomplish the same end. The Post Office's authority to determine and provide for its building needs is set forth in [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] ([illegible]).

248 JCUS Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. Thirteen projects were then approved. Id. Ten space requests were approved in Mar. of [illegible]. JCUS Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

249 See [illegible]earin[illegible], [illegible]liminatin[illegible] Waste and Mana[illegible]in[illegible] Space in [illegible]ed[illegible]eral Courthouses[illegible] [illegible] [illegible]ecommendation on Courthouse Construction, Courtroom Sharin[illegible] and [illegible]nforcin[illegible] Con[illegible]resional [illegible]uthori[illegible]ed Limits on Si[illegible]e and Cost, before the Subcommittee on Economic Development, Public Buildings and Emergency Management, Committee on Transporation and Infrastructure, U.S. House of Representatives, May [illegible], [illegible] (Statement of Judge Michael A. Ponsor, Chair, Committee on Space and Facilities; Statement of Robert A. Peck, Commissioner, Public Buildings Service, U.S. General Services Administration), http://transportation.house/gov/hearings/hearingDetail.aspx[illegible]NewsID[illegible]; Federal Courthouse Construction: Preliminary Results Show Better Planning, Oversight, and Courthouse Sharing Could Help Control Future Costs, GAO-[illegible]-[illegible]T (May [illegible], [illegible]), http:///www.gao.gov/new/items/d[illegible]t.pdf.

250 Tjoflat [illegible] Letter at [illegible]–[illegible].

251 See generally Richard H. Fallon, The [illegible]Conservative[illegible] Paths of the [illegible]ehn[illegible]uist Court[illegible] [illegible]ederalism Decisions, [illegible] U. of Chicago Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Judith Resnik, Constrictin[illegible] [illegible]emedies[illegible]The [illegible]ehn[illegible] [illegible]uist Judiciar[illegible], Con[illegible]ress, and [illegible]ederal Power, [illegible] Indiana Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

252 See [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]; [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible].

253 [illegible] Director of the AO Report at [illegible]–[illegible].

254 John Roberts, [illegible]ear[illegible]nd [illegible]eport on the [illegible]ederal Judiciar[illegible], [illegible], www.supremecourts.gov/publicinfo/year-end/[illegible]year-end report.pdf. See also Testimony of Justices Stephen Breyer and Samuel Alito, House Judiciary Subcommittee on Courts, the Internet, and Intellectual Property, Judicial Compensation and Judicial Independence, www.uscourts.gov/testimony/JusticeBreyerPay[illegible].pdf and www.uscourts.gov/testimony/JusticeAlitopay[illegible].pdf. See generally James E. Pfander, Judicial Compensation and the Definition of Judi[illegible]cial Power in the [illegible]ar[illegible] [illegible]epu[illegible]lic, [illegible] Michigan Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]). Parallel concerns came from state courts. In [illegible], New York State's Chief Judge filed a lawsuit against the Speaker of the New York State Assembly and the governor; the lawsuit argued that the failure to raise judges' salaries since [illegible] constituted a violation of separation of powers. See [illegible]a[illegible]e v[illegible]Silver, Index No. [illegible]/[illegible], http://nycourts.gov/judges/[illegible]papers.pdf.

255 At times during the Rehnquist era, the Judicial Conference expressed its own concerns that the number of life-tenured judges not increase too much. Rather, the Conference promoted various forms of outsourcing, such as delegation to non-life-tenured judges and shifting work to the state courts. See generally Judicial Conference of the United States, Lon[illegible] [illegible]an[illegible]e Plan for the [illegible]ederal Courts (Dec. [illegible]), reprinted in [illegible] Federal Rules Decision [illegible] ([illegible]). The Conference did make some requests for more judgeships, but Congress did not authorize new appointments.

256 John Wetenhall, Camelot[illegible] Le[illegible]ac[illegible] to Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]rt[illegible] esthetic [illegible]ale[illegible] olo[illegible] in the New [illegible]rontier, [illegible] Art Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

257 Tepper noted that the City of Philadelphia had put such a program in place in [illegible]. He also reported that up to [illegible] percent of new building construction went for [illegible]single and multiple art installations[illegible]

Steven J. Tepper, Unfamiliar Objects in Familiar Places: The Public Response to Art in Architecture, 1 International Journal of Cultural Policy [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). See also Salil K. Gandhi, The Pendulum of Art Procurement Policy: The Art in Architecture Program's Struggle to Balance Artistic Freedom and Public Acceptance, [illegible] Public Contract Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

258 Art-in-Architecture Program, A Contextual History of the Art-in-Architecture Program at [illegible], in GSA/AiA Archives (hereinafter AiA Contextual History). That history reported that the [illegible] installation of Alexander Calder's Flamingo in Chicago prompted an outpouring of public praise. Id. at [illegible].

259 The lower-case i in AiA distinguished its abbreviation from AIA, which denotes the American Institute of Architects, founded in the nineteenth century. As detailed in Chapter [illegible], the AIA successfully pressed Congress to authorize private architects to obtain commissions for public buildings. By [illegible], AIA had more than [illegible],[illegible] members. See AIA, History of the American Institute of Architects, http://www.aia.org. The parallelism of the abbreviations and the smaller i nicely capture that art is nested in the architecture.

260 See, for example, [illegible] C.F.R. [illegible] [illegible]-[illegible].[illegible] ([illegible]) ("What basic Art-in-Architecture policy governs Federal agencies?"). Gandhi estimated that the GSA spent about [illegible] million on art between [illegible] and [illegible] and that the value of those objects grew to more than [illegible] million. Gandhi at [illegible]. In [illegible] the GSA decided to fund projects at .[illegible] percent, hoping that donors from the community would also lend support. GSA Policy Manual, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], GSA archives. Solomon, who had been a developer before serving as Administrator of the GSA from [illegible] to [illegible], described his commitment to reinvigorating the Art-in-Architecture program as a way to make federal buildings "warm, open and inviting" in contrast to the cold, gloomy, sterile shells which characterized federal architecture a few years ago. "[illegible] Art in Architecture" [illegible] Hearing Before the Subcommittee on Civil Service and General Services of the Senate Committee on Governmental Affairs, [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] ([illegible]) (Statement of Jay Solomon, Administrator, GSA) (hereinafter "Art in Architecture Sept. [illegible] Hearing"). He therefore reinstated the half-percent allotment, expanded its application to include renovations, and "expanded the types of work acceptable for commission to include virtually every imaginable form of visual media." Id. at [illegible].

Wetenhall, at [illegible], credited "economic pressures of the Vietnam War" as the reason for ending the set-aside in [illegible]. Upon its revival, Wetenhall saw the program as providing the "major vehicle for commissioning modern public sculpture" in the [illegible]s and [illegible]s. Wetenhall at [illegible]. See also Donald W. Thalacker, The Place of Art in the World of Architecture (New York, NY: Chelsea House Publishers, [illegible]).

261 See Memorandum for Regional Administrators from Kenneth R. Kimbrough, Commissioner of Public Building Service, Revised Art-in-Architecture Procedures, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. There GSA created new funding criteria to offer a "sliding scale of funding from zero to two percent based upon the architectural design of a building, its location, and community interest and participation." Id. at [illegible]. In addition to commissions, the government also accepted donations. GSA Modernism at [illegible].

262 Jo Ann Lewis, Don't Laugh: [illegible] Your Money [illegible] S[illegible] Spends Millions on Public Art, But Many Don't Want It, Washington Post, Oct. [illegible], [illegible] (hereinafter Lewis, Don't Laugh), reproduced in "Art in Architecture" Hearing on [illegible] and [illegible] Before the Subcommittee on Public Buildings and Grounds of the [illegible] Committee on Public Works and Transportation, [illegible]th Cong. [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter "Art in Architecture Nov. [illegible] Hearing").

263 Marilyn Farley worked tirelessly on the art selection processes and helped to bring distinguished architects and artists into the program. As Farley explained, one could not keep giving awards to Cass Gilbert, who had designed the Supreme Court in the [illegible]s. See Laura Fisher Kaiser, The Weiner Thing, [illegible] Interior Design [illegible] (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]).

264 Telephone interview with Jenny Holzer (Nov. [illegible], [illegible]). As Harrison explained, the commissions were "more conservative than the art world would like" but the federal "clients" thought them "cutting-edge." As she commented, "If I'm getting beaten up by the clients and by the art world, I'm in the right place." Bob Berstein, Public Exchange, July [illegible], [illegible], Riverfront Times, www.riverfronttimes.com/[illegible]-[illegible]-[illegible]/news/public-exchange. That story focused on the selection of artist Mary Miss for the design of a park adjacent to the St. Louis courthouse and how that plan was "vastly different from the statues and monolithic sculptures of the past." Id.

265 Lewis, Don't Laugh.

266 Wetenhall at [illegible].

267 GSA AiA Archives; GSA Policy Manual, Nov. [illegible], [illegible].

268 See "Art in Architecture Nov. [illegible] Hearing" at [illegible] (Testimony of the Hon. James Abdnor, U.S. House of Representatives).

269 "Art in Architecture Nov. [illegible] Hearing" at [illegible] (reproducing Lewis, Don't Laugh). The sculpture remained in front of the Hubert H. Humphrey Federal Building; conservation efforts in [illegible] restored paint and cleaned the dirt off the wood poles. Other examples of public distress are addressed in Judith H. Balfe and Margaret J. Wyszomirski, Public Art and Public Policy, [illegible] Journal of Arts Management and Law [illegible] (Winter, [illegible]) (detailing, for example, the conflict over the "Tilted Arc" by Richard Serra, and discussed in Chapter [illegible]).

270 See H.R. [illegible], amending sec. illegible([illegible]) of the Public Buildings Act of [illegible], in "Art in Architecture Nov. [illegible] Hearing" at [illegible]. The proposed bill also mandated a set-aside of one-half of [illegible] percent for art as well as the creation of an ad hoc commission for selection for each commission.

271 On the Senate side, the commitment of Joan Mondale, spouse of then–Vice President Walter Mondale, to protecting arts helped to shelter the program. See "Art in Architecture Sept. [illegible] Hearing" at [illegible]–[illegible] (Statement of Joan Mondale, Chair, Federal Council on the Arts and Humanities).

272 File memo (Joint GSA-NEA Task Force on the AiA Program [illegible] January [illegible]), GSA AiA Archives.

273 GSA AiA Archives, File Memo.

274 Gandhi at [illegible]–[illegible]; file memos of Sept. [illegible], [illegible] and May [illegible], GSA AiA Archives (noting that the GSA and NEA had severed their ties to this program).

275 See GSA, Art-in-Architecture Program Procedures [illegible]–[illegible] (Feb. [illegible]), GSA AiA Archives; Gandhi at [illegible]–[illegible].

276 See GSA, Art-in-Architecture Program Procedures [illegible] (Feb. [illegible]). See also the Public Buildings Cooperative Use Act of [illegible] ([illegible] U.S.C. [illegible], recodified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] ([illegible])), requiring the GSA to encourage and cooperate with localities to enable cultural improvements for the public. Thus the GSA invited "five art professionals and five community representatives" [illegible] called the Community Arts Panel [illegible] including one from the "client agency" to join the project architect in making recommendations. File memo, GSA AiA Archives.

The group members were "to represent a variety of viewpoints and perspectives" and at their first meeting they were told about the "architectural design" [illegible] in other words, the sites in which art might sit. Three meetings took place [illegible] to review portfolios, to recommend a selection to the Commissioner of Public Buildings (who made the final decision), and to evaluate the concept. File memo, Art-in-Architecture, GSA AiA Archives. See also Memorandum for Regional Administrators from Milton Herson, Commissioner, Subject Art-in-Architecture Program Procedures, July [illegible], [illegible]. Those procedures were revised again in [illegible] to incorporate a "new focus and flexibility." Memorandum for Regional Administrators from Kenneth R. Kimbrough, Subject Revised Art-in-Architecture Procedures, Feb. [illegible], [illegible] (hereinafter Kimbrough Memorandum).

277 [illegible] C.F.R. [illegible] [illegible]-[illegible].[illegible] ([illegible]). The procedures and regulations for AiA are detailed through memoranda to the regions of the GSA.

278 See, for example, Kimbrough Memorandum at [illegible].

279 Undated talking notes, GSA, AiA Archives.

280 See presentation by Celeste Bremer and Richard Gilyard, Art in Courthouses: Implications of the Government as Client, Sixth Annual International Conference on Court Design for the AIA (unpaginated).

281 Memorandum, Women and Ethnic Minorities Commissioned through the Art-in-Architecture Program (last updated Mar. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), GSA, AiA Archives. As of that date, commissions went to sixty-six women (two women had more than one commission); fifteen African-Americans (including two women; two men had more than one commission); three Asians (including one woman); eight Hispanics, of whom one was female (one of the men had three commissions); and six Native Americans, of whom one was a woman.

282 Changes to the Art-in-Architecture Program, Memorandum for Regional Administrators from Robert A. Peck, Commissioner of Public Building Services, August ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, GSA AiA Archives. This memo followed one of March ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (with the same title) that had explained the concern about an insufficient ⍰integration of the art and design⍰ of federal buildings, the process through which GSA had convened a national workshop at the headquarters of the AIA, and the shift in composition of panels. The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ memorandum raised concerns that in some GSA regions contacts with the AiA staff were not made promptly enough after designs were underway and that funds for art were being paid to architectural and/or engineering firms. See also Robert A. Peck, Memorandum for Assistant Regional Administrators, Revised Art-in-Architecture Program Guidelines, Dec. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, GSA AiA Archives.

283 II Vision ⍰ Voice at ⍰. The changes took place in ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

284 See, for example, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Facilities Standards, GSA, Appendix A.⍰, New Construction and Modernizations, http://www.gsa.gov/Portal/gsa/ep/contentView.do⍰contentType⍰GSA⍰BASIC⍰contentId⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰noc⍰T.

285 The program, noted in Chapter ⍰, was called ⍰Images of Justice⍰ It traveled around the country, exhibited in courthouses as well as at events like the Fifth International Conference on Justice Design. Some of the imagery can be found in a flyer available from the District of Missouri Court website at www.moed.uscourts.gov/community/ImagesOfJustice.pdf. As many works were from an earlier era, materials were provided by Fine Arts Collection of the GSA, which deals with ⍰more than ⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰ paintings, sculpture, architectural or environmental works of art and graphics dating from the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s⍰ on federal buildings. The other curatorial program, Art-in-Architecture, is focused on newly purchased or commissioned materials. See General Services Administration, Contributing to America's Architectural and Artistic Legacy: Design Excellence in Arts (Washington, DC: GSA, undated monograph).

286 ⍰⍰ C.F.R. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰.⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (⍰What basic Art-in-Architecture policy governs Federal agencies⍰⍰).

287 ⍰⍰ C.F.R. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰.⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (⍰Who funds the Art-in-Architecture efforts⍰⍰).

288 ⍰⍰ C.F.R. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰.⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (⍰With whom should Federal agencies collaborate with when commissioning and selecting art for Federal buildings⍰⍰).

289 ⍰⍰ C.F.R. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰.⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

290 ⍰⍰ C.F.R. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰.⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (⍰Do Federal agencies have responsibilities to provide national visibility for Art-in-Architecture⍰⍰).

291 AiA Contextual History at ⍰ (quoting New ⍰ork Times art critic Grace Glueck).

292 An Oklahoma Tribute: Art Collection from the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter An Oklahoma Tribute), http://www.gsa.gov/graphics/pbs/Oklahoma⍰Tribute⍰FINAL.pdf.

293 An Oklahoma Tribute at ⍰.

294 An Oklahoma Tribute at ⍰–⍰, ⍰.

295 An Oklahoma Tribute at ⍰.

296 ⍰ klahoma ⍰ uilt by Terry Mangat; ⍰ ⍰allen ⍰ ak Tree by James Strickland; and ⍰il by William Scott, in An Oklahoma Tribute at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰, and ⍰⍰.

297 Tom Otterness was born in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ in Wichita, Kansas, and worked a good deal in New York City. His work is sometimes described as ⍰consumer realism⍰ or ⍰capitalist realism⍰ in that he often deals with the mix of popular culture, media, government, and bureaucracy. See generally, Judith Collins, Sculpture Today ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (London, Eng.: Phaidon Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). In addition to the installation in the federal courthouse in Portland, Otterness has sculptures in federal courthouses in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and in Los Angeles and Sacramento, California. Those installations are called ⍰ockman (⍰⍰⍰⍰), The New World (⍰⍰⍰⍰), and ⍰old ⍰ush (⍰⍰⍰⍰), respectively.

298 Jenny Holzer was born in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and studied in Ohio and at the Rhode Island School of Design before moving to New York. Our thanks to Jenny Holzer and Alanna Gedgaudas for providing information as well as permission to use the photograph of figure ⍰⍰⍰ and to Susan Harrison for her assistance in learning about Ms. Holzer's installations in federal courthouses.

299 Hayden Herrera, Tom Otterness, catalogue for James Corcoran Gallery and Brooke Alexander Gallery shows, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (unpaginated).

300 Herrera at ⍰. Otterness moved to New York to study art. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰ he helped to found Colab with Jenny Holzer and Kiki Smith. See Vince Carducci, Tom ⍰tterness, Pu⍰lic ⍰rt and the Civic ⍰deal in the Postmodern ⍰⍰e, ⍰⍰ Sculpture ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

301 Herrera at ⍰.

302 Herrera at ⍰.

303 Carducci at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

304 Herrera at ⍰.

305 Carducci at ⍰⍰.

306 Carducci at ⍰⍰.

307 Carducci at ⍰⍰.

308 Elisabeth Mahoney, Sa⍰ it loud, sa⍰ it proud, Guardian (London) Features, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰. Discussions of Holzer's work, displayed around the world, cite the innovations of her provocations. See Lisa Milne, Jenn⍰ ⍰ o⍰er⍰ ettin⍰ the Word ⍰ut, Daily Yomiuri, Aug. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰.

309 Robert Hughes, ⍰ Sampler of Witless Truisms, Time, July ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰, http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/⍰,⍰⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰-⍰,⍰⍰.html. Praise for that installation came from art critic Arthur Danto, Jenn⍰ ⍰ o⍰er, The Nation, Feb. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰⍰: ⍰⍰⍰t is difficult to think of a more appropriate artistic emissary, for hers is in every sense state-of-the-art art and a symbolic condensation of our national culture⍰ up-to-the minute in technology, populist in format, moralistic in tone⍰ Id. See also Grace Glueck, ⍰nd Now, ⍰ ⍰ew Words from Jenn⍰ ⍰ o⍰er, New York Times, Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, sec. ⍰ at ⍰⍰.

310 See David Joselit, ⍰oices, Bodies and Spaces⍰The ⍰rt of Jenn⍰ ⍰ o⍰er, in Jenny Holzer ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (David Joselit, Joan Simon, ⍰ Renata Salecl, eds., London, Eng.: Phaidon Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰); Gordon Hughes, Power⍰ Script, or Jenn⍰ ⍰ o⍰er⍰ ⍰rt after ⍰⍰rt after Philosoph⍰, ⍰⍰ Oxford Art Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Daniel Makagon, ⍰ccidents Should ⍰appen⍰Cultural Disruption throu⍰h ⍰lternative Media, ⍰⍰ Journal of Communication Policy ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Patrick Flynn, Jenn⍰ ⍰ o⍰er⍰⍰rtist, The Progressive (Apr. ⍰⍰⍰⍰) at ⍰⍰.

311 Danto, Jenn⍰ ⍰ o⍰er at ⍰⍰⍰.

312 Danto, Jenn⍰ ⍰ o⍰er at ⍰⍰⍰.

313 Hughes, Power⍰ Script at ⍰⍰⍰.

314 Hal Foster, Recodings: Art, Spectacle, Cultural Politics ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (Port Townsend, WA: Bay Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

315 Both artists can be understood on some dimensions to be radical. In Foster's discussion of postmodern art, for example, he addressed Holzer's work in a chapter titled ⊠Subversive Signs.⊠ Foster at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

316 See Daniel Grant, Bland ⊠rt in ⊠ver⊠ Pot, The Nation, Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

317 Our thanks to Tom Otterness, Laurie Black, and Michael Mathers and Tom Otterness Studio for providing materials, information, interviews, and the photographs in figures ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ and permission to use them, and to Susan Harrison for her assistance in enabling us to interview Mr. Otterness. The courthouse, opened in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, was designed by Kohn Pedersen Fox Associates of New York in conjunction with BOORA Architects Inc. of Portland, Oregon. A pamphlet by the GSA reproduces some of the artwork by Otterness and others. The lobby features water sculptures, the ⊠ cean of Thou⊠ht and Portland Water ⊠eil, by Eric Orr; on the sixteenth floor is a series by Judith Poxson Fawkles called ⊠our Linen Tapestries that includes a woven topographical map of Oregon, a figure of Justice, a scene of the Oregon environment, and another scene of the state's judicial heritage. See U.S. Courthouse, Portland, Oregon: Art in Architecture (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, undated).

The building, costing almost ⊠⊠⊠⊠ million, rises ⊠⊠⊠ feet and, thereby, ⊠lords over that city's government district⊠ See Aaron Betsky, Search for Justice, Architecture, Nov. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠⊠. The sixteen floors encompass ⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ square feet and provide fifteen courtrooms. The building has received mixed reviews, with praise for its efficiency but criticism for exuding ⊠a sense of enigma, rather than monumentality⊠ Betsky at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Betsky found ⊠too few historical or visceral cues to trigger memories of or associations with the exercise of justice⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. The courthouse is named after Mark Hatfield, who was governor of the state before serving from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠ in the United States Senate, where he chaired its Committee on Appropriations from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ until his retirement in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. See Mark O. Hatfield, Against the Grain: Reflections of a Rebel Republican ⊠⊠⊠ (Ashland, OR: White Cloud Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

318 The serpent could be seen as a reference to the snake in the Garden of Eden⊠ proposing the receipt of illicit knowledge. Documentation on the imagery can be found in GSA/Public Building Service, Fine Art Collection, AA ⊠⊠⊠, GSA Archives (hereinafter GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness). The archives also record that Otterness received ⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ for the work.

319 Best of Portland, Willamette Week, http://wweek.com/html/bop⊠⊠-fresh.html (citing a description by Otterness).

320 Grace Glueck, Makin⊠ Pu⊠lic Sculpture⊠⊠ ow a ⊠ision ⊠inds ⊠orm, New York Times, Feb. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at E⊠⊠.

321 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness.

322 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness.

323 In Court of Tom Otterness, posted by pdxart under ⊠Sculpture⊠ Oct. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at Portland Public Art, www.portlandpublicart.wordpress.com.

324 Carducci at ⊠⊠.

325 Robin Cembalest, Pu⊠lic Sculpture the Pu⊠lic Likes, ⊠eal⊠, New York Times, Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, sec. ⊠ at ⊠⊠.

326 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Letter from John A. Meadows, Principal Architect, to Tom Otterness (July ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), describing the views of the Honorable Malcolm Marsh. The judge urged Otterness not to use a sketch that had made very plain the courtroom scene.

327 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness.

328 Tom Kenworthy, The ⊠ wl and the Lum⊠er⊠ack⊠Can Clinton Break the Lo⊠⊠am⊠⊠ re⊠on Conference Tests ⊠⊠ilit⊠ to ⊠econcile ⊠co⊠nomic, ⊠colo⊠ical Needs, Washington Post, Apr. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at A⊠.

329 Telephone interview with Tom Otterness (Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

330 Herrera at ⊠.

331 GSA/Public Building Service, Fine Art Collection, AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness (hereinafter GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness).

332 Gale Holland, ⊠*adical ⊠rt or Simpl⊠⊠evoltin⊠⊠*The Outlook at A⊠. See also Tom Finkelpearl, Cau⊠ht in the Middle, ⊠⊠ Public Art Review ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

333 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness.

334 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness.

335 Laurie Becklund, ⊠S⊠ Pulls Nude ⊠rt ⊠rom ⊠ederal Buildin⊠, Los Angeles Times, Dec. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at B⊠. See also Nudes ⊠emoved, USA Today, Dec. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠A. Holland also noted that a ⊠smaller version⊠ of the ⊠girl baby floating with her legs apart in a mist fountain and holding up a globe⊠ sat ⊠unchallenged⊠ at the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York City.

336 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, letter from Edwin W. Thomas, Regional Administrator of the GSA, to Tom Otterness (Dec. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Removed were ⊠a nude squatting woman and a baby girl lying on her back, legs open, holding a globe⊠ See Nudes ⊠emoved; Becklund, ⊠S⊠ Pulls Nude ⊠rt ⊠rom ⊠ederal Buildin⊠.

337 Laurie Becklund, Bradle⊠⊠ r⊠es ⊠einstatement of Nude Sculp⊠tures at Buildin⊠, Los Angeles Times, December ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at B⊠.

338 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Joint Statement of GSA and Tom Otterness, Otterness Sculpture, Los Angeles Federal Center, Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠. See also Holland.

339 Herrera at ⊠. GSA memos added that Otterness had not started ⊠yelling about artistic integrity at the mere mention of concerns about his work. In that situation, he actually seemed⊠ all in all⊠ quite rational and flexible⊠ Email from GSA staff (May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), in GSA/Public Building Service, Fine Art Collection, AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, GSA Archives (hereinafter GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness).

340 Cembalest, Pu⊠lic Sculpture.

341 See GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Artist Proposal Meeting ⊠ Tom Otterness, U.S. Courthouse, Sacramento, CA, Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Sacramento Project Proposal ⊠⊠⊠⊠). At that meeting the nine-member panel came together with representatives from the GSA, the architects, and others to review the proposal for the theme that the meeting memo called ⊠the imbalance of the moneyed figures playing against a side with only pawns⊠ Id. at ⊠.

342 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Sacramento Project Proposal ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠.

343 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Sacramento Project Proposal ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠.

344 Carducci at ⊠⊠.

345 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Sacramento Project Proposal ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠. The judge was joined in that sentiment by the representative of one of California's senators. Id.

346 Cembalest, Pu⊠lic Sculpture. Otterness is quoted as having said, ⊠My philosophy is to try to yield to every request so that the work can survive and end up in public. . . . Then an active debate can happen⊠ Id. In ⊠⊠⊠⊠ discussion had been focused on modifying the chess set design. See GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Sacramento Project Proposal ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠.

347 GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Revised Proposal, U.S. Courthouse, Sacramento, CA, May ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Discussed was a new version of the chess board; while some were receptive, the judge on the committee thought the work not readily understood.

348 Cembalest, Pu⊠lic Sculpture. Otterness explained the proposal to the district court's chief judge as ⊠a series of historical vignettes inspired by their connection to the Sacramento and American rivers⊠ and hence to ⊠local history⊠; he planned to play ⊠with the conventions of ⊠Western' art⊠ by ⊠using the gold rush as a central element⊠ GSA Archives/AA ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Letter from Otterness to Chief Judge Robert E. Coyle (Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Otterness noted that the outcome of the review process⊠ which had been ⊠protracted, and at times discouraging⊠⊠ was artwork that ⊠better reflects the community for whom it is commissioned⊠ Id. at ⊠.

349 See Art for the United States Courthouse, Sacramento, California (U.S. General Services Administration, undated and unpaginated monograph, hereinafter Sacramento Courthouse Art), "Tom Otterness" section.

350 Sacramento Courthouse Art, "Marking History" and "Daniel Galvez" sections. That acrylic mural included the state capitol's dome, the ceiling of a Chinese temple, and many family groups in Chinese garb. Another collage, by Tony Berlant, is titled In this spot stood the first Chinese Settlement in Sacramento, reflecting that the courthouse occupied blocks where Chinese immigrants had once lived. Id., "Tony Berlant" section. A geometric painting, China Pattern, by Deborah Oropallo, "pays homage to the more than [illegible] Chinese laborers whose unremitting perseverance and courage permitted the completion of the Transcontinental Railroad" in [illegible]. Id., "Deborah Oropallo" section. Another mixed-media painting, Dream within a Dream: In Honor of the Pacific Asian Pioneers, by George Miyasaki, also aimed to reflect the contributions of the Chinese Gold Rush immigrants, as did Holley Junker's quilt Chinadom. Id., "George Miyasaki" and "Holley Junker" sections.

351 Sacramento Courthouse Art, "Making History" and "Jack Nielsen" sections.

352 GSA/Public Building Service, Fine Art Collection, AA [illegible] Holzer, GSA Archives (hereinafter GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer), Allentown Benches: Selection from Truisms & Survival Series, [illegible], for the Edward N. Cahn Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse, Allentown Pennsylvania. The artist was paid [illegible]. The benches, seventeen by eighteen by sixty inches, were eventually placed in several locations; two are in the main-floor lobby, four in a lobby near a courtroom on the third floor, and eight along windows of the courtroom lobby on the fourth floor.

353 Grant, Bland Art. See also Steven J. Tepper, "Unfamiliar Objects in Familiar Places: The Public Response to Art in Architecture," International Journal of Cultural Policy [illegible] ([illegible]).

354 Grant, Bland Art.

355 Grant, Bland Art. Other deletions included "Fathers often use too much force" and "Change is valuable when the oppressed become tyrants." See GSA/Public Building Service, Fine Art Collection, AA [illegible] Holzer, GSA Archives (hereinafter GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer), for the Robert T. Matsui U.S. Courthouse, [illegible] Street, Sacramento, California (GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer).

356 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, unpaginated memo to "reviewers" from Dale M. Lanzone, GSA Director, Cultural and Environmental Affairs. A list of "proposed" and "alternative" texts followed, with substitutions detailed.

357 Tepper at [illegible].

358 The building was named after Representative Matsui, a California Democrat who had represented Sacramento in Congress and had, as an infant, been interned in detention camps set up during World War II for Japanese Americans. Adam Bernstein, Obituary, Robert T. Matsui, Washington Post, Jan. [illegible], [illegible] at B[illegible]. See H.R. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]); S. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]). The courthouse, sited on three acres in downtown Sacramento, included property owned by the city that had been used to maintain and fuel its cars and trucks, and required a cleanup to remove the wastes that remained. See Brownfield Revitalization: Success Story, Federal Courthouse, Sacramento County, April [illegible], State of California, Department of Toxic Substances Control, http://www.dtsc.ca.gov/Success/upload/Federal-courthouse.pdf. Involving more than [illegible] million and producing a building of more than [illegible] square feet, it was "the largest construction project" in that city's history. Id. See also GSA, Public Building Service, Record of Decision: New United States Courthouse-Federal Building in Sacramento, CA, [illegible] Fed. Reg. [illegible]–[illegible] (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]). Details of the proposal by Holzer are available in GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, for the Robert T. Matsui U.S. Courthouse, [illegible] Street, Sacramento, CA.

359 The two benches in the main first-floor lobby each had five lines from Survival; examples included "USE WHAT IS DOMINANT IN A CULTURE TO CHANGE IT QUICKLY" and "GO WHERE PEOPLE SLEEP AND SEE IF THEY ARE SAFE." On each of the other twelve benches, seven lines from Truisms were included. For example, Bench [illegible] had texts such as "BEING ALONE WITH YOURSELF IS INCREASINGLY UNPOPULAR" and "BEING JUDGMENTAL IS A SIGN OF LIFE." Email from Alanna Gedgaudas of Jenny Holzer's Studio to Judith Resnik (Nov. [illegible], [illegible]).

360 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, Art-in-Architecture Program Meeting: Jenny Holzer, U.S. Courthouse, Sacramento, CA, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], Minutes at [illegible]. The AiA central staff member, Susan Harrison, both summarized the project and quoted some of Holzer's submission statement (hereinafter [illegible] Sacramento Proposal Meeting). In attendance were committee members from the GSA panel, which included one federal judge from that court as well as four other federal district judges and several other staff members from the GSA, and Tom Otterness, who had also submitted a proposal. Holzer was not on the list of attendees at this meeting.

361 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, [illegible] Sacramento Proposal Meeting at [illegible].

362 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, [illegible] Sacramento Proposal Meeting at [illegible]. In the minutes, summarizing views, speakers are also sometimes quoted; hence our text preceding this has internal quotes when appropriate.

363 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, [illegible] Sacramento Proposal Meeting at [illegible].

364 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, [illegible] Sacramento Proposal Meeting at [illegible].

365 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, Art Statement (draft, Dec. [illegible], [illegible]).

366 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, email from Kenn Kojima to Susan Harrison and Esther Timberlake (Apr. [illegible], [illegible]) describing an exchange with the federal district judge (David Levi) who tried to mediate the differences and who informed the GSA staffers of the opposition from some jurists.

367 Steve Wiegand, New Federal Courthouse's Artworks Much Deliberated, Sacramento Bee, Jan. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible].

368 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, email from Kenn Kojima to Susan Harrison and Esther Timberlake (Apr. [illegible], [illegible]).

369 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, email from GSA staff Kenn Kojima to Susan Harrison and Esther Timberlake (Apr. [illegible], [illegible]) describing Judge Levi's comments.

370 GSA Archives/AA [illegible] Holzer, email from GSA staff Kenn Kojima of April [illegible], [illegible] describing Judge Levi's comments.

371 Memorandum from Dec. [illegible], [illegible], provided by Alanna Gedgaudas of Jenny Holzer's studio, Dec. [illegible], [illegible]. The phrases were authored, respectively, by Derek Bok, "Flawed System," Harvard Magazine, May–June [illegible]; George Chapman and Henry Glapthorne, Revenge for Honour: A Tragedie ([illegible]); and Catharine MacKinnon, "Feminism, Marxism, Method, and the State: Toward Feminist Jurisprudence," Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society, Spring [illegible].

372 United States v. Ramsinowitz, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (Frankfurter, J., dissenting). Justice Frankfurter, joined by Justice Jackson, disagreed with the majority that had upheld a search of a printer alleged to be forging postal stamps. The dissent argued that, while the arrest was lawful, no circumstances justified the warrantless search. Though the defendant was a "shabby defrauder," the context entailed the "great themes expressed by the Fourth Amendment." Id.

373 Sacramento Courthouse Art, "Jenny Holzer" section. Figure [illegible] is reproduced with permission of and provided by Jenny Holzer and Artists Rights Society, New York, NY.

374 Sacramento Courthouse Art, "Jenny Holzer" section. In addition to complimenting in the sense of praise, the works may also complement, in the sense of enhance, each other, atop the tensions and contradictions.

375 Sacramento Paver Texts provided by the Holzer studio on Nov. ☒, ☒☒☒☒.

376 GSA Archives/AA ☒☒☒ Holzer, email from GSA staff member Esther Timberlake (Mar. ☒☒, ☒☒☒☒).

377 Memorandum from Dec. ☒☒, ☒☒☒☒, provided by Alanna Gedgaudas of Jenny Holzer's studio, Dec. ☒☒, ☒☒☒☒.

378 ☒ederal Power Commission v☒Tuscarora ☒ndian Nation, ☒☒☒ U.S. ☒☒, ☒☒☒ (☒☒☒☒) (Black, J., dissenting). The majority upheld the taking, with compensation, of land owned by the tribe for a hydroelectric power project related to the Niagara River. Justice Black, joined by Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas, disagreed with the view that a federal statute had authorized the taking of ☒☒☒☒ (☒,☒☒☒ acres) of the single tract which the Tuscarora Indian Nation has owned and occupied as its homeland for ☒☒☒ years☒☒☒☒ U.S. at ☒☒☒.

379 Sacramento Paver texts provided by the Holzer studio.

380 Words to Live B☒, Sacramento Bee, Jan. ☒☒, ☒☒☒☒, at B☒ (caption to a photograph of the paver).

381 ☒S☒ Sacramento Courthouse ☒rt, ☒Larry Kirkland☒ section.

382 ☒S☒ Sacramento Courthouse ☒rt, ☒Larry Kirkland☒ section. In ☒☒☒☒ Dove became the youngest person and first African American to hold the position of Poet Laureate of the United States. Id., ☒Rita Dove☒ section.

383 Mary Lynne Vellinga, Makin☒ People Think☒☒ver☒one ☒s a Critic When ☒rt ☒s Pu☒lic, Sacramento Bee, Dec. ☒☒, ☒☒☒☒, at A☒.

384 Vellinga, Makin☒ People Think☒

385 Vellinga, Makin☒ People Think☒

386 Tepper at ☒☒☒.

387 The GSA instructed Mitchell to cease all work on the sculpture. Letter from Lydia Ortiz, Contracting Officer, Public Buildings Service, to Jan R. Mitchell (Oct. ☒☒, ☒☒☒☒) (on file with author).

388 J☒rgen Habermas, Between Facts and Norms (trans. William Rehg, Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ☒☒☒☒).

389 GSA's Design Excellence Program received a ☒☒☒☒ National Design Award from the Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum and a ☒☒☒☒ Keystone Award from the American Architectural Foundation.

390 Examples include an Honor Award for an installation called Jurisprudents in the Melvin Price U.S. Courthouse in East St. Louis, Illinois; sculptors Ralph Helmick and Stuart Schechter did ☒☒☒ life-size portraits of ordinary American citizens☒ and made heads (☒each with its own unique details and expression☒) that were then scaled down and suspended on hundreds of cables, resulting in ☒,☒☒☒ ☒small sculptures☒ that coalesced into ☒two monumental heads facing each other across the skylit courthouse atrium☒ See U.S. General Services Administration, Desi☒n ☒wards☒☒☒☒ ☒ward Winners at ☒☒, http://www.gsa.gov/graphics/pbs/DABook☒☒☒☒lo.pdf. The GSA awarded a citation to ☒rns of Justice, by Diana Moore, for its integration of two design traditions☒ the image of Justice blindfolded and the use of urns or vessels as ornamentation. Id. at ☒☒. The ☒☒☒☒ GSA monograph also detailed the accomplishments of the Design Awards Program, then ten years old. Id. at ☒–☒.

391 See Michael Z. Wise, ☒pen to the Pu☒lic, Art News, June ☒☒☒☒, at ☒☒☒, ☒☒☒.

392 GSA/AA Archives include materials on such abandoned proposals. Commentators on the processes have also noted the efforts made to ☒avoid confrontation art☒ See Wise at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒.

393 Amy Weinstein in II Vision ☒ Voice at ☒☒.

394 Betsky at ☒☒☒. Betsky further concluded that the Hatfield Courthouse in Portland provided ☒too few historical or visceral cues to trigger memories of or associations with the exercise of justice☒ Id. Because the building ☒neither looms nor soars☒ and the artworks are ☒add-ons☒ it left ☒questions over the image of justice in our cities unanswered☒ Id.

395 See generally Barbara A. Nadel, Desi☒nin☒ for Securit☒, Architectural Record, Mar. ☒☒☒☒, http://archrecord.construction.com/resources/conteduc/archives/research/☒☒☒☒☒☒.asp.

396 ☒☒☒☒ ☒uture of the ☒ederal Courthouse Construction Pro☒ram ☒ earin☒s, Commissioner Winstead Statement at ☒☒☒, ☒☒☒.

397 ☒☒☒☒ ☒uture of the ☒ederal Courthouse Construction Pro☒ram ☒ earin☒s, Commissioner Winstead Statement at ☒☒☒.

398 Frank Green, The ☒na☒e of the Courthouse, in Celebrating the Courthouse at ☒☒.

399 This phrase appears in several of the monographs that the GSA has published to document many of the late twentieth-century federal courthouses. Under the heading ☒Art-in-Architecture☒ toward the end of each booklet, the GSA comments: ☒Art has always been an important feature of great architecture☒ as a preface to a description of the art in a particular courthouse. See, for example, Roman L. Hruska United States Courthouse, Omaha, Nebraska ☒☒ (Ne☒raska ☒ rilles by Stephen Robin) (Washington, DC: GSA, ☒☒☒☒); United States Courthouse and Federal Building, Central Islip, New York ☒☒ (☒ntitled Sculpture☒Landscape Pro☒ect by Elyn Zimmerman) (Washington, DC: GSA, ☒☒☒☒); Carl B. Stokes United States Courthouse, Cleveland, Ohio ☒☒–☒☒ (Cleveland ☒enus by Jim Dine) (Washington, DC: GSA, ☒☒☒☒); Robert C. Byrd United States Courthouse and Federal Building, Beckley, West Virginia ☒☒–☒☒ (Trompe l☒eil Murals by Richard Haas) (Washington, DC: GSA, ☒☒☒☒); Robert C. Byrd United States Courthouse, Charleston, West Virginia ☒☒–☒☒ (Untitled ☒Architectural Glass☒ by David Wilson) (Washington, DC: GSA, ☒☒☒☒).

400 Paul Spencer Byard, ☒eadin☒ the ☒rchitecture of Toda☒☒ Court☒house, in Celebrating the Courthouse at ☒☒☒.

401 Wetenhall at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, nn. ☒☒–☒☒ (Kennedy Library materials, from a speech at Amherst College, Oct. ☒☒, ☒☒☒☒). Kennedy's mention of the ☒officious state☒ was a reference to the country's Cold War adversaries.

Chapter ☒☒

1 See Palazzi di Giustizia (Courthouses): ☒☒ Zodiac: International Review of Architecture ☒–☒☒☒ (Sept. ☒☒☒☒–Feb. ☒☒☒☒) (hereinafter ☒☒ Zodiac). This special volume was devoted to courthouses; several articles address major new buildings in Italy as well as courthouses designed by prominent architects in L☒rida, Spain; Jerusalem, Israel; Cordoba, Argentina; Strasbourg, France; and Islip, New York. See also Andrea P. Leers, ☒r☒an Desi☒n and the Courthouse☒ ☒ow Sites Shape Solutions, in Celebrating the Courthouse ☒☒☒–☒☒☒ (Steven Flanders, ed., New York, NY: W. W. Norton, ☒☒☒☒) (hereinafter Leers for the article, Celebrating the Courthouse for the volume).

2 This choice is illustrative, not exhaustive. The relationship between building courts and the political identity of nations in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries has been the subject of scholarship focused on various jurisdictions. See, for example, Terry Rossi Kirk, Church, State and Architecture: The ☒Palazzo di Giustizia☒ of nineteenth-century Rome (Ph.D. dissertation, Columbia U., New York, NY, ☒☒☒☒, UMI Publication No.: AAT ☒☒☒☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒☒). Kirk examined how courthouse construction in other European countries affected the design for the Roman Palazzo di Giustizia. Id. at ☒☒–☒☒. As he noted, ☒foreign influences in architecture paralleled political alliances☒ Id at ☒☒.

3 See Judicial Conference of the United States, Lon☒☒an☒e Plan for the ☒ederal Courts (Dec. ☒☒☒☒), reprinted in ☒☒☒ Federal Rules Decision ☒☒ (☒☒☒☒).

4 In France, as detailed in this chapter, a long-term planning program begun in the late ☒☒☒☒s reviewed hundreds of sites of courthouses and found them wanting. See ☒nterview with ☒en☒ ☒ladari, Director of the Ministr☒ of Justice Lon☒ Term Plannin☒ Pro☒ram (hereinafter Eladari Interview), in Construire pour la Justice, special edition of Architecture intérieure Crée, Archicrée ☒☒☒–☒☒☒ (May–June ☒☒☒☒) (English synopsis) (volume cited hereinafter Archicrée [illegible]). The publication included materials from the conference [illegible]Palais de justice: H[illegible]ritages et projets[illegible] (Courthouses: Legacies and Projects), organized by the Association Fran[illegible]aise pour l'histoire de la justice (French Association for Judicial History) and the Centre de recherches sur l'histoire de l'art et l'architecture moderne (Center for Research on the History of Art and Modern Architecture) of the Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique (National Center for Scientific Research), Paris, Jan. [illegible].

5 Todd S. Phillips, Courthouse Desi[illegible]n at a Crossroads, in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible]–[illegible].

6 See Pew Center on the States, One in [illegible]: The Long Reach of American Corrections (Washington, DC: The Pew Charitable Trusts, Mar. [illegible]), http://www.pewcenteronthestates.org/uploadedFiles/PSPP[illegible]in[illegible]report[illegible]FINAL[illegible]WEB[illegible]-[illegible]-[illegible].pdf.

7 Giorgio Muratore, Law Courts in the Modern Cit[illegible], [illegible] Zodiac [illegible], [illegible]. He argued that some buildings of the mid-twentieth century had produced a [illegible]silence of form[illegible] but that Oscar Niemeyer's Supreme Federal Tribunal in Brasilia (fig. [illegible]/[illegible]), along with Louis Kahn's design of the High Court in Dhaka and Le Corbusier's building in Chandigarh, marked the rejection of the [illegible]indifferent, monolithic and monumental verticality of the skyscraper[illegible] typified by Mies van der Rohe's federal courthouse in Chicago. Id.

8 Muratore at [illegible]. In his view, new constitutions provided justice as the [illegible]cornerstone[illegible] of modern states that, in turn, relied on courts to provide a [illegible]forceful, communicative modern state image[illegible] through large-scale public architecture. Id.

9 Don Hardenbergh, The Courthouse: A Planning and Design Guide for Court Facilities [illegible] (Williamsburg, VA: National Center for State Courts, American Institute of Architects, Conference of State Court Administrators, National Center for Juvenile Justice, [illegible] American Bar Association, [illegible]) (providing a mockup showing [illegible]present[illegible] and then a larger [illegible]future[illegible] with stacks of files, lines of stick-figure people, and block drawings of courts). In terms of the history of storage needs, the [illegible] [illegible]nnual [illegible]eport of the Judicial Conference of the [illegible]nited States detailed the [illegible],[illegible]-plus cubic feet of court records held in archives, of which more than half came from twenty-nine courts depositing materials in [illegible]. See Annual Report of the Proceedings of the Judicial Conference of the United States [illegible]–[illegible] (Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]).

While many recently built courthouses incorporate some of the new technologies, their buildings provide little by way of evidence that technology may make their spaces obsolete. A concern that the physical boundaries may, to societal detriment, be of lessening import is explored in Linda Mulcahy, The [illegible]n[illegible]earar[illegible]le Li[illegible]ntness of Bein[illegible] Shifts Towards the [illegible]irtual Trial, [illegible] Journal of Law and Society [illegible] ([illegible]).

10 See generally Todd S. Phillips [illegible] Michael A. Griebel, Building Type Basics for Justice Facilities [illegible]–[illegible] (Stephen A. Kliment, series ed., Hoboken, NJ: John Wiley [illegible] Sons, Inc., [illegible]). The [illegible]design and image[illegible] phrase can be found repeatedly in Hardenbergh's book, used when addressing various kinds of work stations. See, for example, Hardenbergh at [illegible] (judge's bench); id. at [illegible] (witness stand); id. at [illegible] (jury box); id. at [illegible] (attorney tables); id. at [illegible] (spectator seating); id. at [illegible] (specialized courtrooms). Standard layouts are not only an artifact of the second half of the twentieth century. On the federal side, several courthouses designed under the Office of the Supervising Architect (discussed in Chapter [illegible]) used similar or identical designs. Further, builders' handbooks published in the nineteenth century included courthouse layouts. See Michael R. Corbett, Continuit[illegible] and Chan[illegible]e in California Courthouse Desi[illegible]n, [illegible], in Courthouses of California: An Illustrated History [illegible]–[illegible] (Ray McDevitt, ed., San Francisco, CA and Berkeley, CA: California Historical Society and Heyday Books, [illegible]).

Planning guides were less common in England because localities shaped their own designs and courts were often [illegible]associated with municipal buildings[illegible] rather than dedicated spaces. Clare Graham, Ordering Law: The Architectural and Social History of the English Law Court to [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible] (Aldershot, Eng.: Ashgate, [illegible]). Particular courthouses, however, served as models. See, e.g., Linda Mulcah[illegible] [illegible]rchitectural Precedent[illegible]The Manchester [illegible]ssi[illegible]e Courts and Monuments to Law in the Mid[illegible]ictorian [illegible]ra, [illegible] King's Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]). Mulcahy argued that the courthouse reflected the emerging status of lawyers able to mark their authority through spatial segregation. Id. at [illegible].

Over the past several decades, standard-setting has intensified with the publication of many design guides for court facilities. In addition to those mentioned earlier, the federal design guides detailed in Chapter [illegible], and the materials developed in France and discussed later in this chapter, examples include the following (in rough chronological order): American Bar Association and the American Institute of Architects Joint Committee on the Design of Courtrooms and Court Facilities, The American Courthouse: Planning and Design for the Judicial Process (Ann Arbor, MI: Edwards Brothers, [illegible]), supplemented with the provision of some fifty examples of layouts of buildings in the United States and Canada in Twenty Years of Courthouse Design Revisited (Chicago, IL: American Bar Association, [illegible]); American Bar Association, Commission on Standards for Judicial Administration, Standards Relating to Trial Courts ([illegible]); Institute of Judicial Administration and American Bar Association, Juvenile Justice Standards: Standards Relating to Architecture of Facilities (Cambridge, MA: Ballinger Publishing, Harper [illegible] Row, [illegible]).

As explored in this chapter, some countries create specifications for particular courthouses while others have design guides. In England and Wales, a guide was published in [illegible]. See Court Standards and Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uide (Department of Constitutional Affairs, U.K., [illegible]); http://www.thenbs.com/PublicationIndex/DocumentSummary.aspx[illegible]PubID[illegible] DocID[illegible] (hereinafter [illegible]n[illegible]lish Courts, [illegible]overnment Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uide). In [illegible], under a reorganization of departments, the work of the Department of Constitutional Affairs was taken over by a new Ministry of Justice. The normative implications of this guide are analyzed in Linda Mulcahy, [illegible]rchitects of Justice[illegible]The Politics of Court[illegible]room Desi[illegible]n, [illegible] Social [illegible] Legal Studies, [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Mulcahy, [illegible]rchitects of Justice). In addition, the World Bank has design guides for court building. See, for example, Philip Gerald Thacker, Components in a Comprehensive Judiciar[illegible]Directed [illegible]acilities Pro[illegible]ram, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], http://siteresources.worldbank.org/INTLAW JUSTINST/Resources/Components.pdf; World Bank, Judicial Modernization Project: Azerbaijan, http://web.worldbank.org/external/projects/main[illegible]pagePK[illegible] piPK[illegible] theSitePK[illegible] [illegible] menuPK[illegible] Projectid[illegible]P[illegible]; World Bank, Model Court Development Project (Argentina), http://web.worldbank.org/external/projects/main[illegible]pagePK[illegible] theSitePK[illegible] menuPK[illegible] [illegible] Projectid[illegible]P[illegible].

Parallel guides exist for prisons. See, for example, England's Prison Design Briefing System (PDBS), as discussed in Sir Andrew Derbyshire, [illegible]rchitects and the Prison [illegible]perience*, in Prison Architecture: Policy, Design and Experience [illegible]–[illegible] (Leslie Fairweather [illegible] Se[illegible]n McConville, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Architectural Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Prison Architecture).

11 For example, the English guide provided that judges were to [illegible]maintain full control of the proceedings[illegible] in part through being able to see all within the courtroom. Mulcahy, [illegible]rchitects of Justice* at [illegible] (citing the [illegible]n[illegible]lish Courts, [illegible]overnment Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uide).

12 In the United States, these organizations included the Conference of State Court Administrators and the Conference of Court Public Information Officers. In France, as the country embarked on its court renovation, conferences included art historians and anthropologists as well as lawyers, judges, and administrators. See Alain Girardet, [illegible]uels palais pour demain[illegible] Les attentes des [illegible]ens de [illegible]ustice* (What Courthouses for Tomorrow[illegible] The [illegible]pectations of the Judiciar[illegible]), Architecrée [illegible] at [illegible] (hereinafter What Courthouses for Tomorrow). Girardet, for example, was the Secretary General of the French Association for the History of Justice as well as the Vice President of the Paris Tribunal de Grande Instance, a second-level court that both hears trials and sits on appeals.

13 See Agence de Maîtrise d'Ouvrage des Travaux du Ministère de la Justice, Palais de Justice de [illegible] renoble, [illegible], [illegible] (Ministère de la Justice, Paris, [illegible]).

14 See John Bell, Judiciaries within Europe: A Comparative Review (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]). Bell provided a review of the organization, status, and tasks of the French, German, Spanish, Swedish, and English judiciaries as he argued the need to immerse oneself in each to understand the different status and function of judges and courts.

15 See Yosef Sharon, The Supreme Court Building, Jerusalem [illegible] (Alexandra Mahler, trans., Jerusalem, Isr.: Yad Hanadiv, [illegible]) (hereinafter Israel Supreme Court Building).

16 Mulcahy, [illegible]rchitects of Justice at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible].

17 As discussed in Chapter [illegible], the [illegible] [illegible] Courts Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uide specified courtrooms ranging from [illegible],[illegible] square feet for magistrate judges to [illegible],[illegible] or [illegible],[illegible] square feet for district judges, with ceiling heights presumptively sixteen feet. See Judicial Conference of the United States, Space and Facilities Committee, U.S. Courts Design Guide, [illegible] ed. (hereinafter [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide). These are larger than the sizes suggested in general guides that call for courtrooms ranging from [illegible],[illegible] to [illegible],[illegible] square feet with ceilings twelve to eighteen feet high. Compare [illegible] [illegible] Courts Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uide, Revisions–[illegible], and Chapter [illegible], "Courtrooms" at [illegible]-[illegible] to [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible]-[illegible] with Hardenbergh at [illegible]. Many federal courthouses, in turn, are large in square footage when compared to the density of use of other jurisdictions' facilities. As of [illegible], federal courts ranged from [illegible],[illegible] square feet in the U.S. Courthouse in St. Croix, the Virgin Islands, to more than [illegible],[illegible] feet in Anchorage, Alaska, with more than a million square feet then planned for a new facility in Manhattan. See Twenty Years of Courthouse Design Revisited: Supplement to the American Courthouse [illegible] (Chicago, IL: American Bar Association Judicial Administration Division, National Center for State Courts, State Justice Institute, [illegible]). As demand has grown, some states have built on ever-larger footprints to accommodate twenty to sixty courtrooms in a single building. Jordan Gruzen, The [illegible]eometr[illegible] of a Courthouse Desi[illegible]n, in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible].

18 See Allan Greenberg, S[illegible]m[illegible]olism in [illegible]rchitecture: Courtrooms, Architectural Record [illegible] (May [illegible]), reprinted in The Public Face of Architecture: Civic Culture and Public Spaces (Nathan Glazer [illegible] Mark Lilla, eds., New York, NY: Free Press, [illegible]).

19 For example, federal legislation requiring accessible public buildings generated obligations for states, as did national concerns about security and energy-efficient buildings. As noted in Chapter [illegible], the Architectural Barriers Act of [illegible] called for removing barriers to federal facilities for buildings created thereafter. Hardenbergh mentioned the impact of that act and of the Rehabilitation Act of [illegible], which cut off federal funds for recipients who did not provide accessible buildings. Thereafter, in [illegible], the Americans with Disabilities Act required that "public services" be accessible" courthouses included. See Hardenbergh at [illegible]–[illegible]. Implementation challenges were addressed in the [illegible] [illegible] Courts Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uide, focused on "barrier-free access." See [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide at [illegible]-[illegible]; Judicial Conference of the United States, Space and Facilities Committee, U.S. Courts Design Guide [illegible] ed. at [illegible]–[illegible]. As discussed in Chapter [illegible], in [illegible] the United States Supreme Court held that these provisions were enforceable by private parties against states that had failed to make their courtrooms accessible. See Tennessee v. Lane, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]); fig. [illegible]/[illegible].

20 See Leers at [illegible]–[illegible]; Robert Jacob, The [illegible]istorical Development of Courthouse [illegible]rchitecture, [illegible] Zodiac [illegible] (hereinafter Jacob, [illegible]istorical Development). Jacob noted the influence of French Neoclassical court design on much of Europe, North Africa, Latin America, and the United States. The durability of traditions, such as the symbolism of standing when judges enter rooms, is traced in Thomas Glyn Watkin's "The Powers that Be [illegible]re Seated": S[illegible]m[illegible]olism in [illegible]n[illegible]lish Law and the [illegible]n[illegible]lish Le[illegible]al S[illegible]stem, in Rechtssymbolik und Wertevermittlung (The Symbolism of Justice and the Conveyance of Moral Values) (Reiner Schulze, ed., Berlin, Ger.: Duncker and Humblot, [illegible]).

21 Universal Declaration of Human Rights, G.A. Res. [illegible]A U.N. GAOR, [illegible]d Sess., [illegible]st plen. mtg., U.N. Doc. A/[illegible] (Dec. [illegible], [illegible]).

22 That organization counted its membership in [illegible] as including more than [illegible],[illegible],[illegible] architects from more than one hundred countries. See The International Union of Architects: A Global Network Dedicated to the Architectural Profession, http://www.uia-architectes.org/texte/england/Menu-[illegible]/[illegible]-pourquoi.html.

23 See American Institute of Architects, AIA Academy of Architecture for Justice, http://www.aia.org/practicing/groups/kc/AIAS [illegible]. The Academy of Architecture for Justice (AAJ) is one of several of the AIA's "knowledge communities" described as promoting and fostering "the exchange of information and knowledge between members, professional organizations, and the public for high-quality planning, design, and delivery of justice architecture." American Institute of Architects, Member Groups and Communities, http://www.aia.org/professionals/groups/index.htm.

24 See American Institute of Architects, AIA Academy of Architecture for Justice, http://www.aia.org/practicing/groups/kc/AIAS[illegible].

25 The [illegible] committee was succeeded in [illegible] by the Corrections Architecture Committee, which became the Architecture for Criminal Justice Committee ([illegible]–[illegible]), the Committee for Justice Architecture ([illegible]–[illegible]), the Committee on Architecture for Justice ([illegible]), the Committee on Justice System Facilities ([illegible]–[illegible]), the Committee on Architecture for Justice ([illegible]), and the Academy of Architecture for Justice (AAJ). In some years, Justice [illegible]acilities [illegible]eview published reports from these committees. Materials on these activities were provided to us by Nancy Hadley, the Archivist and Records Manager of the AIA's Library and Archives.

26 See, for example, AIA San Francisco, Committees, http://www.aiasf.org/Membership/Committees.htm. Our thanks to Katherine Gupman, Project Manager of the AIA, for providing us with materials on the AAJ and its history as the organization developed under different nomenclature.

27 Agenda for "Affording Excellence: Addressing Court Needs at the Local Level, Fourth International Conference on Court Design and Planning," American Institute of Architects, Committee on Architecture for Justice, in association with the National Center for State Courts and the National Association for Court Management, Phoenix, AZ, October [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] (hereinafter [illegible] Agenda for "Affording Excellence").

28 See, for example, conference materials, "Justice and the City," San Diego, CA, Nov. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]. Our thanks to Celeste F. Bremer, United States Magistrate Judge, United States. District Court, Southern District of Iowa; to David Insinga, Director of Services for the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Zones of the United States General Services Administration, Washington D.C.; and to Richard Gilyard, former Assistant Circuit Executive for Space and Facilities, Judicial Council of the Court of Appeals of the Eighth Circuit, for providing us with materials and information on conferences and construction projects.

29 [illegible] Agenda for "Affording Excellence."

30 See Overview, "Sustainable Excellence: Sixth International Conference on Courthouse Design," American Institute of Architects, http://www.aiany.org/calendar/day.php?d[illegible]-[illegible]-[illegible].

31 See, for example, "[illegible]uropean and [illegible]nternational Law Courts [illegible]ec[illegible]utive [illegible]esearch Tour, Sprin[illegible], [illegible], L'Institut des Hautes Études sur la justice, http://www.ihej.org/pdf/european[illegible]international[illegible]law[illegible]courts [illegible].pdf. Our thanks to David Tait, Associate Professor, Law School, University of Canberra and to Diane Jones, Adjunct Professor of Architecture, University of Technology, Sydney, Australia, both of whom helped us to understand the transnational scope of courthouse construction.

32 In Chapter ⊠, we detailed the federal set-aside in the United States, and we discuss France's provisions later in this chapter. Other countries with laws or policies that have provided funds for art include Canada, Finland, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, and Sweden. In Canada, as of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the set-aside is ⊠ percent of a building budget; a committee composed of local and national members recommends art selections. See Henry Lydiate, Pu⊠lic Patrons⊠Percenta⊠e for ⊠rt, Artquest, http://www.artquest.org.uk/artlaw/public-policies/government-policies-the-arts/percent-for-art-legislation.htm. Finland has an informal set-aside of ⊠ percent. Id. Germany's set-aside, ranging from half a percent to ⊠ percent, has been put into practice, albeit with criticisms of methods of selection of artists and of the art chosen. Id. The Netherlands has provisions requiring that ⊠.⊠ percent of the cost of new government buildings be devoted to art incorporated into the architectural project, and a different law provides for a set-aside of ⊠ percent for schools. Norway's ⊠ percent rule dates from ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and innovations thereafter provide for experimental commissions that may not be permanent, as well as for documentation of the commissions given. Id. Sweden's practices also date back to the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, with the percentages of set-asides varying. Id.

In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Italy provided for a ⊠ percent allocation for building ⊠embellishments⊠ to be chosen by competitions among artists. Law No. ⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠⊠ of ⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Norme per l'arte negli edifici pubblici (Regulation for the Art of Public Buildings) (⊠⊠⊠ Gazz. Uff., Oct. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Implementation was uneven. But during some periods, the ⊠famous ⊠⊠ law⊠ financed art, including works of more than fifty important Italian artists for the Milan law building, constructed from ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Muratore at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Italy considered a law on architectural quality that included integrating art into buildings and making the set-aside compulsory. See La legge sulla qualit⊠ architettonica (Draft Bill on Architectural Quality), Sept. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, revised draft (Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), Instituto per l'innovazione e Transparenza degli Appalati e la Compatibilit⊠ Ambientale, http://www.itaca.org/documenti/news/DDL⊠qualita⊠architettonica.pdf. As of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the Italian Parliament website reported that the bill was under review by commission. See Parlamento Italiano, Disegno di legge S. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, XVI Legislatura, http://www.senato.it/leg/⊠⊠/BGT/Schede/Ddliter/⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠.htm. Our thanks to Stella Burch Elias for the research overview provided in this note.

33 La nouvelle architecture judiciaire: Des palais de justice modernes pour une nouvelle image de la Justice (New Judicial Architecture: Modern Courthouses and a New Image of Justice) ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (Paris, Fran.: La documentation Fran⊠aise, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter New French Judicial Architecture). The volume was produced in relationship to a colloquium held in Nanterre, France in May ⊠⊠⊠⊠, about courthouse design; the purposes for convening the event are explained by Marc Moinard, Director of the Legal Departments in the Ministry of Justice, in Le monument r⊠ha⊠ilit⊠⊠Les ⊠randes options de la polit⊠ue de construction ⊠udiciaire (The ⊠eha⊠ilitated Monument⊠ ⊠ reat Polic⊠ ⊠ ptions for Judicial Construction), Archicrée ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠, and the English synopsis of Moinard's discussion at ⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter Moinard). See also Eladari Interview at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Our thanks to Jean-Paul Miroglio, Chef de projet ⊠ L'Agence Publique pour l'Immobilier de La Justice; to Silvain Liotard of the French Ministry of Justice; and to Myriam Besnard of the Agence de M⊠itrise d'Ouvrage des Traveau du Minist⊠re de la Justice for providing us with materials and facilitating the permissions to reproduce images. Thanks are also due to Elisabeth Zoller for her thoughtful review of a draft of this chapter, as well as to Andrea Leers, Antoine Garapon, Robert Jacob, and Christine Mengin for providing us with additional information on courthouse construction in the United States and in France. In addition to our reading of materials in French, we have relied on translations by Stella Burch Elias and Allison Tait. In the text, we have included quotes when we translate French materials and, in footnotes, we often provide the quoted French accompanied with translations. Here we have translated the French ⊠une certaine ambition architectural.⊠

34 New French Judicial Architecture at ⊠ (⊠les valeurs de la d⊠mocratie⊠).

35 Between ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠, caseloads tripled; during the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, the number of magistrates increased ⊠⊠ percent. Christine Mengin, Deu⊠ si⊠cles d⊠architecture ⊠udiciaire au⊠ ⊠tats⊠⊠ nis et en ⊠rance (Two Centuries of Judicial ⊠rchitecture in the ⊠ nited States and ⊠rance), in L'Art et le droit: Mélanges en l'honneur de Pierre-Laurent Frier ⊠⊠ (Paris, Fran.: Publications de la Sorbonne, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Mengin, Two Centuries of Judicial ⊠rchitecture). Mengin also noted that in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the central government took over management responsibility for judicial facilities from the regional governments. Id. See also Christine Mengin, Construire pour ⊠u⊠er⊠⊠ n tour de ⊠rance des Palais de Justice (Buildin⊠for Jud⊠in⊠⊠ Tour of ⊠rench Courthouses) in Tour de France: Eine historische Rundreise, Festschrift f⊠r Rainer Hudemann ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Stuttgart, Ger.: Franz Steiner, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). France's director of long-term planning estimated that about ⊠⊠ percent more ⊠surface area⊠ was needed, and further that some facilities, dating from the nineteenth century, were not well located to provide services. See Eladari Interview at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

36 I⊠⊠ence de Ma⊠rise d⊠ uvra⊠e des Travau⊠ du Minist⊠re de la Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠apport d⊠activit⊠ ⊠⊠ (Paris, Fran.: AMOTMJ, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ AMOTMJ Report); Eladari Interview at ⊠⊠⊠. While energy concerns are noted, the descriptive explanations of French building put less stress on ⊠green⊠ buildings than do their American counterparts.

37 New French Judicial Architecture at ⊠⊠ (⊠Le fonctionnel⊠).

38 Several commentators involved in the French building projects speak to this point. See, for example, Jean-Claude Chilou, Caen⊠⊠ ne nouvelle cour d⊠ppel (Caen⊠⊠ New Court of ⊠ppeals) in New French Judicial Architecture at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. See also the essays in Archicrée ⊠⊠⊠⊠ by Philippe Lemaire, ⊠in⊠t ans de ⊠ustice⊠⊠volution de ⊠nstitu⊠ tion et or⊠anisation ⊠udiciaire (Twent⊠⊠ ⊠ears of Justice⊠The ⊠volution of the ⊠nstitution and ⊠ r⊠ani⊠ation of the Judiciar⊠) at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; Girardet at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; and Moinard at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

39 New French Judicial Architecture at ⊠⊠⊠. The overall program is also described on the inside covers or the backs of the individual pamphlets that detail renovations or new construction of several courts under the guidance of the D⊠⊠gation Generale au Programme Pluriannuel D'Équipement, which was superseded by the L'Agence de Ma⊠trise d'Ouvrage des Travaux du Minist⊠re de la Justice (AMOTMJ) (Building Works Agency of the Justice Ministry). See, for example, ⊠Delegation Generale au Programme Pluriannuel D'Equipement⊠ (General Commission for the Multi-Year Facilities Program), in Palais Monclar, Cour D⊠ppel d⊠ ⊠⊠⊠en⊠Provence (Minist⊠re de la Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Some pamphlets also mention the shift to the AMOTMJ. See Palais de Justice de ⊠ reno⊠le.

40 New French Judicial Architecture at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Initially the building was managed through a plan, D⊠⊠gation G⊠n⊠rale au Programme Pluriannuel D'Equipement du Minist⊠re de la Justice (General Commission for the Multiyear Facilities Program), by the Ministry of Justice. As noted, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ a discrete subentity was chartered to manage facilities. See generally Leers at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. The priority setting is detailed in Eladari interview at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠.

41 See generally Elisabeth Zoller, Introduction to Public Law: A Comparative Study (Leiden, Neth.: Martinus Nijhoff, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

42 A brief note on the higher courts of France, which are not the focus of discussion, is in order. France has the Conseil constitutionnel (Constitutional Council) with a specialized jurisdiction that, until the reforms of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, dealt with the legality of statutes in advance of their enactment. That body sits in the Palais Royal, a building whose history began in [illegible] with Cardinal Richelieu. See Conseil constitution[illegible]nel[illegible] [illegible]istoric Settin[illegible] (undated monograph provided by the court). The country's other high court, the Cour de cassation, also sits in Paris and is comprised of six chambers that deal with matters both civil and criminal. See Cour de cassation, http://www.courdecassation.fr/institution[illegible]/organisation[illegible]cour[illegible]/chambres[illegible]/. Many American scholars have analyzed the differences in the French and American legal systems. A focus on the highest courts of the United States, France, and the European Union is provided by Mitchel de S.-O.-L'e. Lasser, Judicial Deliberations: A Comparative Analysis of Judicial Transparency and Legitimacy (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). Peter Lindseth addressed the judicial function within administrative tribunals. See Peter Lindseth, [illegible]lwa[illegible]s [illegible]m[illegible]edded[illegible] [illegible]dminis[illegible]tration[illegible]The [illegible]istorical [illegible]volution of [illegible]dministrative Justice as an [illegible]spect of Modern [illegible]overnance, in The Economy as a Polity: The Political Constitution of Contemporary Capitalism [illegible]–[illegible] (Christian Joerges, Bo Str[illegible]th, [illegible] Peter Wagner, eds., London, Eng.: University College London Press, [illegible]). See generally Miriam Dama[illegible]ka, The Faces of Justice and State Authority: A Comparative Approach to the Legal Process (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]).

43 See, for example, Emmanuel Jeuland, Compte rendu de [illegible]vers un proc[illegible]s civil universel[illegible] Les r[illegible]les transnationales de proc[illegible]dure civile de [illegible]merican Law [illegible]nstitute ([illegible] [illegible]eview of [illegible]Toward [illegible]niversal Civil Proce[illegible]dure[illegible] The [illegible]merican Law [illegible]nstitute[illegible] Transnational [illegible]ules of Civil Proce[illegible]dure[illegible]), [illegible] Rev. Crit. Droit International Privé [illegible] ([illegible]).

44 Mengin noted parallels during the [illegible]s between the work of Ed Feiner (discussed in Chapter [illegible]) in the United States and Ren[illegible] Eladari in France. Mengin, Two Centuries of Judicial [illegible]rchitecture at [illegible].

45 See Marie-Elisabeth Nicoleau, Le point de vue de concepteur, [illegible]rasse[illegible]un nouveau tri[illegible]unal, in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible], [illegible]. See also Laurence Depambour Tarride, [illegible]spects du [illegible] d[illegible]coratif et s[illegible]m[illegible]oli[illegible]ue [illegible]udiciaire ([illegible]spects of the [illegible] D[illegible]coratif[illegible] and Judicial S[illegible]m[illegible]olism), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible] (hereinafter [illegible]spects of the [illegible] d[illegible]coratif[illegible]); Laurence Depambour Tarride, Étude sur les oeuvres crées au titre du [illegible] artistique dans les palais de justice realisés par la délégation générale au programme pluriannuel d'équipement depuis [illegible] et Essai sur le renouvellement de la symbolique judiciaire (Study Concerning Works Created in Courthouses under the [illegible] Art Provision since [illegible] and Essay on the Renewal of Justice Symbolism) (AMOTMJ, Ao[illegible]t [illegible]) (hereinafter Study in Courthouse Symbolism).

46 Bernard Gouttes, La nouvelle architecture [illegible]udiciaire et l[illegible]volu[illegible]tion de la conception des palais de [illegible]ustice (New [illegible]rchitecture and the [illegible]volution of the Concept of Courthouses), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible]. Gouttes was the Director of Judicial Services for the Ministry of Justice. Concerns were also expressed that the variation in courthouse construction had reduced the visibility of courts themselves. See Girardet at [illegible], [illegible]; Moinard at [illegible]. In Mengin's discussion of French building during the twentieth century, she noted that efforts at simplicity had rendered some buildings undistinguished. See Mengin, Two Centuries of Judicial [illegible]rchitecture at IIB, [illegible]–[illegible]. In both the United States and France, calls were made to remediate a perceived [illegible]deficit of solemnity[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. In contrast, nineteenth-century buildings garnered admiration, and hence prompted both criticism of the bureaucratic styles of the [illegible]s and calls for new courthouses of [illegible]transcendental character[illegible] Jean-Michel Leniaud, Conclusion, in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]. For an account in English of the French program, see Leers at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. We discuss complaints about federal architecture in the United States in Chapter [illegible]. See also Allan Greenberg, [illegible]aisin[illegible] [illegible]Temples of Justice[illegible] Wh[illegible] Does the Modern Courthouse [illegible]all Short[illegible] Judicature [illegible] ([illegible]). Greenberg detailed the lack, in many newly built courts, of public amenities, information, and clear directions for users. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

47 See also Mengin, Two Centuries of Judicial [illegible]rchitecture at [illegible]–[illegible]; Eladari Interview at [illegible]–[illegible]; Girardet at [illegible], [illegible]. Girardet stressed the multi-disciplinary nature of the exploration of courthouse construction; architects, art historians, judges, anthropologists, lawyers, and others came together to reflect on the rich [illegible]sense of the judicial patrimony[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. But Girardet also noted the special ownership that [illegible]gens de justice[illegible] (lawyers, judges, and related legal professionals) felt for courthouses.

48 See Antoine Garapon, Imaginer le palais de justice du XXI[illegible]me si[illegible]cle [illegible] (Imagining the Courthouse of the [illegible]st Century) (hereinafter Garapon, Imagining the Courthouse) (manuscript, [illegible]); see also Antoine Garapon, [illegible]ituel et s[illegible]m[illegible]olisme [illegible]udiciaires (The S[illegible]m[illegible]olism of the Courtroom), Archicrée [illegible] at [illegible]; Girardet, What Courthouses for Tomorrow[illegible] at [illegible]; and Lemaire, Twent[illegible] [illegible]ears of Justice at [illegible].

49 Vincent Lamanda, Ma[illegible]istratures et ima[illegible]es du palais de [illegible]ustice (The Judiciar[illegible] and [illegible]ma[illegible]es of the Courthouse), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible] ([illegible]e palais royal, le temple de Th[illegible]mis et l'h[illegible]tel des droits de l'homme[illegible]). Lamanda, who sat on the appellate court at Versailles, stressed the degree of continuity with some aspects of the royal era. Courtrooms retained the nomenclature of [illegible]salles d'audience[illegible] (as in the audience with the king), while the Temple of Th[illegible]mis was a post-revolutionary effort to rehabilitate order by rejecting pomp and adopting [illegible]solemn and rigorous[illegible] symmetrical spaces. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Robert Jacob, La [illegible]ustice, ses demeures et ses s[illegible]m[illegible]oles[illegible]Perspective histori[illegible]ue (Justice, [illegible]s Buildin[illegible]s and S[illegible]m[illegible]ols[illegible] [illegible]istoric Perspective) (hereinafter Jacob, Justice Buildin[illegible]s and S[illegible]m[illegible]ols), Archicrée [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. Muratore credited Etienne-Louis Boull[illegible]e, in the nineteenth century, with creating a building [illegible]designed for the administration of justice[illegible] that combined the prison and courts into [illegible]one huge building[illegible] Muratore at [illegible].

50 Jacob, Justice Buildin[illegible]s and S[illegible]m[illegible]ols at [illegible]–[illegible].

51 Jacob, Justice Buildin[illegible]s and S[illegible]m[illegible]ols at [illegible]–[illegible].

52 Jacob, [illegible]istorical Development at [illegible].

53 [illegible]Surrounded and isolated by public squares, it shunned as much as possible the contagion of commerce and closed itself to the outside world[illegible] Jacob, [illegible]istorical Development at [illegible].

54 Garapon, The S[illegible]m[illegible]olism of the Courtroom at [illegible]–[illegible]. These traditions, dating from the Ancien R[illegible]gime, were rigid sources of control. Further, the upper floors housed [illegible]courtrooms, lobbies, chapels, offices, chancelleries, prosecutors' chambers[illegible] while the lower floor, a [illegible]world apart[illegible] contained the detention cells, [illegible]interrogation rooms[illegible] and some administrative offices. Jacob, [illegible]istorical Development at [illegible].

55 Mengin, Two Centuries of Judicial [illegible]rchitecture at [illegible].

56 Jacob, [illegible]istorical Development at [illegible]. In terms of the time period, Jacob identified the late [illegible]s as marking a turn, with the building of Le Palais de Justice in Paris ([illegible]) and of a courthouse in Caen ([illegible]). Id. at [illegible].

57 For discussions of this era see Chapters [illegible] and [illegible] and Theodore K. Rabb, The Last Days of the Renaissance and the March to Modernity [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Basic Books, [illegible]). The equation of the king with the state and the relationship between the state and the law during the Renaissance in France are analyzed in Zoller at [illegible]–[illegible]. While noting that historians take the Louis XIV statement [illegible]L'État c'est moi[illegible] as legend, Zoller also examined the close nexus between [illegible]the State, the nation, and the king[illegible] resulting in a [illegible]quasi-physical fusion[illegible] Id. at [illegible], [illegible]. That [illegible]intimate relation[illegible] ended in [illegible], when the Declaration of the Rights of Man and the Citizen insisted that [illegible]all sovereignty remains in essence in the Nation[illegible] The concept of indivisibility, however, continued, generating a [illegible]national sovereignty.' [illegible] Id. at [illegible].

58 See Garapon, Imagining the Courthouse at [illegible]; see also Antoine Garapon, Bien juger: Essai sur le rituel judiciare (Judging Well: An Essay on Judicial Ritual) (Paris, Fran.: Odile Jacob, [illegible]). Construction during the twentieth century before the [illegible]s aimed to lessen the drama of access as well as to make plain justice's role in conciliation. See also Mengin, Two Centuries of Judicial [illegible]rchi[illegible]tecture at II B, [illegible]–[illegible].

59 Garapon, Imagining the Courthouse at ▯–▯.

60 Garapon, Imagining the Courthouse at ▯–▯.

61 Moinard at ▯▯▯ (English summary).

62 Jacob, ▯istorical Development at ▯▯. He noted that a return to some medieval and Renaissance traditions of integration might be in order. Id.

63 Garapon, S▯m▯olism of the Courtroom at ▯▯▯ (English summary).

64 Garapon, S▯m▯olism of the Courtroom at ▯▯▯ (English summary).

65 Garapon, S▯m▯olism of the Courtroom at ▯▯▯ (English summary).

66 Council of Europe, Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Art. ▯ (▯), Nov. ▯, ▯▯▯▯, ▯▯▯ U.N.T.S. ▯▯▯. Described further in Chapter ▯▯, Article ▯ provides, in part: ▯In the determination of his civil rights and obligations or of any criminal charge against him, everyone is entitled to a fair and public hearing within a reasonable time by an independent and impartial tribunal established by law.▯

67 See generally Garapon, Imagining the Courthouse.

68 Jacob, Justice Buildin▯s and S▯m▯ols at ▯▯. See also Garapon, S▯m▯olism of the Courtroom at ▯▯.

69 Garapon, S▯m▯olism of the Courtroom at ▯▯.

70 The colloquium in question was held in Nanterre in ▯▯▯▯, and the papers were published as New French Judicial Architecture. See especially Gouttes at ▯–▯▯. See also Chapter ▯, subsection ▯Theories of Governance: Aristotle, Cicero, Aquinas, Latini, God, and Political Propaganda.▯

71 Gouttes at ▯▯.

72 Lamanda at ▯▯. Those concerns were evident in the ▯▯▯▯s as well. See Mengin, Two Centuries of Judicial ▯rchitecture at II B, ▯–▯.

73 Lamanda at ▯▯. Lamanda noted that architects and artists ought to strive to conceptualize and build ▯les palais de justice dignes de la seule institution a porter le nom d'une vertu▯ (▯courthouses worthy of the only institution to bear the name of a Virtue▯). Id. Moinard viewed the various goals▯ affirming the authority of the state, being accessible and welcoming, celebrating complex law, and applying ordinary principles▯ as not inconsistent. Moinard at ▯▯.

74 Girardet at ▯▯; Lemaire at ▯▯. Lemaire, the Deputy Director of Judicial Services, recounted that as of ▯▯▯▯, in addition to the high court of appeal (Cour de cassation), dozens of other courts existed▯ ▯▯ appellate courts, ▯▯▯ courts of first instance, ▯▯▯ tribunals of first instance, ▯▯▯ employment dispute tribunals, ▯▯▯ commercial tribunals, ▯▯▯ tribunals for child and family issues, ▯▯▯ courts of assizes (criminal courts), and ▯▯▯ social security/benefits tribunals. Lemaire at ▯▯.

75 Palais de Justice de Pontoise at ▯ (Ministère de la Justice, ▯▯▯▯). ▯Ne doit-on pas attendre de l'architecture qu'elle soit bienveillante, qu'elle apaise les effets d'une violence subie▯▯ (Should we not expect this architecture to be generous and to soothe the effects of any violence suffered▯).

76 Palais de Justice de Besan▯on at ▯ (Ministère de la Justice, ▯▯▯▯). ▯Dans la série des magnifiques palais de justice construits en France ces dernières années, si certaines réalisations ont voulu exprimer l'ordre et la rigueur coercitive inhérents ▯ l'exercice du pouvoir judiciaire, celle de Besan▯on cherche plus, selon les mots de son architecte, ▯ incarner les valeurs de m▯diation, d'arbitrage et de conciliation▯ (In the series of magnificent courthouses constructed in France during recent years, if certain designs sought to express the order and coercive rigor inherent in the exercise of judicial power, the Besan▯on courthouse sought instead, according to its architect, to embody the values of mediation, arbitration, and conciliation.) To do so, the architect, Henri Gaudin, sought to create a lively social milieu through the use of open staircases, porches, and arches. Id. at ▯–▯▯. The booklet noted that its description of the courthouse summarized discussions between Gaudin and two courthouse magistrates.

77 Marie Bels, Concours ▯▯▯▯s, concours perdus vers l▯▯▯▯▯▯oration d▯▯▯▯n mod▯▯▯le, Archicrée ▯▯▯▯ at ▯▯–▯▯▯ (English translation, New Directions in the Desi▯▯▯n of Law Courts at ▯▯▯) (hereinafter Bels, New Directions). Eladari, the Director of Long Term Planning in the Justice Ministry, had commended ▯modular buildings, . . . open plan layouts and modular partitions▯ as flexible, if further changes were needed. Eladari Interview at ▯▯▯.

78 Marie Bels, L'image architecturale de la Justice (The Architectural Image of Justice) ▯ (Ministère de la Justice, June ▯▯▯▯) (hereinafter Bels, Architectural Image of Justice). The study was commissioned by the Ministry of Justice's D▯▯▯▯▯▯

92 See Leers at [illegible]–[illegible]. Discussions of some of the competitions are provided in various of the court booklets. See Palais de Justice de Melun [illegible] (Ministère de la Justice, [illegible]). An overview of several projects is provided in Les nouveaux visages de la Justice, extraits des numéros [illegible] et [illegible] du Moniteur, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], and April [illegible], [illegible] (extracts distributed by the Ministry of Justice and the AMOTMJ) (hereinafter Nouveaux visages). As the description in a sidebar by Emmanuel Caille explained, the "most celebrated architects had participated in the project in which almost a billion euros had been invested." Id. at [illegible].

93 See [illegible] MOTMJ Report at [illegible] (Establissement Public du Palais de Justice de Paris). Chartered by the President of France, the AMOTMJ was, in [illegible], given administrative responsibilities for interior security and for a new palais de justice in Paris. [illegible] MOTMJ Report at [illegible]. The plan was to renovate space within the current Palais de Justice on the Ile de la Cité to benefit the Cour de cassation (the highest court of criminal and civil appeal in France) as well the appellate court. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. As of [illegible], that work had stalled.

94 [illegible] MOTMJ Report at [illegible]. The AMOTMJ operated through "conventions" or agreements, entered into with the Ministry of Justice and through statutory mandates. [illegible] MOTMJ Report at [illegible]–[illegible]. In October of [illegible] the Justice Ministry announced a budget of [illegible] billion euros ([illegible] billion at the time) for prison construction, not including rehabilitation of five large buildings that held about [illegible] percent of the population. See the interview with Michel Zulberty, Director General of AMOTMJ, in Nouveaux visages at [illegible].

95 [illegible] MOTMJ Report at [illegible], [illegible].

96 Figure [illegible] was provided by the Agence Publique pour l'Immobilier de la Justice (APIJ); the fascimile by Yale University Press is reproduced with its written permission, as required. Our thanks to Myriam Besnard of the APIJ for her considerable assistance in obtaining the many images used in the discussion of French buildings. Our discussion also reflects exchanges from a conference, organized by Diane Jones and David Tait, on French court architecture.

97 Philippe Simon, Les palais de justice dans l'architecture contemporaine (Courthouses in Contemporary Architecture), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible].

98 "Le palais de Justice n'est plus seulement un lieu de jugement. Il devient aussi un lieu d'accueil, d'information et d'orientation des citoyens." Nouveau palais de Justice de Fort-de-France at [illegible] (Ministère de la Justice, [illegible]). Other booklets reiterate that theme. For example, in discussing the massive building in Grenoble, the point was made that the many functions of courthouses (including detention) require a hospitable milieu. Palais de Justice de Grenoble at [illegible].

99 "La Justice au coeur de la cité" is the header of part of the discussion of the symbolism of Henri Ciriani's courthouse design in Pontoise in the booklet on that building, which opened in [illegible]. See Palais de Justice de Pontoise at [illegible]. See also Palais de Justice Besançon at [illegible]. Another example comes from discussions in Les palais au coeur des cités: particularismes, typologie architecturale et symbolique (Courthouses in the heart of cities: Local character, architectural and symbolic typology) in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible]. Werner Szambien detailed the different buildings created at the city centers of Aix, Nice, and Rennes. The Ministry of Justice made locating courts in the center of cities a presumption from which departures in particular circumstances were permitted. See Moinard at [illegible] (English synopsis).

100 "Le nouveau palais de Justice est au centre de la cité comme la justice est au centre des préoccupations des citoyens et de la vie publique." Nouveau palais de Justice de Fort-de-France at [illegible]. The alternative, in some instances, was to locate a courthouse on the outskirts in an effort to anchor economic development in a new area. See Moinard at [illegible]. See also Eladari Interview at [illegible]–[illegible]. As Eladari noted, exceptions to the rule of placing courts in the center of the city occurred as the Ministry of Justice worked with municipalities to decide which sites to use.

101 Michel Zulberty, "Impressions sur la nouvelle architecture" ("Impressions of the New Architecture"), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible].

102 Leers at [illegible]. "A sinuous roof floats over the whole volume, pierced by the tops of the "cone-shaped" courtrooms." Id. Rogers became well known in France after the award in [illegible] for the George Pompidou Centre in Paris. L'extension du Tribunal, Bordeaux, [illegible] Techniques & Architecture: Échanges Européens [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Sept. [illegible]). The photograph in figure [illegible] was provided by and is reproduced with permission of the APIJ and the photographer, Jean-Marie Monthiers.

103 Zulberty at [illegible], [illegible]; Claude Hanoteau, "Pennes: La Renaissance du Parlement de Bretagne" [illegible] dans un cadre chargé d'histoire ("Pennes: the Renaissance of the Parliament of Brittany" [illegible] developing a Setting that is rich in History), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible]. The architect for the reconstruction was Alain-Charles Perrot. The photograph in figure [illegible] was provided by and is reproduced with the permission of the APIJ and the photographer, Olivier Wogenscky.

104 See Palais de Justice de Nice (Ministère de la Justice, [illegible]). The [illegible] building, by August Dieude-Defly, was imposing and prestigious but, by [illegible], a study confirmed that it was not functional for contemporary needs. Id. at [illegible]. Parts of the older building were used, as evidenced in the photos in the Ministry's pamphlet, at [illegible]–[illegible], with new and old elements intertwined.

105 Simon at [illegible]. "[illegible] bouleverse ainsi habitudes et symbols . . . aider à faire émerger une autre justice, plus ouverte, plus démocratique."

106 Zulberty at [illegible]. See also Marc Saboya, "Réflexions sur un projet controversé: Le nouveau tribunal de Grande instance de Bordeaux" ("Reflections on a controversial project: the new high court in Bordeaux") in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible].

107 Zulberty at [illegible]. Zulberty criticized Rogers's decision in Bordeaux to create modules that separate public spaces from professional spaces. Bels, on the other hand, appeared more comfortable with that format in her discussions of Avignon and Bordeaux. Bels, Architectural Image of Justice at [illegible]. See also Bels, New Directions at [illegible]–[illegible].

108 Bels, Architectural Image of Justice at [illegible]. The justification offered by the architects was the need to be flexible. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

109 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism; Bels, Architectural Image of Justice.

110 "Le nouveau palais de Justice . . . inspire confiance et respect sans susciter la crainte." Nouveau palais de Justice de Fort-de-France at [illegible]. The architects were Paul Chemetov and Borja Huidobro. The photograph in figure [illegible] was provided by and is reproduced with the permission of the APIJ and the photographer, Olivier Wogenscky.

111 Palais de Justice de Grenoble at [illegible]–[illegible]. The architect is Claude Vasconi.

112 Palais de Justice de Melun at [illegible]–[illegible]. See Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible], n. [illegible]. The architects were Françoise Jourda and Gilles Perraudin. The photograph in figure [illegible] was provided by and is reproduced with the permission of the APIJ and the photographer, Jean-Marie Monthiers.

113 "Le choix de l'ancienne prison, située juste derrière l'actuelle cour d'appel, participe de la volonté du ministère de la Justice de maintenir les fonctions judiciaires au coeur de la ville." (The choice of the old prison, located just behind the current Court of Appeals, prompted the Ministry of Justice to keep the judicial offices in the center of the town.) Palais Monclar, Cour d'Appel d'Aix-en-Provence [illegible] (Ministère de la Justice, [illegible]) (hereinafter Palais Monclar). As that pamphlet explained, demolition of the old prison and construction of Claude Nicolas Ledoux's planned prison and courthouse were begun in [illegible]. But funding was scarce in the wake of the French Revolution, and the buildings were not completed until [illegible]. See also Jean-Pierre Pech, "Aix-en-Provence: Le Palais Monclar: construire un palais dans une prison (Ni[illegible]n Provence: the Monclar Courthouse: Building a Court-house in a Prison), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible].

When discussion emerged of plans to demolish the prison, criticism erupted in the national press, arguing that the building provided insights into nineteenth-century attitudes toward incarceration. Id. at [illegible]. The result was a decision to protect the ancient walls of the exterior to respect the history of the area while creating a new structure. Id. As the Ministry of Justice explained[illegible] in our translation[illegible] [illegible]Building a courthouse inside a former prison, a place of exclusion, offered a paradox that the architects resolved thanks to a process of requalifying and converting the building, permitting justice to reclaim the site.[illegible] Palais Monclar at [illegible].

114 Our translation is of the phrase [illegible]une solennit[illegible] n[illegible]cessaire [illegible] l'exercice d'une justice moderne[illegible] in Palais Monclar at [illegible]. The architect, Jean-Loup Roubert, commented that it was a challenge to deal with the paradox of creating a design that befit the aspiration that justice be transparent and clear while building in the heart of an old prison, a space that was confined and [illegible]almost blind[illegible] ([illegible] . . . la justice aspire [illegible] la transparence et [illegible] la clart[illegible], . . . au coeur d'une enceinte ferm[illegible]e, voire quasi aveugle[illegible]). Jean-Loup Roubert, Le point de vue du con[illegible]cepteur, [illegible]ennes: La renaissance du Parlement de Breta[illegible]ne: r[illegible]am[illegible]na[illegible]er dans un cadre chan[illegible]e d'[illegible]istoire (Creator[illegible] Point of [illegible]iew, [illegible]ennes: The [illegible]e[illegible]irth of Brittan[illegible] Parliament: [illegible]e[illegible]uildin[illegible] in a [illegible]istoric Settin[illegible]), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible].

115 The [illegible] fire was not the first; in [illegible] damage had been done by another city fire. Roubert at [illegible]–[illegible]. Additional details were provided by Hanoteau at [illegible]–[illegible]. He noted that the ornamentation of the building had included iconographical details of scales, a balance, a sword, and four statues by Gabriel, one crowning the roof of each pavilion and representing Justice, Force, Eloquence, and Law. Id. at [illegible].

116 Palais de [illegible]ustice de Besan[illegible]on at [illegible]. The building, by Hugues Sambin, a Dijon architect, was later used as part of the setting for Stendhal's novel The [illegible]ed and the Black. Id. Also incorporated were a few other aspects of the earlier building such as the old [illegible]salle des pas perdus[illegible] converted to serve as the entry to the appellate court. Id. at [illegible], [illegible].

117 Gaudin (who was also the author of the book Considerations on Space) is quoted in the booklet on the court: [illegible]Autrefois les colonnes du Temple s'accordaient [illegible] l'id[illegible]e de l'ordre . . . aujourd'hui, c'est une justice pacificante et dont le but est l'harmonie sociale dont nous cherchons [illegible] donner l'image[illegible] (In the past, Temple columns represented the idea of order . . . today, it is a justice that pacifies and whose goal is social harmony to which we are trying to give form). Palais de [illegible]ustice de Besan[illegible]on, front inside cover. The new facility, with a square footage of [illegible],[illegible] feet ([illegible],[illegible] meters), cost [illegible] million euros, or roughly [illegible] million. See Palais de Justice de Besan[illegible]on, back inside cover.

118 See, for example, the Archicr[illegible]e [illegible] volume. In more than one hundred pages of materials on the French building program and ten cities invoked, the only artwork discussed is that of G[illegible]rard Garouste in Lyon. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

119 That motif runs from the Nantes courthouse to the new building in Fort-de-France, Martinique. That rectangle, about [illegible] by [illegible] feet (ninety-two by thirty-five meters) provided [illegible],[illegible] square feet ([illegible],[illegible] square meters). About half that space was for judicial functions, at a cost of about [illegible] million, or [illegible] million francs. Nouveau Palais de Justice [illegible]ort[illegible]de[illegible]rance at [illegible], [illegible], back inside cover. To integrate the large edifice into its surroundings, details include verandas, colonnades, shutters, and an overhanging roof, rendered in white metal. The aim was to evoke French Antilles architecture and to [illegible]refer to classic verandas in Martinique[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

120 Palais de Justice de [illegible] reno[illegible]le at [illegible]. [illegible]L'utilisation du verre dans un [illegible]difice qui se d[illegible]veloppe progressivement du plein au cristallin total sert la symbolique de la justice[illegible] (The use of glass in a building, increasing progressively from full to total crystalline, facilitates the symbolism of justice).

121 Nouveau[illegible] visa[illegible]es at [illegible]. The discussion (in a sidebar by Emmanuel Caille) noted that the problems of security posed substantial architectural challenges in that the face of the institution had to express the values of equity, serenity, and hospitality. Id. at [illegible]. Other constraints that delayed construction included archaeological findings at some of the sites. Id. at [illegible].

122 Bels, Architectural Image of Justice at [illegible] (quoting Olivier Touraine, Project Manager for the Nantes courthouse on this arrangement in Nantes). The stratification is discussed in reference to various courthouses. See id. at [illegible], [illegible].

123 Bels, New Directions at [illegible], [illegible]; [illegible]ctualit[illegible], Le palais de Justice de I[illegible]on, in Archicrée [illegible] at [illegible], [illegible].

124 The booklet about the new building at Melun described the use of the [illegible]most modern materials for control[illegible] and anti-intrusion security. Palais de Justice de Melun at [illegible].

125 Girardet at [illegible]–[illegible].

126 Simon at [illegible].

127 Tarride, [illegible] d[illegible]coratif[illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. The provision for set-asides began in [illegible]. Culture et architecture [illegible]udiciaire[illegible]le [illegible] d[illegible]coratif des nouvelles op[illegible]rations d[illegible]uipement [illegible]udiciaire, in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible] (hereinafter Le [illegible] d[illegible]coratif des nouvelles op[illegible]ra[illegible]tions). Over time, the rule was applied to various ministries and in [illegible] to Justice. See Arr[illegible]t[illegible] du [illegible] ao[illegible]t [illegible] travaux de decoration des equipements de la justice a realiser au titre du [illegible] du co[illegible]t global de l'operation, J.O. of Oct. [illegible], [illegible] at [illegible] (hereinafter [illegible] Justice Decoration Order). The [illegible] requirement entailed the selection of one or more artists [illegible]contribuer [illegible] la qualit[illegible] des constructions publiques[illegible] (to contribute to the quality of public construction projects) as well as to give the public contact with original pieces of contemporary art. Id. at [illegible].

128 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]. She cited the [illegible] order creating the program requiring that the decorative program be established by the architect in conjunction with the person in charge of construction and in consultation with regional representatives involved with the arts, as well as the Ministers of Culture and Communications ([illegible]Le programme de d[illegible]coration est [illegible]tabli par l'architecte de l'op[illegible]ration, en liasion avec le ma[illegible]re de l'ouvrage et le conseiller artistique r[illegible]gional, repr[illegible]sentant r[illegible]gional du minist[illegible]re de la Culture et de la Communication[illegible]). See Article [illegible] of the [illegible] Justice Decoration Order.

Architects often played a critical role. For example, Jenny Holzer credited Jean Nouvel with bringing her into the Nantes project. Tarride, in contrast, criticized the degree of autonomy given to the architect and artist. Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]–[illegible].

129 See D[illegible]cret n[illegible]–[illegible] du [illegible] mars [illegible] relatif [illegible] la cr[illegible]ation de commissions r[illegible]gionales de r[illegible]alisations plastiques au titre du [illegible] p. [illegible] du minist[illegible]re charg[illegible] de l'[illegible]ducation nationale, J.O. of Mar. [illegible], [illegible] at [illegible].

130 Le [illegible] d[illegible]coratif des nouvelles operations at [illegible]. For projects costing [illegible],[illegible] euros or less, a Counselor from the regional office of the Ministry of Culture was required to issue an opinion. Id.

131 Le [illegible] d[illegible]coratif des nouvelles operations at [illegible]; D[illegible]cret n[illegible]–[illegible] du [illegible] mars [illegible]. J.O. of Mar. [illegible], [illegible] at [illegible].

132 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible].

133 Minist[illegible]re de Justice[illegible] Portail: Les registres de la symbolique judiciaire, http://www.justice.gouv.fr/index.php[illegible]rubrique[illegible] ssrubrique[illegible] article[illegible].

134 Jacob saw the wooden cross as an heir of the [illegible]tree of justice[illegible] See Jacob, [illegible] istorical Development at [illegible]

135 According to Jacob, the symbolism of the tree was pagan in origin, representing the [illegible]pillar of the world[illegible] that denoted stability and regeneration. See Jacob, [illegible] istorical Development at [illegible]. More literally, when outdoors, courts were convened under trees. Trees and the wooden structures that followed them were spaces in which violence was not permitted, and wood has remained a fixture of many interiors. Id.

136 The Crucifixion above the judge's bench remained the principal ornament of French courtrooms until the Church and State were formally separated in [illegible]. Its verticality denoted that the court's legitimacy stemmed from God. Jacob, Historical Development at [illegible].

137 See also Jacob, Justice Buildings and Symbols at [illegible]–[illegible].

138 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]; "une saine justice engendre la prospérité" (a healthy justice engenders prosperity).

139 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible].

140 Tarride, [illegible] décoratif at [illegible]. See also Garapon, Bien juger; Christian-Nils Robert, La Justice dans ses décors (Justice in her Settings) (Genève, Switz.: Librairie Droz S.A., [illegible]).

141 Letter from Rene Eladari to Madame Depambour Tarride (July [illegible], [illegible]), appended to Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism.

142 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]–[illegible].

143 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]. Tarride noted the new exchanges between national and international law and between the executive and the judge. As she explained (per our translation), "in search of a new relationship between the law and the judge, and even, perhaps, in search of a new conception of the law, we offer up for viewing by litigants diverse works inciting them to ask questions, or contemplate, and in doing so we no longer assert any model "of justice"." Id.

144 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]–[illegible].

145 Tarride, [illegible] décoratif at [illegible]. Tarride cited an exchange about that topic between Gérard Garouste and magistrates in the Lyon Court.

146 Tarride, [illegible] décoratif at [illegible]–[illegible]. The artists included Rébecca Horn, Virginie Mounicot, Kéthi Tahara, Pascal Couvert, Jacqueline Salmon, Gérard Garouste, and others. Her [illegible] essay, requested by the French Ministry of Justice, reviewed installations in ten courthouses. Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]–[illegible].

147 Palais de Justice Melun at [illegible]–[illegible]. Stories, by Maryvonne Arnaud, is one of five installations in that courthouse. Id. The photograph in figure [illegible] was provided by and is reproduced with the permission of the APIJ and the photographer, Jean-Marie Monthiers.

148 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]. Tarride admired the combination of art and architecture in Avignon for its clarity, neutrality, and elegance. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. Born in Nice in [illegible], Nahon has lived in both France and the United States. She has done a series of outdoor monumental works using steel, Baccarat crystal, and glass that have been installed in locations ranging from the Electricité de France campus in Saint-Denis, France, to the Progressive Insurance Building in Cleveland, Ohio. See generally Brigitte Nahon, Biography, http://www.denoirmont.com/bibliographie-artiste-brigitte-nahon-galerie-jerome-de-noirmont.html. The concept and image of equilibrium are recurring themes in Nahon's work, exemplified as well by a project in the Tamil Nadu region of India focused on the caste system. See also Claude Bouyeure, Brigitte Nahon, Déséquilibrer les habitudes (Déséquilibrer les habits) [illegible] Opus International [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

149 See Bouyeure at [illegible].

150 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]. Our thanks to the Agence Publique pour l'Immobilier de la Justice (APIJ), to the Ministry of Justice's Département d'Information et de Communication (DICOM, Department of Information and Communication), and to the photographer, Caroline Montagné, for authorization enabling us to reproduce the photograph in figure [illegible], copyright Ministère de la Justice / DICOM / Caroline Montagné.

151 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]. Tarride reported that Couvert wanted to "produire un signe symbolique culturel simple, lisible par tous, "evoquant le lieu Judiciaire comme lieu Éthique, lieu de construction du Droit, de l'équilibre, du temps Suspendu, et dans un même mouvement redonner une fonction symbolique à l'oeuvre d'art dans une communauté" (to produce a culturally symbolic sign that was simple, legible to all, that evoked the judicial site as an ethical site, a site of law-generation, of equilibrium, of time suspended, and at the same time to retrieve a symbolic function to the work of art in the community). The work was to take viewers back to "l'époque du droit révélé par Dieu" (a time when law was revealed by God) as well as "la Liberty Bell, . . . and La Grosse Cloche de Bordeaux "ancien beffroi de la ville qui a longtemps signifié l'indépendence des jurandes par rapport au pouvoir religieux'" (the Liberty Bell . . . and Bordeaux's Great Bell, "the town's ancient belfry that long signified the independence of guilds in relation to religious power'). Id. at [illegible]. The town's old Great Bell can be found in a building that once served as the Bordeaux Town Hall.

152 Lamanda called the bell a symbol of "l'Ancien Régime" in that the bell in the clocktower chimed to announce mass, which was celebrated near the palais de justice before the opening of court. Lamanda and Saboya at [illegible].

153 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]–[illegible]. Tarride recounted that Ilkar's lines were slightly modified at the request of courthouse officials in Bordeaux, but she did not detail the changes. Id. at [illegible], n. [illegible]. The excerpts cited by Ilkar were the phrase "Vert ravissement de la vie humaine" (Green ravishing of human life) by Inés de La Cruz, a seventeenth-century Spanish nun and poet, and "la littérature est le bond hors du rang des meurtriers" (literature is the leap from the ranks of murderers) from Kafka. Id. at [illegible].

154 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible].

155 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]. Some of the imagery is reproduced in Pierre Cabanne's, Gérard Garouste [illegible] (Paris, Fran.: Expressions Contemporaines, [illegible]). Garouste was born in [illegible], and his work has been widely exhibited in major museums and public buildings. Commentators locate his work within a classical tradition that relies on frequent references to old masters, antiquity, myths, and religious symbols. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also François Rachline, Gérard Garouste, Peindre à présent (Paris, Fran.: Fragments, [illegible]). Our thanks to the APIJ, to DICOM, and to the photographer, Chrystèle Lacène, for providing authorization to reproduce the photographs in figures [illegible] and [illegible], copyright Ministère de la Justice / DICOM / Chrystèle Lacène.

156 See Tourism Rhône Alpes, http://www.rhonealpes-tourisme.com/.

157 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]–[illegible].

158 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]. Some of these words are taken from the [illegible] Declaration of the Rights of Man and of the Citizen and reiterated in the [illegible] Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

159 Culture et architecture judiciaire, le [illegible] décoratif, in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible]. See Musée d'art et d'histoire de Baugé, press release, exposition "Atelier Soleil d'ombre" [illegible] ans de création céramique dans les domaines de l'architecture, du dessein et de l'art, http://www.armellebenoit.com/fileadmin/images/collaborations/hugo/SOdossierdepresse.pdf.

160 Cabanne, Gérard Garouste at [illegible]. The piece was made in [illegible].

161 Cabanne, Gérard Garouste at [illegible].

162 "Nul ne sera soumis à la torture ni à des peines ou traitements cruels, inhumains, ou dégradants." See Universal Declaration of Human Rights, G.A. Res. [illegible]A, at art. [illegible], U.N. GAOR, [illegible]d Sess., [illegible]st plen. mtg., U.N. Doc. A/[illegible] (Dec. [illegible], [illegible]); Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible] and photo [illegible].

163 Interview with Gérard Garouste, Les droits de l'homme en scènes, Archicrée [illegible] at [illegible] (hereinafter Garouste Interview).

164 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at [illegible]–[illegible], quoting an interview with Garouste in which he said, "Mais les premières réunions de travail avec les magistrats du palais de Justice de Lyon m'ont rapidement fait comprendre que ces symboles d'autorit□, ils n'en voulaient plus. On m'a expliqu□ que parall□lement □ une justice de sanction s'exer□ait aussi une justice d'arbitrage et d'accompagnement qu'il fallait pouvoir exprimer□ (But during the first working meetings with the magistrates from the Lyon courthouse, I quickly was made to understand that these symbols of authority were not what they wanted anymore. They explained to me that parallel to a justice of sanctions there was also a justice of arbitration and accommodation that it was necessary to be able to express.) See also Garouste Interview at □□□.

165 □Finalement, une id□e s'est impos□e comme une □vidence universelle, celle des droits de l'homme, qui v□hiculent sans contestation possible une belle image de la justice, rassurante et protectrice. (Finally, an idea stood out as universal evidence □of justice□ that of the rights of man, which undoubtedly conveys a beautiful, reassuring and protective image of justice.) Garouste Interview at □□□.

166 Tarride, □□□ d□coratif□ at □□–□□ (quoting G□rard Garouste).

167 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□. We have translated her comment □Nous sommes, □ Lyon, en face d'un veritable renouvellement sans rupture de la symbolique judiciaire□ Tarride applauded Garouste for anchoring his work in historic traditions rather than his own personal conception of justice and praised him for prompting abstract and theoretical reflections.

168 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □; Tarride, □□□ d□coratif□ at □□–□□, discussed various plaques in different □salles des pas perdus.□

169 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□.

170 We discussed the development of these installations in Chapter □ in the section □Quietly Quizzical: Tom Otterness in Oregon and Jenny Holzer in Sacramento, California□ See also fig. □/□□□.

171 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□–□□.

172 Tarride suggested some of this approach to the art, even as she criticized it at times. She particularly noted visual images that appeared to privilege the mechanical over the human. Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□–□□.

173 As discussed later, Tarride cited the failure of the Ministry of Justice to set parameters for the artists whom she thought were given too great a scope. Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□–□□.

174 Tarride, □□□ d□coratif□ at □□–□□.

175 Tarride, □□□ d□coratif□ at □□. Elsewhere Tarride reported that the words loi or droit (le□ or □us), which had ornamented the walls and doors of courtrooms, had disappeared. Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □. She regretted the absence of such simple words as she commented that the inclusion of more complicated texts with full sentences adorning courthouse walls reflected that □law□ was no longer an isolated term but one whose meaning had become relational. Id. at □□.

176 The photograph in figure □□□ was first provided to us by Jean-Paul Miriglio, the AMOTMJ, and the French Ministry of Justice, with the permission of the photographer, Olivier Wogenscky, and then, with the assistance of Myriam Besnard, it was reauthorized for our use by the APIJ.

177 See Robin Pogrebin, Nouvel, Who Pushes □rchitecture□ Lim□its, Wins Prit□ker, New York Times, March □□, □□□□, at E□. Nouvel has received many commissions in France, including the Mus□e du Quai Branly, that was built during the first decade of the twenty-first century to house collections relocated from France's Mus□e de l'Homme (Museum of Man) and its Mus□e des Arts Africains et Oc□aniens (Museum of African and Oceanic Arts). See Nicolai Ouroussoff, □or a New Paris Museum, Jean Nouvel Creates □ is □ wn □ules, New York Times, June □□, □□□□, at E□.

178 Violet Gore, Pure Justice□ Law Courts, Nantes, □rance, □□□ Architecture Review □□, □□ (Nov. □□□□). See also Jean-Pierre Atthenont, President of the First Instance Court in Nantes, Nantes□ □ach□vement d□une op□ration (Nantes□ Pro□ect Completion), in New French Judicial Architecture at □□–□□.

179 Leers at □□□.

180 See Commentary, Jean Nouvel, Courthouse in Nantes, □□ Architecture □ Urbanism □□□.

181 Commentary, Jean Nouvel, Courthouse in Nantes at □□□. Bels noted that the space was designed as a huge encompassing grid to break down the spatial distinctions between the offices of judicial workers and public spaces. Bels, Architectural Image of Justice at □□. The photograph in figure □□□ was provided by and is reproduced with permission of APIJ, AMOTMJ, the Minist□re de la Justice, and the photographer, Olivier Wogenskcy.

182 Atthenont at □□. (□Monumentalit□ de l'□difice, transparence, . . . signes manifestes de l'autorit□). Atthenont also commented that the building could not come alive until it was inhabited. Id.

183 Palais de Justice, Nantes, □rance, from Jean Nouvel, http://www.jeannouvel.com (in the □Description□ section, go to □Projects,□ □Category Matrix,□□Institutional□ then □Nantes□).

184 Jean Nouvel, Le point de vue du concepteur (Des□ner□ Point of □iew), Nantes□□ach□vement d□une op□ration, in New French Judicial Architecture at □□.

185 Gore at □□. These □independent cubes□ are set off from the waiting area by □layers of gridded screens□ Leers at □□□.

186 As Nouvel described them, they were □quatre jambes lumineuses sur lesquels d□fileront un certain nombre de sentences□ (four luminous limbs on which a certain number of sentences rotated). Nouvel at □□. Our thanks to the APIJ for the pamphlet Noveau Palais de □ustice de Nantes, □ntervention de Jenn□ □ ol□er au titre du □□ artis□ t□ue (Minist□re de la Justice, □□□□) (hereinafter Nantes, □ntervention de Jenn□□ ol□er); to Art Resource for providing us with the photograph in figure □□□; and to Jenny Holzer Studio, member Artists Rights Society (ARS), New York, for permission to use the photograph.

187 We have translated □les textes semblent surgir du sol et traverser l'architecture jusqu'au ciel, se refl□tant au sol et dans les parois de verre.□ Nantes, □ntervention de Jenn□ □ ol□er.

188 Telephone interview with Holzer (Nov. □□, □□□□). Holzer explained that she was not fluent in French but relied on French editors and law students.

189 Textes du Projet de Jenny Holzer pour le Palais de Justice de Nantes, dans la Cadre du □□ Pour la Culture, □Face Loire□ (i.e., the column facing the river); □Face Salles D'Audience□ (i.e., the column facing the courtrooms). Our thanks to Jenny Holzer, Alanna Gelgaudas, and Jean-Paul Miriglio for providing us with materials on these quotations and the texts.

190 Nantes, □ntervention de Jenn□ □ ol□er.

191 Nantes, □ntervention de Jenn□ □ ol□er.

192 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□.

193 □Quel sens peut prendre l'abondance des extraits de textes religieux□. . . De m□me, tel auteur, en compl□te contradiction de pens□e avec la R□publique et la d□mocratie doit-il vraiment □tre cit□□ (What sense can we make of the abundance of religious texts□. . . Likewise, does an author, in complete philosophical contradiction with the Republic and democracy, deserve to be cited□). Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□.

194 □Les risques d'inexactitude sont r□els.□ Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□.

195 We have translated the quote provided in Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□: □Ce serait beau, l'honn□tet□ d'un avocat qui demanderait la condamnation de son client□ by J. Renard.

196 Tarride, Study in Courthouse Symbolism at □□.

197 Leers at □□□.

198 Gore at □□. The photograph in figure □□□ is reproduced with the permission of the photographer, Olivier Wogenscky, the APIJ, and the AMOTMJ and the Ministry of Justice, which first provided the photograph to us.

199 Nouvel wrote, ⊠le couleur et le volume donnent ⊠ ces salles la noblesse requise et une certaine esth⊠tique.⊠ Nouvel at ⊠⊠.

200 Gore at ⊠⊠.

201 Gore at ⊠⊠.

202 Gore at ⊠⊠. In contrast, Athenont described the immense ⊠salle des pas perdus⊠ as providing a sense that judicial services were approachable and welcoming. Athenont at ⊠⊠.

203 Leers at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

204 Leers at ⊠⊠⊠.

205 Bels, Architectural Image of Justice at ⊠.

206 Bels, New Directions at ⊠⊠.

207 Bels, New Directions at ⊠⊠⊠.

208 Bels, New Directions at ⊠⊠⊠.

209 Bels, New Directions at ⊠⊠⊠.

210 See Michael Gibson, Cartier ⊠oundation⊠ ⊠ lass ⊠ ouse, New York Times, May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠; Bels, New Directions at ⊠⊠.

211 Garapon, Imagining the Courthouse at ⊠. ⊠Ce qui frappe dans les palais de justice modernes, c'est leur silence symbolique⊠ (What is striking in the modern courthouses is their symbolic silence). See also Garapon, S⊠m⊠olism of the Courtroom at ⊠⊠.

212 Garapon, Imagining the Courthouse at ⊠–⊠⊠. He saw the new structures as perhaps reflecting the agency of individuals through the leveling of power and the focus on victims, or, as he put it, ⊠Le sujet est deveuu le v⊠ritable h⊠ros de ces palais modernes⊠ (The subject has become the true hero in these modern courthouses). Id. at ⊠. He also argued (⊠ la Foucault) that the diffusion of power risked its being both everywhere and nowhere. Garapon recommended the elimination of standard offices and the creation of an intermediary space⊠ something between a courtroom and an office ⊠ where bureaucracy was replaced with more public spaces that enable ⊠the circulation of language⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. As we discuss in Chapter ⊠⊠, what Jeremy Bentham added about publicity is critical to our endeavors as well. Bels also categorized some of the glass as potentially ⊠meaningless transparency⊠ Bels, New Directions at ⊠⊠⊠.

213 Garapon, Imagining the Courthouse at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. He urged architects to learn to design courthouses that make legible the cosmopolitan obligations of a democratic justice aiming to offer security, shelter, protection, and accountability. As discussed in Chapters ⊠ and ⊠⊠, Byard was concerned that ⊠contemporary court architecture is about effect, not substance; about reassurance, not inspiration; about how great we have been, not how great we might become⊠ Paul Spencer Byard, ⊠eadin⊠ the ⊠ rchitecture of Toda⊠⊠ Courthouse, in Celebrating the Courthouse ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠.

214 Leers at ⊠⊠⊠; David Gruber, ⊠nternational Des⊠n Competition, ⊠⊠ Progressive Architecture ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

215 See Israel Supreme Court Building at ⊠. In addition, the ⊠structure forms a link in a chain of buildings and sites leading from the Rockefeller Museum, extending through the Damascus Gate ⊠of the walled Old City of Jerusalem⊠, the Russian Compound, Zion Square, the Ben Yehuda Mall, and proceeding to Kiryat Ben-Gurion⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠.

216 Our thanks to Michael Fein for permission to use his photograph reproduced in figure ⊠⊠⊠, as well as to Aharon Barak, former President of the Supreme Court of Israel; to the Court's Registrar, Yigal Mersel; to Marcia Greenman Lebeau of the Public Affairs Department of the Court for providing us with materials on, and a thoughtful tour of, the building; and to Elinor Slater for translations and additional research.

217 Gruber at ⊠⊠.

218 Barbara A. Perry, The ⊠sraeli and ⊠ nited States Supreme Courts⊠ ⊠ Comparative ⊠e⊠ection on Their S⊠m⊠ols, ⊠na⊠es, and ⊠unctions, ⊠⊠ Review of Politics ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

219 Israel Supreme Court Building at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Dorothy de Rothschild played a central role as one of the foundation's trustees. The gift, initially offered in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, was conditioned on placement of the building proximate to the Knesset. Id. at ⊠⊠. In the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, that foundation funded the building of the Knesset. Perry at ⊠⊠⊠.

220 Both Ram Karmi and Ada Karmi-Melamede were educated at Israel's Technion Institute in Haifa as well as in London, and they joined together for this project. They are the ⊠second generation of a distinguished architectural family⊠ Their father, Dov Karmi, was a ⊠pioneer of the Tel Aviv Bauhaus style⊠ See Timothy Brittain-Catlin, Supreme Bein⊠⊠ Supreme Court Buildin⊠, Jerusalem, ⊠⊠⊠ Architectural Review ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

221 Israel Supreme Court Building at ⊠⊠. Advisors included Jean Boggs, who had organized the competition for Canada's National Art Gallery, and Harold Williams, President of the Getty Foundation in the United States. For the jury, three American and two Israeli architects were joined by Meir Shamgar, President of the Supreme Court of Israel; Sir Isaiah Berlin of England; Lord Rothschild; and the architectural critic of London's ⊠inancial Times. The juror-architects were William Lacy (who chaired the panel and had also been the Director of the Architecture and Environmental Design Program of the National Endowment for the Arts), architects Charles Moore and Cesar Pelli from the United States, and David Reznik and Daniel Havkin from Israel. Id.

222 Israel Supreme Court Building at ⊠⊠. Initial bids came from more than ⊠⊠⊠ architects; firms from abroad as well as three from Israel were invited to participate. Id. at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. See also Notes of the Second State of the Architectural Competition (memo from Bill N. Lacy, Chair, undated and provided to us by the court) (hereinafter Lacy Architectural Competition Memo).

223 See Judges, Judges in Rabbinical Courts, Lawyers, Israel Police and Prison Service, Statistical Abstract of Israel, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, no. ⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.⊠ (data for ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.cbs.gov.il/shnaton⊠⊠/st⊠⊠⊠⊠.pdf. An additional ⊠⊠ judges sat in rabbinical courts.

224 For population statistics see ProCon.org's website.

225 Israeli Supreme Court / Chapter A⊠ Background and Planning Criteria, memorandum provided by the information office of the Israeli Supreme Court (hereinafter Israeli Supreme Court Planning Memorandum), at ⊠.⊠, ⊠The Nature and Symbolism of the Building.⊠

226 Israeli Supreme Court Planning Memorandum at ⊠.⊠ (⊠The Nature and Symbolism of the Building⊠).

227 Israeli Supreme Court Planning Memorandum at ⊠.⊠ (⊠The Nature and Symbolism of the Building⊠).

228 Israeli Supreme Court Planning Memorandum at ⊠.⊠ (⊠Design Flexibility⊠).

229 Israeli Supreme Court Planning Memorandum at ⊠.⊠ (⊠Security Requirements⊠).

230 Israeli Supreme Court Planning Memorandum at ⊠.⊠ (⊠Security Requirements⊠).

231 Gruber at ⊠⊠. See also Israel Department of Public Affairs, The Supreme Court (hereinafter ⊠srael Supreme Court Brochure).

232 Israeli Supreme Court Planning Memorandum at ⊠.⊠ (⊠Security Requirements⊠).

233 Lacy Architectural Competition Memo at ⊠. The ⊠client⊠ was ⊠twofold⊠⊠ a trustee of the Rothschilds' foundation and the Chief Justice of the court, Meir Shamgar. See Ziva Freiman, The Jo⊠ of a Life⊠ time, ⊠⊠ Progressive Architecture ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

234 Haim Yacobi, ⊠orm ⊠ollows Metaphors⊠⊠ Critical Discourse ⊠nal⊠sis of the Construction of the ⊠sraeli Supreme Court Buildin⊠ in Jerusalem, ⊠ Journal of Architecture ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

235 Israel Supreme Court Building at ⊠⊠.

236 Israel Supreme Court Building at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

237 Israel Supreme Court Building at ⊠⊠ (quoting Karmi-Melamede and Karmi from the interview with the jury).

238 Architects' Statement of Intent, for the Supreme Court (undated court file copy). The description provided in the statement overlaps with published accounts, including Ada Karmi-Melamede, The Supreme Court Buildin, srael, PERSPECTA () (hereinafter Karmi-Melamede, Supreme Court Buildin).

239 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at .

240 Paul Goldberger, *Pu*lic Work that nno*les as Serves*, NEW YORK TIMES, Aug. , , at A. In Israel, Corinthian columns do not a convincing courthouse make.

241 Perry at , n. (citing Psalm : : He will lead me in the circles of justice). As we noted in Chapter , we use the Old and New Testament terminology, given that both literatures on law and on art history use that nomenclature.

242 srael Supreme Court Brochure (citing Psalm :).

243 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at (citing mos :).

244 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at . The brochure for the court assumed a more positivist reading of the text You will appoint judges and officers in all your gates . . . and they will judge people with a just judgment. srael Supreme Court Brochure (citing Deuteronom :). The brochure noted that biblical courts were situated at the gates of the city and linked the foyer design to such gates. Further, in their discussions, the architects invoked biblical references as if those sources provided directions. See, for example, Karmi-Melamede, Supreme Court Buildin at –.

245 This didacticism has been criticized as an effort to instill the building with more authority than it deserves, given the conflict within Israel over sovereignty. See Yacobi at –. Yacobi read the architects as seeking to construct the building's meaning as much through commentary as through design. Id. at .

246 Karmi-Melamede, Supreme Court Buildin at .

247 Perry at ; *The Ph*sical and Philosophical Premises of the Parti*, PROGRESSIVE ARCHITECTURE – ( ).

248 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at (quoting interviews).

249 Ram Karmi, The srael Supreme Court, ZODIAC .

250 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at .

251 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at . See also Architects' Statement of Intent at ; Karmi-Melamede, Supreme Court Buildin at .

252 Yacobi at , –.

253 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at . The four autonomous blocks are bisected not only by the cardo but also by the decumanus which leads toward the city. The two axes create one aspect of the building's geometry, contrasted with the circular shape of the indoor corridors.

254 Karmi Architects, The sraeli Supreme Court Buildin, ARCHITECTURE AND URBANISM , ( ).

255 Perry at . An unhewn stone wall near the entrance has mirrors at its base to create the illusion that the building's foundation extends deep into the earth . . . to suggest the foundations of the Old City of Jerusalem. srael Supreme Court Brochure.

256 Perry at (quoting the Shamgar interview by Freiman at).

257 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at .

258 Figure is reproduced with the permission of Richard Bryant / arcaid.Co.UK and with the assistance of the court.

259 The initial plan to have as little security as possible has been superseded by concerns over safety; by , more checkpoints had been added.

260 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at –.

261 Architects' Statement of Intent at .

262 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at .

263 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at (quoting Lord Stowell, an English judge, in ruling on the relationship between the state's judicial authority and international law).

264 sraeli Supreme Court Brochure; ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at –. The tomb of Absalom is carved out of a Cliff-side in Jerusaem and dates to the first century CE. The Tomb of Zechariah is outside the walls of the Old City and is a monolith carved out of a cliff side dating to the first century BCE. See Jerusalem (tombs) at Yale Divinity School's website, http://research.yale.edu: /divdl/eikon/subjects.jsp subjectid .

265 Goldberger at A.

266 Architects' Statement of Intent at . They continued: Justice is described in the Bible as a circle, while law is described as a line Id.

267 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at .

268 The tradition of using stone began at the end of World War I in , when the British conquered Jerusalem. In , Military Governor Ronald Storrs set up a requirement for the exteriors of buildings to be stone (or, some report, imposed a prohibition on plaster, exposed concrete, and less high-quality facades). See RUTH KARK & MICHAL OREN-NORDHEIM, JERUSALEM AND ITS ENVIRONS: QUARTERS, NEIGHBORHOODS, VILLAGES – at – (Detroit, MI: Wayne State U. Press,); see also HENRY KENDALL, JERUSALEM: THE CITY PLAN, PRESERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT DURING THE BRITISH MANDATE – at ch. II (London, Eng.: His Majesty's Stationery Office,). Our thanks to Reuven Rosenfelder for helping us to trace this practice and to Camilla Tubbs for locating its legal source.

269 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at – . Four dressing techniques denoted by Arabic names (Tubzeh, Taltish, Mesamsam, and Motabeh) and many chiseled by Arab artisans created a spectrum of textures Gruber at .

270 The photograph in figure was provided to us and reproduced with the permission of the photographer, Michael Fein, and the assistance of the court.

271 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at –.

272 Perry at (quoting Karmi and Karmi-Melamede). Perry also quoted Ram Karmi's statement that the light in Jerusalem was absolute, like the Justice . . . brought down from Mount Sinai. . . . In a sense, the light represents justice Id. at .

273 The photograph in figure is reproduced with the permission of the photographer, Jonathan Curtis-Resnik, and with the assistance of the court.

274 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at –.

275 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at .

276 srael Supreme Court Brochure. See Psalm : .

277 Architects' Statement of Intent at .

278 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at .

279 Its jurisdiction encompasses individual petitions against state and local authorities or against individuals serving in public offices. See srael Supreme Court Brochure.

280 During the first six months of , the Supreme Court received , petitions, decided , , and issued decisions in its function as an appellate court. See http://elyon.court.gov.il/heb/haba/ -.pdf.

281 See The sraeli Supreme Court at The Judicial Authority, The State of Israel, http://elyon.court.gov.il/eng/system/index.htm (hereinafter Israeli Court website). See also Perry at –.

282 ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at –.

283 Perry at .

284 The small-sized courtroom, of square meters (, square feet), seats forty. ISRAEL SUPREME COURT BUILDING at . The medium-sized courtroom, of square meters (about , square feet), seats about seventy. Id. at . The larger courtroom, of square meters (more than , square feet), seats . Id. at . All of the courtrooms, except courtroom , have a prisoner dock and a press box. srael Supreme Court Brochure.

285 The photograph in figure is reproduced with the permission of the photographer, Richard Bryant / arcaid.co.uk, and with the court's assistance.

286 Israeli Court website, The Courtrooms.

287 Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯.

288 Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯.

289 Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯▯.

290 Perry at ▯▯▯.

291 Freiman at ▯▯.

292 ▯srael Supreme Court Brochure.

293 Israeli Court website, The Mosaic. The mosaic was found in ▯▯▯▯ by Professor Eleazar Sukenik of Hebrew University, who is also credited with discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls. Figures ▯▯▯–▯▯▯ are reproduced with the permission of the photographer, Jonathan Curtis-Resnik, and the assistance of the court.

294 Al Hamishmar newspaper clipping of June ▯▯, ▯▯▯▯, translated by Elinor Slater.

295 The plaque includes the name of the foundation (Yad Hanadiv) as well as the names of the architects, the project coordinator, the contractors, and the engineers, and the date (in Hebrew), ▯▯▯▯. Translation by Rachel Slater.

296 Freiman at ▯▯. That mosaic, from the Byzantine era, was uncovered in ▯▯▯▯ and has inscriptions of ▯good luck▯ as well as other references.

297 See Israeli Court website, The S▯m▯ols.

298 Israeli Court website, *The S▯m▯ol*s. The website explains that the ▯area is under the authority of the Prison Service▯ Id.

299 See Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯▯.

300 Israeli Court website, The S▯m▯ols. The phrase comes from Leviticus ▯▯:▯▯.

301 Jewish Heritage Museum, Brochure, provided by the court. Our thanks to Orna Yair, the curator of the museum, who gave us a tour and explained the exhibits.

302 Jewish Heritage Museum Brochure.

303 Perry at ▯▯▯.

304 Perry at ▯▯▯. Our information also comes from Marcia Greenman Lebeau, who provided us with a tour of the facility in December of ▯▯▯▯.

305 Perry at ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯. See also Ruth Gavison, The ▯ole of Courts in ▯ifted Democracies, ▯▯ Israel Law Review ▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯).

306 See Perry at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; see also Gary Jeffrey Jacobsohn, Three Models of Secular Constitutional Development▯▯ndia, ▯srael, and the ▯ nited States, ▯▯ Studies in American Political Development ▯ (▯▯▯▯); Aharon Barak, Supreme Court, ▯▯▯▯ Term▯ ▯oreword▯▯ Jud▯e on Jud▯in▯▯The ▯ole of a Supreme Court in a Democrac▯, ▯▯▯ Harvard Law Review ▯▯ (▯▯▯▯).

307 Brittain-Catlin at ▯▯.

308 Many proposals have been presented to the Israeli parliament for divesting the court of some of its jurisdiction or otherwise limiting its authority. Perry at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯.

309 Clare Melhuish, ▯da ▯arm▯▯Melamede and ▯am ▯arm▯ Supreme Court of Jerusalem, ▯▯ Architectural Design ▯▯ (▯▯▯▯).

310 Goldberger at A▯▯.

311 Goldberger at A▯▯.

312 Goldberger at A▯▯.

313 Perry at ▯▯▯.

314 Freiman at ▯▯.

315 Brittain-Catlin at ▯▯–▯▯.

316 Yacobi at ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯.

317 Goldberger at A▯▯.

318 Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯.

319 Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯▯.

320 Perry at ▯▯▯.

321 Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯▯.

322 Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯. The description comes from the discussion by Ram Karmi in Karmi Architects.

323 Israel Supreme Court Building at ▯▯.

324 Yacobi at ▯▯▯.

325 Yacobi at ▯▯▯.

326 Mulcahy, ▯rchitects of Justice at ▯▯▯. The dollar figure refers to the value in ▯▯▯▯.

327 See Constitutional Reform Act, ▯▯▯▯, c. ▯ ▯▯ ▯, ▯–▯ (UK). The court serves as the final court of appeal in England, Wales, and Northern Ireland and hears civil appeals from Scotland. The website of the architects, Feilden▯Mawson LLP, explained the objectives for the renovated building to be making ▯the final court of appeal more accessible▯ reflecting the ▯significance▯ of the institution, and siting it in a place that emphasized the role played by the court as a ▯cornerstone▯ of constitutional rights. See Feilden▯Mawson LLP, Creating a Home for the UK Supreme Court, http://www.feildenandmawson.com/supreme-court/. The renovations of Middlesex Guildhall for the court were to cost some ▯▯ million pounds (about ▯▯▯▯ million, in ▯▯▯▯ values). See Frances Gibb, ▯irst Look ▯nside Britain▯s New Supreme Court, Times Online, Sept. ▯▯, ▯▯▯▯, http://business.timesonline.co.uk/tol/business/law/article▯▯▯▯▯▯▯.ece. The court's carpet, designed by Sir Peter Blake, has a brightly colored repeating pattern that echoes a new emblem, consisting of a rose joined with the leaves of a leek to represent England and Wales, a thistle for Scottland, and flax for Ireland. See Afua Hirsch, Modernit▯ v Prudence, ▯▯▯▯ Jur▯s ▯ ▯ut on ▯ ▯▯▯▯▯m Supreme Court, The Guardian, July ▯▯, ▯▯▯▯, at ▯▯ (Home Pages); BBC News, ▯n Pictures▯▯ ▯ Supreme Court, http://news.bbc.co.uk/▯/hi/in▯pictures/▯▯▯▯▯▯▯.stm; The Supreme Court of the United Kingdom: History, Art, Architecture (Chris Miele, ed., London, Eng.: Merrell Publishers, ▯▯▯▯). Our thanks to Supreme Court Justice Lady Brenda Hale for helping us to learn about the ▯▯▯▯ renovations.

328 See, for example, The Federal Constitutional Court of Germany: Architecture and Jurisdiction (Verein der Richter des Bundesverfassungsgerichts, eds., Basel, Ger.: Birkh▯user Publishers for Architecture, ▯▯▯▯).

329 Michael Black, ▯epresentations of Justice, speech given at the June ▯▯▯▯ conference and reproduced in ▯ Journal of Social Change and Critical Inquiry (▯▯▯▯), unpaginated e-journal (now o▯ ine) (hereinafter Black, ▯epresentations).

330 Our thanks to Marilyn Warren, Chief Justice of Victoria, for providing us with a tour and information about the court as well as the photographs in figures ▯▯▯ and ▯▯▯ and the permission to use them.

331 Correspondence with the staff of Chief Justice Marilyn Warren. In ▯▯▯▯, the Colony of Victoria came into existence, and in ▯▯▯▯, its court followed. See Michael Challinger, Historic Court Houses of Victoria ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯ (Victoria, Aust.: Palisade Press, ▯▯▯▯). The building depicted, located in downtown Melbourne, was completed in ▯▯▯▯. See Supreme Court of Victoria, www.supremecourt.vic.gov.au (follow links to ▯Court,▯ ▯History,▯ ▯Building▯). The design, by Alfred Louis Smith, resembles Dublin's court, reflecting that four of the judges who sat on the court were also Irish. Challinger at ▯▯▯. Its statue of Justice was carved by Emmanuel Semper; a bronze replica was installed in ▯▯▯▯. Id. at ▯▯▯. Its ▯dark polished cedar▯ the ▯high-set judicial benches, and lofty ceilings resulted in acoustics which were uniformly poor▯ Id. Renovated, it has been called ▯Australia's largest and best-preserved nineteenth-century court complex▯ Id. at ▯▯▯. That court's twenty-first-century renovations are explained by Diane Jones, ▯istoric Courts▯Between Civic Memor▯ and a ▯uture of ▯ ope, Architecture Australia, Sept./Oct. ▯▯▯▯, at ▯▯, ▯▯–▯▯, and by Bob Sinclair, ▯erita▯e and Technolo▯▯, Architecture Australia, Sept./Oct. ▯▯▯▯, at ▯▯–▯▯▯.

332 Black, ▯epresentations. Using a building design to make a statement of a break from the past can be found in other jurisdictions. As we discuss in Chapter ▯▯, the Constitutional Court of Spain, since ▯▯▯▯, has been housed in a recycled building designed in the ▯▯▯▯s by Antonio Bonet and Francisco G. Valdes for a medical institution. That seven-floor round structure's modernity stands in contrast to classical court forms in Spain and therefore marks the different kind of justice provided in the post-Franco era.

A word about the High Court of Australia is in order. That court (the final appellate court in the system) sits in the nation's capital, Canberra. The building is part of a government complex built in the late ⌧⌧⌧⌧s and the ⌧⌧⌧⌧s that includes the National Gallery, designed by Edwards Madigan and Torzillo Briggs, who were also the architects for the High Court. See Thomas Heath, ⌧ith⌧h Court of⌧ustralia, Can⌧⌧erra, ⌧⌧⌧ Architectural Review ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). The courthouse, a ⌧basic cubic form of the building⌧ includes a wall made almost entirely of glass that creates ⌧a building of light⌧ Id. at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. Its interior is centered around a vertical open stairway. Its main courtroom puts the judges' bench only slightly above the floor and spectators on banked tiers, akin to some theater layouts. See also Davina Jackson, Cool for Crats, ⌧⌧ Wallpaper ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). Our thanks to the Honorable Michael Kirby who provided us with a tour of the building.

333 Black, ⌧epresentations.

334 Black, ⌧epresentations.

335 Black, ⌧epresentations.

336 Black, ⌧epresentations.

337 Black, ⌧epresentations.

338 Our thanks to Chief Justice Michael Black of the Federal Court of Australia, Mary McIlwain, and court staff for their help in obtaining materials about and photographs of the court, and to Martin Saunders Photography and the court for permission to reproduce the photograph in figure ⌧⌧⌧.

339 Robert Powell⌧ Patrick Bingham-Hall, Hassell: Poetic Pragmatism ⌧⌧ (Sydney, Aust.: Pesaro Publishing, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (hereinafter Powell/Hassell).

340 Powell/Hassell at ⌧⌧.

341 Powell/Hassell at ⌧⌧.

342 Powell/Hassell at ⌧⌧.

343 Powell/Hassell at ⌧⌧.

344 Powell/Hassell at ⌧.

345 As we discuss in Chapter ⌧⌧, when the Federal Court holds court elsewhere, it displays the Coat of Arms to symbolize that the space in which it sits⌧ in Chapter ⌧⌧, in an open-air tent⌧ is constitued as a court.

346 Powell/Hassell at ⌧⌧.

347 Our thanks to Mary McIlwain of the Federal Court of Australia and to the court for permission to use her photograph, reproduced in figure ⌧⌧⌧.

348 Powell/Hassell at ⌧⌧.

349 Hamish Lyon, ⌧assell⌧ Law, ⌧⌧ Architecture Australia ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ (Sept.–Oct. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

350 Powell/Hassell at ⌧⌧.

351 Black, ⌧epresentations.

352 Lyon at ⌧⌧. He also noted that the problem was not new; major nineteenth-century buildings also criss-crossed sectors.

353 Our thanks to Riitta Nikula, Professor of Art History at the University of Helsinki, Finland, who made a visit to this court possible; to Tuomo Siitonen Architects; to the photographers, Mikael Linden (for the exterior view in figure ⌧⌧⌧) and Jussi Tiainen (for the interior images in figures ⌧⌧⌧ and ⌧⌧⌧); and to the court. The photographs in figures ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧ are provided by and reproduced with the permission of the architect.

354 See Tuomo Siitonen, ⌧iinatehtaasta oikeustalo⌧⌧rom ⌧lcohol Plant to Courthouse, ⌧ Arkkitechti ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). After the end of Prohibition, the state organized a design competition that produced the ⌧⌧⌧⌧ building.

355 Jonathan Glancey, Spirit of⌧dventure, The Guardian, March ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, at ⌧⌧ (Culture section).

356 Glancey.

357 See Siitonen at ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, pic. ⌧.

358 See Siitonen at ⌧⌧.

359 Helsinki District Court Brochure at ⌧ (provided by the court, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). More than five hundred lay judges participate in the court's work. All the offices have access to light.

360 See Siitonen at ⌧⌧.

361 Glancey.

362 Law Profile of Finland ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ (Nina Meincke, ed., British Council ⌧ European Lawyers' Association, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

363 Helsinki District Court Brochure at ⌧–⌧.

364 The architect relied in part on the ⌧grid pattern of the glass wall of the old bottling plant⌧ Siitonen at ⌧⌧.

365 Glancey.

366 Glancey.

367 Glancey.

368 Heidi Landecker, Court⌧ouses, ⌧⌧ Architecture ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ (Jan. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

369 Landecker at ⌧⌧.

370 See Edward M. Peters, Prison ⌧efore the Prison⌧The ⌧ncient and Medieval Worlds, in The Oxford History of the Prison: The Practice of Punishment in Western Society ⌧–⌧⌧ (Norval Morris ⌧ David J. Rothman, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (hereinafter Oxford History of the Prison). See also Pieter Spierenburg, The Prison Experience: Disciplinary Institutions and Their Inmates in Modern Europe (New Brunswick, NJ: Rutgers U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧); ⌧⌧ The Emergence of Carceral Institutions: Prisons, Galleys and Lunatic Asylums ⌧⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧⌧ (Pieter Spierenburg, ed., Rotterdam, Neth.: Erasmus University Rotterdam, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

371 See generally Nicola Lacey, The Prisoners' Dilemma: Political Economy and Punishment in Contemporary Democracies (The Hamlyn Lectures) (New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Our thanks to her as well for commenting on a draft of this portion of the chapter.

372 See Robert Tittler, Architecture and Power: The Town Hall and the English Urban Community c. ⌧⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧⌧ at ⌧⌧⌧ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (quoting R. B. Pugh, Imprisonment in Medieval England, ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (emphasis in the original). In addition to noting the connection between prisons and town halls, Tittler described the development of classifications of inmates and some degree of their separation as well as pressures to create separate facilities. Id. at ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧.

373 Tittler at ⌧⌧⌧ (emphasis in the original deleted). The list of diseases included ⌧typhus, plague, gaol fever⌧ Id.

374 Carl Lounsbury, The Courthouses of Early Virginia: An Architectural History ⌧⌧⌧ (Charlottesville, VA: U. of Virginia Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). In Virginia, those detained included ⌧runaway servants and slaves⌧ Id. Peters gave examples of longer terms of imprisonment for various persons (including prisoners of war) in Greece, Egypt, and Rome in ⌧the ancient world⌧ See Peters at ⌧–⌧⌧. In contrast, in Christian Europe before the ninth century, prisons were rarely mentioned. Id. at ⌧⌧. The Inquisition, however, did rely on incarceration. Id. at ⌧⌧. Florence constructed its first public prison in ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and there housed children as well as inmates of all ages, genders, and ⌧degree⌧s⌧ of sanity⌧ Id. at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. Venice's public prison of the ⌧⌧⌧⌧s had four hundred cells. Id. at ⌧⌧. Venice joined other Italian city-states and the ⌧kings of Sicily, England, France, and Castile⌧ in relying on imprisonment as part of the criminal punishment system. Id. at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧.

375 Pieter Spierenburg, The Bod⌧ and the State⌧⌧arly⌧ Modern ⌧urope, in Oxford History of the Prison at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. Included were ⌧galley sentences⌧ forcing individuals to provide labor on boats⌧ thereby creating a model for subsequent ⌧workhouses⌧ Id. at ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. Spierenburg traced the transition to penal institutions during the seventeenth century in Germany, France, England, and the Dutch Republic. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. In another volume Spierenburg detailed the [illegible]roots of imprisonment[illegible] in monasteries and asylums and the warehousing of poor vagrants and other [illegible]disorderly[illegible] persons. Spierenburg at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

376 Tittler at [illegible]–[illegible]. Spierenburg also mapped the distinctions between the English system and that of continental Europe. He noted that more correction houses existed in England than in Europe in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Id. at [illegible]. England also exported prisoners to colonies until the nineteenth century, when more prisons were built. Id. at [illegible]. By the eighteenth century, England's prisons provided models for those in the United States. See Randall McGowen, The Well[illegible] rdered Prison[illegible]n[illegible]land, [illegible], in Oxford History of the Prison at [illegible]–[illegible].

377 Lounsbury at [illegible].

378 The first facilities, in addition to Leavenworth in Kansas, were sited in Atlanta, Georgia, and McNeil Island, Washington. See Gregory L. Hershberger, The Development of the [illegible]ederal Prison S[illegible]stem, [illegible] Federal Probation [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

379 Lounsbury at [illegible]–[illegible].

380 Spierenburg, Prison Experience at [illegible].

381 David J. Rothman, Perfectin[illegible] the Prison[illegible] nited States, [illegible], in Oxford History of the Prison at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. An extant example of the spoke/wheel architecture can be found at Eastern State Penitentiary in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. See Rothman at [illegible]–[illegible] (including an illustration). See generally David J. Rothman, The Discovery of the Asylum: Social Order and Disorder in the New Republic (Boston, MA: Little, Brown, rev. ed., [illegible]). Virginia created a [illegible]massive masonry prison for Richmond[illegible] reflecting some of Bentham's ideas. Lounsbury at [illegible]–[illegible].

382 See generally George Fisher, The Birth of the Prison [illegible]etold, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]). Fisher argued that the focus was on the reform of younger, or [illegible]juvenile[illegible] prisoners.

383 See Jean-Pierre Pech, [illegible]i[illegible]n[illegible]Provence[illegible]Le Palais Monclar[illegible] construire un palais dans une prison ([illegible]i[illegible]n[illegible]Provence[illegible]the Monclar Courthouse[illegible]Buildin[illegible]a Courthouse in a Prison), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible], [illegible].

384 See Jean-Pierre Pech, [illegible]i[illegible]n[illegible]Provence[illegible]Le Palais Monclar[illegible] construire un palais dans une prison ([illegible]i[illegible]n[illegible]Provence[illegible]the Monclar Courthouse[illegible]Buildin[illegible]a Courthouse in a Prison), in New French Judicial Architecture at [illegible], [illegible].

385 McGowen at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; Lounsbury at [illegible]–[illegible].

386 See Leslie Fairweather, Does Desi[illegible]n Matter[illegible], in Prison Architecture at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

387 Elaine Bailey, Buildin[illegible] for [illegible]rowth, in Prison Architecture at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

388 Ian Dunbar [illegible] Leslie Fairweather, [illegible]n[illegible]lish Prison Desi[illegible]n, in Prison Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible]. Some also sought to site facilities proximate to communities so that inmates could have contact and to enable a variety of living settings depending on the detainee. Leslie Fairweather, Ps[illegible]cholo[illegible]ical [illegible]ects of the Prison [illegible]nvironment, in Prison Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

389 Stephen Shaw, Prison [illegible]rchitecture and the Politics of [illegible]eform, in Prison Architecture at [illegible].

390 See Se[illegible]n McConville, The [illegible]rchitectural [illegible]eali[illegible]ation of Penal [illegible]deas, in Prison Architecture at [illegible].

391 Lacey offered a transnational analysis. See also Sandra L. Resodihardjo, Crisis and Change in the British and Dutch Prison Services: Understanding Crisis Reform Processes (Burlington, VT: Ashgate, [illegible]).

392 Figures come from the Bureau of Justice Statistics, http://bjs.ojp.usdoj.gov/.

393 James Kessler, Prisons in the [illegible] S[illegible]Cost, [illegible]ualit[illegible] and Commu[illegible]nit[illegible] in Correctional Desi[illegible]n, in Prison Architecture at [illegible]. See also Stephan A. Kliment, Preface, in Phillips [illegible] Griebel at vii. The relationship between confinement in prisons and in institutions such as hospitals and asylums is explored in Bernard E. Harcourt, [illegible]rom the [illegible]s[illegible]lum to the Prison[illegible] [illegible]ethinkin[illegible] the [illegible]ncarceration [illegible]evolution, [illegible] Texas Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

394 Paige M. Harrison [illegible] Allen J. Beck, Bureau of Justice Statistics, Bulletin: Prison and Jail Inmates at Midyear [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. Department of Justice, [illegible]), http://bjs.ojp.usdoj.gov/index.cfm[illegible]ty[illegible]pbdetail[illegible]iid[illegible].

395 Bureau of Justice Statistics, Expenditure and Employment Database, National Estimates of Corrections Expenditures, http://bjs-data.ojp.usdoj.gov/dataonline/index.cfm.

396 Kessler at [illegible].

397 A [illegible] article reported that [illegible]for the first time, California will spend more on prisons than for its two university systems, the University of California and the California state universities, according to Geoffrey Long, the chief consultant to the State Assembly's Budget Committee[illegible] See Fox Butterfield, New Prisons Cast Shadow [illegible]ver [illegible]i[illegible]her [illegible]ducation, New York Times, April [illegible], [illegible]. Twelve years later, in [illegible], the San [illegible]rancisco Chronicle reported that [illegible]California is headed for a dubious milestone[illegible] for the first time the state will spend more on incarcerating inmates than on educating students in its public universities[illegible] (including community colleges as well as state universities and the University of California system). [illegible]Following the historic growth rates, in fiscal [illegible]–[illegible], prisons spending will come to about [illegible].[illegible] billion a year while overall higher education spending will come to [illegible].[illegible] billion[illegible] See James Sterngold, Prisons[illegible]Bud[illegible]et to Trump Colle[illegible]es[illegible] San Francisco Chronicle, May [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible]. [illegible]According to the May revisions of Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger's budget, the state will spend [illegible] billion on prisons in fiscal [illegible]–[illegible], a [illegible] percent increase from last year[illegible] and this ten billion represented approximately [illegible] percent of the state's total budget. See Enacted Budget, Corrections and Rehabilitation, http://[illegible]-[illegible].archives.ebudget.ca.gov/Enacted/StateAgencyBudgets/[illegible]/agency.html.

398 Figures come from the Bureau of Justice Statistics and can be found at http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/glance/tables/corr[illegible]tab.htm.

399 Scott Higgins, [illegible]espondin[illegible] to a [illegible]ourfold [illegible]ncrease in Popula[illegible]tion[illegible] The [illegible]perience of the [illegible]ederal Bureau of Prisons, in Prison Architecture at [illegible].

400 See Dora Schriro, U.S. Department of Homeland Security, Immigration Detention Overview and Recommendations [illegible] ([illegible]), http://www.ice.gov/doclib/[illegible]ice[illegible]detention[illegible]report-final.pdf. The [illegible],[illegible] figure is the number in detention on September [illegible], [illegible]. Id.

401 Norval Morris, Prisons in the [illegible] S[illegible]Superma[illegible] the Bad and the Mad, in Prison Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible]. Transfers to those settings can occur with minimal procedural protections.

402 See Wilkinson v[illegible]ustin, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

403 Wilkinson, [illegible] U.S. at [illegible]–[illegible].

404 See Sharon Dolovich, State Punishment and Private Prisons, [illegible] Duke Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]). Estimates were that [illegible],[illegible] persons were incarcerated in [illegible] in facilities [illegible]run by for-profit prison-management companies[illegible] Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

405 Dolovich at [illegible]–[illegible].

406 These two corporations were the dominant participants in the private prison market in the United States. Dolovich at [illegible], [illegible], n. [illegible].

407 Dolovich at [illegible]–[illegible]. In [illegible], the Supreme Court of Israel held that private prisons were unlawful under that country's Basic Law. See [illegible] CJ [illegible] [illegible]cademic Center of Law [illegible] Business, et al[illegible] v[illegible]Minister of [illegible]inance et al. [illegible], see also Eyal Press, [illegible] Blow to Privati[illegible]ation in [illegible]srael [illegible]and perhaps Be[illegible]ond[illegible], The Nation, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.thenation.com/blogs/notion/[illegible]/a[illegible]blow[illegible]to[illegible]privatization[illegible]in[illegible]israel[illegible]and[illegible]perhaps[illegible]beyond.

408 In France, [illegible],[illegible] new beds had been built toward the end of the twentieth century, with goals for more. See Jean Francois Jodry [illegible]

Michel Zulberty, Prisons in Europe: France, in Prison Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible]. The Netherlands also experienced expansion, albeit on a smaller scale. See Peter Van Hulten, Prisons in Europe: The Netherlands, in Prison Architecture at [illegible]–[illegible].

409 [illegible] MJ TMJ Report at [illegible], [illegible]. Also detailed were the establishment of halfway houses ("centres de semi-liberté"). Id. at [illegible].

410 Mengin, Two Centuries of Judicial Architecture at nn. [illegible], [illegible] (citing La loi d'orientation et de programmation pour la justice du [illegible] september [illegible]). See also Loi de finances pour [illegible], No. [illegible], Justice: Services Penitentiaires et Protection Judiciaire de la Jeunesse (Prison and Youth Services).

411 The spectacular costs and failures of the United States system are detailed in Norval Morris, The Contemporary Prison, [illegible] Present, in Oxford History of the Prison at [illegible]–[illegible].

412 Spierenburg, Prison Experience at [illegible]–[illegible]. He offered various theories and "paradoxes" including how imposition of certain forms of punishment—such as corporal punishment or physical isolation—makes people "queasy" in one era even if they are not troubled by these forms in another. Id. at [illegible].

Chapter [illegible]

1 See, for example, Civil Litigation in Comparative Context (Oscar G. Chase, Helen Hershkoff, Linda Silberman, Yasuhei Taniguchi, Vincenzo Varano, & Adrian Zuckerman, eds., St. Paul, MN: Thomson West, [illegible]). See also Oscar G. Chase, Law, Culture and Ritual: Disputing Systems in Cross-Cultural Context (New York, NY: New York U. Press, [illegible]).

2 A compendium, the Forum of Federations, characterizes [illegible] of [illegible] countries in the world as federations. See Forum of Federations, Federalism [illegible] Country, March [illegible], [illegible], http://www.forumfed.org/en/federalism/by-country/index.php. Of that group, seven (Austria, Belgium, Malaysia, Russia, South Africa, Spain, and Venezuela) were reported to have unitary judiciaries, in that their constituent subparts did not operate separate court systems. The question of whether a court is separate requires consideration of criteria including how the subunits' judges are selected and paid; the autonomy of the law that they are authorized to decide, such as separate constitutions; and the bureaucratic structures in which they work. See, for example, Alexander N. Domrin, The Russian Federation, October [illegible], [illegible], Forum of Federations, http://www.forumfed.org/libdocs/Global-Dialogue/Book-[illegible]/BK-C[illegible]-ru-Domrin-en.htm (describing the difficulty of determining whether Russia's subparts maintain separate court systems but ultimately concluding that "all subordinate courts within the jurisdiction of the Russian Supreme Court . . . are federal and not local or regional courts . . .").

3 See Alec Stone Sweet, Islands of Transnational Governance, in On Law, Politics and Judicialization [illegible]–[illegible] (Martin Shapiro & Alec Stone Sweet, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

4 Jasper Yeates Brinton, The Mixed Courts of Egypt [illegible]–[illegible] (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Brinton, Mixed Courts). Brinton was a "Justice of the Court of Appeals, Mixed Court of Egypt" and provided a history with appendices of resources and court rules but did not give footnotes for many quotations, this one included. Other "consular courts" existed in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries; foreign powers authorized their diplomats to decide cases involving their nationalities' subjects while in a foreign country. See Jasper Yeates Brinton, The Closing of the Mixed Courts of Egypt, [illegible] American Journal of International Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Brinton, Closing of the Mixed Courts); A. McDougall, The Position of Foreigners in Egypt on the Termination of the Mixed Courts, [illegible] British Year Book International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

5 The nomenclature varied with the treaty.

6 See Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation, United States–Great Britain, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible].

7 See also Judith Resnik, Law's Migration: American Exceptionalism, Silent Dialogues, and Federalism's Multiple Points of Entry, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Resnik, Law's Migration).

8 Jenny S. Martinez, "Antislavery" Courts and the Dawn of International Human Rights Law, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

9 See Treaty for the Abolition of the Slave Trade, Art. XII, Great Britain–Spain, Sept. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] British Foreign and State Papers [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. A modern-day analogue in terms of creating courts staffed by jurists from outside the jurisdiction are those that rely on "contract judges" to augment their own national judiciary. Botswana is one such example (Botswana Constitution, Sec. [illegible]/[illegible] (Court of Appeal)).

10 The length and complexity of the trials varied. Martinez at [illegible]–[illegible]. Condemned ships were generally auctioned off. Id. at [illegible]. The courts sometimes referred the crew for prosecution in their own countries. Martinez also noted the degree to which the British Foreign Office superintended its judges sitting on those courts. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

11 Martinez at [illegible]–[illegible].

12 For example, France, which did not have ships significantly involved after the [illegible]s, never joined, and the United States participated only in the [illegible]s. Martinez at [illegible]–[illegible].

13 See Resnik, Law's Migration at [illegible]–[illegible].

14 For example, at one point the "Mixed Courts of Commerce of Constantinople" had fourteen merchants, half Turkish and half foreigners, "sitting under the presidency of the Turkish Minister of Commerce." Brinton, Mixed Courts at [illegible].

15 Brinton, Mixed Courts at [illegible].

16 Brinton, Mixed Courts at [illegible]. The full list also included Austria, Belgium Denmark, Italy, Holland, Norway, and Portugal; the composition changed when treaties were renegotiated.

17 Brinton, Mixed Courts at [illegible]–[illegible]. He argued that lifetime appointments and pensions protected the judges' independence. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

18 Brinton, Closing of the Mixed Courts at [illegible].

19 The United States Constitution provides that citizens of different states can turn to the federal courts, and Congress has, with definitions and restrictions, put that prospect into practice. See U.S. Const., Art. III, and [illegible] U.S.C. § [illegible].

20 Brinton, Mixed Courts at [illegible]. Excluded were what in the United States are called "domestic relations" and probate issues. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. Crimes were included. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. However, that aspect of the jurisdiction was not exercised "to any significant extent." See Gabriel M. Wilner, The Mixed Courts of Egypt, a Study on the Use of Natural Law and Equity, [illegible] Georgia Journal of International and Comparative Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). On the other hand, Wilner reported that the Mixed Courts "never hesitated to pierce protective veils" to find jurisdiction, took jurisdiction over disputes involving "foreigners of the same nationality" and sometimes relied on a "straw man" to gain jurisdiction. Id. at [illegible], [illegible]. Further, the government of Egypt was a regular party as plaintiff or defendant in litigation with foreigners. Brinton, Mixed Courts at [illegible]–[illegible].

21 Brinton, Mixed Courts at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. Procedures were modeled after the French. Id. at [illegible].

22 See generally Ronald J. Daniels, Defecting on Development: Bilateral Investment Treaties and the Subversion of the Rule of Law in the Developing World (March [illegible], [illegible] draft), www.unisi.it.lawandeconomics/stile[illegible]/daniels.pdf. As Daniels explained, such treaties enable foreign investors to rely on international commercial arbitration so as to avoid domestic institutions and hence to enjoy legal "enclaves" that domestic investors cannot. In contrast, others see the utility of enabling investors to opt out of domestic systems. See Cheryl W. Gray & William W. Jarosz, Law and Regulation of Foreign Direct Investment: The Experience of Central and Eastern Europe, [illegible] Columbia Journal of Transnational Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

23 Arguments have also been advanced for the development of structures that invite foreigners to use well-functioning public courts in countries unrelated to where disputes arise. See Jens Dammann & Henry Hansmann, Globalizing Commercial Litigation, [illegible] Cornell Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

24 The texts establishing the WTO's Dispute Settlement System are online at http://www.wto.org/english/tratop_e/dispu_e/dsu_e.htm. See generally Kara Leitner and Simon Lester, WTO Dispute Resolution [illegible] A Statistical Analysis, [illegible] Journal of International Economic Law [illegible] ([illegible]); David Palmeter & Petros C. Mavroidis, Dispute Settlement in the World Trade Organization: Practice and Procedure (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]d ed., [illegible]); Giorgio Sacerdoti, Alan Yanovich, & Jan Bohanes, WTO at Ten: A Look at the Appellate Body (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]); see also Peter Drahos, Bilateral Web of Trade Dispute Settlement, paper presented at the conference "WTO Dispute Settlement and Developing Countries: Use, Implications, Strategies and Reform," May [illegible]. Bilateral agreements produce different rules; for example, a U.S.–Australia accord created a right to open hearings, while a Canada–Chile agreement provided for confidential proceedings. Id. at [illegible].

25 Brinton, Closing of the Mixed Courts at [illegible].

26 Brinton, Mixed Courts at xxiii. That building was opened in [illegible]. Id. at [illegible]. Figure [illegible], from Brinton, Mixed Courts at [illegible], is reprinted with the permission of Yale University Press. The French withdrew around that time, and British influence grew thereafter. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

27 Many commentators have examined the role of courts and legal institutions in mediating within and generating the identities of new polities, as well as the role to be played by a European constitution. See, for example, Neil MacCormick, Questioning Sovereignty: Law, State and Nation in the European Commonwealth (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]); Gráinne de Búrca & Joseph H. H. Weiler, The European Court of Justice (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]); Miguel P. Maduro, We the Court: the European Court of Justice and the European Economic Constitution: A Critical Reading of Article [illegible] of the EC Treaty (Oxford, Eng.: Hart Publishing, [illegible]).

28 Treaty on European Union, Art. [illegible], Feb. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] O.J. (C [illegible]), reprinted in [illegible] I.L.M. [illegible], [illegible] (amending Treaty Establishing the European Economic Community, Mar. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] U.N.T.S. [illegible]). See generally John Cole & Francis Cole, A Geography of the European Union (London, Eng.: Routledge, [illegible]d ed., [illegible]). What European citizenship means and courts' roles in constructing identity are the subjects of J. H. H. Weiler, The European Courts of Justice: Beyond "Beyond Doctrine" or the Legitimacy Crisis of European Constitutionalism, in European Courts and National Courts: Doctrine and Jurisprudence [illegible]–[illegible] (Anne-Marie Slaughter, Alec Stone Sweet, & Joseph H. H. Weiler, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Hart Publishing, [illegible]) (hereinafter European Courts and National Courts). More general discussion of the role of law and judges in constructing political identities can be found in Neil Walker's Taking Constitutionalism Beyond the State, [illegible] Political Studies [illegible] ([illegible]); Mattias Kumm, Why Europeans Will Not Embrace Constitutional Patriotism, [illegible] International Journal of Constitutional Law (I-CON) [illegible] ([illegible]); Judith Resnik, Law as [illegible]liation: [illegible]ore[illegible] Law, Democratic Federalism, and the Sovereignty of the Nation-State, [illegible] International Journal of Constitutional Law (I-CON) [illegible] ([illegible]); Brun-Otto Bryde, International Democratic Constitutionalism, in Towards World Constitutionalism: Issues in the Legal Ordering of the World Community [illegible]–[illegible] (Ronald St. John Macdonald & Douglas M. Johnson, eds., Dordrecht, Neth.: Martinus Nijhoff, [illegible]). Kumm, for example, argued that popular elections were both a predicate to a legal European identity and neither likely nor desirable. A different approach, also occasioning debate, focuses on the capacity to form a shared public sphere and discourse, understood as another kind of predicate to a European demos. See Marianne van de Steeg, Rethinking the Conditions for a Public Sphere in the European Union, [illegible] European Journal of Social Theory [illegible] ([illegible]).

29 The Court once served the European Community and has, since [illegible], served the European Union. The Court did not, however, change its formal name (Court of Justice for the European Community), although the titles of other institutions (e.g., both the Council and the Commission) were revised. See Hjalte Rasmussen, The European Court of Justice [illegible] (Copenhagen, Den.: GadJura, [illegible]).

30 The nomenclature for proceedings includes "references" and "direct actions." National courts may refer cases to the ECJ to gain interpretations of community law. In addition, Member States, the European Community, and individuals may bring cases to obtain judicial review of legal measures taken by the Community. See Angela Ward, Judicial Review and the Rights of Private Parties in EU Law [illegible]–[illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]d ed., [illegible]) (hereinafter Ward, Judicial Review and the ECJ); K. P. E. Lasok, Timothy Millet, & Anneli Howard, Judicial Control in the EU: Procedures and Principles (Richmond, Eng.: Richmond Law and Tax, [illegible]).

31 The Court was first created by the European Coal and Steel Treaty of April [illegible], [illegible]. Treaty Establishing the European Coal and Steel Community, Apr. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] U.N.T.S. [illegible]. Details of its subsequent evolution are provided in Carola Hein, The Capital of Europe: Architecture and Urban Planning for the European Union (Westport, CT: Praeger, [illegible]). The Court's first era is also charted in Rasmussen at [illegible]–[illegible].

32 The Court was elaborated through the Single European Act of February [illegible] and [illegible], [illegible], which provided for the Court of First Instance, "attached" to the Court of Justice. See ECSC Treaty, Art. [illegible], [illegible] U.N.T.S. [illegible]; E.C. Treaty [illegible], [illegible] U.N.T.S. [illegible]; Euratom Treaty, Art. [illegible], [illegible] U.N.T.S [illegible]. Subsequent treaties, including the Treaty of the European Union, signed in Maastricht, the Netherlands (and hence called the Maastricht Treaty) in [illegible], have added layers to the structure of the European Union. The procedural framework for the ECJ was influenced by the International Court of Justice, discussed in Chapter [illegible]. See generally European Courts: Practice and Precedents [illegible]–[illegible] (Richard Plender, ed., London, Eng.: Sweet & Maxell, [illegible]). See also Lasok and Millett at [illegible]–[illegible]. The many legal documents delineating the ECJ's authority, doctrine, and justification have produced a steady stream of scholarship.

33 See generally European Courts and National Courts.

34 See, for example, Ran Hirschl, Towards Juristocracy: The Origins and Consequences of the New Constitutionalism (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, [illegible]). Analysis of the mechanisms by which courts work as engines of integration is provided in Alec Stone Sweet, The Judicial Construction of Europe (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). See also Alec Stone Sweet, Governing with Judges: Constitutional Politics in Europe [illegible]–[illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). A more general review of "judicialization" in diverse settings is provided in the discussions in On Law, Politics and Judicialization.

35 Architecture and Art of the Court of Justice of the European Communities (Luxembourg City, Lux.: Office of the Official Publications of the European Communities, [illegible]) (hereinafter ECJ Architecture and Art).

36 Vassilios Skouris, President of the ECJ, Speech upon the Inauguration of the New Palace of Justice of the European Communities (Dec. [illegible], [illegible]) (hereinafter Skouris ECJ [illegible] Inaugural Speech). Our thanks to Christopher Fretwell for providing us with this text. As a newspaper report put it when the ECJ's new building opened, the ECJ "was initially a squatter. In [illegible] the seat of the court was given to Luxembourg, in the absence of a better location. In the Villa Vauban, hearings took place in the President's office, judges had to be sworn in in the marriage chambers of Luxembourg's city hall, and the clerk was located in Pierre Werner's old wedding chamber. ⊠Be happy, Mr. President, that you no longer have to sleep in the beds of others,' said Jean-Claude Juncker, prime minister of the grand-duchy⊠ (all translations from the French by Stella Burch Elias and by Allison Tait). See Les tours de Ba⊠el de la ⊠ustice europ⊠enne, Le Républicain Lorrain, Dec. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

37 Hein at ⊠⊠⊠.

38 Skouris ECJ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Inaugural Speech.

39 Luxembourg, along with Li⊠ge and The Hague, competed in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s to host the ECSC. Hein at ⊠⊠. Luxembourg became the site of the ECSC, while the Parliamentary Assembly went to Strasbourg. The European Economic Community and Euratom were seated in Brussels. Id. at ⊠⊠.

40 Hein at ⊠⊠⊠ (using this term in the title of the chapter devoted to Luxembourg).

41 Hein at ⊠⊠⊠. The European Investment Bank was founded in ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

42 A large literature debates the plausibility and desirability of the concept of national identity given the multi-ethnic, multi-cultural, and polynational groups within states, as well as the specific question of whether Europe could and should be understood as forming a single demos and, if so, what would be entailed in that identity. See generally Anthony Smith, National ⊠dentit⊠ and the ⊠dea of ⊠uropean ⊠nit⊠, ⊠⊠ International Affairs ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Bo Str⊠th, ⊠ ⊠uropean ⊠dentit⊠⊠To the ⊠istorical Limits of a Concept, ⊠ European Journal of Social Theory ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Will Kymlicka, The ⊠nternationali⊠a⊠tion of Minorit⊠ ⊠i⊠hts, ⊠ International Journal of Constitutional Law (I-CON) ⊠, ⊠–⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

43 Our thanks to Christopher Fretwell of the ECJ Press and Information Division and to Miguel Poiares Maduro, Advocate General of the ECJ, for information about the ECJ's work and for help in obtaining the images in figures ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ and materials about the ECJ, including speeches at the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ building's opening. Thanks as well to Advocate General Eleanor Sharpston, Peter Oliver, Philippa Watson, Peter Lindseth, Alec Stone Sweet, Patrick Weil, as well as to Angela Ward and Gerald Neuman for reviewing drafts of this chapter. The photograph in figure ⊠⊠⊠ is reproduced courtesy of the Court of Justice of the European Communities.

44 ECJ Architecture and Art at ⊠.

45 Hein at ⊠⊠⊠. The book dedicated to the ECJ explained that all architects in Europe were invited to participate (ECJ Architecture and Art at ⊠); Hein reported that local architects were authorized to ⊠invite foreign partners⊠ and that seventeen proposals were submitted. Id.

46 Hein at ⊠⊠⊠.

47 Hein at ⊠⊠⊠.

48 Maria Vittoria Capitanucci, Dominique Perrault: Recent Works ⊠⊠ (Milan, Ital.: Skira Editore, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Marianne Brausch ⊠ Ga⊠lle Lauriot-Prévost, The Major Extension of the Court of Justice of the European Communities (Luxembourg: Fund for the Urbanization and Building of the Kirchberg Plateau, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ECJ Major Extension). This volume is a French and English compilation of drawings of and interviews about the project.

49 ECJ Architecture and Art at ⊠⊠. The asbestos that once lined the interior were removed in ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

50 Hein at ⊠.

51 Hein at ⊠–⊠⊠; ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

52 Hein at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

53 Each of the members makes appointments, and the judges then act ⊠by common accord⊠ Treaty Establishing the European Economic Community, Art. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠), Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠.

54 For example, between ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ percent of the cases were heard by five judges, ⊠⊠ percent by three judges, and about ⊠⊠ percent by Grand Chambers. See Court of Justice of the European Union, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Annual Report (Luxembourg, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://curia.europa.eu/jcms/jcms/Jo⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠/rapports-annuels, ⊠Statistics Concerning the Judicial Activity of the Court of Justice⊠ (hereinafter ECJ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Annual Report) at ⊠⊠.

55 Six come from the larger Member States, and the others rotate among the smaller states. Rasmussen at ⊠⊠. The enlargement of the EU has prompted questions about how or whether to rethink this system. See Cyril Ritter, ⊠ New Look at the ⊠ole and ⊠mpact of ⊠dvocates⊠ ⊠eneral⊠ Collective⊠ and ⊠ndividual⊠, ⊠⊠ Columbia Journal of European Law ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). More on their role is provided by Rasmussen at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

56 Under what was Article ⊠⊠⊠ of the EEC Treaty and is now Article ⊠⊠⊠ of the Maastricht Treaty, Member States are authorized to refer questions on the interpretation of Community law to the ECJ. See Ward, Judicial Review and the ECJ at ⊠–⊠. A growing body of doctrine shapes the parameters and interactions between the national courts and those of Europe. See generally Dieter Grimm, The ⊠uropean Court of Justice and National Courts⊠ The ⊠erman Constitutional Perspective after the Maastricht Decision, ⊠ Columbia Journal of European Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Michael Dougan, National Remedies before the Court of Justice: Issues of Harmonisation and Differentiation (Oxford, Eng., and Portland, OR: Hart Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

57 See ECJ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Annual Report at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Earlier data are provided by Rasmussen at ⊠⊠.

58 Stone Sweet, The Judicial Construction of Europe at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

59 See Timothy Millet, The New ⊠uropean Court of ⊠irst ⊠nstance, ⊠⊠ International ⊠ Comparative Law Quarterly ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

60 See ECJ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Annual Report at ⊠⊠⊠.

61 See ECJ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Annual Report at ⊠⊠⊠.

62 Concerns about workload had led to restructuring. See The Role and Future of the European Court of Justice (J. P. Gardner, ed., London, Eng.: British Institute of International and Comparative Law, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

63 See ECJ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Annual Report at ⊠⊠⊠.

64 Almost ⊠⊠ percent of the docket is ruled on by three judges. See ECJ ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Annual Report at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠.

65 Rules of Procedure of the Court of Justice, Art. ⊠⊠ (⊠). See Stella Burch Elias, ⊠e⊠ional Minorities, Mi⊠rants and ⊠mmi⊠rants⊠ The ⊠eframin⊠ of Minorit⊠ Lan⊠ua⊠e ⊠i⊠hts in ⊠urope, ⊠⊠ Berkeley Journal of International Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

66 Rasmussen at ⊠⊠.

67 As of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the ECJ operated in twenty-three official languages: Bulgarian, Czech, Danish, Dutch, English, Estonian, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hungarian, Irish, Italian, Latvian, Lithuanian, Maltese, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Slovak, Slovene, Spanish, and Swedish.

68 The Translation Directorate supports the Court of First Instance, the Civil Service Tribunal, and the Court of Justice. See http://curia.europa.eu/jcms/jcms/Jo⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠/direction-generale-de-la-traduction.

69 EU law has also affected buildings more generally through commentary regarding environment, natural conservation, professional regulations, and rights at work for architects and engineers. See, for example, ⊠rchitect⊠ ⊠ ⊠uide to the ⊠uropean ⊠nion, RIBA Journal ⊠⊠ (April ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

70 Just and ⊠onora⊠le, ⊠⊠ World Architecture ⊠⊠ (June ⊠⊠⊠⊠). The architects were Bohdan Paczowski, Paul Fritsch, Jean Herr, and Gilbert Huysberechts. Figure ⊠⊠⊠ is reproduced courtesy of the Court of Justice of the European Communities.

71 ECJ Architecture and Art at ⊠⊠. The Pessoa courtroom's name comes from the title accorded by the Portuguese artist Costa Pinheiro to the tapestries in that room⊠ The Poet ⊠ernando Pessoa and The Poetic Space. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. The Dalsgaard courtroom has a calligraphic triptych, discussed later.

72 ECJ Architecture and Art at ⍰⍰. See also Just and ⍰ onora⍰le at ⍰⍰.

73 ECJ Architecture and Art at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. The exteriors are glass, granite, and aluminum. Id. at ⍰⍰. The building added ⍰⍰⍰ offices, two courtrooms, another cafeteria, and a restaurant, as well as meeting rooms. Just and ⍰ onora⍰le at ⍰⍰.

74 ECJ Architecture and Art at ⍰⍰. Its exteriors are also granite, glass, and aluminum, and it has pink granite columns to tie the annex to Erasmus. The third addition provided a ⍰⍰⍰⍰ square metre (⍰,⍰⍰⍰ feet) court room, used for preliminary hearings, with ⍰⍰⍰ associated offices and ancillary facilities.⍰ Just and ⍰ onora⍰le at ⍰⍰.

75 ECJ Architecture and Art at ⍰⍰.

76 Just and ⍰ onora⍰le at ⍰⍰. Also noted was that the ECJ buildings were ⍰constructed to a significantly lower budget⍰ than were the banks. Id.

77 As noted later, the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ publication on the ECJ included a model of the proposed extension. ECJ Architecture and Art at ⍰⍰.

78 See ECJ, Information for the Press, No. ⍰⍰/⍰⍰ (Inauguration of the New Buildings of the Court of Justice of the European Communities), Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The opening ceremony was held on December ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

79 Jonathan Glancey, Let There Be Li⍰ht⍰The ⍰⍰ Court of Justice ⍰s a Shinin⍰ Beacon in ⍰ re⍰⍰ ld Lu⍰em⍰our⍰, Guardian, Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

80 The Lo⍰ic of Justice, ⍰nterview with Domini⍰ue Perrault, in ECJ Major Extension at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (hereinafter Perrault, The Lo⍰ic of Justice).

81 Domini⍰ue Perrault⍰Court of Justice of the ⍰uropean Commu⍰nities, Lu⍰em⍰our⍰, Architectural Review (⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.thefreelibrary.com/Dominique⍰Perrault⍰⍰a⍰Court⍰of⍰Justice⍰of⍰the⍰European⍰Communities⍰⍰c...-a⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰.

82 Les tours de Ba⍰el de la ⍰ustice europ⍰ene. Figure ⍰⍰⍰ is reproduced courtesy of G. Fessy ⍰ Court of Justice of the European Communities. The image can also be found in a volume devoted to the new construction. See ECJ, The New Buildings of the Court of Justice of the European Communities (Luxembourg City, Lux.: Court of Justice of the European Communities, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter New Buildings of the ECJ).

83 See European budget online (⍰⍰⍰⍰), Sec. V, ECJ, http://eur-lex.europa.eu/budget/www/index-en.htm.

84 Perrault, The Lo⍰ic of Justice at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰.

85 Perrault, The Lo⍰ic of Justice at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰.

86 Skouris ECJ ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Inaugural Speech.

87 Skouris ECJ ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Inaugural Speech.

88 Jose Manuel Barroso, Speech upon the Inauguration of the New Palace of Justice of the European Communities (Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) in ECJ ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Inauguration Monograph ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (ECJ: Reportage et Aquarelles de No⍰lle Herrenschmidt) (translation from the French by Stella Burch Elias).

89 Jean-Claude Juncker, Speech upon the Inauguration of the New Palace of Justice of the European Communities (Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), in ECJ ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Inauguration Monograph at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (translation from the French by Stella Burch Elias).

90 Glancey. The opening prompted reviews in European newspapers. See, for example, Mehr Plat⍰f⍰r ⍰uropa (More ⍰oom for ⍰urope), Luxemburger Wort, Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; ⍰in neuer Palast f⍰r ⍰uropas ⍰ichter (⍰ New Palace for ⍰urope⍰ Jud⍰es), Tageblatt, Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; ⍰ ⍰ener ⍰omple⍰ der ⍰echtsprechun⍰ ein ⍰eichen von Tradition und Moderne (⍰ More ⍰ pen Comple⍰ for the ⍰dministration of Justice⍰ a Si⍰n of Tradition and Modernit⍰), Luerger Journal, Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; ⍰ oldenes ⍰ er⍰st⍰ck (The ⍰ olden ⍰ eart), Neue Z⍰rcher Zeitung, Feb. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Relatively little note was taken by the press in the United States.

91 ECJ Major Extension; Didier Arnaudet, Domini⍰ue Perrault ⍰⍰⍰pos⍰ ⍰⍰⍰ Art Press ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (May ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (translation by L. S. Torgoff).

92 Gilles de Bure, Dominique Perrault: Court of Justice of the European Communities ⍰⍰⍰ (Paris, Fran.: Terrail, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

93 Glancey. The architect explained that the ceiling provided a ⍰warm ambience⍰ that brought the sun inside but without distracting the judges. Id. The photographs in figures ⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰, also found in New Buildings of the ECJ, were provided and are reproduced with permission of G. Fessy ⍰ Court of Justice of the European Communities, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

94 Glancey.

95 Glancey.

96 Rasmussen at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (we are borrowing from the titles of sections of his chapter).

97 Claire Micheau and Alexander Conrad Culley, ⍰epresentation of the ⍰uropean Court of Justice⍰Conscience of the People of ⍰urope or Polit⍰ical Ju⍰⍰ernaut⍰, in Representations of Justice ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (Antoine Masson ⍰ Kevin O'Connor, eds., Brussels, Belg.: P. I. E. Peter Lang, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

98 Indeed, once European institutions were located on the Kirchberg Plateau, the ⍰priority mission⍰ was road construction. See Build⍰in⍰⍰ p Constructive Thinkin⍰, ⍰nterview with ⍰ernand Pesch, President of the ⍰onds d⍰⍰ r⍰anisation et d⍰⍰ mena⍰ement du Plateau de ⍰ irsch⍰er⍰, in ECJ Major Extension at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰.

99 Micheau and Culley at ⍰⍰⍰, n. ⍰.

100 Micheau and Culley at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

101 A newspaper in Luxembourg expressed this hope when the building opened. See Perrault fait sa Cour, Libération, Dec. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The article quoted the clerk of the Court, Roger Grass: ⍰Only architecture can both bring the litigant to this little-known Court while still creating solemnity⍰ The news article cited the figure of ⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰ visitors each year.

102 While some authors have written about the challenges of implementation, Keller and Stone Sweet report an impressive track record for the import of the ECtHR's judgments in eighteen countries. See Alec Stone Sweet ⍰ Helen Keller, The ⍰eception of the ⍰C⍰ ⍰ in National Le⍰al ⍰ rders, in A Europe of Rights: The Impact of the ECHR on National Legal Systems ⍰ (Helen Keller ⍰ Alec Stone Sweet, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Stone Sweet ⍰ Keller, ⍰eception of the ⍰C⍰ ⍰, in A Europe of Rights) (providing a data set to analyze the receptivity and effects of ECJ jurisprudence). Compare Rasmussen at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

103 One report also saw the building as an emblem standing more broadly for the rule of law: ⍰⍰Old Europe' is sending a strong sign today to the violent New World across the Atlantic that the EU has been constructed ⍰step by step and on the principle of Law, rather than on those of arms'⍰ (quoting France's Minister of Justice Rachida Dati). Les tours de Ba⍰el de la ⍰ustice europ⍰enne.

104 See Benedict Anderson, Imagined Communities: Reflections on the Origin and Spread of Nationalism (London, Eng.: Verso, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, reissued ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

105 Weiler, The ⍰uropean Courts of Justice at ⍰⍰⍰.

106 Perrault described the relationship of the ring to the Palais as inducing ⍰a sort of disappearance of the first building while at the same time reinforcing its historical presence by a new mass. Besides, this confers to the ring a new status, that of protection for a historical monument.⍰ The Lo⍰ic of Justice, ⍰nterview with Domini⍰ue Perrault at ⍰⍰.

107 ECJ Architecture and Art at ⍰.

108 For example, the Henry Moore Foundation lent a ⍰three-piece reclining figure, draped⍰ by that English artist in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. ECJ Architecture and Art at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. The Rodin Museum, in France, provided The ⍰⍰e of Bron⍰e, a male figure molded from life that sits in the interior of Le Palais. Id. at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. Ireland loaned a painting, ⍰ l⍰r Na Mara (The Sound of the Sea), by Gwen O'Dowd. Id. at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. Spain loaned Bird Nestin⍰ on ⍰in⍰ers in Bloom, a bronze sculpture by Joan Mir⍰. Id. at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. The City of Luxembourg contributed, again on loan, Lucien Wercollier's large bronze sculpture titled ⍰ rowth, created in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Id. at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. As noted below, Luxembourg's government also purchased several pieces of art for the building.

109 Greece provided a cast bronze statue, the Bo of Marathon (ECJ Architecture and Art at –) as well as a bronze sculpture, Memor. Id. at – . The Danish government provided the oil on canvas called Calli raph Based on Three Phases, a painting by Sven Dalsgaard. Id. at – .

110 ECJ Architecture and Art at .

111 ECJ Architecture and Art at – . The relief was purchased by the Luxembourg government.

112 ECJ Architecture and Art at .

113 ECJ Architecture and Art at – . The object is a purchase of the Luxembourg Government.

114 ECJ Architecture and Art at .

115 ECJ Architecture and Art at – .

116 ECJ Architecture and Art at .

117 ECJ Architecture and Art at .

118 ECJ Architecture and Art at (quoting the President).

119 ECJ Architecture and Art at .

120 ECJ Architecture and Art at .

121 Advocates General also sit on the bench and can question the parties at will See Ritter at .

122 Two other new courtrooms came into being by virtue of the renovation; each measures just under square meters (about , square feet) and provides seats for about people.

123 ECJ Architecture and Art at – . Hambourg, who was French, was born in and died in . Figure is provided and reproduced courtesy of the Court of Justice of the European Communities.

124 ECJ Architecture and Art at .

125 ECJ Architecture and Art at . The piece is on loan from France.

126 ECJ Architecture and Art at . That page provides a picture captioned A model of the proposed extension of the Court buildings by D. Perrault without more explanation.

127 Our thanks to Luzius Wildhaber, former President of the ECtHR, and to John Darcy and Sabine Klein-Guin of that court's staff for helping us to understand the court and its work and to obtain figure , a photograph of the court by Sandro Weltin that is reproduced courtesy of the Council of Europe.

128 Hein at .

129 Peter Davey, Courtin ights, Architectural Review , (July). Davey gave Fran ois Mitterrand, then President of France, credit for refusing to approve drawings for a proposed building and insisting on a competition. Id. at . Before moving to the Rogers building, the ECtHR had sat in a neo-Corbusian building near the Council's headquarters in the Palais de l'Europe. Davey described the Palais de l'Europe as the most monstrous of all of Strasbourg's administrative buildings, created more for the defence of bureaucracy than celebration of democratic civilisation Id. at . The place offers neither welcome, nor joy, nor inspiration Davey explained. It is the apotheosis of post-war French techno-monumentalism, and faced with it, you need a huge infusion of faith to believe that the idea of a Europe of cooperative nations has any nobility at all Id. In contrast, Davey described the architects as seeking to create an unmonumental monument Id. at .

130 Just and onora le at .

131 In the European Parliament commissioned the Soci t d'Am nagement et d'Équipement de la R gion de Strasbourg to find funds for and to construct the buildings. Hein at .

132 See Robin Pogrebin, Top Pri e for o ers, iconoclastic rchi tect, New York Times, March , .

133 In Chapter we discuss Rogers's building in Bordeaux (fig. /). The Antwerp Court House, costing million euros, comprises , feet (, meters) of space under a roof that is shaped to resemble a flotilla of sails; some are about seventy-five feet (twenty-four meters) high and weigh twenty-four tons, while others are about thirty-six feet (eleven meters) high and weigh eighteen tons. Laura Della Badia, Floornature.com website, Antwerp Courthouse page, http://www.floornature.com/progetto.php d sez . Within the building, the salle des pas perdus is both large and glass-clad; as a whole, the glass building is a metaphor of justice that is transparent to citizens Id.

134 Nor do the two buildings joined by other EU government structures constitute a distinctively European style of architecture, which may itself be implausible given that the architects of these buildings are operating in a global market for their designs. See generally Gerald Delanty Paul R. Jones, uropean dentit and rchi tecture, European Journal of Social Theory ().

135 This problem is reflected in discussions on the website for the ECtHR, which contains a Facts and Figures document that, under the header Not to be confused lists other international courts, including the European Court of Justice and the International Court of Justice. European Court of Human Rights, The European Court of Human Rights: Some Facts and Figures, – , (Nov.), http://www.echr.coe.int/NR/rdonlyres/ACF- - - AF- BE- FE FEE / /FactsAndFiguresENG ansNov.pdf (hereinafter ECtHR Facts and Figures).

136 In terms of overlap, ECJ law deals with equality issues as they interact with economic and social rights. Sometimes conflicts emerge: in President Luzius Wildhaber's yearly speeches, he encouraged harmonisation of the jurisprudence of the two European courts and urged that the EU adhere to the European Convention on Human Rights. Luzius Wildhaber, The European Court of Human Rights, – : History, Achievements, Reform , , , , , (Kehl, Ger.: N. P. Engel,). See also Dean Spielmann, uman ights Case Law in the Stras our and Lu em our Courts Con icts, nconsistencies, and Complementarities, in The EU and Human Rights (Philip Alston, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press,) at – . Spielmann, a judge on the ECtHR, also called for the EC to accede to the Convention, as well as for judicial comity between the two courts. Id. at – . The issue of whether, as a matter of EU constitutional law, accession to the Convention is possible was raised, and, in , the ECJ answered that under the law at the time, the Community had no competence to do so. See Opinion / on Accession by the Community to the ECHR ECR I- . See also Monitoring Fundamental Rights in the EU: The Contribution of the Fundamental Rights Agency (Philip Alston Olivier De Schutter, eds., Portland, OR: Hart Publishing,).

137 Winston Churchill, Speech delivered at the University of Zurich (Sept. ,), Council of Europe, http://www.europa-web.de/europa/ wwwswww/ histo/churchil.htm.

138 London School of Economics Library website, Congress of Europe page, http://www .lse.ac.uk/library/archive/online resources/foyle foundation/congress of europe.aspx.

139 Statute of the Council of Europe, May , , Europ. T.S. , U.N.T.S. . See Stone Sweet Keller, eception of the C , in A Europe of Rights at . See also Michael D. Goldhaber, A People's History of the European Court of Human Rights (New Brunswick, NJ: Rutgers U. Press,).

140 See generally Lynn Hunt, Inventing Human Rights: A History (New York, NY: W. W. Norton,); Women's Rights and Transatlantic Antislavery in the Era of Emancipation (Kathryn Kish Sklar James Brewer Stewart, eds., New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press,); Resnik, Law Mi ration.

141 See Louis Henkin, The Age of Rights (New York, NY: Columbia U. Press,); Human Rights (Louis Henkin, David W. Leebron, Gerald L. Neuman, Diane F. Orentlicher, eds., New York, NY: Foundation Press,). Professor Henkin shaped the understanding of many Americans of the import of this project, in part through his work as the Chief Reporter of the American Law Institute's Restatement (Third) of the Foreign Relations Law of the United States.

142 Universal Declaration of Human Rights, Preamble, G.A. Res. ⧫⧫⧫A, at ⧫⧫, U.N. GAOR, ⧫d Sess., ⧫st plen. meeting, U.N. Doc. A/⧫⧫⧫ (Dec. ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫). Article ⧫ states: ⧫All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights⧫ Id., Art. ⧫.

143 The literature is vast. See generally THE EU AND HUMAN RIGHTS; SEYLA BENHABIB, THE RIGHTS OF OTHERS: ALIENS, RESIDENTS, AND CITIZENS (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⧫⧫⧫⧫); JAMES GRIFFIN, ON HUMAN RIGHTS (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⧫⧫⧫⧫); Samuel Moyn, Personalism, Communit⧫ and the ⧫ri⧫ins of ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts, in HUMAN RIGHTS IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY: A CRITICAL HISTORY (Stefan-Ludwig Hoffman, ed., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, forthcoming); John Tasioulas, The Moral ⧫ealit⧫ of ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts, in FREEDOM FROM POVERTY AS A HUMAN RIGHT: WHO OWES WHAT TO THE VERY POOR⧫ (Thomas Pogge, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⧫⧫⧫⧫).

144 HENKIN at ⧫⧫–⧫⧫.

145 See generally GOLDHABER at ⧫–⧫.

146 Elodie Moreau, Space and Power in Europe: Culture, Communication and the Politics of Identity ⧫ (Jan. ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫) (unpublished Master's dissertation, Universit⧫ Marc Bloch, Strasbourg, Fr.), http://www.euroculturemaster.org/pdf/moreau.pdf.

147 See Andr⧫ Biedermann, Candidatures ⧫urop⧫ennes, ⧫⧫ VERS L'EUROPE ⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫); Moreau at ⧫. Strasbourg campaigned repeatedly for its place, including through promoting ⧫Strasbourg, l'Europ⧫enne⧫ See Moreau at ⧫–⧫.

148 Other European institutions there include the European Ombudsman, created by the ⧫⧫⧫⧫ Maastrich Treaty to investigate and report on institutions, and the European Documentation Center.

149 The first Protocol was opened for signatures on March ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, and entered into force on May ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫. It added new rights⧫ ⧫peaceful enjoyment of property, the right to education, and the right to free elections by secret ballot⧫⧫ that did not affect the functioning of the Commission; see http://conventions.coe.int/Treaty/en/Summaries/Html/⧫⧫⧫.htm. See A. H. Robertson, The ⧫uropean Court of ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts, ⧫ AMERICAN JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE LAW ⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫). Robertson noted that in the early ⧫⧫⧫⧫s the ⧫original proposals . . . were gradually watered down and the traditional rights of sovereign States asserted⧫ Id. at ⧫. Further, efforts were made to avoid jurisdictional conflicts with the International Court of Justice at The Hague. Id. at ⧫⧫–⧫⧫. See generally THE EU CHARTER OF FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS: ESSAYS IN EUROPEAN LAW (Steve Peers ⧫ Angela Ward, eds., Oxford, Eng., ⧫ Portland, OR: Hart Publishing, ⧫⧫⧫⧫).

150 See Christos L. Rozakis, The ⧫uropean Commission on ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts⧫Structure, ⧫peration and Jurisdiction, ⧫⧫ INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ (Kalliopi Koufa, ed., Thessaloniki, Gr.: Sakkoulas, ⧫⧫⧫⧫). Rozakis criticized the Commission for an overly ⧫strict application of legal norms⧫ and insufficient attention to practical political constraints. Id. at ⧫⧫⧫.

151 See generally WILDHABER at ⧫–⧫.

152 The Court was authorized to hear petitions directly and the Commission was eliminated by Protocol ⧫⧫, which entered into force on November ⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫. Council of Europe, Protocol No. ⧫⧫ to the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Restructuring the Control Machinery Established Thereby, May ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, C.E.T.S. ⧫⧫⧫, http://conventions.coe.int/Treaty/en/Treaties/Html/⧫⧫⧫.htm (hereinafter Council of Europe, Protocol No. ⧫⧫).

153 Council of Europe, Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Art. ⧫⧫, Nov. ⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ U.N.T.S. ⧫⧫⧫, http://conventions.coe.int/Treaty/en/Treaties/Html/⧫⧫⧫.htm.

154 Council of Europe, Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Art. ⧫⧫, Nov. ⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ U.N.T.S. ⧫⧫⧫, http://conventions.coe.int/Treaty/en/Treaties/Html/⧫⧫⧫.htm. See Jilan Kamal, Justified ⧫nterference with ⧫eli⧫ious ⧫reedom⧫ The ⧫uropean Court of ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts and the Need for Mediatin⧫ Doctrine ⧫nder ⧫rticle ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫ COLUMBIA JOURNAL OF TRANSNATIONAL LAW ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, n. ⧫⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫).

155 Council of Europe, Protocol No. ⧫⧫ to the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Amending the Control System of the Convention, May ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, C.E.T.S. ⧫⧫⧫, http://conventions.coe.int/treaty/en/Treaties/Html/⧫⧫⧫.htm (hereinafter Optional Protocol No. ⧫⧫). See also ECtHR FACTS AND FIGURES at ⧫.

156 Council of Europe, Summary of Protocol No. ⧫⧫ to the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Amending the Control System of the Convention, http://conventions.coe.int/Treaty/EN/Summaries/Html/⧫⧫⧫.htm. By the end of ⧫⧫⧫⧫, all of the Council of Europe had signed Protocol ⧫⧫ but Russia had not then ratified it. See ⧫ussia Must ⧫llow ⧫eform of ⧫uropean Court of ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts, INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, April ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫. As noted, in ⧫⧫⧫⧫, the Russian Duma did so. See ⧫ussia ⧫otes in ⧫avor of Draft Law ⧫atif⧫in⧫ Protocol No⧫⧫⧫ to the ⧫uropean Convention on ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts, Press Release by the Registrar of the ECtHR, Jan. ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, on the European Community's website.

157 Council of Europe, Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Arts. ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, Nov. ⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ U.N.T.S. ⧫⧫⧫, http://conventions.coe.int/Treaty/en/Treaties/Html/⧫⧫⧫.htm.

158 See WILDHABER at ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫. Andreas Nicolas Loizou, The ⧫uropean Court of ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts and ⧫s ⧫pproach to Certain ⧫ssues, ⧫⧫ INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫ (Kalliopi Koufa, ed., Thessaloniki, Gr.: Sakkoulas Publications, ⧫⧫⧫⧫). Loizou reported the first use of the phrase in ⧫⧫⧫⧫. Id. at ⧫⧫.

159 The doctrine may well entail several ideas, including a conclusion that the underlying conduct is not a breach of a right or that, when balancing individual rights against societal interests, the incursion on the right is proportional. Some commentators object to the ECtHR's deployment as inconsistent or as overused and hence as working to the detriment of implementation of the Convention. See GEORGE LETSAS, A THEORY OF THE INTERPRETATION OF THE EUROPEAN CONVENTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS ⧫⧫–⧫⧫ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⧫⧫⧫⧫); Wojciech Sadurski, Partnerin⧫ with Stras⧫our⧫⧫Constitutionali⧫sation of the ⧫uropean Court of ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts, the ⧫ccession of Central and ⧫ast ⧫uropean States to the Council of ⧫urope, and the ⧫dea of Pilot Jud⧫ments, ⧫ HUMAN RIGHTS LAW REVIEW ⧫⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫).

160 KENNETH POWELL, RICHARD ROGERS ⧫ (London, Eng.: Artemis, ⧫⧫⧫⧫). Rogers was born in Italy in an Anglo-Italian family and moved when young to England to escape fascism. He studied architecture and worked in the United States and then returned to Europe. Id. at ⧫.

161 Richard Rogers, GA Document Extra No. ⧫⧫ at ⧫⧫–⧫⧫ (Yoshio Futagawa, interviewer, Yukio Futagawa, ed., A.D.A. Edita, Tokyo ⧫⧫⧫⧫) (hereinafter Rogers Extra).

162 POWELL at ⧫⧫.

163 POWELL at ⧫⧫⧫.

164 Richard Rogers, The ⧫uropean Court of ⧫uman ⧫i⧫hts, Stras⧫our⧫, ⧫rance, ⧫⧫ ZODIAC ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫) (hereinafter Rogers, ⧫Ct⧫ ⧫).

165 Rogers Extra at ⧫⧫.

166 POWELL at ⧫⧫.

167 POWELL at ⧫⧫⧫.

168 RICHARD ROGERS PARTNERSHIP, FLEXIBLE FRAMEWORK: LONDON, TOKYO, BERLIN ⧫ (Berlin, Ger.: Aedes Gallery, ⧫⧫⧫⧫). See also Rogers, ⧫Ct⧫ ⧫ at ⧫⧫⧫.

169 Rogers, ⧫Ct⧫ ⧫ at ⧫⧫⧫; see also RICHARD ROGERS, PARTNERSHIP: WORKS AND PROJECTS ⧫⧫⧫ (Richard Burdett, ed., New York, NY: Monacelli Press, ⧫⧫⧫⧫) (hereinafter Burdett). ⧫Its public function is in the head, where the Court and Commission volumes form eyes symbolising civic vigilance. These are linked by the all-glass cylindrical entrance that embodies the desire for equally transparent justice while visually accentuating the expressiveness of the two tall glass and stainless steel eyes. The tail containing the offices is preceded by a high, linking body element which gently follows the course of the river . . . ☒ ☒ichard ☒o☒ers a Stras☒ur☒o☒La Corte ☒uropea dei Diritti del ☒☒omo☒ The ☒uropean Court of ☒uman ☒i☒hts, ☒☒☒ Abitare ☒☒☒, ☒☒☒–☒☒☒ (☒☒☒☒).

170 Davey at ☒☒–☒☒.

171 Rogers Extra at ☒☒–☒☒. See also Hein at ☒☒☒.

172 Davey at ☒☒.

173 European Court of Human Rights☒ The Court, http://www.echr.coe.int/ECHR/EN/Header/The☒Court/Introduction/Information☒on☒the☒building/.

174 Burdett at ☒☒☒.

175 Denis Connolly, The Law Machine, Blueprint ☒☒, ☒☒ (May ☒☒☒☒).

176 Hugh Aldersey-Williams, Court in the Middle, Architectural Record ☒☒ (August ☒☒☒☒).

177 Aldersey-Williams at ☒☒.

178 Connolly at ☒☒–☒☒. ☒The public lifts open three steps below the mezzanine connecting the court and the commission room☒ Id. at ☒☒.

179 Connolly at ☒☒. As another commentator noted, the structure relied on the ☒familiar formula ☒democratic buildings ☒ open buildings.'☒Christof Bodenbach, ☒uf dem ☒ichti☒en We☒☒ n the ☒i☒ht Path☒ ☒ Design Report ☒☒, ☒☒ (☒☒☒☒) (translation by Stella Burch Elias).

180 Davey at ☒☒.

181 Connolly at ☒☒.

182 Davey at ☒☒. Bodenbach thought the ☒grand gesture of the three cylinders ☒was☒blurred by the muddle of their volume☒ Bodenbach at ☒☒.

183 European Court of Human Rights☒ The Court; Davey at ☒☒.

184 Another Berlin Wall fragment sits outside the European Parliament in Brussels.

185 Bucher, who was born in Switzerland in ☒☒☒☒, traveled and lived in many countries, including Canada and the United States, before returning in the ☒☒☒☒s to Europe; his studios are in Zurich and in Lanzarote, Spain. See www.carlbucher.com.

186 ☒Ces statues repr☒sentent des prisonniers. Elles ont perdu leur dignit☒on leur a coup☒es mains, on leur a enlev☒leurs chaussures pour les humilier. Elles sont recouvertes d'un drap pour les empecher de voir et de parler, donc de t☒moigner, et ligot☒pour ne pas s'☒chapper☒ Bucher, Zurich ☒☒☒☒, http://www.carlbucher.com/personal/studio-in.html (our translation).

187 Powell at ☒.

188 These phrases are the title of an essay about Rogers in a book about his work. See Burdett at ☒.

189 Burdett at ☒☒☒.

190 Connolly at ☒☒.

191 European Court of Human Rights☒ The Court.

192 Wildhaber at ☒☒. See also the Council of Europe, Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Art. ☒, Nov. ☒, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒ U.N.T.S. ☒☒☒, http://conventions.coe.int/Treaty/en/Treaties/Html/☒☒☒.htm. The ☒High Contracting Parties☒ are obliged to ☒secure to everyone in their jurisdiction the rights and freedoms☒ set forth in the European Convention on Human Rights.

193 Wildhaber at ☒☒.

194 Whether the Convention ought to be understood as a ☒constitution for Europe☒or as a treaty between sovereigns and what, if any consequences, flow from that distinction for its jurists is yet another issue. See Letsas at ☒☒–☒☒.

195 See, for example, Matthews v☒☒nited ☒in☒dom, App. No. ☒☒☒☒☒/☒☒, ☒☒ Eur. Ct. H.R. ☒☒☒ (☒☒☒☒), para. ☒☒. See also ☒older v☒ ☒nited ☒in☒dom, ☒☒ Eur. Ct. H.R. (ser. A) (☒☒☒☒).

196 Dud☒eon v☒☒nited ☒in☒dom, ☒☒ Eur. Ct. H.R. (ser. A) at ☒☒ (☒☒☒☒); see also Lust☒☒Prean and Beckett v☒☒nited ☒in☒dom, App. Nos. ☒☒☒☒☒/☒☒, ☒☒☒☒☒/☒☒, ☒☒ Eur. H.R. Rep. ☒☒☒ (☒☒☒☒); Smith and ☒rad☒ v☒☒nited ☒in☒dom, App. Nos. ☒☒☒☒☒/☒☒ and ☒☒☒☒☒/☒☒, ☒☒ Eur. H.R. Rep. ☒☒☒ (☒☒☒☒).

197 Council of Europe, Protocol No. ☒☒.

198 Wildhaber at ☒. In addition, the court had ☒☒,☒☒☒ provisional files and ☒☒☒ applications ☒declared admissible☒ Id. The Court started with a backlog of ☒,☒☒☒ applications, ☒many of which were complicated cases requiring detailed judgments on the merits☒ Id. at ☒☒.

199 Wildhaber at ☒. Article ☒ provides: ☒In the determination of his civil rights and obligations or of any criminal charge against him, everyone is entitled to a fair and public hearing within a reasonable time by an independent and impartial tribunal established by law. Judgment shall be pronounced publicly but the press and public may be excluded from all or part of the trial in the interests of morals, public order or national security in a democratic society, where the interests of juveniles or the protection of the private life of the parties so require, or to the extent strictly necessary in the opinion of the court in special circumstances where publicity would prejudice the interests of justice☒ Council of Europe, Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Art. ☒, Nov. ☒, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒ U.N.T.S. ☒☒☒, http://conventions.coe.int/Treaty/en/Treaties/Html/☒☒☒.htm.

200 Stone Sweet ☒ Keller, ☒eception of the ☒C☒ ☒, in A Europe of Rights at ☒☒. Another comparison comes from the ☒☒☒ applications in ☒☒☒☒ to the ☒☒,☒☒☒ in ☒☒☒☒. Goldhaber at ☒.

201 Wildhaber at ☒☒. He described the procedure as a ☒huge leap forward☒ and a success in managing caseload, even as the number of applications had risen.

202 Stone Sweet ☒ Keller, ☒eception of the ☒C☒ ☒, in A Europe of Rights at ☒☒.

203 For example, as of October ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒,☒☒☒ were pending. Goldhaber at ☒.

204 Wildhaber at ☒☒.

205 Stone Sweet ☒ Keller, ☒eception of the ☒C☒ ☒, in A Europe of Rights at ☒☒. The court kept trying to improve its output. For example, in ☒☒☒☒, President Wildhaber reported that the court had ☒terminated ☒☒,☒☒☒ cases, by delivering ☒☒,☒☒☒ decisions and ☒☒☒ judgments☒ that represented an increase over the prior year by about ☒☒ percent. Wildhaber at ☒☒.

206 ECtHR Facts and Figures at ☒. Russia☒ in a complex relationship with the ECtHR☒ is the source of ☒.☒ percent of its caseload.

207 In ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒ percent were found inadmissible. Stone Sweet ☒ Keller, ☒eception of the ☒C☒ ☒, in A Europe of Rights at ☒☒.

208 Wildhaber at ☒☒. To do so, the court asked Lord Harry Woolf, then former Lord Chief Justice of England, to chair an advisory committee to evaluate its processes. See Lord Harry Woolf, Michael McKenzie, Peter MacMahon, Dr. Colm O'Cinneide, ☒ Laura Clarke, ☒eview of the Workin☒ Methods of the ☒uropean Court of ☒uman ☒i☒hts, ☒☒ Human Rights Law Journal ☒☒☒ (☒☒☒☒), http://www.echr.coe.int/ECHR/Resources/Home/LORDWOOLFREVIEWONWORKINGMETHODS.pdf.

209 Council of Europe, Resolution of the Committee of Ministers on Judgments Revealing an Underlying Systemic Problem, ☒☒☒th Sess., Res. ☒☒☒☒(☒) (May ☒☒, ☒☒☒☒), https://wcd.coe.int/ViewDoc.jsp☒id☒☒☒☒☒☒☒ Lang☒en.

210 Wildhaber at ☒☒☒–☒☒☒.

211 The European Court of Human Rights Overwhelmed by Applications: Problems and Possible Solutions (Rüdiger Wolfrum ☒ Ulrike Deutsch, eds., Berlin, Ger.: Springer, ☒☒☒☒). This volume gathered materials from a conference convened in Heidelberg in ☒☒☒☒.

212 See A Europe of Rights. The volume surveyed eighteen Member States to seek to identify national regimes' receptivity to the ECtHR's law. To do so, scholars tracked admissible petitions and conducted analyses in each state.

213 Helen Keller ☒ Alec Stone Sweet, ☒ssessin☒ the ☒mpact of the ☒C☒ ☒ on National Le☒al S☒stems, in A Europe of Rights at ☒☒☒ (hereinafter Keller ☒ Stone Sweet, ☒ssessin☒ the ☒mpact, in A Europe of Rights).

214 Keller [illegible] Stone Sweet, [illegible]ssessin[illegible] the [illegible]mpact, in A EUROPE OF RIGHTS at [illegible].

215 European Convention on Human Rights Act, [illegible] (Act No. [illegible]/[illegible]) (Ir.), http://www.irishstatutebook.ie/[illegible]/en/act/pub/[illegible]/index.html.

216 Robert M. Cover [illegible] T. Alexander Aleinikoff, Dialectical [illegible]ed[illegible]eralism[illegible] a[illegible]eas Corpus and the Court, [illegible] YALE LAW JOURNAL [illegible] ([illegible]).

217 Rolv Ryssdal, The Comin[illegible] of [illegible]e of the [illegible]uropean Convention on [illegible]uman [illegible]ights, [illegible] EUROPEAN HUMAN RIGHTS LAW REVIEW [illegible] ([illegible]) (cited in Goldhaber at [illegible]).

218 Budget numbers for the Court are available at Eur-Lex, Bud[illegible]et on line, http://eur-lex.europa.eu/budget/www/index-en.htm.

219 The [illegible]uropean Court of [illegible]uman [illegible]ights[illegible]The [illegible]C[illegible] [illegible] in [illegible] [illegible]ues[illegible]tions [illegible] (Strasbourg, Fr.: European Court of Human Rights, [illegible]). For example, in [illegible] the ECtHR sought an increase in staff of seventy-five and received support for forty-six positions. See WILDHABER at [illegible]–[illegible]. The court has also sought, unsuccessfully, to exercise more control over the allocation of its budget. Id. at [illegible].

220 WILDHABER at [illegible].

221 The photograph in figure [illegible] was provided by and is reproduced courtesy of the Secretariat of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights.

222 Dr. Gerard Wiarda, Vice President of the European Court of Human Rights, Speech Delivered on the Occasion of the Installation of the Court at the National Theater of Costa Rica (Sept. [illegible], [illegible]), in INTER-AMERICAN COURT OF HUMAN RIGHTS: PROCEEDINGS OF INSTALLATION [illegible], [illegible] (San Jos[illegible], Costa Rica: Corte Inter-Americana de Derechos Humanos, [illegible]).

223 ANTONIO SANCHEZ DE BUSTAMANTE, THE WORLD COURT [illegible] (Elizabeth F. Read, trans., New York, NY: Macmillan, [illegible]).

224 BUSTAMANTE at [illegible].

225 See Kate Malleson, Promotin[illegible] Judicial [illegible]ndependence in the [illegible]nternational Courts[illegible]Lessons from the Cari[illegible]ean, [illegible] INTERNATIONAL AND COMPARATIVE LAW QUARTERLY [illegible] ([illegible]). In [illegible] the Court was inaugurated, and as of [illegible] it had heard forty-one cases, including appeals from national courts and original jurisdiction applications. See [illegible]Judgments[illegible] page on the court's website, http://www.caribbeancourtofjustice.org/judgments.html.

226 See Conference of Supreme Courts of the Americas, [illegible] ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY LAW JOURNAL [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (in both English and Spanish).

227 Correspondence from Pablo Saavedra-Alessandri, Registrar of the Court (June [illegible], [illegible]). The home was built by an engineer who had lived in the United States and returned to Costa Rica and ran for the office of president. He then sold the house to another person, and the court rented the facility until [illegible]. In [illegible], President Rafael [illegible]ngel Calder[illegible]n Fournier [illegible]arranged for the house to be donated to the Court on behalf of the government of Costa Rica[illegible] Id. Our thanks to the Registrar and the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, which provided us with materials, photographs, and permission to reproduce them.

228 Augusto Willemsen-Diaz, on behalf of the Human Rights Division of the U.N., Speech Delivered at the Installation of the Court at the National Theater of Costa Rica (Sept. [illegible], [illegible]), in INTER-AMERICAN COURT OF HUMAN RIGHTS: PROCEEDINGS OF INSTALLATION [illegible], [illegible]. See also President of Supreme Court of Costa Rica, Fernando Coto-Alb[illegible]n, on the occasion of a visit by the Inter-American Court to that court (Sept. [illegible], [illegible]), in id. [illegible], [illegible].

229 BUSTAMANTE at [illegible]. Manley O. Hudson, The Central [illegible]meri[illegible]can Court of Justice, [illegible] AMERICAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

230 Editorial Comment, The [illegible]irst Case [illegible]efore the Central [illegible]meri[illegible]can Court of Justice, [illegible] AMERICAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). The Convention is set up as a [illegible]permanent tribunal[illegible] Convention for the Establishment of a Central American Court of Justice, Art. I, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] U.S.T. [illegible]. This provision is quoted by various commentators, including Joseph Wheless, The Central [illegible]mer[illegible]ican Court of Justice, [illegible] CASE AND COMMENT [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

231 See Wheless at [illegible]. Wheless, the Associate Editor of the American Bar Association's Bulletin on Comparative Law, described the contributions of U.S. Secretary of State Elihu Root, who presided at the meeting in Washington that produced seven treaties [illegible]promptly ratified by the five Republics[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. Wheless noted that the treaty creating the court included a codicil that none of the contracting parties would recognize governments of the others that came as a [illegible]consequence of a coup d[illegible]tat or of a revolution . . . until the representatives of the people, freely elected, shall have reorganized the country in constitutional form[illegible] Id. See also Mario Rodr[illegible]quez, The First Permanent International Tribunal: The Central American Court of Justice (Master's thesis, Georgetown University, School of Foreign Service, Washington, DC, April [illegible]). Rodr[illegible]quez both credited the United States for helping to form the court and faulted it for allowing the court's demise by not pressing for its continuation in [illegible]. Id. at [illegible].

232 Convention for the Establishment of a Central American Court of Justice, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] U.S.T. [illegible].

233 BUSTAMANTE at [illegible]. See also Central American Court of Justice, http://www.ccj.org.ni/; Central American Court of Justice, Project on International Courts and Tribunals, http://www.pict-pcti.org/courts/CACJ.html.

234 Convention for the Establishment of a Central American Court of Justice, Art. I.

235 Judges from each signatory nation were appointed to the Court. The original jurists were the Honorable Jos[illegible] Art[illegible]a Aguilar (Costa Rica), the Honorable Angel Maria Bocanegra (Guatemala), the Honorable Salvador Gallegos (El Salvador), the Honorable Alberto Ucl[illegible]s (Honduras), and the Honorable Jos[illegible] Madriz (Nicaragua). BUSTAMANTE at [illegible]. See Central American Court of Justice, Project on International Courts and Tribunals, http://www.pict-pcti.org/courts/CACJ.html; see also Wheless at [illegible]–[illegible].

236 BUSTAMANTE at [illegible].

237 Convention for the Establishment of a Central American Court of Justice, Art. XIII, quoted by Wheless at [illegible].

238 BUSTAMANTE at [illegible].

239 BUSTAMANTE at [illegible].

240 Convention for the Establishment of a Central American Court of Justice, Art. II.

241 Wheless at [illegible], [illegible].

242 The photographs in figures [illegible] and [illegible] are from Terromoto de Carta[illegible]o [illegible] (Publicaciones de la Universidad de Costa Rico, Serie Historia y Geographia n. [illegible], Ciudad Unversitaria [illegible]Rodrigo Facio[illegible] [illegible]), and they are reproduced with permission of the University of Costa Rica Press. Our thanks to Juli[illegible]n Monge-N[illegible]jera, Director General of the press for assistance and to Sophie Hood for translating our exchanges.

243 See The [illegible]irst Case [illegible]efore the Central [illegible]merican Court of Jus[illegible]tice, [illegible].

244 Wheless at [illegible].

245 BUSTAMANTE at [illegible].

246 Wheless at [illegible]. See also James Brown Scott, The Closin[illegible] of the Central [illegible]merican Court of Justice, [illegible] AMERICAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW [illegible] ([illegible]). Scott aspired to U.S. leadership in reinstalling the court.

247 See I–IV ANALES DE LA CORTE DE JUSTICIA CENTROAMERICANA ([illegible]–[illegible]). The cases brought by states themselves were [illegible] on[illegible]duras v[illegible]Salvador and [illegible]uatemala, CENTRAL AMERICAN COURT OF JUSTICE (Dec. [illegible], [illegible]), reprinted in [illegible] AMERICAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW [illegible] ([illegible]) (in which the court found for the defendants); Costa [illegible]ica v[illegible]Nicara[illegible]ua, CENTRAL AMERICAN COURT OF JUSTICE (Sept. [illegible], [illegible]), reprinted in [illegible] AMERICAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW [illegible] ([illegible]) (in which the Court found for the plaintiff but was unable to declare the Bryan–Chamorro treaty null and void; Nicaraguan members of the Court refused to participate, and the Nicaraguan government rejected the Court's jurisdiction); El Salvador v. Nicaragua, Central American Court of Justice (Mar. 9, 1917), reprinted in 11 American Journal of International Law 181 (1917) (in which the Court found for the plaintiff with respect to the latter's right to lease territory for the naval base in the Gulf of Fonseca).

248 Bustamante at 11–12.

249 Bustamante at 11–12. See also Philip Marshall Brown, Costa Rica v. Nicaragua, 11 American Journal of International Law 112 (1917). In 1917 Nicaragua was the complainant seeking relief against the United States and was met by a similar refusal to comply with the judgment of the International Court of Justice. See Military and Paramilitary Activities (Nicaragua v. U.S.), 1986 I.C.J. 14 (June 27).

250 See World Courts, Central American Court of Justice, Timeline, http://www.worldcourts.com/cacj/eng/timeline.htm. Further, some commentators viewed the judges as protective of their governments' interests rather than independent. Rodríguez at 1000–1001.

251 Bustamante at 11.

252 Bustamante at 1000–1001.

253 Cecilia Medina Quiroga, The Battle of Human Rights: Gross, Systematic Violations and the Inter-American System 13 (Dordrecht, Neth.: Martinus Nijhoff, 1988). See also Rafael Nieto-Navia, The Inter-American Court of Human Rights, in International Justice 1991 (Kalliopi Koufa, ed., Thessaloniki, Greece: Sakkoulas Publications, 1992). In 1948, the American states approved Resolution XL on the Protection of the Essential Rights of Man; thus these provisions came before the United Nations was created, which is a point made by Carlos Garcia Bauer in The Observance of Human Rights and the Structure of the System for Their Protection in the Western Hemisphere, 14 American U. Law Review 9, 14 (1964).

254 Nieto-Navia at 1991.

255 Charter of the Organization of American States, Apr. 30, 1948, 2 U.S.T. 2394, 119 U.N.T.S. 3. The 1948 charter entered into force in 1951 and has since been amended by the Protocol of Buenos Aires of 1967 (Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Buenos Aires, Feb. 27, 1967, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. 1-A); the Protocol of Cartegena de Indias of 1985 (Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Cartagena de Indias, Dec. 5, 1985, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. 66); the Protocol of Washington of 1992 (Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Washington, Dec. 14, 1992, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. A-56); and the Protocol of Managua of 1993 (Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Managua, June 10, 1993, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. A-61). See generally Henry J. Steiner, Philip Alston, & Ryan Goodman, International Human Rights in Context: Law, Politics, Morals 1000–1001 (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, 2007).

256 American Declaration of the Rights and Duties of Man, OAS Res. XXX, International Conference of American States, 9th Conf., OAS Doc. OEA/ser. L./ V./I.4 rev. (1948).

257 Resolution 31 of the Novena Conferencia Internacional Americana, Bogotá, Colombia, Mar. 30–May 2, 1948, as translated and cited in Bauer at 9.

258 Medina Quirogo at 11–12.

259 Medina Quirogo at 11–12.

260 Medina Quirogo at 13, noting that the proposal to incorporate the American Declaration of the Rights and Duties of Man into the OAS Charter was submitted to a vote and only six of twenty-one states were in favor.

261 Charter of the Organization of American States, Art. 9; Medina at 13.

262 Resolution VIII, Fifth Meeting of Consultation of Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Final Act (OEA/Ser.C/II.4, 1959). Compare Nieto-Navia at 1991, 1992; Medina, at 11–12, provided details and texts. The Commission was created in 1959 and began its work in 1960 at the time that the Council of the OAS approved its statute and elected its first members. See Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report 1960, 9 http://www.cidh.org/annualrep/1960eng/TOC.htm.

263 Medina Quirogo at 13.

264 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report 1960 at 9.

265 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report 1960, 19 9, http://www.cidh.oas.org/annualrep/1960eng/toc.htm.

266 Cecilia Medina, The Inter-American Commission on Human Rights and the Inter-American Court of Human Rights: Reflections on a Joint Venture, 14 Human Rights Quarterly 1992, 1992 (1992).

267 Medina Quirogo at 11–12. Article 1960 of the amended Charter provided that the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights had as its "principal function . . . to promote the observance and protection of human rights and to serve as a consultative organ of the Organization in these matters." See Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Buenos Aires; see also Nieto-Navia at 1992.

268 Inter-American Court of Human Rights: Proceedings of Installation at 13.

269 American Convention on Human Rights, Arts. 1–2, 8, 14, 14, 14, 14, Nov. 14, 1969, OAS Treaty Series No. 14, 1969 U.N.T.S. 1969. See also Chapters 1 and 14 in Anna-Lena Svensson-McCarthy, The International Law of Human Rights and States of Exception (The Hague, Neth.: Martinus Nijhoff, 1992).

270 See Gerald L. Neuman, Import, Export, and Regional Consent in the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, 14 European Journal of International Law 1993, 1993 (1993).

271 By 1993 twenty-five states in the Americas had ratified the Convention, including Argentina, Barbados, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominica, Ecuador, El Salvador, Grenada, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Jamaica, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, the Dominican Republic, Suriname, Trinidad and Tobago, Uruguay, and Venezuela. See American Convention on Human Rights: General Information on the Treaty, Organization for American States, http://www.oas.org/juridico/english/Sigs/b-32.html. In 1998, however, Trinidad and Tobago withdrew, reducing the number of States Parties to twenty-four. Id.

272 The Convention requires that these judges are of "the highest moral authority." American Convention on Human Rights, Art. 52, Nov. 22, 1969, OAS Treaty Series No. 36, 1969 U.N.T.S. 1969. No state may have two judges serving at any one time. Id. Unlike the commissioners of the Inter-American Commission, judges are not required to recuse themselves from hearing cases involving their home countries. Rather, a state party appearing as a defendant is entitled, under Article 52 of the Convention, to have a judge of its nationality serve as an ad hoc judge to participate in hearing that case.

273 Nieto-Navia at 1992.

274 See Ved P. Nanda, The United States Reservation to the Ban on the Death Penalty for Juvenile Offenders: An Appraisal under the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, 44 DePaul Law Review 1994, 1994 (1994). Although the United States is not a party to the Convention, it is subject to the recommendations of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights. In 1989 the Commission found the United States to be in violation of a rule of jus cogens due to its practice of executing juvenile offenders.

275 Thomas Buergenthal, Foreword to Jo M. Pasqualucci, The Practice and Procedure of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights xv (New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press, 2003). As noted earlier, the building was initially leased by the Court, and in 1993 Costa Rica donated the building to the court.

276 Buergenthal, Foreword to Pasqualucci at xv.

277 Pasqualucci at 9.

278 Pasqualucci at [illegible].

279 Pasqualucci at [illegible].

280 Neuman at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. Neuman offered some criticism of that approach. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. On the parallels from the perspective of a jurist on the Inter-American Court, see Thomas Buergenthal, The [illegible]merican and [illegible]uropean Conventions on [illegible]uman [illegible]ights[illegible] Similarities and Di[illegible]erences, [illegible] American U. Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

281 See Letsas; Neuman at [illegible]–[illegible].

282 Steiner, Alston, [illegible] Goodman at [illegible].

283 Medina at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

284 Inter-American Convention to Prevent and Punish Torture, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], O.A.S. Treaty Series A-[illegible]; Inter-American Convention on the Forced Disappearance of Persons, June [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] I.L.M. [illegible]; Inter-American Convention on the Prevention, Punishment and Eradication of Violence against Women, June [illegible], [illegible], O.A.S. Treaty Series A-[illegible]; Protocol to the American Convention on Human Rights to Abolish the Death Penalty, June [illegible], [illegible], O.A.S. Treaty Series A-[illegible]; Inter-American Convention for the Elimination on All Forms of Discrimination against Persons with Disabilities, June [illegible], [illegible], AG/RES. [illegible] (XXIX-O/[illegible]).

285 Rules of Procedure of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Art. illegible (adopted Dec. [illegible]). The Rule provides: [illegible]If the State in question has accepted the jurisdiction of the Inter-American Court in accordance with Article [illegible] of the American Convention, and the Commission considers that the State has not complied with the recommendations of the report approved in accordance with Article [illegible] of the American Convention, it shall refer the case to the Court, unless there is a reasoned decision by an absolute majority of the members of the Commission to the contrary[illegible] The Commission weighs the position of the petitioner, the nature and seriousness of the violation, the need to develop or clarify the case law of the system, the future effect of the decision, and the quality of the evidence. Id., Art. illegible.

286 Pasqualucci at [illegible].

287 Nieto-Navia at [illegible]–[illegible].

288 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible].

289 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible].

290 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, What is the IACHR[illegible]http://www.cidh.oas.org/what.htm. See also Steiner, Alston, [illegible] Goodman at [illegible].

291 Steiner, Alston, [illegible] Goodman at [illegible].

292 Neuman at [illegible]–[illegible].

293 See American Convention on Human Rights, Art. [illegible]; discussion on challenges of access can be found at Dialogue on Working of the Inter-American System, OAS/SERV G CP CAJP[illegible]/[illegible], March [illegible], [illegible], http://scm.oas.org/doc[illegible]public/ENGLISH/HIST[illegible]/CP[illegible]E[illegible].doc.

294 Pasqualucci at [illegible].

295 Neuman at [illegible].

296 See American Convention on Human Rights, Art. [illegible]. See also Nieto-Navia at [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. Further, all OAS member states, whether having ratified the Convention or not, may seek advisory opinions [illegible]regarding the interpretation of [illegible]the[illegible]Convention or of other treaties concerning the protection of human rights in the American states[illegible] American Convention on Human Rights, Art. illegible; see also Nieto-Navia at [illegible].

297 American Convention on Human Rights, Art. [illegible]. See also Neuman at [illegible].

298 See Christina M. Cerna, The [illegible]nter[illegible]merican Commission of [illegible]uman [illegible]ights, [illegible] Connecticut Journal of International Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

299 See Rules of Procedure of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Art. [illegible]. In addition to ratifying the Convention, a State Party must voluntarily submit to the Inter-American Court's jurisdiction to render the court competent to hear a case involving that state. States may do so generally. As of [illegible], Argentina, Barbados, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Suriname, Uruguay, and Venezuela had done so. States can also do so in an individual case.

300 Pasqualucci at [illegible].

301 American Convention on Human Rights, Art. [illegible].

302 See Nieto-Navia at [illegible]–[illegible].

303 Pasqualucci at [illegible]–[illegible].

304 Neuman at [illegible].

305 Neuman at [illegible].

306 See [illegible]eparations in the [illegible]nter[illegible]merican S[illegible]stem[illegible] Comparative [illegible]pproach, [illegible] American U. Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]). This publication provides a transcript from a conference on the topic. See also Tara J. Melish, The [illegible]nter[illegible]merican Court of [illegible]uman [illegible]ights[illegible]Be[illegible]ond Pro[illegible]ressivit[illegible], in Social Rights Jurisprudence: Emerging Trends in Comparative and International Law [illegible], [illegible] (M. Langford, ed., New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

307 As Judge Buergenthal argued, baseline conditions affect the metrics of success; [illegible]in the few cases before the European institutions that resemble the normal fare of the inter-American system, the European success rate is by no means better, and probably worse, than that of its inter-American counterpart[illegible] Thomas Buergenthal, [illegible]uman [illegible]ights in the [illegible]mericas[illegible]iew from the [illegible]nter[illegible]merican Court, [illegible] Connecticut Journal of International Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Buergenthal noted that situations before the ECtHR involving massive violations of human rights[illegible] involving Cyprus, Greece, Northern Ireland, and Turkey[illegible] that were not unlike those before the Inter-American Court.

308 Neuman at [illegible].

309 Neuman at [illegible]–[illegible].

310 American Convention on Human Rights, Art. illegible. That provision requires judges to be of [illegible]the highest moral authority[illegible] and experts on human rights law.

311 Figure [illegible] is reproduced courtesy of the Secretariat of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights.

312 Wildhaber at [illegible].

313 Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible].

314 Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Annual Report [illegible], Appendix XXV: Presentation of the Annual Report and Speech by the President Ant[illegible]nio A. Can[illegible]ado Trindade of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, April [illegible], [illegible], OEA/SER.G. CP/CAJP [illegible]/[illegible], [illegible] (hereinafter Trindade Presentation). This structural problem has been the subject of concern for many years. See Carlos Alberto Dunshee de Abranches, The [illegible]nter[illegible]merican Court of [illegible]uman [illegible]ights, [illegible] American U. Law Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

315 Wildhaber at [illegible].

316 Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Annual Report [illegible], inside cover.

317 American Convention on Human Rights, Art. [illegible].

318 Trindade Presentation at [illegible]. The [illegible] budget of the Court was [illegible],[illegible],[illegible]. Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible]. That amount represented about [illegible] percent of the OAS's overall budget. Id. at [illegible].

319 Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible].

320 Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. State contributors and their contributions include Denmark ([illegible],[illegible]), Finland ([illegible],[illegible]), France ([illegible],[illegible]), Ireland ([illegible],[illegible]), Italy ([illegible],[illegible]), Korea ([illegible],[illegible]), Spain ([illegible],[illegible]), and Sweden ([illegible],[illegible]). Information on the financial resources of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights can be found at Organization of American States, http://www.cidh.oas.org/recursos.eng.htm.

321 Trindade Presentation at ⊠⊠. See also Ant⊠nio A. Can⊠ado Trindade, The ⊠peration of the ⊠nter⊠⊠merican Court of ⊠uman ⊠ i⊠hts, in The Inter-American System of Human Rights ⊠⊠⊠ (David J. Harris ⊠ Stephen Livingstone, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Agreement between the Government of the Republic of Costa Rica and the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. ⊠⊠, reprinted in Inter-American Yearbook on Human Rights ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (Dordrecht, Neth.: Martinus Nijhoff Publishers, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

322 Pasqualucci at ⊠⊠⊠.

323 Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Annual Report ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. The number could be somewhat higher if one includes decisions in various stages of the same cases. See also Neuman at ⊠⊠⊠. Thus the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ report puts the number of cumulative judgments at ⊠⊠⊠. See Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Annual Report ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. Disaggregation is also appropriate.

For example, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the court received five new ⊠contentious cases⊠ (involving five countries: Argentina, Colombia, Guatemala, Honduras, and Peru) as well as four provisional measures (including against Costa Rica and Mexico) and requests for an advisory opinion from the Commission, seeking guidance on the interaction among provisions of the convention. Trindade Presentation at ⊠. During ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, the Inter-American Court held ten public hearings and dealt with about twenty compliance matters or judgments on the merits. See id. at ⊠.

324 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

325 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠. See also id. at ⊠⊠ for a graph indicating ⊠⊠⊠ hearings in ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

326 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠.

327 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

328 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠.

329 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Annual Report ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

330 Trindade Presentation at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

331 Rodrigo Carazo-Odio, President of the Republic of Costa Rica, Speech Delivered at the Installation of the Court at the National Theater of Costa Rica (Sept. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), reprinted in Inter-American Court of Human Rights: Proceedings of Installation ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠.

332 The decision was ratified by the states parties at the Convention during the sixth special session of the General Assembly in November ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

333 See Saavedra-Alessandri correspondence. Before obtaining ownership, various agreements were needed. For example, in September ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the Government of Costa Rica and the Court signed a ⊠Headquarters Agreement⊠ (approved in ⊠⊠⊠⊠) providing immunities for the Court, its judges and its staff, and those persons appearing before it. Trindad, The ⊠peration of the ⊠nter⊠⊠merican Court of ⊠uman ⊠ i⊠hts at ⊠⊠⊠.

334 See Saavedra-Alessandri correspondence.

335 Inter-American Court of Human Rights: Proceedings of Installation at ⊠⊠. The ceremonies included reading messages sent from the ECtHR and from the International Court of Justice.

336 Jorge Luis Zelay-Coronado, Deputy Secretary General of the OAS, Speech Delivered at the Installation of the Court at the National Theater of Costa Rica (Sept. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), in Inter-American Court of Human Rights: Proceedings of Installation ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. Zelay-Coronado also spoke of obligations of non-judicial branches to help sustain basic rights, health, education, and security.

337 Carazo-Odio at ⊠⊠⊠.

338 Rodolfo Piza-Escalante, President of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Speech Delivered at the Installation of the Court at the National Theater of Costa Rica (Sept. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), in Inter-American Court of Human Rights: Proceedings of Installation ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠.

339 Piza-Escalante at ⊠⊠⊠.

340 Piza-Escalante at ⊠⊠⊠. Despite those concerns, Piza-Escalante called for judges to be ⊠truly committed to justice, ready to go out and seek⊠ it and to grant it ⊠valiantly and aggressively⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. See also Tracy Thompson, ⊠rom Darkness, The Law School, New York University Law School Alumni Magazine ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Autumn ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

341 Thomas Buergenthal, Judge, Speech Delivered at the Faculty of Law of the University of Costa Rica on the occasion of the visit paid by the Judges of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights (Sept. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), in Inter-American Court of Human Rights: Proceedings of Installation ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter Buergenthal Speech). The other jurists selected for the court at its initiation came from Colombia, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Jamaica, Honduras, and Peru. Buergenthal's remarks to the law faculty were made the day after the inauguration; he called for enhanced education in human rights.

342 Buergenthal Speech at ⊠⊠⊠.

343 The procedural rules of the court provide for such ⊠exceptional circumstances⊠ In the late ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, the Inter-American Court held a hearing in Washington, D.C. because, in the B⊠maca ⊠e⊠s⊠ue⊠ Case, a witness could not ⊠for immigration reasons⊠ travel to the public hearing in Costa Rica. See Pasqualucci at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. In rare instances, such as when there is concern for the security of witnesses, hearings are closed. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Our thanks to Gerald Neuman for bringing this practice to our attention.

344 Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Use of Excess Resources of the Reserve Subfund for Capital Investments and to Meet OAS Mandates, Resolution ⊠⊠⊠, OEA CP/RES. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠) (⊠⊠⊠⊠). These funds came from the annual budget, to which each member state is required to contribute.

345 See Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Quarterly Report on the Use of Funds Allocated under Resolution CP/RES. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠) between July ⊠ and September ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, OEA/Ser.G, CP/Doc. ⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠ at ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Also mentioned is the firm DYPSA; the report explained: ⊠Construction design was entrusted to the consulting firm specializing in architecture and engineering which originally constructed the building that currently houses the Inter-American Court of Human Rights⊠ Id.

346 See Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Quarterly Report on Activities, Expansion and Remodeling of the Court's Headquarters, June ⊠⊠⊠⊠, OEA/Ser.G, CP/Doc. ⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Quarterly Report on the Use of Funds Allocated under Resolution CP/RES. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠) between Oct. ⊠ and Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, OEA/Ser.G, CP/Doc. ⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

347 Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Progress Report on the Second Trimester of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Aug. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠. The final cost was ⊠⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠.⊠⊠.

Chapter ⊠⊠

1 The photograph in figure ⊠⊠⊠ is reproduced courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation. Our thanks to Rosalyn Higgins, who served as President of the International Court of Justice (ICJ), to Registrar Jean-Jacques Arnaldez, and to Laurence Blairon, who led the Department of Information for the ICJ, for their hospitality and generosity in informing our discussion and for providing us with the photographs in this section. Carole Martens provided us with detailed research on the architectural competition for the design of the building; Garth Schofield also reviewed materials at our behest. In addition, we owe a great debt to Arthur Eyffinger, who has authored several books about the Peace Palace and has generously guided our research as well as helped us to obtain additional materials and photographs.

2 See generally José E. Alvarez, International Organizations as Law-makers (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

3 Andrew Carnegie, Autobiography of Andrew Carnegie ⍰⍰⍰ (Boston, MA: Houghton Mi⍰ in Company, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Andrew Carnegie's legacy is also linked to education and welfare. The Carnegie Corporation of America has a mission specified by Carnegie himself⍰ to ⍰promote the advancement and diffusion of knowledge and understanding⍰ See Carnegie Corporation, Philanthrop⍰ at Carne⍰ie Corpo⍰ration⍰⍰ision and Practice, http://www.carnegie.org/about-us/mission-and-vision/ (hereinafter Philanthrop⍰ at Carne⍰ie Corporation).

4 Michael L. Nash, ⍰ Centur⍰ of ⍰r⍰itration, The ⍰nternational Court of Justice, ⍰⍰⍰ Contemporary Review ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). The choice of The Hague came in part from Nicholas's relationship to Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰. See also Gerard Kerkvliet ⍰ Bert Mellink, The Peace Palace: A Living Institution of International Law ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (The Hague, Neth.: Ando and the Carnegie Foundation, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

5 Arthur Eyffinger, The Trusteeship of an Ideal: The Carnegie Foundation, Vignettes of a Century ⍰⍰ (Amsterdam, Neth.: Joh. Ensched⍰ Amsterdam BV in cooperation with the Carnegie Foundation, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Eyffinger, Trusteeship). The volume was published in honor of the hundredth anniversary of the Foundation (Carnegie Stichting). See also Kerkvliet ⍰ Mellink at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰; Arthur Eyffinger, The Peace Palace: Residence for Justice⍰ Domicile of Learning (The Hague, Neth.: Carnegie Foundation, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Eyffinger, Peace Palace).

6 Nash at ⍰⍰⍰. The painting is by Sophie Hirschmann, from The Hague, who lived from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Kerkvliet ⍰ Mellink at ⍰⍰.

7 Antonio Sanchez de Bustamante, The World Court ⍰⍰ (Elizabeth F. Read, trans., New York, NY: Macmillan, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

8 Bustamante at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

9 Bustamante at ⍰⍰.

10 Bustamante at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. The International Law Association was founded in Brussels in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to study and develop both public and private international law and to promote international understanding. See International Law Association, ⍰⍰out ⍰s, http://www.ila-hq.org/en/about⍰us/index.cfm. The American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes was founded in Baltimore in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to publish relevant articles by ⍰leading men of all countries⍰ and to ⍰educate the people as to the desirability of promoting the peace of the world by settling points of international controversy in the same general way in which differences between individuals are now settled.⍰ To Promote ⍰r⍰itration, New York Times, Feb. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰; Theodore Marburg, The Washin⍰ton Meetin⍰ of the ⍰merican Societ⍰ for the Judicial Settlement of ⍰nternational Dis⍰putes, ⍰ American Political Science Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). The American Society of International Law, begun in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, continued to be a voice for internationalism over the twentieth century. See Frederic L. Kirgis, The ⍰ormative ⍰ears of the ⍰merican Societ⍰ of ⍰nternational Law, ⍰⍰ American Journal of International Law ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Mark Weston Janis, ⍰mericans and the ⍰uest for an ⍰thical ⍰nternational Law, ⍰⍰⍰ West Virginia Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

11 See International Adjudications, Ancient and Modern History and Documents (John Bassett Moore, ed., New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, reprinted by William S. Hein, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The series was also a publication of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Division of International Law, in Washington, D.C. In the eight-volume series, Moore reprinted selected international arbitrations from what he termed the ⍰the ancient⍰ and modern eras in pursuit of his goal of ⍰bring⍰ng⍰together all discoverable records of international judicial action, ancient and modern, into one comprehensive publication, in which there should be given, in appropriate historical setting, the full text of every international judicial decision, or opinion, and in addition certain affinitive matter lying, as the case might be, within the sphere or on the border of judicial action⍰ Moore, ⍰ eneral ⍰ntroduction to International Adjudications, vol. ⍰ at ix.

12 See John Bassett Moore, ⍰ ⍰undred ⍰ears of Diplomac⍰, ⍰⍰ Harvard Law Review ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Moore's list was focused on international ⍰arbitrations of the United States⍰ excluding those then pending. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰. Another account not limited to the United States reported twenty-three arbitrations between ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰, twenty from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to ⍰⍰⍰⍰, forty-four between ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰, and ninety from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Bustamante at ⍰ (citing La Fontaine, Pasi⍰ crisie internationale, Berne, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, and ⍰nales de la Corte de Justicia Centro⍰⍰mericana, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

13 See The Cordillera of the Andes Boundary Case (Argentina, Chile), Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰ Reports of International Arbitral Awards ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Controversy later arose between Argentina and Chile over the interpretation of the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ award. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the parties agreed to refer the matter to Queen Elizabeth II, who issued an award on December ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See Argentine–Chile Frontier Case, Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Reports of International Arbitral Awards ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

14 See Arthur Eyffinger, Livin⍰⍰p to a Tradition, in The Hague: Legal Capital of the World ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Peter J. van Krieken ⍰ David McKay, eds., The Hague, Neth.: T. M. C. Asser Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Eyffinger, Tradition); Bette Shifman, The Permanent Court of ⍰r⍰itration⍰⍰n ⍰verview, in The Hague: Legal Capital of the World ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. See generally Arthur Eyffinger, The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Hague Peace Conference: ⍰The Parliament of Man, the Federation of the World⍰ (The Hague, Neth.: Kluwer Law International, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Eyffinger, The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Hague Peace Conference).

15 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at ⍰⍰.

16 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at ⍰⍰.

17 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at ⍰⍰.

18 See Kerkvliet ⍰ Mellink at ⍰⍰. Given the commitment to arbitration, England used it to charge Russia with firing on the British herring fleet, and Russia ended up paying damages.

19 The nations assembled brought some diversity of legal traditions, albeit through colonialism aspects of both common and civil law traditions that had been imposed far from their roots. Nash at ⍰⍰⍰.

20 Bustamante at ⍰⍰.

21 See Philanthrop⍰ at Carne⍰ie Corporation.

22 See The ⍰cadem⍰ of ⍰nternational Law at The ⍰ a⍰ue ⍰sta⍰lished in Co⍰operation with the Carne⍰ie ⍰ndowment for ⍰nternational Peace, ⍰ American Journal of International Law ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). William Stead, a British journalist, and Andrew White, the United States ambassador to Germany, are credited with drawing Carnegie's attention to these issues. Kerkvliet ⍰ Mellink at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

23 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at ⍰.

24 A Deed to Create a ⍰⍰'tichting' ⍰⍰foundation or trust under the Netherland Law⍰for the Purpose of Erecting and Maintaining at The Hague (Kingdom of the Netherlands) a Court-House and Library for the Permanent Court of Arbitration, reproduced in The Palace of Peace at The Hague: The ⍰ Premiated and ⍰⍰ Other Designs Chosen by the Society of Architecture at Amsterdam and Reproduced under Its Direction ⍰–⍰ (London, Eng.: T. C. ⍰ E. C. Jack, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Designs Chosen). Details of the competition and photographs of several of the drawings can also be found in Eyffinger, Peace Palace at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

25 A copy of the certificate is reproduced in figure ⍰⍰⍰ courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation.

26 National competitions may also have influenced the international paradigm. For example, in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Italian architects were invited to submit proposals for the Palazzo di Giustizia in Rome. See Terry Rossi Kirk, Church, State and Architecture: The ⍰Palazzo di Giustizia of Nineteenth-Century Rome [illegible] (Ph.D. dissertation, Columbia U., New York, NY, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]). Kirk also analyzed the secular iconography of the building and the symbolism of the courthouse in making material the culture of jurisprudence, initiated by the ancients and sustained by later Italian rulers. Id. at [illegible].

27 See, for example, Eyffinger, Trusteeship; Eyffinger, The Peace Palace.

28 James A. Mackay, Little Boss: A Life of Andrew Carnegie [illegible] (Ann Arbor, MI: U. of Michigan Press, [illegible]).

29 Designs Chosen at [illegible].

30 Designs Chosen at [illegible], reproducing the document. This Programme of the Competition for the Architectural Plan of the Peace Palace for the use of the Permanent Court of Arbitration with a Library was sent out all over the world. Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

31 Designs Chosen at [illegible].

32 Designs Chosen at [illegible].

33 Designs Chosen at [illegible].

34 Additional requirements included a basement for concierges and clerks, storerooms, and the like. Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

35 Designs Chosen at [illegible].

36 Designs Chosen at [illegible]; Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

37 Designs Chosen at [illegible].

38 Included were the Architect of the Royal Museum of Amsterdam as well as architects from Royale Institute of British Architects and professors, including W. R. Ware, then Emeritus Professor of Architecture at Columbia University, New York. Designs Chosen at [illegible].

39 Kerkvliet & Mellink at [illegible].

40 The question was much debated; see T. E. Collcutt, The Peace Palace Competition (Annual Address) printed in The American Architect and Building News, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible]; G. S. Aitken & Henry F. Kerr, Design for the Peace Palace, The Value, [illegible] The Architect and Contract Reports [illegible] (Dec. [illegible], [illegible]).

41 As noted in Chapter [illegible], Rogers said he wanted to break from the traditional monumentalism associated with Palaces of Justice and create a futuristic image not limited by the national styles of the Member States. Richard Rogers, European Court of Human Rights, [illegible] Zodiac [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Richards Rogers, GA Document Extra No. [illegible] at [illegible] (Yoshio Futagawa, interviewer, Yukio Futagawa, ed., ADA Edita, Tokyo [illegible]).

42 Hugh Aldersey-Williams, Court in the Middle, Architectural Record [illegible] (Aug. [illegible]).

43 Kerkvliet & Mellink at [illegible]. Under the the auspices of Queen Wilhelmina, the drawings were displayed to the public. Id.

44 Designs Chosen at [illegible]–[illegible].

45 Designs Chosen at [illegible]. Cordonnier's design was not, however, used for the Stock Exchange. See Kerkvliet & Mellink at [illegible].

46 Designs Chosen at [illegible]–[illegible]. A total of forty-four, including the six winners, were provided. See id. at [illegible]–[illegible] and plates [illegible]–[illegible]. The Carnegie Foundation gave the drawings on long-term loan to the Netherlands Architecture Institute; see A Brief History of the Peace Palace, Peace Palace Library. http://www.ppl.nl/[illegible]years/peacepalace/.

47 Designs Chosen at [illegible] (design no. [illegible], PAX). The overall impression of this design was, however, very favorable.

48 Designs Chosen at [illegible]. He was on the list of the top forty-four, but that list was not ranked.

49 The winners were two French architects Louis M. Cordonnier from Lille and Alexander Marcel from Paris. The top six included two from Germany, Franz Schwechten from Cologne and Franz Wendt from Stettin; Otto Wagner from Austria; and the firm of Howard Greenley and S. Olin from New York. See Designs Chosen at [illegible]–[illegible].

50 Designs Chosen at [illegible].

51 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

52 Kerkvliet & Mellink at [illegible]. Kerkvliet & Mellink reported that Cordonnier won by a single vote. Furthermore, while the innovators lost later retrenchment of Cordonnier's design offered some compensation. Id.

53 Designs Chosen at [illegible].

54 Designs Chosen, plate [illegible] at [illegible]. The Peace Palace Competition, [illegible] The American Architect [illegible], [illegible] (Aug. [illegible], [illegible]). Cordonnier was born in Haubourdin in [illegible] and lived until [illegible]; he was based in Lille. See Kerkvliet & Mellink at [illegible]; Designs Chosen at [illegible], [illegible].

55 Designs Chosen at [illegible]. See also The Peace Palace Competition, [illegible] The American Architect [illegible] (Aug. [illegible], [illegible]). The jury described its third-prize design as somewhat stiff and monotonous. Id.

56 Edwin W. Leeuwin, The Arts of Peace: Thomas & Mawson & Gardens at the Peace Palace, The Value, [illegible] Garden History [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

57 Design for the Palace of Peace at The Hague, [illegible] Architectural Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Design for the Palace of Peace).

58 Design for the Palace of Peace at [illegible]–[illegible].

59 Glimpse of the Palace of Peace, Just Dedicated, New York Times, Sept. [illegible], [illegible], at SM[illegible] (hereinafter Glimpse of the Palace of Peace). One commentator explained that Cordonnier relied heavily on belfry towers, central halls and staircases, and the entwining of brick and stone. All these elements Cordonnier literally imitated from the Renaissance style giving his work a static impression. Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

60 Collcutt at [illegible].

61 Glimpse of the Palace of Peace.

62 Robert Maxwell & Wilford Schupp Architekten, Peace Dividend, [illegible] Architectural Review [illegible] (June [illegible]).

63 See The International Court of Justice: Questions and Answers About the Principal Judicial Organ of the United Nations [illegible] (New York, NY: United Nations Department of Public Information, [illegible]) (hereinafter ICJ Questions and Answers).

64 Kerkvliet & Mellink at [illegible]. The proposals reproduced in that monograph include those by Hendrik Berlage, Eero Saarinen, Otto Wagner, and Alexander Marcel. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

65 Collcutt at [illegible]; F. C. H. M. Robbers, A Storm of Indignation: A Lawsuit Concerning the Design for the Peace Palace, in Eyffinger, Trusteeship [illegible]. Collcutt's role is specified in Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

66 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible].

67 Eyffinger, Trusteeship. at [illegible]. [illegible]Most of the winning designs exceeded by far the sum stipulated in the programme. Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

68 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible].

69 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible]; see also Kerkvliet & Mellink at [illegible]–[illegible].

70 Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Manual of the Public Benefactors of Andrew Carnegie at [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible]. The photograph in figure [illegible] is reproduced courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation.

71 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible].

72 Kerkvliet & Mellink at [illegible].

73 Robbers at [illegible].

74 The Peace Palace Award Combined, [illegible] American Architect and Building News [illegible] (Nov. [illegible], [illegible]). See also The Success of The Hague Peace Palace Competition, [illegible] American Architect and Building News [illegible] (Oct. [illegible], [illegible]). That commentary described architect Cordonnier as in the grace of Queen Wilhelmina and commented that the design disregarded the prime condition of budgetary constraints. Id.

75 Robbers at [illegible].

76 Robbers at [illegible].

77 Robbers at [illegible]–[illegible].

78 Robbers at [illegible].

79 A Brief History of the Peace Palace, Peace Palace Library, http://www.ppl.nl/[illegible]years/peacepalace.

80 Hans van den Broek, President of the Carnegie Foundation, [illegible]oreword to Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible], quoting that brochure. Carnegie was at the opening ceremonies. Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible].

81 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

82 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible]. One way to read various parts of his book is as a plea for wide-ranging economic support.

83 Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible].

84 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

85 At the [illegible] Hague Conference, the [illegible]French secured the assistance of the forty-four attending nations for an initiative to honour the Dutch by donating works of art and craftsmanship to decorate the Peace Palace[illegible] Eyffinger, Tradition at [illegible].

86 Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible].

87 Christine B. Weightman, A Short History of The Hague [illegible] (Schiedam, Neth.: Schie-Pers, [illegible]).

88 Michael E. Goldhaber, War and Justice, [illegible] The American Lawyer [illegible] (Aug. [illegible]).

89 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible]. Their work accounted for [illegible],[illegible] square feet ([illegible],[illegible] square meters). Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

90 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible]–[illegible].

91 The tapestries, [illegible]a valuable gift from the Japanese government[illegible] were designed by Jimbei Kawashima II. Called [illegible]ne [illegible]undred [illegible]lowers and [illegible]ne [illegible]undred Birds in Late Sprin[illegible] and [illegible]ar[illegible] Summer, they were woven in a fashion that renders the [illegible]warp and woof almost invisible.[illegible] Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible].

92 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible]–[illegible]. The object's weight is more than [illegible],[illegible] kilograms. Id. at [illegible].

93 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible]. The statue is a smaller copy of one erected in the Andes in [illegible] in commemoration of a peaceful resolution by arbitration of a dispute between Chile and Argentina. The sculptor was J. Lague of Brussels. See List of Gifts to the Peace Palace (materials provided by Laurence Blairon, former Head of the Information Department for the ICJ).

94 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible]–[illegible]. These paintings are on loan and remain part of the Rijksmuseum collection.

95 Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible]. See also Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible]–[illegible]. Eyffinger reported that the triptych was bought on the belief that it referred to the [illegible]Triumph of Peace[illegible] or the [illegible]Munster Peace Treaty[illegible] rather than what it does represent, Amsterdam's [illegible]maiden[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. The panels, a little over [illegible] by [illegible].[illegible] feet (or [illegible].[illegible] meters by [illegible].[illegible] meters), include a host of Virtues and Vices.

96 Herman Rosse, who was born in the Netherlands in [illegible], moved to the United States, where he served as the head of the Design Department of the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, and then to Hollywood, where he worked as a set designer for films in the United States and Europe. See Herman Rosse: Designs for Theatre, Chapin Library, Williams College (May–Sept. [illegible]), found on the college's educational resources website; Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible]–[illegible]. Figure [illegible] is provided courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation.

97 Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible]. A floor mosaic of Italian marble reads [illegible]sol justitiae illustra nos[illegible] (the sun of justice illuminates us). Id. at [illegible]. Other allegorical females, including Peace and other [illegible]paranymphs[illegible] adorn stained-glass windows. Id.

98 Letter from Laurence Blairon, former Head of the Information Department of the ICJ (January [illegible], [illegible]) (hereinafter Blairon [illegible] Letter). See Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible]. The New [illegible]ork Times article reported that [illegible],[illegible] had been set aside for the work. [illegible] limpse of the Palace of Peace. O'Connor executed commissions for the Vanderbilt Memorial on the facade of St. Bartholomew's Church in New York, and of General Lafayette, a [illegible]monumental statue[illegible] in Baltimore of Lafayette astride a horse. O'Connor also designed a hundred-foot-high monument, Desolution, for the Bay of Dublin. See Sybil Vincent, [illegible]n the Studio of [illegible]ndrew [illegible]Connor, [illegible] The London Studio [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Figure [illegible] is provided courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation.

99 Leeuwin at [illegible]–[illegible]. Leeuwin noted that Mawson had achieved the [illegible]desired effect of spaciousness and restfulness through a variety of choices[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. See also Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible]–[illegible].

100 Blairon [illegible] Letter and the attached list, [illegible]Busts in the Peace Palace[illegible] Those portrayed in marble or bronze include Sir William Randal Cremer, Hugo Grotius, William Stead, and Louis Renault. Id. See also Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible].

101 Anthony Browne, World Court [illegible]aces [illegible]s Bi[illegible]est Test [illegible]et, Times UK, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]; Rosalyn Higgins, The [illegible]CJ, the [illegible]CJ, and the [illegible]nte[illegible]rit[illegible] of [illegible]nternational Law, [illegible] International and Comparative Law Quarterly [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

102 Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible].

103 Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible]. Kerkvliet and Mellink mentioned that the Achilles painting denoted that [illegible]each belligerent, no matter how powerful,[illegible] was vulnerable. Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible]. In [illegible] the New [illegible]ork Times also noted that the Dutch had moved a Bols painting, [illegible]lle[illegible]or[illegible] of Peace, from the Leyden Town Hall, where it had been in place for two centuries. [illegible] limpse of the Palace of Peace.

104 Edward W. Bok, [illegible]ntroduction to Antonio Sanchez de Bustamante, The World Court xii (Elizabeth F. Read, trans., New York, NY: Macmillan, [illegible]). Bustamante was a judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice when he wrote this volume.

105 Permanent Court of Arbitration, [illegible] PCA Annual Report, Annex [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], http://www.pca-cpa.org/upload/files/[illegible] [illegible] Report[illegible] [illegible]-[illegible].pdf. Under PCA rules, public information is provided only parties consent. Id. at [illegible].

106 Manley O. Hudson, The Permanent Court of [illegible]rbitration, [illegible] American Journal of International Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Hudson, PCA).

107 Bok at xiii. As one international expert put it, as of the [illegible]s, more than [illegible] individuals had been appointed, but they did not [illegible]constitute an actual tribunal for the trial of cases. They form, on the contrary, a panel, or eligible list[illegible] from which arbitrators could be drawn. John Bassett Moore, The [illegible]rganization of the Permanent Court of [illegible]nternational Justice, [illegible] Columbia Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Moore, [illegible]rganization of PCIJ).

108 Hudson, PCA at [illegible].

109 See generally Martti Koskenniemi, The Gentle Civilizer of Nations: The Rise and Fall of International Law [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

110 Koskenniemi at [illegible]. The book raised a series of concerns about the project of international law and was critical of the idea of a shared legal conscience.

111 Bok at xii.

112 See, for example, Laurence R. Helfer [illegible] Anne-Marie Slaughter, Wh[illegible] States Create [illegible]nternational Tri[illegible]unals[illegible] [illegible]esponse to Professors Posner and [illegible]oo, [illegible] California Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

113 See, for example, Sanche[illegible]Llamas v[illegible] re[illegible]on, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]), discussed later in this chapter. Of course, problems of legitimacy and compliance are not limited to international law but are paralleled in domestic settings. See Jack Goldsmith [illegible] Daryl Levinson, Law for States[illegible]nternational Law, Constitutional Law, Pu[illegible]lic Law, [illegible] Harvard Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]). Furthermore, the nature of international obligations is also in transition, because obligations flow not only from state to state but also to nationals of other states. See Lea Brilmayer, [illegible]rom [illegible]Contract[illegible] to [illegible]Plea[illegible]The Structure of [illegible]nternational [illegible] uman [illegible]ights [illegible]reements, [illegible] British Yearbook of International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

114 See Ruti Teitel ▯ Robert L. Howse, Cross▯Jud▯in▯▯Tri▯unal▯ i▯ation in a ▯ra▯mented But ▯nterconnected ▯ lo▯al ▯ rder (Jan. ▯▯▯▯), http://www.SSRN.com/abstract▯▯▯▯▯▯▯▯▯.

115 Hudson, PCA at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯. As of ▯▯▯▯, the registry of the PCA (the International Bureau) had expenses of ▯▯,▯▯▯ Dutch florins, or about ▯▯▯,▯▯▯. Id. at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯. See also at ▯▯▯.

116 Manley O. Hudson, ▯merican Mem▯ers of the Permanent Court of ▯r▯itration durin▯ ▯ort▯ ▯ears, ▯▯ American Journal of International Law ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯) (hereinafter Hudson, ▯mer▯ican Mem▯ers).

117 Hudson, PCA at ▯▯▯. The ▯▯▯▯ reporter listed twenty-one arbitrations. Id. at ▯▯▯. An example of a ▯▯▯▯ judgment involving Venezuela and the United States is in ▯ American Journal of International Law ▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯).

118 Gilbert Guillaume, The Contribution of the Permanent Court of Arbitration and Its International Bureau to Arbitration between States, on the Occasion of a Celebration of the Centenary of the Second Hague Convention of Oct. ▯▯, ▯▯▯▯, for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes, The Hague, Oct. ▯▯, ▯▯▯▯, Remarks of Phillipe Sands, of James Crawford, and of Gilbert Guillaume, http://www.pca-cpa.org/showfile.asp▯fil▯id▯▯▯▯ (hereinafter ▯▯▯▯ PCA Centenary). The PCA database listed fifteen awards given. See Permanent Court of Arbitration, Cases Conducted under the Auspices of the PCA or with the Cooperation of the International Bureau, in ▯▯▯▯ PCA Annual Report at ▯▯–▯▯.

119 Hudson, PCA at ▯▯▯. As Hudson put it: ▯Strictly, an agreement to arbitrate in accordance with or pursuant to the provisions of either Hague Convention is so indefinite as to have little meaning▯ Id.

120 Guillaume, ▯▯▯▯ PCA Centenary. Article ▯▯ of the ▯▯▯▯ Convention authorized the International Bureau ▯to place its offices and staff at the disposal of the Contracting Powers for the use of any special Board of Arbitration▯ and did not define what such a ▯special Board▯ entails. Shifman at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯.

121 Crawford, ▯▯▯▯ PCA Centenary. To do so, the PCA relied on Article ▯▯ of the ▯▯▯▯ Hague Convention, interpreted not to be limited to states. For example, in the ▯▯▯▯s the PCA heard a dispute between the Radio Corporation of America and China. See Crawford, PCA Centenary at ▯–▯; PCA Cases Conducted ▯▯▯▯–▯▯▯▯ at ▯▯.

122 Hudson, ▯merican Mem▯ers at ▯▯▯.

123 Manley O. Hudson, The World Court ▯▯▯▯–▯▯▯▯: A Handbook of the Permanent Court of International Justice ▯–▯ (Boston, MA: World Peace Foundation, ▯th ed., ▯▯▯▯) (hereinafter Hudson, World Court Handbook). The twenty-one awards are listed in PCA Cases Conducted ▯▯▯▯–▯▯▯▯ at ▯▯–▯▯.

124 Guillaume, ▯▯▯▯ PCA Centenary, at ▯. As part of the hundred-year anniversary, the PCA revised its logo, as we discuss at the end of the chapter.

125 See PCA Cases Conducted ▯▯▯▯–▯▯▯▯ at ▯▯.

126 ▯▯▯▯ PCA Annual Report at ▯–▯.

127 In November of ▯▯▯▯, more than fifty United States nationals were detained at the United States Embassy in Tehran, and the United States responded by freezing assets of Iran. A special ▯Iran–United States Claims Tribunal▯ financed by those two countries, was established to make binding decisions through a nine-member body that could also rely on chambers of smaller numbers. The agreement to do so is known as the Algiers Accords. Some of the funds frozen in the United States were placed in a ▯security account▯ to pay claimants through a settlement tribunal to meet at The Hague. See Warren Christopher ▯ Richard M. Mosk, The ▯ranian ▯ osta▯e Crisis and the ▯ran▯▯▯ Claims Tri▯unal▯▯mplications for ▯nternational Dispute ▯es▯ olution and Diplomac▯, ▯ Pepperdine Dispute Resolution Law Journal. ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯). The PCA was involved in setting up the Iran–United States Claims Tribunal, which initially used PCA staff and PCA facilities in The Hague before it moved in ▯▯▯▯ to its own housing; the Claims Tribunal also continued to use the ▯PCA's courtroom for full tribunal hearings▯ Shifman at ▯▯▯; see Charles N. Brower, The ▯ran▯▯ nited States Claims Tri▯unal ▯ n ▯ nal▯sis, in The Hague: Legal Capital of the World ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯. See also ▯▯▯▯ PCA Annual Report at ▯–▯.

More than ▯,▯▯▯ claims were filed, of which some ▯,▯▯▯ were ▯small claims▯ under ▯▯▯▯,▯▯▯ and handled differently than claims above that amount. Id. at ▯▯▯. Individuals as well as banks were claimants, and many issues had to be addressed, such as the criteria for determining who was a ▯national▯ and the relevance of preexisting contracts delineating other fora for decisionmaking. By ▯▯▯▯, more than ▯▯ billion had been paid out through various mechanisms. Id. at ▯▯▯. See also David D. Caron, The Nature of the ▯ran▯▯ nited States Claims Tri▯unal and the ▯volvin▯ Structure of ▯nternational Dispute ▯esolu▯ tion, ▯▯ American Journal of International Law ▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯); Robert B. von Mehren, The ▯ran▯▯▯▯▯▯ r▯itral Tri▯unal, ▯▯ American Journal of Comparative Law ▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯). As for how to record the activities of that tribunal in relationship to the PCA, the PCA database lists proceedings begun in ▯▯▯▯ that had, by ▯▯▯▯, resulted in ▯▯▯ awards. See PCA Cases Conducted ▯▯▯▯–▯▯▯▯ at ▯▯.

128 PCA Cases Conducted ▯▯▯▯–▯▯▯▯ at ▯▯–▯▯.

129 PCA Annual Report ▯▯▯▯ at ▯, ▯–▯.

130 Tjaco T. Van Den Hout (Secretary-General of the PCA), ▯es▯ olution of ▯nternational Disputes▯The ▯ole of the Permanent Court of ▯ r▯itration▯ ▯e▯lections on the Centenar▯ of the ▯▯▯▯ Convention for the Pacific Settlement of ▯nternational Disputes, ▯▯ Leiden Journal of International Law ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯).

131 The photographs in figure ▯▯▯ are reproduced courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation and the Iran–United States Claims Tribunal.

132 World War I intervened. The artist, Olivier Merson, died, and the tapestry was not completed. Thereafter, the large cartoon, with a figure labeled ▯Pax▯ at its center, was provided instead. Kerklviet at ▯▯; Blairon ▯▯▯▯ Letter.

133 Guillaume, ▯▯▯▯ PCA Centenary, at ▯. The Iran–U.S. Claims Tribunal was among the first to use the UNCITRAL Rules after their promulgation in ▯▯▯▯. Brower at ▯▯▯. Modernization of other aspects of the PCA are detailed in Shifman at ▯▯▯–▯▯▯.

134 PCA Cases Conducted ▯▯▯▯–▯▯▯▯ at ▯▯–▯▯.

135 Shifman at ▯▯▯.

136 Only parties that have so agreed are identified by the PCA, and (as noted) only when the parties consent does the PCA publishes awards or other information in proceedings under PCA auspices. See Permanent Court of Arbitration, Optional Rules for Arbitrating Disputes Between Two States, Art. ▯▯, para. ▯, http://www.pca-cpa.org/upload/files/▯STATENG.pdf; Optional Rules for Arbitration of Disputes Relating to Natural Resources and/or the Environment, id. at para. ▯, 137 See Manley O. Hudson, The Permanent Court of ▯nternational Justice, ▯▯ Harvard Law Review ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯) (hereinafter Hudson, PCIJ ▯▯▯▯ Harv. L. Rev.). See also Manley O. Hudson, The Permanent Court of International Justice, ▯▯▯▯–▯▯▯▯: A Treatise (New York, NY: Macmillan, ▯▯▯▯) (hereinafter Hudson, PCIJ Treatise). A related criticism was that the PCA arbitrators were too close ▯to diplomacy rather than to jurisprudence▯ Charles Evans Hughes, The Permanent Court of ▯nternational Justice, ▯▯ Proceedings of the Academy of Political Science in the City of New York ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯) (quoting Elihu Root). Both Hughes, then Secretary of State, and Root, who had helped draft the court's statute, were proponents of the United States joining the PCIJ. Hughes was a listed member of the PCA before going to the United States Supreme Court, where he served as its Chief Justice.

138 David Jayne Hill, The Permanent Court of ▯nternational Jus▯ tice, ▯▯ American Journal of International Law ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯ (▯▯▯▯).

139 Jackson H. Ralston, *Some Su▯▯▯▯▯▯▯▯▯

Legal Argument in the Permanent Court of International Justice: The Rise of the International Judiciary [illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

140 Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible], n. [illegible]. Descriptions of the [illegible] Court of Arbitral Justice can be found in Edwin M. Borchard, The Permanent Court of [illegible]nternational Justice, [illegible] Proceedings of the Academy of Political Science in the City of New York [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

141 Bustamante at [illegible]. See also Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible]–[illegible]. The committee held thirty-five meetings between June [illegible] and July [illegible], [illegible]. Id. at [illegible], n. [illegible].

142 Bustamante at [illegible]. [illegible]Those who prepared the plan for the Permanent Court intended that it should have compulsory jurisdiction in certain enumerated classes of controversies of a kind peculiarly suited for judicial settlement[illegible] Edward D. Dickerson, The Permanent [illegible]nternational Court of Justice, [illegible] Michigan Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

143 Permanent Court of International Justice, Statute of the Court, Art. [illegible], in Publications of the Permanent Court of International Justice, First Edition, Series D No. [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter [illegible] PCIJ Statute).

144 Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible].

145 Spiermann at [illegible]–[illegible].

146 George Wharton Pepper, The Permanent Court of [illegible]nter[illegible]national Justice, [illegible] Proceedings of the Academy of Political Science in the City of New York [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Senator Pepper, from Pennsylvania, counseled debate about the United States' adherence, claiming to present facts but not argue for or against it. Id. at [illegible].

147 Dickerson at [illegible]. The PCIJ's limitations protected national law. In this international institution, as in many others of the twentieth century, the United States played an important role and is often cited as shaping provisions to protect its sovereign prerogatives. Details of the many decisions entailed in the formulation of the PCIJ, in terms of jurisdiction, procedure, language, and whether judges could record dissents, are provided in James Brown Scott, [illegible] Perma[illegible]nent Court of [illegible]nternational Justice, [illegible] American Journal of International Law [illegible] ([illegible]). Parties could, however, agree when ratifying to submit to the Court unconditionally, compelling themselves to later participation. Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J at [illegible].

148 Dickerson at [illegible].

149 Dickerson at [illegible]–[illegible].

150 Bustamante at [illegible]–[illegible]. The initial group came from Spain, Italy, Brazil, Cuba, Great Britain, Switzerland, Holland, the United States, Denmark, Japan, and France, with deputy judges from Norway, Romania, China, and the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes. Id. at [illegible].

151 The idea of supranational norms that are independent of nation-states in late twentieth-century international law is explored in Gerald L. Neuman, [illegible] uman [illegible]ights and Constitutional [illegible]ights[illegible] armon[illegible] and Dissonance, [illegible] Stanford Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

152 Ralston at [illegible].

153 Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J at [illegible]. Moore pointed out that disqualification was not required at the PCIJ.

154 Versions of this model can be found at the national level. For example, by statute, Canada has also provided a set-aside so that three of its Supreme Court judges come from the Province of Ontario and three from the Province of Quebec. See Supreme Court Act, R.S.C., ch. S-[illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (Can.).

155 Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible]–[illegible]. Root had served as the Secretary of War under President McKinley and as the Secretary of State under President Roosevelt. Between [illegible] and [illegible] Root played several roles, including being a founding member of the Council on Foreign Relations in [illegible], a delegate to the International Conference on the Limitation of Armaments in [illegible], and a delegate to the Washington Naval Conference in [illegible]–[illegible]. See generally John Fabian Witt, Cr[illegible]stal [illegible]astman and the [illegible]nternationalist Be[illegible]innin[illegible]s of [illegible]merican Civil Li[illegible]erties, [illegible] Duke Law Journal [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

156 Hughes at [illegible].

157 Hughes at [illegible]

158 Statute of the Court, as amended by the Protocol of Sept. [illegible], [illegible], Art. [illegible], in Hudson, World Court Handbook at [illegible] (hereinafter [illegible] PCIJ Statute). Some discussion addressed whether to disqualify judges, if the same nationality as a disputant, from sitting on that bench in a particular case. See Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J at [illegible].

159 The first set elected included John Bassett Moore, who had been a professor of international law at Columbia Law School, had served as a legal advisor to the foreign office, and, as noted, had written at length on arbitration. See Dickerson at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J. The first judges are shown in a photograph at page ii.

160 Pepper at [illegible].

161 Some objected to this custom. [illegible]This provision undoubtedly detracts from the formally impartial character of the court[illegible] Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible]. The Inter-American Court, discussed in Chapter [illegible], has a similar practice.

162 In [illegible], the body was reorganized so that the bench numbered fifteen, with six deputies. The change was based on an initial aspect of the [illegible] statute that also had provided for a bench as large as twenty-one. See Statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], amended Sept. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.worldcourts.com/pcij/eng/documents/[illegible].[illegible].[illegible]statute.htm (hereinafter [illegible] PCIJ Statute). Deputy judges were to substitute if others were absent, and, reflective of this ad hoc service, they were permitted to serve as lawyers before the court if not participating as judges. Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J at [illegible]–[illegible]. The post of deputy judge was abolished in [illegible]. Spiermann at [illegible].

163 See Lorna Lloyd, [illegible] Sprin[illegible]oard for the [illegible]uture[illegible] [illegible] istorical [illegible]amination of Britain[illegible]s [illegible]ole in Shapin[illegible] the [illegible]ptional Clause of the Per[illegible]manent Court of [illegible]nternational Justice, [illegible] American Journal of International Law [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Resolution of the First Assembly of the League of Nations, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], Protocol of Signature, opened for signature at Geneva, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], in Hudson, World Court Handbook at [illegible]–[illegible]. Some commentators saw the court as one of the major reasons that the League of Nations had been established. See Lord Godfrey Walter Phillimore, The Permanent Court of [illegible]nternational Justice, [illegible] Journal of the British Institute of International Affairs [illegible] ([illegible]).

164 Permanent Court of [illegible]nternational Justice, [illegible] Law Times [illegible] (Mar. [illegible], [illegible]). The point about how they were dressed came in response to accusations that the judges would be too royally clad. See Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J at [illegible]–[illegible].

165 Bustamante at [illegible]–[illegible], quoting Drummond.

166 Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J at [illegible].

167 Bustamante at [illegible]. See also Hudson, World Court Handbook at [illegible] (stating that the PCIJ's expenses in [illegible] amounted to [illegible],[illegible] florins).

168 See The Hague Academy of International Law, History, http://www.hagueacademy.nl/[illegible]history.

169 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible]–[illegible].

170 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at [illegible]. Also chronicled is the work of the academy through [illegible]. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

171 Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible]; [illegible] PCIJ Statute, Art. [illegible].

172 [illegible] PCIJ Statute, Art. [illegible]. See also Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J at [illegible]. Further, as Hudson noted, while the court's statute failed to [illegible]confer upon it an expressed mandate with reference to the applicaton of international law[illegible] the PCIJ functioned as [illegible]an organ of international law.[illegible] Hudson, PCIJ Treatise at [illegible]–[illegible].

173 Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible]. He noted that some had proposed more codification, but opposition had prevented new conventions to detail international legal rules. Id. at [illegible].

174 Article [illegible] of the statute provided that PJIC decisions had [illegible]no binding force except between the parties and in respect of that particular case[illegible] As Hudson noted, however, the [illegible]psychological fact of stare decisis[illegible] would prevail. Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible].

175 The authority to render advisory opinions was itself a bone of contention in debates in the United States on ratification. See Borchard at [illegible].

176 Nine judges were to suffice, but the expectation was that at least eleven would sit. Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible].

177 Moore, [illegible] r[illegible]ani[illegible]ation of PC[illegible]J at [illegible]. See Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible].

178 Bustamante at [illegible]–[illegible].

179 Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible].

180 An overview of the arguments was the subject of discussion in various venues, and a set of comments are in the Proceedin[illegible]s of the [illegible]cadem[illegible] of Political Science. See Borchard at [illegible]. Charles Evans Hughes, then Secretary of State, put forth the arguments for the United States to join. See Hughes at [illegible]. The [illegible] Senate debate, complete with a filibuster, is reported to have filled more than three hundred pages of the Congressional Record. Marjorie Jane Bomberger, The Campaign for American Membership in the Permanent Court of International Justice [illegible] (M.A. thesis, U. of Chicago, Chicago, IL, Dec. [illegible]).

181 Bomberger at [illegible].

182 Bomberger at [illegible]–[illegible].

183 Hughes at [illegible].

184 Message of President Hoover to the Senate Transmitting Protocols Concerning Adherence of the United States, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], Permanent Court of Justice, Official Documents, [illegible] American Journal of International Law [illegible] (Supp. [illegible]).

185 Bomberger at ii.

186 Bomberger at [illegible]. See also Hudson, World Court Handbook at [illegible]–[illegible] (stating that fifty-six states had signed the Protocol by Feb. [illegible], [illegible]).

187 Borchard at [illegible].

188 Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev. at [illegible].

189 Hudson, PCIJ [illegible] Harv. L. Rev at [illegible].

190 Hudson, World Court Handbook at [illegible]. In [illegible] the Court sat in [illegible]active session[illegible] for [illegible] days. Id. at [illegible].

191 See Permanent Court of International Justice, Publications of the Permanent Court of International Justice ([illegible]–[illegible]), http://www.icj-cij.org/picj/index/php[illegible]pl[illegible]. See also Permanent Court of International Justice, Decisions (Judgments, Advisory Opinions [illegible] Orders), http://www.worldcourts.com/pcij/eng/decisions.htm. Others describe the output as thirty-eight contentious cases and twenty-seven advisory opinions. See Charles Maechling Jr., The [illegible]ollow Cham[illegible]er of the [illegible]nternational Court, [illegible] Foreign Policy [illegible], [illegible] (Winter [illegible]–[illegible]).

192 Hudson, World Court Handbook at [illegible]. See also Permanent Court of International Justice, Publications of the Permanent Court of International Justice ([illegible]–[illegible]), http://www.icj-cij.org/pcij/index.php[illegible]pl[illegible].

193 International Court of Justice: Handbook at [illegible] (The Hague, Neth.: ICJ, [illegible]th ed., [illegible]) (hereinafter [illegible] ICJ Handbook).

194 [illegible] ICJ Handbook at [illegible].

195 [illegible] ICJ Handbook at [illegible].

196 Philip Allott, The Health of Nations: Society and Law Beyond the State [illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]). Allott is himself an internationalist who claimed that a [illegible]new view of the human world and its law[illegible] was coming into being in the twenty-first century. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

197 Spiermann at [illegible]–[illegible]. For a discussion of the development of state liability and international law, see Jan Paulsson, Denial of Justice in International Law (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

198 Spiermann at [illegible]. See also Hudson, PCIJ Treatise at [illegible]. [illegible]Without exaggeration, the cumulation [illegible]of the court's case law pointed to[illegible] the harmonious development of the law,[illegible] as the [illegible] drafters had hoped.

199 Spiermann at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

200 Dickerson at [illegible].

201 Spiermann at [illegible], n. [illegible], quoting Jessup's [illegible] introduction to his book A Modern Law of Nations.

202 See [illegible]nternational Court of Justice, [illegible] International Organization [illegible] (Feb. [illegible]). That short essay noted the list of candidates nominated and reported that, as a result of the election, justices were chosen from Chile, Brazil, Egypt, France, Belgium, Mexico, El Salvador, the United States, China, Norway, the USSR, the United Kingdom, Canada, Poland, and Yugoslavia; they first met in April of [illegible]. As the ICJ explains the background, in [illegible], as World War II was underway, the Secretary of State of the United States and the Foreign Secretary of the United Kingdom called for the reestablishment of a court. In [illegible] a group of experts from eleven countries assembled in London under Sir William Malkin to draft recommendations for such a court. In [illegible] the [illegible]Four Powers[illegible] China, the USSR, the United Kingdom, and the United States[illegible] agreed to propose an international organization, and in [illegible] a group of jurists from forty-four states met to prepare a draft statute. The United Nations established the Court as its [illegible]principal judicial organ[illegible] [illegible] ICJ Handbook at [illegible]–[illegible].

203 A [illegible] review of the ICJ caselaw noted that the Court in its decisions had not itself referred to its role as a principal organ of the U.N. Shabtai Rosenne, The [illegible]nternational Court of Justice at the Be[illegible]in[illegible]nin[illegible] of the Twent[illegible]irst Centur[illegible], in The Hague: Legal Capital of the World [illegible], [illegible] (Peter J. van Krieken [illegible] David McKay, eds., The Hague, Neth.: T.M.C. Asser Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Rosenne, [illegible]CJ[illegible]st Centur[illegible]).

204 U.N. Charter, Art. [illegible], para. [illegible].

205 States may take up [illegible]the case of one of its nationals[illegible] to invoke that form of harm against another state. [illegible] ICJ Handbook at [illegible].

206 Parties can submit disputes by agreeing ex ante in bilateral or multilateral accords or by special agreement in individual cases. A state can lodge a complaint and seek to obtain consent of the respondent state. [illegible] ICJ Handbook at [illegible]–[illegible]. Further, treaties can impose such obligations. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. States can also recognize the compulsory jurisdiction of the court, and do so with or without reservations. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

207 A broader set of entities may request advisory opinions from the ICJ than those empowered to do so from the PCIJ. Rosenne, [illegible]CJ[illegible]st Centur[illegible] at [illegible].

208 See ICJ Statute, Art. [illegible]; Shabtai Rosenne, Provisional Measures in International Law: The International Court of Justice and the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). See also Paolo Palchetti, The Power of the [illegible]nternational Court of Justice to [illegible]ndicate Provisional Meas[illegible]ures to Prevent the [illegible]ravation of a Dispute, [illegible] Leiden Journal of International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

209 ICJ Statute, Art. [illegible], para. [illegible]. See also [illegible] ICJ Handbook at [illegible]–[illegible].

210 ICJ Statute, Art. [illegible], para. [illegible]; [illegible] ICJ Handbook at [illegible]–[illegible].

211 U.N. Charter, Art. [illegible], para. [illegible]: [illegible]All Members of the United Nations are ipso facto parties to the Statute of the International Court of Justice.[illegible]

212 U.N. Charter, Art. [illegible], para. [illegible].

213 U.N. Charter, Art. [illegible], para. [illegible].

214 Constanze Schulte, Compliance with Decisions of the International Court of Justice [illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

215 See Fabi[illegible]n O. Raimondo, The [illegible]nternational Court of Justice as a [illegible]uardian of the [illegible]nit[illegible] of [illegible]umanitarian Law, [illegible] Leiden Journal of International Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) .

216 See Military and Paramilitary Activities (Nicara□ua v□□ nited States of□ merica), □□□□ I.C.J. Rep. □□ (June □□) (hereinafter Nicara□ua Jud□ment). The ICJ found that the United States was internationally responsible because of its failure to notify the existence of minefields, a failure that constituted a breach of obligations under customary law. Raimondo at □□□, summarizing para. □□□, subpara. □, of the Nicaragua Judgment. See Jonathan I. Charney, Disputes □mplicatin□ the □nstitu□ tional Credi□ilit□ of the Court□ Pro□lems of Non□□ppearance, Non□ Participation, and Non□Performance, in The International Court of Justice at a Crossroads □□□ (Lori Fisler Damrosch, ed., Dobbs Ferry, NY: Transnational, □□□□).

217 See □ nited States v□Sanche□□Llamas, □□□ U.S. □□□, □□□ (□□□□). At issue was whether a belated claim by a convicted defendant of a failure to provide consular notification, as required by an international convention, ought to prompt reconsideration of his conviction. The International Court of Justice had so ruled. See La□ rand (□□□□ □ v□ □□S.), □□□□ I.C.J. □□□ (June □□) and □ vena and □ ther Me□ican Nation□ als (Me□□v□□□S.), □□□□ I.C.J. □□ (Mar. □□). The United States Supreme Court disagreed□ and thus neither state nor federal courts had to hear such prisoner claims if not properly raised under U.S. domestic law.

218 □The Court shall be composed of a body of independent judges, elected regardless of their nationality from among persons of high moral character, who possess the qualifications required in their respective countries for appointment to the highest judicial offices, or are jurisconsults of recognized competence in international law□ ICJ Statute, Art. □. The reference to □jurisconsults□ permits those individuals such as professors who might not be on a political or legal track within a domestic judiciary to serve on the ICJ. Article □ provides that no two jurists may come from the same state and that a person who is nominated and has nationality in more than one state shall be deemed a national of the state in which that person □ordinarily exercises civil and political rights□ ICJ Statute, Art. □.

219 Rosenne, □CJ□□□st Centur□ at □□□. See also Davis R. Robinson, The □ole of Politics in the □lection and the Work of Jud□es of the □nter□ national Court of Justice, □□ American Society of International Legal Processes □□□, □□□ (□□□□). Voting is done in both the Security Council and the General Assembly, to which states that are not members of the United Nations but are parties to the ICJ Statute may vote. A candidate needs □an absolute majority of votes in both the General Assembly and the Security Council.□□□□ ICJ Handbook at □□. Further, the practice has developed that each geographical group recognized by the General Assembly decides on its candidate(s), leaving the General Assembly and the Security Council little choice. Rosenne, □CJ□□□st Centur□ at □□□.

220 ICJ Statute, Art. □□, paras. □ □ □; Revised Rules of the Court, July □, □□□□, Arts. □□–□□, http://www.icj-cij.org/documents/index.php□p□□□□ p□□□□ p□□□.

221 Eric A. Posner □ Miguel F. P. de Figueiredo, □s the □nter□ national Court of Justice Biased□□□ Journal of Legal Studies □□□, □□□ (□□□□) (hereinafter Posner and Figueiredo). Findings are summarized in Eric Posner, The □nternational Court of Justice□□otin□ and □sa□e Statistics, □□ American Society International Law Proceedings □□□ (□□□□) (hereinafter Posner, □CJ □otin□ and □sa□e).

222 Posner □ Figueiredo at □□□. See also Eric A. Posner, The Decline of the □nternational Court of Justice, in International Conflict Resolution □□□ (Stefan Voigt, Max Albert, □ Dieter Schmidtchen, eds., Tübingen, Ger.: Mohr Siebeck, □□□□) (hereinafter Posner, □CJ Decline).

223 A chamber of summary procedure comprises five judges, including the President and Vice President of the ICJ. The court can also compose special chambers, and the use of chambers is subject to parties' consent. □□□□ ICJ Handbook at □□–□□.

224 See Robinson at □□□, citing the Gulf of Maine Case involving the United States and Canada.

225 Robinson, at □□□, described a □consultation□ between one of the judges on the court and Nicaraguan national representatives about the pending case, in which the United States was the defendant, alleged to have shipped arms to Nicaragua.

226 See International Court of Justice, All Members, http://www.icj-cij.org/court/index.php□p□□□□ p□□□. Before joining the Court, Dame Higgins was a practicing barrister, a Queen's Counsel, and a professor of international law. Women had served as judges on other international courts sponsored by the United Nations.

227 Report of the International Court of Justice, □ Aug. □□□□–□□ July □□□□, Chapter IV: Functioning of the Court, U.N. Doc. A/□□/□ (□□□□) (hereinafter □□□□ ICJ Report). In the late □□□□s, by way of comparison, the ICJ's staff, including in its own library, numbered about forty, with additional temporary staff for linguistic needs. Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□. The Peace Palace Library has a separate staff of twenty-five. See Peace Palace Library, About, Meet Our Staff, http://www.ppl.nl/index.php□option□com.

228 The photograph in figure □□□ by D-VORM.NL, Leidschendum, the Netherlands is reproduced courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation.

229 B. Ingenhousz designed the chandeliers, which were manufactured by Braat of Delft. Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□.

230 Kerkvliet □ Mellink at □□. See also □ □ limpse of the Palace of Peace. Douglas Strachan, who lived from □□□□ to □□□□, is known for his design of the National War Memorial in Scotland. See Juliette MacDonald, □Let □s Now Praise the Name of □amous Men□□ M□th and Meanin□ in the Stained □ lass of the Scottish National War Memorial, □□ Journal of Design History □□□ (□□□□).

231 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□.

232 Kerkvliet □ Mellink at □□. The painting by Albert Besnard was a gift from France. Before its installation, it was to be shown in the United States, but for a time was lost in transit. See Besnard□ Paintin□ of □Peace□ Missin□, New York Times, Dec. □□, □□□□, at □. The dimensions, twenty-three feet by fifteen feet, are provided in □ □ limpse of the Palace of Peace.

233 The tours of the Peace Palace note this reference.

234 Besnard□ Decoration for the Peace Palace Shows S□rm□ols □□ No Means Cr□ptic, New York Times, Oct. □□, □□□□, at SM□□. The discussion was predicated on a photograph of the cartoon and described to include a □pair of scales□ suspended above the three figures. A woman stood between □a soldier in armor□ and □apparently a friar□ The composition was said to be □characteristically French . . . requiring practically no explanation and carried out with admirable logic□ Id. In the final picture, the three at the top are described as philosophers disputing. Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□.

235 ICJ Rules, Art. □□, para. □.

236 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□.

237 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□–□□□.

238 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□–□□□.

239 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□. The photograph in figure □□□ is reproduced courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation.

240 Eyffinger, Peace Palace at □□□–□□□.

241 Arthur Eyffinger, The International Court of Justice, □□□□–□□□□, at □□□ (Boston, MA: Kluwer Law International, □□□□) (hereinafter Eyffinger, ICJ).

242 City of The Hague, The Peace Palace L□rar□, http://www.denhaag.com/www.ppl.nl/.

243 Maxwell at □□.

244 Maxwell at □□.

245 Maxwell at □□.

246 See Steven van Hoogstraten, □ □ iew from the Peace Palace, in The Hague: Legal Capital of the World □□□; ICJ Questions and Answers.

247 City of The Hague, The Carne⊠ie ⊠oundation, http://www.denhaag.nl.

248 See ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICJ Report at paras. ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. The Court lists in its ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ biennium budget ⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ for ⊠Rent/maintenance of premises⊠ Id. at para. ⊠⊠⊠.

249 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICJ Report at para. ⊠⊠⊠.

250 City of The Hague, The ⊠ a⊠ue ⊠ cadem⊠ of ⊠nternational Law.

251 City of The Hague, The ⊠ a⊠ue ⊠ cadem⊠ of ⊠nternational Law.

252 One compendium offered an overview, as of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, that encompassed more than ⊠,⊠⊠⊠ pages. See The Statute of the International Court of Justice: A Commentary (Andreas Zimmermann, Christian Tomuschat, ⊠ Karin Oellers-Frahm, eds., New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

253 See, for example, Rosenne, ⊠CJ⊠⊠st Centur⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; Raimondo at ⊠⊠⊠.

254 See, for example, HE Judge Pieter Kooijmans, The ⊠CJ in the ⊠⊠st Centur⊠⊠ Judicial ⊠estraint, Judicial ⊠ctivism, or Proactive Judicial Polic⊠, ⊠⊠ International ⊠ Comparative Law Quarterly ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

255 Fergus Green, ⊠ra⊠mentation in Two Dimensions⊠ The ⊠CJ⊠ ⊠lawed ⊠pproach to Non⊠State ⊠ctors and ⊠nternational Le⊠al Person⊠ alit⊠, ⊠ Melbourne Journal of International Law ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The International Law Commission's working group on fragmentation produced annual reports that are available online.

256 See Clark B. Lombardi, ⊠slamic Law in the Jurisprudence of the ⊠nternational Court of Justice⊠⊠ n ⊠ nal⊠sis, ⊠ Chicago Journal of International Law ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

257 Cesare P. R. Romano, general editor, Preface to Schulte at vii.

258 See Rosalyn Higgins, MacDermott Lecture ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Liti⊠atin⊠ ⊠nternational Disputes⊠ The Work of the ⊠nternational Court of Justice in a Chan⊠in⊠ World, ⊠⊠ Northern Ireland Legal Quarterly ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

259 Rosalyn Higgins, The ⊠CJ, the ⊠CJ, and the ⊠nte⊠rit⊠ of ⊠nter⊠ national Law, ⊠⊠ International ⊠ Comparative Law Quarterly (⊠⊠⊠⊠) at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Examples of conflicts cited included a disagreement between the European Court of Human Rights and the ICJ on Loi⊠idou v⊠Turke⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠-VI Eur. Ct. H.R. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and also when an arbitral tribunal revoked the provisional measures granted by the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea in Southern Bluefin Tuna, ⊠⊠ I.L.M. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). See generally Michael Dougan, National Remedies before the Court of Justice: Issues of Harmonization and Differentiation (Portland, OR: Hart Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

260 Schulte at ⊠–⊠⊠.

261 Colter Paulson, Compliance with ⊠inal Jud⊠ments of the ⊠nter⊠ national Court of Justice Since ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ American Journal of International Law ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

262 Paulson at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

263 Schulte at ⊠⊠⊠. See the Nicara⊠ua Jud⊠ment.

264 Schulte at ⊠⊠⊠.

265 Paulson at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

266 Schulte at ⊠⊠⊠.

267 Schulte at ⊠.

268 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICJ Handbook at ⊠⊠.

269 Posner, ⊠CJ ⊠otin⊠ and ⊠ sa⊠e at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

270 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICJ Handbook at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. Posner counts somewhat differently, finding only eighty-nine filings in the same time period. Posner, ⊠CJ ⊠otin⊠ and ⊠ sa⊠e at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

271 Report of the International Court of Justice, ⊠ Aug. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, paras. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICJ Report); Report of the International Court of Justice, ⊠ Aug. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, para. ⊠⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Report of the International Court of Justice, ⊠ Aug. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, paras. ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Report of the International Court of Justice, ⊠ Aug. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, para. ⊠⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Report of the International Court of Justice, ⊠ Aug. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, para. ⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Report of the International Court of Justice, ⊠ Aug. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, para. ⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Not all ICJ cases reached the merits. Among these were eleven cases in which the court dismissed the case for lack of jurisdiction, and eight that concerned Serbia and Montenegro's claims against eight different western powers collected into one proceeding. Also included were the ICJ's denial of permission to the Republic of the Philippines to intervene in a maritime border dispute and two judgments that it would not revise previous decisions.

Time to disposition varied widely. The three cases decided on the merits between August ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and July ⊠⊠⊠⊠ had been pending since ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and ⊠⊠⊠⊠. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICJ Report at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. Some cases were stalled for reasons beyond the Court's control. The Gab⊠⊠kovo-Nagymaros Project case between Hungary and Slovakia has been on the court's docket since ⊠⊠⊠⊠; the States Parties have been in negotiations since ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Id. at ⊠⊠.

272 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICJ Report at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. The Court decided one case on the merits, while it dismissed a related case for lack of jurisdiction. See also Stephen Mathias, The ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Judicial ⊠ctivit⊠ of the ⊠nternational Court of Justice, ⊠⊠⊠ American Journal of International Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Mathias noted that, while the court had issued only one judgment in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ calendar year, the ICJ had also conducted hearings for more than two months in the case involving Bosnia and Herzegovina and Serbia and heard requests for provisional measures related to the River Uruguay. That case had orginally begun as a lawsuit by Bosnia and Herzegovina against Yugoslavia; by the time of adjudication, Yugoslavia had been reduced to Serbia. In addition to that proceeding, the ICJ had also added two new cases to its list of those pending. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

273 Report of the International Court of Justice, ⊠ Aug. ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, paras. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

274 ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICJ Report, at ⊠⊠.

275 In some disputes, cases could be pursued in the ICJ and in another international court, such as the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (ITLOS). In other instances, aspects of a case could be dealt with in one forum, such as the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY), and other aspects brought to the ICJ. See John Quigley, ⊠nternational Court of Justice as a ⊠orum for ⊠ eno⊠ cide Cases, ⊠⊠ Case Western Reserve Journal of International Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). For example, as discussed earlier, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Bosnia and Herzegovina sued Yugoslavia (now Serbia) in the ICJ, arguing that it had failed to prevent and punish genocide, while related prosecutions were ongoing in the ICTY. The ICJ ruled that it had jurisdiction and further that Serbia had not committed or conspired to commit genocide. See Richard Graving, The ⊠nternational Court of Justice Muddles Jurisdiction in ⊠u⊠oslav ⊠ enocide Case, ⊠⊠ Tulane Journal of Comparative ⊠ International Law ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

276 Maechling at ⊠⊠⊠.

277 Posner, ⊠CJ Decline at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Posner's analysis of a histogram of cases filed each year (in his fig. ⊠) illustrated his perspective. He noted that the seeming growth of the ICJ docket was inflated by counting ten filings as a single case with ten respondents. He also pointed out that relative to the growth in the number of potential parties, filing growth lagged. Posner therefore read the data as showing the ICJ's decline; he compared the docket not to its past numbers but to what he thought was its potential. Id. Others might see the current caseload density as a sign of the ICJ's significance.

278 William D. Coplin ⊠ J. Martin Rochester, The Permanent Court of ⊠nternational Justice, the ⊠nternational Court of Justice, the Lea⊠ue of Nations, and the ⊠nited Nations⊠⊠ Comparative ⊠mpirical Surve⊠, ⊠⊠ American Political Science Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

279 See, for example, Raimondo at [illegible]–[illegible]; Paulson, Compliance with [illegible]CJ [illegible]inal Jud[illegible]ments. Paulson noted that some advocated that the ICJ avoid deciding cases in which compliance would be unlikely. Id. at [illegible]. In terms of the PCIJ, for example, one commentator thought it a [illegible]modest . . . success[illegible] in helping to avoid war in various disputes, such as the expropriation of land. Maechling at [illegible].

280 Schulte at [illegible].

281 Maechling at [illegible].

282 Posner, [illegible]CJ Decline at [illegible].

283 Romano at vii. See also Rosalyn Higgins, [illegible]lternative Perspec[illegible]tives on the [illegible]ndependence of [illegible]nternational Courts[illegible]emarks, [illegible] American Society of International Law Proceedings [illegible] ([illegible]).

284 Kerkvliet [illegible] Mellink at [illegible].

285 Hans van den Broek, President of Carnegie Foundation, [illegible]ore[illegible]word to Eyffinger, Trusteeship at [illegible].

286 The photograph in figure [illegible], copyright YPScollection, [illegible], is provided courtesy of the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea. Our thanks to Julia Ritter, Press Officer of the tribunal, for facilitating our use of the images of the ITLOS building and providing us with other materials, and to Douglas Guilfoyle of the Univesity College London's Law Faculty for his review of our discussion of ITLOS.

287 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] U.N.T.S. [illegible] (hereinafter UNCLOS). Annex VI, Art. [illegible], para. [illegible], provides: [illegible]The seat of the Tribunal shall be in the Free and Hanseatic City of Hamburg in the Federal Republic of Germany[illegible] See United Nations, http://www.un.org/Depts/los/convention[illegible]agreements/texts/unclos/closindx.htm.

288 Agreement Relating to the Implementation of Part XI of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea of [illegible] December [illegible], July [illegible], [illegible], S. Treaty Doc. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] U.N.T.S. [illegible], http://www.un.org/Depts/los/convention[illegible]agreements/texts/unclos/closindx.htm (hereinafter Implementation Agreement). See generally Natalie Klein, Dispute Settlement in the UN Convention on the Law of the Sea [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

289 The Hanseatic League was a [illegible]commercial and political union of North and Baltic Sea cities[illegible] In the early middle ages, Hamburg became a [illegible]free imperial city[illegible] International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, Documentation of the International Competition at [illegible] (hereinafter ITLOS Documentation, International Competition). Staff of the tribunal gave us a series of documents about the design competition. Not all of the ITLOS design documents include dates and pagination; we have added page numbers when needed for identification.

290 International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, Competition Document (Wehlsen Gmblt, Hamburg, Germany, undated) at [illegible] (hereinafter ITLOS Competition Document).

291 Germany ratified both the Convention proper and Part XI in October of [illegible]. See UN Division for Ocean Affairs and the Law of the Sea, Chronological lists of ratifications of, accessions and successions to the Convention and the related Agreements (as of [illegible]), http://www.un.org/Depts/los/reference[illegible]files/chronological[illegible]lists[illegible]of[illegible]ratifications.htm (hereinafter UNCLOS Ratifications).

292 International Tribunal of the Law of the Sea, Final Design (Wehlsen Gmblt, Hamburg, Germany, undated) at [illegible] (hereinafter ITLOS Final Design). Also reproduced is the March [illegible], [illegible], letter from the head of the delegation of the Federal Republic of Germany to the Third Conference of the Law of the Sea that explained why it would be appropriate to select Hamburg. Id. at [illegible]. In the Documentation on the International Competition, discussion of the propriety of choosing Hamburg as a site is reproduced, and we assume that these materials reflect what had been provided in the [illegible] brochure. See ITLOS Documentation, International Competition (Wehlsen Gmblt, Hamburg, Germany, undated) at [illegible]–[illegible].

293 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible].

294 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible].

295 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible].

296 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible].

297 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible].

298 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible].

299 ITLOS Final Design at [illegible] (reproducing the March [illegible] letter from the head of Germany's delegation to the conference).

300 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible].

301 As the documents for the court building competition explained the propriety of the setting, the [illegible]Free and Hanseatic City of Hamburg[illegible] was a thousand-year-old port that had become [illegible]a centre of international trade and commerce, a European traffic junction, a city of science and learning, a city of courts and administration as well as culture[illegible] and considered itself [illegible]a mediator between all regions of the world[illegible] ITLOS Competition Document at [illegible]–[illegible].

302 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible]. That commission drafted rules for the tribunal, draft protocols of immunity for its representatives, and the like. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

303 [illegible]After the competition design period, from [illegible] July to [illegible] August [illegible], an intensive preliminary assessment of the submissions was performed, which was based on predetermined criteria and programme points. The results are contained in the preliminary report which was presented at the beginning of the jury sitting in the City Hall of Hamburg, on [illegible] September [illegible]. . . . Architektenteam R. Klamp [illegible] D. Hartwich described each of the fifteen submissions and the results of the preliminary assessment [illegible]to the jury[illegible] ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible]–[illegible].

304 See Helmut Tuerk, The Contri[illegible]ution of the [illegible]nternational Tri[illegible]unal for the Law of the Sea to [illegible]nternational Law, [illegible] Pennsylvania State International Law Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). Information on the Seabed Authority's working space comes from its website, http://www.isa.org.jm/en/home.

305 Indeed, some English lawyers raised the concern that London had missed out by not seeking to be the tribunal's seat, to the detriment of its bar. See [illegible] am[illegible]ur[illegible] Court to Ship Work awa[illegible] from Cit[illegible], The Lawyer, July [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

306 ITLOS Report of the Jury (minutes of the Jury), Sept. [illegible] [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

307 This point is made on the website of the German Foreign Office (The United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, http://www.auswaertiges-amt.de/diplo/en/Aussenpolitik/InternatRecht/Seerecht/seerecht.html) and similarly in the Final Design materials of ITLOS. See ITLOS Final Design at [illegible].

308 The first case to be decided by ITLOS[illegible] called the Sai[illegible]a Case[illegible] involved a ship [illegible]owned by a Cypriot shipping company and managed by a Scottish company; the vessel was seized by Guinea in its exclusive economic zone[illegible] The ship had been [illegible]chartered by a Swiss company and was sailing under the flag of St. Vincent and the Grenadines. The crew came from the Ukraine; other workers were Senegalese citizens, and the cargo was owned by yet another Swiss company[illegible] Press Release, ITLOS, Statements Delivered at the Official Opening of the Headquarters Building of the Tribunal (July [illegible], [illegible]) at [illegible] (Statement of Herta D[illegible]ubler-Gmelin), http://www.itlos.org/cgi-bin/news/news[illegible]press.pl[illegible]anguage[illegible]en[illegible] year[illegible] (hereinafter ITLOS Opening Statements).

309 Tuerk at [illegible]. Judge Tuerk attributed these estimates to [illegible]e[illegible]xperts from the German Federal Institute for Geosciences and Natural Resources[illegible] Id. See also Convention on the Law of the Sea[illegible] [illegible]istor[illegible] and Ma[illegible]or Provisions, [illegible] International Debates [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]), http://www.un.org/Depts/los/convention[illegible]agreements/convention[illegible]historical[illegible]perspective.htm (hereinafter UNCLOS Historical Perspective).

310 R. R. Churchill & A. V. Lowe, The Law of the Sea &, (Manchester, Eng.: Manchester U. Press, &rd ed., &&&&).

311 Churchill & Lowe at &.

312 Churchill & Lowe at &–&.

313 The phrase used in the heading to this subsection appears in many speeches and discussions of the Sea Convention. See Tuerk at &&&. See also Caitlyn L. Antrim, &emarks to the Sohn S&mposium& &emem&erin& Louis Sohn, && George Washington International Law Review &&&, &&& (&&&&). Judge Tuerk, of ITLOS, discussed the decade of the Court's accomplishments. Antrim served as the Executive Director of the Rule of Law Committee for the Oceans. Both credit Tommy Koh, who was President of the &&&& UN Conference on the Law of the Sea, with coining the phrase &Constitution for the Oceans.&

314 Churchill & Lowe at &&.

315 Churchill & Lowe at &&–&&.

316 Various documents and persons are credited as instrumental in seeking protection for the seas, the &common heritage of mankind& See Tuerk at &&&, citing the &Memorandum of Malta& of the Permanent Mission of Malta to the United Nations, U.N. Doc. A/&&&& (Aug. &&, &&&&), and calling it an essential &spark& See also Rüdiger Wolfrum, & Tri&ute to Louis Sohn, && George Washington International Law Review &&& (&&&&). Wolfrum, Judge and President of ITLOS and Director of the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law, celebrated Sohn for developing the theory of &world peace through world law& and contributing to the development of ITLOS. Id. at &&&.

317 Tuerk at &&&. The chronological list of signatories is in UNCLOS Ratifications.

318 See UNCLOS Historical Perspective at &&&.

319 The agreement was adopted in July, a few months before the Convention came into force in November &&&& after Guyana, the sixtieth state, ratified it. See UNCLOS Historical Perspective at &&&.

320 Implementation Agreement.

321 Churchill & Lowe at &&.

322 Antrim at &&&. See also Budislav Vukas, The Law of the Sea: Selected Writings &&&–&&& (Leiden, Neth.: Martinus Nijhoff, &&&&).

323 Alan E. Boyle, The Settlement of Disputes &elatin& to the Law of the Sea and the &nvironment, in && International Justice &&&, &&& (Kalliopi Koufa, ed., Thessaloniki, Gre.: Sakkoulas Publications &&&&).

324 Churchill & Lowe at &&.

325 See John A. Duff, The &nited States and the Law of the Sea Convention&Slidin& Back from &ccession and &atification, && Ocean and Coastal Law Journal & (&&&&). Opponents argued the treaty would impede security and entrepreneurship. See Jack Goldsmith and Jeremy Rabkin, & Treat& the Senate Should Sink, Washington Post, July &, &&&&, at A&&; Doug Bandow, The Law of the Sea Treat&&&npede& in& &merican &ntrepreneurship and &nvestment, Competitive Enterprise Institute (Sept. &&&&). Proponents argued the treaty's utility. See &B& &r&es &atification of &&N& Law of the Sea Convention, && A.B.A. Washington Letter & (Oct. &&&&). See generally &oreword& Law of the Sea, & &ramework for &overnin& the World& &ceans, & International Debates &&, && (April &&&&). Other countries also objected, such as Turkey, which took issue with &how the Convention addresses its territorial claims to portions of the Aegean Sea& as well as Venezuela and Colombia, objecting to fishery provisions. Id.

326 See Jonathan I. Charney, &International Law Threatened && Multiple &nternational Tri&unals& &&& Recueil des Cours &&&, &&&, &&&–&&& (&&&&).

327 Wolfrum at &&&–&&&. See also Rosalyn Higgins, President of the ICJ, Speech at the Tenth Anniversary of ITLOS (Sept. &&, &&&&), http://www.itlos.org/news/Statement& &&Higgins.pdf (hereinafter Higgins, ITLOS &&&& Speech). Exchanges across courts could be modeled as conversations enabling norm development. See International Law Commission, Fragmentation of International Law: Difficulties Arising from the Diversificaton and Expansion of International Law, U.N. General Assembly, A/CN.&/L.&&& (&& July, &&&&); Giuseppe Martinico & Filippo Fontanelli, The &idden Dialo&ue& When Judicial Com&petitors Colla&orate, & Global Jurists, issue &, article & (&&&&); Neil Walker, Be&ond Boundar& Disputes and Basic &rids& Mappin& the &lo&al Disorder of Normative &rders, & International Journal of Constitutional Law &&& (&&&&).

328 Ted L. McDorman, &lo&al &cean &overnance and &nter&national &d&udicative Dispute &esolution, && Journal of Ocean & Coastal Management &&&, &&& (&&&&).

329 See Higgins, ITLOS &&&& Speech. Higgins noted that the cases involving the law of the sea that came to the ICJ after &&&& rarely involved &purely maritime issues& and gave examples of them& including the &Land and Maritime Boundary Dispute between Cameroon and Nigeria& in &&&& and the &Frontier Dispute& between Benin and Niger in &&&&, as well as cases then pending involving Nicaragua and Honduras, Romania and Ukraine, and Nicaragua and Colombia. Id. at &.

330 Klein at &&.

331 Klein at &&.

332 State Parties undertake the obligation to settle disputes by &peaceful means& indicated in the U.N. Charter. UNCLOS, Art. &&&. Parties must &seek a solution by negotiation, enquiry, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, judicial settlement, resort to regional agencies or arrangements, or other peaceful means of their own choice& U.N. Charter, Art. &&, para. &.

333 Klein at &&. See UNCLOS, Art. &&&(&). Special provisions were made for seabed arbitrations obliging arbitral panels to &refer to the ruling& of the tribunal on matters concerning the Convention. Wolfrum at &&&. Part XI also created the International Seabed Authority, an administrative body charged with enforcing seabed mining rules that had, as of &&&&, no seabed mining to oversee. See also Antrim at &&&–&&&.

334 UNCLOS, Art. &&&.

335 UNCLOS, at Part XV, sections &&&. Article &&& identifies the major exceptions to the compulsory and binding procedures.

336 Tuerk at &&&. ITLOS &may prescribe, modify or revoke provisional measures& when &the urgency of the situation so requires& and parties' chosen forum has jurisdiction over the matter. UNCLOS, Art. &&&, para. &. Whenever &the authorities of a State Party have detained a vessel flying the flag of another State Party& the state of the detained vessel can submit &the question of release& to ITLOS if the parties have not agreed upon a tribunal. UNCLOS, Art. &&&, para. &. Provisional measures can be requested for disputes before the tribunal and for issues to be submitted to an arbitral panel that had not begun its work. Tuerk at &&&. In the four cases described by Tuerk in which remedies were requested related to the marine environment, none were given. Id. at &&&–&&&. The provisional measures in these cases were limited to orders that parties cooperate in reaching settlement and use &prudence and caution& to protect the environment or fishing stocks. Id. at &&&. Tuerk argued that ITLOS had a &positive& record on environmental provisional remedies, even as it had not reached the merits of cases, because it had helped to create settlements and cooperation. Id. at &&&. As for release proceedings, ITLOS dealt with questions of seizure and release without &prejudice to the merits of any case& before domestic fora. Id. at &&&; UNCLOS, Art. &&&, para. &. Tuerk called the tribunal's record excellent for its &efficiency and speed& rendering decisions within a month. Tuerk at &&&.

337 ITLOS Opening Statements at & (Statement of P. Chandreskhara Rao, President of ITLOS). One could also describe the resulting scheme as a &complicated system of dispute settlement.& Vukas at &&&.

338 ITLOS Proceedings and Judgments: List of Cases, http://www.itlos.org/cgi-bin/cases/list_of_cases.pl?language=en. In [illegible], the Government of the People's Republic of Bangladesh began arbitral proceedings against the Union of Myanmar and the Republic of India, under Annex VII of UNCLOS; jurisdiction was accepted by Myanmar, and ITLOS undertook to organize the arbitration.

339 ITLOS Opening Statements at [illegible] (Statement of P. Chandreskhara Rao, President of ITLOS). In [illegible], when President Higgens of the ICJ spoke at the tenth anniversary of ITLOS, she noted that ITLOS had "regularly referred" to the ICJ judgments and that the ICJ had "been following the Tribunals' work closely." See Higgins, ITLOS [illegible] Speech at [illegible].

340 ITLOS Opening Statements at [illegible] (Statement of President Rao).

341 Tuerk at [illegible]. See also Higgins, ITLOS [illegible] Speech at [illegible]. Higgins noted that the first case decided by the ICJ in [illegible] was a maritime dispute (about the Corfu Channel), then explained the jurisdictional distinctions, which were that the ICJ heard contentious disputes by states whereas ITLOS could offer advisory opinions and provide its services to "various non-state actors." Id. Further, some cases fell within both courts' competencies, but the Convention drafters had "expressed a preference for the Tribunal to handle disputes over the prompt release of vessels." Id. at [illegible].

342 Boyle at [illegible].

343 Wolfrum at [illegible]. See also Vukas at [illegible]–[illegible].

344 Tuerk at [illegible].

345 Wolfrum at [illegible]. Another example provided is the [illegible] Convention on the Protection of Underwater Cultural Heritage.

346 Tuerk at [illegible].

347 See, for example, Thomas A. Mensah, The Tribunal and the Prompt Release of Vessels, [illegible] International Journal of Marine & Coastal Law [illegible] ([illegible]); Donald R Rothwell & Tim Stephens, Illegal Southern Ocean Fishing and Prompt Release: Balancing Coastal and Flag State Rights and Interests, [illegible] International & Comparative Law Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]).

348 Selected provisions are in the Statute of the International Court of Justice, June [illegible], [illegible], Art. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], T.S. No. [illegible].

349 UNCLOS, Annex VI, Arts. [illegible], [illegible].

350 UNCLOS, Annex VI, Art. [illegible].

351 Tuerk at [illegible].

352 Tuerk at [illegible]. "No two members of the tribunal may be nationals of the same State . . . "with" no fewer than three judges from each geographical group as established by the General Assembly of the United Nations." UNCLOS Annex VI, Art. [illegible]. Tuerk stressed that these rules and its larger size made ITLOS "more representative" than the ICJ. Tuerk at [illegible].

353 Tuerk at [illegible].

354 Vukas at [illegible].

355 For example, early in ITLOS's existence, one commentator anticipated it would have "norm-reinforcing, legislative, equitable, and constitutional functions." John E. Noyes, The International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, [illegible] Cornell International Law Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

356 UNCLOS, Annex VII, Art. [illegible].

357 UNCLOS, Annex VII, Art. [illegible].

358 See EC Treaty, Art. [illegible], and the later discussion of Commission of the European Communities v. Ireland; Tuerk at [illegible]–[illegible].

359 Churchill & Lowe at [illegible].

360 Churchill & Lowe at [illegible]–[illegible].

361 UNCLOS, Annex VI, Art. [illegible]. See also Wolfrum at [illegible], regarding parties' selection of jurists for ad hoc chambers.

362 Wolfrum at [illegible].

363 Vukas at [illegible] (citing UNCLOS, Art. [illegible], para. [illegible]). Vukas noted that certain transnational norms, "jus cogens," could not be excluded. Id.

364 California has authorized the use of private judge dispute resolution in its Code of Civil Procedure. See Cal. Civ. Proc. Code [illegible] [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). See also Rex R. Perschbacher & Debra Lyn Bassett, The End of Law, [illegible] Boston University Law Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

365 Wolfrum at [illegible]. Costs come out of ITLOS's operating budget.

366 Vukas at [illegible]. For a party that is not an ITLOS member, "the Tribunal shall fix the amount which that party is to contribute towards the expenses of the Tribunal." UNCLOS, Annex VI, Art. [illegible].

367 The States Parties determine contribution amounts at their annual meeting. UNCLOS, Annex VI, Art. [illegible]. For the [illegible]–[illegible] budget, contributions were "based upon the scale of assessments of the regular budget of the United Nations for the preceding financial year, adjusted to take account of participation in the Convention," with "a floor rate of [illegible] per cent and a ceiling rate of [illegible] per cent" and a contribution of [illegible],[illegible] euros (roughly [illegible],[illegible]) from Europe. ITLOS website, Budgets of the Tribunal, http://www.itlos.org/general_information/registry/budgets_en.shtml (hereinafter Budgets of the Tribunal).

368 See UNCLOS, Arts. illegible, illegible.

369 The villa was to be renovated as part of the construction. ITLOS Documentation of International Competition at [illegible]. The architects who submitted proposals wrestled with the challenges of how to put the villa into the plans. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

370 Our thanks to Johanna van Kisfeld of the ITLOS Press Office for this information. As Germany also explained: "In [illegible] the Federal cabinet decided to construct premises for the International Tribunal on state-owned land in Hamburg and to place these, as well as furnishings and fittings, at the disposal of the International Tribunal free of charge." Federal Foreign Office of Germany website, ITLOS section, http://www.auswaertiges-amt.de/diplo/en/Aussenpolitik/InternatRecht/Seerecht/Seetribunal.html. See also Hugh O'Mahony, "Happy Birthday" to the Court that "as "Heard" Cases in Eight Years", Lloyd's List, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

371 Those rules were published in [illegible]. See ITLOS Competition Document at [illegible]–[illegible]. The criteria for the building were developed by the German planning ministry in conjunction with U.N. officials. See ITLOS Final Design at [illegible]. UNESCO is the acroynm for the United Nations' Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization.

372 The Clarification Minutes of April [illegible], [illegible], reported that both Rogers, of the United Kingdom, and Tadao Ando of Japan would not compete. International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, Clarification Minutes of April [illegible], [illegible], in Pleadings, Minutes of Public Sittings and Documents, vol. [illegible], at [illegible] (hereinafter ITLOS Clarification Minutes).

373 ITLOS Final Design at [illegible].

374 See ITLOS Competition Document at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

375 UNCLOS, Annex VII, Art. [illegible].

376 ITLOS Competition Document at [illegible].

377 ITLOS Competition Document at [illegible].

378 ITLOS Competition Document at [illegible].

379 International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, "Frequently Asked Questions," http://www.itlos.org/faq/faq_en.shtml (hereinafter ITLOS FAQs). As of [illegible], the ECJ employed [illegible] translators. ECJ, Departments of the Institution, Translation, http://curia.europa.eu/en/instit/services/traduction/traduction.htm. ITLOS, by contrast, had one translator. International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, Yearbook [illegible] at [illegible] (Leiden, Neth.: Martinus Nijhoff, [illegible]).

380 ITLOS Competition Document at [illegible], [illegible].

381 ITLOS Clarification Minutes at [illegible].

382 ITLOS Documentation, International Competition at [illegible], citing Judge Helmut Plambeck, President of the Hanseatic Constitutional Court and an expert juror, who called for these attributes.

383 ITLOS Competition Document at ⍰.

384 ITLOS Competition Document at ⍰.

385 ITLOS Competition Document at ⍰.

386 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰.

387 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰.

388 ITLOS Competition Document at ⍰.

389 ITLOS Clarification Minutes at ⍰.

390 ITLOS Report of the Jury at ⍰. The mayor urged his country's government to come to ⍰a common solution⍰ Id at ⍰.

391 Germany did so on October ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, and joined both the Convention and Part XI. Further, in December of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Germany ratified portions of the Convention dealing with ⍰conservation and management of straddling fish stocks and highly migratory fish stocks⍰ See UNCLOS Ratifications.

392 ITLOS Documentation of International Competition at ⍰–⍰⍰⍰. In addition to the von Brancas from Munich, who won the contest, materials were provided from Schweger ⍰ Partner and from Marg ⍰ Partner, both from Hamburg; Abraham Zabludovsky and Teodoro Gonzales de Leon of Mexico City; Tomas Taveira of Lisbon; Bangert Jansen and Scholze Schultes of Berlin; Jean Nouvel, Emmanuel Cattani, and Associates of Paris; Dissing ⍰ Weitling of Copenhagen; and seven others. Id.

393 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰, ⍰. Alexander Freiherr von Branca also designed the Neue Pinakothek (New Museum) in Munich. See Neue Pinakothek, http://www.pinakothek.de/neue-pinakothek/museum/sammlungsgeschichte/sammlungsgeschichte⍰en.php.

394 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰.

395 Secretar⍰⍰ eneral ⍰nau⍰urates Law of Sea Tri⍰unal in ⍰ am⍰ ⍰ur⍰, as Trip to ⍰ erman⍰ Continues, Federal News Service, Oct. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

396 In ⍰⍰⍰⍰ a Headquarters Agreement between the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea and the Federal Republic of Germany was signed to detail the legal agreement and the status of the staff, judges, witnesses, and agents of the parties. Press Release, ITLOS, Signature of Headquarters Agreement at ⍰ (Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Figure ⍰⍰⍰, photographed by Hans Georg Esch, Bad Hennef in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, is provided courtesy of ITLOS.

397 ITLOS FAQs, Bud⍰ets of the Tri⍰unal. The approved budget for ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ was ⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰ or ⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰ euros. Id.

398 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰.

399 The case involved pollution coming from the MOX Plant and produced a conflict between Ireland and the United Kingdom at ITLOS in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. As detailed in other notes, the ECJ subsequently determined that it had exclusive jurisdiction. See Commission of the ⍰uro⍰ pean Communities v ⍰⍰reland, Case C-⍰⍰⍰/⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ E.C.R. I-⍰⍰⍰⍰. Figure ⍰⍰⍰, photographed by Stephan Wallocha, is provided courtesy of ITLOS.

400 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰.

401 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰.

402 Report of the German Delegation on the Building Requirements and Facilities for the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea in Hamburg, March ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰, U.N. limited distribution document LOS/PCN⍰SCN.⍰/L.⍰⍰. This document is cited in the design guides.

403 See Product ⍰eview⍰⍰⍰ Schuco, Architectural Review, Feb. ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰.

404 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰⍰.

405 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰.

406 ITLOS Final Design at ⍰⍰. As in the materials on the Peace Palace, ITLOS design documents include descriptions of other submissions the jury ranked among the first six. Documentation of the International Competition at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰; ITLOS, Report of the Jury (Minutes of the Jury Sitting), International Competition ⍰–⍰⍰ (Sept. ⍰⍰ ⍰ ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

407 ITLOS Final Design, Extracts from the Architects' Report at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

408 O'Mahony at ⍰.

409 ITLOS FAQs.

410 See, for example, Sabina Casagrande, ⍰ erman⍰⍰ Law of the Sea ⍰ ead⍰uarters ⍰ pens, Lloyd's List, July ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰ (citing the Court's spokesperson to the effect that the ⍰Court of Human Rights, for example, only had three cases in its first nine years⍰).

411 UNCLOS Ratifications.

412 Tuerk at ⍰⍰⍰.

413 Rosemary Rayfuse, The ⍰uture of Compulsor⍰ Dispute Settle⍰ ment under the Law of the Sea Convention, ⍰⍰ Victoria University Wellington Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

414 Tuerk at ⍰⍰⍰.

415 Wolfrum at ⍰⍰⍰.

416 See Commission of the ⍰uropean Communities v ⍰⍰reland, Case C-⍰⍰⍰/⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ E.C.R. I-⍰⍰⍰⍰. The ECJ ruled that, in light of a provision of the EC Treaty that ⍰Member States undertake not to submit a dispute concerning the interpretation or application of this treaty to any method of settlement other than those provided for therein⍰ (Article ⍰⍰⍰), and in light of the fact that the EC and its Member States had ratified the Sea Convention, that convention became community law and hence Ireland's complaint about radioactive discharges from a factory situated in Sellafield, England, was therefore governed by EU law and to be decided by the ECJ. As the ECJ explained, ⍰an international agreement such as ⍰UNCLOS⍰ cannot affect the exclusive jurisdiction of the ⍰ECJ⍰ in regard to the resolution of disputes between member states concerning the interpretation and application of Community law⍰ Id. at para. ⍰⍰⍰. See also Nikolaos Lavranos, The M⍰⍰ Plant Jud⍰ment of the ⍰CJ⍰⍰ ow ⍰⍰clusive ⍰s the Jurisdiction of the ⍰CJ⍰⍰⍰ European Energy ⍰ Environmental Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

417 Wolfrum at ⍰⍰⍰.

418 David Anderson, The Judicial Work of the ⍰nternational Tri⍰ ⍰unal for the Law of the Sea, in Modern Law of the Sea: Selected Essays, ch. ⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰ (Boston, MA: Martinus Nijhoff, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

419 Maritime disputes were decided through the ICJ and ad hoc tribunals before ITLOS and have been since. See Charney, ⍰ ⍰nter⍰ national Law Threatened ⍰⍰ Multiple ⍰nternational Tri⍰unals⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

420 Rayfuse at ⍰⍰⍰.

421 Rayfuse at ⍰⍰⍰.

422 Other specialized tribunals, past, extant, and forthcoming, include those in Nuremberg, Cambodia, Timor L'Este, Kosovo, and Lebanon, most with jurisdiction over international crimes. These courts have various forms. For example, the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia was created in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ by special agreement between the United Nations and the Government of Cambodia. Situated within the court system of Cambodia, the Extraordinary Chambers has its own set of rules and law. See ⍰ntroduction⍰⍰⍰traordinar⍰ Cham⍰ers in the Courts of Cam⍰odia, http://www.eccc.gov.kh/English/about⍰eccc.aspx.

423 Hugo Grotius, The Law of War and Peace (Louise Ropes Loomis, trans., Roslyn, NY: Walter J. Black, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Benjamin N. Schiff, Building the International Criminal Court ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

424 The ⍰Lieber Code⍰ was promulgated by President Abraham Lincoln as General Orders No. ⍰⍰⍰ on April ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See Adjutant General's Office, General Orders No. ⍰⍰⍰: Instructions for the Government of Armies of the United States in the Field (Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://avalon.law.yale.edu/⍰⍰th⍰century/lieber.asp.

425 Schiff at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

426 Schiff at ⊠⊠.

427 Manley O. Hudson, The Proposed ⊠nternational Criminal Court, ⊠⊠ American Journal of International Law ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

428 Schiff at ⊠⊠. See International Law Association, http://www.ila-hq.org/.

429 Convention for the Creation of an International Criminal Court, opened for signature Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ League of Nations Official Journal ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (never entered into force).

430 Schiff at ⊠⊠.

431 Raphael Lemkin, Axis Rule in Occupied Europe: Laws of Occupation, Analysis of Government Proposals for Redress ⊠⊠ (Samantha Power, ed., Clark, NJ: Lawbook Exchange, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Four years later, the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide used the definition of acts ⊠committed with intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group, as such⊠ December ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

432 U.N. War Crimes Commission, Draft Convention for the Establishment of a United Nations War Crimes Court (September ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), reprinted in Historical Survey, U.N. Doc. A/CN.⊠/⊠/Rev. ⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.trumanlibrary.org/whistlestop/study⊠collections/nuremberg/documents/index.php⊠documentdate⊠⊠⊠⊠-⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠ documentid⊠⊠-⊠⊠ studycollectionid⊠⊠ pagenumber⊠⊠.

433 Schiff at ⊠⊠. See also William Schabas, An Introduction to the International Criminal Court ⊠ (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⊠d ed., ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

434 Tribunals have been criticized as political, selectively prosecuting some and not others, and insufficiently delimited by law. See Martha Minow, Between Vengeance and Forgiveness: Facing History after Genocide and Mass Violence ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Boston, MA: Beacon Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

435 Schabas at ⊠–⊠.

436 Schiff at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

437 Special Proclamation by the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers at Tokyo, Charter of the International Military Tribunal for the Far East, Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, T.I.A.S. No. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ Bevans ⊠⊠, as amended on Apr. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ Bevans ⊠⊠ (hereinafter IMTFE Charter).

438 Evan J. Wallach, The Procedural and ⊠videntiar⊠ ⊠ules of the Post⊠World War ⊠⊠ War Crimes Trials⊠Did The⊠ Provide an ⊠ utline for ⊠nternational Le⊠al Procedure⊠ ⊠⊠ Columbia Journal of Transnational Law ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ n. ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

439 IMTFE Charter, Art. ⊠.

440 Statute of the International Law Commission, G.A. Res. ⊠⊠⊠ (II), Arts. ⊠, ⊠⊠, U.N. GAOR, ⊠d Sess., U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

441 Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, Dec. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠, U.N. G.A. Res. ⊠⊠⊠, U.N. GAOR, ⊠d Sess., ⊠⊠⊠th plen. mtg., U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (entered into force Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Genocide Convention).

442 Universal Declaration of Human Rights, G.A. Res. ⊠⊠⊠A(III), U.N. GAOR, ⊠d Sess., Supp. No. ⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

443 Genocide Convention, Art. ⊠.

444 Geneva Convention for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Wounded and Sick in Armed Forces in the Field, Art. ⊠⊠, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ U.S.T. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠; Geneva Convention for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Wounded, Sick and Shipwrecked Members of Armed Forces at Sea, Art. ⊠⊠, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠; Geneva Convention Relative to the Treatment of Prisoners of War, Art. ⊠⊠⊠, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ U.S.T. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter Third Geneva Convention); Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, Art. ⊠⊠⊠, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

445 Nancy Combs, The ⊠nternational Criminal Court⊠⊠ n ⊠ nal⊠⊠ sis, in The Hague: Legal Capital of the World ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

446 See Vicki C. Jackson, World ⊠ a⊠eas Corpus, ⊠⊠ Cornell Law Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

447 See Beth van Schaack, Crimen Sine Le⊠e⊠Judicial Lawmakin⊠ at the ⊠ntersection of Law and Morals, ⊠⊠ Georgetown Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

448 Combs at ⊠⊠⊠. See generally Eric Blumenson, The Challen⊠e of a ⊠ lo⊠al Standard of Justice⊠Peace, Pluralism, and Punishment at the ⊠nternational Criminal Court, ⊠⊠ Columbia Journal of Transnational Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

449 The questions of pace, volume, and expense have, in turn, produced debate about expectations and output. See James Meernik and Rosa Aloisi, ⊠ Justice Dela⊠ed at the ⊠nternational Criminal Tri⊠ ⊠unals⊠⊠ Judicature ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

450 Statute of the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, S.C. Res. ⊠⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. S/RES/⊠⊠⊠ (May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), reprinted in ⊠⊠ I.L.M. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter ICTY Statute). The United Nations has updated the ICTY Statute with a number of resolutions since ⊠⊠⊠⊠; see ICTY⊠ TIPY: Legal Library, http://www.icty.org/sections/LegalLibrary. ICTY's website includes an unofficial compendium incorporating updates, http://www.icty.org/x/file/Legal⊠⊠ Library/Statute/statute⊠sept⊠⊠⊠en.pdf. See generally Phan⊠ Daskalopoulou-Livada, The ⊠nternational Criminal Tri⊠unal for the ⊠ormer ⊠u⊠oslavia, in International Justice ⊠⊠⊠.

451 Lawrence R. Douglas, Blood⊠ Boredom, Times Literary Supplement No. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, March ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.timesonline.co.Eng/tol/incomingFeeds/article⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠.ece. The building had been the corporate headquarters of the Aegon Insurance Company. Lesser at ⊠⊠. The ⊠Headquarters Agreements⊠ between the United Nations and the Kingdom of the Netherlands for the use of the building are set forth in Niels Blokker, ⊠ ead⊠uarters ⊠⊠reements, in The Hague: Legal Capital of the World ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

452 Guy Lesser described the structure as reflecting ⊠the neoclassical simplicity of the Italian Fascist period⊠ as he noted how the building was only identified by the U.N. flag near the outside gates. Guy Lesser, War Crime and Punishment⊠What the ⊠ nited States Could Learn from the Milosevic Trial, H⊠⊠⊠⊠'⊠ M⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, Jan., ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠⊠.

453 ICTY Statute, Art. ⊠.

454 See generally Crime, Procedure and Evidence in a Comparative and International Context (John Jackson, M⊠ximo Langer, ⊠ Peter Tillers, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Hart Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Others argued that some of the approach resembled the style of ⊠managerial judging⊠ deployed by federal judges in civil cases in the United States. See M⊠ximo Langer, The ⊠ise of Mana⊠erial Jud⊠in⊠ in ⊠nternational Criminal Law, ⊠⊠ American Journal of Comparative Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Judith Resnik, Mana⊠erial Jud⊠es, ⊠⊠ Harvard Law Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); and the discussion in Chapter ⊠⊠.

455 ICTY Statute, Art. ⊠⊠. The statute also provides for up to twelve ad litem judges to augment resources of the tribunal. In February ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the Security Council authorized two additional ad litem judges. Secretary-General, ⊠eport of the ⊠nternational Tri⊠unal for the Prosecution of Persons ⊠esponsi⊠le for Serious ⊠iolations of ⊠nter⊠ national ⊠ umanitarian Law Committed in the Territor⊠ of the former ⊠u⊠oslavia since ⊠⊠⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠, S/⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠ (Aug. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), at ⊠. http://www.icty.org/x/file/About/Reports⊠ ⊠⊠and⊠ ⊠⊠Publications/AnnualReports/annual⊠report⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠en.pdf (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ICTY Annual Report). Permanent and ad litem judges serve four-year, renewable terms. ICTY Statute, Arts. ⊠⊠ ⊠is and ⊠⊠ ter. States nominate candidates to the U.N. Secretary-General, and the General Assembly elects a subset. A voting system ensures that no more than one candidate from each nationality is elected. ICTY Statute, Art. ⊠⊠ ⊠is.

456 Secretary-General, Second ⊠ nnual ⊠eport of the ⊠nternational Tri⊠unal for the Prosecution of Persons ⊠esponsi⊠le for Serious ⊠iola⊠ tions of ⊠nternational ⊠ umanitarian Law Committed in the Territor⊠ of the ⊠ormer ⊠u⊠oslavia since ⊠⊠⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠, S/⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠

(Aug. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚), at ⬚, http://www.icty.org/x/file/About/Reports⬚⬚and⬚⬚Publications/AnnualReports/annual⬚report⬚⬚⬚⬚⬚en.pdf.

457 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ ICTY Annual Report at ⬚–⬚. Our thanks to Victoria Enaut, Public Information Assistant at the ICTY, for providing supplementary information regarding the work of the court and to Patricia Wald, who served on that court and gave us insights into its functioning.

458 ICTY Statute, Art. ⬚.

459 David Wippman, The Costs of ⬚nternational Justice, ⬚⬚⬚ American Journal of International Law ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚).

460 Other security measures for movement in other parts of the building are described by Lesser at ⬚.

461 See ICTY, ⬚ules of Procedure and ⬚vidence, Rule ⬚(B)(i)(c), U.N. Doc. No. IT/⬚/Rev. ⬚ (Nov. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚), http://www.icty.org/x/file/Legal⬚⬚Library/Rules⬚procedure⬚evidence/IT⬚⬚⬚⬚Rev⬚⬚⬚en.pdf (hereinafter ICTY Rules). Lesser detailed both that proceedings are open to the public and that two screening points must be passed. Lesser at ⬚.

462 ⬚All proceedings before a Trial Chamber, other than deliberations of the Chamber, shall be held in public, unless otherwise provided⬚ ICTY Rules, Rule ⬚. The tribunal's working languages are English and French; in addition, the accused has a right to use his or her own language. Id., Rule ⬚. When needed for protection of victims or witnesses or for reasons of security or justice, the trial chambers may make provisions for private or in camera processes. Id., Rules ⬚, ⬚. Full transcripts and, when appropriate, video recordings are made. Id., Rule ⬚.

463 Samuel Totten, Witnessin⬚ the Makin⬚ of⬚ istor⬚⬚The Trial of Slo⬚odan Milosevic, ⬚⬚ Social Education ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚). See Pros⬚ecutor v⬚Milo⬚evi⬚, Case No. IT-⬚-⬚ ⬚ICTY⬚, see also ICTY, Slobodan Milo⬚evi⬚, Case Information Sheet, http://www.icty.org/x/cases/slobodan⬚milosevic/cis/en/cis⬚milosevic⬚slobodan.pdf; ICTY⬚ TPIY: The Cases, Slobodan Milo⬚evi⬚ (IT-⬚-⬚) Kosovo, Croatia and Bosnia, http://www.icty.org/case/slobodan⬚milosevic/⬚. See generally Michael P. Scharf ⬚ William A. Schabas, Slobodan Milosevic on Trial: A Companion (New York, NY: Continuum Books, ⬚⬚⬚⬚). The ICJ confirmed the ICTY's conclusion, in a number of cases, that the Srebrenica massacre was genocide. See Application of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide (Bosnia and ⬚ er⬚e⬚ovina v⬚Ser⬚ia and Montene⬚ro), ⬚⬚⬚⬚ I.C.J. ⬚ (Feb. ⬚), http://www.icj-cij.org/docket/files/⬚/⬚⬚⬚⬚.pdf.

464 Marlise Simons, Milo⬚evi⬚Died of⬚ eart⬚ ttack,⬚ utops⬚Shows, New York Times, Mar. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, at A⬚, http://topics.nytimes.com/⬚⬚⬚⬚/⬚/⬚/international/europe/⬚milosevic.html.

465 Prosecutor v⬚Milo⬚evi⬚, Case No. IT-⬚-⬚-T, Order Terminating Proceedings, March ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, http://www.icty.org/x/cases/slobodan⬚Milosevic/tord/en/⬚⬚⬚⬚⬚.htm.

466 ⬚Grave breaches . . . shall be those involving any of the following acts, if committed against persons or property protected by the Convention: wilful killing, torture or inhuman treatment, including biological experiments, wilfully causing great suffering or serious injury to body or health, compelling a prisoner of war to serve in the forces of the hostile Power, or wilfully depriving a prisoner of war of the rights of fair and regular trial prescribed in this Convention⬚ Geneva Convention for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Wounded and Sick in Armed Forces in the Field, Art. ⬚, Aug. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚ U.N.T.S. ⬚.

467 ICTY Statute, Arts. ⬚–⬚.

468 ICTY Statute, Art. ⬚ (⬚Crimes against Humanity⬚); id., Art. ⬚(g) (⬚Rape⬚). See Prosecutor v⬚ unarac,⬚ ovac⬚ ⬚ukovic, Case Nos. IT-⬚-⬚-T, IT-⬚-⬚/⬚-T, Judgment (Feb. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚) ⬚ICTY⬚, Marlise Simons, Bosnian War Trial⬚ocuses on Se⬚ Crimes, New York Times, Feb. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚, at A⬚.

469 ICTY Statute, Art. ⬚. ⬚The International Tribunal shall have primacy over national courts. At any stage of the procedure, the International Tribunal may formally request national courts to defer to the competence of the International Tribunal . . . .⬚ Id.

470 ICTY Statute, Art. ⬚.

471 Wippman noted these complaints but later refuted them. Wippman at ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Rupert Skilbeck, ⬚undin⬚ Justice⬚ The Price of War Crimes Trials, ⬚⬚ Human Rights Brief ⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚).

472 ⬚⬚⬚⬚ ICTY Annual Report at ⬚. Of these, ten individuals were acquitted, fifty-seven were sentenced, thirteen were referred to a national jurisdiction, and thirty-six had their indictments withdrawn or had deceased. ICTY⬚ TIPY: Key Figures, http://www.icty.org/sections/TheCases/KeyFigures⬚concpros.

473 ICTY⬚ TIPY: Key Figures.

474 See Kelly D. Askin, ⬚e⬚ections on Some of the Most Si⬚nificant ⬚chievements of the ⬚CT⬚, ⬚⬚ New England Law Review ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚). See also Patricia M. Wald, ⬚CT⬚ Judicial Proceedin⬚s⬚⬚ n ⬚ppraisal from Within, ⬚ Journal of International Criminal Justice ⬚⬚⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚).

475 Lesser at ⬚.

476 ICTY, Completion Strate⬚⬚, http://www.icty.org/sid/⬚⬚⬚⬚⬚.

477 S.C. Res. ⬚⬚⬚⬚, U.N. Doc. S/RES/⬚⬚⬚⬚ (Dec. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚).

478 ICTY Annual Reports ⬚⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚⬚, http://www.icty.org/sections/AboutheICTY/ReportsandPublications.

479 ICTY Annual Reports ⬚⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚⬚.

480 Wippman at ⬚⬚⬚.

481 Wippman at ⬚⬚⬚.

482 Wippman at ⬚⬚⬚. Wippman concluded that ⬚per-trial-day costs⬚ did not differ dramatically between the federal system of the United States and the ICTY but that ICTY costs were higher than many trials in the United States federal system. On the other hand, in one exceptional case involving Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols and the bombing of the federal building in Oklahoma City, discussed in Chapter ⬚, costs were estimated at ⬚⬚.⬚ million for the prosecution alone. Id. at ⬚⬚⬚. Wippman argued that, while the costs at the ICTY were high, the different challenges⬚ including complex investigation, travel, and translation⬚ were the reasons, and that criticism ought not revolve around the expenses but should focus on how to assess the benefits. Id. at ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚.

483 See, for example, Ruti G. Teitel, Transitional Justice (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⬚⬚⬚⬚).

484 The process there was explored by Minow at ⬚⬚–⬚⬚.

485 Totten at ⬚. The case brought a visibility to the ICTY that earlier prosecutions of lower-level officials had not.

486 Statute of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, S.C. Res. ⬚⬚⬚, U.N. Doc. S/RES/⬚⬚⬚ (Nov. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚) (hereinafter ICTR Statute); Christina M. Carroll, ⬚n ⬚ssessment of the ⬚ole and ⬚⬚ec⬚tiveness of the ⬚nternational Criminal Tri⬚unal for ⬚wanda and the ⬚wandan National Justice S⬚stem in Dealin⬚ with the Mass ⬚troci⬚ties of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚ Boston U. International Law Journal ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚).

487 S.C. Res. ⬚⬚⬚, U.N. Doc. S/RES/⬚⬚⬚ (Feb. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚). See ICTR Basic Documents and Case Law, http://ictrcaselaw.org/ContentPage.aspx⬚cid⬚⬚ (hereinafter ICTR Docs).

488 The Tanzanian government offered to accommodate the tribunal and entered into a Headquarters Agreement with the United Nations. See U.N. Security Council, ⬚eport of the ⬚nternational Crim⬚inal Tri⬚unal for the Prosecution of Persons ⬚esponsi⬚le for ⬚ enocide and other Serious ⬚iolations of ⬚nternational ⬚ umanitarian Law Com⬚mitted in the Territor⬚ of ⬚wanda and ⬚wandan Citi⬚ens ⬚esponsi⬚le for ⬚ enocide and ⬚ ther Such ⬚iolations Committed in the Territor⬚ of Ne⬚h⬚ourin⬚ States ⬚etween ⬚ Januar⬚ and ⬚⬚ Decem⬚er ⬚⬚⬚⬚, Appendix, U.N. Doc. No. A/⬚⬚/⬚⬚⬚-S/⬚⬚⬚⬚/⬚⬚⬚ (Sept. ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚⬚), http://⬚⬚.⬚⬚.⬚⬚.⬚⬚/ENGLISH/annualreports/a⬚⬚/⬚⬚⬚⬚⬚⬚e.htm⬚appendix. See Erik M⬚se, The ⬚CT⬚⬚ ⬚⬚periences and Challen⬚es, ⬚⬚ New England Journal of International ⬚ Comparative Law ⬚ (⬚⬚⬚⬚). M⬚se was the president of the ICTR from ⬚⬚⬚⬚ to ⬚⬚⬚⬚. See also Stuart Beresford, In Pursuit of International Justice: The First Four Year Term of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, 9 Tulsa Journal of Comparative & International Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

489 In [illegible] the [illegible] million paid annually for rent provided about [illegible] percent of the income of that Center. See Edward Selasini, ICTR Exit Is for Real, Arusha Times, Sept. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.arushatimes.co.tz/[illegible]/[illegible]/front[illegible]page[illegible].htm.

490 ICTR Statute, Art. [illegible]. Like the ICTY, the ICTR has jurisdiction over crimes of genocide and crimes against humanity. It also has jurisdiction over violations of Common Article [illegible] of the Geneva Conventions and of Additional Protocol II, which include but are not limited to crimes of violence to life, collective punishments, terrorism, and the taking of hostages. ICTR Statute, Arts. [illegible]–[illegible]. According to Common Article [illegible], the following are violations of international law: "(a) violence to life and person, in particular murder of all kinds, mutilation, cruel treatment and torture; (b) taking of hostages; (c) outrages upon personal dignity, in particular humiliating and degrading treatment; (d) the passing of sentences and the carrying out of executions without previous judgment pronounced by a regularly constituted court, affording all the judicial guarantees which are recognized as indispensable by civilized peoples." Third Geneva Convention, Art. [illegible]. As in the ICTY, that jurisdiction is concurrent with the national courts, in this context of Rwanda. See ICTR Statute, Art. [illegible]. However, "[illegible]the International Tribunal for Rwanda shall have the primacy over the national courts of all States." Id. para. [illegible].

491 The Chambers were originally constituted by two Trial Chambers and an Appeals Chamber; as of [illegible], three Trial Chambers and an Appeals Chamber were constituted. The Security Council authorized the addition of the third trial chamber with S.C. Res. [illegible], U.N. Doc. S/RES/[illegible] (Apr. [illegible], [illegible]) para. [illegible].

492 The independent Prosecutor "is responsible for the investigation and the prosecution of crimes within the Tribunal's jurisdiction." ICTR Docs.

493 ICTR Statute, Art. [illegible]. The Registrar, who assists the Chambers and the Prosecutor, also represents the U.N. Secretary-General and is responsible for the administration and management of the tribunal. ICTR Docs.

494 The ICTR Statute, like that of the ICTY and other transnational courts, specifies that no two judges "may be nationals of the same State." ICTR Statute, Art. [illegible].

495 ICTR, Handbook for Journalists, "The Tribunal at a Glance," http://www.icty.org/sections/AboutTheICTY/ReportsandPublications (hereinafter ICTR Handbook).

496 Hans S. Nichols, "[illegible]N[illegible]Court Makes Legal Mischief," [illegible] Insight on the News [illegible]–[illegible] (Jan. [illegible], [illegible]).

497 ICTR Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible].

498 ICTR Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible].

499 ICTR: General Information, http://[illegible].[illegible].[illegible].[illegible]/ENGLISH/geninfo/index.htm.

500 ICTR Handbook, "The Achievements of the ICTR."

501 ICTR Annual Report [illegible]. See also AU Washington College of Law: War Crimes Research Office, ICTR Judgment Summaries, http://www.wcl.american.edu/warcrimes/ictr_judgements.cfm (providing summaries of ICTR judgments that are "unofficial" but nonetheless linked from the ICTR website).

502 As of [illegible], five of the twenty-two cases were resolved via guilty pleas. Wippman at [illegible].

503 S.C. Res. [illegible], U.N. Doc. S/RES/[illegible] (Dec. [illegible], [illegible]).

504 See David Cohen, [illegible] "[illegible]rid[illegible] Justice in East Timor, Sierra Leone, and Cambodia: Lessons Learned and Prospects for the Future", [illegible] Stanford Journal of International Law [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); J. Peter Pham, [illegible] "[illegible]ial[illegible]le Model for International Criminal Justice: The Special Court for Sierra Leone", [illegible] New York International Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Celina Schocken, Note, The Special Court for Sierra Leone: [illegible]verview and [illegible]ecommendations, [illegible] Berkeley Journal of International Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

505 The Special Court for Sierra Leone has been said to "envision a new model for international justice" by sitting in the country where the war crimes it tries took place. Schocken at [illegible]. See generally Stephen J. Rapp, The Compact Model in International Criminal Justice: The Special Court for Sierra Leone, [illegible] Drake Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

506 Human Rights Watch, Charles Taylor: Liberian [illegible] President [illegible]oes on Trial (May [illegible], [illegible]), http://www.hrw.org/en/news/[illegible]/[illegible]/[illegible]/charles-taylor-liberian-ex-president-goes-trial. Taylor's trial was moved from Freetown to The Hague in June [illegible] out of concern for the stability of West Africa were his trial to be held in Sierra Leone. Id. Taylor pleaded not guilty to all eleven charges filed against him, including those for murder, rape, enslavement, and conscripting child soldiers during Sierra Leone's civil war from [illegible] to [illegible]. War Crimes Trial [illegible]esumes for [illegible]ormer Leader of Liberia, New York Times, Jan. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.nytimes.com/[illegible]/[illegible]/[illegible]/world/africa/[illegible]taylor.html.

507 Fifth Annual Report of the President of the Special Court for Sierra Leone, June [illegible]–May [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible], http://www.sc-sl.org/LinkClick.aspx?fileticket=hopZSuXjicg%[illegible]d=tabid[illegible] (hereinafter SCSL Annual Report [illegible]–[illegible]).

508 Agreement between the United Nations and the Government of Sierra Leone on the Establishment of a Special Court for Sierra Leone, Art. [illegible], U.N.–Sierra Leone, Jan. [illegible], [illegible], Appendix II, U.N. Doc. S/[illegible]/[illegible], http://www.sc-sl.org/LinkClick.aspx?fileticket=uClnd%MJeEw%[illegible]d=tabid[illegible] (hereinafter SCSL Statute). See generally Fourth Annual Report of the President of the Special Court for Sierra Leone, January [illegible]–May [illegible], http://www.sc-sl.org/LinkClick.aspx?fileticket=SaCsn%u%MzE%[illegible]d=tabid[illegible] (hereinafter SCSL Fourth Annual Report [illegible]).

509 SCSL Statute, Art. [illegible].

510 SCSL Statute, Art. [illegible].

511 SCSL Statute, Art. [illegible].

512 SCSL Statute, Art. [illegible].

513 Ellen S. Podgor & Roger S. Clark, Understanding International Criminal Law [illegible] ([illegible]nd ed., Newark, NJ: LexisNexis, [illegible]).

514 Podgor & Clark, at [illegible].

515 SCSL Annual Report [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible]. Three were withdrawn due to the deaths of the accused, and one accused remained at large. Id. at [illegible]. A judgment in the third was pending, and the trial of Charles Taylor was in the prosecution phase at The Hague. See SCSL Fourth Annual Report [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible].

516 SCSL Annual Report [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible]. The [illegible] million included funding for all functions, including prosecution, defense, and judges. Projections were that the amount would be reduced to about [illegible] million by [illegible] to support a staff of [illegible]. Id. at [illegible]. The report for the prior year detailed that the approved budgets for prior years had been smaller than actual expenditures. SCSL Fourth Annual Report [illegible], Annex IV at [illegible].

517 Combs at [illegible].

518 U.N. Charter, Art. [illegible], para. illegible.

519 Combs at [illegible]–[illegible].

520 Schiff at [illegible].

521 Schiff at [illegible], citing M. Cherif Bassiouni, "[illegible]istorical Surve[illegible]", in ICC Ratification and National Implementing Legislation, Nouvelles Etudes Penales [illegible]–[illegible] (Saint-Agne, Fran.: Association Internationale de Droit P[illegible]nal, [illegible]).

522 Schiff at [illegible].

523 The Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court, Preamble, July [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] U.N.T.S. [illegible] (hereinafter ICC Rome Statute).

524 See Negotiated Relationship Agreement between the International Criminal Court and the United Nations, http://www.icc-cpi.int/NR/rdonlyres/⊠⊠FC⊠A⊠-⊠⊠⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠⊠-A⊠EA-⊠AA⊠B⊠D⊠E⊠⊠C/⊠/ICCASP⊠Res⊠⊠English.pdf.

525 ICC Rome Statute, Arts. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. The accused may challenge the admissibility of the case itself or the jurisdiction of the court. Art. ⊠⊠(⊠). See generally Combs at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

526 ICC Rome Statute, Preamble, Arts. ⊠, ⊠⊠. See Schabas at ⊠⊠; Schiff at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

527 Schabas at ⊠⊠.

528 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⊠.

529 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⊠.

530 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⊠(⊠)(a)–(j).

531 ICC Rome Statute., Arts. ⊠(⊠)(g), ⊠(⊠)(b)(xxii), ⊠(⊠)(e)(vi).

532 ICC Rules of Procedure and Evidence, rules ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. See also Cate Steains, ⊠ender ⊠ssues, in The International Criminal Court ⊠ The Making of the Rome Statute: Issues, Negotiations, Results ⊠⊠⊠ (Roy S. Lee, ed., The Hague, Neth.: Kluwer Law International, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

533 Steains at ⊠⊠⊠.

534 ICC Rome Statute, Arts. ⊠⊠(⊠), ⊠⊠(⊠). Elections are organized accordingly through the submission of lists by various categories, and by ⊠⊠⊠⊠ several women had been selected as judges.

535 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⊠⊠(⊠)(a)(i)–(ii).

536 See, for example, Claus Kress, The ⊠nternational Court of Jus⊠tice and the ⊠lements of the Crime of ⊠enocide, ⊠⊠ European Journal of International Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

537 Schiff at ⊠⊠⊠.

538 ICC Rome Statute, Arts. ⊠(⊠), ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; Schiff at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

539 Combs at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; Schabas at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

540 ICC Rome Statute, Arts. ⊠⊠(⊠), ⊠⊠.

541 Schiff at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

542 ICC Rome Statute, Arts. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

543 Schiff at ⊠⊠.

544 In January ⊠⊠⊠⊠, for example, Ugandan President Yoweri Museveni asked Moreno-Ocampo to investigate the crimes committed by the Lord's Resistance Army (LRA), a rebel group that has operated in Northern Uganda since ⊠⊠⊠⊠. See Marc Lacey, ⊠⊠anda⊠War Crimes ⊠n⊠uir⊠, New York Times, Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at A⊠. However, President Museveni backed away from the ICC's investigation in July ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and offered amnesty to Joseph Kony, leader of the LRA, in exchange for a cease-fire and the beginning of peace talks. See Coalition for the International Criminal Court, ⊠⊠anda⊠L⊠⊠ Leaders ⊠ccept ⊠mnest⊠ ⊠ ⊠er⊠Comments ⊠⊠ ⊠CC Prosecutor, July ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.iccnow.org/index.php⊠mod⊠newsdetail⊠news⊠⊠⊠⊠. In March ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Kony's legal team, with the support of President Museveni, traveled to The Hague to seek a suspension of the ICC's indictments before signing a peace accord. See Nora Boustany, ⊠⊠andan ⊠e⊠el ⊠eaches ⊠ut to ⊠nternational Court, Washington Post, Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, at A⊠⊠.

545 ICC Rome Statute, Arts. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Schiff at ⊠⊠⊠. The term ⊠victim⊠ defined in Rule ⊠⊠ of the ICC's Rules of Procedure and Evidence, included ⊠natural persons who have suffered harm as a result of the commisson of any crime⊠ within the court's jurisdiction. Also included are ⊠organizations or institutions that have sustained direct harm to any of their property which is dedicated to religion, education, art or science or charitable purposes⊠ as well as historic monuments, hospitals, and humanitarian places. The form of participation and its effects have occasioned a good deal of debate as law has developed around the role of victims. Issues include the number of persons who can participate, the form of participation and the role of clients (akin to challenges in the United States in class action litigation), and the impact of that role and a case's proceeding to judgment. See, for example, Judgment on the Appeals of the Prosecutor and the Defendant against the Trial Chamber I's Decision on Victims' Participation of ⊠⊠ January ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ July ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ICC-⊠⊠/⊠⊠-⊠⊠/⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.iclklamberg.com/Caselaw/DRC/Dyilo/Appeals/ICC-⊠⊠-⊠⊠-⊠⊠-⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠⊠-ENG.pdf.

546 Remedies other than the victims' fund present challenges as well. See Sonja B. Starr, ⊠ethinkin⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ective ⊠emedies⊠⊠ ⊠emedial Deterrence in ⊠nternational Courts, ⊠⊠ New York University Law Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

547 Schabas at ix.

548 William Jefferson Clinton, President of the United States, Statement on Signature of the International Criminal Court Treaty, Washington, D.C., at ⊠ (Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠ Weekly Comp. Pres. Doc. ⊠ (Jan. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

549 Letter from John R. Bolton, Under Secretary of State for Arms Control and International Security, to U.N. Secretary General Kofi Annan (May ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). See also Schiff at ⊠⊠⊠. In addition, Israel ⊠unsigned⊠ as well. See generally Edward T. Swaine, ⊠nsi⊠nin⊠, ⊠⊠ Stanford Law Review ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

550 ICC Statute, Art. ⊠⊠. Several commentators concluded that the interpretation proffered by the United States was incorrect. See Combs at ⊠⊠⊠.

551 Schiff at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. See Consolidated Appropriations Act, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠, Pub. L. No. ⊠⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriations Act, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠(a), Pub. L. No. ⊠⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

552 The American Service-Members' Protection Act of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Pub. L. No. ⊠⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (codified at ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠)).

553 Schabas at ⊠⊠⊠. Our thanks to the Honorable Hans-Peter Kaul, former President of the Pre-Trial Division, and to Simon de Smet, who in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ was an Associate Legal Officer and the staff person responsible for the ICC's internal building committee, both of whom helped us to understand the ICC's work, to tour the facility, and to obtain the photographs in figures ⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠, copyright ICC-CPI / Wim Van Cappellen, which are reproduced with permission of the ICC and with the assistance of its Public Information and Documentation Section.

554 Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the International Criminal Court: Project Presentation, at ⊠⊠, ICC-ASP/⊠/CBF.⊠/⊠, Feb. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, provided to the Assembly of State Parties, ICC, Committee on Budget and Finance, ⊠th Session, The Hague, Apr. ⊠–⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC). The report was signed by the President of the ICC and by the Director-General of the ICC Task Force of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of The Netherlands.

555 See ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC: Housing Options at ⊠⊠, ICC-ASP ⊠/⊠, Mar. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, provided to the Assembly of State Parties, ICC, ⊠th Session, The Hague, Nov. ⊠⊠–Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC: Housing Options).

556 Schabas at ⊠⊠⊠.

557 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⊠⊠.

558 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⊠⊠⊠(⊠).

559 Schabas at ⊠⊠⊠.

560 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⊠⊠; Schabas at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. The Assembly of States Parties mandated that each ⊠State Party shall vote for a minimum number of candidates of each gender⊠; the mandatory minimum is calculated after each round of ballots according to a formula laid out by the Assembly in Resolution ⊠, para. ⊠⊠(c) ICC-ASP/⊠/Res.⊠ (Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Our thanks to Kate Malleson for her review of this chapter, and particularly the discussion of selection processes of international courts.

561 See Assembly of States Parties, Procedure for the nomination and election of judges of the International Criminal Court, Resolution ICC-ASP/⬜/Res. ⬜, paras. ⬜⬜ ⬜⬜(c) (⬜⬜ September ⬜⬜⬜⬜). The provisions specify a formula, in terms of numbers as well as how to adjust it. Id. at paras. ⬜⬜–⬜⬜.

562 See generally Richard Mohr, Some Conditions for Cultural⬜ Diverse Deli⬜eration, ⬜⬜ Canadian Journal of Law and Society ⬜⬜ (⬜⬜⬜⬜).

563 The literature on these issues is vast. An introduction to the ideas and impact of difference is provided by Jane Mansbridge, The Descriptive Political ⬜epresentation of ⬜ender⬜⬜n ⬜nti⬜⬜ssentialist ⬜r⬜ument in Has Liberalism Failed Women⬜ Assuring Equal Representation in Europe and the United States ⬜⬜–⬜⬜ (Jytte Klausen ⬜ Charles S. Maier, eds., New York, NY: Palgrave, ⬜⬜⬜⬜).

564 Schabas at ⬜⬜⬜.

565 Schabas at ⬜⬜⬜. That sum was initially to go only to those serving in the presidencies of the divisions.

566 Schabas at ⬜⬜⬜–⬜⬜⬜.

567 The judges, in turn, elected from their number the President (Sang-Hyun Song of South Korea), the first Vice President (Fatoumata Demb⬜⬜ Diarra of Mali), and the second Vice President (Hans-Peter Kaul of Germany). See Schiff at ⬜⬜⬜.

568 The first set of terms was varied to enable continuity of service. ICC, Bio⬜raphical Notes, http://www⬜.icc-cpi.int/Menus/ICC/Structure⬜of⬜the⬜Court/Chambers/The⬜Judges. Article ⬜⬜(⬜)(a) provides authority for the presidency to increase the number of sitting judges.

569 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⬜⬜(⬜). See also ICC, Structure of the Court, http://www⬜.icc-cpi.int/Menus/ICC/About⬜the⬜Court/ICC⬜at⬜a⬜glance/Structure⬜of⬜the⬜Court.htm. In addition, the Registry and a Victims and Witnesses Support Unit were established.

570 Schiff at ⬜⬜⬜.

571 Schiff at ⬜⬜⬜.

572 Schiff at ⬜⬜⬜.

573 See Schiff at ⬜⬜⬜–⬜⬜⬜; ICC, The Court Toda⬜, http://www⬜.icc-cpi.int/Menus/ICC/About⬜the⬜Court/ICC⬜at⬜a⬜glance/The⬜Court⬜Today.htm. In part to explain what some perceived as a slow startup, Chief Prosecutor Ocampo stated, ⬜when the prisoner arrives in the courtroom, an enormous accomplishment has already been achieved. It means that the OTP ⬜Office of the Prosecutor⬜took the necessary steps to analyze crime patterns and to select a situation that requires our investigation. It means that the OTP . . . conducted investigation of massive crimes during ongoing conflicts; interacted with victims and local communities; protected witnesses and investigators; secured the cooperation needed to carry out investigations, from visas for the witnesses to the evacuation of threatened staff in deteriorating security situations; collected the evidence necessary to prosecute those who bear the greatest responsibility of the most serious crimes; and finally, ensured the appearance of the persons sought by the Court⬜ Luis Moreno-Ocampo, The ⬜nternational Criminal Court⬜Seekin⬜⬜ lo⬜al Justice, ⬜⬜ Case Western Reserve Journal of International Law ⬜⬜⬜, ⬜⬜⬜ (⬜⬜⬜⬜). See also Hans-Peter Kaul, Con⬜struction Site for More Justice⬜The ⬜nternational Criminal Court after Two ⬜ears, ⬜⬜ American Journal of International Law ⬜⬜⬜ (⬜⬜⬜⬜).

574 See generally Patricia M. Wald, ⬜nternational Criminal Courts⬜ Some ⬜udos and Concerns, ⬜⬜⬜ Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society ⬜⬜⬜ (⬜⬜⬜⬜); Simon De Smet, ⬜ Structural ⬜nal⬜sis of the ⬜ole of the Pre⬜Trial Cham⬜er in the ⬜act⬜indin⬜ Process of the ⬜CC, in The Emerging Practice of the International Criminal Court ⬜⬜⬜–⬜⬜⬜ (Carsten Stahn ⬜ G⬜ran Sluiter, eds., Leiden, Neth.: Koninklijke Brill, ⬜⬜⬜⬜).

575 ICC, ⬜sta⬜lishment of the Court, http://www⬜.icc-cpi.int/Menus/ICC/About⬜the⬜Court/ICC⬜at⬜a⬜glance/Establishment⬜of ⬜the⬜Court.htm.

576 As of June ⬜⬜⬜⬜. International Criminal Court: Frequently Asked Questions, http://www⬜.icc-cpi.int/Menus/ICC/About⬜the⬜Court/Frequently⬜asked⬜Questions/.

577 Schiff at ⬜⬜⬜.

578 Schabas at ⬜⬜⬜.

579 ICC Assembly of State Parties, Fifth Session, Strategic Plan of the International Criminal Court, ICC-ASP/⬜/⬜/ (⬜⬜⬜⬜) (hereinafter ICC Strategic Plan).

580 ICC Strategic Plan at ⬜–⬜.

581 ICC Rome Statute, Art. ⬜(⬜).

582 Materials on it, as well as on the competition, have been provided to us by Court staff. A few years later the entity was dissolved and replaced by an Oversight Committee, a Project Board, and a Project Director working inside the ICC's registry. See Permanent Premises, ICC-ASP/⬜/Res.⬜, Dec. ⬜⬜, ⬜⬜⬜⬜, http://www.icc-cpi.int/iccdocs/asp⬜docs/Resolutions/ICC-ASP-ASP⬜-Res-⬜⬜-ENG.pdf (hereinafter ⬜⬜⬜⬜ ICC Permanent Premises Resolution).

583 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜ (Foreword from ICC President and Director-General, ICC Task Force) (emphasis in the original).

584 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜–⬜⬜.

585 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

586 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

587 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

588 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

589 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ ICC Permanent Premises Resolution, Annex ⬜ at ⬜.

590 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ ICC Permanent Premises Resolution, Annex at ⬜ and n. ⬜. The report noted that, in ⬜⬜⬜⬜ euros and including contingencies, inflation, and special features, the sum could be ⬜⬜⬜ million euros. Id.

591 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜, ⬜⬜.

592 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

593 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

594 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

595 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

596 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜, ⬜⬜.

597 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

598 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

599 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜–⬜⬜.

600 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜.

601 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜. The brochure for the design competition uses the figure of ⬜⬜,⬜⬜⬜ square meters. See International Criminal Court: Architectural Design Competition (The Hague, Neth.: Rijksgebouwendienst ⬜Government Buildings Agency⬜ ⬜⬜⬜⬜) (hereinafter ICC Design Competition Brochure).

602 See ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜, ⬜⬜. Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the International Criminal Court: Financial Comparison of Housing Costs at ⬜, ⬜th Session, The Hague, ⬜⬜–⬜⬜ Oct. ⬜⬜⬜⬜, ICC-ASP ⬜/CBF.⬜/⬜ ⬜⬜ August ⬜⬜⬜⬜. The overall construction costs of the ICC's permanent building was estimated to be no more than ⬜⬜⬜ million euros (about ⬜⬜⬜⬜ million) at ⬜⬜⬜⬜ price levels. See Assembly of States Parties, Resolution ICC-ASP/⬜/Res.⬜, Dec. ⬜⬜, ⬜⬜⬜⬜, ICC-ASP/⬜/⬜⬜, Part III at ⬜⬜.

603 Assembly of States Parties, Resolution ICC-ASP/⬜/Res.⬜, Dec. ⬜, ⬜⬜⬜⬜, ICC-ASP/⬜/⬜⬜/Corr. ⬜, Part III at ⬜–⬜.

604 ⬜⬜⬜⬜ Report on the Future Permanent Premises of the ICC at ⬜⬜–⬜⬜.

605 Assembly of States Parties, Resolution ICC-ASP/□/Res.□, Dec. □□, □□□□, ICC-ASP/□/□□, Part III at □□–□□.

606 Permanent Premises of the International Criminal Court, http://www.icc-architectural-competition.com. The prizes were □□,□□□ euros, □□,□□□ euros, and □□,□□□ euros (or approximately □□□,□□□, □□□,□□□, and □□□,□□□, respectively) for first, second, and third prizes, and the nineteen designs within the final set were displayed in The Hague City Hall for a week. Id.

607 See ICC Design Competition Brochure.

608 Permanent Premises of the International Criminal Court, Explanation of the Architect, http://www.icc-architectural-competition.com/pages/results/prize-winners/□rd.php (hereinafter ICC Permanent Premises website).

609 ICC Permanent Premises website.

610 See ICC Design Competition Brochure.

611 ICC Permanent Premises website.

612 ICC Permanent Premises website.

613 Silvana Arbia, ICC Registrar, Press Conference on March □, □□□□, at the Court's website, http://www.icc-cpi.int/menus/icc/press□□□and□□□media/press□□□releases/ma□□a (hereinafter Arbia, ICC Building Announcement of March □□□□).

614 Arbia, ICC Building Announcement of March □□□□.

615 Figures for individual budgets have been collected from a variety of □□□□ sources published by the courts; reported figures have then been converted into U.S. dollars. Some courts, such as the ICTY, ICTR, ICJ, and ITLOS, operate on biennial budgets, from which □□□□ figures were derived by dividing the amount by two. Some also report only for fiscal years that break across the calendar year; we used the figures published in the □□□□ in annual reports whether the coverage was for a fiscal or a calendar year, regardless of their dates of coverage.

616 See European Commission, EU Budget □□□□: Financial Report □□ (Luxembourg: Office for the Official Publications of the European Communities, □□□□), http://ec.europa.eu/budget/library/publications/fin□reports/fin□report□□□□en.pdf. The charts provided in figures □□□ and □□□ were compiled with the assistance of Kathleen Claussen, Adam Grogg, Elliot Morrison, and Allison Tait.

617 See Council of Europe: Information Office, Budget of the Court, http://www.coe.al/index.php□faqe□content/detail□kat□content□id□□□□lng□en.

618 See Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (IACHR), Financial Resources of the IACHR □□□□, http://www.cidh.org/recursos□□□□.eng.htm; Inter-American Court of Human Rights, □□□□ Annual Report at □ (□□□□),http://www.corteidh.or.cr/docs/informes/□□□□□.pdf.

619 See Report of the International Court of Justice, □ August □□□□–□□ July □□□□ at □□, U.N. GAOR, □□d Sess., Supp. No. □, U.N. Doc. A/□□/□ (Aug. □□, □□□□), http://www.icj-cij.org/court/index.php□p□□□□ p□□□ (click on □□□□□–□□□□□ in the drop-down menu). The Permanent Court of Arbitration, begun in □□□□, does not report data on budgets, and therefore is not included.

620 See ICC, Resolution ICC-ASP/□/Res.□: Programme Budget for □□□□, www.icc-cpi.int/iccdocs/asp□docs/Resolutions/ICC-ASP-ASP□-Res-□□-ENG.pdf.

621 See International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea Yearbook □□□□ at □□.

622 See Report of the International Tribunal for the Prosecution of Persons Responsible for Serious Violations of International Humanitarian Law Committed in the Territory of the Former Yugoslavia since □□□□ at □□, U.N. GAOR, □□st Sess., A/□□/□□□, http://www.un.org/icty/rappannu-e/□□□□/AR□□.pdf.

623 See G.A. Res. □□/□□□, para. □, U.N. Doc. A/RES/□□/□□□ (Feb. □□, □□□□).

624 See Fourth Annual Report of the President of the Special Court for Sierra Leone: January □□□□ to May □□□□ at □□ (□□□□), http://www.sc-sl.org/LinkClick.aspx□fileticket□SaCsn□u□MzE□□d□tabid□□□□.

625 In some instances, the courts record the data by calendar years, in other instances by a June-to-June or other cycle. The data are, by definition, out of date, and various institutions have, since □□□□, seen a spurt in caseload. For example, the ICC had, by □□□□, begun its first trials. See ICC, Situations and Cases, http://www□.icc-cpi.int/Menus/ICC/Situations□Cases.

626 Materials provided by PCA staff, April □□□□.

627 See European Court of Human Rights, Survey of Activities □□□□ (Registry of the European Court of Human Rights, Strasbourg, □□□□) at □□, □□ (□□□□), http://www.echr.coe.int/NR/rdonlyres/□□□□□□□□-□□□□-□□□B-□□□□-A□□□□DD□□□□/□/SurveyofActivities□□□□.pdf. As the court mapped its own docket's growth from □□□□ to □□□□, the number of applications lodged grew fivefold, from □□,□□□ to approximately □□,□□□. Id. at □□. In □□□□, the court refused some □□,□□□ applications (id. at □□) and issued more than □,□□□ judgments. Id. at □□.

628 See Statistics of Judicial Activity of the Court of Justice, of the Court of First Instance, and of the Civil Service Tribunal, Annual Report □□□□, at □□, □□□, □□□–□□□, http://curia.europa.eu/jcms/jcms/Jo□□□□□□□/rapports-annuels. As noted in figure □□□, the Court of Justice had □□□ pending cases, the Court of First Instance had □,□□□, and the Civil Service Tribunal had □□□. Included are proceedings of different kinds, including appeals and references, depending on the level of the court. The Court of First Instance reported that it had □disposed of more cases than were brought before it□ Id. at □□□.

For the ICJ, similar information is at http://www.icj-cij.org/docket/index.php□p□□□□ p□□□.

ICTR information culled from statistics available at the ICTR website, http://□□.□□.□□.□□/ENGLISH/cases/status.htm.

629 Inter-American Court of Human Rights □□□□ Annual Report at □□–□□ (□□□□), http://www.corteidh.or.cr/docs/informes/□□□□□.pdf.

630 See Annual Report of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights □□□□ at □□, http://www.cidh.org/annualrep/□□□□eng/CHAPTER.III.ENG.pdf (noting that □□□□□ individual cases and petitions □were□processed by the Commission in the year □□□□□).

631 Report of the International Court of Justice, □ August □□□□–□□ July □□□□ at □□, U.N. GAOR, □□d Sess., Supp. No. □, U.N. Doc. A/□□/□ (Aug. □□, □□□□), http://www.icj-cij.org/court/index.php□p□□ □□ p□□□ (click on □□□□□–□□□□□ in the drop-down menu).

632 Permanent Court of Arbitration, □□□□ PCA Annual Report, □, □, http://www.pca-cpa.org/showfile.asp□fil□id□□□□. See also Cases Conducted under the □uspices of the Permanent Court of □r□itration or Conducted with the Cooperation of the □nternational Bureau, http://www.pca-cpa.org/showfile.asp□fil□id□□□□.

633 See International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, Proceedings and Judgments□ Docket, http://www.itlos.org/cgi-bin/cases/docket.pl□ang□en. See also archived page from Oct. □□, □□□□, http://web.archive.org/web/□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□/http://www.itlos.org/cgi-bin/cases/docket.pl□ang□en.

634 See International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, Proceedings and Judgments□ List of Cases, http://www.itlos.org/cgi-bin/cases/list□of□cases.pl□anguage□en. See also archived page from Aug. □□, □□□□, http://web.archive.org/web/□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□; http://www.itlos.org/cgi-bin/cases/list□of□cases.pl□anguage□en.

635 Thirteenth Annual Report of the International Tribunal for the Prosecution of Persons Responsible for Serious Violations of International Humanitarian Law Committed in the Territories of the Former Yugoslavia since □□□□ at □□, U.N. GAOR, □□st Sess., A/□□/□□□, http://www.un.org/icty/rappannu-e/□□□□/AR□□.pdf. As that report noted, some individuals who might have been prosecuted at the ICTY were being tried by other tribunals. Id.

636 Eleventh Annual Report of the International Criminal Tribunal for the Prosecution of Persons Responsible for Genocide and Other Serious Violations of International Humanitarian Law Committed in the Territory of Rwanda and Rwandan Citizens Responsible for Genocide and Other Such Violations Committed in the Territory of Neighbouring States between January and December at , U.N. GAOR, st Sess., U.N. Doc. No. A// (Aug. ,), http://www.ictr.org/ENGLISH/annualreports/a/s-.pdf. In addition, the court reported that, since the Tribunal's beginning, a total of fifty-five defendants' proceedings had either been completed or were under way. Id. at .

637 See Fourth Annual Report of the Presient of the Special Court for Sierra Leone: January to May at , , , , , ().

638 Third Report of the Interational Criminal Court , –, U.N. GAOR, d Sess., U.N. Doc. No. A// (Aug. ,), http://www.icc-cpi.int/NR/rdonlyres/F-DB-D-F-C-EFBFCA/ICCReportto UNEnglish.pdf.

639 Our thanks to Christiaan M. J. Kner, Secretary-General of the PCA, and to Vilmante Blink, of the PCA staff, for their assistance in obtaining both the original and revised versions of the logo. All rights to figures and are held by the PCA, and the images are reproduced with its permission. For variations on the PCA logo, see http://ukinnl.fco.gov.uk/resources/en/jpg/pca; http://www.haguejusticeportal.net/Images/PCA/PCA new logo .JPG; http://www.arbitration-icca.org/media/cpa.jpg.

640 Our thanks to Mike Widener and the Rare Book Collection of the Lillian Goldman Library of Yale Law School for providing us with figure and permission to reproduce it and to Arthur Eyffinger for information on Picard, the PCA logo, related imagery, and his additional research efforts.

641 See generally Jean Dumont, Baron de Carlscroon, Corps universel diplomatique du droit des gens: Contenant un recueil des traités d'alliance, de paix, de trêve, de neutralité, de commerce, d'échange . . . (Amsterdam, Neth.: P. Brunel, R. et G. Wetstein, les Janssons Waesberge, et L'Honor et Chatelain, –).

642 Margaret C. Jacob, Bernard Picart and the Turn toward Modernit, De Achttiende Eeuw , ().

643 See Ilja M. Veldman, amiliar customs and eotic rituals Picart illustrations for Cmonies et coutumes relieuses de tous les peuples, Simiolus: Netherlands Quarterly for the History of Art , –() (). See also Richard I. Cohen, Jewish Icons: Art and Society in Modern Europe (Berkeley, CA: U. of California Press,).

644 The wedding poem, or epithalamion, is a traditional form that dates back to Sappho and was made famous by Catullus. The form was much in use in the seventeenth century, especially in England, and both John Donne and Edmund Spenser wrote well-known and well-regarded epithalamia. See Thomas M. Greene, Spenser and the pi thalamic Convention, Comparative Literature , –() (). These poems often were published with frontispieces depicting bride and groom with hands clasped. Arthur Eyffinger has pointed out that this posture, also popular in images of diplomacy, indicated the image of both bona fides (in good faith) and pacta sunt servanda (promises must be kept). Examples of such hands clasping can be found in Eyffinger, ICJ at .

645 At that time the PCA also launched a new website, and its new flag also displayed the modernized emblem. Permanent Court of Arbitration, PCA Annual Report, , http://www.pca-cpa.org/upload/files/ Report EN.pdf.

646 Johannes Cornelis Wienecke (–), a Dutch medalist, designed the logo in . He also designed a portrait of Queen Wilhelmina (who had hosted the Peace Palace Conference) that was used on Dutch coins between and , as well as the commemorative medal presented to delegates at the Second Hague Conference. See Eyffinger, The Hague Peace Conference at , . The logo is described in ICJ Questions and Answers. The logo can also be found in various of the PCIJ reports. See, for example, the PCIJ's Eleventh Annual Report, –, http://www.icj-cij.org/pcij/serieE/English/E en.pdf. A version was used on the official plates (made of tin). Our thanks to Arthur Eyffinger for locating a picture of the plate and for obtaining documentation from the Dutch National Archives and the Royal Dutch Mint archives.

647 The logo in figure is reproduced courtesy of the ICJ. A different emblem, a roundel with five or six muscular men holding an even balance above large rectangular building stones, is described as another iteration of the PCIJ by Eyffinger, ICJ at –.

648 Kerkvliet Mellink at .

649 See Arnold Rabbow, DTV Lexikon Politischer Symbole –() ().

650 See http://www.un.org/english/portals/images/biglogo.gif.

651 Our thanks to ITLOS and its Registrar, Philippe Gautier, for providing us with the logo in figure and permission to reproduce it.

652 The ICTY logo was originally designed by Judge Jules Deschnes, one of the first judges of the tribunal, in . After a lengthy dialogue with the U.N. Graphics Department about the precise form and appropriate use of the U.N. symbol, the design was finalized in January . Interview with the ICTY Press Office (Dec. ,). The logos in figure , provided by the ICTY, include that of the United Nations and the ICTY, as the ICTY's logo is to be shown in conjunction with the U.N. logo. Our thanks to the ICTY for permission to reproduce the logos.

653 TPIR stands for Tribunal Pnal International pour le Rwanda the French name for the ICTR. Figure is reproduced with the permission of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda and with our thanks to the Senior Legal Adviser staff.

654 Figure , used for illustrative purposes only, was provided by the Special Court for Sierra Leone, which holds the copyright and authorized this use of the image.

655 Figure is reproduced courtesy of the International Criminal Court and provided courtesy of its Public Information and Documentation Section.

656 Figure is provided courtesy of the Court of Justice of the European Communities and is reproduced with its permission and with the assistance of Christopher Fretwell and of the Administrator Press and Information Service.

657 The Court of Justice of the European Communities: Historic Landmarks, Buildings and Symbols , http://curia.europa.eu/jcms/upload/docs/application/pdf/-/en historique.pdf.

658 The image in figure is reproduced courtesy of and with the permission of the Iraqi High Tribunal, the legal owner of the seal of its predecessor court, the Iraqi Special Tribunal, in accord with an order of July , , and with the assistance of Zalmay Khalilzad, who served in as the United States Ambassador to Iraq.

659 Coalition Provisional Authority Order No. , CPA/ORD/ Dec. /(Dec. ,), http://www.iraqcoalition.org/regulations/CPAORDIST and Appendix A.pdf. For a history of the Iraqi Special Tribunal and the Iraqi High Criminal Court, see M. Cherif Bassiouni Michael Wahid Hanna, Cedin the h round The ra i h Criminal Court Statute and the Trial of Saddam ussein, Case Western Reserve Journal of International Law , –() ().

660 Law No. (), Law of the Supreme Iraqi Criminal Tribunal, Al-Waqa'i Al-Iraqiya –(Oct. ,) (Iraq), http://www.loc.gov/law/help/hussein/docs/Iraqi law number of□□□□.pdf, available in English translation, http://www.ictj.org/static/MENA/Iraq/iraq.statute.engtrans.pdf. See also International Center for Transitional Justice, Creation and First Trials of the Supreme Iraqi Criminal Tribunal (Oct. □□□□),http://www.ictj.org/images/content/□/□/□□□.pdf.

661 Translation by Diala Shamas.

Chapter □□

1 Hannah Arendt, The Origins of Totalitarianism (New York, NY: Houghton Mi□ in Harcourt, □□□□; first published □□□□).

2 Arendt at xxxvii.

3 See J□rgen Habermas, The Structural Transformation of the Public Sphere: An Inquiry into a Category of Bourgeois Society (Thomas Burger, trans., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, □□□□) (hereinafter Habermas, Structural Transformation); J□rgen Habermas, Between Facts and Norms: Contributions to a Discourse Theory of Law and Democracy (William Rehg, trans., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, □□□□) (hereinafter Habermas, Facts and Norms); David Zaret, Origins of Democratic Culture: Printing, Petitions, and the Public Sphere in Early-Modern England (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, □□□□). See generally Habermas and the Public Sphere (Craig Calhoun, ed., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, □□□□) (hereinafter Habermas and the Public Sphere); Luke Goode, J□rgen Habermas: Democracy and the Public Sphere (London, Eng.: Pluto Press, □□□□).

4 See Nancy Fraser, □ethinkin□ the Pu□lic Sphere□□ Contri□ution to the Criti□ue of □ctuall□□istin□ Democrac□, in Habermas and the Public Sphere □□□.

5 See, for example, Mario Sbriccoli, Le□islation, Justice, and Polit□ical Power in □talian Cities, □□□□□□□□□, in Legislation and Justice □□–□□ (Antonio Padoa-Schioppa, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, □□□□) (hereinafter Legislation and Justice). Sbriccoli detailed how various forms of resolution □fitted within a framework which bound them together and produced their homology (even in the forms and rules of procedure)□ Id. at □□. He traced the movement in the thirteenth century toward an inquisitorial posture that displaced private ordering (□vendettas, duels, and private alliances□) with □□reasons for (public) justice,'□ such that justice became □one of the criteria by which the effectiveness of government power was measured□ Id. at □□–□□. Juridical processes were, on his account, central to the development of city-states. Id. at □□–□□. See also Clive Holmes, The Le□al □nstruments of Power and the State in □ar□ Modern □n□land, in Legislation and Justice at □□□–□□□.

6 Katharine Fremantle, The Baroque Town Hall of Amsterdam □□ (Utrecht, Neth.: Haentjens Dekker □ Gumbert, □□□□).

7 According to John Kelly, the concept predated St. Augustine; a fourth-century manuscript by a Sardinian bishop, Lucifer of Cagliari, argued that God had interrogated Adam and Eve because they could not be □condemned by us unheard□ John M. Kelly, □udi □lteram Partem, □ Natural Law Forum □□□, □□□, n. □□ (□□□□). As Kelly noted, however, another interpretation of the New Testament is that judgment, salvation, and punishment rest on deeds known to God, and hence judgment is given before □those being judged can say anything□ Id. at □□□, n. □□.

8 St. Augustine lived from □□□ to □□□ CE; he wrote De Dua□us □nima□us, Contra Manichaeos (Concernin□ Two Souls, □□□ainst the Manicheans). The phrase □Audi Alteram Partem□ appeared in his Chapter □□ as part of a debate constructed within. See St. Augustine, □□□ainst the Manicheans*, http://www.gnosis.org/library/boni.htm; Oxford Dictionary of Quotations □□–□□ (Elizabeth Knowles ed., New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, □th ed., □□□□).

9 Kelly at □□□. Kelly described two versions, worded slightly differently. In the great hall of the Town Hall in Nürnberg (Nuremberg), the phrase was □Eins manns red ist eine halbe red, man soll die teyl verh□ren bed□ translated as □One man's story is half the story, one should hear both sides □of the story□□ In the front hall of the □□mer in Frankfurt-am-Main, the inscription read, □Eyns mans redde ein halbe redde, man sal sie billich verh□ren bede□ or □One man's story □s□half the story, one should agree to hear both sides□ The Emperor Lothar was also reputed to have said, □Mit Urteil sprechen gar nicht eile, bis du geh□rt hast beide Teile□ or □Do not pronounce judgment in haste until you have heard both sides□ Id. at □□□.

10 At The Hague, a □□□□ painting by Jacob de Wit portrayed a Justice-like figure surrounded by putti (making her look somewhat like Charity) under which was inscribed □Audi et Alteram Partem□ It hung over the double doors of the Schepensaal, or Vierschaar, a room in which the alderman worked and rendered judgments. See J. C. Herpel, Het oude Raadhuis van 's-Gravenhage Deel II (The Old City Hall of The Hague, Part II) □□□, fig. □□□ ('s Gravenhage, Neth.: Uitgave van de Gemeente, □□□□). The book, commissioned by the City Council of The Hague, documented the town hall and its renovation. Our thanks to Chavi Keeney Nana for translation of the Dutch.

11 The building's architect was Jans Keldermans, and the inscription □udite et □lteram Partem is dated from around □□□□. See Wim Denslagen, Gouda □□□–□□□ (Zwolle, Zeist Waanders Uitgevers: Rijksdienst Voor de Monumentenzorg, □□□□). The photograph of the arch above the entrance to the Town Hall (Staudius), Gouda, the Netherlands, is reproduced in figure □□□ with the permission of the Regional Archive, Middle Holland (Streekarchief Midden-Holland), inv. nr. □□□□, Gouda, The Netherlands. Our thanks to Chavi Keeney Nana, as well as to Cristel Stolk and Joke Radstaatand of the Regional Archive, for their help in identifying and obtaining permission to reprint the photograph.

12 Kelly at □□□–□□□.

13 Kelly at □□□.

14 Kelly at □□□.

15 Kelly at □□□. Greek texts warned that punishment without trial was □tyrannical, unjustified, and illegal□ Kelly at □□□.

16 Stuart Hampshire, Justice Is Conflict □–□□ (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, □□□□). Hampshire was insistent that □fairness in procedure is an invariable value, a constant in human nature□ id. at □, and that fairness's core was audi alteram partem. Id. at □.

17 See □e□ v□Wilson (□□□□) □□□ Eng. Rep. □□□; The □ueen v□□ ov□ernors of Darlin□ton School (□□□□) □ Q.B. □□□. See also S. A. de Smith, The □i□ht to a □earin□ in □n□lish □dministrative Law, □□ Harvard Law Review □□□, □□□–□□□ (□□□□).

18 de Smith at □□□.

19 See The □in□ v□□ □□ askin (□□□□) □□□ Eng. Rep. □□□□, □□□□. The ruling by Lord Chief Justice Lloyd Kenyon dealt with a request, through the writ of mandamus against a rector, to restore a person to the office of parish clerk. At issue was whether the person removed had been given an opportunity to answer the charges against him. Kelly cited the earlier decision of Boswel□ Case (K.B. □□□□) □□ Eng. Rep. □□□, □□□, as the first in English law to refer to audi alteram partem. Kelly at □□□.

20 The □in□ v□□ □□ askin at □□□□. The jurist further commented that he would □tremble at the consequences of giving way to this principle□ Id.

21 de Smith at □□□–□□□. See also John T. Noonan Jr., Bribes □□–□□ (New York, NY: Macmillan, □□□□).

22 U.S. Const., Amend. V. The Fifth Amendment also includes rights against government in the form of indictments by grand juries (rather than a prosecutor alone) for alleged felonies, plus prohibitions on being placed □twice . . . in jeopardy□ In addition, under the Fifth Amendment, no person's □private property□ can □be taken for public use, without just compensation□ Id.

23 U.S. Const., Amend. VI. See also David J. Bodenhamer, Fair Trial: Rights of the Accused in American History [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]); Richard D. Friedman, [illegible]plorin[illegible] the [illegible]uture of the Confrontation Clause in Li[illegible]ht of [illegible]s Past[illegible] rapplin[illegible] with the Meanin[illegible] of [illegible]Testimonial,[illegible] Brooklyn Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

24 See George P. Fletcher, Basic Concepts of Legal Thought [illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

25 One imperfect metric is the number of times the Supreme Court has used words and phrases over time. (Given that caseloads and decisions rendered vary a great deal, a reference count is only suggestive of the role that terms play in legal discourse.) A data search of all United States Supreme Court cases between [illegible] and [illegible] found the word [illegible]fair[illegible] or [illegible]fairness[illegible] relatively infrequently in Supreme Court opinions until the addition of the Fourteenth Amendment in [illegible], after which usage expanded. Some [illegible] opinions used [illegible]fair[illegible] or [illegible]fairness[illegible] during the first two-thirds of the nineteenth century; more than double that number invoked those words during the last third of the century. Thereafter, usage generally increased steadily each decade before taking a large jump in the [illegible]s. Between [illegible] and [illegible], the Supreme Court used those words in [illegible] cases, followed by a decline to [illegible] cases between [illegible] and [illegible]. Our thanks to Elliot Morrison for collecting and analyzing these data.

26 Ian Langford, [illegible]air Trial[illegible]The [illegible]istor[illegible] of an [illegible]dea, [illegible] Journal of Human Rights [illegible] ([illegible]). Through searching a range of sources, Langford concluded that the word [illegible]fair[illegible] moved from a reference to how one looked (fair as in [illegible]beautiful[illegible]) to, in the context of law, regularized, as in [illegible]free from blemish.[illegible] Id. at [illegible], [illegible].

27 Langford at [illegible]–[illegible]. Langford argued from this example that norms in human rights were neither universal nor atemporal but culturally embedded.

28 U.S. Const., Amend. XIV, [illegible].

29 Davidson v[illegible]New [illegible]rleans, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). As the complainant had had a [illegible]full and fair hearing[illegible] no violation of due process existed. Id. at [illegible]. The term [illegible]fair trial[illegible] or [illegible]fair[illegible] referring to a proceeding can be found in a few other cases of that era. See, for example, [illegible]ohl v[illegible] nited States, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (Field, J., dissenting) (for eminent domain, what is [illegible]required is that the proceeding shall be conducted in some fair and just mode . . . , opportunity being afforded to parties interested to present evidence as to the value of the property, and to be heard thereon[illegible]). Similarly, a well-known nineteenth-century case defined due process as [illegible]the application of the law as it exists in the fair and regular course of administrative procedure.[illegible] Slau[illegible]hter[illegible] ouse Cases, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). This decision is viewed as a turning point in limiting the ability to dismantle segregation through enforcement of the Privileges and Immunities clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. See Akhil R. Amar, The Bill of [illegible]ights and the [illegible]ourteenth [illegible]mendment, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Sanford Levinson, Some [illegible]e[illegible]ections on the [illegible]eha[illegible]ilitation of the Privi[illegible]le[illegible]es or [illegible]mmunities Clause of the [illegible]ourteenth [illegible]mendment, [illegible] Harvard Journal of Law [illegible] Public Policy [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Joseph Tussman [illegible] Jacobus tenBroek, The [illegible]ual Protection of the Laws, [illegible] California Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Cf. Kevin Christopher Newsom, Settin[illegible] [illegible]ncorporationism Strai[illegible]ht[illegible] [illegible]einterpretation of the Slau[illegible]hter[illegible] ouse Cases, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

30 See, for example, Dav[illegible] [illegible]ecutors v[illegible]aw, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) ([illegible]That judges . . . ought to be fair, and their proceedings regular, so as to give the parties an opportunity to be heard . . . are propositions not to be controverted[illegible]); Thirt[illegible] [illegible] o[illegible]shead of Su[illegible]ar v[illegible]Bo[illegible]le, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (declining to reexaimine the [illegible]justice or fairness of the rules established in the British Courts[illegible]).

31 When doing so in the early twentieth century, the court relied on a formulation that the [illegible]essential elements of due process of law[illegible] were [illegible]notice and opportunity to defend.[illegible] Simon v[illegible]Craft, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Louisville [illegible] N[illegible]Co[illegible]v[illegible]Schmidt, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Within a few decades thereafter, the Supreme Court settled on the description that the [illegible]fundamental requisite of due process of law is the opportunity to be heard[illegible] See, for example, [illegible]rannis v[illegible] [illegible]rdean, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Mullane v[illegible]Central [illegible]anover Bank [illegible] Trust Co., [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); [illegible]old[illegible]er[illegible] v[illegible]ell[illegible], [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Dusen[illegible]er[illegible] v[illegible] nited States, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

32 Caritativo v[illegible]California, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]).

33 Caritativo, [illegible] U.S. at [illegible] (Frankfurter, J., dissenting). The majority opinion was per curiam; the dissent was joined by Justices Douglas and Brennan; Justice Harlan filed a separate concurrence. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

34 See Charles Reich, The New Propert[illegible], [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]). In the landmark decision of [illegible]old[illegible]er[illegible] v[illegible]ell[illegible], [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]), the United States Supreme Court applied these due process obligations to administrative agencies determining whether to terminate welfare recipients' benefits. Requiring due process did not, however, require that all such hearings be held prior to a deprivation or the provision of in-person oral proceedings rather than paper exchanges.

35 As discussed earlier, the court's use of [illegible]fair[illegible] and [illegible]fairness[illegible] increased dramatically after the Civil War and became more frequent during the twentieth century. Based on a search of Supreme Court cases through [illegible], we found that the phrase [illegible]opportunity to be heard[illegible] also gained currency after the Civil War and the Fourteenth Amendment, with [illegible] of the [illegible] opinions using the phrase issued from [illegible], when the Amendment was proposed. In contrast, the court did not turn to the phrase [illegible]fundamental fairness[illegible] until the [illegible]s, when concluding that the [illegible]denial of due process[illegible] in a criminal trial was a [illegible]failure to observe that fundamental fairness essential to the very concept of justice.[illegible] Lisen[illegible]a v[illegible] California, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). After the [illegible]s, [illegible]fundamental fairness[illegible] was a more frequent referent, with [illegible] of [illegible] opinions invoking the phrase issued since [illegible].

Tracking the number of uses does not capture the changing understanding of the content of [illegible]fairness[illegible] By the [illegible]s, the Supreme Court had retreated from its [illegible]old[illegible]er[illegible] approach through limiting constructions of what the constitutional words [illegible]property[illegible] and [illegible]liberty[illegible] meant, thereby reducing the occasions on which process was due. Further, even when entitlements to due process attached, the court determined that more minimal kinds of decisionmaking procedures sufficed. See Mathews v[illegible]ldrid[illegible]e, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]); see also Judith Resnik, The Stor[illegible] of [illegible]old[illegible]er[illegible]Wh[illegible] This Case [illegible]s [illegible] ur Shorthand, in Civil Procedure Stories [illegible] (Kevin M. Clermont, ed., New York, NY: Foundation Press, [illegible]d ed., [illegible]).

36 See Larry M. Bartels, Unequal Democracy: The Political Economy of the New Gilded Age [illegible]–[illegible] (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]). Moreover, in courts, a melange of due process and equal protection guarantees have generated federal rights to state assistance for those too poor, for example, to pay the filing fee necessary to seek a divorce or to pay for a transcript requisite for an appeal challenging the termination of parental rights. See Boddie v[illegible]Con[illegible]necticut, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]); M[illegible]L[illegible]B[illegible]v[illegible]S[illegible]L[illegible]J., [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]).

37 Bartels at [illegible]–[illegible].

38 The ten interior murals, by Albert Henry Krehbiel, a Chicago artist, evoke classical Virtues with titles such as Wisdom of the Law[illegible] Learnin[illegible] and [illegible]perience and Power of the Law[illegible] Prudence and [illegible]orti[illegible]tude. See Carolyn Taitt, Mural Paintin[illegible]s of the [illegible]llinois Supreme Court, [illegible] Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); Albert H. Krehbiel, American Impressionist Painter and Muralist, http://www.krehbielart.com. In [illegible], extensive renovations were planned. See Meagan Sexton, [illegible]ear[illegible]old Supreme Court Build[illegible] in[illegible] Due for Makeover, State Journal–Register (Springfield, IL), May [illegible], [illegible], http://www.sj-r.com/time[illegible]out/x[illegible]/[illegible]-year-old-Supreme-Court-building-due-for-makeover. Figure [illegible] was provided by and is reproduced with the permission of the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts (AO–Ill.) and the Krehbiel Corporation.

Our thanks to Maria Meis, Senior Attorney of the AO–Ill., and to Courtney E. Krehbiel, President of that corporation.

39 See Lizabeth Wilson, Allegories of Justice: The Albert Arkhipov Murals in the Supreme Court Building of Illinois, 100, Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society 1 (2000).

40 See, for example, People ex rel. Burris v. Ryan, 147 Ill. 2d 173, 188 (1992) (Bilandic, C. J., dissenting); People v. White, 117 Ill. 2d 203, 229 (1987) (Simon, J., concurring). See also Ed Nash, Walter Shaefer: Retiring Justice of Illinois Supreme Court, 8 Illinois Issues, Jan. 1982, at 8, http://www.lib.niu.edu/1982/ii820108.html. Other state courts also quote the Latin maxim. See, for example, Commonwealth v. Rodriguez, 378 Mass. 296, 299 (1979) (Nolan, J., dissenting); Holden v. County of Union, 160 N.J. 352, 368 (2000) (O'Hern, J., dissenting).

41 See generally Stuart Hampshire, Innocence and Experience 100–102 (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, 2000). In contrast, David Luban argued that substantive justice required the principle of hearing both sides and, moreover, that adversarial procedures do not always suffice to fulfill that mandate. David Luban, Lawfare and Legal Ethics at Guantanamo, 61 Stanford Law Review 1957, 1957–1962 (2009). See also Amalia Kessler, Our Inquisitorial Tradition: Equity Procedure, Due Process, and the Search for an Alternative to the Adversarial, 104 Cornell Law Review 1181, 1181–1233 (2019) (hereinafter Kessler, Our Inquisitorial Tradition). Further, as the discussion of that precept's use in systems that mix adversarial and inquisitorial modes suggests, the distinctions between the forms and justifications of adversarial and inquisitorial systems can be overstated. See David Alan Sklansky, Anti-Inquisitorialism, 122 Harvard Law Review 1634 (2009).

42 Nuclear Tests (Australia v. France), 1974 I.C.J. 253, 259 (Dec. 20).

43 See, for example, Case of Ivcher-Bronstein v. Peru, 1999 Inter-Am. Ct.H.R. (ser. C) No. 54 para. 69 (Feb. 6, 2001); Case of Caesar v. Trinidad and Tobago, 1999 Inter-Am. Ct.H.R. (ser. C) No. 123 para. 148 (Mar. 11, 2005); Case of Ivcher Neptune v. Haiti, 1999 Inter-Am. Ct.H.R. (ser. C) No. 123 para. 148 (May 8, 2008).

44 Case T-1253/97, France Aviation v. Commission, 1999 E.C.R. II-2123, II-2133, para. 42. These arguments succeeded. Id. at paras. 43, 44, 46.

45 See, for example, TW v. Malta, App. No. 25644/94, 29 Eur. H.R. Rep. 181, paras. 48, 49 (1999); see also Micallef v. Malta, App. No. 17056/06, 2009 Eur. Ct. H.R. 62, para. 75 (2009). The ECtHR has noted that obligations to hear both sides are facets of domestic regimes protecting the personal rights of citizens. See, for example, Doran v. Ireland, 2003 Eur. Ct. H.R. 1883. As in the United States, the ECtHR has also imposed principles limiting when rights to fair hearings under Article 6 are implicated. See Le Compte, Van Leuven & De Meyere v. Belgium, App. Nos. 6878/75 and 7238/75, 4 Eur. H.R. Rep. 1 (1981); Case of Jussila v. Finland, 39 Eur. Ct. H.R. 39 (2006). Jussila v. Finland involved sanctions for alleged errors in calculating "value added tax" declarations. The court concluded that, while not classified as criminal, the proceedings were to be understood under that rubric; yet an oral public hearing was not required as issues of "differing weight" fell within the category of "criminal" proceedings. Id. at para. 38. The three dissenters objected, arguing that the ruling was the court's first to conclude that "an oral hearing may not be required in a criminal case." Id. (partial dissent of Judge Loucaides, joined by Judges Zupančič and Spielmann).

46 This translation of "modus" is taken from Natalie Zemon Davis, The Gift in Sixteenth-Century France 100 (Madison, WI: U. of Wisconsin Press, 2000). As we discussed in Chapter 3, in Davis's view limiting gift-giving to judges enabled the monarchy to centralize control by making judges dependent for support on the Crown. Id. at 100–102.

47 The Declaration of Independence, para. 10.

48 Act of Settlement, 1700, 12 & 13 Will. 3, c. 2 (Eng.) (providing that "judges' commissions be made quam diu se bene gesserint [as long as he shall behave himself well], and their salaries ascertained and established; but upon the address of both Houses of Parliament it may be lawful to remove them").

49 Mass. Const. of 1780, Part The First, Art. XXIX, reprinted in Franklin B. Hough, I American Constitutions: Comprising the Constitution of Each State in the Union, and of the United States 100, 103 (Albany, NY: Weed, Parsons & Company, 1855) (hereinafter I Hough; vol. 2 is denoted II Hough). John Adams was the primary drafter. Id. at 103. New Hampshire used similar terms, calling for "impartial" judges. N.H. Const. of 1784, Part 2, Art. XXXV, reprinted in Susan E. Marshall, The New Hampshire State Constitution 100, 103 (Westport, CT: Praeger, 1984).

50 Mass. Const. of 1780, Part The First, Art. XXIX.

51 Charles de Secondat, Baron de Montesquieu, The Spirit of Laws (Thomas Nugent, trans., New York, NY: Colonial Press, 1900; originally published 1748). Montesquieu warned, "Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and oppression." Id. at 100.

52 N.C. Const. of 1776, Art. iv. Transcriptions of many eighteenth-century state constitutions can be found at the Yale Law School's Avalon Project website, http://avalon.law.yale.edu/.

53 Ga. Const. of 1777, Art. I ("The legislative, executive, and judiciary departments shall be separate and distinct, so that neither exercise the powers properly belonging to the other").

54 Md. Const. of 1776, The Declaration of Rights, Art. 8, http://www.msa.md.gov/msa/speccol/sc2300/sc2305/2300001/2300001/pdf/d2300001all.pdf ("That the legislative, executive, and judicial powers of government, ought to be for ever separate and distinct from each other.").

55 Mass. Const. of 1780, Part The First, Art. XXX ("In the government of this Commonwealth, the legislative department shall never exercise the executive and judicial powers, or either of them; the executive shall never exercise the legislative and judicial powers, or either of them; the judicial shall never exercise the legislative and executive powers, or either of them; to the end it may be a government of laws, and not of men.").

56 N.H. Const. of 1784, Part I, Art. XXXVII ("In the government of this state, the three essential powers thereof, to wit, the Legislative, Executive and Judicial, ought to be kept as separate from and independent of each other, as the nature of a free government will admit, or as is consistent with that chain of connection that binds the whole fabric of the constitution in one indissoluble bond of union and amity.").

57 Va. Const. of 1776, Bill of Rights, 3, 5, http://center.montpelier.org/documents/1776VAconstitution ("That the legislative and executive powers of the State should be separate and distinct from the judiciary"); Va. Const. of 1776, The Constitution or Form of Government ("The legislative, executive, and judiciary department, shall be separate and distinct, so that neither exercise the powers properly belonging to the other . . . "). Other early constitutions created distinct branches of government but did not use these specific phrases. See, for example, N.Y. Const. of 1777, paras. II, XVII; N.J. Const. of 1776, paras. VIII, XX; Pa. Const. of 1776, Plan or Frame of Government for the Commonwealth or State of Pennsylvania, 10 1–5; S.C. Const. of 1778, paras. II, XI; Vt. Const. of 1777, ch. II, 10 II–IV.

58 The limited powers of the judiciary are often trumpeted as desirable. See, for example, The Federalist No. 78 (Alexander Hamilton) (arguing that the proposed federal judiciary would have neither "FORCE nor WILL, but merely judgment; and must ultimately depend upon the aid of the executive arm even for the efficacy of its judgments").

59 U.S. Const., Art. ⊠, ⊠⊠, cl. ⊠.

60 Universal Declaration of Human Rights, G.A. Res. ⊠⊠⊠A(III), Art. ⊠⊠, U.N. GAOR, ⊠d Sess., ⊠st plen. mtg., U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠⊠ (Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

61 Council of Europe, Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Art. ⊠(⊠), Nov. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter European Convention). Article ⊠ also provides: ⊠Everyone shall have the right to be tried by ordinary courts or tribunals using established legal procedures. Tribunals that do not use the duly established procedures of the legal process shall not be created to displace the jurisdiction belonging to the ordinary courts or judicial tribunals⊠ Id., Art. ⊠.

62 U.N. Basic Principles on the Independence of the Judiciary, G.A. Res. ⊠⊠⊠, U.N. GAOR, ⊠⊠th Sess., Supp. No. ⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/RES/⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www⊠.ohchr.org/english/law/indjudiciary.htm. The caveat included is that ⊠⊠⊠his principle is without prejudice to judicial review or to mitigation or commutation by competent authorities of sentences imposed by the judiciary, in accordance with the law⊠ Id.

63 See Vicki C. Jackson, Packa⊠es of Judicial ⊠ndependence⊠ The Selection and Tenure of ⊠rticle ⊠⊠⊠Jud⊠es, ⊠⊠ Georgetown Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Judith Resnik, ⊠nterdependent ⊠ederal Judiciaries⊠ Pu⊠⊠lin⊠a⊠out Wh⊠ ⊠ ow to ⊠alue the ⊠ndependence of Which Jud⊠es, ⊠⊠⊠ Daedalus ⊠⊠ (Fall ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

64 See generally Hampshire, Justice Is Conflict; Eric Bennett Rasmusen ⊠ J. Mark Ramseyer, When ⊠re Jud⊠es and Bureaucrats Left ⊠ndependent⊠ Theor⊠ and ⊠ istor⊠ from ⊠mperial Japan, Postwar Japan, and the ⊠ nited States (U. of Tokyo CIRJE Working Paper No. F-⊠⊠⊠, August ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://papers.ssrn.com/sol⊠/papers.cfm⊠abstract⊠id⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠; J. Mark Ramseyer, The Pu⊠⊠lin⊠ ⊠⊠n⊠dependence of Courts⊠⊠ Comparative ⊠pproach, ⊠⊠ Journal of Legal Studies ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Georget Tridimas, Jud⊠es and Ta⊠es⊠ Judicial ⊠eview, Judicial ⊠nde⊠pendence and the Si⊠e of ⊠ overnment, ⊠⊠ Constitutional Political Economy ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

65 See, for example, Jack M. Balkin ⊠ Sanford Levinson, ⊠nder⊠standin⊠the Constitutional ⊠evolution, ⊠⊠ Virginia Law Review ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Jack M. Balkin ⊠ Sanford Levinson, The Processes of Consti⊠tutional Chan⊠e⊠⊠rom Partisan ⊠ntrenchment to the National Surveil⊠lance State, ⊠⊠ Fordham Law Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

66 Charter or Fundamental Laws, of West New Jersey, Agreed Upon, ch. XXIII (⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://avalon.law.yale.edu/⊠⊠th⊠century/nj⊠⊠.asp. The authorship of the text is not clear. The document governed an area on the eastern seaboard that is now within the State of New Jersey. In Dutch possession in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, that land thereafter came under English control. In ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Charles II of England granted his brother, James, Duke of York (who later became James II, King of England), an extensive American territory encompassing the area; the Duke executed deeds of lease and release to Lord John Berkeley and Sir George Carteret. Edwin Platt Tanner, The Province of New Jersey, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, at ⊠–⊠ (New York, NY: Columbia U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); see The Duke of York's Release to John Lord Berkeley, and Sir George Carteret, ⊠⊠th of June, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://avalon.law.yale.edu/⊠⊠th⊠century/nj⊠⊠.asp.

In ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Lord Berkeley and Sir Carteret signed a document, made public under the title of ⊠The Concession and Agreement of the Lords Proprietors of the Province of New Caesarea, or New Jersey, to and With All and Every the Adventurers and All Such as Shall Settle or Plant There⊠ II Hough at ⊠⊠. The first governor, Philip Carteret (Sir George's cousin), was joined by a Council of between six and twelve chosen by him and an Assembly of twelve chosen ⊠annually by the freemen of the Province⊠ to rule until ⊠⊠⊠⊠. The document further specified that the ⊠Governor and Council were to exercise a general supervision over all courts, and the execution of the laws; to direct the manner of laying out the lands; and were not to impose, nor suffer to be imposed, any tax upon the people not authorized by the General Assembly⊠ II Hough at ⊠⊠.

During Carteret's tenure, the Dutch retook possession of the area briefly in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, when they regained neighboring New York. The province was split into East and West in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. II Hough at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Thereafter, the people of West New Jersey established their own plan of government. The Charter or Fundamental Laws, of West New Jersey, Agreed Upon, was prepared in England and published on March ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠. II Hough at ⊠⊠. The document may have originated with the Quaker settlers of West New Jersey, and some speculate that William Penn could have been an author. See Ronald A. Banaszak, Fair Trial Rights of the Accused: A Documentary History ⊠⊠ (Westport, CT: Greenwood Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Our thanks to Joseph Anderson, Jr., for bringing this document to our attention.

One other note is in order. In proclaiming that ⊠any person or persons, inhabitants of the said Province may freely come into, and attend the said courts⊠ the Charter may not, given racial and gender hiearchies of the time, have meant ⊠any person⊠ in the contemporary sense. On the other hand, provisions of the Fundamental Laws describing juries specify that they were composed of ⊠twelve honest men of the neighborhood⊠ (ch. XXII); see also chs. XVII, XVIII, XIX), but provisions relating to trial procedure more generally use generic pronouns, see ch. XXI (⊠That all and every person and persons whatsoever . . .⊠), ch. XXII, and even include language inclusive of women, see ch. XXI (⊠him or herself⊠). Furthermore, one hundred years after the Laws, the New Jersey Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ was notable for permitting women to vote; that opportunity existed until ⊠⊠⊠⊠, when the legislature ⊠reinterpreted⊠ the suffrage clause and limited suffrage to adult white male taxpaying citizens. See Judith Apter Klinghoffer ⊠ Lois Elkis, ⊠The Petticoat ⊠lectors⊠⊠Women⊠ Su⊠ra⊠e in New Jerse⊠ ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ Journal of the Early Republic ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

67 Tacitus, Dialo⊠us de ⊠ ratori⊠us ⊠⊠.⊠–⊠, in Bruce W. Frier, ⊠ind⊠in⊠a Place for Law in the ⊠ ⊠⊠h ⊠oman ⊠mpire, in Spaces of Justice in the Roman World (F. de Angelis, ed., Columbia Studies in the Classical Tradition, New York: Columbia U. Press, forthcoming ⊠⊠⊠⊠). See also Bruce W. Frier, The Rise of the Roman Jurists: Studies in Cicero's Pro Caecina (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); J. A. Crook, Legal Advocacy in the Roman World (Ithaca, NY: Cornell U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

68 As discussed in Chapters ⊠, ⊠, and ⊠, public dispute resolution was an early practice. See also Emanuele Conte, Public Law Before the State: Evidence from the Age of the Gloassators of the Roman Law, unpublished paper, Yale Legal History Workshop, Yale University, New Haven, CT, Feb. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

69 See generally John H. Langbein, Torture and the Law of Proof: Europe and England in the Ancien Régime (Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; ⊠d ed., ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

70 See Stefano Maffei, The European Right to Confrontation in Criminal Proceedings: Absent, Anonymous and Vulnerable Witnesses ⊠⊠ (Groningen, Neth.: Europa Law Publishers, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

71 ⊠All courts shall be open; and every man for an injury done him in his reputation, person, movable or immovable possessions, shall have remedy by the due course of law, and justice administered according to the very right of the cause and the law of the land, without sale, denial, or unreasonable delay or expense.⊠ Del. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠ ⊠, reprinted in Benjamin Perley Poore, I The Federal and State Constitutions: Colonial Charters, and Other Organic Laws of the United States ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter I Poore; vol. ⊠ is denoted II Poore). That was Delaware's second constitution. See also Ky. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. XII, reprinted in I Poore at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠all courts shall be open⊠); Vt. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ch. II, ⊠ XXIII (⊠All courts shall be open, and justice shall be impartially administered, without corruption or unnecessary delay; all their officers shall be paid an adequate, but moderate, compensation for their services; and if any officer shall take greater or other fees than the laws allow him, either directly or indirectly, it shall ever after disqualify him from holding any office in this State⊠). Our thanks to Adam Grogg for researching state constitutional provisions.

72 See, for example, Ala. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠, reprinted in I Poore at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . ⊠); Conn. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠, reprinted in I Poore at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . ⊠); Fla. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠⊠, reprinted in I Poore at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠all courts shall be open⊠); Ind. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠, reprinted in I Poore at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠all courts shall be open⊠); Kan. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠, reprinted in I Poore at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . ⊠); La. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. ⊠⊠⊠, reprinted in I Poore at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . ⊠); Miss. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠, reprinted in I Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . ⊠); Ne. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠⊠, reprinted in I Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . ⊠); N.C. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠, reprinted in II Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . ⊠); Oh. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠, reprinted in II Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . ⊠); Pa. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. IX, ⊠ ⊠⊠, reprinted in II Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠all courts shall be open⊠); Tenn. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠, reprinted in II Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠all courts shall be open⊠); Tex. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠, reprinted in II Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open . . .⊠). See generally II Hough at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

Other nineteenth-century state constitutions provided for public access with somewhat different wording. See, for example, Mo. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, para. ⊠⊠, reprinted in I Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠That courts of justice ought to be open to every person, and certain remedy afforded for every injury to person, property, or character . . ⊠); Or. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠, reprinted in II Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠No court shall be secret; but justice shall be administered openly and without purchase, completely and without delay . . .⊠); S.C. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠, reprinted in II Hough at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be public, and every person, for any injury that he may receive in his lands, goods, persons or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law and justice administered without unnecessary delay⊠).

73 See Ala. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠That all courts shall be open; and that every person, for any injury done him, in his lands, goods, person, or reputation, shall have a remedy by due process of law; and right and justice shall be administered without sale, denial, or delay⊠); Ariz. Const., Art. VI, ⊠ ⊠ (⊠The court shall be open at all times, except on nonjudicial days, for the transaction of business⊠); Conn. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every person, for an injury done to him in his person, property or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and right and justice administered without sale, denial or delay⊠); Del. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open; and every person for an injury done him or her in his or her reputation, person, movable or immovable possessions, shall have remedy by the due course of law, and justice administered according to the very right of the cause and the law of the land, without sale, denial, or unreasonable delay or expense⊠); Fla. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠The courts shall be open to every person for redress of any injury, and justice shall be administered without sale, denial or delay⊠); Ind. Const., Art. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open; and every person, for injury done to him in his person, property, or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law. Justice shall be administered freely, and without purchase, completely, and without denial; speedily, and without delay.⊠); Ky. Const., ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every person for an injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and right and justice administered without sale, denial or delay⊠); La. Const., Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every person shall have an adequate remedy by due process of law and justice, administered without denial, partiality, or unreasonable delay, for injury to him in his person, property, reputation, or other rights⊠); Miss. Const., Art. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open; and every person for an injury done him in his lands, goods, person, or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and right and justice shall be administered without sale, denial, or delay⊠); Ne. Const., Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every person, for any injury done him or her in his or her lands, goods, person, or reputation, shall have a remedy by due course of law and justice administered without denial or delay, except that the Legislature may provide for the enforcement of mediation, binding arbitration agreements, and other forms of dispute resolution which are entered into voluntarily and which are not revocable other than upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract⊠); N.C. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open; every person for an injury done him in his lands, goods, person, or reputation shall have remedy by due course of law; and right and justice shall be administered without favor, denial, or delay⊠); N.D. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every man for any injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation shall have remedy by due process of law, and right and justice administered without sale, denial or delay⊠); Oh. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every person, for an injury done him in his land, goods, person, or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and shall have justice administered without denial or delay⊠); Pa. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open; and every man for an injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation shall have remedy by due course of law, and right and justice administered without sale, denial or delay⊠); S.D. Const., Art. VI, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every man for an injury done him in his property, person or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and right and justice, administered without denial or delay⊠); Tenn. Const., Art. I, ⊠ ⊠⊠ (⊠That all courts shall be open; and every man, for an injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and right and justice administered without sale, denial, or delay⊠); Tex. Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every person for an injury done him, in his lands, goods, person or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law⊠); Utah Const., Art. I, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open, and every person, for an injury done to him in his person, property or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, which shall be administered without denial or unnecessary delay; and no person shall be barred from prosecuting or defending before any tribunal in this State, by himself or counsel, any civil cause to which he is a party.⊠); Wyo. Const., Art. ⊠, ⊠ ⊠ (⊠All courts shall be open and every person for an injury done to person, reputation or property shall have justice administered without sale, denial or delay. Suits may be brought against the state in such manner and in such courts as the legislature may by law direct⊠).

74 See Duncan v⊠Louisiana, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (⊠The constitutions adopted by the original States guaranteed jury trial. Also, the constitution of every State entering the Union thereafter in one form or another protected the right to jury trial in criminal cases⊠); see, for example, Conn. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. First, ⊠ ⊠, http://www.sots.ct.gov/sots/cwp/view.asp⊠a⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ q⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall have a right to be heard by himself and by counsel; to demand the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted by the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process to obtain witnesses in his favour; and in all prosecutions by indictment or information, a speedy public trial by an impartial jury⊠); Ga. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Art. LXI (⊠Freedom of the press and trial by jury to remain inviolate forever⊠); Mass. Const. of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Part the First, Art. XII (⊠And the legislature shall not make any law, that shall subject any person to a capital or infamous punishment, excepting for the government of the army and navy, without trial by jury"); N.C. Const. of [illegible], A Declaration of Rights, Art. IX ("That no freeman shall be convicted of any crime, but by the unanimous verdict of a jury of good and lawful men, in open court, as heretofore used").

75 U.S. Const., Art. III, [illegible], cl. [illegible].

76 "The Trial of all Crimes, except in Cases of Impeachment, shall be by Jury . . . " U.S. Const., Art. III, [illegible], cl. [illegible].

77 U.S. Const., Amend. VI. The Sixth Amendment provides: "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defence." Id. See generally Susan N. Herman, The Right to a Speedy and Public Trial: A Reference Guide to the United States Constitution (Westport, CT: Praeger, [illegible]). The phrase "speedy public trial, by an impartial jury" can also be found in the Pennsylvania Constitution of [illegible], A Declaration of the Rights of the Inhabitants of the Commonwealth or State of Pennsylvania, Art. IX.

Criticism of the theoretical framing of the public trial as a "right" and arguments that it both imposes burdens and has no necessary effect on fairness can be found in Joseph Jaconelli, "Rights Theories and Public Trial," [illegible] Journal of Applied Philosophy [illegible] ([illegible]). Celebration of the "publicness" of law and its proceedings comes from Benedict Kingsbury, "International Law as Inter-Public Law," in Moral Universalism and Pluralism, [illegible] NOMOS [illegible] (Henry S. Richardson & Melissa S. Williams, eds., New York, NY: New York U. Press, [illegible]).

78 U.S. Const., Amend. VII.

79 See, for example, Press-Enterprise Company v. Superior Court, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]); Press-Enterprise Company v. Superior Court, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]); NBC Subsidiary (WNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court, [illegible] Cal. 4th [illegible] ([illegible]); "Hartford Courant Company v. Pellegrino," [illegible] F.3d [illegible], [illegible] (2d Cir. [illegible]). The court in Pellegrino concluded that "docket sheets enjoy a presumption of openness and that the public and the media possess a qualified First Amendment right to inspect them" and explained the utility of such an approach. Id. See generally "Richmond Newspapers, Inc. v. Virginia," [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]); Judith Resnik, "Due Process: A Public Dimension," [illegible] University of Florida Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

80 English law had limited public access to what were termed "statements of case" unless a judge granted permission. See Neil Andrews, English Civil Procedure: Fundamentals of the New Civil Justice System [illegible]–[illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]). The public could obtain access to witness statements. See Adrian A. S. Zuckerman, Civil Procedure [illegible]–[illegible] (London, Eng.: LexisNexis, [illegible]). In October [illegible] the Department for Constitutional Affairs (DCA) imposed other restrictions, prompting objections from many, including media representatives. See Joanne Harris, "'Open Justice' Wins as DCA Rewrites Claim Access Rules," Lawyer, Oct. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. Thereafter, the rules were amended (effective October [illegible]) to make court documents more accessible. Restrictions remained, with public access conditioned on court permission, for example, to obtain documents attached to pleadings. Further, persons identified in statements of case could apply to "restrict the persons or classes of persons who may obtain a copy of the statement of case." Civil Procedure Rules (U.K.), Rule [illegible].illegible([illegible]), http://www.justice.gov.uk/civil/procrules_fin/contents/parts/part[illegible].htm?IDA=GAFC.

Other jurisdictions also have variations. While documents filed in court carry a strong presumption of accessibility, even if related to settlements, the ECtHR requires: "All documents deposited with the Registry" in relationship to applications (except if related to "friendly-settlement negotiations") "shall be accessible to the public" absent a decision to the contrary by a judge for reasons such as the "interests of morals, public order or national security in a democratic society." European Court of Human Rights, Rules of Court, Rule [illegible] (Dec. [illegible]) (hereinafter ECtHR Rules). These rules are available on the court's website.

81 Kessler, "Our Inquisitorial Tradition" at [illegible].

82 Kessler, "Our Inquisitorial Tradition" at [illegible].

83 Kessler, "Our Inquisitorial Tradition" at [illegible]–[illegible]. Sometimes "masters" took evidence. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]; [illegible]–[illegible]. By [illegible], the Federal Equity Rules codified the authority to take oral evidence before the parties. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. By [illegible], the courts, sitting in equity, were authorized to take evidence "in open court." Id. at [illegible] (citing Equity Rule [illegible], as amended). See also Rule [illegible] of the Federal Rules of Equity of [illegible], id. at [illegible].

84 U.S. Const., Art. I, [illegible], cl. [illegible].

85 See, for example, Vt. Const. of [illegible], ch. II, § XII ("The doors of the house in which the representatives of the Greene of this State, shall sit, in General Assembly, shall be and remain open for the admission of all persons, who behave decently, except only, when the welfare of this State may require the doors to be shut"); see also N.Y. Const. of [illegible], Art. XV ("That the doors, both of the senate and assembly, shall at all times be kept open to all persons, except when the welfare of the State shall require their debates to be kept secret. And the journals of all their proceedings shall be kept in the manner heretofore accustomed by the general assembly of the colony of New York; and except such parts as they shall, as aforesaid, respectively determine not to make public be from day to day (if the business of the legislature will permit) published.").

86 U.S. Const., Art. I, [illegible], cl. [illegible]. Enforcement, however, is a problem in that under current law it is not clear who can bring lawsuits to compel such disclosures. See "United States v. Richardson," [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]) (holding that a taxpayer lacked standing to challenge the CIA's secret budget as unconstitutional under Article I, [illegible], cl. [illegible]).

87 U.S. Const., Art. IV, [illegible].

88 U.S. Const., Amend. I.

89 See Conseil Constitutionnel: A Historic Setting (undated monograph provided by the Conseil). Our thanks to Olivier Dutheillet de Lamothe for giving us an understanding of the Conseil Constitutionnel's processes.

90 See European Court of Human Rights, www.echr.coe.int (under "Visitors"), and the discussion in Chapter [illegible].

91 See Spanish Supreme Court, "Jornadas de Puertas Abiertas" (Open-Door Days), www.poderjudicial.es.

92 See John M. Ackerman & Irma E. Sandoval-Bellesteros, "The Local Explosion of Freedom of Information Laws," [illegible] Administrative Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

93 European Convention, Art. [illegible]. The case law of the ECtHR has found that the right to a hearing generally entails rights to oral hearings if individuals' "civil rights and obligations" are at issue. See "Ninn v. Germany," App. No. [illegible]/[illegible], [illegible] Eur. H.R. Rep. [illegible] (ser. A) paras. [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). A large body of law parses questions of when these rights are engaged and what forms of hearings suffice. See, for example, "Riepan v. Austria," App. No. [illegible]/[illegible], [illegible]-XII Eur. Ct. H.R., paras. [illegible]–[illegible]; "[illegible] v. Turkey," App. No. [illegible]/[illegible], [illegible] Eur. Ct. H.R. [illegible], para. [illegible].

94 Maffei at [illegible]. Article [illegible] provides that anyone charged with a criminal offense has the right "to examine or have examined witnesses against him and to obtain the attendance and examination of witnesses on his behalf under the same conditions as witnesses against him." European Convention, Art. illegible(d). As Maffei pointed out, the focus is on "examination" rather than "confrontation" and to protect civil law traditions, such examination may be undertaken by the court. Maffei at [illegible]. With respect to proceedings in the European Court of Justice, rights to public hearings are enforceable through protections in the ECHR and Member States' constitutions. As noted in Chapter [illegible], two kinds of access are relevant. Our focus here is on public access to proceedings as distinct from access to courts by individuals seeking redress for injuries. The second form is protected in various of the state constitutions discussed earlier as well as in many other treaties and conventions. For example, the European Community Treaty established a [illegible]system of legal remedies and procedures[illegible] See Case [illegible], Parti [illegible]colo[illegible]iste [illegible]Les [illegible]erts[illegible]v. [illegible]uropean Parliament, [illegible] E.C.R. [illegible], para. [illegible].

95 Protocol (No. [illegible]) on the Statute of the Court of Justice of the European Union, Art. [illegible], http://curia.europa.eu/jcms/jcms/Jo[illegible]/enstatut-de-la-cour.

96 International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, G.A. Res. [illegible]A (XXI), Art. [illegible], U.N. Doc. A/[illegible] (Mar. [illegible], [illegible]).

97 For example, the European Convention provides that [illegible]the press and public may be excluded from all or parts of the trial in the interests of morals, public order or national security in a democratic society, where the interests of juveniles or the protection of the private life of the parties so require, or to the extent strictly necessary in the opinion of the court in special circumstances where publicity would prejudice the interests of justice[illegible] European Convention, Art. illegible.

98 See Pierre Bourdieu [illegible] Loïc J. D. Wacquant, An Invitation to Reflexive Sociology [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Chicago, IL: U. of Chicago Press, [illegible]); Pierre Bourdieu, Participant [illegible] [illegible]ctivation, [illegible] Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute [illegible] ([illegible]); Pierre Bourdieu, The [illegible]orce of Law[illegible]Toward a Sociolo[illegible] of the Juridical [illegible]ield, [illegible] Hastings Law Journal [illegible], [illegible] (Richard Terdiman, trans., [illegible]).

99 See generally Peter W. Martin, [illegible] nline [illegible]ccess to Court [illegible]ecords[illegible] [illegible]rom Documents to Data, Particulars to Patterns, [illegible] Villanova Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]). The availability of information in different forms did not necessarily produce more transparency. See Lynn M. LoPucki, Court[illegible]stem Transparenc[illegible], [illegible] Iowa Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

100 See, for example, International Court of Justice, Rules of Court, Art. illegible, http://www.icj-cij.org/documents/index.php[illegible]p[illegible] [illegible] p[illegible] p[illegible] (specifying that ICJ judgments [illegible]shall be read at a public sitting of the Court and shall become binding on the parties on the day of the reading[illegible]); Statute of the Inter-American Court on Human Rights, Art. illegible, OEA/Ser.L/V.III.[illegible] doc. [illegible] corr. [illegible] at [illegible] ([illegible]), reprinted in Basic Documents Pertaining to Human Rights in the Inter-American System, OEA/Ser.L.V. II.[illegible] doc. [illegible] rev. [illegible] at [illegible] ([illegible]) (providing that the [illegible]decisions, judgments and opinions of the Court shall be delivered in public session, and the parties shall be given written notification thereof[illegible] and that all decisions must be published [illegible]along with judges' individual votes and opinions and with such other data . . . that the Court may deem appropriate[illegible]); International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY), Rules of Procedure and Evidence, Rule [illegible] ter (A), U.N. Doc. No. IT/[illegible]/Rev. [illegible] (Nov. [illegible], [illegible]), http://www.icty.org/x/file/Legal[illegible]Library/Rules[illegible]procedure[illegible]evidence/IT[illegible]Rev[illegible]en.pdf (hereinafter ICTY rules) (requiring that the [illegible]judgement shall be pronounced in public, on a date of which notice shall have been given to the parties and counsel and at which they shall be entitled to be present . . .[illegible]). A few courts make the reading of judgments optional. See, for example, ECtHR Rules, Rule illegible. Our thanks to Kate Desormeau, Emily Teplin, and Laurie Ball for research on public proceedings in various venues, including transnational courts.

101 International Criminal Court, Rules of Procedure and Evidence, Rule illegible, ICC-ASP/[illegible]/[illegible], Sept. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible].

102 That form has become commonplace in courts with the resources for such databases. See, for example, International Court of Justice, List of All Cases, http://www.icj-cij.org/docket/index.php[illegible]p[illegible] [illegible] p[illegible]; European Court of Human Rights, Case-Law, http://www.echr.coe.int/ECHR/EN/Header/Case-Law/HUDOC/HUDOC[illegible] database.

103 Details and concerns about the impact of such technologies can be found in Linda Mulcahy, The [illegible]n[illegible]earan[illegible]le Li[illegible]htness of Bein[illegible] Shifts Towards the [illegible]irtual Trial, [illegible] Journal of Law [illegible] Society [illegible] ([illegible]).

104 In Canada, Supreme Court[illegible] but not lower court[illegible] proceedings are televised. As to the method, most [illegible]courtroom proceedings are webcast live and are later televised by the Canadian Parliamentary Affairs Channel (CPAC)[illegible] See Supreme Court of Canada, Frequently Asked Questions, http://www.scc-csc.gc.ca/faq/faq/index-eng.asp[illegible]f[illegible]. The question of a media [illegible]right[illegible] to electronic access is explored in A. Wayne MacKay, [illegible]ramin[illegible] the [illegible]ssues for Cameras in the Courtrooms[illegible] [illegible]edefinin[illegible] Judicial D[illegible]nit[illegible] and Decorum*, [illegible] Dalhousie Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

105 Transmission is provided via a web link, enabling the public, including people in the former territories, to see the proceedings; the languages offered were French, English, and Serbo-Croatian. When witnesses or proceedings raise security problems, the screened images and witnesses' voices may be scrambled. See ICTY Rules, Rule illegible(i)(c) ([illegible]Measures for the Protection of Victims and Witnesses[illegible]). Further, when needed for reasons of [illegible]public morality,[illegible] [illegible]safety, security, or non-disclosure of the identity of a victim or witness . . . ,[illegible] or [illegible]the protection of the interests of justice[illegible] the Trial Chamber may go into closed sessions and exclude the press from proceedings, but only if it [illegible]make[illegible]s[illegible] public the reasons for its order[illegible] Id. at Rule [illegible] ([illegible]Closed Sessions[illegible]).

106 In [illegible], thirty-six U.S. states had permanent rules approving cameras (still and video) in trial and appellate courts. See National Center for State Courts, Cameras in the Courts: Summary of State Court Rules ([illegible]), http://www.ncsconline.org/WC/Publications/KIS[illegible]CameraPub.pdf. By [illegible], that number had grown to forty-two. See [illegible] ollin[illegible]sworth v. [illegible]Perr[illegible], No. [illegible]A[illegible], [illegible] S. Ct. [illegible], [illegible] (Jan. [illegible], [illegible]) (Breyer, J., dissenting).

107 See Robert L. Brown, Just a Matter of Time[illegible] [illegible]ideo Cameras at the [illegible]nited States Supreme Court and the State Supreme Courts, [illegible] Journal of Appellate Practice [illegible] Process [illegible] ([illegible]). In [illegible] the Ninth Circuit authorized the use of cameras in certain cases, at the discretion of the district court. A district judge relied on that provision to permit the televising to other federal courthouses of a trial addressing the legality of an amendment to California's constitution outlawing same-sex marriage. In a [illegible]–[illegible] decision, however, the United States Supreme Court intervened to prohibit that transmission. See [illegible] ollin[illegible]sworth v. [illegible]Perr[illegible], [illegible] S. Ct. [illegible] ([illegible]) (granting a stay of the order providing for the limited broadcast).

108 Rules of Procedure of the Court of Justice of the European Communities of [illegible] June [illegible], Art. [illegible], http://curia.europa.eu/jcms/jcms/Jo[illegible]/enreglement-de-procedure-de-la-cour-de-justice.

109 See, for example, R. Malcolm Smuts, Pu[illegible]lic Ceremon[illegible] and [illegible]o[illegible]al Charisma[illegible] The [illegible]n[illegible]lish [illegible]o[illegible]al [illegible]ntr[illegible] in London, [illegible], in The First Modern Society: Essays in English History in Honour of Lawrence Stone [illegible]–[illegible] (A. L. Beier, David Cannadine, [illegible] James M. Rosenheim, eds., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter The First Modern Society).

110 See Michel Foucault, Discipline and Punish: The Birth of the Prison [illegible]–[illegible] (Alan Sheridan, trans., New York, NY: Vintage Books, [illegible], [illegible]nd ed.; [illegible], [illegible]st ed.).

111 Katharine Fremantle, The [illegible]pen [illegible]ierschaar of [illegible]msterdam[illegible] Seventeenth Centur[illegible] Town [illegible]all as a Settin[illegible] for the Cit[illegible] Justice, [illegible] Oud Holland [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

112 Thomas W. Laqueur, Crowds, Carnival and the State in [illegible]n[illegible]lish [illegible]ecutions, [illegible], in The First Modern Society, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]

(hereinafter Laqueur, for the article). Laqueur examined graphic prints displaying the carnival-like atmosphere, suggesting that ⊠from the audience's perspective, executions were a species of festive comedy or light entertainment⊠ with a theatricality that came to be parodied. Id. at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. See also Samuel Y. Edgerton Jr., Pictures and Punishment: Art and Criminal Prosecution during the Florentine Renaissance (Ithaca, NY: Cornell U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

113 Mikhail Bakhtin, Rabelais and His World ⊠⊠ (Helene Iswolsky, trans., Bloomington, IN: Indiana U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

114 Laqueur at ⊠⊠⊠. Public executions stopped in England in the late ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, and by ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the United Kingdom had effectively abolished capital punishment. See Murder (Abolition of Death Penalty) Act ⊠⊠⊠⊠, c.⊠⊠ (Eng.). Yet, as Foucault pointed out, the authority had already shifted its sites of operation. Governments cut off access by incarcerating individuals in prisons removed from the public eye. Foucault, Discipline and Punish at ⊠–⊠.

115 C. W. Brooks, ⊠nterpersonal Con⊠ict and Social Tension⊠Civil Lit⊠ation in ⊠n⊠land, ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, in The First Modern Society. Brooks also noted that eighteenth-century rates of civil litigation were lower than in some prior eras. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. English history also included a brief period, in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s, when both litigants and spectators had to pay fees to enter the galleries of the Old Bailey, London's criminal court. See John Brewer, The Wilkites and the Law, ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ Stud⊠ of ⊠adical Notions of ⊠overnance, in An Ungovernable People: The English and Their Law in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (John Brewer ⊠ John Styles, eds., New Brunswick, NJ: Rutgers U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Simon Devereaux, The Cit⊠ and the Sessions Paper⊠⊠Pu⊠lic Justice⊠ in London, ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ Journal of British Studies ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Another form of limiting access came from declining to include all materials submitted in the records kept. See Devereaux at ⊠⊠⊠.

116 By way of illustration, between ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠the number of lawyers (⊠barristers') qualified before the central courts increased fourfold⊠ Holmes, in Legislation and Justice at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠.

117 See Jonathan Crary, Techniques of the Observer: On Vision and Modernity in the Nineteenth Century ⊠–⊠⊠ (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Cultural theorists have also examined the role of public spectatorship of kingship as rulers hoped to obtain devotional communal commitments through rituals. See Smuts at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

118 See Jeremy Bentham, Rationale of Judicial Evidence (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Bentham, Rationale), in ⊠ The Works of Jeremy Bentham ⊠⊠⊠ (John Bowring, ed., Edinburgh, Scot.: William Tait, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Bowring/Works) (⊠Of Publicity and Privacy, as Applied to Judicature in General, and to the Collection of the Evidence in Particular⊠). William Twining, a scholar at University College London who worked on Bentham, noted that Bentham devoted more than ⊠,⊠⊠⊠ manuscript pages to the ⊠rationale and that the discussion of publicity was likely written around ⊠⊠⊠⊠. William Twining, Theories of Evidence: Bentham and Wigmore ⊠⊠ (London, Eng.: Weidenfeld ⊠ Nicolson, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Many of our references to ⊠Bentham⊠ come from a few of the volumes of The Works of Jerem⊠ Bentham, published in the nineteenth century by John Bowring, who served as Bentham's literary executor and who put several volumes into print after Bentham's death in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. For facsimiles of the Works, http://oll.libertyfund.org/index.php⊠option⊠com⊠staticxt⊠staticfile⊠show.php⊠title⊠⊠⊠⊠. Special thanks are due to Philip Schofield, Director of the Bentham Project at University College London (UCL), Faculty of Laws, for guidance in identifying the relevant texts and, with the assistance of Kate Barber, providing a database of searchable transcriptions of Bentham's files relating to his Scotch ⊠eform (⊠⊠⊠⊠), later assembled by Anthony Draper (hereinafter Draper/Scotch Reform manuscript database). New editions of Bentham's work are underway to take into account ⊠the collection of ⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ manuscript folios deposited in the UCL Library⊠See UCL Faculty of Laws, The Bentham Project, The Greatest Happiness of the Greatest Number, http://www.ucl.ac.uk/Bentham-Project/site⊠images/Leaflets/Publicity.pdf. As of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, twenty-six new volumes of the Collected Works of Jerem⊠ Bentham were in print, and ⊠forty or so more⊠ were needed ⊠to finish the job.⊠ Philip Schofield, Utility and Democracy: The Political Thought of Jeremy Bentham vi (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Because variations exist between original manuscripts and what has been published, the study of Bentham is ⊠necessarily more provisional than that of many other past thinkers⊠ See Schofield, Utility and Democracy at vi. Draper described the ⊠published work⊠ as bearing ⊠few similarities to the surviving manuscript⊠ See Anthony J. Draper, ⊠Corruptions in the ⊠dministration of Justice⊠⊠ Bentham⊠ Criti⊠ue of Civil Procedure, ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ Journal of Bentham Studies (⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.ucl.ac.uk/Bentham-Project/journal/jnl⊠⊠⊠⊠.htm at ⊠ (hereinafter Draper, Corruptions; paginated according to the web printout). See also Stephen G. Engelmann, ⊠ndirect Le⊠islation⊠⊠Bentham⊠ Li⊠eral ⊠overnment, ⊠⊠ Polity ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ n. ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Appreciation is also owed to the participants in a ⊠⊠⊠⊠ conference, Private Power and Human Rights, hosted by Moshe Cohen-Eliya; papers from that conference including an essay related to this chapter is to be published in the Journal of Law ⊠ ⊠thics of ⊠uman ⊠i⊠hts. Another essay on aspects of Bentham is part of papers from an international procedural law conference, published in a volume called Common Law, Civil Law and the ⊠uture of Cate⊠ories (Janet Walker ⊠ Oscar G. Chase, eds., Markham, Can.: LexisNexis Canada, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

119 See Foucault, Discipline and Punish at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. See also Dilip Parameshwar Gaonkar with Robert J. McCarthy Jr., Panopticism and Pu⊠licit⊠⊠Bentham⊠ ⊠ uest for Transparenc⊠, ⊠ Public Culture ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

120 ⊠Unverifiable⊠ was the term proffered by Foucault to capture the power that visibility of the Benthamite kind achieved through imposing a ⊠state of conscious and permanent visibility⊠ that ⊠automizes and disindividualizes power⊠ See Foucault, Discipline and Punish at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

121 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ⊠⊠⊠. In exploring the concept of justice, Amartya Sen returned to Bentham and other innovators of his era, whom Sen categorized as ⊠realization-focused comparison⊠ theorists, in contrast to the ⊠transcendental institutionalism⊠ associated with Immanuel Kant and John Rawls. See Amartya Sen, The Idea of Justice ⊠–⊠⊠ (Cambridge, MA: Belknap / Harvard U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

122 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. Bentham's condition was that females and males had distinct interests. Nicola Lacey has read Bentham to have embraced women's suffrage on utilitarian grounds and to have then concluded that, if he were to insist on women's suffrage, other proposals for reform would be dismissed. Nicola Lacey, Bentham as Proto⊠⊠eminist⊠⊠ r an ⊠historical ⊠antas⊠ on ⊠⊠narchical ⊠allacies,⊠⊠⊠ Current Legal Problems ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Yet she believed that Bentham ⊠perceived far more clearly than most of his (male) contemporaries the irrationalities and injustices which characterized women's social position in the late eighteenth century⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

123 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ⊠⊠⊠.

124 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ⊠⊠⊠.

125 ⊠Of the substantive branch of the law, the only defensible object or end in view is the maximization of the happiness of the greatest number of the members of the community in question. Of the adjective branch of the law ⊠procedure⊠, the only defensible object, or say end in view, is the maximization of the execution and effect given to the substantive branch of the law.⊠ Jeremy Bentham, Principles of Judicial Procedure with the Outlines of a Procedure Code (hereinafter Bentham, Principles of Judicial Procedure), in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠.

126 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ⊠⊠⊠; Margery Fry, Bentham and ⊠n⊠lish Penal ⊠eform, in Jeremy Bentham and the Law ⊠⊠ (George W. Keeton ⊠ Georg Schwarzenberger, eds., Holmes Beach, FL: Gaunt, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, reprinted ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

127 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ⊠⊠⊠. See also The Collected Works of Jeremy Bentham: ⊠Legislator of the World': Writings on Codification, Law, and Education (Philip Schofield ⊠ Jonathan Harris, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Bentham: Legislator of the World).

128 Jeremy Bentham, Law As It Is, in ⊠ Bowring/Works ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

129 Bentham, Law As It Is, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠⊠. Bentham's critique continued that judges made the common law just ⊠as a man makes laws for his dog. When your dog does anything you want to break him of, you wait till he does it, and then beat him for it⊠ Id. at ⊠⊠⊠. Bentham argued that common law judges treated people like dogs⊠ failing to tell them ⊠beforehand what it is⊠ that should not be done. Instead, judges waited until a person ⊠has done something which they say he should not have done⊠ and then ⊠hang him for it⊠ Id. (emphasis in the original).

130 Bentham, Law As It Is, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

131 Bentham, Law As It Is, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠⊠.

132 Bentham's correspondence with Madison can be found in Jeremy Bentham, Papers Relative to Codification and Public Instruction: Including Correspondence with the Russian Emperor, and Divers Constituted Authorities of the American United States (hereinafter Bentham, Papers Relative to Codification and Public Instruction), in ⊠ Bowring/Works ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. Another compilation, including exchanges from state governors and others, is reproduced in Bentham: Legislator of the World at ⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

133 See Chilton Williamson, Bentham Looks at ⊠merica, ⊠⊠ Political Science Quarterly ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

134 Bentham, Papers Relative to Codification and Public Instruction, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠⊠. Schofield and Harris dryly noted that ⊠it was extremely unlikely that the Americans would be prepared to accept a code of law from an unknown English lawyer.⊠ Bentham: Legislator of the World at xiii. Bentham did receive responses from the governor of New Hampshire and from a Virginia lawyer⊠ which provides evidence that Bentham's request to have his offer of codification circulated widely had resulted in press reports of it. Id. at xix–xx, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

135 ⊠ditorial ⊠ntroduction to Bentham: Legislator of the World at xii–xxx. Bentham offered his services, for example, to Alexander I of Russia in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Frederick Rosen, Jeremy Bentham and Representative Democracy: A Study of the C⊠nst⊠t⊠t⊠n⊠l C⊠d⊠ ⊠ (Oxford, Eng.: Clarendon, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

136 Hence the essay was titled Truth v⊠⊠shurst. Sir Ashurst was the name of the ⊠Puisne Judge of the King's Bench⊠ In the table of contents of its Bowring publication, the essay has a subtitle: ⊠or, Law as it is, contrasted with what it is said to be⊠ First published in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, it is reprinted in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠⊠. Bentham's introductory note to the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ publication mentioned that he had written the manuscript version soon after he had read ⊠a charge, delivered the ⊠⊠th of November ⊠⊠⊠⊠, to a Middlesex Grand Jury⊠ by Ashurst. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

137 Bentham, Law As It Is, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

138 Bentham, Law As It Is, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

139 Draper, Corruptions at ⊠.

140 Twining at ⊠⊠.

141 See Twining at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Twining explained that Bentham was not arguing corruption but that the ⊠single class or corporation⊠ comprised of judges and lawyers had shaped a self-serving regime. Id. at ⊠⊠. Draper reports: ⊠In every section of Scotch ⊠eform, both published and unpublished, Bentham never tires of stating his absolute disability to conceive of any selflessness in the actions of lawyers⊠ Draper, Corruptions at ⊠. Bentham⊠ fond of coining new words⊠ offered the term ⊠litiscontestation⊠ to ⊠signify indiscriminately the course of operation gone through on the occasion of a suit at law.⊠ Jeremy Bentham, Constitutional Code; For the Use of All Nations and All Governments Professing Liberal Opinions (hereinafter Bentham, Constitutional Code), in ⊠ Bowring/Works ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. (Thanks to Philip Schofield for pointing us to this term and to Adam Grogg for reviewing Bentham's writings to understand its deployment.) Bentham's distrust of professional jurists was matched by his dislike of religious authority. See Philip Schofield, Jerem⊠ Bentham⊠⊠ istorical ⊠mportance and Contemporar⊠⊠elevance, in Jerem⊠as Bentham: El joven y el viejo radical, su presencia en el Rosario ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Bogot⊠, Colombia: Universidad del Rosario, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Schofield, Jerem⊠ Bentham⊠ ⊠mportance and ⊠elevance).

142 Quoted in Draper, Corruptions at ⊠.

143 See Jeremy Bentham, Scotch Reform: Considered with Reference to the Plan, Proposed in the Late Parliament, for the Regulation of the Courts, and the Administration of Justice in Scotland (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Bentham, Scotch Reform), in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠, ⊠–⊠⊠. The distinctions between ⊠natural procedure⊠ and ⊠technical procedure⊠ were juxtaposed through a layout of dual columns.

144 Twining at ⊠⊠.

145 Rosen at ⊠⊠⊠.

146 Twining at ⊠.

147 Twining at ⊠⊠.

148 Rosen at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

149 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ⊠⊠⊠; Rosen at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

150 Rosen at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

151 See Thomas P. Peardon, Bentham⊠ ⊠deal ⊠epu⊠lic, ⊠⊠ Canadian Journal of Economics ⊠ Political Science ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Rosen described Bentham's goal as having all persons, on foot, able to reach a local judicial officer and return home without having to pay to find a place to sleep overnight. Rosen at ⊠⊠⊠. To lessen expense, Bentham also built in a system of ⊠referees⊠ or ⊠arbitration⊠ overseen by judges. Id. at ⊠⊠⊠.

152 See Draper, Corruptions at ⊠⊠.

153 Draper, Corruptions at ⊠–⊠. See also Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

154 Bentham, Scotch Reform, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠. See also Twining at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠.

155 Twining at ⊠⊠.

156 See Amalia D. Kessler, Decidin⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ainst Conciliation⊠ The Nineteenth Centur⊠⊠e⊠⊠ction of a ⊠uropean Transplant and the ⊠ise of a Distinctive⊠ ⊠merican ⊠deal of ⊠dversarial ⊠d⊠⊠udication, ⊠⊠ Theoretical Inquiries in Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Kessler, ⊠⊠⊠ainst Conciliation).

157 Kessler, ⊠⊠⊠ainst Conciliation at ⊠⊠⊠.

158 Kessler, ⊠⊠⊠ainst Conciliation at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (drawing on correspondence of Bentham).

159 Bentham, Principles of Judicial Procedure, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠.

160 Twining at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Specifically, Bentham recorded his admiration for Denmark's ⊠Reconciliation Courts⊠ See Bentham, Principles of Judicial Procedure, in ⊠ Bowring/Works at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Bentham described how, under those courts (or ⊠judicatories⊠), parties met to deal with all their conflicting claims, as contrasted with more technical systems in which different forms of action (contract, tort) had to be dealt with separately. (Bentham was, more generally, enthusiastic about what today would be called liberal joinder of parties and claims, enabling all rights arising from given events to be dealt with in one forum at the same time.) Bentham recounted that, in Denmark's Reconciliation Courts, from two-thirds to three-fourths of suits using its procedures were struck out concluded in some fashion that took them off the docket. Id. at . Bentham also noted that the success came despite disadvantages that Denmark's Reconciliation Courts had no power . . . to give execution and effect to its own decisions Id. at . Bentham argued that, were the mechanism deployed in England and provision made for the judiciary to enforce judgments, it would be all the better.

Bentham's description leaves ambiguous what Danish Reconciliation Courts did. His point about the lack of enforcement suggests that these courts entered some form of judgment. As he wrote, the damage, in whatever shape, from every wrong on each side, will operate as a set-off to every other; an account, as complete as may be, will be taken of what is due on each side; and a balance struck, and payment . . . made accordingly Id. Thus reconciliation or conciliation may not parallel contemporary settlements in which parties agree to an outcome in lieu of a third party's rendering a decision.

161 Kessler, ainst Conciliation at .

162 Kessler, ainst Conciliation at .

163 Kessler, ainst Conciliation at (quoting Bentham's De Ir anization udiciarie, et de loi Condification in the edition of Bentham put out by Étienne Dumont, his French editor). Kessler also describes the interest in England and the United States in the European Model of Conciliation Courts Id. at – . She argues that the rejection of that model in the United States reflected a commitment to less deferential attitudes toward authority, expressed through the embrace of adversarial procedure.

164 Bentham, Scotch Reform, in Bowring/Works at . Bentham also criticized court-enforced settlements: Thus is that under the technical system, almost always, the word compromise is an euphemism: misconception is as often the result of it. The supposition is that justice is done to each; and that each remains self-assured that what he has received is justice. The truth is that what has taken place is oppression: oppression in the shape of extortion: of extortion of which the power of Judge and Co has in every case been the instrument: and in the profit of which they have in many, and perhaps in most instances, received their share: only that in this case the extortion has not extended to the whole but has left a part untouched. A compromise it is, if a compromise it must be called such as that which has place between the passenger and the highwayman when the purse is yielded without a struggle. . . . The purse is pocketed by the highwayman, the passenger goes off with his life Draper/Scotch Reform manuscript database, No. -, June , , Superseded Scotch Reform , Letter V., Litigation Prevent. Promot., Plff. mala fide

165 Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at .

166 Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at . As Twining quoted Bentham, Falsehood corrupt and wilful falsehood mendacity, in a word the common instrument of all wron was the irreconcilable enemy of justice. Twining at (emphasis in the original).

167 Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at (quoting himself from an earlier volume).

168 Twining at – .

169 Here we borrow Twining's summary of Bentham's thesis in the ationale of Judicial vidence. Twining at – .

170 Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at .

171 Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at . This imagery has currency in both France and the United States. See Katherine Fischer Taylor, In the Theater of Criminal Justice: The Palais de Justice in Second Empire Paris (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press,); Milner S. Ball, The Pla the Thin n nscientific e ection on Courts under the u ric of Theater, Stanford Law Review ().

172 See UCL Faculty of Laws, Bentham Project, The More Strictly We Are Watched the Better We Behave (), http://www.ucl.ac.uk/Bentham-Project/site images/Leaflets/Panopticon Bentham DL UPDATED.pdf. The quote comes from Poor Laws: Vol. I at (Michael Quinn, ed., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press,). The website and the project's pamphlet also provide a copy of Bentham's emblem, which included an all seeing eye, framed by the words Mercy, Justice, Vigilance.

173 Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at .

174 Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at .

175 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

176 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

177 Jeremy Bentham, Panopticon, or, the Inspection-House (hereinafter Bentham, Panopticon), in Bowring/Works , (emphasis in the original).

178 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

179 Bentham, Panopticon, in Bowring/Works at . See also Schofield, Utility and Democracy at – . The activities of the inmates would be open to constant scrutiny from the prison governor or inspector, and the activities of both to the scrutiny of the public at large, who would be encouraged to visit the panopticon Id. at .

180 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

181 The Panopticon was not built in Bentham's lifetime, but some high-security prisons, called super-max impose forms of surveillance beyond what Bentham had sketched, with lights on twenty-four hours a day. As discussed in Chapter , the United States Supreme Court has not prohibited such oversight as violative of constitutional protections but has imposed modest procedural limitations on placement in such facilities. See Wilkinson v ustin, U.S. ().

182 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at (quoting Jeremy Bentham, Political Tactics – , Michael James C. Pease Watkin, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press,).

183 Jeremy Bentham, An Essay on Political Tactics, in Bowring/Works ,

184 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

185 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

186 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at – .

187 Rosen at – .

188 Specifically, exceptions permitted expelling those who disturbed a proceeding and closing proceedings for the preservation of peace and good order to protect the judge, the parties, and all other persons present, against annoyance to preserve the tranquility and reputation of individuals and families from unnecessary vexation by disclosure of facts prejudicial to their honour, or liable to be productive of uneasiness or disagreements among themselves to avoid unnecessary disclosure of . . . pecuniary circumstances, to preserve public decency from violation and to protect secrets of state. Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at . As these brief excerpts make plain, the parameters for closure were somewhat vague. Twining at .

189 For example, the European Convention on Human Rights provides: Judgment shall be pronounced publicly but the press and public may be excluded from all or part of the trial in the interests of morals, public order or national security in a democratic society, where the interests of juveniles or the protection of the private life of the parties so require, or to the extent strictly necessary in the opinion of the court in special circumstances where publicity would prejudice the interests of justice European Convention, Art. (). Examples of debates about closure in the context of national security can be found in Botmeh and lami v nited in dom, App. No. /, Eur. H. R. Rep. ( ).

190 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at . See also Rosen at – . Bentham also saw trade-offs in terms of the expenses involved. Id. at .

191 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

192 Rosen at – . Bentham invoked the image as a vehicle of reform but did not fully specify how such a tribunal could be formed or cohere. Id. at – . See Fred Cutler, Jerem Bentham and the Pu lic pinion Tri unal, Public Opinion Quarterly , ( ).

193 Rosen at (quoting Bentham).

194 Rosen at – .

195 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at – , – . The details of an elaborate set of steps for judges to report problems of interpretation and to obtain harmonization or amendments are provided in Rosen at – .

196 See Francesco Contini Richard Mohr, Judicial Evaluation: Traditions, innovations and Proposals for Measuring the Quality of Court Performance – (Saarbrücken, Ger.: VDM Verlag,). The authors reviewed quantitative data on evaluations of judges in different countries within Europe, and they argued that debate ought to move from its emphasis on the tension between judicial accountability and independence to a focus on how confidence in courts enables them to exercise authority. Id. at – .

197 Contini and Mohr, for example, looked at various efforts to evaluate and control judges. Complaints were one method; of some thousand filed about judges in France and Spain, the majority involved delays, and almost none resulted in sanctions against judges. Id. at . Similarly, a comparison of nine European countries in showed that fewer than twenty-five judges received sanctions in any one country during that year. Id. at . In terms of using managerial techniques such as linking pay to output, a Spanish court ruled that approach illegal. Id. at – . Another method was surveys of attitudes toward judges. Id. at – . Contini and Mohr called for more comprehensive, interactive, and cooperative methods to enhance communications. Id. at – .

198 Our thanks to Don Herzog, who focused us on this tension.

199 See, for example, Robert Post Reva Siegel, oe a e Dem ocratic Constitutionalism and Backlash, Harvard Civil Rights–Civil Liberties Law Review ( ); Barry Friedman, The Will of the People: How Public Opinion Has Influenced the Supreme Court and Shaped the Meaning of the Constitution (New York, NY: Farrar, Straus Giroux,).

200 Bentham spent most of his life in the process of revising and occasionally contradicting positions he had reached earlier. Donald Winch, Classical Political Economy and Colonies (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press,). Bentham has therefore been claimed (and criticized) by a diverse group of contemporary and earlier theorists debating whether Bentham was an authoritarian or a democratic radical See Jennifer Pitts, Le islator of the World ereadin of Bentham on Colonies, Political Theory , ( ); see also Jeremy Bentham: Ten Critical Essays (Bhikhu Parekh, ed., London, Eng.: Frank Cass,). Several scholars have concluded that Bentham was a proponent of democracy. See Schofield, Utility and Democracy at – ; Rosen at – , – , – ; Lacey at – ; H. L. A. Hart, Bentham and the nited States of merica, Journal of Law and Economics ( ).

201 The context was his attack on the French Declaration of the Rights of Man and the Citizen in an essay also known as Anarchical Fallacies See Philip Schofield, Jerem Bentham Nonsense pon Stilts, Utilitas , ( ).

202 Schofield, Jerem Bentham Nonsense pon Stilts at (quoting Bentham).

203 Id. at (emphasis in the original). See also Schofield, Utility and Democracy at – ; Schofield, Jerem Bentham mpor tance and elevance at – .

204 See Foucault, Discipline and Punish at – . See Gaonkar at , – .

205 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

206 Twining at (emphasis in the original).

207 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at – , ; Lacey at – .

208 Rosen at – .

209 Post explored the propriety of some forms of regulation under the First Amendment in the United States Constitution as he parsed the distinct values of democratic legitimation and democratic competence See Robert C. Post, Knowing What We Talk About: Expertise, Democracy and the First Amendment, chs. – (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press,).

210 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

211 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at .

212 See Schofield, Utility and Democracy at – ; Rosen at – , – , – ; see also Hart at ( ). Lacey noted that when Bentham finally made up his mind on the question of parliamentary democracy . . . he became one of its most passionate and eloquent advocates Lacey at .

213 Rosen at – .

214 Jeremy Bentham, Draught for the Organization of Judicial Establishments, Compared with That of the National Assembly, with a Commentary on the Same (hereinafter Bentham, Judicial Establishment), in Bowring/Works , ; Bentham, Rationale, in Bowring/Works at ; see also Andrews at .

215 Bentham has, however, been praised for being one of the first persons to see the supreme importance of the problem of information in government in terms of efficiency, accountability, and responsibility. Peardon at .

216 The quote is from David Luban's translation of this statement from the second appendix to Kant's Perpetual Peace, written in ; Luban argued that he had captured the German wording more precisely than had others. See David Luban, The Pu licit Principle, in The Theory of Institutional Design , (Robert Goodin, ed., New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press,) (hereinafter Luban, Pu licit).

217 Luban, Pu licit at . Distinctions between Bentham's publicity right and that of Kant are explored in Slavko Splichal, Bentham, ant, and the ht to Communicate, Critical Review ( ). See also Alice Haemmerli, Whose Who The Case for a antian ht of Pu licit, Duke Law Journal , ( ).

218 David Hume, f the irst Principles of overnment, in Essays, Moral, Political, and Literary, vol. , at (T. H. Green T. H. Grose, eds., New York, NY: Longmans, Green,).

219 See Daniel Gordon, Philosoph Sociolo , and ender in the nli tenment Conception of Pu lic pinion, French Historical Studies , – , ( ). Gordon argued that Hume's interest in public opinion focused on how to manage it: Anglo-American liberalism . . . imagined institutions that played off human wills against each other without removing their differences yet in such a way that the good of the community as a whole merged Id. at .

220 Bentham saw his fictive Public Opinion Tribunal as needing to gather information on the government, which through publicity and by individual officials' responsibility for their actions was to make clear what had been decided. See Peardon at – .

221 Gordon at [illegible]. Gordon argued that the French concern was to [illegible]acknowledge the new authority of [illegible]the public' . . . while avoiding the conflicts and instabilities of a politics of contestation[illegible] Id. at [illegible], citing Keith Michael Baker, Inventing the French Revolution: Essays on French Political Culture in the Eighteenth Century, ch. [illegible] ([illegible]Public Opinion as Political Invention[illegible]) (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]). We return to Habermas later.

222 Bentham, Rationale, in [illegible] Bowring/Works at [illegible]. A word on the practice in London's criminal courts is in order. Until [illegible], the publisher of trial records (called the Sessions Paper) in London's criminal court (The Old Bailey) [illegible]paid the lord mayor of London a fee for the privilege of publishing a nominally [illegible]official' account of trial . . . .[illegible] Devereaux at [illegible]. In [illegible], the [illegible]City insisted that the Sessions Paper should provide a [illegible]true, fair and perfect narrative' for all trials[illegible] Id. Devereaux sought to understand why the City took that view, as well as why the level of detail provided expanded. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. He concluded that criminal justice policies had resulted in too large a prison population, and the Sessions Paper provided records that helped the [illegible]chief sentencing officer at the Old Bailey[illegible] and the Council decide which felons to pardon. Id. at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

While Devereaux thought that the City had made the change to establish an authoritative source of information, he also noted that detailed information might not only legitimate judicial authority but also [illegible]jeopardize[illegible] it by showing people how to evade punishment through the manipulation of evidence. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. Further, given the costs of lengthy details and the publisher's interests in sales, Devereaux urged skepticism about the completeness of the Sessions Paper. Id. at [illegible]. Yet its publication, he argued, undercut the claim that punishment was as deeply privatized as Foucault had argued, for publication of the Paper created another form of public dissemination. Id. at [illegible].

223 Jeremy Bentham, On the Liberty of the Press, and Public Discussion, in [illegible] Bowring/Works [illegible].

224 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at [illegible] (quoting Bentham, On the Liberty of the Press) (emphasis in the original); see also Slavko Splichal, Principles of Publicity and Press Freedom (Lanham, MD: Rowman [illegible] Littlefield, [illegible]).

225 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at [illegible]. David Zaret located the development of pamphleting and the press earlier. See David Zaret, Origins of Democratic Culture: Printing, Petitions, and the Public Sphere in Early-Modern England (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]).

226 James Madison, Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]pinion, National Gazette, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], reprinted in [illegible] Papers of James Madison [illegible] (Robert A. Rutland [illegible] Thomas A. Mason, eds., Charlottesville, VA: U. Press of Virginia, [illegible]), http://press-pubs.uchicago.edu/founders/documents/v[illegible]ch[illegible]s[illegible].html. The entire essay is a few paragraphs.

227 Madison (emphasis in the original).

228 Richard R. John, Spreading the News: The American Postal System from Franklin to Morse [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, [illegible]). John also read Madison as failing to appreciate the political force that public opinion could have and the role to be played by communications outside government channels. Id. at [illegible].

229 See, for example, Gaonkar at [illegible]–[illegible].

230 Compare Colleen A. Sheehan, Madison v[illegible] amilton[illegible]The Bat[illegible]tle over [illegible]epu[illegible]licanism and the [illegible]ole of Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]pinion, [illegible] American Political Science Review [illegible] ([illegible]), with Alan Gibson, [illegible]enera[illegible]tion and [illegible]i[illegible]lance[illegible]James Madison and Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]pinion, [illegible], [illegible] Review of Politics [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Albrecht Koschnik, The Democratic Societies of Philadelphia and the Limits of the [illegible]merican Pu[illegible]lic Sphere, circa [illegible], [illegible] William [illegible] Mary Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]).

231 See Benedict Anderson, Imagined Communities: Reflections on the Origin and Spread of Nationalism (London, Eng.: Verso, [illegible], reissued [illegible]).

232 Sheehan at [illegible].

233 In Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]pinion, Madison argued that there were cases [illegible]where the public opinion must be obeyed by the government; so there are cases, where not being fixed, it may be influenced by the government[illegible] Madison added: [illegible]This distinction, if kept in view, would prevent or decide many debates on the respect due from the government to the sentiments of the people[illegible] Further, [illegible]the larger a country, the less easy for its real opinion to be ascertained, and the less difficult to be counterfeited; when ascertained or presumed, the more respectable it is in the eyes of individuals. This is favorable to the authority of government. For the same reason, the more extensive a country, the more insignificant is each individual in his own eyes. This may be unfavorable to liberty.[illegible]

234 Ga. Const. of [illegible], Art. LXI.

235 See, for example, U.S. Const., Amend. I.

236 U.S. Const., Art. I, [illegible] [illegible], cl. [illegible]. See also N.C. Const. of [illegible], Declaration of Rights, Art. XV ([illegible]That the freedom of the press is one of the great bulwarks of liberty, and therefore ought never to be restrained.[illegible]); Pa. Const. of [illegible], Declaration of Rights, Art. XII ([illegible]That the people have a right to freedom of speech, and of writing, and publishing their sentiments; therefore the freedom of the press ought not to be restrained.[illegible]).

237 Act of Feb. [illegible], [illegible], ch. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible]. The Second Continental Congress had established the Post Office Department in [illegible], and Benjamin Franklin served as its first Postmaster General. See The United States Postal Service: An American History [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible], http://www.usps.com/cpim/ftp/pubs/pub[illegible].pdf.

238 John at [illegible]. The prohibition on opening letters was sometimes ignored. Id at [illegible].

239 John at [illegible]–[illegible].

240 John at [illegible].

241 John at [illegible]. The exchange was subsidized by [illegible]letter writers, of whom the vast majority were merchants[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. The government monopoly on the post was strengthened in [illegible]. Id. at [illegible]. John also noted the impact of the postal system before the Civil War, when abolitionists relied on [illegible]mass mailing[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. The mails in turn enabled the expansion of the stagecoach network, which helped clubs and associations to connect with each other as they spread across the federation. See Theda Skocpol, The Toc[illegible]ueville Pro[illegible]lem[illegible]Civic [illegible]n[illegible]a[illegible]ment in [illegible]merican Democrac[illegible], [illegible] Social Science History [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

242 John at [illegible]–[illegible].

243 See Tim Blanning, The Pursuit of Glory: Europe [illegible]–[illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Viking, [illegible]).

244 Blanning at [illegible].

245 John at [illegible], quoting Francis Lieber, [illegible] Encyclopaedia Americana [illegible] (Philadelphia, PA: Carey [illegible] Lea, [illegible]). As noted in Chapter [illegible], Francis Lieber is famous in the United States for his [illegible]Lieber Code[illegible] rules for warfare promulgated by President Abraham Lincoln as General Orders No. [illegible] on April [illegible], [illegible]. See Adjutant General's Office, General Orders No. [illegible]: Instructions for the Government of Armies of the United States in the Field (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, [illegible]), http://avalon.law.yale.edu/[illegible]th[illegible]century/lieber.asp. See also Anuj C. Desai, The Transformation of Statutes into Constitutional Law[illegible] [illegible]ow [illegible]ar[illegible] Post [illegible] [illegible]ce Polic[illegible] Shaped Modern [illegible]irst [illegible]mendment Doctrine, [illegible] Hastings Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

246 Laqueur at [illegible].

247 See John Markoff, Mar[illegible]ins, Centers, and Democrac[illegible]The Par[illegible]adi[illegible]matic [illegible]istor[illegible] of Women[illegible] Su[illegible]ra[illegible]e, [illegible] Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society [illegible] ([illegible]).

248 See generally Habermas, Structural Transformation; Habermas and the Public Sphere; Luke Goode, J□rgen Habermas: Democracy and the Public Sphere (London, Eng.: Pluto Press, □□□□). Habermas's historical account focused on how eighteenth-century cultures of philosophy, literature, and the arts shaped a sense of a readership/spectatorship authorized to provide a □self-interpretation of the public in the political realm□□ with views independent of those formulated through the church or government. Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□; see also □□–□□. Zaret disputed the historical account by arguing that the origins of the □public sphere□ predated the eighteenth century. Zaret at □□.

249 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□.

250 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□□.

251 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□□–□□□, □□□–□□□.

252 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□□. Habermas there cited Hegel's concept.

253 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□□–□□□, invoking John Stuart Mill.

254 The shaping of democratic rule of law through discourse theory is the central burden of Habermas's Between □acts and Norms as it also sought to span the □gap between sociological theories of law and philosophical theories of justice.□ Habermas, Between Facts and Norms at xl. Habermas devoted a chapter to the □Indeterminacy of Law and the Rationality of Adjudication□ id. at □□□–□□□, and further noted the role played by evidentiary procedures as constraints on the range of argument available. Id. at □□□–□□□. In addition, he was interested in the legitimacy of constitutional adjudication, id. at □□□–□□□, and in theories of judicial articulation of constitutional rights. Even as Habermas spoke of the infrastructure for spectatorship□ □assem□lies, performances, presentations, and so on□ id. at □□□ (emphasis in the original)□ he did not return to trials as part of his discussion of □Civil Society and the Political Public Sphere□ id. at □□□.

255 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□.

256 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□. See also Habermas, Facts and Norms at □□□–□□□.

257 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□.

258 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□.

259 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□.

260 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□□.

261 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□□–□□□.

262 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □. Habermas argued that deployment of the press □to serve the interests of the state administration□ could be found in the sixteenth century. Id. at □□–□□.

263 Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□□.

264 Theodore Roosevelt, First Annual Message to Congress, Dec. □, □□□□, http://www.presidency.ucsb.edu/ws/index.php□pid□□□□□□.

265 See generally Adam Sheingate, Pro□ressive Pu□licit□ and the □ri□ins of Political Consultin□, in Building a Business of Politics: The Origins and Development of Political Consulting in the United States (forthcoming □□□□), http://users.polisci.wisc.edu/apw/archives/sheingate.pdf.

266 Habermas, Facts and Norms at □□□.

267 Habermas, Facts and Norms at □□□.

268 Habermas, Facts and Norms at □□□.

269 See Fraser at □□□, □□□.

270 Fraser at □□□.

271 Different arguments for and against public roles are argued in The Pu□lic Character of Trial, in □ The Trial on Trial: Towards a Normative Theory of the Criminal Trial □□□–□□□ (Antony Duff, Lindsay Farmer, Sandra Marshall, □ Victor Tadros, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Hart, □□□□) (hereinafter □ Trial / Theory of the Criminal Trial), and in Judith Resnik, Due Process□□ Pu□lic Dimension, □□ U. of Florida Law Review □□□ (□□□□).

272 Another theorist of adjudication, well known to audiences in the United States, is Lon Fuller, who focused on the role of adjudication as a □device which gives formal and institutional expression to the influence of reasoned argument in human affairs□ Its □burden of rationality□ drew him to it, and also prompted his concerns that courts were ill-suited to deal with what he termed □polycentric□ problems. See Lon Fuller, The □orms and Limits of □adjudication, □□ Harvard Law Review □□□ (□□□□) (published posthumously). Our focus likewise entails an interest in the obligations of the judge to explain actions but we also aim to understand the roles of all the actors, audience included, in the exchanges.

273 Criminal trials are the focus of the volumes of The Trial on Trial, cited earlier. See □ Trial / Theory of the Criminal Trial. Each of the three volumes published has a distinct focus, forecast in its subheading. The other two titles are Truth and Due Process (Vol. □), and Jud□ment and Callin□ to □ccount (Vol. □), published in □□□□ and □□□□, respectively.

274 See, for example, Emilios Christodoulidis, The □ □□ection That Cannot Be □ eard□ Communication and Le□itimac□ in the Courtroom, in □ The Trial on Trial: Truth and Due Process at □□□–□□□.

275 See generally Craig Calhoun, □ntroduction to Habermas and the Public Sphere, □–□□.

276 A preliminary review of data on local news coverage of courts in the United States reported that the topics included in televised discussions were the filings of different kinds of cases, many involving negligence and many on intentional torts. In contrast, resolutions were less frequently covered. See Herbert M. Kritzer □ Robert E. Dreschsel, □eportin□ Civil Liti□ation on Local Television News (William Mitchell Legal Studies Research Paper No. □□, Version □a, Sept. □□, □□□□), http://papers.ssrn.com/sol□/papers.cfm□abstract□id□ □□□□□□□□.

277 See Reva B. Siegel, □The □ule of Love□□ Wife Beatin□ as Prero□□ ative and Privac□, □□□ Yale Law Journal □□□□ (□□□□). Efforts to address some of the injuries were enacted at a federal level in the United States in the Violence Against Women Act of □□□□, Pub. L. No. □□□-□□□, □□□ Stat. □□□□ (□□□□) (codified as amended in scattered sections of Titles □, □□, □□, □□ U.S.C.). See generally Judith Resnik, Cate□ □orical □ederalism□ Jurisdiction, □ ender, and the □ lo□e, □□□ Yale Law Journal □□□ (□□□□).

278 See Nancy S. Marder, The Medical Malpractice De□ate□ The Jur□ as Scape□oat, □□ Loyola of Los Angeles Law Review □□□□ (□□□□).

279 See, for example, Connecticut Department of Pu□lic Safet□ v□ Doe, □□□ U.S. □ (□□□□) (upholding the constitutionality of state laws requiring such registration and publication).

280 See Maricopa County Attorney, County Attorney Demands Repeal of Court Orders Undermining Proposition □□□, Directives Violated State Initiatives, press release, April □, □□□□; see also Dennis Welch, Count□ Courts □efuse to Check □nmi□ration Status, The Tribune (Mesa, AZ), April □, □□□□, see □□□□ WLNR □□□□□□□; Andrew Thomas, Prop □□□□ □ earin□s Show Continued Judicial □ pposition, Illegal Immigration Journal: The Latest Update on Border Issues, May □□, □□□□, http://www.illegalimmigrationjournal.com/spotlight/andy.cfm□id□.

281 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at □□□.

282 Bentham thought it would. See Schofield, Utility and Democracy at □□□.

283 See Maure L. Goldschmidt, Pu□licit□ Privac□ and Secrec□, □ Political Research Quarterly □□□ (□□□□). Habermas cited this example. See Habermas, Structural Transformation at □□□.

284 The utility of internet databases depends on how materials are formatted and whether charges are imposed for access. See LoPucki at □□. See also John Markoff, □ □uest to □et More Court □ulin□s □nline, and □ree, New York Times, Aug. □□, □□□□, at C□.

285 See Sheppard v. Maxwell, ___ U.S. ___ (____).

286 Carey v. Musladin, ___ U.S. ___ (____).

287 See Pamela H. Bucy, Courtroom Conduct ___ Spectators (U. of Alabama Public Law Research Paper No. _____, Apr. ___, ____), http://papers.ssrn.com/sol___/papers.cfm___abstract___id_____.

288 See, for example, Report of the New York State Commission on Public Access to Court Records (Abrams Commission), Feb. ___, ____, http://www.courts.state.ny.us/ip/publicaccess/Report___PublicAccess___CourtRecords.pdf.

289 During the course of the trial, three defense lawyers were killed and two judges were dismissed. See John F. Burns, James Glanz, Sabrina Tavernise, ___ Marc Santora, ___n Da___s ___efore ___ an___in___, a Push for ___even___e and a Push Back from the ___S., New York Times, Jan. ___, ____, at A___.

290 Marc Santora, James Glanz, ___ Sabrina Tavernise, Saddam ___ussein ___ an___ed in Ba___hdad___Swift ___nd to Drama___Troops on ___lert, New York Times, Dec. ___, ____, at A___.

291 John F. Burns ___ Marc Santora, ___S___ uestioned ___ra___ on the ___ush to ___ an___ ___ussein, New York Times, Jan. ___, ____, at A___.

292 Burns ___ Santora at A___.

293 Bill Carter, ___ raphic ___ideo of ___ecution Presents ___ard Choices for ___Media, New York Times, Jan. ___, ____, at A___ (noting that Fox News and CNN both ran the video and that Fox had followed Al Jazeera in doing so).

294 Bentham, Rationale, in ___ Bowring/Works at ___.

295 Habermas, Structural Transformation at ___.

296 Luban thus offered another forumulation, that all ___actions relating to the right of other human beings are wrong if publicizing their maxim would lead to self-frustration by undercutting the legitimacy of the public institutions authorizing those actions___Luban, Pu___licit___ at ___.

297 As detailed earlier, Bentham offered various justifications for privacy that would, upon occasion, require that the presumption in favor of public trials give way. Bentham, Rationale, in ___ Bowring/Works at ___.

298 Bentham, Rationale, in ___ Bowring/Works at ___. Our thanks to Bruce Ackerman for pressing us to underscore the degree to which the role of observer needs to be conceptualized as political.

299 See generally Jonathan Crary, Suspensions of Perception: Attention, Spectacle, and Modern Culture (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ____).

300 Schofield, Utility and Democracy at ___.

301 Bentham, Rationale, in ___ Bowring/Works at ___.

302 This understanding of law as a social practice can be seen in the work of Robert M. Cover. See Robert M. Cover, The Supreme Court ___ Term___ ___oreword___Nomos and Narrative, ___ Harvard Law Review ___ (____); Judith Resnik, Livin___ Their Le___al Commitments___ Paideic Communities, Courts, and ___o___ert Cover, ___ Yale Journal of Law ___ the Humanities ___ (____).

303 Mirrelle Hildebrandt, Trial and ___air Trial___ ___rom Peer to Su___ ___ect to Citi___en, in ___ The Trial on Trial: Judgment and Calling to Account ___, ___ (emphasis in the original). See also Paul Roberts, Theorisin___ Procedural Tradition___Su___ects, ___ ___ects and ___alues in Crim___inal ___adjudication, in ___ The Trial on Trial: Judgment and Calling to Account at ___–___; Daniel Markovits, ___ dversar___ ___dvocac___ and the ___uthorit___ of ___adjudication, ___ Fordham Law Review ____ (____).

304 See, for example, Tatjana H___rnle, Democratic ___ccounta___ilit___ and La___ Participation in Criminal Trials, in ___ The Trial on Trial: Judgment and Calling to Account at ___–___.

305 Bentham, Judicial Establishment, in ___ Bowring/Works at ___; Bentham, Rationale, in ___ Bowring/Works at ___; see also Andrews at ___.

306 Fraser argued that such parity was requisite to the proper functioning of Habermasian public spheres. Fraser at ___.

307 See, for example, Judith Resnik, ___ skin___ a___out ___ ender in Courts, ___ Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society ___ (____).

308 These are the words inscribed on the front of the facade of the United States Supreme Court.

309 See Military Commissions Act of ____, Pub. L. No. ___-___, ___ Stat. ____ (____) (codified in scattered sections of ___, ___, ___, and ___ U.S.C.). The statute's limitations on individuals' access to courts through the constitutionally protected writ of habeas corpus were found to be unconstitutional. See Boumediene v. Bush, ___ U.S. ___ (____), discussed in Chapter ___.

310 Various political theorists have moved from a focus on elections to examining sources of legitimacy such as public confidence, the quality of government, impartiality, non-self-dealing by decisionmakers, and decisionmaking through the aggregation of interests present. See, for example, Bo Rothstein ___ Jan Teorell, What ___s ___ ualit___ of ___overnment___ ___ Theor___ of ___mpartial ___overnment ___institu___tions, ___ Governance: An International Journal of Policy and Administration ___ (____); Bruce Ackerman ___ James S. Fishkin, Deliberation Day (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, ____); Jane Mansbridge, The Descriptive Political ___epresentation of ___ender___ ___n ___nti___ssentialist ___r___ument, in Has Liberalism Failed Women___ Assuring Equal Representation in Europe and the United States ___ (Jytte Klausen ___ Charles S. Maier, eds., New York, NY: Palgrave, ____).

311 Carolyn Lochhead, Death Spiral on Main Street, The American Enterprise, July–August ____, at ___.

312 ___*estorin___ the ___inancial Sta___ilit___ of the ___S___ Postal Service___ What Needs to Be Done___ ___earin___ Before the Su___comm___ ___ed___ Workforce, Postal Service, and the District of Colum___ia*, ___th Cong. (Mar. ___, ____), http://oversight.house.gov/index.php___option___com___content___task___view___id_____ Itemid___ (testimony of Dale Goff, President, National Association of Postmasters of the United States, http://www.napus.org/govrelations/testimony___pdfs/___Statement.pdf). While mail volume peaked at ___ billion pieces in ____, it had declined to ___ billion in ____, a ___staggering decline of ___ percent___ Id. (Testimony of Carolyn Gallagher, Chair, Board of Governors, U.S. Postal Service, http://www.usps.com/communications/newsroom/testimony/____/pr___bog____.htm).

313 See United States Postal Service, Economy-Driven Mail Volume Decline Contributes to Postal Service ___.___ Billion Year-End Loss, press release, Nov. ___, ____, http://www.usps.com/communications/newsroom/____/pr_____.htm.

314 Discussion of this viewpoint can be found in John T. Tierney, The U.S. Postal Service: Status and Prospects of a Public Enterprise ___–___ (Dover, MA: Auburn House, ____).

315 Richard R. John, Mail Matters, The Nation, Feb. ___, ____, at ___.

316 See, for example, Robert Darnton, ___ oo___le ___ the ___uture of Books, New York Review of Books, Feb. ___, ____, at ___, http://www.nybooks.com/articles/_____.

317 ___S___ Postal Service_____ earin___ ___efore the Su___comm___on ___ed___ eral Workforce, Postal Service, and the District of Colum___ia of the ___ ouse Comm___on ___ versi___ht and ___overnment ___eform, ___th Cong. ___ (Apr. ___, ____) (testimony of Charles W. Mapa, President, National League of Postmasters). Mapa's focus was on the harm to rural communities. See also Oren Ben-Dor, Constitutional Limits and the Public Sphere ___–___, ___–___ (Oxford, Eng.: Hart, ____).

318 Postal Policy Act of ____, Pub. L. No. ___-___, ___ Stat. ___, ___.

319 See Postal Reorganization Act of ____, Pub. L. No. ___-___, ___ Stat. ___ (codified at ___ U.S.C. (____)).

320 Richard B. Kielbowicz, Preservin___ ___ niversal Postal Service as a Communication Safet___ Net___ ___ Polic___ ___istor___ and Proposal, ___ Seton Hall Legislative Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Richard R. John, Post ⍰ ⍰ ce, in ⍰Encyclopedia of the New American Nation: The Emergence of the United States, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰⍰ (Paul Finkelman, ed., Farmington Hills, MI: Charles Scribner's Sons, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

321 See C. Edwin Baker, Media Concentration and Democracy: Why Ownership Matters (New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

322 See Newspaper Association of America, Total Paid Circula⍰tion, http://www.naa.org/TrendsandNumbers/Total-Paid-Circulation.aspx. The population figures come from the United States Census Bureau. See U.S. Census Bureau, Statistical Abstracts, http://www.census.gov/prod/www/abs/statab.html.

323 See David Westphal, News Media in Crisis, http://fundingthenews.org/⍰p⍰⍰⍰, in Geoffrey Cowan ⍰ David Westphal, Public Policy ⍰ Funding the News (Los Angeles, CA: U. of Southern California Annenberg Center on Communication Leadership ⍰ Policy, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://fundingthenews.org; see also Preethi Dumpala, The ⍰ear the Newspaper Died, Business Insider, Jul. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, http://www.businessinsider.com/the-death-of-the-american-newspaper-⍰⍰⍰⍰-⍰ (reporting that, between January and July ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ newspapers closed).

324 See Shira Ovide, Tri⍰une Co⍰⍰iles for Chapter ⍰⍰ Protection, Wall Street Journal, Dec. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at B⍰; Shira Ovide, More News⍰papers ⍰ile for Chapter ⍰⍰, Wall Street Journal, Feb. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at B⍰ (reporting that, between December ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and February ⍰⍰⍰⍰, four newspaper owners filed for bankruptcy).

325 David Westphal, News Media in Crisis, http://fundingthenews.org/⍰p⍰⍰⍰, in Cowan ⍰ Westphal.

326 Geoffrey Cowan, ⍰ntroduction, http://fundingthenews.org/⍰p⍰⍰, in Cowan ⍰ Westphal.

327 See David Westphal, The ⍰overnment and the News Media, http://fundingthenews.org/⍰p⍰⍰⍰, in Cowan ⍰ Westphal.

328 Baker at ⍰⍰⍰.

329 Margaret H. Marshall, At the Tipping Point: State Courts and the Balance of Power, The Benjamin N. Cardozo Lecture, Bar Association of the City of New York, Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, http://www.ncbp.org/⍰⍰⍰⍰/Cardozo⍰post⍰final.pdf.

Chapter ⍰⍰

1 Department of Constitutional Affairs, http://www.dca.gov.uk/civil/adr. Since the reorganization of the offices, new information about ADR can be found on the Ministry of Justice website, http://www.justice.gov.uk/civil/procrules⍰fin/contents/practice⍰directions/pd⍰pre-action⍰conduct.htm⍰IDANZCZ.

2 Margaret H. Marshall, Chief Justice, Supreme Judicial Court, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Testimony Before Joint Committee on Ways and Means, Mar. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰, http://www.mass.gov/courts/fy⍰⍰⍰⍰-marshall-testimony.pdf. That number did not include staff or jurors. A few decades earlier, as part of a transnational project on access to justice, Earl Johnson raised a similar specter of what he termed a ⍰lowered expectations⍰ program, in which millions of small-scale cases were filed but neither litigants nor courts had the resources to deal with them. See Earl Johnson, Jr., The Justice S⍰stem of the ⍰uture⍰⍰our Scenarios for the Twent⍰⍰irst Centur⍰, in Access to Justice and the Welfare State (Mauro Cappelletti, ed., Alphen aan den Rijn, Neth.: Sijthoff, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Access to Justice and the Welfare State).

3 Margaret H. Marshall, At the Tipping Point: State Courts and the Balance of Power, The Benjamin N. Cardozo Lecture, Bar Association of the City of New York, Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

4 Judith Resnik, ⍰or ⍰ wen M⍰⍰iss⍰Some ⍰e⍰ections on the Tri⍰umph and the Death of ⍰d⍰udication, ⍰⍰ U. Miami Law Review ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

5 The data were drawn from annual reports on the federal courts' docket. We explained in Chapter ⍰ how we extrapolated the data for ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and the sources for the other numbers.

6 United States Census Bureau, Population Estimates Data Set: ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Population Estimates, ⍰⍰⍰ Census ⍰istorical Statistics of the ⍰nited States⍰Colonial Times to ⍰⍰⍰⍰, pt. ⍰ at ⍰⍰, http://www.census.gov/prod/www/abs/statab.html.

7 Court Statistics Project, Examining the Work of State Courts: An Analysis of ⍰⍰⍰⍰ State Court Caseloads ⍰ (National Center for State Courts, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.ncsconline.org/d⍰research/csp/⍰⍰⍰⍰B⍰files/EWSC-⍰⍰⍰⍰-v⍰⍰-online.pdf.

8 See Administrative Office of the United States Courts, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Annual Report of the Director: Judicial Business of the United States Courts ⍰⍰ (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office ⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.uscourts.gov/judbus⍰⍰⍰⍰/Judicial-Businespdfversion.pdf (hereinafter ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Judicial Business).

9 News Release, Judiciar⍰ ⍰pdates Code of Conduct⍰Seeks New Jud⍰eships (Mar. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.uscourts.gov/Press⍰Releases/⍰⍰⍰⍰/⍰⍰⍰⍰JudicialConf.cfm.

10 ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Judicial Business at ⍰⍰. Filings have thus outpaced terminations. Id. at ⍰⍰.

11 Administrative Office of the United States Courts, ⍰ederal Court Mana⍰ement Statistics ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰, http://www.uscourts.gov/cgi-bin/cmsa⍰⍰⍰⍰.pl.

12 Justice Stephen G. Breyer, ⍰oreword to Celebrating the Courthouse: A Guide for Architects, Their Clients, and the Public ⍰⍰ (Steven Flanders, ed., New York, NY: W. W. Norton, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Breyer, ⍰oreword to Celebrating the Courthouse).

13 See Stephen C. Yeazell, ⍰e⍰⍰inancin⍰ Civil Liti⍰ation, ⍰⍰ DePaul Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

14 See, for example, Deborah R. Hensler, M. Susan Marquis, Allan F. Abrahamse, Sandra H. Berry, Patricia A. Ebener, Elizabeth G. Lewis, E. Allan Lind, Robert J. MacCoun, Willard G. Manning, Jeannette A. Rogowski, ⍰ Mary E. Vaiana, Compensation for Accidental Injuries in the United States (Santa Monica, CA: RAND Institute for Civil Justice, ⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.rand.org/pubs/reports/⍰⍰⍰⍰/R⍰⍰⍰⍰.pdf. That survey studied ⍰the social and personal costs of accidents, how well the current compensation system protects victims, and the role the tort liability system plays in the process⍰Id. at viii. Efforts had been made in other countries to identify needs for law. See, for example, Hazel Genn, Meeting Legal Needs⍰ An Evaluation of a Scheme for Personal Injury Victims (Oxford, Eng.: SSRC ⍰Social Science Research Council⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰); Donald Harris, Mavis Maclean, Hazel Genn, Sally Lloyd-Bostock, Paul Fenn, Peter Corfield, ⍰ Yvonne Brittan, Compensation and Support for Illness and Injury (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

15 Martin Gramatikov, ⍰ ⍰ramework for Measurin⍰ the Costs of Paths to Justice, ⍰ The Journal Jurisprudence ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

16 See Justice Earl Johnson Jr., ⍰⍰nd Justice for ⍰ll⍰⍰When Will the Pled⍰e Be ⍰ulfilled⍰⍰⍰ Judge's Journal ⍰ (Summer ⍰⍰⍰⍰). That journal provided a symposium on access to justice. See also Earl Johnson Jr., Justice for ⍰merica⍰ Poor in the ⍰ear ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰Some Possi⍰⍰ilities Based on ⍰⍰⍰periences ⍰ere and ⍰⍰road, ⍰⍰ DePaul Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

17 A series of volumes from the ⍰Florence Project⍰ supported by several institutions including the Ford Foundation and the Italian Research Council, surveyed the ⍰access to justice movement.⍰ See Access to Justice: A World Survey, vol. I at vii (Mauro Cappelletti ⍰ Bryant Garth, eds. Milan, Italy: Dott. A. Giuffr⍰ Editore, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Mauro Cappelletti ⍰ Bryant Garth, ⍰ccess to Justice and the Wel⍰fare State⍰⍰n ⍰ntroduction, in Access to Justice and the Welfare State.

18 See Gillian K. Hadfield, □ ther Demand, Lower Supp□□□ Com□ parative □ ssessment of the Le□al □ esource Landscape of □ rdinar□□ mer□ icans, □□ Fordham Urban Law Journal □□□ (□□□□).

19 Bureau of Justice Statistics, State Court Organization □□□□–□□□□, NCJ □□□□□□, Oct. □□□□, at □–□.

20 Frances Kahn Zemans, Court □undin□ □, report prepared for the American Bar Association Standing Committee on Judicial Independence (Aug. □□□□), http://www.abanet.org/jd/courtfunding/pdf/courtfunding.pdf.

21 Zemans at □.

22 American Judicature Society, □n □mpendin□ Crisis in State Court □undin□, Editorial, □□ Judicature □□ (Oct. □□, □□□□), http://www.ajs.org/ajs/ajs□editorial-template.asp□content□id□□□□.

23 See, for example, American Bar Association, Coalition for Justice, Special Committee on Funding the Justice System, Saving Our System: A National Overview of the Crisis in America's System of Justice (Chicago, IL: American Bar Association, □□□□) (hereinafter Saving Our System).

24 See Fla. Statute □□ □□□.□□ et seq. (□□□□) (imposing certain mandatory costs in criminal cases). See also Brennan Center for Justice, Collections Court in Leon County: Selected Findings from Forthcoming Brennan Center Report on Court Fees in Florida (Mar. □□, □□□□), http://www.brennancenter.org/page/-/Justice/□□.□□.□□.Leon.County.Collections.pdf; John Schwartz, Pinched Courts Push to Collect □ees and □ines, New York Times, Apr. □, □□□□, at A□□, http://www.nytimes.com/□□□□/□□/□□/us/□□collection.html. According to the president of the Florida Bar Association, court budgets represented □.□□ percent of Florida's □□□ billion budget; □□ percent of the funding came from general revenues. The □extra fees and fines□ were to generate an additional □□□.□ million for the courts. The year before, □court-related revenue□ brought □□□□ million into the state's coffers, but the courts received □only □□□ million, including □□.□ million for mediation□ See John G. White III, Court □undin□□ □ □ood □irst Step, □□ Florida Bar Journal □ (Mar. □□□□), http://www.floridabar.org/DIVCOM/JN/JNJournal□□.nsf/Articles/□□EA□□D□□□□□A□B□□□□□□□□□□□C□A□□.

25 Reports from the Ministry of Justice in the United Kingdom focus on this question. See Ministry of Justice, What's Cost Got to Do with It□ The Impact of Changing Court Fees on Users (□□□□), http://www.justice.gov.uk/publications/docs/changing-court-fees.pdf.

26 See John M. Greacen, Workin□ with the Le□islature Durin□ the Court □ppropriations Process, □□ Judge's Journal □□, □□ (Summer □□□□), http://www.abanet.org/jd/publications/jjournal/□□□□summer/greacen.pdf.

27 A special commission of the American Bar Association sought to buffer against such approaches by calling on judiciaries to be transparent in their expenditures and for legislatures to provide predictable streams of income for judicial services. See Joseph P. Nadeau, □nsur□ in□ □ de□uate Lon□□Term □undin□ for Courts□□ecommendations from the □ B□ Commission on State □undin□, □□ Judge's Journal □□, □□ (Summer □□□□).

28 See Jonathan Lippman, New □ork□ □□orts to Secure Su□ cient Court □esources in Lean Times, □□ Judge's Journal □□, □□ (Summer □□□□); Zemans at □□–□□.

29 See □eference re □emuneration of Jud□es of the Provincial Court of Prince □dward □sland, □□□□□□□ S.C.R. □ (Can.).

30 See National Center for State Courts, Surve□ of Judicial Salaries, □□ NCSC □ (July □, □□□□), http://www.ncsconline.org/WC/Publications/KIS□JudComJudSalArchives.html. The median salary for an associate justice was □□□□,□□□. Id. In some jurisdictions, salaries had not kept pace with the cost of living. For example, the New York legislature had not, as of □□□□, increased judicial salaries since □□□□, prompting a lawsuit by the court's Chief Judge, Judith Kaye, challenging the failure to raise salaries as violative of judicial independence and separation of powers. See □a□e v□Silver, No. □□□□□□-□□□□ (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Apr. □□, □□□□). See also Anemona Hartocollis, New □ork□ Top Jud□e Sues □ ver Judicial Pa□, New York Times, April □□, □□□□, at B□. In □□□□, New York's highest court agreed in a review of three consolidated cases and held that New York State's guarantees protecting the independence of the judiciary had been violated by the failure to provide pay increases for judges. See Matter of Maron v□Silver, □□□ N.E. □d □□□ (N.Y. □□□□).

31 Abby Goodnough, Jur□ Trials to Be □ alted in □ ne State □eelin□ Pinch, New York Times, Dec. □, □□□□, at A□□, http://www.nytimes.com/□□□□/□□/□□/us/□□court.html.

32 See John Schwartz, Pinched Courts Push to Collect □ees and □ines, New York Times, Apr. □, □□□□, at A□□, http://www.nytimes.com/□□□□/□□/□□/us/□□collection.html; see also Saving Our System.

33 See Christel E. Marquardt, Chan□in□ the Judicial Bud□et Process in □ansas, □□ Judge's Journal □□ (Summer □□□□). A chart of surcharges, ranging from □□ to □□□, was provided. Id. at □□.

34 Maura D. Corrigan, □indin□□ evenue in □ ard Times□The Michi□ □an Judiciar□□ □ pproach, □□ Judge's Journal □□ (□□□□).

35 See generally Earl Johnson, Justice and Reform: The Formative Years of the American Legal Services Program (New Brunswick, NJ: Transaction Books, □□□□).

36 See Richard Abel, English Lawyers between Market and State (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, □□□□); see also Richard Abel, The Legal Profession in England and Wales (Oxford, Eng.: Blackwell, □□□□).

37 See Jona Goldschmidt, □ow □ re Courts □ andlin□ Pro Se Liti□ □ants□, □□ Judicature □□ (July–August, □□□□).

38 Roscoe Pound, The Causes of Popular Dissatisfaction with the □ dministration of Justice, □□ American Law Review □□□ (□□□□), reprinted from □ Annual Report of the American Bar Association □□□ (□□th Conference, □□□□). See also Barry Friedman, Popular Dissatisfaction with the □ dministration of Justice□□ □ etrospective □and a Look □ head□, □□ Indiana Law Journal □□□□ (□□□□). That article was part of a □□□□ symposium titled □Court Leadership □□□ Years After Roscoe Pound: Building a Constituency of Support for State Courts□ Id. at □□□□–□□□□.

39 See, for example, Lord Woolf, Access to Justice: Final Report to the Lord Chancellor on the Civil Justice System in England and Wales (London, Eng.: Her Majesty's Stationery Office, □□□□) (hereinafter Woolf, Final Report □□□□); Robert Peckham, The □ederal Jud□e as a Case Mana□er□The New □ole in □ uidin□ a Case from □ilin□ to Disposition, □□ California Law Review □□□ (□□□□). See generally Judith Resnik, Mana□erial Jud□es, □□ Harvard Law Review □□□ (□□□□).

40 For example, Carrie Menkel-Meadow argued that various forms of conciliation promote □consent, participation, empowerment, dignity, respect, empathy and emotional catharsis, privacy, efficiency, quality solutions, equity, access, and yes, even justice□ Carrie Menkel-Meadow, Whose Dispute □s □t □n□wa□□ Philosophical and Democratic Defense of Settlement □□n Some Cases□, □□ Georgetown Law Journal □□□□, □□□□–□□□□ (□□□□) (hereinafter Menkel-Meadow, Whose Dispute □s □t □n□wa□□). See also Carrie Menkel-Meadow, □estorative Justice□What □s □t and Does □t Work□□ Annual Review of Law □ Social Science □□□ (□□□□); John Lande, Principles for Pol□ ic□makin□ a□out Colla□orative Law and □ ther □ D□ Processes, □□ Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution □□□ (□□□□); Julie MacFarlane, Mediatin□□thicall□□The Limits of Codes of Conduct and the Potential of a □e□ective Practice Model, □□ Osgoode Hall Law Journal □□ (□□□□).

41 See Lande at □□□. See also Michael Moffitt, Three Thin□s to □e □□ainst □□Settlement□ Not □ncluded□, □□ Fordham Law Review □□□□ (□□□□).

42 See generally John Braithwaite, Restorative Justice □

Responsive Regulation (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰); Dispute Resolution in Australia (Hilary Astor ⍰ Christine M. Chinkin, eds., Sydney, Aus.: Butterworths, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

43 Lande at ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰. See also Menkel-Meadow, Whose Dispute ⍰s ⍰ ⍰n ⍰wa⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰.

44 See Samuel Issacharoff ⍰ Robert H. Klonoff, The Pu⍰lic ⍰alue of Settlement, ⍰⍰ Fordham Law Review ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). We return in Chapter ⍰⍰ to an example involving rights to land under Australia's Native Land Title Rights legislation.

45 Many statutes enforce the confidentiality of arbitration and mediation, and some critics worry about the impact. See Laurie Kratky Dor⍰, Pu⍰lic Courts versus Private Justice⍰⍰⍰ Time to Let Some Sun Shine in on ⍰lternative Dispute ⍰esolution, ⍰⍰ Chicago-Kent Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

46 See Robert A. Kagan, Adversarial Legalism: The American Way of Law (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰); Walter K. Olson, The Litigation Explosion: What Happened When America Unleashed the Lawsuit (New York, NY: Dutton, ⍰⍰⍰⍰); Peter Huber, Galileo's Revenge: Junk Science in the Courtroom (New York, NY: Basic Books, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). An analysis of the political and social world-views that generate an interest in litigation in the United States is provided by Thomas Frederick Burke, Lawyers, Lawsuits, and Legal Rights: The Battle over Litigation in American Society (Berkeley, CA: U. of California Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Burke argued that ⍰⍰⍰tigious policies nicely match the preference of Americans, who want action on social issues yet are ambivalent about the typical tools of the state⍰ bureaucratic regulation and welfare programs⍰ Id. at ⍰.

47 See Alan M. Dershowitz, The Abuse Excuse: And Other Cop-Outs, Sob Stories, and Evasions of Responsibility (Boston, MA: Little, Brown, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

48 One example from case law in the United States is the decision in Bell ⍰tlantic Corp⍰ v⍰ Twom⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ U.S. ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰), requiring judges to ascertain the ⍰plausibility⍰ of allegations by plaintiffs in complaints. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the Supreme Court applied that approach more broadly. See ⍰shcroft v⍰⍰⍰al, ⍰⍰⍰ S. Ct. ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Judith Resnik, Constrictin⍰ ⍰emedies⍰The ⍰ehn⍰uist Judiciar⍰, Con⍰ ⍰ress, and ⍰ederal Power, ⍰⍰ Indiana Law Journal ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

49 In the United States federal system, a procedural rule (Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ⍰⍰) imposed a version of this regime. See Marek v⍰ Chesn⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ U.S. ⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). In the United Kingdom, rule revisions provide sanctions for those who decline to go to mediation if a judge concludes that refusal to do so was not justified. See ⍰ urst v⍰ Leemin⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰ EWHC ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See also Dunnett v⍰⍰ailtrack PLC, ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰ EWCA Civ. ⍰⍰⍰.

50 Examples of legislative revisions in the United States that cut back on substantive rights and procedural opportunities include the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰(b), ⍰⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (codified in relevant part as amended at ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰ ⍰⍰u-⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰)) and the Prison Litigation Reform Act of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (codified in scattered sections of Titles ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰, and ⍰⍰ U.S.C.).

51 Amy J. Cohen, ⍰evisitin⍰ ⍰⍰ainst Settlement⍰Some ⍰e⍰ections on Dispute ⍰esolution and Pu⍰lic ⍰alues, ⍰⍰ Fordham Law Review ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). That essay was part of a symposium focused on a ⍰⍰⍰⍰ article by Owen Fiss, ⍰⍰ainst Settlement, ⍰⍰ Yale Law Journal ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

52 See Marc Galanter, Wh⍰ the ⍰⍰ aves⍰ Come ⍰ ut ⍰ head⍰Specu⍰ lations on the Limits of Le⍰al Chan⍰e, ⍰ Law ⍰ Society Review ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Galanter, Wh⍰ the ⍰⍰ aves⍰ Come ⍰ ut ⍰ head); Symposium, Do the ⍰⍰ aves⍰ Still Come ⍰ ut ⍰ head⍰⍰ Law ⍰ Society Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); In Litigation: Do the ⍰Haves⍰ Still Come Out Ahead⍰ (Herbert M. Kritzer ⍰ Susan S. Silbey, eds., Stanford, CA: Stanford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). See generally Wolf Heydebrand ⍰ Carroll Seron, Rationalizing Justice: The Political Economy of Federal District Courts (Albany, NY: State U. of New York Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Heydebrand ⍰ Seron, Rationalizing Justice).

53 Galanter, Wh⍰ the ⍰⍰ aves⍰ Come ⍰ ut ⍰ head at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

54 See Judith Resnik, Man⍰ Doors⍰Closin⍰ Doors⍰⍰ lternative Dis⍰ pute ⍰esolution and ⍰a⍰udication, ⍰⍰ Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). For a critique that procedural regulation of decisionmaking imposed too many costs on governance in various settings, from courts to administrative agencies to legislatures, see Adam M. Samaha, ⍰ ndue Process, ⍰⍰ Stanford Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

55 See Richard Moorhead ⍰ Pascoe Pleasence, ⍰ccess to Justice after ⍰ niversalism⍰⍰ntroduction, ⍰⍰ Journal of Law and Society ⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Bryant Garth, ⍰rom Civil Lit⍰ation to Private Justice⍰ Le⍰al Practice at War with the Profession and ⍰s ⍰alues, ⍰⍰ Brooklyn Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

56 See Government by Contract: Outsourcing and American Democracy (Jody Freeman ⍰ Martha Minow, eds., Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Freeman ⍰ Minow). See also Gunther Teubner, ⍰fter Privatisation⍰ The Man⍰ ⍰utonomies of Private Law, ⍰⍰ Current Legal Problems ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

57 The photograph in figure ⍰⍰⍰ of the interior of a courtroom in the John Joseph Moakley United States Courthouse is reproduced with permission of the photographer, Steve Rosenthal, courtesy of the court, and with the assistance of the Honorable Douglas Woodlock of that court.

58 Breyer, ⍰oreword to Celebrating the Courthouse at ⍰⍰.

59 John Joseph Moakley United States Courthouse and Harborpark: Boston, Massachusetts ⍰ (Washington, DC: U.S. General Services Administration, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

60 See Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Annual Report of the Director: Judicial Business of the United States Courts ⍰⍰⍰, Table C-⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.uscourts.gov/dirrpt⍰⍰/c⍰⍰sep⍰⍰.pdf. According to a Boston Bar Association analysis, the rate of dispositions by trial in civil cases dropped from the late ⍰⍰⍰⍰s, when the rate of dispositions by trial was about ⍰ percent, to the early years of the twenty-first century, when dispositions by trial averaged between ⍰ and ⍰ percent. See Task Force on the Vanishing Jury Trial, Boston Bar Association, Jury Trial Trends in Massachusetts: The Need to Ensure Jury Trial Competency among Practicing Attorneys as a Result of the Vanishing Jury Trial Phenomenon, App. at ⍰⍰, Table ⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.bostonbar.org/prs/reports/vanishingtrials⍰⍰⍰⍰.pdf.

61 That estimate focused on federal district court trials in Boston. In addition to the courthouse in Boston (fig. ⍰⍰⍰), the federal district court for Massachusetts also sat in Springfield, Massachusetts, where trials could have taken place. Further, the trial courtroom count in Boston includes those dedicated for magistrate judges, who are authorized to conduct civil trials upon parties' consent. See ⍰⍰ U.S.C. ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰(c)(⍰) (⍰⍰⍰⍰). Magistrate trials were not included in the data on ⍰district court⍰ trials.

62 United States District Court, Judicial Caseload Profile, Missouri ⍰astern, ⍰⍰-month period ending Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Federal Court Management statistics-⍰⍰⍰⍰, http://www.uscourts.gov/cgi-bin/cmsd⍰⍰⍰⍰.pl. Within this period, a total of ⍰⍰⍰ civil trials and ⍰⍰⍰ criminal trials were completed. See Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Annual Report of the Director: Judicial Business of the United States Courts ⍰⍰⍰, Table C-⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.uscourts.gov/judbus⍰⍰⍰⍰/appendices/C⍰⍰Sep⍰⍰.pdf. Again, magistrate judges have courtrooms, but the trials they conducted are not likely reflected in the district court data.

63 In addition, data suggest that settlement rates vary considerably by the type of case. See Theodore Eisenberg & Charlotte Lanvers, What is the Settlement Rate and Why Should We Care?, 6 Journal of Empirical Legal Studies [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

64 See U.S. General Accounting Office, Courthouse Construction: Better Courtroom Use Data Could Enhance Facility Planning and Decisionmaking, GAO/GGD-[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter [illegible] GAO Courthouse Construction). See also U.S. General Accounting Office, Courthouse Construction: Sufficient Data and Analysis Would Help Resolve the Courtroom Sharing Issue, GAO-[illegible], [illegible], at [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). As detailed in Chapter [illegible], the request for new courthouse construction prompted congressional investigations about courtroom use. The [illegible] GAO study defined courtroom usage as "any activity" (including but not limited to trials) for any portion of the day. The study studied sixty-five courtrooms in seven locations and concluded that courtrooms were in use about [illegible] percent of the days when courthouses were open. [illegible] GAO Courthouse Construction at [illegible]; see also U.S. General Accounting Office, Courthouse Construction: Information on the Use of District Courtrooms at Selected Locations, GAO/GGD-[illegible]-[illegible]R, App. [illegible] at [illegible], Table I.[illegible] ([illegible]) (reporting similar results in a study of four other locations). As also discussed in Chapter [illegible], the judiciary then developed a different measure of use: "latent use" to capture proceedings that were scheduled but cancelled.

65 Mark R. Kravitz, The "Vanishing" Trial: A Problem in Need of a Solution, [illegible] Connecticut Bar Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). As Judge Kravitz noted, while the number of trials per judge had decreased, the length of trials had increased. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

66 The graph in Figure [illegible] was provided by and is reproduced with the permission of the Honorable Patrick E. Higginbotham, United States Court of Appeals, Fifth Circuit, who chaired the subcommittee of the United States Judicial Conference Committee that is charged with reviewing Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Judge Higginbotham has voiced his concern about the trend away from trials. See Patrick E. Higginbotham, Judge Robert [illegible] Ainsworth, Jr. Memorial Lecture, Loyola University School of Law: So Why Do We Call Them Trial Courts?, [illegible] SMU Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

67 Marc Galanter, The "Vanishing" Trial: An Examination of Trials and Related Matters in Federal and State Courts, 1 Journal of Empirical Legal Studies [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Galanter, The "Vanishing" Trial).

68 Galanter, The "Vanishing" Trial at [illegible]–[illegible]; see also Brian J. Ostrom, Shauna M. Strickland, & Paula L. Hannaford-Agor, "Examining" Trial Trends in State Courts: [illegible], 1 Journal of Empirical Legal Studies [illegible] ([illegible]).

69 Galanter, The "Vanishing" Trial at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Kravitz at [illegible]–[illegible]; Adam Liptak, "[illegible] Suits Multiply, But Fewer Ever Get to Trial, Study Says", New York Times, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible]. The Galanter data were produced at the behest of the Litigation Section of the American Bar Association, which sought out a group of researchers (including Judith Resnik) to understand and evaluate changes in trial rates. The results were published in a Symposium, The "Vanishing" Trial, 1 Journal of Empirical Legal Studies [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Richard Abel, "Forecasting" Civil Litigation, [illegible] DePaul Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

70 See generally Wayne D. Brazil, Comparing Structures for the Delivery of ADR Services in Courts: Critical Values and Concerns, [illegible] Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution [illegible] ([illegible]); Wayne D. Brazil, Continuing the Conversation about the Current Status and the Future of ADR: A View from the Courts, [illegible] Journal of Dispute Resolution [illegible]; Wayne D. Brazil, Court ADR: [illegible] Years after Pound: Have We Found a Better Way?, [illegible] Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution [illegible] ([illegible]).

71 See Judith Resnik, "[illegible] Uncle Sam Modernizes This Justice System": Inventing the Federal District Courts of the Twentieth Century for the District of Columbia and the Nation, [illegible] Georgetown Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Resnik, "Inventing the Federal District Courts"). See also Heydebrand & Seron, Rationalizing Justice.

72 See Judith Resnik, Trial as Error, Jurisdiction as Injury: Transforming the Meaning of Article [illegible], [illegible] Harvard Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Resnik, Trial as Error).

73 See, for example, Hubert L. Will, Robert R. Merhige Jr., & Alvin B. Rubin, The Role of the Judge in the Settlement Process, [illegible] Federal Rules Decisions [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). These comments come from a transcript of exchanges by these judges teaching their colleagues about settlement; the quoted comment comes from Judge Will.

74 See Federal Rules of Civil Procedure illegible([illegible]) and Advisory Committee's Note ([illegible]) (amended [illegible]). Subsequent amendments to the rules have rearranged the subsections.

75 See Federal Rules of Civil Procedure [illegible] (amended [illegible]). The revised rule stated that, at pretrial conferences, judges had the authority to require parties to participate in settlement conferences and described topics to include "settling the case and using special procedures to assist in resolving the dispute when authorized by statute or local rule." Federal Rules of Civil Procedure illegible([illegible]), revised as of [illegible] and renumbered as Federal Rules of Civil Procedure illegible([illegible])(I). Thus the [illegible] word "extrajudicial" was replaced by the term "special procedures."

76 See District of Massachusetts, Local Rule [illegible].illegible ("The judicial officer shall encourage the resolution of disputes by settlement or other alternative dispute resolution programs"); id. at [illegible].illegible ("At every conference conducted under these rules, the judicial officer shall inquire as to the utility of the parties' conducting settlement negotiations . . . "). This rule stemmed in part from congressional encouragement of such approaches through the [illegible] Civil Justice Reform Act, Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]-[illegible] (then codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible])), which required each district to implement a "justice expense and delay reduction plan" to "facilitate deliberate adjudication of civil cases on the merits, monitor discovery, improve litigation management, and ensure just, speedy, and inexpensive resolutions of civil disputes" [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] ([illegible]). This reform act required studies of its initiatives and had "sunset" provisions that ended its mandates.

77 See, for example, Central District of California, Local Rule [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible]-[illegible].[illegible] ("Unless exempted by the trial judge, the parties in each civil case shall participate in one of the settlement procedures set forth in this rule . . . "); District of Oregon, Local Rule [illegible].[illegible], which requires, among other actions, that the parties file a "Joint Alternate Dispute Resolution Report."

78 See Nancy J. King, "Regulating" Settlement: What Is Left of the Rule of Law in the Criminal Process?, [illegible] DePaul Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter King, "Regulating" Settlement).

79 Nancy J. King & Michael E. O'Neill, "Appeal Waivers and the Future of Sentencing Policy", [illegible] Duke Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

80 King, "Regulating" Settlement at [illegible]–[illegible].

81 See, for example, United States v. Martinez-Molina, [illegible] F.[illegible]d [illegible] ([illegible]st Cir. [illegible]); United States v. [illegible]olland, [illegible] F.[illegible]d [illegible] (D.C. Cir. [illegible]). Stephanos Bibas explained that "repeat players . . . may propose package deals that involve discounts for global pleas, in which all codefendants plead guilty in exchange for an extra sentence reduction." Stephanos Bibas, Plea Bargaining Outside the Shadow of Trial, [illegible] Harvard Law Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

82 See Alternative Dispute Resolution Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible])).

83 Leonard L. Riskin & Nancy A. Welsh, "Is That All There Is?": The Problem in Court-Oriented Mediation, [illegible] George Mason Law Review [illegible], [illegible], n. [illegible] ([illegible]).

84 Judicial Conference of the United States, Space and Facilities Committee, U.S. Courts Design Guide [illegible]–[illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, [illegible]th ed., [illegible]). The [illegible] Courts Design Guide also noted the need for acoustics to protect the confidentiality of what was said within. As detailed in Chapter [illegible], the [illegible] Courts Design Guide was more specific about courtroom layouts and size than about the ADR space.

85 See Don Hardenbergh, Robert Tobin, & Chang-Ming Yeh, The Courthouse: A Planning and Design Guide for Court Facilities [illegible] (Williamsburg, VA: National Center for State Courts, [illegible]).

86 Judicial Conference of the United States, Space and Facilities Committee, U.S. Courts Design Guide [illegible]–[illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, [illegible]th ed., [illegible]). That version noted that it had [illegible]eliminated specific space for alternative dispute resolution proceedings[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

87 A few design guides do encourage the creation of flexible space to accommodate ADR. See Todd S. Phillips & Michael A. Griebel, Building Type Basics for Justice Facilities [illegible] (Hoboken, NJ: John Wiley & Sons, [illegible]).

88 See generally Dispute Resolution Magazine (published by the American Bar Association Section on Dispute Resolution); Craig McEwen, Giving Meaning to Mediator Professionalism, [illegible] Dispute Resolution Magazine [illegible] (Spring [illegible]).

89 See, for example, JAMS Dispute Resolution Alert newsletters (published by JAMS, The Resolution Experts). In [illegible], JAMS also announced an agreement to form a center, [illegible]to provide mediation and arbitration of cross-border disputes and training services worldwide[illegible] based in Rome and New York with additional locations in Geneva, London, and Brussels. Association for International Arbitration, In Touch Monthly Newsletter, JAMS Announces First International ADR Center (May [illegible]).

90 See, for example, Uniform Mediation Act (amended [illegible]), http://www.law.upenn.edu/bll/archives/ulc/mediat/[illegible]finaldraft.htm. Two years earlier, the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws had recommended enactment by all states of the [illegible] version of that act. See National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, Uniform Mediation Act ([illegible]), http://www.nccusl.org/nccusl/uniformact[illegible]summaries/uniformacts-s-uma[illegible].asp.

91 Some commanded rates of thousands of dollars a day. See Eric Berkowitz, Is Justice Served? Los Angeles Times, Oct. [illegible], [illegible], West Magazine at [illegible].

92 See Frank O. Bowman, III, Response, American Bu[illegible]alo[illegible]an[illegible] ishin[illegible] c[illegible]uittals and the [illegible]radual [illegible]tinction of the [illegible]ederal Criminal Trial Law[illegible]er, [illegible] U. Pennsylvania Law Review PENNumbra [illegible] ([illegible]), http://www.pennumbra.com/responses/response.php[illegible]rid[illegible].

93 Marc Galanter, The [illegible]ualit[illegible] of Settlements, [illegible] Journal of Dispute Resolution [illegible] ([illegible]).

94 Lisa Blomgren Bingham, Tina Nabatchi, Jeffrey M. Senger, & Michael Scott Jackman, Dispute Resolution and The [illegible]anishin[illegible] Trial[illegible] Comparin[illegible] [illegible]ederal [illegible]overnment Liti[illegible]ation and [illegible]D[illegible] [illegible]utcomes, [illegible] Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution [illegible] ([illegible]). The authors examined civil cases in which the United States was a party, with lawyers coming from the offices of the United States Attorneys. The data set, from [illegible] to [illegible], included over [illegible],[illegible] cases from the Justice Department's records. Comparing cases in which the government pursued ADR to those in which it did not, the authors found that outcomes in the cases did not differ significantly, but the costs were considerably reduced when ADR was employed.

95 See James S. Kakalik, Terence Dunworth, Laural A. Hill, Daniel F. McCaffrey, Marian Oshiro, Nicholas M. Pace, & Mary E. Vaiana, An Evaluation of Judicial Case Management under the Civil Justice Reform Act (Washington, DC: RAND Institute for Civil Justice, [illegible]). RAND published three other related volumes that year, each of which has the same authors and publication information, with the following titles: An Evaluation of Mediation and Early Neutral Evaluation under the Civil Justice Reform Act; Implementation of the Civil Justice Reform Act in Pilot and Comparison Districts; and Just, Speedy, and Inexpensive[illegible] An Evaluation of Judicial Case Management under the Civil Justice Reform Act.

96 See Hazel Genn, [illegible]ntroduction[illegible] What [illegible]s Civil Justice [illegible]or[illegible] in Hazel Genn, Judging Civil Justice, The Hamlyn Lectures [illegible] at [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Genn, Judging Civil Justice). The problems of consent are all the more acute in aggregate litigation, in which small groups of lawyers can represent hundreds or thousands of litigants. See, for example, John C. Coffee Jr., Class [illegible]ction [illegible]ccounta[illegible]ilit[illegible] [illegible]econcilin[illegible] [illegible]it, [illegible]oice, and Lo[illegible]alt[illegible] in [illegible]epresentative Liti[illegible]ation, [illegible] Columbia Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Judith Resnik, Liti[illegible]atin[illegible] and Settlin[illegible] Class [illegible]ctions[illegible] The Prere[illegible]uisites of [illegible]ntr[illegible] and [illegible]it, [illegible] U. of California Davis Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); John C. Coffee Jr., [illegible]nderstandin[illegible] the Plaint[illegible] [illegible]ttorne[illegible] The [illegible]mplications of [illegible]conomic Theor[illegible] for Private [illegible]nforcement of Law Throu[illegible]h Class and Derivative [illegible]ctions, [illegible] Columbia Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

97 D. Brock Hornby, The Business of the [illegible] S District Courts, [illegible] The Green Bag [illegible]d [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

98 Hornby at [illegible]–[illegible]. Judge Hornby continued: [illegible]In the twenty-first century, the federal district courts' primary roles in civil cases have become law exposition, fact sorting, and case management office tasks[illegible] not umpiring trials. In criminal cases, the judges' work remains court-centered but, instead of trials, it had become law elaboration and fact finding at sentencing, supervising federal offenders after prison, and safeguarding the integrity of a criminal process that sends defendants to prison without trial. In [illegible], that is the federal district courts' business. Trials as we know them, and unfettered sentencing discretion, are not coming back[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

99 See Edward A. Harnett, [illegible]uestionin[illegible] Certiorari[illegible] Some [illegible]e[illegible]ec[illegible]tions Sevent[illegible]ive [illegible]ears after the Jud[illegible]es[illegible] Bill, [illegible] Columbia Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

100 Harnett at [illegible]–[illegible]. Stephen L. Wasby & Martha Humphries Ginn, Tria[illegible]e in [illegible]ppellate Courts[illegible] Cross[illegible]Level Comparison, [illegible] Judicature [illegible] ([illegible]).

101 [illegible] [illegible]ear[illegible]nd [illegible]eport on the [illegible]ederal Judiciar[illegible], [illegible] The Third Branch [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]), http://www.uscourts.gov/ttb/jan[illegible]ttb/jan[illegible].html

102 See Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure [illegible]. For an early description of such programs, see Irving R. Kaufman, Must [illegible]ver[illegible] [illegible]ppeal [illegible]un the [illegible]amut[illegible] The Civil [illegible]ppeals Mana[illegible]ement Plan, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

103 [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

104 See Carolyn Dineen King, Current Challen[illegible]es to the [illegible]ederal Judiciar[illegible], [illegible] Louisiana Law Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); Wasby & Ginn. See also William M. Richman & William L. Reynolds, [illegible]litism, [illegible]pedienc[illegible], and the New Certiorari [illegible]e[illegible]uiem for the Learned [illegible] and Tradition, [illegible] Cornell Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); William L. Reynolds & William M. Richman, Stud[illegible]in[illegible] Deck Chairs on the Titanic, [illegible] Cornell Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

105 See Administrative Office of the United States Courts, Judicial Business of the United States Courts: [illegible] Annual Report of the Director [illegible], http://www.uscourts.gov/judbus[illegible]/supps.html.

106 See Administrative Office of the United States Courts, Judicial Business of the United States Courts: [illegible] Annual Report of the Director [illegible], http://www.uscourts.gov/judbus[illegible]/contents.cfm.

107 See Penelope Pether, [illegible]ne[illegible]uita[illegible]le [illegible]n[illegible]unctions[illegible] The Scandal of Private Jud[illegible]in[illegible] in the [illegible]Courts, [illegible] Stanford Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); William L. Reynolds & William M. Richman, The Non[illegible]

Precedential Precedent: Limited Publication and No Citation Rules in the United States Courts of Appeals, ___ Columbia Law Review ____ (____). On the lack of access to district court decisions, see Hillel Y. Levin, Making the Law: Unpublication in the District Courts, ___ Villanova Law Review ___ (____).

108 Andrew T. Solomon, Making Unpublished Opinions Precedential: Recipe for Ethical Problems & Legal Malpractice, ___ Mississippi College Law Review ___ (____).

109 Some judges thought it beyond their power to decline to permit citation (sometimes conflated with publication) based on the view that judges had no power to pick among cases to decide which opinions were precedential law because all of their judgments had to be law. See Anastasoff v. United States, ___ F.___d ___ (___th Cir. ____), vacated as moot, ___ F.___d ____ (___th Cir. ____) (en banc). The author of that judgment wrote more about the problem. See Richard S. Arnold, Unpublished Opinions: A Comment, ___ Journal of Appellate Practice and Process ___ (____). Others shared his concerns. See Lauren Robel, The Practice of Precedent, Anastasoff, Noncitation Rules, and the Meaning of Precedent in an Interpretive Community, ___ Indiana Law Review ___, ___ (____); Joseph Gerken, A Librarian's Guide to Unpublished Judicial Opinions, ___ Law Library Journal ___, ___–___ (____); Stephan L. Wasby, Publication Or Not: Of Appellate Rulings: An Evaluation of Guidelines, ___ Seton Hall Circuit Review ___ (____). In ____ federal appellate rules were revised to require courts to permit litigants to cite decisions, although not necessarily as precedential. See Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure ___.___, applicable to decisions after January ___, ____; U.S. Courts, Federal Rulemaking, http://www.uscourts.gov/rules.

110 ____ Judicial Business, Table S-___.

111 See E-Government Act of ____, Pub. L. No. ___-___, § ___(a)___, ___ Stat. ____, ____ (codified at ___ U.S.C. § ____ (____)).

112 The service, begun in ____, is called the Federal Appendix. See Brian P. Brooks, Publishing Unpublished Opinions: Review of the Federal Appendix, ___ The Green Bag ___d ___, ___ (____). In theory, courts decline to publish decisions that lack precedential value. In practice, commentators have identified important judgments treated in that fashion. See Deborah Jones Merritt & James J. Brudney, Stalking in Secret Law: What Predicts Publication in the United States Courts of Appeals, ___ Vanderbilt Law Review ___ (____).

113 See, for example, Carolyn Dineen King, Challenges to Judicial Independence and the Rule of Law: A Perspective from the Circuit Courts, ___ Marquette Law Review ___, ___ (____); William M. Richman, Much to do about the Tip of an Iceberg, ___ Washington & Lee Law Review ____, ____–____ (____); Richard A. Posner, The Federal Courts: Challenge and Reform ___–___ (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, ____); Carolyn Dineen King, A Matter of Conscience, ___ Houston Law Review ___ (____).

114 See Jerry L. Mashaw, Recovering American Administrative Law: Federalist Foundations, ____–____, ___ Yale Law Journal ____ (____). Such bills date back to ____. Id. at ____, n.___.

115 Steamboat Safety Act, Act of Aug. ___, ____, ch. ___, § ___, ___ Stat. ___, ___.

116 Jerry L. Mashaw, Administration and The Democracy: Administrative Law from Jackson to Lincoln, ____–____, ___ Yale Law Journal ____, ____–____ (____). The Steamboat Act gave Supervising Inspectors the power of de novo review of decisions made at the lower level. Mashaw detailed how the inspection system helped to produce regulations as well as succeeded in reducing accidents. Id. at ____–____.

117 See Act of Feb. ___, ____, ch. ___, ___ Stat. ___ (____) (hereinafter Court of Claims Act of ____). See generally Stanton J. Peelle, History and Jurisdiction of the United States Court of Claims, ___ Records of the Columbia Historical Society ___ (____).

118 See Court of Claims Act of ____, ___. Like Article III judges, the Court of Claims judges were to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and to hold their offices during good behaviour. These judges were, in turn, empowered to appoint commissioners who could take testimony and issue subpoenas.

How to characterize the Court of Claims puzzled the Supreme Court. In ____ the Supreme Court held that, despite the similar appointment procedures, judges on the Court of Claims were not Article III judges, whose salaries could not be diminished under the Constitution. See Williams v. United States, ___ U.S. ___ (____). Congress responded by asserting that the Court of Claims was a "court established under Article III." See Glidden Co. v. Zdanok, ___ U.S. ___, ___ (____) (Clark, J., concurring). The question was mooted thereafter. In ____ revisions, Congress created a trial-level court called the United States Court of Federal Claims and gave its judges fifteen-year terms, thereby plainly creating a non-Article III court. See Pub. L. No. ___-___, ___ Stat. ____ (____) (codified at ___ U.S.C. § ___ (____)).

119 That principle was stated early in the history of the United States when the Supreme Court rejected an effort to give its judges authority over pensions for injured Revolutionary War veterans. Congress had authorized judges to determine eligibility and sums but had given the Secretary of War the power to reject the recommendations. See Hayburn's Case, ___ U.S. (___ Dall.) ___ (____).

120 See Court of Claims Act of ____, § ___ (The court "shall hear and determine all claims . . . which may be referred to said court by either house of Congress"). Remnants of that jurisdiction remain. See ___ U.S.C. § ____, ____ (____).

121 Congress revisited the structure of the Court of Claims several times. In ____ Congress provided for direct enforcement of the judgments of the Court of Claims and for review of its decisions by the Supreme Court. See Act of March ___, ____, ch. ___, ___ Stat. ___ (____). In ____, Congress expanded the court's powers by providing it with jurisdiction over all monetary claims against the federal government. See The Tucker Act, Rev. Stat. § ____, ch. ___, § ___, ___ Stat. ___ (____), now codified at ___ U.S.C. § ____ (____). The ____ recodification renamed the trial court the United States Court of Federal Claims. See Pub. L. No. ___-___, ___ Stat. ____ (Oct. ___, ____), codified at ___ U.S.C. § ____ (____). The trial court consisted of sixteen judges appointed by the President, confirmed by the Senate, and sitting for terms of fifteen years. Id. In the ____ provision, Congress also located appellate jurisdiction in the Federal Circuit. See ___ U.S.C. § ____ (____).

122 See ___ U.S.C. § ___AA-___ et seq. (providing for the Court of Federal Claims to handle vaccine compensation cases).

123 See ___ U.S.C. § ___ (____).

124 See ___ U.S.C. § ___(c) (____). The Chief Judge of the Court of Federal Claims has authority to appoint special masters. See also rules of the United States Court of Federal Claims, http://www.uscfc.uscourts.gov/ (Rules, Rules of the Federal Court of Claims).

125 Various specialized courts exist in the federal system. One example is the Tax Court, which evolved from its origins in ____ as the Board of Tax Appeals to its current status as a court within the judicial branch. See Revenue Act of ____, ch. ___, § ___, ___ Stat. ___, ___ (creating the Board); Revenue Act of ____, ch. ___, § ____(a), ____, ___ Stat. ___, ___–___ (providing for direct appeals to the circuit courts); Revenue Act of ____, ch. ___, § ___(a), ___ Stat. ___ (creating the Tax Court of the United States); Tax Reform Act of ____, Pub. L. No. ___-___, § ___, ___ Stat. ___, ___ (shifting the institution from an executive agency to a judicial entity). Another such court is the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims, with seven judges appointed by the President and serving terms of fifteen years. See Veterans' Judicial Review Act of ____, Pub. L. No. ___-___, ___ Stat. ____, Pub. L. No. ___-___, ___ Stat. ____ (codified at ___ U.S.C. Sec. ____ (____)).

126 In ____, appellate and trial judges nationally numbered ___; ___ served on the district courts. See Authorized Judgeships, Table K, in History of Federal Judgeships, http://www.uscourts.gov/history/allauth.pdf (periodically updated) (hereinafter [illegible] Authorized Judgeships). The table also listed one Article I judgeship as of that date. Id. See also Annual Report of the Director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts for [illegible] at [illegible], Table [illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office), http://www.uscourts.gov/judbus[illegible]/front/[illegible]artext.pdf.

127 Data on commissioners are limited, and they are not listed in the roster of federal judges. The office of commissioner began with the First Judiciary Act of [illegible], which authorized individuals then paid on a fee-for-service basis to discharge tasks sometimes seen to be "judicial in nature" such as administering oaths and issuing warrants. The work was, however, described as more "ministerial" than judicial. The deployment of such persons built on English practice, in which justices of the peace— typically not lawyers— provided such assistance to the common law courts.

In [illegible], the commissioner system was replaced by the Federal Magistrates Act, Pub. L. No. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]), codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]), [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). The magistrate system also borrowed some lessons from English practice. See generally Linda J. Silberman, Masters and Magistrates, Part [illegible]: The American Analogue, [illegible] New York U. Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

128 See [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible]–[illegible]; see also Federal Courts Study Committee Implementation Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible], § [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible], adding a "note" to [illegible] U.S.C. § [illegible] ([illegible]).

129 See, for example, Act of Oct. [illegible], [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible], § [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] (authorizing magistrates to make preliminary reviews in certain instances, to receive evidence, and to make proposed findings of fact); Federal Magistrate Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible] ([illegible]) (codified as amended at [illegible] U.S.C. § [illegible] ([illegible])) (providing magistrates the authority to preside over civil cases if the parties consent and broadening criminal misdemeanor jurisdiction). See generally Administrative Office of the United States Courts, A Guide to the Legislative History of the Federal Magistrate Judges System (Washington, DC: [illegible]).

130 See Federal Courts Improvement Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible], § [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] (amending [illegible] U.S.C. § illegible to provide magistrate judges with contempt powers for actions occurring in their presence and obstructing the "administration of justice"); Bankruptcy Amendments and Federal Judgeship Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible])) (deeming bankruptcy judges "judicial officers of the United States district court"). See also In re Terrebonne Fuel and Lube, Inc., [illegible] F.[illegible]d [illegible] ([illegible]th Cir. [illegible]); In re Fairchild Marriage, Inc., [illegible] F.[illegible]d [illegible] ([illegible]th Cir. [illegible]) (holding that bankruptcy judges have civil contempt powers).

The contempt powers of statutory judges are not identical to those of constitutional Article III judges. See [illegible] U.S.C. § illegible([illegible]) ([illegible]); Mark S. Kende, The Constitutionality of New Contempt Powers for Federal Magistrate Judges, [illegible] Hastings Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]); Belinda K. Orem, The Impenitent Contemnor: The Power of the Bankruptcy Courts to Imprison, [illegible] California Bankruptcy Journal [illegible] ([illegible]). Kende argued the unconstitutionality of magistrate judges' summary contempt powers, as he nonetheless predicted that the Supreme Court would uphold that authority.

131 See [illegible] U.S.C. § illegible ([illegible]) (empowering magistrate judges to preside at civil jury trials if the parties consent); [illegible] U.S.C. § illegible ([illegible]) (empowering bankruptcy judges, "if specially designated" by the district courts and upon "express consent of all parties" to conduct jury trials).

132 See Bankruptcy Amendments and Federal Judgeship Act of [illegible], ch. [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible] (codified as amended in various sections of [illegible] U.S.C. and [illegible] U.S.C. ([illegible])).

133 See [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] ([illegible]) (bankruptcy judges appointed for fourteen-year terms by appellate judges of that circuit); [illegible] U.S.C. § [illegible] ([illegible]) (magistrate judges appointed for eight-year terms by district judges).

134 Included are those judges sitting in "Article I" courts (such as the Court of Federal Claims and the Tax Court) and those chartered through the Administrative Procedure Act, [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). Additional discussion of the expansion of adjudication in administrative agencies and of the increasingly administrative posture of judges based in courts comes from David S. Clark, Civil and Administrative Courts and Procedure, [illegible] American Journal of Comparative Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

135 See Raymond Limon, Office of Administative Law Judges, The Federal Administrative Judiciary: Then and Now: A Decade of Change, [illegible]–[illegible], App. C at [illegible] ([illegible]); see also Michael Asimow, The Spreading [illegible] Umbrella: [illegible] Extending the [illegible] Adjudication Provisions to [illegible] Evidentiary [illegible] Hearings [illegible] Required [illegible] Statute, [illegible] Administrative Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

136 United States Department of Labor, Occupational Employment and Wages, [illegible], at [illegible], Table [illegible] (Bureau of Labor Statistics, News Release No. [illegible], rev. ed. [illegible]), http://www.bls.gov/news.release/ocwage.t[illegible].htm. That report described almost [illegible],[illegible] hearing officers, adjudicators, or judges employed by agencies. See also Occupational Employment and Wages, May [illegible], [illegible]-[illegible], Administrative Law Judges, Adjudicators, and Hearing Officers, http://www.bls.gov/oes/[illegible]/may/oes[illegible].htm#([illegible]).

137 Administrative Procedure Act of [illegible], Pub. L. No. [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (codified at [illegible] U.S.C. § [illegible] et seq. ([illegible])); George B. Shepherd, Fierce Compromise: The Administrative Procedure Act Emerges from New Deal Politics, [illegible] Northwestern Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

138 [illegible] U.S.C. § [illegible] ([illegible]).

139 [illegible] U.S.C. § [illegible] ([illegible]).

140 See Paul R. Verkuil & Jeffrey S. Lubbers, Alternative Approaches to Judicial Review of Social Security Disability Cases, [illegible] Administrative Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Verkuil & Lubbers). The Social Security system began in [illegible]. By [illegible], some [illegible] percent of those over age sixty-five received social security benefits. Robert M. Ball, The Original Understanding on Social Security: Implications for Later Developments, in Social Security: Beyond the Rhetoric of Crisis [illegible] (Theodore R. Marmor & Jerry L. Mashaw, eds., Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible]). A hearings and appeals system then existed that heard arguments about administrative errors.

Over time, adjudicatory procedures were elaborated. The number of administrative law judges grew from about [illegible] in [illegible] to [illegible] in [illegible] to more than [illegible] in [illegible]. In [illegible], disability appeals before administrative law judges numbered some [illegible],[illegible] per year. By [illegible], the number of such appeals was [illegible],[illegible]. Jerry L. Mashaw, Disability Insurance in an Age of Retrenchment: The Politics of Implementing Rights, in Social Security: Beyond the Rhetoric of Crisis at [illegible]. By the early [illegible]s, more than [illegible],[illegible] requests for hearings were made annually. See Robert S. Haberman & David G. Hatfield, The Role of the Appeals Council in the Administrative Adjudicative Process: Unveiling the Mysteries, [illegible] Federal Bar News & Journal [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Jerry L. Mashaw, Bureaucratic Justice: Managing Social Security Disability Claims (New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Mashaw, Bureaucratic Justice); Jerry L. Mashaw, Charles J. Goetz, Frank I. Goodman, Warren F. Schwartz, Paul R. Verkuil, & Milton M. Carrow, Social Security Hearings and Appeals: A Study of the Social Security Administration Hearing System (Lexington, MA: Lexington Books, [illegible]) (hereinafter Mashaw et al., Social Security Hearings and Appeals).

141 See Paul R. Verkuil, Reflections upon the Federal Administrative Judiciary, [illegible] UCLA Law Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); John H. Frye III, Survey of Non-ALJ Hearing Programs in the Federal Government, ___ Administrative Law Review ___, ___ (____).

142 See Michael Asimow, The Administrative Judiciary: ALJs in Historical Perspective, ___ Journal of the National Association of Administrative Judges ___ (____).

143 See Chris Guthrie, Jeffrey J. Rachlinski, & Andrew J. Wistrich, The Hidden Judiciary: An Empirical Examination of Executive Branch Justice, ___ Duke Law Journal ___, ___–___ (____).

144 See E. Donald Elliott & Sanjay A. Narayan, Administrative Health Courts for Medical Injury Claims: The Federal Constitutional Issues, ___ Journal of Health, Politics, Policy and Law ___ (____). Others are less enthusiastic. See Philip G. Peters Jr., Health Courts, ___ Boston University Law Review ___ (____).

145 See, for example, Murray's Lessee v. Hoboken Land & Improvement Co., ___ U.S. ___ (____); Crowell v. Benson, ___ U.S. ___ (____); Commodity Futures Trading Commission v. Schor, ___ U.S. ___ (____). See generally Richard H. Fallon, Jr., If Legislative Courts, Administrative Agencies, and Article ___, ___ Harvard Law Review ___ (____); Resnick, Inventing the Federal District Courts at ___–___, ___–___.

146 The United States Constitution also mentions congressional authority to constitute "tribunals" and that provision could be read as a basis for some of this expansion. See generally James Pfander, One Supreme Court: Supremacy, Inferiority, and the Judicial Department of the United States (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ____). Moreover, reinterpretation of constitutional provisions can be found in many contexts. The Commerce Clause powers of the federal government, for example, came to be seen as broader than had been the understanding during the nineteenth century. See, for example, Wickard v. Filburn, ___ U.S. ___ (____); Gonzales v. Raich, ___ U.S. ___ (____).

147 See James F. Flanagan, An Update on Developments in Central Panels and ALJ Final Order Authority, ___ Indiana Law Review ___ (____). More than half of the states had organized administrative judges in central panels. See Jim Rossi, Overcoming Parochialism: State Administrative Procedure and Institutional Design, ___ Administrative Law Review ___, ___ (____).

148 The pivotal decision is Goldberg v. Kelly, ___ U.S. ___ (____).

149 Agencies can therefore generate internal court systems, with various levels of deference (or not) to lower-level decisionmakers, and, depending on the statute giving authority to a particular agency, claimants may also be able to obtain court review—often with deference—of agency judgments.

150 Some explanation of the category "evidentiary hearings" is in order. The Administrative Office of the United States Courts, which provides statistics on the federal system, defined trials as all proceedings, civil or criminal, before Article III judges that were "contested hearings at which evidence is presented." See Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, ____ Annual Report of the Director: Judicial Business of the United States Courts ___–___ (____), http://www.uscourts.gov/judbus____/front/____artext.pdf. Separate tables tallied proceedings before magistrate and bankruptcy judges. Included in the definition would be testimony taken on motions, trials begun but aborted due to settlement or otherwise, and those trials that resulted in the disposition of a case.

151 The sources for this calculation are detailed in Judith Resnick, Migrating, Morphing, and Vanishing: The Empirical and Normative Puzzles of Declining Trial Rates in Courts, ___ Journal of Empirical Legal Studies ___ (____) (hereinafter Resnick, Migrating, Morphing, and Vanishing); Natalie Ram & Bertrall Ross, Analyzing the Federal Administrative Adjudication (June ___, ____) (unpublished paper). The data on the chart in figure ___ were compiled by then Yale Law students Jennifer Peresie, Natalie Ram, and Bertrall Ross. We were aided by administrative law experts Michael Asimow, Steven Croley, Eugene Fidell, Jeffrey Lubbers, Elizabeth Magill, and Jerry Mashaw, and by Yale Law School librarian Camilla Tubbs.

152 See Resnick, Migrating, Morphing, and Vanishing at ___, n. ___. Although the Supreme Court held in ____ that immigration cases were subject to the APA, Congress reversed that conclusion. In ____, the Department of Justice created an administrative division to deal with immigration cases that separated the hearing officers from the Immigration and Naturalization Service to provide distinctions akin to those in the APA structure. See Gary J. Edles, An APA Default Presumption for Administrative Hearings: Some Thoughts on Assigning the Adjudication Process, ___ Administrative Law Review ___, ___–___ (____). But the decisionmakers remained employees of the Department of Justice and hence subject to its authority. In ____, the Attorney General proposed a reduction in the number of immigration judges. See Board of Immigration Appeals: Procedural Reforms to Improve Case Management, ___ Fed. Reg. ___ (Feb. ___, ____). The proposal was controversial, and some argued that it was motivated by efforts to remove judges perceived to be less responsive to the government's approach. See Lisa Getter, "Immigration Judges Call for Independent Court," Los Angeles Times, Jan. ___, ____, at A___; Jaya Ramji-Nogales, Andrew I. Schoenholtz, & Philip G. Schrag, "Refugee Roulette: Disparities in Asylum Adjudication", ___ Stanford Law Review ___, ___–___ (____) (hereinafter "Refugee Roulette").

153 ___ C.F.R. § ____.___(e) (____) ("Attendance at hearings will be limited to persons determined by the administrative judge to have direct knowledge relating to the complaint. Hearings are part of the investigative process and are thus closed to the public.").

154 See, for example, ___ C.F.R. § ___.___ (____) ("Only the appellant and/or his or her authorized representative may appear and present argument in support of an appeal").

155 Hearings other than exclusion proceedings are presumptively open; however, immigration judges may respond to space constraints by limiting attendees—with priority in seats going to the press. ___ C.F.R. § ____.___(a) (____). Further, immigration judges are authorized to close hearings in order to protect "witnesses, parties, or the public interest." id. at (b), when family abuse is at issue, id. at (c), when certain kinds of protective orders are sought, id. at (d), or, under some case law, when national security concerns are at issue. North Jersey Media Group, Inc. v. Ashcroft, ___ F.___d ___, ___ (___d Cir. ____) (upholding a blanket closing, based on national security concerns, of deportation hearings), cert. denied, ___ U.S. ___ (____). But see Detroit Free Press v. Ashcroft, ___ F.___d ___, ___ (___th Cir. ____) (finding that a general closing of such proceedings violates the First Amendment).

156 ___ C.F.R. § ___.___(d) (____) (providing that in civil penalty monetary cases, "the hearing will be open to the public unless otherwise ordered by the ALJ for good cause"). Social Security regulations further provide that "a hearing is open only to you (the claimant) and to other persons the administrative law judge considers necessary and proper." See ___ C.F.R. § ___.___ (a).

157 In the ____s, Congress created the Administrative Conference of the United States (ACUS), designed to provide some interagency analysis. See Administrative Conference Act, Pub. L. No. ___-___, ___ Stat. ___ (____). But Congress never funded ACUS at a level that would have permitted it to survey and report regularly on all of the adjudicatory practices of agencies. In later years Congress did not fund ACUS at all. See Toni M. Fine, "Legislative Analysis of the Demise of the Administrative Conference of the United States", ___ Arizona State Law Journal ___, ___ (____).

158 Some agencies provided forms of information about their adjudication. For example, the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) posted judgments rendered by its Administrative Law Judges. See NLRB, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Decisions, http://www.nlrb.gov/research/decisions/alj-decisions.aspx. The opinions of the NLRB were collected in an agency report. See NLRB, Board Decisions, http://www.nlrb.gov/Research/Decisions/Board□□Fdecisions; NLRB, Regional Directors, http://www.nlrb.gov/Research/Decisions/regional□directors.aspx.

The Executive Office of Immigration Review provided statistics about asylum outcomes, with details about the nationalities of petitioners and dispositions of cases, but the materials were presented in the aggregate. See Executive Office for Immigration Review, □nde□ of □re□uent□ □e□uested □□ □□Processed □ecords, http://www.usdoj.gov/eoir/efoia/foiafreq.htm; see also Executive Office for Immigration Review, U.S. Dep't of Justice, Immigration Courts: FY □□□□ Asylum Statistics (□□□□), http://www.usdoj.gov/eoir/efoia/FY□□AsyStats.pdf.

159 See Center for Gender □ Refugee Studies, □□□ and □nter□ national Case Law, http://cgrs.uchastings.edu/law.

160 See TRAC, □□out □ s, http://trac.syr.edu/aboutTRACgeneral.html.

161 See generally Mashaw, Bureaucratic Justice; Mashaw et al., Social Security Hearings and Appeals; Verkuil □ Lubbers.

162 Christopher B. McNeil, Perceptions of □airness in State □dministrative □ earin□s, □□ Judicature □□□□ (□□□□).

163 □efu□ee □oulette at □□□, □□□–□□□.

164 □efu□ee □oulette at □□□.

165 □efu□ee □oulette at □□□.

166 The excerpts in figure □□□ come from a contract that we had with the service then providing us with cell phones. See Verizon Wireless eStore, Your Verizon Wireless Customer Agreement. These materials exemplify this genre of contract; other providers had similar contracts. See, for example, Sprint, Terms and Conditions: Terms and Conditions of Service, http://www.sprintpcs.com/common/popups/popLegalTermsPrivacy.html□□. Our thanks to Peter Jaszi for advice on copyright and reproduction rights and to Verizon's Vice President and Associate General Counsel, Sarah B. Deutsch, who in □□□□ confirmed the propriety of the publication of a portion of the contract for this particular use.

167 On the enforcement of such provisions, see generally Cale□ v□ □ulfstream □erospace Corp., □□□ F.□d □□□□ (□□th Cir. □□□□) (enforcing arbitration clauses despite arguments by employees seeking class treatment of claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act and the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, as well as individual claims under the Fair Labor Standards Act and Title VII); Jean R. Sternlight □ Elizabeth J. Jensen, □sin□□ r□itration to □liminate Con□sumer Class □ctions□□□ cient Business Practice or □nconsciona□le □□use□ □□ Law □ Contemporary Problems □□ (□□□□).

168 Although some argued that a failure of such contracts to specify costs ought to be grounds for the unenforceability of mandatory arbitration clauses entered into prior to the occurrence of disputes, the Supreme Court concluded that the burden rests on the party challenging a particular procedure to establish that the costs imposed prevented that person from effectively vindicating federal statutory rights. See □reen Tree □inancial Corporation□□ la□ama v□□ andolph, □□□ U.S. □□, □□ (□□□□).

169 See Robert Ellickson, Order without Law: How Neighbors Settle Disputes (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, □□□□); Lisa Bernstein, □ptin□□ ut of the Le□al S□stem□□trale□al Contractual □elations in the Diamond □ndustr□, □□ Journal of Legal Studies □□□ (□□□□).

170 See National Labor Relations Act of □□□□, □□ U.S.C. □□ □□□–□□□ (□□□□). See generally Cynthia Estlund, Working Together: How Workplace Bonds Strengthen a Diverse Democracy (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, □□□□); Benjamin Sachs, □mplo□ment Law as La□or Law, □□ Cardozo Law Review □□□□ (□□□□).

171 David Marcus, The Perils of Contract Procedure□□ □evised □istor□ of □orum Selection Clauses in the □ederal Courts, □□ Tulane Law Review □□□ (□□□□).

172 Ian R. Macneil, American Arbitration Law: Reformation □ Nationalization□ Internationalization □□–□□ (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, □□□□).

173 See United States Arbitration Act, Pub. L. No. □□-□□□, □□ Stat. □□□ (□□□□) (codified as amended at □ U.S.C. □□□–□□ (□□□□)). The current version is commonly referred to as the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA).

174 See, for example, Wilko v□Swan, □□□ U.S. □□□, □□□ (□□□□). That decision was overruled in □odri□ue□ de □ u□as v□Shearson □mer□ican □□press, □nc., □□□ U.S. □□□ (□□□□).

175 See, for example, Mitsu□ishi Motors Corp□ v□Soler Chr□sler□ Pl□mouth, □nc., □□□ U.S. □□□, □□□ (□□□□); Dean Witter □e□nolds, □nc□ v□B□rd, □□□ U.S. □□□, □□□ (□□□□); □reen Tree □inancial Corporation□ □la□ama v□□andolph, □□□ U.S. □□, □□–□□ (□□□□). The lower courts followed suit. See, for example, □u□den v□□etna, □nc., □□□ F.□d □□□, □□□ (□d Cir. □□□□) (holding that claims under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act's whistleblower protection provisions are arbitrable and concluding that □the loss of a public forum in which to air allegations of fraud does not undermine the statutory purpose of a whistleblower protection provision□).

176 See Circuit Cit□ Stores, □nc□ v□□dams, □□□ U.S. □□□, □□□ (□□□□). On remand, the Ninth Circuit concluded that, under California law, the contract was not enforceable because it was a contract of adhesion. Circuit Cit□ Stores, □nc□ v□□dams, □□□ F.□d □□□, □□□ (□th Cir. □□□□).

177 The point was sharply made in □□□□ in Bucke□e Check Cash□in□, □nc□ v□Carde□na, □□□ U.S. □□□ (□□□□), where the Supreme Court heard an appeal of the Florida Supreme Court's decision that an arbitration provision was unenforceable because the underlying contract had a provision that, under Florida law, was invalid and nonseverable. See Carde□na v□Bucke□e Check Cashin□, □nc., □□□ So. □d □□□, □□□–□□□ (Fla. □□□□). But the United States Supreme Court ruled that federal law required that the issue of the contract's enforcement be presented in arbitration. Bucke□e Check Cashin□, □□□ U.S. at □□□. Further, even when state law would send an issue to an administrative forum, federal law superseded state rules and required arbitration. See Preston v□ □errer, □□□ U.S. □□□, □□□ (□□□□). In another decision, □reen Tree □inancial Corporation v□Ba□□le, □□□ U.S. □□□, □□□–□□□ (□□□□), the Supreme Court concluded that the question of whether an arbitration contract precluded a class arbitration was an issue to be determined initially by an arbitrator rather than a judge.

178 See, for example, Southland Corp□v□□eatin□, □□□ U.S. □, □□–□□ (□□□□). See also Preston v□□errer, □□□ U.S. □□□ (□□□□).

179 See, for example, □reen Tree □inancial Corporation□□ la□ama v□□andolph, □□□ U.S. □□, □□ (□□□□). That ruling has resulted in some lower courts authorizing discovery into the costs to be imposed in a particular program. See, for example, James v□McDonald□ Corp., □□□ F.□d □□□, □□□ (□th Cir. □□□□) (requiring courts to apply □a case-by-case analysis□ focusing in part on the claimant's □ability to pay the arbitration fees and costs, the expected cost differential between arbitration and litigation in court, and whether the cost differential is so substantial as to deter the bringing of claims□) (citation omitted).

180 See, for example, Public Citizen, The Arbitration Trap: How Credit Card Companies Ensnare Consumers (□□□□), http://www.citizen.org/documents/ArbitrationTrap.pdf. Cf. Stephen Ware, The Case for □nforcin□ □dhesive □r□itration □□reements□ with Particular Consideration of Class □ctions and □r□itration □ees, □ Journal of American Arbitration □□□ (□□□□).

181 In □□□□, members of Congress proposed a Civil Rights Procedures Protection Act of □□□□, H.R. □□□□, □□□th Cong. □st Sess. (□□□□), to make contracts mandating arbitration unenforceable if plaintiffs sought to bring claims under certain federal civil rights statutes. In □□□□ another act, The Arbitration Fairness Act of □□□□, S. □□□□, □□□th Cong. (□□□□), sought to make unenforceable certain mandatory arbitration agreements proffered to consumers. See also The Consumer Fairness Act of [illegible], H.R. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]). Further, in [illegible], Congress enacted a provision that made ex ante agreements to arbitrate unenforceable when entered into by automobile franchisees and franchisors. See the Motor Vehicle Franchise Contract Arbitration Fairness Act, S. Rep. No. [illegible]-[illegible], at [illegible] ([illegible]), enacted as a rider to the [illegible]st Century Department of Justice Appropriations Authorization Act, Pub. L. No. [illegible]-[illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Stat. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]), codified at [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Franchise Contract Fairness Act).

182 See Jean R. Sternlight, Creepin[illegible] Mandator[illegible] [illegible]r[illegible]itration[illegible]s [illegible]t Just[illegible] Stanford Law Review [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Sternlight, Creepin[illegible] Mandator[illegible] [illegible]r[illegible]itration).

183 Nebraska Const. of [illegible], Art. [illegible], cl. [illegible].

184 [illegible]erman[illegible] [illegible]merican [illegible]nsurance Co[illegible] v[illegible] [illegible]therton, [illegible] N.W. [illegible], [illegible] (Neb. [illegible]).

185 Phoeni[illegible] [illegible]nsurance Co[illegible] v[illegible] [illegible]lotk[illegible], [illegible] N.W. [illegible], [illegible] (Neb. [illegible]).

186 State v[illegible] Ne[illegible]raska [illegible]ssociation of Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]mplo[illegible]ees, Local [illegible], [illegible] N.W.[illegible]d [illegible] (Neb. [illegible]); Neb. Const., Art. I, [illegible] [illegible]. The court struck down the legislation not as violating the public policy of the legislature but as violating the state constitution.

187 Neb. Const., Art. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible]. See John M. Gradwohl, [illegible]r[illegible]itra[illegible]il[illegible]it[illegible] under Ne[illegible]raska Contracts[illegible] [illegible]elative[illegible] Clarified at Last, [illegible] Creighton Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

188 The application of these precepts is somewhat more complex. See Sternlight, Creepin[illegible] Mandator[illegible] [illegible]r[illegible]itration at [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). As we noted, the Supreme Court concluded that if mandatory arbitration imposed significantly greater costs, a contract to use such a process might not be enforceable. Similarly, demonstration of process failures or bias in the ADR mechanism can be the basis for not requiring arbitration. But the burden of demonstrating a lack of adequacy falls on the party opposing the mandatory provision. See also Susan Randall, Judicial [illegible]ttitudes Toward [illegible]r[illegible]itration and the [illegible]esur[illegible]ence of [illegible]nconsciona[illegible]ilit[illegible], [illegible] Buffalo Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Some litigants sought, by contract, to increase judicial oversight of arbitration awards beyond the statutory bases (such as fraud or bias) of the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA). The Supreme Court rejected the efforts to supplement the FAA's enumerated grounds for review. [illegible] all Street [illegible]ssociates, L[illegible]L[illegible]C, v[illegible] Mattel, [illegible]nc., [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]). On the other hand, a few courts have concluded that complete preclusion of mechanisms for aggregation, akin to class actions in courts, render a contract unenforceable. See, for example, [illegible] entr[illegible] v[illegible] Superior Court, [illegible] P. [illegible]d [illegible] (Cal. [illegible]), cert. denied sub nom. Circuit Cit[illegible] Stores, [illegible]nc[illegible] v[illegible] entr[illegible], [illegible] S. Ct. [illegible] ([illegible]). Moreover, as noted, a few statutory provisions exempt certain kinds of litigants from these mandates. See the Franchise Contract Fairness Act. Thus litigants with knowledge, access to lawyers, and resources may be able to dispute the obligation to arbitrate. See generally Judith Resnik, The [illegible]ights of [illegible]eme[illegible]dies[illegible] Collective [illegible]ccountin[illegible]s for and [illegible]nsurin[illegible] a[illegible]ainst the [illegible]arms of Se[illegible]ual [illegible]arassment, in Directions in Sexual Harassment Law [illegible] (Catharine A. MacKinnon [illegible] Reva B. Siegel, eds., New Haven, CT: Yale U. Press, [illegible]).

189 James J. Alfini [illegible] Catherine G. McCabe, Mediatin[illegible] in the Shadow of the Courts[illegible] Surve[illegible] of the [illegible]mer[illegible]in[illegible] Case Law, [illegible] Arkansas Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

190 [illegible]nited States v[illegible] [illegible]lens [illegible]alls Newspapers, [illegible]nc., [illegible] F.[illegible]d [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

191 See, for example, [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] illegible ([illegible]) ([illegible]each district court shall . . . provide for the confidentiality of the alternative dispute resolution processes and . . . prohibit disclosure of confidential dispute resolution communications.[illegible]).

192 See JAMS Comprehensive Arbitration Rules[illegible] Procedures, Rule illegible, http://www.jamsadr.com/rules-comprehensive-arbitration/[illegible]Rule[illegible] [illegible]. The caveat noted that JAMS and the arbitrator would disclose [illegible]as necessary in connection with a judicial challenge[illegible] to its enforcement or if otherwise required by court order. See also Dor[illegible] at n. [illegible]. There listed are comparable provisions from other such organizations, including the American Arbitration Association and the National Arbitration Forum, as well as the Commercial Arbitration Rules and the Global Arbitration and Mediation Service Rules.

193 See [illegible]eria Credit Bureau, [illegible]nc[illegible] v[illegible] Cin[illegible]ular Wireless, [illegible] F.[illegible]d [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]th Cir. [illegible]). The decision found enforceable mandatory arbitration clauses in cell phone contracts[illegible] in part because both the company and the consumer were bound. Id. at [illegible]. The court specifically rejected the plaintiffs' argument that the confidentiality of the outcomes was objectionable. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

194 See American Arbitration Association, Wireless [illegible]ndustr[illegible] [illegible]r[illegible]itration [illegible]ules (June [illegible], [illegible]), http://www.adr.org/sp.asp[illegible]d[illegible] (providing, in Rule [illegible], that [illegible]the arbitrator shall ensure the privacy of the hearings[illegible]). The Better Business Bureau's [illegible]Arbitration Rule [illegible] permits outside observers to attend as long as there is [illegible]room and no objection[illegible] from either the parties or the arbitrator. Better Business Bureau, [illegible]ules and [illegible]e[illegible]ulations of Bindin[illegible] [illegible]r[illegible]itration, http://www.bbb.org/us/Dispute-Resolution-Services/Binding-Arbitration/ (hereinafter BBB, [illegible]r[illegible]itration [illegible]ules).

195 See BBB, [illegible]r[illegible]itration [illegible]ules, Rule [illegible] (stating that [illegible]u[illegible]nless there is approval of all parties and the arbitrator, neither media representatives nor any other observer may be permitted to bring cameras, lights, recording devices or any other equipment into the hearing[illegible]). Further, the media's attendance is contingent upon the consent of the arbitrator and the parties. Where the requisite consent is obtained, [illegible]m[illegible]edia shall be permitted access to arbitration hearings on the same basis as other observers[illegible] Id.

196 Theodore Eisenberg, Geoffrey P. Miller, [illegible] Emily Sherwin, [illegible]r[illegible]itration[illegible] Summer Soldiers[illegible] [illegible]n [illegible]mpirical Stud[illegible] of [illegible]r[illegible]itration Clauses in Consumer and Nonconsumer Contracts, [illegible] U. of Michigan Journal of Legal Reform [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

197 Eisenberg, Miller, [illegible] Sherwin at [illegible].

198 Eisenberg, Miller, [illegible] Sherwin at [illegible]. They assembled their data set by identifying [illegible]a number of companies with significant market shares or name recognition in the telecommunications, credit, and financial services industries[illegible] most of which appeared on [illegible]ortune's list of Top [illegible] American Companies. Id. at [illegible]. See also id. at [illegible], Table [illegible] (detailing the companies included, such as AT[illegible]T, Chase, and Time Warner). The researchers then [illegible]searched for negotiated agreements entered into by the same companies[illegible] by combing [illegible]the companies' Form [illegible]-K and Form [illegible]-K [illegible]SEC[illegible]filings during the period from January [illegible], [illegible] to August [illegible], [illegible]. Id. at [illegible]. Their sample included [illegible] consumer agreements drafted by [illegible] companies and [illegible] negotiated, material contracts entered into by the same companies[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. For a summary of Eisenberg, Miller, and Sherwin's findings regarding [illegible]mass[illegible] contracts, see id. at [illegible], Table [illegible] (breaking down the rate of arbitration clauses by contract type and showing that over [illegible] percent of the consumer contracts examined included mandatory arbitration clauses).

Another study sought to capture the experience of consumers. See Linda J. Demaine [illegible] Deborah R. Hensler, [illegible]olunteerin[illegible] to [illegible]r[illegible]itrate throu[illegible]h Predispute [illegible]r[illegible]itration Clauses[illegible] The [illegible]era[illegible]e Consumer[illegible] [illegible]pe[illegible]rience, [illegible] Law [illegible] Contemporary Problems [illegible] ([illegible]). Demaine and Hensler reported [illegible]the results of a study investigating, in a wide variety of consumer purchases, the frequency with which the average consumer encounters arbitration clauses, the key provisions of these clauses, and the implications of these clauses for consumers who subsequently have disputes with the businesses they patronize[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. They used data from the [illegible] Annual Demographic Survey (March Current Population Survey Supplement), published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Bureau of the Census, to create a statistical profile of [illegible]Joe[illegible] from Los Angeles, whom they denoted as an average consumer. Id. at [illegible]. The researchers then examined the industries from which [illegible]Joe[illegible] made purchases, assembled a random sample, and ultimately obtained information on the use of arbitration clauses from [illegible] businesses. Id. at [illegible]. Of these, fifty-seven [illegible] or around [illegible] percent [illegible] included arbitration clauses in their consumer contracts, with the greatest prevalence among financial businesses and the lowest among food and entertainment businesses. Id. at [illegible].

199 Eisenberg, Miller, [illegible] Sherwin at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

200 As noted, some researchers have studied subsets. See, for example, Tina Nabatchi [illegible] Lisa B. Bingham, Transformative Mediation in the [illegible] SPS[illegible] [illegible]edress Pro[illegible]ram[illegible] [illegible]servations of [illegible] D[illegible] Specialists, [illegible] Hofstra Labor [illegible] Employment Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

201 The degree of deference accorded arbitrators is criticized in Michael H. LeRoy, Crownin[illegible] the New [illegible]in[illegible] The Statutor[illegible] [illegible]r[illegible]itrator and the Demise of Judicial [illegible]eview, [illegible] Journal of Dispute Resolution [illegible] ([illegible]).

202 [illegible]ilmer v[illegible]nterstate Johnson Lane Corp., [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) (citing Mitsu[illegible]ishi Motors Corp[illegible] v[illegible] Soler Chr[illegible]sler[illegible]P[illegible]mouth, [illegible]nc., [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible])).

203 [illegible]reen Tree [illegible]inancial Corporation[illegible] [illegible]la[illegible]ama v[illegible] [illegible]andolph, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

204 See Richard C. Reuben, Confidentialit[illegible] in [illegible]r[illegible]itration[illegible] Be[illegible]ond the M[illegible]th, [illegible] University of Kansas Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

205 One proposal called for a database of civil settlements to provide a market of information about such agreements. A software program[illegible] aptly named Colossus[illegible] existed that enabled such information to be gathered. See Stephen C. Yeazell, Transparenc[illegible] for Civil Settlements[illegible] N[illegible] SD[illegible] [illegible] for Lawsuits[illegible] in Transparency in the Civil Justice System (Los Angeles, CA: UCLA-Rand, [illegible]). See also Joseph F. Anderson Jr., Secrec[illegible] in the Courts[illegible] [illegible]t the Tippin[illegible] Point[illegible] Villanova Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Joseph F. Anderson Jr., [illegible] idden from the Pu[illegible]lic [illegible] [illegible] rder of the Court[illegible] The Case [illegible]ainst [illegible] overnment[illegible] [illegible]nforced Secrec[illegible], [illegible] South Carolina Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

206 See Fla. Statutes Annotated [illegible] [illegible].illegible (West Supp. [illegible]) (requiring the reporting of payments of claims that exceed [illegible],[illegible]).

207 Fla. Statutes Annotated [illegible] [illegible].[illegible] (West [illegible]).

208 As of [illegible], some twenty states had statutes or court rules that constrained litigants' and judges' ability to make court documents and outcomes inaccessible. Included were Arizona, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia, and Washington. Coverage and exceptions vary widely. See, for example, Ark. Code Annotated [illegible] [illegible]-[illegible]-[illegible], [illegible]-[illegible]-[illegible] (West [illegible]) (prohibiting the sealing of government documents and voiding private contracts that limit disclosure of environmental hazards); La. Code Civil Procedure illegible (West [illegible]) (prohibiting the enforceability of agreements that limit the disclosure of public hazards); N.C. General Statutes Annotated [illegible] [illegible]-[illegible].[illegible] (West [illegible]) (prohibiting sealing of settlements of [illegible]any suit, administrative proceeding or arbitration instituted against any agency of North Carolina government or its subdivisions[illegible] arising out of government actions except those related to medical care, unless the policy of openness is overridden and no other less restrictive means is available); Tx. Rules of Civil Procedure [illegible]a([illegible])(b) (stating that settlement agreements that [illegible]seek to restrict disclosure of information concerning matters that have a probable adverse effect upon the general public health or safety, or the administration of public office, or the operation of government[illegible] shall be presumed to be open); Wash. Rev. Code Ann. [illegible] [illegible].[illegible].[illegible] (West. [illegible]) (requiring professional liability insurers of physicians to report settlements in excess of [illegible],[illegible] or the payment of three or more claims within a five-year period); id. at [illegible].[illegible].[illegible] (limiting confidentiality provisions when claims involve product liability or hazardous substances).

209 The proposals to make more information available include provisions to expand as well as to constrict judicial authority. For example, a [illegible]Sunshine in the Courtroom Act of [illegible] would have authorized federal appellate and trial judges to permit the photographing and the televising of proceedings under certain circumstances as long as the [illegible]due process[illegible] rights of parties were not violated. See Sunshine in the Courtroom Act of [illegible], H.R. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]); Sunshine in the Courtroom Act of [illegible], S. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]). The proposals also detailed that jurors were not to be televised and that witnesses could request that their faces and voices be disguised to make them unrecognizable to the broadcast audience. See, for example, the [illegible] House Sunshine provision, H.R. [illegible] [illegible] illegible([illegible])(A)(ii), illegible([illegible])(B).

Another initiative, put forth in a different proposal called the [illegible]Sunshine in Litigation Act of [illegible], [illegible] focused on the documents submitted, as contrasted with the courtroom, and would have limited the power of federal judges to permit parties to seal settlements or to promise confidentiality of discovery materials in civil cases. See Sunshine in Litigation Act of [illegible], S. [illegible], [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]). See generally The Sunshine in Litigation Act: Does Court Secrecy Undermine Public Health and Safety: Hearing on S. [illegible] Before the Subcomm. on Antitrust, Competition Policy and Consumer Rights of the S. Comm. on the Judiciary, [illegible]th Cong. [illegible]-[illegible] ([illegible]) at [illegible]–[illegible] (statement of Judith Resnik, Arthur Liman Professor of Law, Yale Law School).

210 See, for example, Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure illegible([illegible]) ([illegible]Before the court accepts a plea of guilty or nolo contendere, the defendant may be placed under oath, and the court must address the defendant personally in open court[illegible]).

211 See, for example, N.Y. Civil Practice Laws and Rules [illegible] (McKinney [illegible]); Wa. Superior Court Civil Rules [illegible]A ([illegible]); Wis. Statute [illegible] [illegible].[illegible] ([illegible]).

212 See generally Robert Timothy Reagan, Shannon R. Wheatman, Marie Leary, Natacha Blain, Steven S. Gensler, George Cort, [illegible] Dean Miletich, Sealed Settlement Agreements in Federal District Court (Washington, DC: Federal Judicial Center, [illegible]), http://www.fjc.gov/public/pdf.nsf/lookup/SealSet[illegible].pdf/[illegible]file/SealSet[illegible].pdf. The Supreme Court also concluded that [illegible]special trial judges[illegible] in the tax court were not authorized to keep their reports secret. Ballard v[illegible] Commissioner of [illegible]nternal [illegible]evenue Service, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] ([illegible]).

213 See Judith Resnik, Whose Jud[illegible]ment[illegible] [illegible]acatin[illegible] Jud[illegible]ments, Preferences for Settlement, and the [illegible]ole of [illegible]d[illegible]udication at the Close of the Twentieth Centur[illegible], [illegible] UCLA Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Jill E. Fisch, [illegible]ewritin[illegible] [illegible]istor[illegible] The [illegible]radication of Prior Decisional Law throu[illegible]h Settlement and [illegible]acatur, [illegible] Cornell Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

214 See Seattle Times Co[illegible]v[illegible] [illegible]hinehart, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). The degree to which courts can and should regulate parties' interest in confidentiality during discovery exchanges is disputed. See Richard L. Marcus, [illegible] Modest Proposal[illegible] eco[illegible]n[illegible]in[illegible] [illegible]at Last[illegible] That the [illegible]ederal [illegible]ules Do Not Declare That Discover[illegible]s Presumptivel[illegible] Pu[illegible]lic, [illegible] Chicago-Kent Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Howard M. Erichson, Court[illegible] rdered Confi[illegible]dentialit[illegible] in Discover[illegible], [illegible] Chicago-Kent Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]). Several proposals have been made for regulation. See The Sedona Guidelines: Best Practice Guidelines [illegible] Commentary for Managing Information [illegible] Records in the Electronic Age ([illegible]), http://www.thesedonaconference.org/content/miscFiles/TSG[illegible].pdf. As noted, federal legislation has been proposed to do so but, as of [illegible], has not been enacted.

215 Jeffrey W. Stempel, Mandatin[illegible] Minimum [illegible]ualit[illegible] in Mass [illegible]r[illegible]itration, [illegible] U. Cincinnati Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Lande at [illegible]–[illegible]; National Association of Securities Dealers Press Release, New Arbitration Rule Requires Award Explanations upon Investor Request (Jan. [illegible], [illegible]) ([illegible]allowing customers arbitrating disputes with brokers or brokerage firms to require a written explanation of the arbitration panel's decision[illegible]).

216 Jeffrey W. Stempel, [illegible]eepin[illegible] [illegible]r[illegible]itrations from Becomin[illegible] [illegible]an[illegible] [illegible]aroo Courts, [illegible] Nevada Law Journal [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

217 That literature is vast, much of it for practitioners. See, for example, Stephen B. Goldberg [illegible] Margaret L. Shaw, [illegible]s the Mediator[illegible]

Primar□ □ oal to Settle the Dispute□□□ Dispute Resolution Magazine □□–□□ (Winter □□□□).

218 Jean R. Sternlight, □□ □lternative Dispute □esolution Consistent with the □ule of Law□□□ DePaul Law Review □□□ (□□□□). See generally Richard C. Reuben, The Closin□ Courthouse Door□When □r□itra□ tion Su□verts Democrac□, □□ Trial □□ (Jan. □□□□).

219 Various efforts address how to balance interests in privacy and publicity. See Andrew D. Goldstein, Sealin□ and □evealin□□□ethinkin□ the □ules □ overnin□ Pu□lic □ ccess to □nformation □ enerated throu□h Liti□ □ation, □□ Chicago-Kent Law Review □□□ (□□□□); Joseph F. Anderson Jr., □ idden from the Pu□lic □□□ rder of the Court□The Case □□□ainst Court□□nforced Secrec□, □□ South Carolina Law Review □□□ (□□□□).

220 International Bar Association, The IBA Rules on Taking Evidence in International Commercial Arbitrations (London, Eng.: International Bar Association, □□□□), http://www.ibanet.org/Publications/publications□IBA□guides□and□free□materials.aspx (hereinafter The IBA Rules on Taking Evidence).

221 Thomas J. Stipanowich, □ r□itration□ The □New Liti□ation□ □□□□ U. of Illinois Law Review □ (□□□□).

222 Stipanowich at □□, citing a telephone interview with Nancy Vanderlip, Vice President and General Counsel, ITT Industries (Jan. □□□□).

223 Elizabeth Plapinger □ Donna Stienstra, ADR and Settlement in the Federal District Courts: A Sourcebook for Judges and Lawyers □ (Washington, DC: Federal Judicial Center, □□□□).

224 See Robert H. Mnookin □ Lewis Kornhauser, Bar□ainin□ in the Shadow of the Law□The Case of Divorce, □□ Yale Law Journal □□□ (□□□□).

225 Lon L. Fuller, The □orms and Limits of □ d□□udication, □□ Harvard Law Review □□□, □□□ (□□□□) (a posthumously published essay based on materials written in the late □□□□s).

226 For further discussion see Judith Resnik, Procedure as Con□ tract, □□ Notre Dame Law Review □□□ (□□□□); Resnik, Trial as □rror. One could take as a visual rendition of this shift a photograph, The □ ld St□Louis Count□ Court □ ouse □e□ected in the □□uita□le Buildin□, by William Clift, that is reproduced in the volume Court House: A Photographic Document □□ (Richard Pare, ed., New York: Horizon Press, □□□□). The flat glass of the international style and ironically named skyscraper reflects the Old Courthouse, and hence gives the appearance of that court's being subsumed by the surrounding corporate structures. The Equitable Building, designed by Hellmuth, Obata □ Kassabaum and built in □□□□, was renovated in the □□□□s and purchased by the Hertz Investment Group in □□□□ from the AXA Equitable Life Insurance Company. See □□uita□le Buildin□□ nder Con□ tract, St. Louis Business Journal, Jan. □, □□□□.

227 The IBA described its founding as □inspired by the vision of the United Nations□ As of □□□□, more than □□□ bar associations □spanning all continents□ and representing more than □□,□□□ individual lawyers were members. The purpose of the IBA includes shaping □the future of the legal profession throughout the world□ See http://www.ibanet.org/About□the□IBA/About□the□IBA.aspx. See also Gerald J. McMahon □ Werner Deuchler, Meet the □nternational Bar □ sso□ ciation, □□ A.B.A. Journal □□□ (□□□□).

228 In □□□□, the Council of Europe established the European Judicial Network □to improve, simplify and expedite effective judicial cooperation between the Member States in civil and commercial matters□ Council Decision □□□□/□□□/EC (□), □□□□ O.J. (L□□□) □□. By □□□□, the Network had more than four hundred members, delineated by four categories: □contact points,□□central authorities provided for in Community instruments and international agreements,□□liaison magistrates□ and □other judicial or administrative authorities with responsibilities for judicial cooperation□ See Commission of the European Communities, Report from the Commission to the Council, the European Parliament and the European Economic and Social Committee on the Application of Council Decision □□□□/□□□/EC establishing a European Judicial Network in civil and commercial matters □ (Brussels, Belg.: Commission of the European Communities, □□□□). See generally Eva Storskrubb, What Chan□es Will □uropean □ armonisation Brin□, in Common Law, Civil Law and the Future of Categories □□□–□□□ (Janet Walker □ Oscar G. Chase, eds., Markham, Can.: LexisNexis, □□□□) (hereinafter Common Law, Civil Law). This volume contains many of the papers that were presented at the International Association of Procedural Law (IAPL) Conference that was held in Toronto, Canada in June □□□□.

229 Examples can be drawn from several common law jurisdictions. See, for example, ADR and a Different Approach to Litigation, speech given by Marilyn Warren, A.C., Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Victoria, Australia, to the Law Institute of Victoria, Mar. □□, □□□□; Geoffrey L. Davies, Civil Justice □eform□Wh□ We Need to □ ues□ tion Some Basic □ssumptions, □□ Civil Justice Quarterly □□ (□□□□); Geoffrey L. Davies, Civil Justice □eform□Some Common Pro□lems, Some Possi□le Solutions, □□ Journal of Judicial Administration □ (□□□□); Hector L. MacQueen, Hume Papers on Public Policy: The Reform of Civil Justice (Edinburgh, Scot.: Edinburgh U. Press, □□□□). An overview of □the theory and practice□ of ADR in Australia is provided by Katherine Hall, □lternative Dispute □esolution, in Stephen Colbran, Greg Reinhardt, Peta Spender, Sheryl Jackson, □ Roger Douglas, Civil Procedure Commentary and Materials □□ (Chatswood, Aus.: Butterworths, □nd ed., □□□□). A collection of articles on ADR in Australia and Canada can be found in Alternative Dispute Resolution and the Courts (Tania Sourdin, ed., Annandale, Aus: Federation Press, □□□□).

230 Yves Dezalay □ Bryant G. Garth, Dealing in Virtue: International Commercial Arbitration and the Construction of a Transnational Legal Order □□□–□□□ (Chicago, IL: Chicago U. Press, □□□□).

231 Esther Martin, Searchin□ for Common □round, European Lawyer □□, □□ (July–Aug. □□□□). In contrast, a French lawyer reported that of □□□,□□□ disputes that went through the Paris commercial courts□ in □□□□, □only forty were ordered to mediation□ in part because of French jurists' hesitancy for fear that it was □sub-justice□ Id. at □□–□□.

232 The Global Class Action Exchange provides information through □country reports□ on developments toward aggregation, http://globalclassactions.stanford.edu. See also The Globalization of Class Actions, □□□ Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science (Deborah R. Hensler, Christopher Hodges, □ Magdalena Tulibacka, eds., Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage Publications, □□□□).

233 See, for example, Ross Cranston, How Law Works: The Machinery and Impact of Civil Justice □□–□□ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, □□□□). The volume focused on the English system and analyzed the differences in the position of courts in other countries with written constitutions and judicial review and those without. At a more practical level, the concept of □case management□ in the United States is typically tied to the individual calendar system in which judges are given specific cases to deal with from filing to disposition. In contrast, a □master calendar□ in which different judges deal with the same case at different phases□ in use in England in the □□□□s□ produces a different relationship to □management.□

234 Genn, What □s Civil Justice □or□ in Genn, Judging Civil Justice, at □□.

235 Genn, Judging Civil Justice at □□–□□.

236 Frederick Rosen, Jeremy Bentham and Representative Democracy: A Study of the Constitutional Code □□□–□□□ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, □□□□).

237 Cranston at □□. Other justifications included giving voice to the excluded, facilitating implementation of other rights, and responding to legal needs. Id. at □□–□□.

238 Richard Abel, English Lawyers Between Market and State □□□–□□□ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, □□□□).

239 Access to Justice Act, [illegible], c.[illegible] (Eng.), http://www.opsi.gov.uk/Acts/acts[illegible]/ukpga[illegible]en[illegible]. The [illegible] Access to Justice Act abolished the Legal Aid Board and created in its stead a Legal Services Commission to work through decentralized groups, such as the Community Legal Services and Criminal Defense Services, which are charged with assessing local needs, identifying lawyers eligible to provide services, and requesting funding. Budgets came with annual caps, resulting in the rationing of services and further restrictions on eligibility. Criminal defense services headed the priorities, followed on the civil side by funding for lawyers in disputes involving children, housing, and personal violence in homes. The [illegible] Act also identified a few new areas of need (such as immigration proceedings) and attempted to enhance use of technologies (such as a website for the Citizens' Advice Bureau) to provide information on legal processes and rights. See Pascoe Pleasence, Alexy Buck, Marisol Smith, Nigel Balmer, [illegible] Ashish Patel, Needs [illegible]ssess[illegible]ment and Communit[illegible] Le[illegible]al Services in [illegible]n[illegible]land and Wales, [illegible] International Journal of the Legal Profession [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); Cranston at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also The Transformation of Legal Aid: Comparative and Historical Studies (Francis Regan, Alan Paterson, Tamara Goriely, [illegible] Don Fleming, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

In addition, revisions of ethical rules in [illegible] enabled some claimants ineligible for Legal Aid to have new means for obtaining the assistance of lawyers. England relaxed its ban that had precluded lawyers from charging contingent fees by permitting [illegible]conditional fee agreements[illegible] that enabled solicitors to take cases despite a risk of nonpayment upon losing. [illegible]After the Event[illegible] (or ATE) insurance became available so that, if necessary, losers could pay victorious opponents, who were entitled under English fee-shifting rules to indemnification for fees and costs. The incentive to take such work was enhanced by entitling a lawyer for a prevailing plaintiff to the fees paid by the loser and to a bonus paid directly by the client but limited to no more than [illegible] percent of the hourly fees and, under rules of the Law Society, presumptively capped at no more than [illegible] percent of a client's damages. Revisions in [illegible] permitted the victorious lawyer to recover that [illegible]success fee[illegible] from the loser, sometimes paid through insurance premiums. See generally, A. A. S. Zuckerman, [illegible]eform in the Shadow of Law[illegible]ers[illegible] [illegible]nterests, in Reform of Civil Procedure: Essays on [illegible]Access to Justice[illegible]–[illegible] (A. A. Zuckerman [illegible] Ross Cranston, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Reform of Civil Procedure); Michael Zander, The [illegible]overnment[illegible] Plans on Le[illegible]al [illegible]id and Conditional [illegible]ees, [illegible] Modern Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]) (hereinafter Zander, The [illegible]overnment[illegible] Plans).

240 Lord Woolf, Access to Justice: Interim Report to the Lord Chancellor on the Civil Justice System in England and Wales (London, Eng.: Her Majesty's Stationery Office, [illegible]); Woolf, Final Report [illegible]. See generally Reform of Civil Procedure. While the reforms were often praised, a few sounded critical notes, most notably Michael Zander in The [illegible]overnment[illegible] Plans, and Wh[illegible] Lord Woolf[illegible] Proposed [illegible]eforms of Civil Lit[illegible]ation Should [illegible]e [illegible]e[illegible]cted in [illegible]eform of Civil Procedure, in Reform of Civil Procedure at [illegible]–[illegible].

241 Genn, Civil Justice[illegible] ow Much [illegible]s [illegible]nou[illegible]h[illegible] in Genn, Judging Civil Procedure at [illegible]–[illegible].

242 Cranston at [illegible]. He also noted that the Woolf Report did not provide a [illegible]wholly uncritical imprimatur[illegible] of all such procedures. Id.

243 See generally Cranston at [illegible]–[illegible].

244 See Neil Andrews, [illegible]n[illegible]lish Civil Justice and the Wider World, paper presented to the International Association of Procedural Law, Sept. [illegible]; Civil Procedure Rules, Practice Directions, Pre[illegible]ction Pro[illegible]tocols and Court [illegible]uides, www.dca.gov.uk/civil/procrules[illegible]fin/menus/rules.htm. [illegible]Multi-track[illegible] could be translated to mean varied in that judges have discretion to tailor rules to the cases falling within that category.

245 J. A. Jolowicz, On Civil Procedure [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

246 See, for example, Dunnett v[illegible]ailtrack PLC, [illegible] EWCA Civ. [illegible] ([illegible]). [illegible]o[illegible]al Bank of Canada Trust Corporation Ltd[illegible]v[illegible]Secretar[illegible] for State of Defense*, [illegible] EWHC [illegible] (Ch) ([illegible]); [illegible]alse[illegible]v[illegible]Milton [illegible]e[illegible]nes [illegible]eneral Trust N[illegible] S, [illegible] EWCA Civ. [illegible].

247 Simon Roberts, [illegible]Listin[illegible] Concentrates the Mind[illegible]The [illegible]n[illegible]lish Civil Court as an [illegible]rena for Structured Ne[illegible]otiation, [illegible] Oxford Journal of Legal Studies [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

248 Modernising Justice: The Government's Plan for Reforming Legal Services and the Courts [illegible] (Lord Chancellor's Department, [illegible]).

249 See Her Majesty's Treasury, [illegible]pportunit[illegible] and Securit[illegible] for [illegible]l[illegible] [illegible]nvestin[illegible] in an [illegible]nterprisin[illegible], [illegible]airer Britain New Pu[illegible]lic Spendin[illegible] Plans [illegible], Cm.[illegible] (London, Eng.: Her Majesty's Stationery Office, [illegible]).

250 Shirley Shipman, Court [illegible]pproaches to [illegible]D[illegible] in the Civil Jus[illegible]tice S[illegible]stem, [illegible] Civil Justice Quarterly [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]); Jacqueline Nolan-Haley, Mediation [illegible]ceptionalit[illegible], [illegible] Fordham Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). Nolan-Haley contrasted the focus in the United States on enforcement, after mediation, with the emphasis in England on [illegible]front-end[illegible] consent, imposing costs on parties refusing to participate.

251 Roberts at [illegible], [illegible].

252 Roberts at [illegible].

253 See Report to the Lord Chancellor by the Review of the Court of Appeal (Civil Division) (Nov. [illegible], [illegible]), http://www.dca.gov.uk/civil/bowman/bowfr.htm.

254 See Report to the Lord Chancellor by the Review of the Court of Appeal (Civil Division), Current Situation and [illegible]eason for the [illegible]eview and Summar[illegible] of [illegible]ecommendations.

255 United Kingdom, Civil Procedure Rules, Appeals, [illegible].[illegible] (London, Eng.: Ministry of Justice, October [illegible]).

256 See Jolowicz at [illegible]–[illegible]; Genn, Jud[illegible]es in Civil Justice, in Genn, Judging Civil Justice, at [illegible]–[illegible].

257 In [illegible]–[illegible], the [illegible]Government of England and Wales spent over two billion pounds administering and funding civil and criminal legal aid[illegible] See Vicky Kemp [illegible] Pascoe Pleasence, Tar[illegible]etin[illegible] Le[illegible]al Needs[illegible] Matchin[illegible] Services to Needs, [illegible] Obiter [illegible] ([illegible]). In [illegible], another report was commissioned to review civil litigation costs so as to improve [illegible]access to justice at proportionate cost[illegible] See [illegible]eview of Civil Justice Costs[illegible]Preliminar[illegible] [illegible]eport, [illegible] the [illegible] on[illegible]upert Jackson, [illegible]o[illegible]al Courts of Justice, Ma[illegible] [illegible], [illegible], http://www.judiciary.gov.uk/about[illegible]judiciary/cost-review.index.htm. Issues included a review of English fee-shifting provisions that require losers to compensate victorious litigants under a schedule. The Final Report, published in December of [illegible], recommended more [illegible]robust[illegible] case management, additional use of ADR, cutting back on awards of fees for [illegible]success[illegible] and for after-the-event insurance, eliminating referral fees in personal injury cases, and various other interventions. See [illegible]eview of Civil Lit[illegible]ation Costs[illegible]inal [illegible]eport at xvi–xxiv (London, Eng.: The Stationery Office, [illegible]), www.tsoshop.co.uk.

258 See Neil Andrews, [illegible]n[illegible]lish Civil Justice and the Mana[illegible]erial Jud[illegible]e[illegible] [illegible]e[illegible]ections for a Comparative [illegible]udience, in Common Law, Civil Law at [illegible]–[illegible]. Celia Wasserstein Fassberg, Civil Procedure in a Mi[illegible]ed S[illegible]stem[illegible]srael, in Common Law, Civil Law at [illegible]–[illegible].

259 Cranston argued that the concept of access to justice needed to include social and economic means of obtaining regulatory reform and implementing legal regimes. Cranston at [illegible]–[illegible].

260 Hazel Genn, The Central London Count[illegible] Court Pilot Media[illegible]tion Scheme, Research Series [illegible]/[illegible] (London, Eng.: Lord Chancellor's Department, [illegible]); Cranston at [illegible].

261 Tamara Goriely, Richard Moorhead, [illegible] Pamela Abrams, More Civil Justice[illegible] The Impact of the Woolf Reforms on Pre-Action Behavior, Research Study [illegible], Summary at xiii–xiv (London, Eng.: Law Society and Civil Justice Council, [illegible]). The researchers surveyed lawyers, insurers, and claims managers specializing in personal injury, clinical negligence, and housing disrepair. The findings were that the reforms had, for claimant work, produced greater specialization, that the protocols were well received, but that costs had not been reduced.

262 John Peysner & Mary Seneviratne, The Management of Civil Cases: the Courts and the Post-Woolf Landscape, Research Series [illegible]/[illegible] (London, Eng.: Department of Constitutional Affairs, [illegible]); see also John Peysner and Mary Seneviratne, The Man[illegible]agement of Civil Cases[illegible] Snapshot, [illegible] Civil Justice Quarterly [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

263 See also Michael Zander, The Woolf [illegible]eforms[illegible] [illegible]ave The[illegible] Worked[illegible] New Law Journal [illegible] (Mar. [illegible], [illegible]).

264 See Genn, What [illegible]s Civil Justice [illegible]or[illegible] in Genn, Judging Civil Justice at [illegible]–[illegible]. The lecture on which this chapter was based addressed the [illegible]battle for resources[illegible] between civil and criminal cases.

265 See generally Zander, The [illegible]overnment[illegible]s Plans; Genn, [illegible]D[illegible] and Civil Justice[illegible]What[illegible]s Justice [illegible]ot to Do With [illegible][illegible] in Genn, Judging Civil Justice at [illegible]–[illegible].

266 See generally Zuckerman, [illegible]eform in the Shadow.

267 See generally Hazel Genn, Paths to Justice: What People Do and Think about Going to Law (Oxford, Eng.: Hart Publishing, [illegible]) (hereinafter Genn, Paths to Justice).

268 Kemp & Pleasence at [illegible]–[illegible].

269 Genn, [illegible]D[illegible] and Civil Justice[illegible]What[illegible]s Justice [illegible]ot to Do With [illegible][illegible] in Genn, Judging Civil Justice at [illegible]–[illegible].

270 Genevra Richardson & Hazel Genn, Tri[illegible]unals in Transition[illegible] [illegible]esolution or [illegible]d[illegible]udication, Public Law [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). For discussion of the increasing predominance of tribunals in Australia, see The Growth in Tribunal Power, Speech by Marilyn Warren, A.C., Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Victoria, Australia, to the Council of Administrative Tribunals, June [illegible], [illegible].

271 Hazel Genn & Yvette Genn, The Effectiveness of Representation at Tribunals, Report to the Lord Chancellor (London, Eng.: Lord Chancellor's Department, [illegible]).

272 Richardson & Genn at [illegible].

273 Richardson & Genn at [illegible].

274 Richardson & Genn at [illegible].

275 See generally Tom Tyler, Social Justice[illegible] [illegible]utcome and Procedure, [illegible] International Journal of Psychology [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]).

276 See generally Commercial Arbitration: [illegible] Companion Volume to the Second Edition (Michael J. Mustill & Stewart C. Boyd, eds., Croydon, Eng.: Butterworths, [illegible]).

277 Amendments in [illegible] provided some buffer by giving parties the power to enter into contracts that forbid appeals on the law and by creating presumptions in favor of enforcing awards.

278 ALI/UNIDROIT Principles of Transnational Civil Procedure as Adopted and Promulgated by the American Law Institute and by UNIDROIT (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

279 See generally Catherine A. Rogers, The [illegible]ocation of the [illegible]nter[illegible]national [illegible]r[illegible]itrator, [illegible] American University International Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

280 United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL), UNCITRAL Notes on Organizing Arbitral Proceedings, n. [illegible], at [illegible] ([illegible]),http://www.uncitral.org/pdf/english/texts/arbitration/arb-notes/arb-notes-e.pdf.

281 The IBA Rules on Taking Evidence, Art. illegible.

282 An article in The [illegible]conomist discussed arguments for and against more transparency in such conflicts. See [illegible]nvestment, [illegible]r[illegible]itration and Secrec[illegible]Behind Closed Doors, The Economist, Apr. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

283 See Catherine A. Rogers, The [illegible]rrival of the [illegible]ave[illegible]Nots[illegible] in [illegible]nternational [illegible]r[illegible]itration, [illegible] Nevada Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

284 See Report of UNCITRAL Working Group II (Arbitration and Conciliation) on the work of its fiftieth session, Doc. No. A/CN.[illegible]/[illegible], Mar. [illegible], [illegible].

285 Human Rights Act, [illegible], c.[illegible] (Eng.).

286 See, for example, [illegible] v[illegible] Lord Chancellor, e[illegible] parte Witham, [illegible] QB [illegible] ([illegible]); Shira[illegible]ma Shokusan Co[illegible]Ltd[illegible] v[illegible] Danovo Ltd[illegible], [illegible] EWHC [illegible] (Ch), and Shira[illegible]ama Shokusan Co[illegible]Ltd[illegible] v[illegible] Danovo Ltd[illegible], [illegible] EWHC [illegible] (Ch); [illegible]ickman v[illegible] Blake Lapthorn, [illegible] EWHC [illegible] (QB) ([illegible]). Another judgment described the important distinction between the encouragement of ADR and its compulsion; the court upheld the lower court's power to impose costs, in appropriate cases, as a sanction for not attempting mediation. See [illegible]o[illegible]al Bank of Canada Trust Corporation Ltd[illegible] v[illegible] Secretar[illegible] of State for Defense, [illegible] All Er (D) [illegible] (May [illegible]). See also Shirley Shipman, [illegible]lterna[illegible]tive Disptue [illegible]esolution, the Threat of [illegible]dverse Costs, and the [illegible]ight of [illegible]ccess to Court, in The Civil Procedure Rules Ten Years On (Deirdre Dwyer, ed., Oxford: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

287 Directive [illegible]/[illegible]/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of [illegible] May [illegible] on certain aspects of mediation in civil and commercial matters, Art.[illegible], [illegible] O.J. (L [illegible]) [illegible] (hereinafter EU [illegible] Mediation Directive).

288 See http://europa.eu/rapid/pressReleasesACtion.do[illegible]reference[illegible]IP/[illegible]/[illegible] format[illegible]HTML[illegible]aged[illegible] language[illegible]EN[illegible]guiLanguage[illegible]en. Commissioner Viviane Reding was selected to serve in the position [illegible] sometimes called the [illegible]EU Justice Commissioner.[illegible]

289 Commission acts to bolster citizens' data protection, protect defendants' rights and enhance immigration and asylum cooperation, press release IP/[illegible]/[illegible], Brussels, Belg., Apr. [illegible], [illegible], http://europa.eu/rapid/pressReleasesACtion.do[illegible]reference[illegible]IP/[illegible]/[illegible] format[illegible]HTML[illegible]age. As the title of the press release suggests, [illegible]justice[illegible] included a [illegible]free and secure Europe[illegible] which translated into crime prevention and border protection as well as [illegible]s[illegible]trengthening the rights of the accussed in criminal proceedings[illegible] and securitying record protection. Id.

290 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, Art. [illegible]. See also Martin at [illegible].

291 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, findings ([illegible]). Practitioners have offered a similar appraisal. See, for example, Felicity Ewing & David Pope, Makin[illegible] the Most of Commercial Mediations, in ADR Client Strategies in the UK: Leading Lawyers on Preparing Clients, Navigating the Negotiation Process, and Overcoming Obstacles (Inside the Minds) [illegible] (Boston, MA: Aspatore, [illegible]), [illegible] WL [illegible].

292 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, findings ([illegible]).

293 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, findings ([illegible]); see also id., Art. illegible.

294 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, findings ([illegible]), Art. [illegible] ([illegible]).

295 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, Art. [illegible] (a).

296 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, findings ([illegible]).

297 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, Art. [illegible].

298 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, findings ([illegible]).

299 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, findings ([illegible]).

300 EU [illegible] Mediation Directive, Arts. [illegible], [illegible].

301 Martin at [illegible].

302 Ronald Bradbeer, Challen[illegible]in[illegible] the Con[illegible]ict Culture[illegible] Media[illegible]tion[illegible] Stru[illegible]le for [illegible]cceptance in [illegible]urope, European Lawyer [illegible]–[illegible] (May [illegible]).

303 Per Henrik Lindblom, [illegible]D[illegible] the [illegible]piate of the Le[illegible]al S[illegible]stem[illegible] Perspectives on [illegible]lternative Dispute [illegible]esolution [illegible]eneral[illegible] and in Swe[illegible]den, [illegible] European Review of Private Law [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); Per Henrik Lindblom, The New [illegible]rowin[illegible] [illegible]ole of the Courts and the New [illegible]unctions of Judicial Process[illegible] [illegible]act or [illegible]lummer[illegible][illegible] Scandinavian Studies in Law [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Rosemary Nordstr[illegible]m, trans., [illegible]).

304 See, for example, [illegible] alse[illegible] v[illegible] Milton [illegible]e[illegible]nes [illegible]eneral N[illegible] S Trust, [illegible] EWCA Civ. [illegible], para. [illegible] ([illegible]t seems to us likely that compulsion of ADR would be regarded as an unacceptable constraint on the right of access to the court and, therefore, a violation of art [illegible] of the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms [illegible]). See also Henry Brooke, Courtin[illegible] Com[illegible] promise, European Lawyer, [illegible]–[illegible] (May [illegible]). A different critique is that mediation suggests a voluntarism at odds with mandates to do so.

305 Jolowicz at [illegible].

306 Maximo Langer, The [illegible]ise of Mana[illegible]erial Jud[illegible]in[illegible] in [illegible]nter[illegible]national Criminal Law, [illegible] American Journal of Criminal Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

307 In contrast, Jeremy Bentham stressed the importance of [illegible]clear and concentrated responsibility for every act of government[illegible] through public observation of judges and legislators discharging their duties. See Thomas P. Peardon, Bentham[illegible] [illegible]deal [illegible]epu[illegible]lic, in Jeremy Bentham: Ten Critical Essays [illegible], [illegible] (Bhikhu Parekh, ed., London, Eng.: Frank Cass, [illegible]).

308 United States Navy, Naval Station Guantanamo Bay, http://www.navy.mil/local/guantanamo. The Public Affairs Office of the United States Department of Defense described Guant[illegible]namo as the [illegible]oldest overseas U.S. Naval Base . . . [illegible]and[illegible] the only one in a country with which the U.S. does not maintain diplomatic relations[illegible] Sgt. Jim Greenhill, Cold War [illegible] istor[illegible] Pla[illegible]ed [illegible] ut at [illegible] uantanamo Ba[illegible] [illegible] ate, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.defenselink.mil/news/NewsArticle.aspx[illegible]ID[illegible]. We add the accent to Guant[illegible]namo unless the original source material, such as some from the Department of Defense, does not.

309 See Sale v[illegible] [illegible]aitian Ctrs[illegible] Council, [illegible] U.S. [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]). The facility had been designed to hold no more than [illegible],[illegible], but more than [illegible],[illegible] individuals were intercepted and detained there. Id. at [illegible].

310 [illegible]Guant[illegible]namo[illegible] became a shorthand invoked in a range of contexts. See, for example, William Glaberson, [illegible] uant[illegible]namo, [illegible]vil and [illegible]an[illegible] in Pop Culture, New York Times, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible], [illegible]. As recounted in this article, a movie called [illegible] arold and [illegible]umar [illegible]scape from [illegible] uant[illegible]namo Ba[illegible] was released in April [illegible], joining dozens of other books, plays, songs, and movies using Guant[illegible]namo as what one writer, invoked by Glaberson, called [illegible]the gulag of our times.[illegible]

311 See United States Department of Defense, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Public Affairs), Detainee Transfer [illegible]nnounced, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.defenselink.mil/Releases/Release.aspx[illegible]ReleaseID[illegible]. The exact numbers are imprecise because the [illegible]Pentagon has consistently refused to comprehensively identify those it holds[illegible] See Benjamin Wittes [illegible] Zaahira Wyne, The Current Detainee Population of Guant[illegible]namo: An Empirical Study [illegible] (Dec. [illegible], [illegible]), http://www.brookings.edu/reports/[illegible]/[illegible]detainees[illegible]wittes.aspx[illegible]. See also David Bowker [illegible] David Kaye, [illegible] uant[illegible]namo [illegible] the Num[illegible]ers, New York Times, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible].

At various intervals the Department of Defense provided some accountings. For example, in August [illegible] the Department of Defense reported that [illegible] detainees were [illegible]transferred from Guantanamo since the detention and interrogation mission began in January [illegible] of which [illegible] were [illegible]transferred for release[illegible] and [illegible] were transferred to other countries listed as [illegible]Pakistan, Morocco, France, Russia, Saudi Arabia, Spain, Sweden, United Kingdom, Kuwait, Australia, Belgium and Jordan[illegible] See Department of Defense [illegible]act Sheet, [illegible] uantanamo Detainees [illegible] the Num[illegible]ers, Aug. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.defenselink.mil/news/Aug[illegible]/d[illegible]sheet.pdf (hereinafter DOD, [illegible] uantanamo Detainees [illegible] the Num[illegible]ers). In December [illegible], the Department of Defense reported that approximately [illegible] detainees had [illegible]departed[illegible] Guant[illegible]namo for other countries since [illegible], with approximately [illegible] detainees left on the base. United States Department of Defense, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Public Affairs), Detainee Trans[illegible]fer [illegible]nnounced, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.defenselink.mil/Releases/Release.aspx[illegible]ReleaseID[illegible]. By the end of [illegible], some [illegible] detainees remained, of whom [illegible] were cleared for transfer by an executive task force. See Afghanistan: Assessing the Road Ahead: Hearing on Afghanistan Policy Before the S. Comm. on Foreign Relations, [illegible]th Cong. ([illegible]) (Statement of Secretary of Defense Robert Gates).

The United States was criticized from many quarters, including by transnational organizations and leaders of other countries, for detaining individuals there. See, for example, U.N. Commission on Human Rights, Report on the Situation of Detainees at Guant[illegible]namo Bay, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], U.N. Doc. E/CN.[illegible]/[illegible]/[illegible] (Report of the Working Group on Arbitrary Detention, the Special Rapporteur on the Independence of Judges and Lawyers, and the Special Rapporteur on Torture) (hereinafter U.N. [illegible] Situation of Detainees). The report concluded that the [illegible]ongoing detention[illegible] constituted an [illegible]arbitrary deprivation of the right to personal liberty[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. The report called for the closing and the [illegible]possible transfer of detainees to pretrial detention facilities on United States territory[illegible] id. at [illegible]. See also Alan Cowell, Blair Calls Camp in Cu[illegible]a an [illegible]nomal[illegible], New York Times, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible]. In addition to Prime Minister Tony Blair of Great Britain, Archbishop Desmond Tutu, responding to the U.N. report, also called for the camps to close. Id.

312 See Nigel Morris, [illegible] orrors of Camp Delta [illegible]re [illegible]posed [illegible] British [illegible]ictims, Independent, Feb. [illegible], [illegible]. Criticism came through plays, films, and studies of various organizations. See, for example, Michael Winterbottom, The Road to Guant[illegible]namo (Film[illegible], Revolution Films [illegible] Screen West Midlands, [illegible]); International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), [illegible]C[illegible]C [illegible]eport on the Treatment of [illegible]ourteen [illegible]ih [illegible]alue Detainees[illegible] in C[illegible] Custod[illegible], Feb. [illegible], http://www.nybooks.com/articles/[illegible] (hereinafter [illegible]C[illegible]C [illegible]eport); Neil A. Lewis, [illegible]ed Cross [illegible]inds Detainee [illegible]use in [illegible] uant[illegible]namo, New York Times, Nov. [illegible], [illegible], at A[illegible]. See generally Jane Mayer, The Dark Side: The Inside Story on How the War on Terror Turned into a War on American Ideals (New York, NY: Doubleday, [illegible]).

313 Office of Legal Counsel, United States Department of Justice, Memorandum for Alberto R. Gonzales, Counsel to the President, Re: Standards of Conduct for Interrogation under [illegible] U.S.C. [illegible] [illegible]–[illegible]A, Aug. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible] (hereinafter Torture Memo of August [illegible], [illegible]). The memorandum, along with many materials, was published both on the Washin[illegible]ton Post website at http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-srv/nation/documents/dojinterrogationmemo[illegible] [illegible].pdf and in Stephen Holmes, The Matador's Cape: America's Reckless Response to Terror (New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

314 Torture Memo of August [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. See generally International Review of the Red Cross, No. [illegible]: Torture (Sept. [illegible]); Torture: A Collection (Sanford Levinson, ed., New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]); The Torture Debate in America (Karen J. Greenberg, ed., New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]).

315 See Michael Welch, [illegible] uant[illegible]namo Ba[illegible] as a [illegible]oucauldian Phe[illegible]nomenon[illegible] n [illegible]nal[illegible]sis of Penal Discourse, Technolo[illegible]ies, and [illegible]esistance, [illegible] Prison Journal [illegible] ([illegible]). Welch referred to Camp [illegible] at Guant[illegible]namo, which was modeled on a maximum security facility in Terre Haute, Indiana. See Carol Rosenberg, Permanent Jail Set for [illegible] uant[illegible] namo, Miami Herald, Dec. [illegible], [illegible]; Schenkel Shultz Architecture, Justice[illegible] United States Penitentiary[illegible] Terre Haute, IN, http://www.schenkelshultz.com/projects.asp[illegible]type[illegible]justice[illegible] id[illegible] link[illegible]true. While not relying on the circular design, Welch linked the monitoring of individuals through spatial layouts to Bentham as well as to Foucault.

316 See Military Order of Nov. [illegible], [illegible], Detention, Treatment, and Trial of Certain Non-Citizens in the War Against Terrorism, [illegible] Fed. Reg. [illegible] (Nov. [illegible], [illegible]) (hereinafter President's [illegible] Military Order). See generally Joseph Margulies, Guant[illegible]namo and the Abuse of Presidential Power (New York, NY: Simon [illegible] Schuster, [illegible]).

317 United States Department of Defense, Military Commission Order No. [illegible], Mar. [illegible], [illegible], http://www.defenselink.mil/news/Mar[illegible]/d[illegible]ord.pdf (hereinafter Military Commission Order No. [illegible]). The order specified that these military commissions were intended to [illegible]try individuals subject to the President's Military Order[illegible] for ⊠violations of the laws of war and all other offenses triable by military commission⊠ Id. at ⊠. The Order did not prescribe the procedures by which individuals were classified.

318 ⊠asul v⊠Bush, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The Supreme Court concluded that Guant⊠namo was within the United States control such that the federal habeas statute governed.

319 ⊠amdi v⊠⊠umsfeld, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). See generally Trevor W. Morrison, ⊠amdi⊠⊠ a⊠eas Pu⊠⊠le⊠Suspension as ⊠uthori⊠ation⊠⊠⊠ Cornell Law Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

320 See Paul Wolfowitz, Deputy Secretary of Defense, Order Establishing Combatant Status Review Tribunal, July ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter Order Establishing CSRT). The Military Commissions Act of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ gave a statutory basis to the CSRT, and regulations followed thereafter. See ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠ et seq. (⊠⊠⊠⊠) and ⊠⊠ C.F.R. ⊠ ⊠⊠.⊠.

321 That term is an innovation, in that during World War II, the government had used the phrase ⊠unlawful belligerents⊠ See ⊠n re ⊠amashita, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠, ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); ⊠⊠ parte ⊠ uirin, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). See also Convention Respecting the Laws and Customs of War (Fourth Hague Convention), Annex, Oct. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (entered into force Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (defining the conditions that a ⊠belligerent⊠ must satisfy before the belligerent could be classified as a prisoner of war). The Geneva Convention of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ created a structure for detention and release of ⊠prisoners of war⊠ but the United States government argued that those rules were inapplicable to the alleged terrorists it detained. ⊠amdan v⊠ ⊠umsfeld, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). See generally Matthew Waxman, Detention as Tar⊠etin⊠⊠ Standards of Certaint⊠ and Detention of Suspected Terrorists, ⊠⊠⊠ Columbia Law Review ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

322 ⊠uantanamo Detainee Processes, updated Oct. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.defenselink.mil/news/Sep⊠⊠⊠⊠/d⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠process.pdf. The definition also stated that it included ⊠any person who has committed a belligerent act or has directly supported hostilities in aid of enemy armed forces⊠ Id. This definition was adopted by a federal judge reviewing habeas petitions brought by Guant⊠namo detainees, dealing with issues on remand from the United States Supreme Court. See Boumediene v⊠Bush, ⊠⊠⊠ F. Supp. ⊠d ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (D.D.C. ⊠⊠⊠⊠); Boumediene v⊠Bush, ⊠⊠⊠ U.S. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Also falling within the definition were individuals with connections to a long list of organizations and entities, set forth in Executive Order ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠: Blocking Property and Prohibiting Transactions with Persons Who Commit, Threaten to Commit, or Support Terrorism, ⊠⊠ Fed. Reg. ⊠⊠⊠ (Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Section ⊠ of the Military Commissions Act of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ provided definitions of ⊠lawful⊠ and ⊠unlawful⊠ enemy combatants. Military Commissions Act of ⊠⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ ⊠(a)(⊠), Pub. L. No. ⊠⊠⊠-⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Oct. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (codified at ⊠⊠ U.S.C. ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠a (⊠⊠⊠⊠)). In the fall of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Congress revised the definition of ⊠unprivileged enemy belligerent⊠⊠⊠ and provided that it encompassed individuals who have ⊠engaged in hostilities,⊠⊠purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States or its coalition partners⊠ or who were members of al Qaeda when they committed an alleged offense prosecutable under its parameters. Military Commissions Act (MCA) of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Pub. L. No. ⊠⊠⊠-⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ ⊠⊠⊠a, ⊠⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

323 Between January ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, and March ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the Department of Defense indicated that ⊠⊠⊠ detainees had undergone something called an Administrative Review Board (ARB) and that while none were then recommended for release, ⊠⊠ were recommended for transfer, and ⊠⊠⊠ were recommended for continued detention. ⊠dminis⊠ trative ⊠eview Board Summar⊠ ⊠⊠B⊠⊠ound ⊠ ⊠pdate (Mar. ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.defenselink.mil/news/Combatant⊠Tribunals.html. The Department of Defense's August ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Fact Sheet had stated that ⊠every detainee had a tribunal⊠ that ⊠⊠⊠ ⊠underwent a CSRT⊠ and that ⊠⊠ were then ⊠classified as no longer enemy combatants⊠ of which ⊠⊠ had been ⊠transferred⊠ from the base. See DOD, ⊠uantanamo Detainees ⊠⊠ the Num⊠ers.

324 The government called the ARBs a ⊠discretionary and unprecedented process that is not required by the Geneva Convention or by U.S. or international law⊠ Department of Defense, Office of Assistant Secretary of Defense (Public Affairs), News Release: Guantan⊠mo Bay Detainee Administrative Review Board Decisions Completed, Feb. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.defense.gov/releases/release.aspx⊠releaseid⊠⊠⊠⊠ (hereinafter DOD, Guant⊠namo Bay Detainees ARB Decisions Completed). As the May ⊠⊠ order establishing the administrative review process explained, it was ⊠neither intended to nor does it create any right, benefit, or privilege, substantive or procedural, enforceable by any party, against the United States . . . or any other person. . . . Because the procedures . . . have been instituted as a matter of discretion, the Secretary of Defense may suspend or amend the procedures set forth in this Order at any time⊠ Department of Defense, Order of May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠dministrative ⊠eview Procedures for ⊠nem⊠ Com⊠atants in the Control of the Department of Defense at ⊠uan⊠ tanamo Ba⊠ Naval Base, Cu⊠a, May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Part ⊠ (hereinafter May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Order Establishing ARB).

325 DOD, Guant⊠namo Bay Detainees ARB Decisions Completed. See also May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Order Establishing ARB, stating that the ⊠law of war⊠ does not ⊠require the use of a review process to support continued detention⊠ but ⊠as a matter of policy⊠ the Department of Defense had instituted the procedures. Id., Part ⊠. Reviews were to be provided for each combatant ⊠at least annually insofar as is practicable⊠ Id., Part ⊠(f).

326 Kathleen T. Rhem, American Forces Press Service, ⊠eview Boards ⊠ssessin⊠ Status of ⊠uantanamo Detainees, July ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.globalsecurity.org/security/library/news/⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠/sec-⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠-afps⊠⊠.htm.

327 May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Order Establishing ARB, Part ⊠(A)(i)(a) (providing that such notice need not be provided if doing so was not consistent with national security).

328 May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Order Establishing ARB, Part ⊠(B).

329 Department of Defense, Office of Assistant Secretary of Defense (Public Affairs), News ⊠elease⊠⊠ dministrative ⊠eview ⊠nple⊠ mentation Directive ⊠ssued, Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.globalsecurity.org/security/library/news/⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠/sec-⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠-dod⊠⊠.htm.

330 May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Order Establishing ARB, Part ⊠(B)(ii)(a) and (b). The CSRT is composed of three ⊠neutral commissioned officers of the U.S. Armed Forces⊠ and one of these individuals must be a judge advocate. Order Establishing CSRT at ⊠–⊠.

331 May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Order Establishing ARB, Part ⊠(D).

332 May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Order Establishing ARB, Part ⊠(E).

333 May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Order Establishing ARB, Part ⊠(E)(v) and (vi). In terms of outcomes, as of March ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the government reported that a ⊠third round⊠ of ARB decisions had resulted in ⊠ releases, ⊠⊠ transfers, and ⊠⊠⊠ decisions to continue detention. See Administrative Review Board Summary, ARB–Round ⊠ Update (Mar. ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.defenselink.mil/news/Combatant⊠Tribunals.html. See also Mark Denbeaux ⊠ Joshua Denbeaux, Report on Guant⊠namo Detainees: A Profile of ⊠⊠⊠ Detainees through Analysis of Department of Defense Data (Feb. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://law.shu.edu/news/guantanamo⊠report⊠final⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠.pdf.

334 DOD, ⊠uantanamo Detainees ⊠⊠ the Num⊠ers.

335 Military Commission Order No. ⊠, Parts ⊠(A)(⊠) and (⊠). The Presiding Officer must be a ⊠Military Officer who is a judge advocate of any United States armed force⊠ Id., Part ⊠(A)(⊠).

336 Military Commission Order No. ⊠, Parts ⊠(A) and (B).

337 Military Commission Order No. ⊠, Part (⊠)G.

338 See President's ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Military Order; Order Establishing CSRT.

339 Figure ⊠⊠⊠, a photograph by Paul J. Richards of the outer fence and guard tower at Camps ⊠⊠ ⊠, Camp Delta at the US Naval Sation in Guant⊠namo Bay, is reproduced with his permission and that of AFP Getty Images.

340 Several images of the Joint Task Force (JTF) Commissions Building and its hearing rooms appeared at the JTF-GTMO-Public Affairs website, www.jtfgtmo.southcom.mil. The photograph in figure ⍰⍰⍰ is reproduced courtesy of the Joint Task Force (JTF) and Guant⍰namo Bay Public Affairs and with the assistance of Major Jeffrey Weir, serving in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ as the Deputy Director of Public Affairs. Our thanks to Eugene Fidell for assisting us in locating images of the base.

341 Department of the Navy, Navy Facilities Engineering Command, Legal Compound at U.S. Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, Presolicitation Notice N⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰-R-⍰⍰⍰⍰, Nov. ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

342 Militar⍰ Plans to Build Compound for Trials, New York Times, Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at A⍰⍰.

343 Melissa McNamara, ⍰s ⍰⍰⍰⍰M ⍰uant⍰namo Courthouse Nec⍰essar⍰⍰CBS Evening News, Dec. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/⍰⍰⍰⍰/⍰⍰/⍰⍰/eveningnews/main⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰.shtml.

344 Supplemental Appropriations for Fiscal Year ⍰⍰⍰⍰: Hearing Before the Committee on Appropriations, S. HRG. ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰, U.S. Senate, ⍰⍰⍰th Congress ⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Feb. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (Statement of Robert Gates). See also Robert Burns, ⍰ates Trims Planned ⍰uant⍰namo Court ⍰acilit⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰m Comple⍰ Was ⍰⍰idiculous⍰ ⍰e Tells Senate, Boston Globe, March ⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, http://www.boston.com/news/nation/washington/articles/⍰⍰⍰⍰/⍰⍰/⍰⍰/gates⍰trims⍰planned⍰guantanamo⍰court⍰facility.

345 Supplemental Appropriations for Fiscal Year ⍰⍰⍰⍰: Hearing Before the Committee on Appropriations, U.S. Senate, ⍰⍰⍰th Congress ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Feb. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

346 William Glaberson, Porta⍰le ⍰alls of Justice ⍰re ⍰isin⍰ in ⍰uant⍰namo, New York Times, Oct. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at A⍰.

347 Executive Order ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰: Review and Disposition of Individuals Detained at the Guant⍰namo Bay Naval Base and Closure of Detention Facilities, ⍰⍰ Fed. Reg. ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (Jan. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

348 See Supplemental Approriations Act of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰(a), ⍰⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Pub. L. No. ⍰⍰⍰-⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰(a)–(e), ⍰⍰⍰ Stat. ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

349 The image in figure ⍰⍰⍰, reproduced with the assistance of Yale University Press, is from the website of the United States Department of Defense, http://www.defenselink.mil/photos/newsphoto.aspx⍰newsphotoid⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰.

350 The photographs reproduced in figure ⍰⍰⍰, taken in the fall of ⍰⍰⍰⍰ by Travis Crum, are reproduced with his permission.

351 Official seals are designed by the Institute of Heraldry of the United States. The Defense Department's Seal, approved in ⍰⍰⍰⍰, has a formal description and explication of its symbolism. For example, the eagle was selected ⍰as an emblem of strength⍰ and is ⍰defending the United States, reprsented by the shield of thirteen pieces . . . joined together by a blue chief, representing Congress⍰ See Department of Defense Seal, http://www.tioh.hqda.pentagon.mil/default.aspx.

The Seal of the United States⍰ with one side showing an eagle at its center with thirteen stars over its head, thirteen arrows (resembling a lictor rod) in one talon and an olive branch in another⍰ has a much longer history. The Continental Congress requested ⍰Dr. Franklin, Mr. J. Adams and Mr. Jefferson⍰ to devise a seal. See Gaillard Hunt, The Seal of the United States: How It Was Developed ⍰ (Washington, DC: Department of State, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). They provided a report calling for a shield to include both the ⍰Goddess of Liberty⍰ and the ⍰Goddess of Justice bearing a sword in her right hand and in her left a Balance⍰ Id. at ⍰. The final design included neither but did preserve two of their suggestions, ⍰the Eye of Providence in the triangle, . . . and the motto ⍰ pluri⍰us unum.⍰ Id. at ⍰. In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Congress enacted a law adopting the Seal that had been used. Id. at ⍰⍰. The Seal was then affixed to documents such as presidential commissions. Id. at ⍰⍰.

352 The photograph in figure ⍰⍰⍰ is reproduced courtesy of the Joint Task Force Guant⍰namo Bay and Guant⍰namo Bay Public Affairs and with the assistance of its ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Deputy Director of Public Affairs Jeffrey Weir.

353 ⍰rontline⍰The Torture ⍰ uestion, aired on Public Broadcasting Service stations on October ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. John VanNatta, Superintendent of Guant⍰namo, explained that the exchange was meant to ⍰encourage esprit de corps among the soldiers⍰ See http://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/torture/etc/script.html. The text can be found on ⍰handouts and official documents and signs and is constantly recited, soldier to soldier, at the camp's checkpoints⍰ Ted Conover, ⍰n the Land of ⍰ uant⍰namo, New York Times Magazine, June ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰. See also Ben Wizner, ⍰mpressions of ⍰ uant⍰namo, Blog of Rights: Official Blog of the American Civil Liberties Union, posted Jan. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰:⍰⍰ p.m., http://blog.aclu.org/⍰⍰⍰⍰/⍰⍰/⍰⍰/impressions-of-guantanamo.

354 TimeLine Theatre Company, Guant⍰namo: Honor Bound to Defend Freedom, http://www.timelinetheatre.com/guantanamo. See also Ben Brantley, Ni⍰⍰htmare Without ⍰ ope or Lo⍰ic, New York Times, Aug. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at E⍰.

355 Figure ⍰⍰⍰ is a ⍰⍰⍰⍰ photograph called The Contemplation of Justice, by Lois Long, from the Collection of the Supreme Court of the United States; the image was provided and is reproduced courtesy of the Photographic Collections of the Office of the Curator, United States Supreme Court. The phrase ⍰Equal Justice Under Law⍰ has been reiterated in various decisions by Supreme Court justices, explaining it as an injunction to administer laws impartially. See, for example, ⍰ieth v⍰Ju⍰elirer, ⍰⍰⍰ U.S. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (Stevens, J., dissenting); Burns v⍰⍰ hio, ⍰⍰⍰ U.S. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Cooper v⍰⍰ aron, ⍰⍰⍰ U.S. ⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

356 Law Matters: The Courts' Ideals Are Carved in Stone, Mar. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (a column in communications from the court that was provided on the Missouri court's website), http://www.courts.mo.gov/page.jsp⍰id⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰.

357 See Somerset v⍰Stewart, Lofft ⍰, ⍰⍰ Howell's State Trials ⍰, ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ Eng. Rep. ⍰⍰⍰ (King's Bench ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Concluding that slavery had no legal basis in English law, Lord Mansfield, Chief Justice of the King's Bench in England, commented that courts ⍰must not regard political consequences⍰ of their judgments and invoked the phrase ⍰fiat justitia, ruat caelum⍰ Some attribute the original formulation to Lucius Calpurnius Piso Caesoninus, a Roman consul of ⍰⍰ BCE who was also Julius Caesar's father-in-law. See James Morwood, A Dictionary of Latin Words and Phrases ⍰⍰ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

The phrase has been used at times to explain why, in practice, attention to consequences is unwise, and at other times to support a decision focused on its potential aftermath. See Sissela Bok, ⍰ant⍰ ⍰ r⍰u⍰ments in Support of the Ma⍰im ⍰Do What ⍰⍰s ⍰⍰ht Thou⍰h the World Should Perish⍰ ⍰ Argumentation ⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰). See also Morrison v⍰ ⍰ lson, ⍰⍰⍰ U.S. ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (Scalia, J., dissenting) (⍰The notion that every violation of law should be prosecuted, including⍰ indeed, especiall⍰⍰ every violation by those in high places, is an attractive one, and it would be risky to argue in an election campaign that that is not an absolutely overriding value. ⍰iat ⍰ustitia, ruat coelum. Let justice be done, though the heavens may fall. The reality is, however, that it is not an absolutely overriding value, and it was with the hope that we would be able to acknowledge and apply such realities that the Constitution spared us, by life tenure, the necessity of election campaigns⍰). In addition to case law, the phrase can also be found in courthouses, including one in Worcestershire, England. See Clare Graham, Ordering Law: The Architectural and Social History of the English Law Court to ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰⍰ (Aldershot, Eng.: Ashgate, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

358 Bruce Ackerman, The ⍰umsfeld ⍰ ath, American Prospect, Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, http://www.prospect.org/cs/articles⍰articleId⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰. Each member was to swear that he or she would ⍰faithfully and impartially perform according to your conscience and the rules applicable to the review filed by a military commission all the duties incumbent upon you as a member of the review panel.⁄ Given that these individuals were already in the military, they would also have taken an oath under ⁄⁄ U.S.C. ⁄ ⁄⁄⁄ (⁄⁄⁄⁄) affirming that they would ⁄support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic . . . bear true faith and allegiance to the same; and . . . obey the orders of the President of the United States and the orders of the officers appointed over ⁄him or her⁄ according to regulations and the Uniform Code of Military Justice⁄

359 See ⁄⁄ U.S.C. ⁄ ⁄⁄⁄ (⁄⁄⁄⁄). See also ⁄ U.S.C. ⁄ ⁄⁄⁄⁄ (⁄⁄⁄⁄) (oath of office for United States officials other than the President), which provides that ⁄⁄an individual, except the President, elected or appointed to an office of honor or profit in the civil service or uniformed services, shall take the following oath: ⁄I, AB, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God.' This section does not affect other oaths required by law.⁄

360 The lack of judicial independence drew specific criticism from the United Nations Report on Detainees that criticized CSRTs and ARBs for failing to comport with the obligations of judges to be independent, which is ⁄essential to the notions of a ⁄court.' ⁄ See U.N. ⁄⁄⁄⁄ Situation of Detainees, paras. ⁄⁄–⁄⁄.

361 See, for example, Declaration of Stephen Abraham, para. ⁄, Reply of Petitioners to Opposition to Petition for Rehearing at ⁄, ⁄ l ⁄ dah v⁄⁄ nited States, ⁄⁄⁄ S. Ct. ⁄⁄⁄⁄ (No. ⁄⁄-⁄⁄⁄⁄) (hereinafter Abraham Declaration). Abraham, a reservist commissioned in ⁄⁄⁄⁄ as an officer in the Intelligence Corps, wrote that after he served on a CSRT that found no credible evidence for detention, the panel was asked to rehear the case; when it did not thereafter change its ruling, he was not asked to serve in that capacity again. Id., paras. ⁄⁄–⁄⁄.

362 Compare Daniel Markovits, ⁄dversar⁄ ⁄ dvocac⁄ and the ⁄uthorit⁄ of ⁄a⁄udication, ⁄⁄ Fordham Law Review ⁄⁄⁄⁄ (⁄⁄⁄⁄). Markovits detailed the function of adversarialism in generating legitimacy by integrating conflict into the social order.

363 See JTF-GTMO Media Policy, Guantanamo Bay NAS, Cuba, as of June ⁄⁄⁄⁄ (hereinafter JTF-GTMO Media Policy). The policy indicated that it provided no ⁄guarantee ⁄of ⁄media travel⁄but that the Department of Defense was doing ⁄its utmost to facilitate access for media members to provide their audiences imagery and reporting⁄ Yet access ⁄does not imply unlimited access to personnel or facilities⁄ Id. at ⁄. This document included ⁄Ground Rules⁄ to protect information. The Department of Defense threatened that a failure to comply could result in ⁄permanent expulsion and may result in the removal of the parent news organization from further participation in the commissions coverage assignment process⁄ and that criminal prosecution would be undertaken if classified information was disclosed. Id. at ⁄, para. ⁄. Upon signing the agreement, a person agreed not to ⁄publish, release, discuss or share information⁄ identified by JTF⁄ GTMO as ⁄being protected⁄ Id. at ⁄, para. ⁄.

364 See, for example, ⁄n re ⁄uantanamo Detainee Cases, ⁄⁄⁄ F. Supp. ⁄d ⁄⁄⁄ (D.D.C. ⁄⁄⁄⁄); Petitioners' Motion for Emergency Access to Counsel, ⁄han v⁄Bush, Case No. ⁄⁄-CV-⁄⁄⁄⁄ (RBW) (D.D.C. Oct. ⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄).

365 See ⁄C⁄ C ⁄eport at ⁄–⁄. See also William Glaberson, Some at ⁄uant⁄namo Were Denied ⁄ccess to ⁄ed Cross, New York Times, Nov. ⁄⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄, at A⁄⁄.

366 Bismullah v⁄⁄ ates, ⁄⁄⁄ F.⁄d ⁄⁄⁄ (D.C. Cir. ⁄⁄⁄⁄), vacated and remanded in light of Boumediene v⁄Bush, ⁄⁄⁄ U.S. ⁄⁄⁄ (⁄⁄⁄⁄).

367 Military Commission Order No. ⁄, Part ⁄(B)(⁄).

368 Military Commission Order No. ⁄, Part ⁄(B)(⁄) (the Appointing Authority should ⁄hold open proceedings except where otherwise decided⁄).

369 Military Commission Order No. ⁄, Part ⁄(A)(⁄)(a), subject to ⁄(B)(⁄).

370 Military Commission Order No. ⁄, Part ⁄(B)(⁄).

371 Military Commission Order No. ⁄, Part ⁄(B)(⁄).

372 The scene and text in figure ⁄⁄⁄⁄ showing a test of the video system, and reproduced with the assistance of Yale University Press⁄ was posted in ⁄⁄⁄⁄ on the website of the United States Department of Defense. See http/www.defenselink.mil/photos/newsphoto.aspx⁄ newsphotoid⁄⁄⁄⁄⁄.

373 See Charlie Savage, ⁄uant⁄namo Covera⁄e to Be ⁄estricted, Boston Globe, Aug. ⁄⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄, at A⁄.

374 Savage. See also JFT-GTMO Media Policy at ⁄.

375 Savage. Other reports refer to ⁄nine pages of ground rules, including an agreement not to publish protected information⁄ Beth Gorham, ⁄hadn⁄ Law⁄er Sa⁄s ⁄ ttawa ⁄ asn⁄ Done ⁄nou⁄h ⁄efore ⁄⁄⁄⁄ ⁄ earin⁄, Canadian Press, June ⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄.

376 See Savage. This article also notes that these restrictions were ⁄theoretical⁄at the time of the reporting; no trials with evidence introduced had then taken place. A few motions about the proceedings were held, at which the press was present. See also ⁄ssociated Press v⁄ ⁄⁄⁄⁄Dep⁄ of Defense, ⁄⁄⁄ F. Supp. ⁄d ⁄⁄⁄ (S.D.N.Y. ⁄⁄⁄⁄) (discussing confidentiality obligations of the press). The Associated Press later filed additional Freedom of Information Act lawsuits against the Department of Defense for other information about the detainees held in Guant⁄namo Bay. See ⁄ssociated Press v⁄⁄⁄⁄Dep⁄ of Defense, No. ⁄⁄-Civ-⁄⁄⁄⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄ U.S. Dist. LEXIS ⁄⁄⁄⁄⁄ (S.D.N.Y. Sept. ⁄⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄) (seeking information about detainee abuse and ARBs); ⁄ssoci⁄ ated Press v⁄⁄⁄⁄Dep⁄ of Defense, ⁄⁄⁄ F. Supp. ⁄d ⁄⁄⁄ (S.D.N.Y. ⁄⁄⁄⁄) (seeking photographs and information on the height and weight of each detainee); ⁄ssociated Press v⁄Dep⁄ of Defense, ⁄⁄⁄ F. Supp. ⁄d ⁄⁄⁄ (S.D.N.Y. ⁄⁄⁄⁄) (seeking information about the determination to transfer or release detainees prior to the implementation of ARBs in ⁄⁄⁄⁄).

377 Ian James, Journalists ⁄llowed to Watch Selected Tri⁄unals for the ⁄irst Time, Associated Press, Aug. ⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄.

378 Ian James, ⁄ ⁄f⁄han Detainees Plead Cases Before Tri⁄unals, Associated Press, Aug. ⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄.

379 See JTF-GTMO Media Policy at ⁄.

380 ⁄ U.S.C. ⁄ ⁄⁄⁄ (⁄⁄⁄⁄).

381 ⁄ssociated Press v⁄⁄⁄⁄Deparment of Defense, ⁄⁄⁄ F. Supp. ⁄d ⁄⁄⁄, ⁄⁄⁄ (S.D.N.Y. ⁄⁄⁄⁄).

382 ⁄ssociated Press v⁄Department of Defense, ⁄⁄⁄ F. Supp. ⁄d ⁄⁄⁄, ⁄⁄⁄ nn. ⁄–⁄ (S.D.N.Y. ⁄⁄⁄⁄). See also Agence France Press, Controls Ti⁄ht at Prisoner ⁄earin⁄s, Herald Sun (Australia), Aug. ⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄. That report stated that ⁄two Afghan detainees⁄ had their ⁄feet shackled and wrists handcuffed⁄ and were denied the opportunity to call witnesses; further, the event was the ⁄first time when the Afghans appeared before the three-judge panel⁄ that journalists had been allowed to watch.

383 Pamela Hess, No ⁄udio ⁄ecord of ⁄TM⁄ Trials, UPI International, Aug. ⁄⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄.

384 See ⁄ U.S.C. ⁄ ⁄⁄⁄(b)(⁄) (⁄⁄⁄⁄) (providing for nondisclosure of ⁄personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy⁄).

385 ⁄ssociated Press v⁄⁄⁄⁄Dep⁄ of Defense, ⁄⁄⁄ F. Supp. ⁄d ⁄⁄⁄ (S.D.N.Y. ⁄⁄⁄⁄). That decision denied a motion to reconsider the earlier ruling. ⁄ssociated Press v⁄⁄⁄⁄Dep⁄ of Defense, ⁄⁄⁄⁄ U.S. Dist. LEXIS ⁄⁄⁄ (S.D.N.Y. Jan. ⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄). The court required the ⁄government to break its secrecy and reveal the most comprehensive list yet of those who have been imprisoned⁄ at Guant⁄namo. As of ⁄⁄⁄⁄, only a few of those detained had been officially identified. See Jud⁄e ⁄rders ⁄⁄⁄ to ⁄elease ⁄uant⁄namo Detainee Data, USA Today, Feb. ⁄⁄, ⁄⁄⁄⁄, http://www.usatoday.com/news/washington/⁄⁄⁄⁄-⁄⁄-

□□-guantanamo-suit□x.htm□csp□□□□. Researchers at the Washin□ton Post sought to provide information on detaineees. By checking court documents and international sources, they compiled a list of the names and the countries of origin of □□□ Guant□namo detainees held between □□□□ and □□□□. See Names of the Detained in □uant□namo Ba□ Cu□a, Washington Post, http://projects.washingtonpost.com/guantanamo.

386 □The notion . . . that the detainees, involuntarily providing sworn recorded testimony to a quasi-judicial tribunal, nonetheless retained a reasonable expectation that their identifying information would remain confidential, is entirely without evidentiary support on this record.□□ ssociated Press v□□□□Dep□ of Defense, □□□ F. Supp. □d at □□□.

387 Moreover, the government had not taken the opportunity offered by the court to specify, with □respect to particular detainees and particular items of information,□ the requisite needs for privacy. □ ssociated Press v□□□□Dep□ of Defense, □□□ F. Supp. □d at □□□, n. □.

388 Abraham Declaration, para. □.

389 Abraham Declaration, para. □□. See also Kyndra Miller Rotunda, Honor Bound: Inside the Guant□namo Trials (Durham, NC: Carolina Academic Press, □□□□). Information also came from those who attended, including Wizner, □mpressions of □uant□namo, and from observers dispatched by Human Rights Watch. See, for example, Audrey Macklin, The □mar □hadr Case□□edefinin□ War Crimes, Jurist, Oct. □□, □□□□, http://jurist.law.pitt.edu/forumy/□□□□/□□/omar-khadr-case-redefining-war-crimes.php. Another compilation of the evaluation procedures comes from Wittes □ Wyne.

390 Lieutenant Colonel Vandeveld's sworn declaration in support of detainee Mohammed Jawad, one of the detainees whom he had previously prosecuted, detailed a litany of procedural deficiencies, including the fact that □□p□otentially exculpatory evidence has not been provided□ Declaration of Lieutenant Colonel Darrel J. Vandeveld, para. □□, □ nited States v□Mohammed Jawad (Sept. □□, □□□□), http://s□.amazonaws.com/propublica/assets/docs/vandeveld□declaration□□□□□□□.pdf.

391 William Glaberson, □□□Prosecutor Sa□s □e Was Pushed toward Closed Trials at □uant□namo, New York Times, Oct. □□, □□□□, at A□□. Described were the views of Colonel Morris D. Davis, who resigned as a prosecutor. See also Morris D. Davis, □W□ L Militar□ Jus□tice, Los Angeles Times, Dec. □□, □□□□; Morris Davis, □ nfor□iva□le Behavior, □nadmissi□le □vidence, New York Times, Feb. □□, □□□□, at WK□□; Ross Tuttle, □i□ed Trials at □itmo, The Nation, Feb. □□, □□□□ (interview with Colonel Davis); Amy Goodman, □mr□Chief □uan□t□namo Prosecutor Sa□s Militar□ Commissions □Not Justice□ Democracy Now□ July □□, □□□□, transcript of radio interview with Col. Davis, http://i□.democracynow.org/□□□□/□/□□/fmr□chief□guantanamo□prosecutor□says□military.

392 According to news reports, the Attorney General for England and Wales commented that those accused of terrorist activity ought to receive a □fair trial□ and that the Guant□namo tribunals were not □a fair trial by standards we would accept□ Cowell.

393 The ICTY provided that all proceedings other than deliberations □shall be held in public, unless otherwise provided□ Rule □□ (□Open Sessions□), Rules of Procedure and Evidence, International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, IT/□□/Rev.□□, http://www□.umn.edu/humanrts/icty/ct-rules□.html.

394 Regulations for the Establishment of a Complaints Procedure for Detainees, paras. □, □, International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, IT/□□, www.icty.org/x/file/Legal□□Library/Detention/IT□□UNDU□complaints□en.pdf.

395 Manual for Courts-Martial United States, □□□□ Edition, Rule □□□(a), http://www.apd.army.mil/pdffiles/mcm.pdf (hereinafter □□□□ Courts-Martial Manual). See also David J. R. Frakt, □n □ndelicate □m□alance□□ Critical Comparison of the □ules and Procedures for Mil□itar□ Commissions and Courts□Martial, □□ American Journal of Criminal Law □□□ (□□□□).

396 □□□□ Courts-Martial Manual, Rule □□□(b)(□).

397 □□□□ Courts-Martial Manual, Rule □□□(b)(□).

398 □□□□ Courts-Martial Manual, Rule □□□(b)(□) (□Closure□). □Public access to a session may be limited, specific persons excluded from the courtroom and, under unusual circumstances, a session may be closed□ Id. at Rule □□□(b)(□), Discussion. Case law has implemented this text by holding that the constitutional right of a public trial applies to courts-martial and to certain pretrial proceedings. See □BC, □nc□ v□Powell, □□ M.J. □□□ (Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces, □□□□). Article □□□ of the Geneva Conventions provides that prisoners of war □can be validly sentenced only if the sentence has been pronounced by the same courts according to the same procedure as in the case of members of the armed forces of the Detaining Power□ Geneva Convention relative to the Treatment of Prisoners of War, Art. □□□, Aug. □□, □□□□, □□ U.N.T.S. □□□, □ U.S.T. □□□□ (entered into force Oct. □□, □□□□).

399 The challenges included finding out who was on trial, where, and for what. See Eugene R. Fidell, □ccounta□ilit□ Transparenc□ □ Pu□lic Confidence in the □dministration of Militar□ Justice, □ The Green Bag □d □□□, □□□ (□□□□).

400 See the Detainee Treatment Act of □□□□, □ □□□□(e), provided as a rider to □□ U.S.C. □ □□□□ and to be codified as an amendment to □□ U.S.C. □ □□□□ (Dec. □□, □□□□), Pub. L. No. □□□-□□□, □□□ Stat. □□□□, □□□□–□□□□ (□□□□). See also the Military Commissions Act of □□□□, □ □, Pub. L. No. □□□-□□□, □□□ Stat. □□□□, □□□□–□□□□ (□□□□) (amending □□ U.S.C. □□□□(e) (□□□□)).

401 □asul v□Bush, □□□ U.S. □□□ (□□□□); □ amdan v□□umsfeld, □□□ U.S. □□□ (□□□□); Boumediene v□Bush, □□□ U.S. □□□ (□□□□).

402 See, for example, □asul v□M□ers, □□□ F.□d □□□ (D.C. Cir. □□□□).

403 The forms of detention are also not idiosyncratic. Individuals convicted of crimes and determined by prison officials to be especially dangerous can be placed in □supermax□ facilities where they are held in isolation and under surveillance for years. See Wilkinson v□□ustin, □□□ U.S. □□□ (□□□□). For other parallels between the detainees at Guant□namo and prisoners in the United States confined after convictions as well as those detained awaiting decisions on migration, see Judith Resnik, Detention, The War on Terror, and The □ederal Courts, □□□ Columbia Law Review □□□ (□□□□).

404 □Radical□ is also a term applied to it by the U.N. □□□□ Situation of Detainees at para. □□.

405 United States Department of Defense, Militar□ Commissions, http://www.dod.mil/pubs/foi/detainees/death□investigation/ghost□detainees/Pages□□□□□-□□□□□from□Joint□Staff□Ghost□Detainee□part□□□□of□□□.pdf.

406 See Seyla Benhabib, The Rights of Others: Aliens, Residents and Citizens □□–□□, □□□ (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, □□□□); Robert M. Cover, The Supreme Court □□□□ Term□ □oreword□Nomos and Narrative, □□ Harvard Law Review □ (□□□□); J□rgen Habermas, Between Facts and Norms: Contributions to a Discourse Theory of Law and Democracy (William Rehg, trans., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, □□□□).

407 Michel Foucault: Discipline and Punish: The Birth of the Prison □ (Alan Sheridan, trans., New York, NY: Vintage Books, □nd ed., □□□□; □st ed., □□□□).

408 Foucault at □□. See also John Rajchman, □oucault□ □rt of Seein□, □□ October □□ (□□□□). Rajchman argued that there was a relationship between □evidence□ (coming from □videre□□ to see) and Foucault's visual idioms. Id. at □□–□□. In addition, Rajchman maintained that the acceptability of practices came from their normalization, and hence that □spatialization□ is a technique in the exercise of power. Id. at □□□.

409 These words are from a decision refusing judicial inquiry into allegations that the United States government had detained a Canadian citizen, Maher Arar, who had immigrated from Syria (and retained that citizenship as well) and who, upon arriving from Tunisia on a family vacation, had been detained at John F. Kennedy Airport before boarding his plane to Montreal, interrogated for days chained and shackled and sent to Syria. He reported that during his ten months of detention in Syria, he was kept in a very small cell, given barely edible food and subjected to torture. Mr. Arar lost in the lower federal courts in his effort to obtain relief from these harms but was given funds by virtue of a special inquiry in Canada. See Arar v. Ashcroft, ___ F. Supp. 2d ___ (E.D.N.Y. ____), aff'd en banc, ___ F.3d ___ (2d Cir. ____), cert. denied ___ S. Ct. ____ (____). See also North Jersey Media Group, Inc. v. Ashcroft, ___ F.3d ___, ___ (2d Cir. ____) cert. denied, ___ U.S. ____ (____). That decision upheld the blanket closing of deportation hearings based on the government's claim of national security.

410 Jordan Gruzen with Cathy Daskalakis & Peter Krasnow, The Geometry of a Courthouse Design, in CELEBRATING THE COURTHOUSE: A GUIDE FOR ARCHITECTS, THEIR CLIENTS, AND THE PUBLIC 2, 2 (Steven Flanders, ed., New York, NY: W. W. Norton, ____).

411 Gruzen at ___.

412 See Maure L. Goldschmidt, Publicity, Privacy and Secrecy, 2 THE WESTERN POLITICAL QUARTERLY ___, ___ (____). Habermas cited Goldschmidt's comment in JÜRGEN HABERMAS, THE STRUCTURAL TRANSFORMATION OF THE PUBLIC SPHERE: AN INQUIRY INTO A CATEGORY OF BOURGEOIS SOCIETY ___ (Thomas Burger, trans., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ____) (hereinafter HABERMAS, STRUCTURAL TRANSFORMATION).

413 HABERMAS, STRUCTURAL TRANSFORMATION at 3. Furthermore, to the extent that courts served to replace the public punishments of the stockades and executions by creating public trials that resulted in published accounts disseminating information of wrongdoing (such that methods of making state power public but not the fact of doing so changed), punishment has become all the more hidden. See Simon Devereaux, The City and the Sessions Paper: "Public Justice" in London, ____–____, 34 JOURNAL OF BRITISH STUDIES ___, ___–___ (____).

414 John D. Donahue, The Transformation of Government Work: Causes, Consequences, and Distortions at 23, 24 in FREEMAN & MINOW. The function of the post in Europe, particularly in England, is analyzed in TIM BLANNING, THE PURSUIT OF GLORY: EUROPE ____–____, at 22–23 (New York, NY: Viking, ____).

415 In addition, a small line of cases dealing with the First Amendment rights of protestors to use public space have concluded that areas near post offices are more commercial than public. The distinction drawn by the United States Supreme Court is that, although its own sidewalks were "indistinguishable from any other sidewalks in Washington, D.C." and hence a "public forum" free for various users, United States v. Grace, ___ U.S. ___, ___ (____), some of the areas surrounding post offices are more like commercial establishments that fall under the law permitting regulation of protestors as well as others. See United States v. Kokinda, ___ U.S. ___ (____).

416 See Sharon Dolovich, How Privatization Thinks: The Case of Prisons, in FREEMAN & MINOW at ___–___.

417 Jody Freeman & Martha Minow, Introduction: Reframing the Outsourcing Debate in FREEMAN & MINOW at 1.

418 See Office of Management, Planning and Assessment, Implementation of the Long-Range Plan of the Federal Courts, Reported to the Committees of the Judicial Conference of the United States I-2 (Administrative Office of the United States Courts, April ____), www.uscourts.gov/library/Implementation_the_Long_Range_Plan.pdf (hereinafter ____ Federal Courts Implementation Long-Range Plan).

419 ____ Federal Courts Implementation Long-Range Plan at I-2. See also Administrative Office of the United States Courts, Federal Judicial Caseload Statistics, March 31, ____: Judicial Caseload Indicators, http://www.uscourts.gov/caseload____/contents.html.

420 Roberts at ___.

421 Gunther Teubner, After Privatisation? The Many Autonomies of Private Law, 51 CURRENT LEGAL PROBLEMS ___, ___ (____).

422 MARTHA MINOW, PARTNERS, NOT RIVALS: PRIVATIZATION AND THE PUBLIC GOOD (Boston, MA: Beacon Press, ____). The examples include schools, medical and legal services, and social welfare programs, and she called for accountability in all these venues.

423 William J. Novak, Public/Private Governance: A Historical Introduction at 23, 24 in FREEMAN & MINOW.

424 See generally Paul R. Verkuil, Public Law Limitations on Privatization of Government Functions, 84 NORTH CAROLINA LAW REVIEW ___ (____); Paul R. Verkuil, Outsourcing and the Duty to Govern at ___ in FREEMAN & MINOW.

425 Martha Minow, Outsourcing Power: Privatizing Military Efforts and the Risks to Accountability, Professionalism, and Democracy at ___ in FREEMAN & MINOW.

426 STUART HAMPSHIRE, INNOCENCE AND EXPERIENCE, ___–___ (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, ____) ("liveliness" at ___).

427 See Frederick Schauer & Virginia J. Wise, Nonlegal Information and the Delegalization of Law, 29 JOURNAL OF LEGAL STUDIES ___ (____); Lynn M. LoPucki, Court System Transparency, 34 IOWA LAW REVIEW ___ (____); John Markoff, "A Quest to Get More Court Rulings Online, and Free", NEW YORK TIMES, Aug. 31, ____, at C3. See generally Marco Fabri, "Justice in Rinland and in Italy: National versus Constraining Models", in ICT AND INNOVATION IN THE PUBLIC SECTOR: EUROPEAN STUDIES IN THE MAKING OF E-GOVERNMENT ___–___ (Francesco Contini & Giovan Francesco Lanzara, eds., Hampshire, Eng.: Palgrave Macmillan, ____).

428 See Eduardo Oteiza, Civil Procedure Reforms in Latin America: Tension Between Mediation and Conflict Resolution, in COMMON LAW, CIVIL LAW at ___–___.

429 Per Henrik Lindblom, "DDR: The Apogee of the Legal System? Perspectives on Alternative Dispute Resolution Generally and in Sweden", 33 EUROPEAN REVIEW OF PRIVATE LAW 33 (____).

430 Keith A. Gorgo, Comment, "Lost in Transcription: When the Video Record Is Actually Deration", 33 BUFFALO LAW REVIEW ___ (____).

431 Alfred C. Aman Jr., Privatization and Democracy: Resources in Administrative Law in FREEMAN & MINOW at ___, ___.

432 JEREMY BENTHAM, RATIONALE OF JUDICIAL EVIDENCE (____) (hereinafter BENTHAM, RATIONALE), in 6 THE WORKS OF JEREMY BENTHAM ___ (John Bowring, ed., Edinburgh, Scot.: William Tait, ____).

433 BENTHAM, RATIONALE at ___.

434 BENTHAM, RATIONALE at ___. Further, Bentham noted that in "the Court of King's Bench, the proceedings are purportedly held in public, yet the number of persons able to come . . . to hear, is not worth thinking of." 6 PHILIP SCHOFIELD, UTILITY AND DEMOCRACY: THE POLITICAL THOUGHT OF JEREMY BENTHAM ___ (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, ____) (quoting Bentham).

CHAPTER 33

1 See DORY REILING, LINN HAMMERGREN, & ADRIAN DI GIOVANNI, JUSTICE SECTOR ASSESSMENTS: A HANDBOOK 3 (Washington, DC: World Bank, ____), http://siteresources.worldbank.org/INTLAWJUSTINST/Resources/JSAHandbook.doc. See also Amartya Sen, What Is the Role of Legal and Judicial Reform in the Development Process? Speech at the World Bank Legal Conference (June 3, ____), http://siteresources.worldbank.org/INTLAWJUSTINST/Resources/legalandjudicial.pdf; MARIA DAKOLIAS & JAVIER SAID, JUDICIAL Reform: A Process of Change through Pilot Courts (Washington, DC: World Bank, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

2 Clare Graham, Ordering Law: The Architectural and Social History of the English Law Court to ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Aldershot, Eng.: Ashgate, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

3 Graham at ⊠⊠⊠ (emphasis in the original). The materials quoted in the text come from Graham's excerpt of Walter Bagehot's discussion of English institutions. See Walter Bagehot, The English Constitution ⊠–⊠ (London, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; reprinted by Gaunt, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Graham also relied on David Cannadine, whose analysis we discussed in Chapter ⊠ in relationship to the idea of public spectacles. See David Cannadine, The Conte⊠t, Performance and Meanin⊠ of ⊠itual⊠The British Monarch and the ⊠⊠nvention of Tradi⊠tion⊠ c⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, in The Invention of Tradition ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (Eric Hobsbawm ⊠ Terence Ranger, eds., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

4 Felicity Harris, The Development of Court ⊠rchitecture, ⊠s ⊠⊠ect on ⊠ til⊠ation of the Law Courts with Specific ⊠eference to the Court ⊠ouses of Truro, Cornwall ⊠⊠ (University of Exeter, Exeter, Eng., Working Paper, Access to Justice in Rural Britain Project, Nov. ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

5 Simon Roberts, ⊠Listin⊠ Concentrates the Mind⊠⊠ The ⊠n⊠lish Civil Court as an ⊠rena for Structured Ne⊠otiation, ⊠⊠ Oxford Journal of Legal Studies ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

6 Victor C. Gilbertson, Minnesota Courthouses xvi (Lakeville, MN: Galde Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

7 Gilbertson at xvi.

8 As analyzed in Chapter ⊠⊠, open judicial proceedings have a long history. Over the past few centuries, the traditions of literally open doors were strong in common law countries, with civil law jurisdictions having varying approaches, modified sometimes as civil and common law traditions overlap or converge.

9 In ⊠⊠⊠⊠, for example, the United States Supreme Court heard about seventy-five oral arguments. See Appendix Table A-⊠, U.S. Supreme Court, Cases on Docket, Disposed of, and Remaining on Docket, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ through ⊠⊠⊠⊠, in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Annual Report of the Director: Judicial Business of the United States Courts at ⊠⊠ (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, ⊠⊠⊠⊠). The court scheduled oral arguments a few days per month, generally during the mornings, from October through April; in the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ term, the court had thirty-eight days on which it heard arguments. See Supreme Court of the United States, Hearing List (October Term, ⊠⊠⊠⊠), http://www.supremecourt.gov/oral⊠arguments/hearinglists/hearinglist⊠oct⊠⊠.pdf.

10 See Peter Goodrich, Specters of Law⊠ Wh⊠ the ⊠istor⊠ of the Le⊠al Spectacle ⊠ as Not Been Written, U. of California Irvine Law Review (forthcoming ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

11 Paul Spencer Byard, ⊠eadin⊠ the ⊠rchitecture of Toda⊠⊠ Court⊠ ⊠house, in Celebrating the Courthouse: A Guide for Architects, Their Clients, and the Public ⊠⊠⊠ (Steven Flanders, ed., New York, NY: W. W. Norton, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Celebrating the Courthouse).

12 Marie Bels, Concours ⊠a⊠n⊠s, concours perdus vers l⊠⊠a⊠oration d⊠un mod⊠le, ⊠⊠⊠ Archicrée at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ (English translation: New Directions in the Desi⊠n of Law Courts at ⊠⊠⊠) (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

13 Bels at ⊠⊠⊠.

14 Roberts at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

15 See Robert M. Cover, ⊠iolence and the Word, ⊠⊠ Yale Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠); Robert M. Cover, The Supreme Court ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Term⊠ ⊠oreword⊠Nomos and Narrative, ⊠⊠ Harvard Law Review ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). Another account underscores the need to obtain compliance, and hence that legal authority requires managing the ⊠disappointment⊠ entailed in conflict. See Richard Mohr, ⊠uthorised Perform⊠ ances⊠The Procedural Sources of Judicial ⊠uthorit⊠, ⊠ Flinders Journal of Law Reform ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

16 For example, the architects who designed the ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Supreme Court for Israel (fig. ⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠) described their goal as seeking to reflect the ⊠⊠special nature of justice and the traditions in Israel.' ⊠ See Yosef Sharon, The Supreme Court Building, Jerusalem ⊠⊠ (Alexandra Mahler, trans., Jerusalem, Isr.: Yad Hanadiv, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠d ed., ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

17 Some architects have endeavored to make buildings express that universality. For example, Richard Rogers's design for the European Court of Human Rights (fig. ⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠) aimed to capture the Council of Europe's multi-national and hence non-national identity.

18 See Das Bundesverfassungsgericht in Karlsruhe: Architektur und Rechtsprechung (The Federal Constitutional Court of Germany: Architecture and Jurisdiction) ⊠⊠ (Basel, Switz.: Birkh⊠user⊠ Publishers for Architecture, ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter German Federal Constitutional Court). The passages quoted are from Thorsten Bürklin's essay With a Touch of ⊠nternationalit⊠ and Modernit⊠, in that volume (hereinafter Bürklin) at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. Germany's Federal Constitutional Court was established in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ after the enactment of the Basic Law in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. German Federal Constitutional Court at ⊠, ⊠⊠.

The courthouse, designed by Paul Baumgarten, opened in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and was commemorated in a volume published in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ as the building's expansion (⊠also committed to transparency⊠) was underway. Id. at ⊠–⊠⊠ (Preface by Hans-Jürgen Papier, President of the Federal Constitutional Court). Papier also praised the glass facade: ⊠From whichever angle one approaches the Federal Constitutional Court, one looks not only at but also into the building⊠ Id. at ⊠. The courtroom, rather than staff offices, was placed ⊠closest to the city⊠ Bürklin at ⊠⊠. As that volume also explained, while judgments are pronounced in the courtroom (designed as an ⊠ascent into light⊠ Bürklin at ⊠⊠), public hearings are ⊠a rare occurrence, although ⊠they⊠ continue to play an important part in the Court's decision-making process⊠ Jutta Limback, Workin⊠ at the ⊠ederal Constitutional Court, in German Federal Constitutional Court at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠.

19 Papier, Preface, in German Federal Constitutional Court at ⊠.

20 See Frank Greene, The ⊠na⊠e of the Courthouse, in Celebrating the Courthouse at ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. Greene, a courthouse architect, was the recipient of General Services Administration Design Excellence Awards for courthouses in Scranton and Pittsburgh. Id. at ⊠.

21 Greene at ⊠⊠ (emphasis in the original).

22 Greene at ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

23 Andrea P. Leers, ⊠r⊠an Desi⊠n and the Courthouse⊠⊠ ow Sites Shape Solutions, in Celebrating the Courthouse at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. The Iceland courthouse, designed after a ⊠⊠⊠⊠ competition, by Margr⊠t Hardard⊠ttir and Steve Christer of Studio Granda, Reykjavik, opened in ⊠⊠⊠⊠. See The Supreme Court of ⊠celand (Oddi Ltd., undated pamphlet provided by the court). Our thanks to Herdis Thorgeirsdottir, who facilitated a tour of that court.

24 Joshua Rozenberg, Civil Justice Centre Shines in Court ⊠loom, Telegraph, Apr. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/uknews/⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠/Civil-Justice-Centre-shines-in-court-gloom.html. That building of fourteen stories, with an eleven-story atrium, cost ⊠⊠⊠ million pounds. Civil Court Centre ⊠ pens in Cit⊠, BBC News, Oct. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://news.bbc.co.uk/⊠/hi/uk⊠news/england/manchester/⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠.stm. Rozenberg noted that the glossy new court, with six ⊠specialist commercial judges⊠ was hoping to ⊠drum up more work.⊠

25 See Jane C. Loe⊠ er, The ⊠mportance of ⊠ penness in an ⊠ra of Securit⊠⊠ Conversation with Supreme Court Justice Stephen ⊠⊠Bre⊠er, ⊠⊠⊠ Architectural Record ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (Jan. ⊠⊠⊠⊠). Justice Breyer described the United States Supreme Court's large open front plaza as a spatial signal other than glass that made plain that entrants were welcome. In May of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, the court⊠ over his dissent, joined by Justice Ginsburg⊠ closed that entrance off and routed individuals to ⊠a secure, reinforced area⊠ for security screening. U.S. Supreme Court Press Release, May [illegible], [illegible], http://www.supremecourt.gov/publicinfo/press/viewpressreleases.aspx?FileName=pr[illegible]-[illegible]-[illegible].html; Statement Concerning the Supreme Court's Front Entrance, Supreme Court Journal, October Term [illegible], entry for May [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]–[illegible], www.supremecourt.gov/orders/journal/jnl[illegible].pdf ("Memorandum of Justice Breyer, with whom Justice Ginsburg joins.").

26 See, for example, Bürklin at [illegible]. The court had achieved a "delicate balance between moderation and solemnity, democratic tolerance and authority, a balance which seems to speak to us through the geometrical simplicity and transparent openness of the architecture." Id. As we discussed in Chapters [illegible]–[illegible], the newly configured exteriors are not matched by similarly innovative interiors. The courtrooms remain conventional, sometimes with computer screens added to traditional layouts. In some transnational courts, more space is provided for judges, along with special booths for translators and dedicated areas for the press. Courtrooms continue to be posited as centerpieces even though, in terms of sheer square footage, office space predominates.

27 In Germany's Constitutional Court, for example, "open days are held regularly so that anyone who is interested can experience close up the way in which the court administers justice." Papier, Preface, in German Federal Constitutional Court at [illegible]. He noted that more than [illegible],[illegible] people attended a festival in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the court, that visitors regularly toured the building, and that the press reported important decisions. Id.

28 The mission of the Conference of Court Public Information Officers is to "serve as liaisons between the judiciary and the public," in part by working "closely" with the National Center for State Courts and the National Judicial College. See Conference of Court Public Information Officers, http://www.ccpio.org/aboutus.htm.

29 See David Nakamura, Architects Promise Visionary Design for Ballpark [illegible] Sport Considers Such Encompassing Themes as "Transparency" of Democracy" for Design, Washington Post, Apr. [illegible], [illegible], B[illegible]. See also David Nakamura, Lots of Glass, Capital Views Design of New Stadium for Washington Nationals Reflects Elements of Convention Center and Monuments in Departure from Red Brick Metro Ballparks, Washington Post, Mar. [illegible], [illegible], A[illegible] (hereinafter Nakamura, Lots of Glass). The ballpark's designers included a subgroup of Hellmuth, Obata & Kassabaum, the architectural firm that was also responsible for various courts, including the tallest federal courthouse to date (fig. [illegible]/[illegible]), located in St. Louis, Missouri.

Like some new court construction, the ballpark was promoted as an anchor for the economic expansion of a neighborhood. Emblematic of its commitments to American capitalism, the ballpark was to include [illegible] luxury suites, [illegible],[illegible] high-priced club seats, and an upscale restaurant. Nakamura, Lots of Glass. When it opened in [illegible] at a cost of [illegible] million in public money, many of the interior spaces were "accessible only to the public that can afford more expensive seats." Philip Kennicott, This Diamond Is Not a Gem: Nationals Park Gives Fans Plenty, But Its Bland Face Is a Muffed Chance, Washington Post, Mar. [illegible], [illegible], at C[illegible]. See generally Brett L. Abrams, Capital Sporting Grounds: A History of Stadium and Ballpark Construction in Washington, D.C. (Jefferson, NC: McFarland, [illegible]). Our thanks to Jane Loeffler for pointing out this parallel.

30 Annette Fierro, The Glass State: The Technology of the Spectacle, Paris, [illegible]–[illegible] at viii (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]). The French projects included the Pyramides of the Louvre and the Bibliothèque Nationale de France, renamed after Mitterrand's death in [illegible] to include his name. Id. at xiii, [illegible]. The list of architectural firms involved included several architects—Jean Nouvel, Dominique Perrault, Richard Rogers, and Henry Cobb—who were the designers of some of the courthouses discussed in Chapters [illegible]–[illegible]. As for the turn to glass, Fierro explained that since "the Gothic cathedral, glass has been coupled with the birth of the structural frame—and [illegible] with the rise of the structural frame in the late nineteenth century, glass construction, particularly curtain wall assembly systems, have followed suit." Fierro at viii–ix.

31 Joseph Paxton designed the Crystal Palace in Hyde Park, London. See John McKean, Sir Joseph Paxton, & Sir Charles Fox, Crystal Palace: Joseph Paxton and Charles Fox (London, Eng.: Phaidon, [illegible]). Fox was the structural engineer who was central to the design's construction.

32 The design is featured in The Light Construction Reader (Todd Gannon, ed., New York, NY: Monacelli Press, [illegible]), figs. [illegible] and [illegible], and discussed by Joan Ockman in excerpts published in that volume, based on the "Light Construction Symposium" held at Columbia University in [illegible]. Id. at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. "Constructed in record time from economical, modular, and demountable parts, it was the epitome of rational engineering." Yet its "lucidities . . . dissolved" because of its "new optical scale" and "its phantasmagoria of endless goods. Rationalism yielded to spectacle and surreality." Id. at [illegible]. See generally Isobel Armstrong, Victorian Glassworlds: Glass Culture and the Imagination [illegible]–[illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]); Thomas Marks, The Languages of Glass, [illegible] Cambridge Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]); Ufuk Ersoy, The Fictive Quality of Glass, [illegible] ARQ: Architectural Research Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]).

33 New techniques in glass manufacture in the early part of the twentieth century improved the transparency and increased the size of panes. Fierro at ix. France became one of the premier sites for manufacture. Id. at [illegible]. More recently, technologies expanded glass's uses. See Richard P. Feynman, Photons: Particles of Light, in The Light Construction Reader at [illegible]–[illegible].

34 See Rosemarie Haag Bletter, The Interpretation of the Glass Dream: Expressionist Architecture and the History of the Crystal Metaphor, [illegible] Society of Architectural Historians [illegible] ([illegible]). The twentieth century, in turn, produced the Crystal Cathedral, a megachurch designed by Philip Johnson and located in Orange County, California. See Dennis Sharp, Twentieth Century Architecture: A Visual History [illegible] (London, Eng.: Lund Humphries, [illegible]).

35 Bletter at [illegible]–[illegible], n. [illegible] (citing a [illegible] letter). Bletter traced the glass metaphor to fantastic descriptions in literatures from around the world of King Solomon's palace, said to have had translucent glass floors that looked like shimmering waters, making Solomon the "patron of glass architecture." Id. at [illegible]. In the New Testament, the revelation of St. John included a vision of the light of Jerusalem, "clear as crystal." Id. at [illegible] (citing "Revelation [illegible]:[illegible]"). Medieval literature's interest in "luminous" clarity is reflected, as described in Chapter [illegible], in the valorization of sight and the negativity of the blindfold, embodied in the figures of Ecclesia and Synagoga (figs. [illegible]/[illegible] and [illegible]/[illegible]). When Taut turned to building housing for workers, "glass was simply too expensive a material to use extensively." Bletter at [illegible]. She further argued that, ironically, what was seen as the "revolutionary" aspect of Expressionist reliance on glass was in fact a "richly traditional" feature. Id. at [illegible].

36 Dennis Sharp, "Introduction", p. [illegible] in the double volume Paul Scheerbart, Glass Architecture (James Palmes, trans., New York, NY: Praeger, [illegible]) (hereinafter Glass Architecture), and Bruno Taut, Alpine Architecture (Shirley Palmer, trans., New York, NY: Praeger, [illegible]). Exemplary was a house with glass "everywhere; walls, ceilings, floors, and even staircases were all finished in some kind of translucent or transparent material." Id. (with pictures) at [illegible]–[illegible].

37 Glass Architecture at [illegible]. See generally Ufuk Ersoy, Seeing through Glass: The Fictive Role of Glass in Shaping Architecture from Joseph Paxton's Crystal Palace to Bruno Taut's Glashaus (Ph.D. dissertation, U. of Pennsylvania School of Architecture, Philadelphia, PA, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]) (hereinafter Ersoy, Seeing through Glass).

38 Sharp at [illegible].

39 Sharp at [illegible]–[illegible] (with a photograph of the van der Rohe design) and at [illegible] (citing an article by Wright written in [illegible] for the [illegible]rchitectural [illegible]ecord).

40 Ludwig Hilberseimer, quoted in Terence Riley, Li[illegible]ht Construction, in The Light Construction Reader at [illegible], [illegible]. This essay was first published as an introduction to a catalogue of an exhibition held at the New York Museum of Modern Art in [illegible]: Terence Riley, Light Construction (New York, NY: Museum of Modern Art, distributed by Harry N. Abrams, [illegible]).

41 Fierro at [illegible].

42 Ockman, Li[illegible]ht Construction S[illegible]mposium, in The Light Construction Reader at [illegible].

43 See Colin Rowe [illegible] Robert Slutzky, Transparenc[illegible] Literal and Phenomenal, Part I, [illegible] Perspecta [illegible] ([illegible]); Colin Rowe [illegible] Robert Slutzky, Transparenc[illegible] Literal and Phenomenal, Part II, [illegible]–[illegible] Perspecta [illegible] ([illegible]).

44 Eeva-Liisa Pelkonen, The [illegible]la[illegible] Phantasm and Modern [illegible]rchitecture, in The Light Construction Reader at [illegible], [illegible]. This work was first published in Eeva-Liisa Pelkonen, Achtung Architektur[illegible] Image and Phantasm in Contemporary Austrian Architecture (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]).

45 Fierro at [illegible] (emphasis in original).

46 Fierro at xii. The Pompidou (also known as the Beaubourg) is analyzed at [illegible]–[illegible].

47 Fierro at [illegible].

48 Fierro at [illegible] (emphasis in the original).

49 Fierro at [illegible] (emphasis in the original). On the other hand, some of the projects were located near areas of economic distress and provided park space to working-class neighborhoods, offering [illegible]political appeasements to significant voting blocks[illegible] Id.

50 Fierro at [illegible]. She cited the interest in [illegible]open institutions' [illegible] of both Charles de Gaulle and Andr[illegible] Malraux, who, in addition to being a renowned novelist, was also the Minister of State for Cultural Affairs. Id.

51 Jane C. Loe[illegible]er, New Desi[illegible]ns of [illegible]m[illegible]assies and Courthouses [illegible]pose the Politics of [illegible]rchitecture, But [illegible]re [illegible]rchitects Political [illegible]nou[illegible]h [illegible] Architectural Record [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). See generally Jane C. Loeffler, The Architecture of Diplomacy: Building America's Embassies (Princeton, NJ: Princeton Architectural Press, [illegible]). The book mapped the concern about the deteriorated state of U.S. buildings in foreign countries, the funding and function of the State Department's Office of Federal Buildings Operations, and the embrace of the [illegible]International Style[illegible] for many embassies[illegible] followed by the rejection of that aesthetic. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

52 See generally Mark Fenster, The [illegible]pacit[illegible] of Transparenc[illegible], [illegible] Iowa Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Mark Fenster, Desi[illegible]nin[illegible] Transparenc[illegible] The [illegible] Commission and [illegible]nstitutional [illegible]orm, [illegible] Washington [illegible] Lee Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

53 Loeffler, Architecture of Diplomacy at [illegible], [illegible]. See also [illegible]ortress [illegible]merica [illegible]road[illegible][illegible]ective Diplomac[illegible] and the [illegible]uture of [illegible] [illegible]m[illegible]assies[illegible] earin[illegible] [illegible]efore the Su[illegible]committee on National Securit[illegible] and [illegible]oreig[illegible]n [illegible]airs of the Committee on [illegible]versi[illegible]ht and [illegible]overnment [illegible]eform, [illegible]th Cong. [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]) (statement of Dr. Jane Loe[illegible]er). Loe[illegible]er has also explored these themes in [illegible]m[illegible]ass[illegible] Desi[illegible]n[illegible] Securit[illegible] vs[illegible] penness, [illegible] Foreign Service Journal [illegible] (Sept. [illegible]); in the [illegible]s and [illegible]s, security concerns produced a [illegible]profound makeover[illegible] in U.S. facilities built abroad. Id. at [illegible]. That point is made by the title of Loe[illegible]er's course, From Glass Boxes to Bunkers: Architecture, Power, and Public Policy, offered in [illegible] at the University of Maryland, College Park.

54 Greene at [illegible]. He read glass as conveying a sense of the courts as [illegible]open to public scrutiny, inclusive of public participation, and dependent on the support and protection of its community[illegible] Id.

55 We borrow here from the essay [illegible] pa[illegible]ue Transparenc[illegible] by Rosemarie Haag Bletter, reproduced in The Light Construction Reader at [illegible] and first published in [illegible] Oppositions [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Anthony Vidler, [illegible]antas[illegible], the [illegible]ncann[illegible] and Surrealist Theories of [illegible]rchitecture, [illegible] Papers of Surrealism [illegible] (Winter [illegible]). [illegible]Glass, once perfectly transparent, is now revealed in all its opacity[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

56 Ersoy, Seeing through Glass at [illegible]. Glass functioned differently, as it served [illegible]the living body[illegible] in the realm of science and the [illegible]perceived body[illegible] in the realm of [illegible]the field of aesthetics[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

57 Riley, Li[illegible]ht Construction, in The Light Construction Reader at [illegible] (citing Anthony Vidler for the term [illegible]blockage[illegible] and using Marcel Duchamp's Lar[illegible]e [illegible] lass as an example of a [illegible]threshold[illegible]).

58 Fierro at [illegible].

59 See Herbert Muschamp, Buildin[illegible]s That [illegible]ide and [illegible]eveal, in The Light Construction Reader at [illegible]–[illegible]. The review appeared in the New [illegible]ork Times in September [illegible] and called the Museum of Modern Art's show a [illegible]painfully frustrating muddle[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

60 See Carlo Aymonino, Pala[illegible]o di [illegible]iusti[illegible]ia di Lecce, [illegible]talia, [illegible] Zodiac [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, U.S. Courts Design Guide [illegible]-[illegible] and [illegible]-[illegible] to [illegible]-[illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, [illegible]th ed., [illegible]) (hereinafter [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide); Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, U.S. Courts Design Guide [illegible]-[illegible] and [illegible]-[illegible] (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, [illegible]th ed., [illegible]) (hereinafter [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide); and Les nouveau[illegible] visa[illegible]es de La Justice, extraits des num[illegible]ros [illegible] and [illegible] du Moniteur, Feb. [illegible], [illegible], and Apr. [illegible], [illegible] (extracts distributed by the Ministry of Justice and the AMOTMJ) at [illegible], discussed in Chapters [illegible] and [illegible]. See also Todd S. Phillips [illegible] Michael A. Griebel, Building Type Basics for Justice Facilities [illegible]–[illegible] (Stephen A. Kliment, series editor, Hoboken, NJ: John Wiley [illegible] Sons, [illegible]); Don Hardenbergh, The Courthouse: A Planning and Design Guide for Court Facilities [illegible]–[illegible] (Williamsburg, VA: National Center for State Courts, American Institute of Architects, Conference of State Court Administrators, National Center for Juvenile Justice, American Bar Association, [illegible]).

61 Greene at [illegible]. Greene also discussed the standardization of weapons-screening technology at courthouse entrances and how [illegible]ubiquitous queues[illegible] to confiscate phones had become [illegible]the norm[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

62 Todd S. Phillips, Courthouse Desi[illegible]n at a Crossroads, in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible], [illegible].

63 Phillips at [illegible], [illegible].

64 Phillips at [illegible].

65 See General Accounting Office, Courtroom Construction[illegible]Bet[illegible]ter Courtroom [illegible]se Data Could [illegible]nhance [illegible]acilit[illegible] Plannin[illegible] and Deci[illegible]sionmakin[illegible], GAO/GGD-[illegible]-[illegible] at [illegible] ([illegible]); [illegible]eneral [illegible]ccountin[illegible] [illegible] [illegible]ce, Courthouse Construction[illegible]Su[illegible]cient Data and [illegible]nal[illegible]sis Would [illegible]elp [illegible]esolve the Courtroom[illegible]Sharin[illegible]ssue, GAO-[illegible]-[illegible], at [illegible], [illegible] (Dec. [illegible]). See also Congressional Budget Office, The [illegible]ne Courtroom, [illegible]ne[illegible]Jud[illegible]e Polic[illegible] [illegible] Preliminar[illegible] [illegible]eview [illegible] (Apr. [illegible]), http://www.cbo.gov/doc.cfm[illegible]index[illegible] type[illegible]. Cf. Federal Judicial Center, The [illegible]se of Courtrooms in [illegible]District Courts[illegible] [illegible]eport to the Judicial Conference Committee on Court [illegible]dministration [illegible] Case Mana[illegible]ement (Project Directors Donna Stienstra and Patricia Lombard, July [illegible], [illegible]), www.fjc.gov/public.pdf.nsf/lookup/ctrmuser.pdf/[illegible]file/ctrmuser.pdf. These reports are discussed in Chapter [illegible].

66 Frederic L. Lederer, The Courtroom in the [illegible]e of Technolo[illegible], in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible], [illegible]. Some commentators are critical of this development. See generally Linda Mulcahy, The [illegible]n[illegible]eara[illegible]le Li[illegible]ht[illegible]ness of Bein[illegible] Shifts Towards the [illegible]irtual Trial, [illegible] Journal of Law and Society [illegible] ([illegible]).

67 Philip Gerald Thacker, Components in a Comprehensive Judiciary-Directed Facilities Program (prepared for the World Bank, Dec. [illegible], [illegible]), http://siteresources.worldbank.org/INTLAWJUSTINST/Resources/Components.pdf.

68 Stephen C. Yeazell, The Misunderstood Conse[illegible]uences of Mod[illegible]ern Civil Process, [illegible] Wisconsin Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Judith Resnik, Mana[illegible]erial Jud[illegible]es, [illegible] Harvard Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

69 See Hugh O'Mahony, [illegible] app[illegible] Birthda[illegible] to the Court That [illegible] as [illegible] eard [illegible] Cases in [illegible]ht [illegible]ears, Lloyd's List, Nov. [illegible], [illegible]. This adjective was part of O'Mahony's description of the International Tribunal for the Law of the Seas, discussed in Chapter [illegible].

70 Phillips at [illegible]. See also Randy Gragg, Monuments to a Crime[illegible] [illegible]earin[illegible]e, New York Times Magazine, May [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]; Blair Kamin, [illegible]ortress [illegible]rchitecture[illegible]Don[illegible] Let Terrorists Desi[illegible]n [illegible]ur Build[illegible]in[illegible]s, Chicago Tribune, Dec. [illegible], [illegible], at C[illegible].

71 Graham at [illegible].

72 Carl R. Lounsbury, The Courthouses of Early Virginia: An Architectural History at [illegible] (Charlottesville, VA: U. of Virginia Press, [illegible]).

73 In some jurisdictions, this trend was linked to housing and transportation patterns. As an overview of Ohio courts detailed, these [illegible]modern buildings include the county jail and juvenile detention center, while offering citizens the convenience of suburban shopping malls.[illegible]Susan W. Thrane, Courthouses of Ohio [illegible] (Bloomington, IN: Indiana U. Press, [illegible]).

74 Judith Resnik, Man[illegible] Doors[illegible] Closin[illegible] Doors[illegible] [illegible]lternate Dispute [illegible]esolution and [illegible]d[illegible]udication, [illegible] Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution [illegible], [illegible] n. [illegible] ([illegible]) (citing Frank E. A. Sander, [illegible]ari[illegible] eties of Dispute Processin[illegible], The Pound Conference, [illegible] Federal Rules Decisions [illegible] ([illegible])).

75 Compare the [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide at [illegible]–[illegible] with the [illegible] U.S. Courts Design Guide.

76 Phillips at [illegible].

77 See generally Peggy Fulton Hora [illegible] William G. Schma, Thera[illegible] peutic Jurisprudence and the Dru[illegible] Treatment Court Movement[illegible] evo[illegible] lution[illegible]in[illegible] the Criminal Justice S[illegible]stem[illegible] [illegible]esponse to Dru[illegible] [illegible]use and Crime in [illegible] merica, [illegible] Notre Dame Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Bruce J. Winick [illegible] David B. Wexler, Dru[illegible] Treatment Court[illegible] Therapeutic Jurisprudence [illegible]pplied, [illegible] Touro Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Drug Court Clearinghouse and Technical Assistance Project, Office of Justice Programs, U.S. Department of Justice, Looking at a Decade of Drug Courts ([illegible]), National Criminal Justice Reference Service website, http://www.ncjrs.gov.

78 Phillips [illegible] Griebel at [illegible]. The authors noted that, even though such buildings have been constructed for many decades, there was an [illegible]absence of design guidance[illegible] Id.

79 Doug Ohman (photograph) [illegible] Mary Logue (text), Courthouses of Minnesota [illegible] (St. Paul, MN: Minnesota Historical Society Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Ohman [illegible] Logue).

80 John E. Czarnecki, [illegible] New Count[illegible] Courthouse Consolidates Law [illegible]nforcement, [illegible]ncarceration, and Court Processes Within [illegible] ne Buildin[illegible], [illegible] Architectural Record [illegible] (Mar. [illegible], [illegible]). The building was the La Crosse County Courthouse in Wisconsin.

81 Ohman [illegible] Logue at [illegible], also noting (as discussed in Chapter [illegible]) that the word court has changed its meaning before; once it denoted the group assembled around a royal sovereign.

82 See Le Monument r[illegible]ha[illegible]lit[illegible]Les [illegible]randes options de la politi[illegible]ue de construction [illegible]udiciaire (The [illegible]eha[illegible]ilitated Monument[illegible] reat Polic[illegible] [illegible] ption for Judicial Construction), interview with Marc Moinard, [illegible] Archicrée [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]), English synopsis at [illegible]. As discussed in Chapter [illegible], Moinard was then the Director of Judicial Services for France.

83 Phillips at [illegible].

84 As detailed in Chapter [illegible], William Howard Taft made that argument to the United States Congress when promoting the building of the United States Supreme Court. Hearings before the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, U.S. House of Rep., [illegible]th Cong., [illegible]st Sess., on H.R. [illegible] (and others), May [illegible] and [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible] (Statement of Hon. William Howard Taft, Chief Justice, Supreme Court of the United States).

85 See Herbert M. Kritzer [illegible] John Voelker, [illegible]amiliarit[illegible] Breeds [illegible]espect[illegible] ow Wisconsin Citi[illegible]ens [illegible]iew Their Courts, [illegible] Judicature [illegible] ([illegible]).

86 Paul Spencer Byard, [illegible]eadin[illegible] the [illegible]rchitecture of Toda[illegible] Court[illegible] house, in Celebrating the Courthouse at [illegible].

87 Byard at [illegible].

88 Byard at [illegible].

89 Byard at [illegible]–[illegible]. Examples included a federal courthouse designed by Richard Meier in Islip, New York, that Byard called [illegible]striking and strictly beautiful[illegible] while [illegible]literally and figuratively a monumental white void[illegible] Id.

90 Marlene Park [illegible] Gerald E. Markowitz, Democratic Vistas: Post Offices and Public Art in the New Deal [illegible] (Philadelphia, PA: Temple U. Press, [illegible]).

91 Figure [illegible] is a composite of Justice, Cornelis Matsys, circa [illegible]–[illegible]; Prudence, Agostino Veneziano, [illegible]; Temperance, Agostino Veneziano, [illegible]; and [illegible]ortitude, Marcantonio Raimondi, circa [illegible]. Copyright: Warburg Institute. The images are reproduced courtesy of the copyright holder, the Warburg Institute, University of London, and were obtained with the assistance and guidance of Elizabeth McGrath.

92 R. E. Houser, [illegible]ntroduction, The Cardinal Virtues: Aquinas, Albert, and Philip the Chancellor [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (R. E. Houser, trans., Toronto, Can.: Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, [illegible]) (hereinafter Houser, [illegible]ntroduction to The Cardinal Virtues). Here we use capitalization of the virtues, such as Justice or Prudence, only when discussing their personifications.

93 See Plato, The Republic IV, [illegible]e at [illegible] (G. M. A. Grube, trans., Indianapolis, IN: Hackett, [illegible]).

94 Houser, [illegible]ntroduction to The Cardinal Virtues at [illegible]. As detailed in Chapter [illegible], the Cardinal Virtues were interrelated and also overlapped with other sets, such that Fortitude was both a [illegible]Gift Virtue[illegible] and a Cardinal Virtue. See Helen North, Sophrosyne: Self-Knowledge and Self-Restraint in Greek Literature [illegible]–[illegible] (Ithaca, NY: Cornell U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter North, Sophrosyne).

95 See Houser, [illegible]ntroduction to The Cardinal Virtues at [illegible]–[illegible]. Ambrose spoke of the Virtues as [illegible]born together and perfected together[illegible] See Ambrose, De e[illegible]cessu fratris Sat[illegible]ri, [illegible].[illegible], Corpus Scriptorum Ecclesiasticorum Latinorum [illegible]: [illegible], as translated by Houser in id. at [illegible]. As noted in the earlier discussion of the Virtues and in reference to the Israel Supreme Court (figs. [illegible]/[illegible], [illegible]/[illegible]), the word cardinal (cardinalis in Latin) is derived from cardo, a term whose diverse meanings include the orientation of the earth's poles. (We discuss this term in Chapter [illegible] in reference to the placement of the Israeli Supreme Court.) Helen North identified a [illegible] BCE ode as the earliest recorded reference to the set as [illegible]cardinal[illegible] virtues; in the poem are [illegible]all four of the virtues later canonized by Plato . . . although only sophrosyne goes by its proper name.[illegible] North, Sophrosyne at [illegible].

96 Thomas Aquinas, Disputed Questions on Virtue [illegible] (Ralph McInerny, trans. and preface, South Bend, IN: St. Augustine's Press, [illegible]). Further, the other virtues were based on them. Id. While relevant to humankind, the Virtues also [illegible]remained in heaven[illegible] Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

97 Aquinas at [illegible]. Gregory, who lived from about [illegible] to [illegible] CE, was known as [illegible]the Great[illegible] or [illegible]the Dialogist[illegible] because of his collection of essays. Aquinas cited Gregory's Morals on Jo[illegible] [illegible]. There Gregory offered his exegesis on the Book of Jo[illegible], stating that [illegible]Blessed Job[illegible] displayed the unity of virtues, [illegible]viz. prudence, temperance, fortitude, and justice[illegible] that were [illegible]mutually joined to one another[illegible] because [illegible]separated they can never be perfect[illegible] Gregory the Great, Morals on the Book of Job, vol. [illegible] at [illegible] (Oxford, Eng.: John Henry Parker, [illegible]).

98 Aquinas at [illegible]. Characteristics were entailed in each other, such that [illegible]fortitude is temperate and temperance brave since one who can restrain . . . the impulse to recklessness before mortal danger . . . can all the more easily stand firm against the allurements of desire. Id. at [illegible].

99 Aquinas at [illegible]–[illegible]. On the other hand, individuals might have the "inclination to act" in a manner that weights one more than the other. Id. at [illegible].

100 Ambrose, De excessu fratris Satyri as translated by Houser in The Cardinal Virtues at [illegible]. According to Aquinas, each virtue is "principal in its own genus." Daniel Mark Nelson, The Priority of Prudence: Virtue and Natural Law in Thomas Aquinas and the Implications for Modern Ethics [illegible] (University Park, PA: Pennsylvania State U. Press, [illegible]). However, some read Aquinas as arguing that "prudence is 'more principal' than others." Id.

101 Nelson at [illegible].

102 Robert W. Cape Jr., Cicero and the Development of Prudential Practice at Rome, in Prudence: Classical Virtue, Postmodern Practice [illegible], [illegible] (University Park, PA: Pennsylvania State U. Press, [illegible]).

103 Cape at [illegible]–[illegible].

104 Cape at [illegible]–[illegible]. Cape derived this conclusion from Cicero's Dream of Scipio and the commentary of Macrobius.

105 See, for example, Alberto R. Coll, Normative Prudence as a Tradition of Statecraft, [illegible] Ethics and International Affairs [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). See generally Douglas J. Den Uyl, The Virtue of Prudence (New York, NY: Peter Lang, [illegible]).

106 Anthony T. Kronman, "Alexander Bickel's Philosophy of Prudence," [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]); Anthony T. Kronman, The Lost Lawyer: Failing Ideals of the Legal Profession [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, [illegible]).

107 Ralph Waldo Emerson, Prudence, in Essays: First and Second Series [illegible], [illegible] (New York, NY: Vintage Books, Library of America, [illegible]).

108 Josef Pieper, The Four Cardinal Virtues: Prudence, Justice, Fortitude, Temperance [illegible] (Notre Dame, IN: U. of Notre Dame Press, [illegible]).

109 Nelson at [illegible].

110 Coll at [illegible].

111 Aquinas at [illegible].

112 Houser, "Introduction" to The Cardinal Virtues at [illegible].

113 See North, Sophrosyne at [illegible].

114 North, Sophrosyne at [illegible].

115 North, Sophrosyne at [illegible].

116 Houser, "Introduction" to The Cardinal Virtues at [illegible].

117 Pieper at [illegible].

118 Pieper at [illegible]. Thus some schemas put prudence in a governance context, justice in relation to allocations and disputes, fortitude as future-looking, and temperance as the realization of inner thoughtfulness. Id.

119 North, Sophrosyne at [illegible].

120 North, Sophrosyne at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

121 North, Sophrosyne at [illegible].

122 North, Sophrosyne at [illegible]–[illegible].

123 North, Sophrosyne at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

124 Pieper at [illegible]–[illegible]. See R. E. Houser, The Virtue of Courage, in The Ethics of Aquinas [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] (Stephen J. Pope, ed., Washington DC: Georgetown U. Press, [illegible]) (hereinafter Houser, The Virtue of Courage).

125 Suzanne Lynn Burris, Pieter Bruegel the Elder's Apocalyptic Fortitude [illegible] (M.A. thesis, U. of North Texas Department of Art History, Denton, TX, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]) (citing Rosemund Tuve, Allegorical Imagery: Some Medieval Books and Their Posterity [illegible] (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, [illegible])).

126 Pieper at [illegible] (his translation).

127 Pieper at [illegible].

128 Houser, The Virtue of Courage at [illegible].

129 Houser, The Virtue of Courage at [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Richard White, Radical Virtues: Moral Wisdom and the Ethics of Contemporary Life [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Rowman & Littlefield, [illegible]).

130 White at [illegible]–[illegible].

131 Pieper at [illegible].

132 How these connections were forged is something of a puzzle. [illegible] "The issue is whether the emblem depends on the invention of original but arbitrary connections between image and meaning, or whether the relation between sign and referent depends on some deeper and more intrinsic ('natural') affinity." Michael Bath, Speaking Pictures: English Emblem Books and Renaissance Culture [illegible] (London, Eng.: Longman, [illegible]). Bath argued that emblems were products of both arbitrary and intrinsic meaning. Further, given the diversity of codification systems, Bath doubted the effort to put them into a "a single, unitary genre." Id. at [illegible].

133 Helen F. North, Temperance (Sophrosyne) and the Canon of the Cardinal Virtues, in Dictionary of the History of Ideas: Studies of Selected Pivotal Ideas, vol. IV at [illegible], [illegible] (Philip P. Wiener, ed., New York, NY: Charles Scribner's Sons, [illegible]) (hereinafter North, Temperance and the Canon of the Cardinal Virtues). North noted that Ripa and his followers were sources of some of the odder attributes and representations. Id. As we detailed in Chapters [illegible] and [illegible], Ripa initially wrote a compendium of attributes in the late sixteenth century. The first illustrated "Ripa" was published in Italy in [illegible], and one of the last, the [illegible] English edition by George Richardson, is, like the Maser translation, a selective rendition. See Cesare Ripa, Baroque and Rococo Pictorial Imagery: The [illegible]–[illegible] Hertel Edition of Ripa's "Iconologia" with [illegible] Engraved Illustrations (Edward A. Maser, ed., New York, NY: Dover, [illegible]) (hereinafter Ripa, Maser Edition); Cesare Ripa, Iconologie (Jean Baudoin, ed., Paris, Fran.: Chez Mathieu Guillemot, [illegible]); Cesare Ripa, Iconology, London [illegible] in Two Volumes by George Richardson (New York, NY, & London, Eng.: Garland, [illegible]) (hereinafter Ripa, Richardson Edition).

The treatment of other Virtues in the various editions of Ripa paralleled that of Justice in that elaborate descriptions were provided for each. For example, the eighteenth-century Hertel-Maser edition specified that Prudence was to be shown in "a gilded helmet wreathed with mulberry leaves. On a chain around her neck hangs a skull. She looks into a mirror which she holds in one hand. In her other hand she has an arrow around which an eel is wound. Behind her lies a huge stag." That version further reported that Ripa cited Alciatus as describing the mulberry as "a most cautious tree" and invoked Pliny for the proposition that the eel "has the power of dragging 'a ship' to a halt with its weight and strength," thereby signifying "a brake on speedy decisions." Ripa, Maser Edition at [illegible]. The same edition of Ripa specified that Temperance was to be clad in purple, "a color made up of two very different colors" of which neither "component color" is dominant. She was to hold a bridle and the "balance wheel of a clock" to tell "when it is time for action and time for quiet." Ripa, Maser Edition at [illegible].

The Hertel-Maser edition did not contain an image of Fortitude, but the [illegible] Richardson edition depicted Fortitude with a column and lion. She was shown "partly in military dress . . . signifying "bodily courage, and the power of resisting difficulties and dangers." Her "brown robes allude to the colour of a lion" cited as an Egyptian symbol of strength; the column upon which she rested "denotes fortitude of mind, as the column is one of the strongest parts of an edifice and generally supports the superstructure." Her spear was to "denote authority." Ripa, Richardson Edition at [illegible].

134 The sources and more details are provided in Chapters [illegible], [illegible], and [illegible] and their endnotes.

135 North, Temperance and the Canon of the Cardinal Virtues at [illegible].

136 North, Sophrosyne at ⧫⧫⧫. North attributed the popularity of the bridle (seen in fig. ⧫⧫⧫) to a Temperance depicted by Giotto. North, Temperance and the Canon of the Cardinal ⧫irtues at ⧫⧫⧫.

137 See, for example, Giotto's ⧫ortitude of ⧫⧫⧫⧫ in the Scrovegni Chapel in Padua, Italy; Giovanni Bellini's ⧫ortitude of ⧫⧫⧫⧫ in the collection of the Getty Museum in Los Angeles, California; Paolo Uccello's ⧫ortitude of ⧫⧫⧫⧫ in the Prato Cathedral in Prato, Italy; Luca Giordano's ⧫lle⧫or⧫ of ⧫ortitude of the ⧫⧫⧫⧫s (likely intended for the Palazzo Medici Riccardi in Florence) in the collection of the National Gallery, London. Just as Justice had a symbolic relationship to St. Michael, so did Fortitude⧫ sometimes depicted ⧫grasping a dragon by its neck⧫ Burris at ⧫.

138 See Ripa, Maser Edition at ⧫⧫⧫ (attributing this view to Piero Valeriano).

139 North, Temperance and the Canon of the Cardinal ⧫irtues at ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; North, Sophrosyne at ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫. Fortitude, Temperance, and Justice were also regularly on Tarot cards, while Prudence appeared more rarely.

140 Their deployment over a thousand years, North argued, provided ⧫an accurate indication of the ebb and flow of interest in Platonic-Stoic ethics⧫ North, Temperance and the Canon of the Cardi⧫nal ⧫irtues at ⧫⧫⧫.

141 Barbara Ghelfi, ⧫lessandro Tiarini as a Draftsman, ⧫⧫ Master Drawings ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, fig. ⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫).

142 See Roberta Kevelson, ⧫tons of Justice⧫Spirit of Laws, ⧫ International Journal for the Semiotics of Law ⧫⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫). Kevelson objected that the balance ⧫presupposed⧫⧫ a closed universe, a model in which constancy, absoluteness, stability and predictable order⧫ existed as hallmarks of ⧫firm principle⧫ and, invoking Montesquieu, called for images denoting motion and change in the name of justice. Id. at ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫.

143 The photograph that is reproduced in figure ⧫⧫⧫ was provided to us by the Detroit Institute of Arts, which authorized its use. The Nail Figure from Kongo, dated ⧫⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫⧫, was a Founders Society Purchase (Eleanor Clay Ford Funds for African Arts, ⧫⧫⧫⧫). The Detroit Institute of Art attributed this version to the Kongo people and also noted that it could be from Western Kongo, Mayombe, or Yombe. The Art Institute classified the figure as either a ⧫Nkonde⧫ a ⧫power figure⧫ a ⧫nail fetish⧫ or ⧫nkisi-n'kondi⧫ Our understanding of these figures has been enriched through excellent research by Maria Burnett, Allison Tait, and Sophie Hood and from our exchange with Wyatt MacGaffey.

144 See Robert Farris Thompson, ⧫on⧫o Power ⧫i⧫ure, in Perspectives: Angles on African Art ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ (New York, NY: Center for African Art and Harry N. Abrams, ⧫⧫⧫⧫) (hereinafter Thompson, ⧫on⧫o Power ⧫i⧫ure⧫

145 See Wyatt MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment and Power⧫ The ⧫isual ⧫oca⧫ular⧫ of ⧫on⧫o Minkisi, ⧫⧫ Journal of Southern African Studies ⧫⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫) (hereinafter MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment). ⧫Nkisi is a Kikongo word that has no near equivalent in English⧫ Id. at ⧫⧫⧫. Not only is the term hard to translate, but the objects so denoted were themselves used in different cultures. See Dunja Hersak, There ⧫re Man⧫⧫on⧫o Worlds⧫Particularities of Ma⧫ico⧫ ⧫eli⧫ious Beliefs amon⧫ the ⧫ili and ⧫om⧫e of Con⧫o⧫Bra⧫⧫aville, ⧫⧫ Africa: Journal of the International African Institute ⧫⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫).

146 MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment at ⧫⧫⧫. See also Wyatt MacGaffey, Kongo Political Culture: The Conceptual Challenge of the Particular ⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫ (Bloomington, IN: Indiana U. Press, ⧫⧫⧫⧫) (hereinafter MacGaffey, Kongo Political Culture).

147 MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment at ⧫⧫⧫. See also Art and Healing of the Bakongo Commented by Themselves: Minkisi from the Laman Collection (Kikongo texts translated and edited by Wyatt MacGaffey, Stockholm, Swed.: Folkens Museum, ⧫⧫⧫⧫).

148 Hersak at ⧫⧫⧫.

149 Hersak at ⧫⧫⧫ (quoting Frank Hagenbucher-Sacripanti, Santé et rédemption par les génies au Congo (Paris, Fran.: ⧫nd ed., ⧫⧫⧫⧫).

150 MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment at ⧫⧫⧫. At times, ⧫irrelevant European categories are imposed⧫ on these objects. Wyatt MacGaffey ⧫ John M. Janzen, Nkisi ⧫i⧫ures of the Bakon⧫o, ⧫ African Arts ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫).

151 MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment at ⧫⧫⧫.

152 MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment at ⧫⧫⧫.

153 MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment at ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫. ⧫All powerful charms . . . were composite, in ⧫various⧫ senses. A plain wooden statue, ⧫empty' (mpam⧫a), had no power until ⧫ingredients' were sealed into a receptacle on its head, belly, or elsewhere⧫ MacGaffey ⧫ Janzen at ⧫⧫. Through the assembly of ingredients, powerful charms were ⧫supposed to contain a ⧫spirit'⧫ from a long-dead ancestor returning to assist descendants. Id.

154 For example, in some cultures the ⧫healing function⧫ may entail ⧫chasing off or destroying the witch who . . . caused the illness⧫ See MacGaffey ⧫ Janzen at ⧫⧫. A nkisi was ⧫regarded as the master of particular diseases, able to cure them in its clients or inflict them on persons against whom it was activated⧫ Id.

155 MacGaffey, Kongo Political Culture at ⧫⧫.

156 MacGaffey, Comple⧫it⧫ ⧫stonishment at ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫.

157 MacGaffey ⧫ Janzen at ⧫⧫. See also Wyatt MacGaffey, ⧫etishism ⧫evisited⧫⧫on⧫o Nkisi in Sociolo⧫ical Perspective, ⧫⧫ Africa: Journal of the International African Institute ⧫⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫). MacGaffey explained that the term ⧫fetish⧫ought to be avoided because of its negative connotations that appreciated neither the role of magic nor the figures' relation to religious practices.

158 Thompson, ⧫on⧫o Power ⧫i⧫ure at ⧫⧫⧫. Thompson later authored an essay reviewing an art exhibit of minkisi figures guest-curated by MacGaffey. See Robert Farris Thompson, ⧫luminatin⧫ Spirits⧫⧫⧫stonishment and Power⧫at the National Museum of ⧫frican ⧫rt, ⧫⧫ African Arts ⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫). Another reference suggesting the relationship of these figures to the law comes from Cynthia Freeland, But Is It Art⧫ An Introduction to Art Theory ⧫⧫, fig. ⧫ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, ⧫⧫⧫⧫). A good many museums feature these objects in their collections. See, for example, ⧫ecent ⧫c⧫uisitions⧫ ⧫ Selection ⧫⧫⧫⧫⧫⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫ Metropolitan Museum of Art Bulletin ⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫). Reproduced was the newly displayed Man⧫aaka Power ⧫i⧫⧫ure (Nkisi N⧫kondi⧫

159 Thompson described a ⧫whole legal process⧫ for the ⧫driving-in of the blades⧫ Thompson, ⧫on⧫o Power ⧫i⧫ure at ⧫⧫⧫. See also Wyatt MacGaffey, ⧫esthetics and Politics of ⧫iolence in Central ⧫frica, ⧫⧫ Journal of African Cultural Studies ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫) (hereinafter MacGaffey, ⧫esthetics and Politics of ⧫iolence).

160 Zdenka Volavkova, Nkisi ⧫i⧫ures of the Lower Con⧫o, ⧫ African Arts ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫). MacGaffey and Janzen disagreed, noting a story they dated from the sixteenth century in which nails were credited with causing wreckage. MacGaffey ⧫ Janzen at ⧫⧫. ⧫Missionary use of stabbed and bleeding madonnas for teaching purposes may have contributed to the development of nail fetishes, but if so . . . on entirely African terms⧫ Id. Volavkova replied that MacGaffey and Janzen, embedded in the discipline of anthropology, missed the opportunity for a dialogue with art historians and wrongly presumed her lack of understanding of the context and history. See Zdenka Volavkova, ⧫nce ⧫⧫ain on the ⧫on⧫o Nkisi ⧫i⧫ures, ⧫ African Arts ⧫⧫ (⧫⧫⧫⧫) (hereinafter Volavkova, ⧫nce ⧫⧫ain). She also disagreed about how to date and evaluate the narratives on which MacGaffey and Janzen based some of their claims.

161 Volavkova, ⧫nce ⧫⧫ain at ⧫⧫.

162 Volavkova, ⧫nce ⧫⧫ain at ⧫⧫.

163 Volavkova, ⧫nce ⧫⧫ain at ⧫⧫.

164 MacGaffey, Comple[illegible]it[illegible] [illegible]stonishment at [illegible]. See also MacGaffey, [illegible]esthetics and Politics of [illegible]iolence at [illegible]–[illegible].

165 MacGaffey, [illegible]esthetics and Politics of [illegible]iolence at [illegible]. See also MacGaffey, Kongo Political Culture at [illegible]–[illegible].

166 MacGaffey [illegible] Janzen at [illegible]. The purpose of the action was to [illegible]hammer in a curse.' [illegible] Id.

167 Papier, Preface, in The Federal Constitutional Court of Germany at [illegible]–[illegible].

168 Jutta Limbach, Workin[illegible]in the [illegible]ederal Constitutional Court, in Federal Constitutional Court of Germany at [illegible].

169 See Palace of Justice Truth Commission, Final Report of the Commission of Truth for the Holocaust in the Palace of Justice of Bogot[illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] November [illegible] (Bogota, Colom.: Palace of Justice Truth Commission, Dec. [illegible], [illegible]), http://www.verdadpalacio.org.co/Assets/DOCs/INFORME-FINAL-CVPJ.pdf. See also Christina Lleras Figueroa, Memoria del Palacio de Justicia en El Museo Nacional de Colombia: Una Historia Que No Se Acaba de Contar, ISSN [illegible]-[illegible] ([illegible]), http://www.museonacional.gov.co/cuadernos.html; Gabriel Marcella, Democratic Governance and the Rule of Law: Lessons from Colombia [illegible] (Carlisle, PA: Strategic Studies Institute of the U.S. Army War College, Dec. [illegible]).

170 See Tras [illegible]os [illegible]a [illegible]Palacio De Justicia ([illegible]fter [illegible]ears, There [illegible]s a Palace of Justice), El Tiempo, Nov. [illegible], [illegible] (translated by Sophie Hood). Another commemorative element is a crucifix that survived the fire. Correspondence with Manuel Jos[illegible] Cepeda, former Justice of the Supreme Court of Colombia, Dec. [illegible], [illegible].

171 See Heinz Klug, [illegible]istorical Back[illegible]round, in Constitutional Law of South Africa [illegible]-[illegible] to [illegible]-[illegible]; Matthew Chaskalson, et al., eds., [illegible]st ed., Kenwyn, S.A.: Juta, [illegible]); Albie Sachs, The Creation of South [illegible]frica[illegible] Constitution, [illegible] New York Law School Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

172 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], preamble. In addition, the Constitution states that its judges, when interpreting its Bill of Rights, [illegible]must consider international law[illegible] and [illegible]may consider foreign law.[illegible] S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible]. This interactive sovereign identity has resulted, in a relatively short time, in the South African Constitutional Court's both citing and being cited by its counterparts. See, for example, Frank I. Michelman, The Constitution, Social [illegible]ights, and Li[illegible]eral Political Jus[illegible]tification, [illegible] International Journal of Constitutional Law [illegible] ([illegible]); Judith Resnik, Law as [illegible]liation[illegible]orei[illegible]n [illegible] Law, Democratic [illegible]ederalism, and the Sovere[illegible]ntism of the Nation[illegible]State, [illegible] International Journal of Constitutional Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

173 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible] illegible. The Constitutional Court is one part of a textured approach to justice in post-Apartheid South Africa. As noted in Chapter [illegible], South Africa famously established a [illegible]Truth and Reconciliation Commission[illegible] that provided a public accounting and had the power to provide amnesty to those who came [illegible]forward to provide a full disclosure of their misdeeds[illegible] See S. Sandile Ngcobo, Truth, Justice, and [illegible]mnest[illegible] in South [illegible]frica[illegible]Sins from the Past and Lessons for the [illegible]uture, [illegible] Ius Gentium [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). A personal account of the history of both institutions comes from Albie Sachs, The Strange Alchemy of Life and Law (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

174 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible] illegible–([illegible]).

175 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible]. For example, in [illegible] the Constitutional Court held that criminal appeals had to be argued in open court. See, for example, Shin[illegible]a v [illegible]State and The Societ[illegible] of [illegible]dvocates [illegible]Pietermarit[illegible]ur[illegible] Bar[illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]) BCLR [illegible] (CC) (S. Afr.), South African Legal Information Institute, http://www.saflii.org/za/cases/ZACC/[illegible]/[illegible].pdf.

176 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible] illegible ([illegible]Everyone whose rights have been adversely affected by administrative action has the right to be given written reasons[illegible]).

177 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible].

178 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible] illegible. [illegible]National legislation must be enacted to give effect to this right, and may provide for reasonable measures to alleviate the administrative and financial burden on the state[illegible] Id. at [illegible] illegible.

179 See Doctors for Life [illegible]nternational v [illegible]Speaker of the National [illegible]ssem[illegible] and [illegible] thers, [illegible] ([illegible]) BCLR [illegible] (CC) (S. Afr.); see also Matatiele Municipalit[illegible] and [illegible] thers v [illegible]President of the [illegible]epu[illegible]lic of South [illegible]frica and [illegible] thers, [illegible] ([illegible]) BCLR [illegible] (CC) (S. Afr.); Merafon[illegible] Demar[illegible]cation [illegible]orum and [illegible] thers v [illegible]President of the [illegible]epu[illegible]lic of South [illegible]frica and [illegible] thers, [illegible] ([illegible]) SA [illegible] (CC) (S. Afr.). The majority in Merafon[illegible] reaffirmed the constitutional obligation to facilitate public involvement while concluding that the local government had discharged its duty to encourage participation. Our thanks to Elizabeth Brundige for pointing us to this line of cases.

180 See S. Afr. Const. [illegible], at [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible]Housing[illegible]); id. at [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible]Health care, food, water and social security[illegible]); id. at [illegible] [illegible] ([illegible]Education[illegible]). The Constitution also limits the state's obligations. On housing, for example, the [illegible]state must take reasonable legislative and other measures, within its available resources, to achieve the progressive realisation of this right.[illegible] Id. at [illegible] illegible. See also Michelman at [illegible]–[illegible].

181 See generally Robin West, Progressive Constitutionalism: Reconstructing the Fourteenth Amendment (Durham, NC: Duke U. Press, [illegible]).

182 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible].

183 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible].

184 S. Afr. Const. [illegible], [illegible] [illegible].

185 See generally Kate O'Regan, [illegible] uman [illegible]ights and Democrac[illegible] [illegible] New [illegible] lo[illegible]al De[illegible]ate[illegible] e[illegible]ections on the [illegible]irst Ten [illegible]ears of South [illegible]frica[illegible] Constitutional Court, [illegible] International Journal of Legal Information [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] ([illegible]); see Stuart Woolman, Di[illegible]nit[illegible], ch. [illegible] in Constitutional Law of South Africa (Stuart Woolman, Theunis Roux, [illegible] Michael Bishop, eds., Cape Town, S.A.: Juta, [illegible]nd ed., [illegible]). The Constitutional Court [illegible]eview is a volume published annually on the Constitutional Court's jurisprudence. See Constitutional Court Review (Pretoria, S.A.: Pretoria U. Law Press), http://www.pulp.up.ac.za/cat[illegible].html.

186 Not all share this appraisal. See, for example, Jonathan Lewis, The Constitutional Court of South [illegible]frica, [illegible] Law Quarterly Review [illegible] ([illegible]); Stu Woolman, The [illegible]ma[illegible]in[illegible] [illegible]anishin[illegible] Bill of [illegible]ights, [illegible] South African Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

187 See Theunis Roux, Principle and Pra[illegible]matism on the Constitu[illegible]tional Court of South [illegible]frica, [illegible] International Journal of Constitutional Law [illegible] ([illegible]). Roux reported that some social science survey data indicated that the court did not [illegible]enjoy a great deal of public support[illegible] but was nonetheless [illegible]secure[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. See also James L. Gibson, The [illegible]volvin[illegible] Le[illegible]itimac[illegible] of the South [illegible]frican Constitutional Court, in Justice and Reconciliation in Post-Apartheid South Africa [illegible]–[illegible] (Fran[illegible]ois du Bois [illegible] Antje du Bois-Pedain, eds., Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, [illegible]). Gibson reported on three national surveys aiming to measure [illegible]egitimacy[illegible] He found that popular approval of the court was intertwined with that of the Parliament, that black South Africans seemed more willing than whites to be supportive and that, in general, among various racial groups, approval of the court was [illegible]more widespread in [illegible] than it had been in the past. Id. at [illegible]. Others have noted particular hostility to specific court rulings. See Lynn Berat, The Constitutional Court of South [illegible]frica and Jurisdictional [illegible] uestions[illegible]n the [illegible]nterest of Justice[illegible] International Journal of Constitutional Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

188 Albie Sachs, [illegible]rt and [illegible]reedom, in Art and Justice: the Art of the Constitutional Court of South Africa [illegible], [illegible] (New York, NY: David Krut Publishing, [illegible]). We refer to this essay hereinafter as Sachs, [illegible]rt and [illegible]reedom and to the book as Art and Justice: South Africa. Both this volume and the other book on the court are comprised of a series of commentaries by various authors.

189 Sachs, Art and Freedom at [illegible]. Other parts of the government did reappropriate extant buildings. See Federico Freschi, Post-apartheid Publics and the Politics of Ornament: Nationalism, Identity, and the Rhetoric of Community in the Decorative Program of the New Constitutional Court, Johannesburg, [illegible] Africa Today [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

190 Sachs, Art and Freedom at [illegible].

191 The photograph in figure [illegible], of the facade of the Constitutional Court of South Africa, Johannesburg, South Africa, is by Angela Buckland. This photograph is reproduced with the permission of the copyright holder, the Constitutional Court Trust ([illegible]), and courtesy of the Constitutional Court Trust and David Krut Publishing. We have learned a great deal about the court and its law, building, and art with the help of Justices Albie Sachs, Kate O'Regan, Sandile Ngcobo, and Richard Goldstone of the South African Constitutional Court; Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg and Linda Greenhouse from the United States; our colleague James Silk; colleagues and former or current students, including Elizabeth Brundige, Maria Burnett, Bonnie Meyersfeld, and Chesa Boudin; and from Leslie Rigby. Special thanks are due to Bronwyn Law-Viljoen for enabling us to obtain and use many of the photographs shown here.

192 The alphabet font was designed by Garth Walker who borrowed shapes and colors from neighborhood street signs (some hand-painted) and from local graffiti. He said that he was inspired when walking around the Old Fort Prison and finding words scratched into the walls . . . by someone who had been incarcerated there. Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible].

193 Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Foreword to Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible].

194 In [illegible], Andrew Makin and Janina Masojada headed the design workshop OMM in Durban, South Africa, that became formalised in [illegible] upon winning the competition to design the South African Constitutional Court. Paul Wygers was then a Johannesburg-based architect heading Urban Solutions Architecture and Urban Designers, which began in [illegible]. See Art and Justice: South Africa, back jacket cover.

195 Andrew Makin, Art and Architecture, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible] (hereinafter Makin, Art and Architecture).

196 Light on a Hill: Building the Constitutional Court of South Africa (Bronwyn Law-Viljoen, ed., Angela Buckland, photographer, Parkwood, S.A.: David Krut Publishing, [illegible]). This volume includes both general and signed commentary, and our citations thus vary to specify authors when appropriate.

197 See Art and Justice: South Africa.

198 Makin in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

199 Bronwyn Law-Viljoen & Karen Nel, Art and Justice, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible] (hereinafter Law-Viljoen & Nel, Art and Justice).

200 Law-Viljoen & Nel, Art and Justice at [illegible].

201 The photograph in figure [illegible] of the Foyer of the Constitutional Court of South Africa was taken by Angela Buckland and is reproduced with permission of the copyright holder, the Constitutional Court Trust ([illegible]), and courtesy of the Constitutional Court Trust and David Krut Publishing.

202 Janina Masojada and Andrew Makin, in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

203 Sachs in Light on a Hill at [illegible]

204 These chandeliers, designed by Walter Oltmann, were made from strips of aluminum and brass; the shape referenced the traditional craft of basketry used for containers and fish traps. Craft Transformed: Chandeliers, Lamps, Court Chamber Doors, Nosings, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible]–[illegible]. The brass stair nosings, installed to avoid slippage on steps, are shown at [illegible]–[illegible].

205 Sachs, Art and Freedom at [illegible], [illegible]. The logo was designed by Carolyn Parton. Id. at [illegible].

206 Sachs, Art and Freedom at [illegible].

207 Jeremy Bentham, Rationale of Judicial Evidence ([illegible]) (hereinafter Bentham, Rationale), in The Works of Jeremy Bentham, bk. II, ch. X at [illegible] (Of Publicity and Privacy, as Applied to Judicature In General, and to the Collection of the Evidence In Particular) (John Bowring, ed., Edinburgh, Scot.: William Tait, [illegible]).

208 Mandela was held in the Old Fort Prison; his long-term imprisonment was at Robben Island Prison off of Cape Town, where he was held for almost twenty years. In [illegible] that former prison was designated a World Heritage Site. See Myra Shackley, Potential Futures for Robben Island: Shrine, Museum or Theme Park?, International Journal of Heritage Studies [illegible] ([illegible]).

209 The photograph in figure [illegible], showing the barbed wire in the court complex, was taken in [illegible] and is reproduced with the permission of the photographer, Maria E. Burnett.

210 Paul Wygers, Storing Knowledge, in Light on a Hill at [illegible]. The library was designed as a "fourth component" to be independently coherent. Id. Within it is an exhibition gallery. Id. at [illegible]. The "Rex Welsh Collection" of books is housed in the Welsh Tower. Id. at [illegible].

211 The photograph in figure [illegible], of the cell block in the interior courtyard, was taken by Angela Buckland and is reproduced with permission of the copyright holder, the Constitutional Court Trust ([illegible]), and courtesy of the Constitutional Court Trust and David Krut Publishing.

212 The photograph in figure [illegible], providing an interior view from an Old Fort Prison cell, was taken in [illegible] by Maria E. Burnett and is reproduced with her permission.

213 Taryn Lamberti, Mandela Names Winning Architects, Business Day (South Africa), April [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible].

214 Palais Monclar, Cour d'Appel d'Aix-en-Provence [illegible] (Paris, Fran.: Ministère de la Justice, [illegible]). The brochure on the building spoke of the "reappropriation of the site" and mentioned that it had been "a space of exclusion" a free-standing prison chartered shortly before the French Revolution. Because of dislocation by the Revolution and an absence of financing, the prison building was not completed until the [illegible]s. The history of that prison included an escape in the [illegible]s by some members of the Resistance. The renovations permit one to see both foundation stones and the old prison wall. Id. at [illegible] and [illegible]. La Nouvelle architecture judiciaire: Des palais de justice modernes pour une nouvelle image de la Justice (New Judicial Architecture: Modern Courthouses and a New Image of Justice) [illegible]–[illegible] (Paris, Fran.: La documentation Française, [illegible]).

215 Sachs in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

216 Light on a Hill at [illegible]; Freschi at [illegible].

217 Freschi at [illegible].

218 Light on a Hill at [illegible].

219 Light on a Hill at [illegible].

220 Light on a Hill at [illegible].

221 Sachs in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

222 Sachs in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

223 Freschi at [illegible].

224 Light on a Hill at [illegible]. Included on the jury were its chair, Charles Correa, an architect from India; Geoffrey Bawa from Sri Lanka; and local architects as well as Peter Davey, the editor of the British Architectural Review; Justice Albie Sachs; Thenjiwe Mtintso; and the Mayor of Johannesburg. Id. Information about the competition and the finalists can be found in an August [illegible] edition of South African Architect dedicated especially to South Africa's Constitutional Court. See South African Architect [illegible]–[illegible] (Aug. [illegible]).

225 Thenjiwe Mtintso in Light on a Hill at [illegible]; see also Albie Sachs, Judge and Jury, South African Architect [illegible], [illegible] (Aug. [illegible]).

226 Justice Yvonne Mokgoro in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

227 Sachs in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

228 See Constitutional Court of South Africa: The Court, http://www.constitutionalcourt.org.za/site/thecourt/thebuilding.htm. That website gives the space as [illegible],[illegible] square meters and the cost as [illegible] million rand. Also noted is that, in addition to providing open access, the courts makes guided tours available (for small fees) for individuals and groups. See also Freschi at [illegible].

229 Masojada in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

230 Masojada in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

231 Masojada in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

232 Masojada in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

233 Masojada in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

234 Light on a Hill at [illegible]. The ribbon window is set in a wall with bricks taken from the old jail.

235 Light on a Hill at [illegible].

236 Sachs in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

237 Masojoda in Light on a Hill at [illegible].

238 Light on a Hill at [illegible].

239 Sachs, [illegible]rt and [illegible]reedom at [illegible]. Justice Sachs put that sum in dollars; the grant was [illegible],[illegible] South African rand. See The Constitutional Court of South Africa Art Collection, http://concourt.artvault.co.za/overview.php.

240 Sachs, [illegible]rt and [illegible]reedom at [illegible]. A detail of the tapestry is displayed on that page.

241 Sachs, [illegible]rt and [illegible]reedom at [illegible]. Unlike some other courts, the South African Constitutional Court had a policy of [illegible]not accepting any support from private firms or individuals[illegible] that could be involved in litigation before it. Id. at [illegible]. The contributions came from various sources, including the Netherlands, Flanders, Sweden, the Ford Foundation, Tides, the Flora Family Foundation, and the Donald Rubin Foundation. Id. at [illegible].

242 Sachs, [illegible]rt and [illegible]reedom at [illegible].

243 See Law-Viljeon [illegible] Nel, [illegible]rt and Justice at [illegible]. The stamp collection depicting the Constitutional Court's artwork was issued in June [illegible]. See South African Post Office, http://www.sapo.co.za/philately/Constitutional[illegible]Hill[illegible]Series[illegible]main.html.

244 Law-Viljeon [illegible] Nel, [illegible]rt and Justice at [illegible].

245 Sachs, [illegible]rt and [illegible]reedom at [illegible]–[illegible]; examples can be found at [illegible]–[illegible] (security gates) and [illegible]–[illegible] (carved wooden doors).

246 Makin, [illegible]rt and [illegible]rchitecture at [illegible] (emphasis in the original).

247 Janina Masojada, Callin[illegible]ll [illegible]rtists, Crafters and Des[illegible]ners, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible]. A meeting was held in [illegible] at the Old Fort Prison to which artists were invited for a briefing on the project. Id.

248 Ginsburg, [illegible]oreword to Art and Justice: South Africa, at [illegible].

249 Reproductions can be found in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible]–[illegible].

250 [illegible]ariet[illegible]and [illegible]ndividual [illegible]pression, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible].

251 The [illegible]blindfolded woman eternally holding the scales of justice seemed to be a tired, imported cliché, out of step with the intense longing for equal justice in our deeply divided society[illegible] See Sachs, [illegible]rt and [illegible]reedom at [illegible].

252 [illegible]ariet[illegible]and [illegible]ndividual [illegible]pression, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible].

253 Law-Viljeon and Nel, [illegible]rt and Justice at [illegible].

254 Collective Creativit[illegible]Court Cham[illegible]er Carpet, [illegible]la[illegible], [illegible]coustic Banners, Mosaics, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible], [illegible].

255 Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible]–[illegible]. A group of anti-Apartheid leaders were seized in Rivonia; eight were tried in [illegible] and [illegible] and given life sentences. Mandela was the last to be released after serving [illegible],[illegible] days incarcerated. On the sculpture, each prison sentence is represented by [illegible]six vertical lines crossed out by a diagonal . . . marching relentlessly across the surface of the black granite [illegible]to[illegible] convey the hopelessness of time marked and measured[illegible] Id. at [illegible].

256 Law-Viljeon and Nel, [illegible]rt and Justice at [illegible]. See also id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. This work has come to be referred to as the [illegible]blue dress[illegible] and it also adorns the cover of the memoirs of Justice Sachs. See Sachs, The Strange Alchemy of Life and Law.

257 Judith Mason, The Man Who San[illegible] and the Woman Who [illegible]ept Silent, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible].

258 Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible]. Other art in the court commemorates the efforts of many others. For example, Sue Williamson's [illegible] [illegible]ew South [illegible]fricans is a series of sceenprint collages honoring those who fought for equality. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. David Goldblatt provides a photograph, Twent[illegible]Si[illegible] Punishment Cells, showing cells and lavatories. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

259 Sachs recounted that the artist stated: [illegible]This is not the armour of God, it is all I can give to my deceased sister.'[illegible] See Alan Lipman, Constitutional Spendour, Architecture: Journal of the South African Institute of Architects [illegible] (July–Aug. [illegible]).

260 Law-Viljeon and Nel, [illegible]rt and Justice at [illegible].

261 Judith Mason, The Man Who San[illegible] and the Woman Who [illegible]ept Silent, in Art and Justice: South Africa at [illegible].

262 See, for example, Lipman at [illegible]–[illegible]. [illegible]This is no Kafkaesque castle, no bureaucratic citadel[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. See also Schalk Le Roux and Devilliers Du Toit, Centre Court[illegible]South [illegible]frica[illegible] Constitutional Court, [illegible] Architectural Review [illegible] ([illegible]). On the other hand, Freschi called it [illegible]a middle-of-the-road postmodern structure, which could be located anywhere in the industrialized world[illegible] Freschi at [illegible].

263 Freschi at [illegible]. A [illegible] national survey by the South African Institute of Architects voted the court the [illegible]best building.'[illegible] Id.

264 Karina Landman, [illegible]plorin[illegible] the [illegible]mpact of [illegible] ated Communities on Social and Spatial Justice and [illegible]s [illegible]elation to [illegible]estorative Justice and Peace[illegible]Buildin[illegible] in South [illegible]frica, in Restorative Justice: Politics, Policies and Prospects [illegible], [illegible] (Elrena van der Spuy, Stephan Parmentier, [illegible] Amanda Dissel, eds., Capetown, S.A.: Juta, [illegible]). The murder rate had decreased since the [illegible]s (down from [illegible] murders per [illegible],[illegible] people in [illegible]–[illegible] to under [illegible] per [illegible],[illegible] in [illegible]–[illegible]) but was still [illegible]more than seven times the world average[illegible] Id. at [illegible]. See also Antony Altbeker, A Country at War with Itself: South Africa's Crisis of Crime (Johannesburg, S.A.: Jonathan Ball, [illegible]). Altbeker argued that the South African crime problem was acute because of both its frequency and the level of violence.

265 Diana R. Gordon, Transformation and Trouble: Crime, Justice, and Participation in Democratic South Africa [illegible] (Ann Arbor, MI: U. of Michigan Press, [illegible]).

266 Gordon at [illegible].

267 Constitutional Court of South Africa, Annual Strategic/Business Plan [illegible]/[illegible], http://www.info.gov.za/view/DownloadFileAction[illegible]id[illegible].

268 International Bar Association, Beyond Polokwane: Safeguarding South Africa's Judicial Independence [illegible], [illegible] (London, Eng.: International Bar Association, Human Rights Institute Report, July [illegible]). Our thanks to Harvey Dale for bringing these materials to our attention. The report concluded that the overall [illegible]tenor[illegible] of legislation made it all the more important for the judiciary to have control over its internal operations and rulemaking, and suggested that formal mechanisms for complaints and codes of conduct for judges needed to be developed. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

269 Concerns about the country and its courts' future come from admirers, one of whom reported in [illegible] that it was [illegible]impossible to visit the court . . . without wondering what happened to all the hope of those days[illegible] Daniel Browde, The [illegible]ine [illegible]rt of South [illegible]frican Justice, Business Day (South Africa), Sept. [illegible], [illegible].

270 Cited throughout this section are several booklets published by the Supreme Court of Mexico about the artwork of the [illegible]s. Two color brochures are in English, one titled Mexico's Supreme Court of Justice ([illegible]) and another called Nation's Supreme Court of Justice: Integration and Operation of the Federal Judiciary ([illegible]). Two other brochures are in Spanish, one a glossy fold-out brochure, Suprema Corte de Justicia de la Naci[illegible]n (Nation's Supreme Court of Justice) (undated), and the other a monograph titled Los Murales de Jos[illegible] Clemente [illegible]ro[illegible]co en el [illegible]dificio Sede de la Suprema Corte de Justicia de la Naci□n (The Murals of Jose Clemente □ ro□co in the Main Buildin□ of the Supreme Court of Justice of the Nation) (□□□□). The glossy color brochures offer descriptions that celebrate the murals while noting some of their critical content, while the monograph explores more of the negative commentary on Mexico.

271 The photographs in figures □□□–□□□ were provided by and are reproduced with the permission of the Committee of Government and Administration of the Supreme Court of Justice through the Sept. □□, □□□□, Order □□□□/□□□□. Our thanks to Justices Jos□ Ram□n Coss□o Diaz and Olga Mar□a S□nchez Cordero de Garc□a Villegas; to M□nica Castillejos, legal research assistant for Justice Jos□ Ram□n Coss□o Diaz; and to Paola Pineda Cordova, the court's Directora de Proyectos Artisticos de la Secretaria General de la Presidencia (Director of Artistic Projects of the Secretary General of the Presidency), for their assistance in helping us to learn about and use these images, as well as those of Raul Cauduro, discussed later. This section of the book could not have been written without the advice of Mary Miller, who focused our attention on the role played by George Biddle, and of several talented students fluent in Spanish. Our thanks to Laurie Ball for providing an initial survey, to Allison Tait and Sophie Hood for additional research, to Alana Tucker for background materials, to Tina Esteves-Wolff and Neley Lope Cuellar for additional translations, and to Laurie Ball and Sophie Hood for extensive Spanish-to-English translations.

272 Jos□ Clemente □ ro□co□ Justice □rescoes in Me□ico Cit□, □□ Magazine of Art □□□ (Oct. □□□□) (hereinafter □ ro□co□ Justice □rescoes).

273 As we discussed in Chapter □□, the term in French is salle des pas perdus. In Italian, such rooms are called sala dei passi persi.

274 Mexico's Supreme Court of Justice □ (Mexico D.F., Mex.: Supreme Court of Mexico, □□□□).

275 Los Murales de Jos□ Clemente □ ro□co en el □dificio Sede de la Suprema Corte de Justicia de la Naci□n (The Murals of Jose Clemente □ ro□co in the Main Buildin□ of the Supreme Court of Justice of the Nation) □ (Mexico D.F., Mex.: Poder Judicial de la □ederaci□n Suprema Corte de Justicia de la Naci□n □The Judicial Power of the Federation, Supreme Court of Justice of the Nation□Secretar□a Ejecutiva Jur□dico Administrativa, Direcci□n General de Difusi□n, □□□□) (hereinafter Supreme Court, □ ro□co Murals in the Main Buildin□) (translated by Sophie Hood and Laurie Ball).

276 Damon Joseph Mycock, The Element of Caricature in the Painting of Jos□ Clemente Orozco □□ (M.A. thesis, Duke U. Department of Art, Durham, NC, May □□□□). That impression is bolstered by a □lizard nestling in the rib-cage of some extinct animal□ (perhaps linked to gold) shown near renditions of steel and metal forms. Id. Further, layered above is an □abstracted mask of Huitzilipochtli, serpents issuing from his mouth, enveloped in a Mexican flag□ Id. at □□. The mask image is also said to represent petroleum. See Supreme Court, □ ro□co Murals in the Main Buildin□ at □. To the right of this mask is a □mummified figure in grey, white and black□ Mycock at □□; Supreme Court, □ ro□co Murals in the Main Buildin□ at □. To the left is an □Aztec idol face down□ (Mycock at □□), said to denote copper. Supreme Court, □ ro□co Murals in the Main Buildin□ at □. The top layer includes a □jaguar like that of Jiquilpan□ (Mycock at □□) or, alternatively, a □fierce tiger defending such national wealth with its terrifying paws and eyeteeth.□ Mexico's Supreme Court of Justice at □. According to one of the Supreme Court's brochures, the talons of the jaguar □are not precisely those of a cat, but instead those of an eagle . . . the jaguar and the eagle were symbols of adoration of the pre-Hispanic epoch.□ Supreme Court, □ ro□co Murals in the Main Buildin□ at □.

Opposite Las □i□ue□as Nacionales is □l Movimiento Social del Tra□ □a□o (The La□or Movement), above the entrance to the main courtrooms and judges' chambers. In what Alma Reed, an American journalist and Orozco supporter, called □the best available space□ Orozco painted a composition □dominated by red iron girders of unfinished construction joined at right angles to form a framed entrance to the future through which the spectator perceives the violent destruction of the old order and the chaos attendant upon new building.□ Alma Reed, Orozco □□□ (Oxford, Eng.: Oxford U. Press, □□□□). The center of the mural is filled with an unfurling red flag that is □a symbol of workers' struggles.□ Mexico's Supreme Court of Justice at □□. A figure raising a pickaxe dominates the left half of the mural and is one among a number of □exaggerated forms □that□struggle through a narrow doorway□ as they fight □against the established corrupt institutions□ (Mycock at □□) and try to □effect the liberty of the oppressed□ See Desmond Rochfort, Mexican Muralists: Orozco, Rivera, Siqueiros □□□ (San Francisco, CA: Chronicle Books, □□□□). This mural's relationship to labor rights, specifically Article □□□ of the Mexican Constitution that guaranteed basic provisions for labor, is detailed in Justino Fern□ndez, Orozco: Forma e Idea at □□□–□□□ (Mexico City, Mex.: Editorial Porr□a, SA, □□□□).

277 Mexico's Supreme Court of Justice; cover detail from the □□□□ mural La Justicia (Justice) by Jos□ Clemente Orozco. The brochure in figure □□□ was designed by Teresa Lim□n Garcia.

278 Orozco inspired both an American journalist (Reed, cited earlier) and an American writer expert in Latin American art to record their personal recollections of him. See MacKinley Helm, Man of fire: J. C. Orozco; An Interpretative Memoir (New York, NY: Harcourt, Brace, □□□□).

279 See Rochfort at □□–□□, □□□–□□□; Mexico and Modern Printmaking: A Revolution in the Graphic Arts, □□□□–□□□□ (John Ittmann, ed., Philadephia, PA: Museum of Art and McNay Art Museum, San Antonio, in association with Yale U. Press, □□□□); Antonio Rodr□guez, A History of Mexican Mural Painting □□□–□□□ (Marina Corby, trans., London, Eng.: Thames and Hudson, □□□□); Orozco□ An Exhibition Organized by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Institute of Fine Arts, Mexico (Oxford, Eng.: Museum of Modern Art Oxford, □□□□); Jeremy Hockett, The Murals of Jos□ Clemente Orozco at the Hospicio Caba□as Institute: A Philosophy of Change and the Historical Dialectic □□ (Submitted for M.A. thesis, Department of Art, Michigan State U., East Lansing, MI, □□□□; UMI Publication No.: AAT □□□□□□□).

280 See Joyce Waddell Bailey, Jos□ Clemente □ ro□co □□□□□□□□□□□□ □ormative □ears in the Narrative □ raphic Tradition, □□ Latin American Research Review □□, □□–□□ (□□□□); Robert H. Patterson, □ n □ rt in □evolution□□ ntecedents of Me□ican Mural Paintin□, □□□□□□□□□, □ Journal of Inter-American Studies □□□, □□□ (□□□□); Orozco□ at □□; Jos□ Clemente Orozco, □ra□ments of an □ uto□io□raph□, □□ Magazine of Art □□□, □□□ (□□□□).

281 Patterson at □□□. See also Orozco□ at □□–□□.

282 Orozco□ at □□–□□; Rodr□guez at □□□–□□□.

283 Rodr□guez at □□□.

284 Orozco□ at □□.

285 There Orozco gained the attention of leading art critics and dealers. See Alejandro Anreus, Orozco in Gringoland: The Years in New York (Albuquerque, NM: U. of New Mexico Press, □□□□); Hockett at □□–□□. Orozco's commissions included murals at Pomona College in Southern California (□□□□), the New York School of Social Research (□□□□–□□□□), and Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire (□□□□). See, for example, José Clemente Orozco, Prometheus (Marjorie L. Harth, ed., Claremont, CA: Pomona College Museum of Art, □□□□); Orozco at Dartmouth: The Epic of American Civilization (Concord, NH: Hood Museum of Art, Dartmouth College, Dartmouth College Library, □□□□) (hereinafter Orozco at Dartmouth); E. M. Benson, □ ro□co in New □n□land, □□ American Magazine of Art □□□ (□□□□).

286 Orozco at Dartmouth at □□. The murals were □□□ feet long and encompassed some □,□□□ square feet of wall space.

287 Orozco□ at □□–□□.

288 Sara Schatz, Hugo Concha, □ Ana Laura Magaloni Kerpel, The Me□ican Judicial S□stem□Continuit□ and Chan□e in a Period of Democratic Consolidation, in Reforming the Administration of Justice in Mexico ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (Wayne A. Cornelius ⍰ David A. Shirk, eds., Notre Dame, IN: U. of Notre Dame Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). The ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Constitution created three separate branches of government, with Title V addressed to ⍰the Judicial Power of the Federation⍰ It specified that the ⍰judicial power of the Federation shall reside in a supreme court of justice, and in circuit and district courts⍰ See Mex. Const. of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Art. ⍰⍰⍰. Supreme Court Justices were to be elected ⍰by an absolute majority⍰ of the states' legislatures (id., Art. ⍰⍰⍰) and were to ⍰hold the office for life, unless removed according to law⍰ (id., Art. ⍰⍰⍰). The Tarlton Library of the University of Texas School of Law has an English version of this constitution online, http://tarlton.law.utexas.edu/constitutions/text/⍰⍰⍰⍰index.html.

289 Schatz, Concha, ⍰ Magaloni Kerpel at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. The title of Title II, Section III of the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Constitution is ⍰Of the Judicial Power⍰ Article ⍰⍰ specified that ⍰the judicial power of the Federation is vested in a supreme court and in the district and circuit courts.⍰ Mex. Const. of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Art. ⍰⍰. The supreme court consisted of fifteen justices. Id., Art. ⍰⍰. Justices were to serve six-year terms. Id., Art. ⍰⍰. A justice's resignation would ⍰only be accepted for grave cause, approved by the Congress, to whom the resignation shall be tendered⍰ Id., Art. ⍰⍰.

290 Linda Arnold, ⍰ul⍰ar and ⍰le⍰ant⍰ Politics and Procedure in ⍰arl⍰ National Me⍰ico, ⍰⍰ The Americas ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

291 Arnold at ⍰⍰⍰.

292 Arnold at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

293 Pilar Domingo, Judicial ⍰ndependence⍰ The Politics of the Supreme Court in Me⍰ico, ⍰⍰ Journal of Latin American Studies ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

294 Héctor Aguilar Cam⍰n ⍰ Lorenzo Meyer, In the Shadow of the Mexican Revolution ⍰–⍰⍰ (Luis Alberto Fierro, trans., Austin, TX: U. of Texas Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

295 Schatz, Concha, ⍰ Magaloni Kerpel at ⍰⍰⍰. The Constitutions of ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰ are similar in structure, but the sections devoted to judicial power (Articles ⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ of the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Constitution and Articles ⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Constitution) are more detailed in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ version, which also provided for the amparo procedure permitting an individual to claim that the government had acted illegally. Redress, however, was limited to that individual. See Mex. Const. of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Art. ⍰⍰⍰.

296 Schatz, Concha, ⍰ Magaloni Kerpel at ⍰⍰⍰.

297 Patrice Elizabeth Olsen, Artifacts of Revolution: Architecture, Society, and Politics in Mexico City, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰–⍰ (Lanham, MD: Rowman ⍰ Littlefield, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Olsen, Artifacts) quoting Linda B. Hall, Alvaro Obreg⍰⍰n: Power and Revolution in Mexico, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰⍰ (College Station, TX: Texas A⍰ M U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

298 Hockett at ⍰⍰.

299 James Oles, South of the Border: Mexico in the American Imagination, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at ⍰⍰ (Washington, DC: Smithsonian Institution Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

300 Rodr⍰⍰guez at ⍰⍰⍰. See also Leonard Folgarait, Mural Painting and Social Revolution in Mexico, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰: Art of the New Order ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (New York, NY: Cambridge U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

301 During the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s and ⍰⍰⍰⍰s, a great deal of construction took place. As the diversity of projects grew, the ⍰C⍰rdenas administration's solution was the promulgation of planning and zoning legislation in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰ Patrice Elizabeth Olsen, Revolution in the Streets: Changing Nomenclature, Changing Form in Mexico City's Centro Hist⍰⍰rico and the Revision of Public Memory, prepared for delivery at the ⍰⍰⍰⍰ meeting of the Latin American Studies Association at ⍰⍰ (hereinafter Olsen, ⍰Revolution in the Streets⍰). Olsen noted that the law's framers ⍰were careful so as not to confer official status to a particular architectural style⍰ but did prohibit ⍰the use of the Mansard roof, a symbol to many of pre-revolutionary culture and Porfirian dictatorship⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰. Commissions of administrators, architects, and community leaders assessed proposals according to ⍰fitness,⍰ ⍰harmony⍰ and other ill-defined criteria. Olsen described the result as a range of buildings, ⍰neo-colonial, art deco, California-colonial, and functionalist⍰ in style. Olsen, ⍰Revolution in the Streets⍰ at ⍰⍰.

302 Olsen, Artifacts, at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

303 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰.

304 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰. The design competition results are detailed in Pro⍰⍰ectos para la Suprema Corte de Justicia (Pro⍰⍰cts for the Supreme Court of Justice), Obras P⍰⍰blicas ⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (May ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

305 The groundbreaking ceremonies are described in Primer Piedra de un ⍰dificio (The ⍰irst Stone of a Buildin⍰), Exc⍰lsior, Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰.

306 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰.

307 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰. Olsen added that the term was more ⍰suitable for a viceroy's court⍰ Id.

308 Kathryn E. O'Rourke, The Hour of Mexico: State-Sponsored Modern Architecture in Mexico City, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ at vii (Ph.D. dissertation, U. of Pennsylvania, History of Art, Philadelphia, PA, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; UMI Publication No.: AAT I⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰). One narrative described a ⍰symphony of construction . . . heard in ⍰⍰⍰⍰: steam shovels, pavement-breakers, riveting hammers, welders . . . Mexico's song of tomorrow.⍰ J. H. Plenn, Mexico Marches ⍰⍰⍰ (Indianapolis, IN: Bobbs-Merrill, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

309 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰.

310 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰.

311 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰. The court's materials describe the construction as ⍰steel and reinforced concrete, and the external and internal coverings are made of box and quarry.⍰ Mexico's Supreme Court of Justice at ⍰.

312 Nation's Supreme Court of Justice: Integration and Operation of the Federal Judiciary ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Supreme Court of Mexico, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Supreme Court Integration and Operation of Judiciary). In ⍰⍰⍰⍰, Tamariz also sculpted statues of two ⍰famous jurists⍰ Ignacio L. Vallarta and Mariano Otero. A third statue, of Manuel Crescencio Rej⍰n, was made in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ by Carlos Bracho. Id. at ⍰⍰.

313 See Silvia Incl⍰n Oseguera, Judicial Reform and Democratization: Mexico in the ⍰⍰⍰⍰s at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (Ph.D. dissertation, Boston U. Department of Political Science, Boston, MA, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). For C⍰rdenas to put his justices in place required the ⍰dismissal in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ of the entire court. Id. at ⍰⍰.

314 Domingo at ⍰⍰⍰. Domingo also described the ⍰reforms⍰ of C⍰rdenas as a ⍰major assault on the autonomy of the Court⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

315 Domingo at ⍰⍰⍰.

316 See generally Bruce Ackerman, We the People, vol. ⍰: Transformations (Cambridge, MA: Harvard U. Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

317 Supreme Court, ⍰ ro⍰⍰co Murals in the Main Buildin⍰ at ⍰.

318 Supreme Court, ⍰ ro⍰⍰co Murals in the Main Buildin⍰ at ⍰, n. ⍰ (citing a letter from Orozco to C⍰rdenas dated Nov. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). That monograph also described the contract for a payment of ⍰⍰⍰ pesos (or ⍰⍰⍰.⍰⍰ in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ dollars) per square meter, to be paid on a weekly basis. In total, Orozco received ⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰ pesos (or ⍰⍰⍰,⍰⍰⍰.⍰⍰ in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ dollars). Id. at ⍰.

319 Alfred Neumeyer, ⍰ ro⍰⍰co⍰ Mission, ⍰⍰ College Art Journal ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

320 Mycock at ⍰⍰.

321 Rodr⍰⍰guez interpreted the figures to be ⍰stealing documents in order to interfere with the process of justice.⍰ Rodr⍰⍰guez at ⍰⍰⍰.

322 Supreme Court, ⍰ ro⍰⍰co Murals in the Main Buildin⍰ at ⍰.

323 Rodr⍰⍰guez at ⍰⍰⍰.

324 According to court materials, the murals depict ⍰metaphysical justice which punishes evildoers and human justice by striking them.⍰ Mexico's Supreme Court of Justice at ⍰⍰.

325 Fern⍰⍰ndez at ⍰⍰⍰.

326 Mycock at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

327 One commentator described the detail as showing Justice ⍰sleeping sweetly, reposed backwards, with flaccid arms; in one hand she holds the law and in the other a sword, without any dignity.⍰ Fernández at ⍰⍰⍰ (translated by Sophie Hood).

328 These images reflect the influence of Orozco's earlier work as an illustrator, when he relied on caricatures for political satire. See Bailey at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰; Neumeyer at ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

329 Fernández at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

330 Neumeyer at ⍰⍰⍰.

331 Rodríguez at ⍰⍰⍰.

332 Helm at ⍰⍰.

333 Supreme Court, ⍰ ro⍰co Murals in the Main Buildin⍰ at ⍰.

334 Reed at ⍰⍰⍰. She also noted the ⍰handicaps of inadequate and broken wall space⍰ Id.

335 Oles at ⍰⍰⍰.

336 Helm at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

337 Helm at ⍰⍰.

338 Mycock at ⍰⍰.

339 Helm at ⍰⍰.

340 Masked Justice, ⍰⍰ Art Digest ⍰ (Sept. ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

341 ⍰ ro⍰co⍰ Justice ⍰rescoes at ⍰⍰⍰.

342 Neumeyer at ⍰⍰⍰.

343 Jose G. Zuno, José Clemente Orozco: El Pintor Ironista ⍰⍰ (Guadalajara, Mex.: U. De Guadalajara, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (translated by Laurie Ball).

344 ⍰ rt⍰⍰ ro⍰co v⍰Biddle, Time, Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, at ⍰⍰ (hereinafter ⍰ ro⍰co v⍰Biddle).

345 Supreme Court, ⍰ ro⍰co Murals in the Main Buildin⍰ at ⍰.

346 ⍰ ro⍰co⍰ Justice ⍰rescoes at ⍰⍰⍰.

347 ⍰ ro⍰co v⍰Biddle.

348 ⍰ ro⍰co v⍰Biddle.

349 ⍰ ro⍰co v⍰Biddle.

350 George Biddle, who lived from ⍰⍰⍰⍰ to ⍰⍰⍰⍰ and was both a lawyer and a trained artist, was one of the founders of the WPA, detailed in Chapter ⍰, that resulted in support for public art by the Treasury Department of the United States. As we noted there, in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Biddle wrote to President Franklin D. Roosevelt praising the Mexican muralists and calling for an emulation of their project in the United States. See George Biddle, An American Artist's Story ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (Boston, MA: Little, Brown, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). Details about Biddle's role and the influence of Mexican muralists can be found in an admiring dissertation written in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. See Erica Beckh Rubenstein, Tax Payers' Murals (Ph.D. dissertation, Radcliffe College of Harvard U., Fine Arts, Cambridge, MA, ⍰⍰⍰⍰; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰).

351 ⍰ ro⍰co v⍰Biddle. Apparently Orozco was displeased and never went to see Biddle's murals. Biddle, in turn, was distressed, reportedly describing Orozco as ⍰⍰mbittered and jealous.'⍰ Reed at ⍰⍰⍰.

352 ⍰ ro⍰co v⍰Biddle.

353 Oles at ⍰⍰⍰.

354 See generally Friedrich E. Schuler, Mexico between Hitler and Roosevelt: Mexican Foreign Relations in the Age of Lázaro Cárdenas, ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ (Albuquerque, NM: U. of New Mexico Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

355 Supreme Court Integration and Operation of Judiciary at ⍰⍰.

356 Oles at ⍰⍰⍰.

357 Murales de ⍰eor⍰e Biddle (The Murals of ⍰eor⍰e Biddle), Suprema Corte de Justicia de la Naci⍰n (unpaginated Spanish brochure from the court, Poder Judicial de la Federaci⍰n) (hereinafter The Murals of ⍰eor⍰e Biddle) (translated by Sophie Hood).

358 Oles at ⍰⍰⍰.

359 Oles at ⍰⍰⍰.

360 ⍰ ro⍰co v⍰Biddle.

361 Oles at ⍰⍰⍰.

362 The Murals of ⍰eor⍰e Biddle.

363 The Murals of ⍰eor⍰e Biddle.

364 The Murals of ⍰eor⍰e Biddle. Biddle's wife, Helena Sardeau, sculpted statues that were displayed below. Id.

365 Manuel ⍰vila Camacho, Salvador Urbina, The Purposes of Justice in Mexico, speeches made at the Department of State for Foreign Affairs, International Press Service Bureau, ⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter ⍰vila Camacho or Urbina).

366 ⍰vila Camacho at ⍰⍰.

367 ⍰vila Camacho at ⍰⍰.

368 Urbina at ⍰⍰.

369 Urbina at ⍰⍰.

370 Urbina at ⍰⍰.

371 Urbina at ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰.

372 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰.

373 In the Mexican Supreme Court's ⍰⍰⍰⍰ discussion, it cited ⍰Daniel V. Valencia⍰ as the Chief Justice who did ⍰a great job getting funds.⍰ Supreme Court Integration and Operation of Judiciary at ⍰⍰.

374 See Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰. One of the court's brochures incorporates this description: ⍰Without any doubt, the author of this severe architectural composition tried to identify it with the character of the High Tribunal, highest interpreter of our Constitution.⍰ Supreme Court Integration and Operation of Judiciary at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

375 Olsen, Artifacts at ⍰⍰⍰.

376 Schatz, Concha, ⍰ Magaloni Kerpel at ⍰⍰⍰. See also Domingo.

377 Supreme Court, ⍰ ro⍰co Murals in the Main Buildin⍰ at ⍰. The court's monograph further explained the utility of making such great art accessible to all sectors of the social order. Id.

378 Supreme Court, ⍰ ro⍰co Murals in the Main Buildin⍰ at ⍰.

379 Guided tours were available regularly, and sometimes evening concerts were held. Letter from Justice Olga Marí⍰a Sánchez Cordero de García Villegas to the authors (Aug. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

380 Leopoldo Flores titled his work La Justicia Supremo Poder (Justice, Supreme Power); it aims to depict ⍰from the perspective of justice, the birth of the Nation, Independence, the Mexican Revolution, and the modern era⍰ Arturo Espinosa, ⍰u⍰rica o⍰ra para la Corte (⍰inal Work for the Court), Reforma, Aug. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Flores's work is more in keeping with what one has come to expect on the walls of a supreme court building. His treatment of the theme begins with ⍰men emerging from darkness, freed from the ties that were binding them.⍰ ⍰nau⍰uran mural de Leopoldo ⍰lores en SCJN (⍰nau⍰uration of the mural of Leopoldo ⍰lores at the Supreme Court of Justice of the Nation), El Universal, July ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. The work includes references to the Mexican Revolution (complete with famous revolutionary icons on horseback) and concludes with a large nude justice figure, her face covered in white, holding scales in her hand. Id.

Luis Nishizawa called his project La Justicia (Justice), and it spanned the period from pre-Hispanic Mexico through an era of mass communication, with symbolism ranging from horses to radio antennae. Leopoldo ⍰valos, ⍰nclu⍰en a ⍰ueces en mural (⍰ncludin⍰ Jud⍰es in ⍰a⍰ Mural), Reforma, June ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. Ismael Ramos's La B⍰s⍰ueda de la Justicia (The Search for Justice) deployed images of a temple-like structure, cars and flags for independence, and representations of sacrifice for the country. The artist included ⍰many emblematic characters⍰ of the society and commented that the mix (from an ⍰an office worker of today⍰ to a ⍰colonial ⍰indigeneous⍰ nahuatlaco⍰) showed that ⍰we are all a part of the same genetic code, as we were all born in Mexico⍰ Leopoldo ⍰valos, ⍰rticulan tradicion e historia (⍰rticulatin⍰ Tradition and ⍰istor⍰), Reforma, Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰. In the summer of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, the Mexican Supreme Court announced that it would add a fifth work by a Spanish artist, Santiago Carbonell, living in Mexico. See ⍰ngel Vargas, ⍰nau⍰uraron el mural ⍰ue ⍰afael Cauduro pint⍰ en el recinto de la Suprema Corte (⍰nau⍰uration of ⍰afael Caudurо⍰ Mural in the Supreme Court Building), La Jornada, July [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible] (translated by Sophie Hood).

381 Rodríguez at [illegible]. See also Folgarait at [illegible]–[illegible].

382 See Se[illegible]nauguración en la SCJN mural del Maestro [illegible]afael Cauduro (Supreme Court [illegible]naugurates Painter [illegible]afael Cauduro[illegible] Mural), Press Release by the Supreme Court of Justice of the Nation, Mexico City, Mex.: July [illegible], [illegible] (hereinafter Supreme Court Press Release, Inauguration of the Cauduro Paintings). See also Patricia Cordero, Pintan sin pre[illegible]icios (Paintin[illegible] without Pre[illegible]udice), Reforma, Dec. [illegible], [illegible] (translations by Sophie Hood).

383 Cauduro studied architecture and industrial design at the Iberoamerican University. See [illegible]ida en el campus [illegible]afael Cauduro (Campus Life[illegible]afael Cauduro), [illegible] San Rafael: Reporte académico [illegible] (Winter [illegible]). His work has been described as transforming objects and places into [illegible]a neofigurative expression lying between reality and fantasy[illegible] Id.

384 For a Spanish description and images of the two underground murals, titled [illegible]l metro de Londres [illegible] el metro de Paris (London Metro and Paris Metro), see Mexico City's [illegible]Culture[illegible] website, http://www.metro.df.gob.mx/cultura/murelmetlondres.html. See also Proyecto de Murales de la Suprema Corte Justicia de la Naci[illegible]n [illegible]–[illegible] (Supreme Court of Justice of the Nation Murals Project), project description provided by the court to the authors, at [illegible]–[illegible] (translated by Sophie Hood) (hereinafter [illegible]–[illegible] Murals Project).

385 The work, begun in [illegible], had been done at La Tallera, a studio used by David Alfaro Siquieros in the last years of his life and run by the Instituto Nacional de Bellas Artes (National Institute of Fine Arts). Conclu[illegible]e [illegible]afael Cauduro murales para Suprema Corte ([illegible]afael Cauduro [illegible]inishes Murals for the Supreme Court), El Universal, Feb. [illegible], [illegible] (translated by Sophie Hood) (hereinafter [illegible]afael Cauduro [illegible]inishes Murals).

386 Miguel Angel Ceballos, Pinta Cauduro [illegible]siete cr[illegible]menes[illegible] (Cau[illegible]duro Paints [illegible]Seven Crimes[illegible]), El Universal, Nov. [illegible], [illegible] (translated by Sophie Hood).

387 [illegible]–[illegible] Murals Project at [illegible].

388 [illegible]–[illegible] Murals Project at [illegible]. Cauduro is also quoted as having explained: [illegible]I have trouble understanding Justice in this painful moment in Mexico's history. This country has always been violent, untamed; there is a nihilistic character. We have just finished a dictatorial process that lasted seventy odd years and we are in the moment of laying new foundations, a painful birthing. As an artist I am interested in using this forum. My job is to give strength to my images, to make them powerful. It is again the search for sign and symbol; the building itself is a symbol[illegible] Carmen Gonz[illegible]lez, [illegible]ist[illegible]rico fin de semana ([illegible]istoric Weekend), Reforma, Dec. [illegible], [illegible] at [illegible] (translated by Sophie Hood and Tina Esteves-Wolff) (hereinafter Gonz[illegible]lez, Historic Weekend).

389 The scenes in figures [illegible]–[illegible], all from Cauduro's The [illegible]is[illegible]tor[illegible] of Justice in Me[illegible]ico, were provided and are reproduced with the permission of Minister Guillermo I. Ortiz Mayagoitia, President of the Supreme Court of Mexico, and with the assistance of Justice Jos[illegible] Ram[illegible]n Coss[illegible]o Diaz and Paola Pineda Cordova of the court. President Ortiz Mayagoitia acted in conformity with Article [illegible] of the Federal Law of Author Rights and in virtue of the patrimonial rights of the court. Our thanks also to the artist, Rafael Cauduro, for his help.

390 Jos[illegible] Ram[illegible]n Coss[illegible]o Diaz, Las condiciones de [illegible]u[illegible]ar (The Con[illegible]dition of Jud[illegible]in[illegible]), Letras Libres [illegible] (Oct. [illegible]) (translated by Sophie Hood).

391 Ceballos.

392 Érika P. Bucio, Lleva Cauduro mural a SCJN [illegible]Cauduro Takes Murals to the SCJN[illegible] Reforma, Aug. [illegible], [illegible] at [illegible]-C (translated by Sophie Hood).

393 [illegible]–[illegible] Murals Project at [illegible].

394 Bucio, Cauduro Takes Murals to the SCJN at [illegible]-C.

395 [illegible]afael Cauduro [illegible]inishes Murals.

396 [illegible]–[illegible] Murals Project at [illegible]. Cauduro mentioned China as another example.

397 Vargas at [illegible].

398 Érika P. Bucio, [illegible]ace critica con mural en la Suprema Corte (Critici[illegible]in[illegible] with a Mural in the Supreme Court), El Norte, Aug. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible] (translated by Sophie Hood).

399 Bucio, Critici[illegible]in[illegible] with a Mural at [illegible].

400 G[illegible]nzalez.

401 Jaime Moreno Valenzuela, Primera entre[illegible]a del mural de Cauduro en la SCJN ([illegible]irst [illegible]nstallment of the Cauduro Mural in the Supreme Court of Justice), Revista Rancho Las Voces (Ciudad Juarez, Mexico), August [illegible], http://rancholasvoces.blogspot.com/[illegible]/artes-plsticas-mxicollega-la-scj-la.html (translated by Sophie Hood).

402 [illegible]afael Cauduro [illegible]inishes Murals.

403 See Supreme Court Press Release, Inauguration of the Cauduro Paintings.

404 Supreme Court Press Release, Inauguration of the Cauduro Paintings, quoting Minister Ortiz Mayagoitia.

405 Supreme Court Press Release, Inauguration of the Cauduro Paintings, citing Minister Jos[illegible] Ram[illegible]n Coss[illegible]o Diaz.

406 Vargas at [illegible].

407 Bucio, Cauduro Takes Murals to the SCJN at [illegible]-C.

408 Sergio Sarmiento, Sue[illegible]os de Cauduro (Dreams of Cauduro), Frontera, July [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]-A (translated by Sophie Hood).

409 One detailed analysis comes from Oseguera. See also Juan Carlos Calleros, The Unfinished Transition to Democracy in Latin America [illegible]–[illegible] (New York, NY: Routledge, [illegible]).

410 Domingo at [illegible]–[illegible]. An effort to understand the political configuration that produced the reforms is provided by Oseguera at [illegible]–[illegible].

411 Domingo at [illegible].

412 Jeffrey K. Staton, Lo[illegible]in[illegible] for Judicial [illegible]eform[illegible] The [illegible]ole of the Me[illegible]ican Supreme Court in [illegible]nstitutional Selection, in Reforming the Administration of Justice in Mexico at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; Jorge A. Vargas, The [illegible]e[illegible]irth of the Supreme Court of Me[illegible]ico[illegible] [illegible]n [illegible]ppraisal of President [illegible]edillo[illegible] Judicial [illegible]eform of [illegible], [illegible] American U. Journal of International Law [illegible] Policy [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]).

413 The Mexican Constitution of [illegible], in effect as amended in [illegible], provides: [illegible]Appointments of the ministers of the Supreme Court shall be made by the President of the Republic and submitted to the approval of the Chamber of Senators, which shall grant or deny approval within the unalterable period of ten days[illegible] See Mex. Const. of [illegible], Art. [illegible]. See also Schatz, Concha, [illegible] Magaloni Kerpel at [illegible]. The [illegible] reforms also aimed to improve judicial education and lawyer professionalization. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

414 [illegible]The Supreme Court of Justice of the Nation has exclusive jurisdiction in all controversies that arise between two or more States, between the powers of one State concerning the constitutionality of their acts, and in disputes between the Federation and one or more States, and all those in which the Federation is a party.[illegible] Mex. Const. of [illegible], Art. [illegible]. The court continued to have authority over certain amparo appeals, as well as those in which the Federation is a party and the case is of national importance, and [illegible]actions of unconstitutionality related to parts I and II of Article [illegible] of the Constitution.[illegible] Reporte sobre la Justicia en las Américas [illegible]–[illegible] (Report on Justice in the Americas) [illegible] (Santiago, Chile: Centro de Estudios de Justicia de la Am[illegible]ricas, [illegible]), www.cejamericas.org/reporte/pdfing/[illegible]-MEXICO[illegible]ING.pdf. See also Domingo at [illegible]–[illegible]; Dale Beck Furnish, Judicial [illegible]eview in Me[illegible]ico, [illegible] Southwestern Journal of Law and Trade in the Americas [illegible] ([illegible]); H[illegible]ctor Fix-Fierro, Judicial [illegible]eform and the Supreme Court of Me[illegible]ico[illegible] The Tra[illegible]ector[illegible] of Three [illegible]ears, [illegible] U.S.–Mex. Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

415 Domingo at [illegible]–[illegible]. See generally Vargas.

416 Calleros at [illegible]–[illegible].

417 For example, in [illegible] the Mexican Supreme Court overturned a prior ruling and held instead that ⊠forced sex within marriage⊠ which had been understood to be permissible under the Mexican Penal Code, would be ⊠considered rape and punishable by law⊠ Morgan Lee Woolley, Marital ⊠ape⊠⊠ ⊠ n⊠ue Blend of Domestic ⊠iolence and Non⊠Marital ⊠ape ⊠ssues, ⊠⊠ Hastings Women's Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (quoting press release, Ipas, Mexican High Court Now Defines Marital Sex Assaults as Rape (Dec. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠)). One review concluded that by ⊠⊠⊠⊠ the court had heard some two dozen challenges to the constitutionality of laws and considered more than a hundred constitutional controversies. Domingo at ⊠⊠⊠.

418 Domingo at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠. Questions about the court's capacity are raised in Michael C. Taylor, Wh⊠ No ⊠ule of Law in Me⊠ico⊠ ⊠⊠plainin⊠ the Weakness of Me⊠ico⊠s Judicial Branch, ⊠⊠ New Mexico Law Review ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

419 In one interview he gave when working on the project, Cauduro commended the Mexican Supreme Court for accepting his ⊠irreverent proposal⊠ Gonz⊠lez, Historic Weekend. Cauduro said that to be judged ⊠by the Supreme Court is an honor. They didn't correct even a comma, which was marvelous, and I'm really very encouraged⊠ Id.

420 By one count, the court had some ⊠⊠,⊠⊠⊠ cases pending between ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠. See Schatz, Concha, ⊠ Magaloni Kerpel at ⊠⊠⊠.

421 David A. Shirk ⊠ Alejandra R⊠bs C⊠zares, ⊠ntroduction⊠ ⊠eformin⊠ the ⊠dministration of Justice in Me⊠ico, in Reforming the Administration of Justice in Mexico ⊠, ⊠. Reported crime declined ⊠significantly from the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s to the ⊠⊠⊠⊠s⊠ but rose sharply between ⊠⊠⊠⊠ and ⊠⊠⊠⊠. Crime has been accompanied by ⊠serious problems of corruption . . . widespread impunity, and abuse of public authority⊠ Id.

422 Shirk ⊠ R⊠bs C⊠zares at ⊠.

423 See Catalina P⊠rez Correa, Distrust and Diso⊠edience⊠ Dis⊠ course and Practice of Law in Me⊠ico, ⊠⊠ U. of Puerto Rico Law Review ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

424 Shirk ⊠ R⊠bs C⊠zares at ⊠. For example, of the small fraction of crimes reported, many went unpunished. When individuals were charged, they were often unable to obtain adequate counsel and left to wait ⊠long periods in jail without formal sentencing⊠ Id. at ⊠.

425 Shirk ⊠ R⊠bs C⊠zares at ⊠ (quoting Marcelo Ebrard, who was the police chief of Mexico City in ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

426 Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Organization of American States, Report on the Situation of Human Rights in Mexico, OEA/Ser.L.V.II.⊠⊠⊠, Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, para. ⊠⊠⊠. (hereinafter IACHR, Mexico ⊠⊠⊠⊠). See also Calleros at ⊠⊠⊠, quoting that report.

427 Calleros at ⊠⊠⊠, citing Secretaria de Gobernaci⊠n, Los derechos humanos en México: Reporte preparado en occasion de la visita de la visitadora de la ONU sobre Derechos Humanos, Mary Robinson (Secretary of Government, Human Rights in Mexico: Report Prepared on the Occasion of the Visit of the UN Human Rights Monitor, Mary Robinson) (Mexico D.F., Mex.: Talleres Gr⊠ficos de la Naci⊠n, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

428 Calleros at ⊠⊠⊠.

429 IACHR, Mexico ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ch. V, ⊠i⊠ht to Justice.

430 IACHR, Mexico ⊠⊠⊠⊠, para. ⊠⊠⊠.

431 IACHR, Mexico ⊠⊠⊠⊠, paras. ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

432 IACHR, Mexico ⊠⊠⊠⊠, para. ⊠⊠⊠. The ⊠state level⊠ was particularly problematic. Id.

433 UN Commission on Human Rights, Civil and Political ⊠i⊠hts, ⊠ncludin⊠ ⊠ uestions of⊠⊠ndependence of the Judician⊠ ⊠dministration of Justice, ⊠mpunit⊠ (E/CN.⊠/⊠⊠/Add. ⊠), Jan. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://www.unhcr.org/refworld/docid/⊠cc⊠ad⊠⊠⊠.html. See also Shirk ⊠ C⊠zares at ⊠⊠.

434 Calleros at ⊠⊠⊠, quoting Kevin Sullivan, ⊠n Me⊠ico ⊠ inter⊠ land, Life Be⊠ond the Law, Washington Post, March ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, A⊠⊠.

435 Calleros at ⊠⊠⊠.

436 Calleros at ⊠⊠⊠.

437 See World Bank, Poverty Reduction and Economic Management Department, Project Paper, Me⊠ico⊠State Judicial Modern⊠ation Supportin⊠ ⊠ccess to Justice Pro⊠ect, World Bank Report No. ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠, July ⊠⊠ ⊠⊠⊠⊠, http://web.worldbank.org/external/projects/main⊠page PK⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ piPK⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ theSitePK⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ menuPK⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ Projectid⊠P⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠.

438 Guillermo Zepeda Lecuona, Criminal ⊠investi⊠ation and the Su⊠version of the Principles of the Justice S⊠stem in Me⊠ico, in Reforming the Administration of Justice in Mexico at ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

439 Sigrid Arzt, The Militari⊠ation of the Procuradur⊠a ⊠ eneral de la ⊠ep⊠⊠lica⊠⊠ isks for Me⊠ican Democrac⊠, in Reforming the Administration of Justice in Mexico at ⊠⊠⊠.

440 See Correa at ⊠⊠⊠.

441 Trans-Border Institute, Justice in Me⊠ico, Jan. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ at ⊠, www.justiceinmexico.org.

442 Bentham, Rationale at ⊠⊠⊠ (emphasis in the original). Bentham did add the caveat that limits came from the ⊠strength of the voice on the one part, and the strength and soundness of the auditory faculty on the other⊠ Id.

443 The photograph in figure ⊠⊠⊠ of the Federal Court of Australia sitting in Parntirrpi Bore Outstation, Great Victoria Desert, taken in ⊠⊠⊠⊠ by Bob Sheppard, the Trial Logistics Manager of the Federal Court of Australia, was provided by the court and is reproduced with the permission of the photographer and the court.

444 In the United States and some other jurisdictions, ⊠community justice⊠ centers have focused a good deal on criminal law. See Jeffrey Fagan ⊠ Victoria Malkin, Theori⊠in⊠ Communit⊠ Justice Throu⊠h Communit⊠ Courts, ⊠⊠ Fordham Urban Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠). The Federal Court of Australia's travels to communities for civil litigation expands on that theme.

445 Stanle⊠ Mer⊠n, ⊠drian ⊠oun⊠, and Livin⊠ston West and others on ⊠ehalf of the Peoples of the N⊠aan⊠at⊠arra Lands v⊠Western ⊠ustralia and others (⊠⊠⊠⊠), FCA ⊠⊠⊠ at para. ⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ and at the Minute of Consent Determination of Native Title, appended to the judgment at Schedules ⊠ (Exclusions), ⊠ (Other Interests) (⊠⊠ June ⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Mer⊠n ⊠N⊠aan⊠at⊠arra Lands v⊠ Western ⊠ustralia). Our thanks to Chief Justice Michael Black, who brought both the dispute and the photographs to our attention and helped us to understand their import.

446 Federal Court of Australia website, http://www.fedcourt.gov.au. The Federal Court has registries in the other states and territories. Id.

447 Australian Bureau of Statistics, Australian Demographic Statistics, December ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Key Figures, www.abs.gov.au/ausstats/abs⊠.nsf/mf/⊠⊠⊠⊠.⊠; and Australian Bureau of Statistics, Western Australia, http://www.abs.gov.au/, under ⊠Themes⊠ and ⊠Western Australia.⊠

448 N⊠aan⊠at⊠arra Lands, Native Title Newsletter, edition ⊠ (July ⊠⊠⊠⊠) at ⊠ (hereinafter N⊠aan⊠at⊠arra Lands).

449 Maureen Tehan, Customar⊠ Title, ⊠ erita⊠e Protection, and Propert⊠⊠i⊠hts in ⊠ustralia⊠⊠mer⊠in⊠ Patterns of Land ⊠se in the Post⊠ Ma⊠o ⊠ra, ⊠ Pacific Rim Law ⊠ Policy Journal ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠) (hereinafter Tehan, Customar⊠ Title).

450 Tehan, Customar⊠ Title at ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠.

451 Ma⊠o v⊠⊠ ueensland ⊠⊠(⊠⊠⊠⊠) ⊠⊠⊠ C.L.R. ⊠ (Aus.). Hereinafter we refer to this case by its common name, ⊠Ma⊠o ⊠⊠.

452 The doctrine is discussed in the decision. See Ma⊠o ⊠⊠, paras. ⊠⊠–⊠⊠.

453 See Gary D. Meyers ⊠ Sally Raine, ⊠ustralian ⊠⊠ori⊠inal Land ⊠i⊠hts in Transition ⊠Part ⊠⊠⊠The Le⊠islative ⊠esponse to the ⊠ i⊠h Court⊠ Native Title Decisions in Ma⊠o v⊠⊠ ueensland and Wik v⊠⊠ ueensland, ⊠ Tulsa Journal of Comparative and International Law ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

454 See, for example, Lisa Strelein, Compromised Jurisprudence: Native Title Cases since Mabo (Canberra, Aust.: Aboriginal Studies Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (hereinafter Strelein, Compromised Jurisprudence).

455 See Patrick Macklem, Indigenous Difference and the Constitution of Canada (Toronto, Can.: U. of Toronto Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

456 The questions raised have broad implications for the meaning of sovereignty raised not only by ⍰old homeland minorities⍰ but also by other minority groups. See Will Kymlicka, The ⍰nternational⍰ ⍰ation of Minorit⍰ ⍰⍰ights, ⍰ International Journal of Constitutional Law ⍰, ⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

457 See Declaration on the Rights of Persons Belonging to National or Ethnic, Religious and Linguistic Minorities, U.N. GAOR, ⍰⍰th Sess., Supp. ⍰⍰, U.N. Doc. A/RES/⍰⍰/⍰⍰⍰/Annex (⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.un.org/documents/ga/res/⍰⍰/a⍰⍰r⍰⍰⍰.htm.

458 Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, G.A. Res. ⍰⍰/⍰⍰⍰, U.N. Doc. A/RES/⍰⍰/⍰⍰⍰ (Sept. ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰). This Declaration was adopted after more than twenty years of discussion. The process began in ⍰⍰⍰⍰ with the convening of the Working Group on Indigenous Populations, and a first draft was adopted in ⍰⍰⍰⍰. For a brief history see International Work Group for Indigenous Affairs, http://www.iwgia.org/sw⍰⍰⍰⍰.asp.

459 See Ngaanyatjarra Council (Aboriginal Corporation), Land Mana⍰ement⍰Brief Description of the N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands, http://www.tjulyuru.com/lands.asp (hereinafter Ngaanyatjarra Council, Land Mana⍰ement).

460 Richard D. Lumb, Native Title to Land in ⍰ustralia⍰⍰ecent ⍰ ⍰⍰h Court Decisions, ⍰⍰ International ⍰ Comparative Law Quarterly ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

461 Tehan, Customar⍰ Title at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

462 Various persons are authorized to file claims, including individuals or persons ⍰(the native title claim group) who, according to their traditional laws and customs, hold the common or group rights and interests comprising the particular native title claimed⍰ See Native Title Act, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰). Private, non-native title claimants can also bring applications for revision or compensation, as can the Commonwealth and states or territories. Id. at ⍰⍰⍰(⍰)–(⍰). Thus this statute creates a form of aggregate litigation distinct from other methods that may exist to bring group-based litigation. See generally Bernard Murphy ⍰ Camille Cameron, ⍰ccess to Justice and the ⍰volution of Class ⍰ction Liti⍰ation in ⍰ustralia, ⍰⍰ Melbourne U. Law Review ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

463 See generally Lisa Strelein ⍰ Tran Tran, Native Title ⍰epre⍰ sentative Bodies and Prescri⍰ed Bodies Corporate⍰native title in a post determination environment (Native Title Research Report no. ⍰/⍰⍰⍰⍰, Australian Institute of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Studies, Canberra, Aust.: ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

464 See Native Title Act, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰Establishment of the National Native Title Tribunal⍰); and id. at ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰Function of the Tribunal⍰). For example, the Tribunal can ⍰carry out research⍰ on the ⍰history of interests in relation to land or waters in Australia⍰ as well as on ⍰anthropology⍰ Id. at ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰). See also Meyers and Raine at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰; Tehan, Customar⍰ Title at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰.

The Native Title Act also provided rights to negotiate when future property interests were at stake. Meyers and Raine at ⍰⍰⍰. Subsequent court decisions, including Wik Peoples v⍰State of ⍰ueensland (⍰⍰⍰⍰) ⍰⍰⍰ A.L.R. ⍰⍰⍰, responded to some questions raised by the court's doctrine and legislation. Further, practice under the Native Title Act revealed problems that prompted amendments. See Meyers and Raine at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. In addition, concerns about the degree to which native title could limit economic growth in a global economy translated into efforts to modify the legislation. See Carlos Scott L⍰pez, ⍰eformulat⍰ in⍰ Native Title in Ma⍰o⍰ Wake⍰⍰⍰ori⍰inal Sovere⍰nt⍰ and ⍰econcili⍰ ation in Post⍰Centenar⍰ ⍰ustralia, ⍰⍰ Tulsa Journal of Comparative ⍰ International Law ⍰⍰, ⍰⍰–⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Some scholars have interpreted some of the subsequent decisions as responsive to private and governmental interests that sought to limit the interpretation of Ma⍰o ⍰⍰ See, for example, Lisa Strelein, ⍰rom Ma⍰o to ⍰orta ⍰orta⍰Native Title Law in ⍰ustralia, ⍰⍰ Washington University Journal of Law and Policy ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Kent McNeil, The ⍰ulnera⍰ilit⍰ of ⍰ndi⍰enous Land ⍰ ⍰ights in ⍰ustralia and Canada, ⍰⍰ Osgoode Hall Law Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰); Gretchen Freeman Cappio, ⍰rosion of the ⍰ndi⍰enous ⍰ ⍰ht to Ne⍰otiate in ⍰ustralia⍰ Proposed ⍰mendments to the Native Title ⍰ct, ⍰ Pacific Rim Law ⍰ Policy Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

465 See Native Title Act, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰) (⍰Tribunal's way of operating⍰).

466 Native Title Act, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰) (⍰Tribunal's way of operating⍰).

467 ⍰The Federal Court has jurisdiction to hear and determine applications filed in the Federal Court that relate to native title and that jurisdiction is exclusive of . . . all other courts except the High Court⍰ Native Title Act, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰⍰.

468 Native Title Act, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰G. This provision applies only to mediations held under certain subsections. Id.

469 Native Title Act, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰GB.

470 Tehan, Customar⍰ Title at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰ (citing Native Title Amendment Bill, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ ⍰⍰BA-⍰⍰EC).

471 Tehan, Customar⍰ Title at ⍰⍰⍰.

472 The Native Title Act called on each of Australia's subdivisions to create their own native title regimes and provided financial assistance for administrative as well as settlement costs. See Native Title Act, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰. Given that the act did not impose a national uniform regime, variations exist. See Native Title ⍰esource ⍰ uide, http://ntru.aiatsis.gov.au/research/resourceguide/statesandterritories/NT/nt⍰⍰.html.

Western Australia was the first to enact state-based claims systems. Meyers ⍰ Raine at ⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰. Some parts of its regulatory system were later struck down by the courts. L⍰pez at ⍰⍰. See Western ⍰ustralia v⍰ Commonwealth (⍰⍰⍰⍰) ⍰⍰⍰ CLR ⍰⍰⍰. Western Australia chartered an Office of Native Title to assist it in land claims⍰ and arguably to deflect some. That office convened a ⍰Native Title Research Working Group⍰ that recommended making state title records accessible to claimants. See N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands; Office of Native Title, Annual Report ⍰⍰⍰⍰–⍰⍰⍰⍰ (published by the Government of Western Australia). At the national level, efforts were made to shape a working group of ⍰Native Title Ministers⍰ that would coordinate and also provide a measure of transparency in that work. See Australian Government, Attorney General's Department, Consultation with State and Territory Governments, http://www.ag.gov.au/www/agd/agd.nsf/Page/Indigenouslawandnativetitle⍰Nativetitle⍰Consultationwithstateandterritorygovernments.

473 Strelein at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰. Strelein cited Western ⍰ustralia v⍰ Ward (⍰⍰⍰⍰), ⍰⍰⍰ CLR ⍰, ⍰⍰ ALJR ⍰⍰⍰⍰, as one such example.

474 Ngaanyatjarra Council (Aboriginal Corporation), Doin⍰ Business with ⍰ overnment ⍰⍰ (July ⍰⍰⍰⍰), http://www.tjulyuru.com/notices/DBWGRepApp.pdf (hereinafter Ngaanatjarra Council, Doin⍰ Business).

475 Ngaanatjarra Council, Doin⍰ Business at ⍰⍰–⍰⍰.

476 Mer⍰⍰n ⍰N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands v⍰Western ⍰ustralia.

477 Mer⍰⍰n ⍰N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands v⍰ Western ⍰ustralia, List of Respondents. The Ngaanyatjarra Lands fall within three shires, Ngaanyatjarraku, East Pilbara, and Laverton, the shire named in the application. Information on the land comes from the Shire of Ngaanyatjarraku. See Ngaanyatjarra Council, Land Mana⍰ement.

478 Mer⍰⍰n ⍰N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands v⍰Western ⍰ustralia, para. ⍰.

479 Mer⍰⍰n ⍰N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands v⍰Western ⍰ustralia, para. ⍰.

480 Mer⍰⍰n ⍰N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands v⍰Western ⍰ustralia, para. ⍰, citing the Native Title Act ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰⍰.

481 Mer⍰⍰n ⍰N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands v⍰Western ⍰ustralia, para. ⍰.

482 Mer⍰⍰n ⍰N⍰aan⍰at⍰arra Lands v⍰Western ⍰ustralia, para. ⍰⍰.

483 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, para. ⓧⓧ.

484 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, para. ⓧⓧ.

485 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, para. ⓧⓧ (citing ⓧnderson on ⓧehalf of the Spinifeⓧ People vⓧState of Western ⓧustralia, (ⓧⓧⓧⓧ) FCA ⓧⓧⓧⓧ, para. ⓧ, as well as other decisions).

486 Peter H. Russell, Recognizing Aboriginal Title: The Mabo Case and Indigenous Resistance to English-Settler Colonialism (Toronto, Can.: U. of Toronto Press, ⓧⓧⓧⓧ).

487 Russell at ⓧⓧⓧ–ⓧⓧⓧ.

488 See Robert H. Mnookin ⓧ Lewis Kornhauser, Barⓧainin ⓧ in the Shadow of the Lawⓧ The Case of Divorce, ⓧⓧ Yale Law Journal ⓧⓧⓧ, ⓧⓧⓧ (ⓧⓧⓧⓧ).

489 Email from Chief Justice Michael Black to Judith Resnik, Mar. ⓧⓧ, ⓧⓧⓧⓧ (hereinafter ⓧⓧⓧⓧ C. J. Black email).

490 ⓧⓧⓧⓧ C. J. Black email. He noted that the artist used ⓧtraditional indigenous colours.ⓧ

491 See General Guidelines for Use of the Commonwealth Coat of Arms Within the Commonwealth, http://www.dpmc.gov.au/guidelines/docs/CCoAⓧcommonwealth.rtf. Protecting symbolic rights is an issue for the cultural property of indigenous peoples as well. See generally Matthew Rimmer, ⓧustralian ⓧonsⓧⓧuthenticitⓧ Marks and ⓧdentitⓧ Politics, ⓧ Indigenous Law Journal ⓧⓧⓧ (ⓧⓧⓧⓧ). Another ⓧon-country hearingⓧ took place in June ⓧⓧⓧⓧ at Nyiyamarri Pukurl, where over two hundred people gathered when Justice Anthony North determined land rights in an area some two hundred miles south of Broome. That claim had been pending for eleven years. See Nⓧanⓧumarta Determinationⓧ Western ⓧustraliaⓧ ⓧⓧth, Native Title Newsletter (June, ⓧⓧⓧⓧ).

492 Australian Government, Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, ⓧⓧout ⓧustraliaⓧCoat of ⓧrms, http://www.dfat.gov.au/facts/coatⓧofⓧArms.pdf (hereinafter ⓧⓧout ⓧustraliaⓧCoat of ⓧrms).

493 ⓧⓧout ⓧustraliaⓧCoat of ⓧrms.

494 ⓧⓧⓧⓧ C. J. Black email.

495 ⓧⓧⓧⓧ C. J. Black email.

496 ⓧⓧout ⓧustraliaⓧCoat of ⓧrms.

497 Such parallels are explored by various scholars eager to undercut a hierarchy of sophistication across cultures. See Richard Mohr, ⓧndurinⓧ Sⓧns and ⓧⓧscure MeaninⓧⓧContested Coats of ⓧrms in ⓧustralian Jurisdictions, in Contemporary Issues of the Semiotics of Law ⓧⓧⓧ–ⓧⓧⓧ (Anne Wagner, Tracey Summerfield, ⓧ Farid Benevides, eds., Oxford, Eng.: Hart, ⓧⓧⓧⓧ).

498 The image in figure ⓧⓧⓧ was provided and reproduced with permission of the Rare Book Collection, Lillian Goldman Law Library, Yale Law School and the assistance of its librarian, Mike Widener. In English, the book is called Dutch Law and Practice in Civil and Criminal Matters. As discussed in Chapter ⓧ, it was written by Bernhard van Zutphen. The volume was published in ⓧⓧⓧⓧ, the same year that the Amsterdam Town Hall was inaugurated. Almost identical scenes can be found in several other volumes of that era.

499 Nⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands.

500 Manuhuia Barcham, Regional Governance Structures in Indigenous Australia: Western Australian Examples ⓧ (Centre for Indigenous Governance and Development ⓧCIGADⓧ Working Paper ⓧ/ⓧⓧⓧⓧ, Massey University, Palmerston North, N.Z.: ⓧⓧⓧⓧ).

501 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, para. ⓧ.

502 Ngaanyatjarra Council, Doinⓧ Business at ⓧⓧ.

503 We borrow this phrase from Richard Mohr, Some Conditions for Culturalⓧ Diverse Delⓧeration, ⓧⓧ Canadian Journal of Law and Society ⓧⓧ, ⓧⓧ (ⓧⓧⓧⓧ).

504 See Seyla Benhabib, The Claims of Culture: Equality and Diversity in the Global Era ⓧⓧⓧ (Princeton, NJ: Princeton U. Press, ⓧⓧⓧⓧ).

505 The label indicated that the judgment would be distributed generally by the court's internal and external websites. Judgments not so marked, such as interlocutory orders, were recorded but not distributed.

506 The preface, paragraphs A–K, reported that claims had been filed, as had a written statement ⓧsetting out the terms of the agreement reached.ⓧ Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, para. D.

507 Mervⓧn / Nⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, paras. F, G. The court further noted its own authority under the Native Title Act to enter the agreement as well as to dismiss the related pending applications comprehended within the new accord.

508 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, para. ⓧⓧ.

509 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, para. ⓧⓧ. ⓧIn the distant past, dreaming beings travelled vast distances across the desert and through the Ngaanyatjarra Lands, creating the waterholes and landscape features and laying down the songs and dances for people to performⓧ Id., para. ⓧⓧ.

510 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, para. ⓧⓧ (emphasis in the original).

511 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, Minute of Consent Determination, The Nature and Extent of Native Title Rights and Interests, para. ⓧ(a)–(e) (ⓧⓧⓧⓧ). That land is administered by the Yarnangu Ngaanyatjarraku Parna (Aboriginal Corporation). See Australian Government, Search the Public Register for Indigenous Corporations, http://www.oric.gov.au/PrintCorporationSearch.aspx ⓧcorporationNameⓧⓧ icnⓧⓧⓧⓧ.

One commentator described the outcome as recognition of exclusive possession of ⓧmost of the claim area, including special leases; reserves held in trust for the use and benefit of Indigenous people; and unallocated Crown landⓧ as well as nonexclusive possession over other areas. See Strelein at ⓧⓧⓧ. Western Australia's own Office of Native Title described the settlement as giving the Ngaanyatjarra Peoples ⓧexclusive . . . possessionⓧ over various areas; rights to ⓧcare for, maintain and protect from physical harmⓧ certain sites; and rights to extract natural resources for profit in some instances. See http://www.centraldesert.org.au/what-we-do/by-claim-determination-area/ngaanyatjarra-lands/. In addition, the Western Australian state government allocated, through the Office of Native Title, ⓧⓧⓧⓧ,ⓧⓧⓧ to be provided for two years for ⓧjoint management arrangementsⓧ of areas, including the Gibson Desert Nature Reserve, where native title was extinguished. See Nⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands.

Subsequent decisions involving land claims by the Ngaanyatjarra Peoples include a ⓧⓧⓧⓧ ⓧconsent determinationⓧ also generated through ⓧnegotiations with the State Governmentⓧ that was entered by the Federal Court in Perth. The ⓧdeterminationⓧ recognized the Ngaanyatjarra People's ⓧexclusive native title rightsⓧ over most of an area of ⓧⓧⓧ square miles. See National Native Tribe Tribunal, Nⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Peopleⓧ Native Title ⓧecⓧnised in Central Desert, June ⓧ, ⓧⓧⓧⓧ, http://www.nntt.gov.au/News-and-Communications/Media-Releases/Pages/NgaanyatjarraⓧPeoplesⓧnativeⓧtitleⓧrecognisedⓧinⓧCentralⓧDesert.aspx.

512 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, Minute of Consent Determination, The Nature and Extent of Native Title Rights and Interests, para. ⓧ(a),(b).

513 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, Minute of Consent Determination, The Nature and Extent of Native Title Rights and Interests, para. ⓧ. Following the explanation are dozens of pages listing plot numbers related to a grid and the names of the peoples who gain rights under the agreement. Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧ Western ⓧustralia, Schedule ⓧⓧ Determination Area, Schedule ⓧⓧ Native Title Holders.

514 Mervⓧn ⓧNⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands vⓧWestern ⓧustralia, Schedule ⓧⓧ Other Interests.

515 Nⓧaanⓧatⓧarra Lands.

516 Barcham at ⓧ.

517 As noted in Chapter ⓧⓧ, Bentham proposed that this fund be paid for with ⓧfines imposed on wrongdoersⓧ government funds, and charitable donations. See Philip Schofield, Utility and Democracy: The Political Thought of Jeremy Bentham [illegible] (New York, NY: Oxford U. Press, [illegible]).

518 Mervin [illegible] Naan [illegible] Yarra Lands v. Western Australia, para. [illegible].

519 Mervin [illegible] Naan [illegible] Yarra Lands v. Western Australia, para. [illegible] (emphasis in original).

520 The photograph in figure [illegible] of the Cook County Courthouse, Grand Marais, Minnesota is by Doug Ohman, Pioneer Photography, copyright [illegible]; our thanks for permission to use this image to him and to the Cook County Court Administration, Sixth Judicial District, State of Minnesota.

521 Minnesota Judicial Branch, Cook County Courthouse, Building Location Details, http://www.courts.state.mn.us/?siteID=[illegible] page ?CourtHouseProfile=ID=[illegible] (hereinafter Minnesota Judicial Branch, Cook County Courthouse).

522 U.S. Bureau of Census, Minnesota: Population of Counties by Decennial Census: [illegible] to [illegible] (Richard L. Forstall, ed., Washington, DC: Population Division, U.S. Bureau of Census), www.census.gov/population/cencounts/mn[illegible].txt (hereinafter Minnesota Population). The census recorded [illegible] people for [illegible].

523 Minnesota Population.

524 Gilbertson at [illegible].

525 Minnesota Judicial Branch, Cook County Courthouse. It was also apparently in disrepair. Gilbertson at [illegible].

526 Minnesota Judicial Branch, Cook County Courthouse.

527 Gilbertson at [illegible].

528 Gilbertson at [illegible]–[illegible]. Residents had a per capita income of [illegible],[illegible]. Id. See also U.S. Census Bureau, State & County Quickfacts, ?Cook County, Minnesota? http://quickfacts.census.gov/qfd/states/[illegible]/[illegible].html.

529 Mary Jane Morrison, The Minnesota State Constitution: A Reference Guide [illegible] (Westport, CT: Greenwood, [illegible]).

530 Morrison at [illegible]–[illegible].

531 Morrison at [illegible]–[illegible]. The state is the twelfth largest of the fifty states and, as of [illegible], the twentieth most populated. Id. at [illegible]. See also Rhoda R. Gilman, Territorial Imperative: How Minnesota Became the [illegible]nd State, [illegible] Minnesota History [illegible] ([illegible]/[illegible]); William Anderson, Minnesota Frames a Constitution, [illegible] Minnesota History [illegible] ([illegible]).

532 Ohman & Logue at [illegible]. In addition to this volume, two other books are devoted to courthouses of the states. See Marion Cross, Minnesota Courthouses (Minneapolis, MN: National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Minnesota, [illegible]); Gilbertson. Both the Ohman and Logue and the Gilbertson volumes are courthouse-by-courthouse studies, the first through photographs and the second through watercolors, with the images accompanied by brief descriptions of each building. Cross provided a list of courthouses and reported that the earliest one was built in [illegible] in Washington County. Id., Foreword at [illegible]. The building ?boom? produced sixty-two courthouses in the [illegible]s and [illegible]s, reflecting a prosperity that produced ?Victorian structures? that survived in part because of the falloff in new construction. Id. at [illegible].

533 Minn. Const., Art. III, [illegible] ([illegible]).

534 Minn. Const., Art. VI, [illegible] ([illegible]); see also Morrison at [illegible].

535 The provisions were revised in the second half of the twentieth century. Morrison at [illegible]–[illegible]. When doing so, the commission charged with proposing revisions reported that its changes were evolutionary, not radical, and noted that it was taking care ?to preserve the independence of the judiciary as one of the three coordinate branches of our government.? See Preliminary Report on Revision of the Judiciary Article of the Minnesota State Constitution, [illegible] Minnesota Law Review [illegible], [illegible] ([illegible]). See also Maynard E. Pirsig, The Proposed Amendment of the Judiciary Article of the Minnesota Constitution, [illegible] Minnesota Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]). By the late twentieth century, administrative and court-based judges overlapped in terms of the kind of work they did. See Morrison at [illegible]–[illegible].

536 Minn. Const., Art. I, [illegible] ([illegible]). The document reads: ?In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury . . . .? Id. It further specifies that ?no person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law.? Minn. Const., Art. I, [illegible]. See also Morrison at [illegible]–[illegible].

537 Minn. Const., Art. I, [illegible] ([illegible]).

538 Minn. Const., Art. I, [illegible] (?Rights and Privileges?) ([illegible]). The word ?member? included any alien who declared an intent to become a U.S. citizen.? Morrison at [illegible].

539 Minn. Const., Art. I, [illegible] ([illegible]). Other states with similar provisions include some of the states of the Northwest Territory and also New York and Iowa. Morrison at [illegible].

540 Morrison at [illegible]. This provision applied to noncitizens. Id. at [illegible].

541 Ohman & Logue at [illegible]–[illegible].

542 Ohman & Logue at [illegible]. The Cook County Courthouse gained that status in [illegible]. Id. at [illegible]. As of [illegible], of the ninety county courthouses ?in-use? eighteen were buildings that dated from after [illegible], and eleven more dated from [illegible] or after. Id. at [illegible].

543 Ohman & Logue at [illegible]; Minnesota Judicial Branch, Cook County Courthouse.

544 Minnesota Judicial Branch, Cook County Courthouse.

545 Ohman & Logue at [illegible]. ?On Minnesota courthouses, she is most often shown blindfolded and toting a sword and scales.? Id. at [illegible].

546 Ohman & Logue at [illegible]. One Justice, twelve feet high and some two hundred pounds, was struck by lightning several times before being ?toppled? in [illegible] by very strong winds and was only ?saved by the lightning rod cable to which she was tethered.? Id. Other Justices had safer settings in the courthouse interior. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

547 As we noted in Chapter [illegible], the New York Times reported that Justice stood ?surrounded and wrapt like a martyr in the flames. The balances a minute after whirled around and fell. Then she glowed as if made of iron, and . . . fell with a crash through the tower.? Burning of the City Hall, New York Times, Aug. [illegible], [illegible], at [illegible]. See also Isaac Newton Phelps Stokes, The Iconography of Manhattan Island, [illegible]–[illegible], vol. [illegible]: [illegible] (Union, NJ: Lawbook Exchange, [illegible]; republication of a set of volumes originally published by R. H. Dodd in [illegible]–[illegible]).

548 Ohman & Logue at [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible].

549 Ohman & Logue at [illegible]–[illegible].

550 Ohman & Logue at [illegible].

551 Ohman & Logue at [illegible].

552 Ohman & Logue at [illegible].

553 Ohman & Logue at [illegible].

554 Minnesota Judicial Branch, A Report to the Community: The [illegible] Annual Report of the Minnesota Judicial Branch [illegible], http://www.mncourts.gov/Documents/[illegible]/Public/Court?Information?Office/AR?Working[illegible].pdf (hereinafter [illegible] Minnesota Judicial Branch Annual Report). The consolidation also meant that ?nearly [illegible] percent of counties share?H?a court administrator? as well as programs for the provision of interpreters and the calling of jurors. Databases and case management systems were unified so that practices became more consistent across counties. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible]. As of [illegible], some [illegible] district judgeships were allocated across ten judicial districts; almost two million cases were filed at the trial level. Id. at [illegible]. In terms of volume, the number of ?major criminal? cases? about [illegible],[illegible] paralleled the number of criminal cases in the entire federal system. The intermediate court of appeals, with nineteen members, received some [illegible],[illegible] cases, and the Supreme Court (with seven jurists) decided about [illegible] direct appeals. Id. at [illegible]–[illegible].

555 [illegible] Minnesota Judicial Branch Annual Report at [illegible].

556 Gilbertson at [illegible].

557 The photograph in figure ⌧⌧⌧ was taken in ⌧⌧⌧⌧, with the assistance of the Cook County Court Administration, Sixth Judicial District, State of Minnesota, by Judith Resnik and Dennis E. Curtis.

558 The photographs reproduced in figures ⌧⌧⌧ and ⌧⌧⌧ of the James Sommerness Memorial Award, in Cook County Courthouse, Grand Marais, Minnesota, were taken by Glenn Gilyard and with the permission of the court. The images are reproduced with his permission and that of Richard Gilyard, who served as the architect for the Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit and arranged for the pictures to be taken.

559 See In the Matter of a Memorial Service Honoring: James A. Sommerness, Attorney and Counselor, Held before the Honorable Kenneth A. Sandvik, Judge of the District Court, in the Cook County Courthouse, June ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (hereinafter Sommerness Memorial Service). Our thanks to Richard Gilyard; to Carl Christensen, law clerk to Judge Sandvik; and to Larry J. Saur, Court Administrator, for providing us with the materials on the memorial service and photographs of the court and to Celeste Bremer for helping us to gather this information.

In the ⌧⌧⌧⌧s, the United States Supreme Court interpreted the United States Constitution as requiring that counsel be appointed for indigent criminal defendants facing felony charges. See ⌧ ideon v⌧Wain⌧ wri⌧ht, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧). States implement this obligation in various ways; the right to appointed counsel in Minnesota is provided by the state's Rules of Criminal Procedure. See ⌧⌧ Minn. Stat. Ann. Rule ⌧.⌧⌧ (Supp. ⌧⌧⌧⌧). Implementing that precept has been a chronic problem for lack of funds. See James L. Baillie, Meetin⌧ the Crisis in ⌧undin⌧ for the Courts and for Le⌧al Services, ⌧⌧ Bench ⌧ Bar of Minnesota (Aug. ⌧⌧⌧⌧), http://mnbar.org/benchandbar/⌧⌧⌧⌧/aug⌧⌧/prez.htm.

560 Sommerness Memorial Service at ⌧ (statement of Judge Sandvik). Quotes to the service come from this transcript.

561 See detail of the James Sommerness Memorial, figure ⌧⌧⌧.

562 Sommerness Memorial Service at ⌧⌧ (letter from Richard Swanson).

563 One ambitious overview aiming to ground that claim is Douglass C. North, John Joseph Wallis, ⌧ Barry R. Weingast, Violence and Social Orders: A Conceptual Framework for Interpreting Recorded Human History (Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge U. Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧). They focus on conditions⌧ intellectual, economic, technological, and institutional⌧ creating ⌧doorstep conditions⌧ facilitating open social orders, receptive to competition, economic growth, and stability through impersonal interactions among various sectors, public and private. Id. at ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧.

564 Jonathan Crary, Suspensions of Perception: Attention, Spectacle, and Modern Culture ⌧⌧ (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

565 U.S. Supreme Court Press Release, May ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, http://www.supremecourt.gov/publicinfo/press/viewpressreleases.aspx⌧FileName⌧pr⌧⌧⌧-⌧⌧-⌧⌧.html.

This book is informed by a diverse set of published and unpublished sources. In addition to the books and articles cited in the bibliography, we have used collections of legislative and judicial materials as well as publications from many jurisdictions both inside and outside the United States. We consulted materials from a number of archival collections, including:

the Photographic Collection of the Warburg Institute, University of London;
Rare Book Collection, Lillian Goldman Library, Yale Law School; Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library, Yale University; archival materials from the General Services Administration (GSA) of the United States, from its Fine Arts Program, Art-in-Architecture Program, and the Office of the Chief Architect; the Stefan Hirsch and Elsa Rogo Papers, the Simka Simkhovitch Papers, and the Adolph A. Weinman Papers, in the Archives of American Art of the Smithsonian Institution; collected materials on the federal judiciary at the National Archives of the United States, as well as at the Administrative Office of the United States Courts (AO) and the Federal Judicial Center (FJC);
the Cass Gilbert Collection in the Prints, Photographs, and Architectural Collections of the New York Historical Society;
the exhibit brochure for Civic Spirit: Changing the Course of Federal Design, Sept. ⌧–Nov. ⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, Center for Architecture; papers, pamphlets, brochures, and lectures provided by the Office of the Curator of the United States Supreme Court and by several lower federal courts, state courts, and county seats in the United States, such as newsletters from Discovering Justice: The James D. St. Clair Court Education Project (⌧⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧⌧); The Art and Craft of Justice: A Guide to the Stone Carvings and Inscriptions of the United States Courthouse in Boston (Federal Court Public Education Fund, ⌧⌧⌧⌧), and Douglas P. Woodlock, Architecture and the Design of the New Federal Courthouse in Boston (lecture delivered to the Boston Society of Architects, Jan. ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

In addition, we have drawn from materials at libraries, museums, city archives, ministries of justice, judiciaries, other government agencies, and foundations. Outside the United States, materials came from:

The Bentham Project, University College London;
Royal Palace Foundation of Amsterdam and the Amsterdam City Archives;
Musea Brugge, Groeningemuseum, Bruges, Belgium;
Centre d'Iconographie Genevoise, Geneva, Switzerland;
Agence Publique pour l'Immobilier de la Justice, Paris, France;
L'Agence de Ma⌧trise d'Ouvrage des Travaux du Minist⌧re de la Justice, Paris, France (AMOTMJ), as well as annual reports and brochures from the French Ministry of Justice, including Les Nouveau⌧ ⌧⌧uipements du minist⌧re de la Justice (New ⌧acilities of the Ministr⌧ of Justice, ⌧⌧⌧⌧), and the collection of brochures published between ⌧⌧⌧⌧ and ⌧⌧⌧⌧ by the D⌧⌧gation G⌧n⌧rale au Programme Pluriannuel d'Équipement and the AMOTMJ; conferences and symposia, such as Palais de Justice: h⌧ritages et projets (Law Courts: Legacies and Projects) (Paris, France, ⌧⌧⌧⌧); and L'architecture du palais de justice: une r⌧trospective franco-am⌧ricaine, ⌧⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧⌧ (Courthouse Architecture: A Franco-American Retrospective) (Paris, France, ⌧⌧⌧⌧); and unpublished lectures such as Antonine Garapon's Imaginer le palais de justice du XXI⌧me si⌧cle (Imagining the Courthouses of the Twenty-First Century, ⌧⌧⌧⌧); reports related to courts in the United Kingdom, including Lord Woolf, ⌧ccess to Justice, ⌧inal ⌧eport to the Lord Chancellor on the Civil Justice S⌧stem in ⌧n⌧land and Wales (⌧⌧⌧⌧);

Registrar and Public Information Office of the Israel Supreme Court, Jerusalem;

County Court of Victoria, the Supreme Court of Victoria, in Melbourne, Victoria, in the Commonwealth of Australia, and the Federal Court of Australia;

Helsinki District Court, Finland;

General Secretariat, Supreme Court of Japan, Tokyo;

data, pamphlets, building information, and monographs from the Court of Justice of the European Union (Luxembourg City, Luxembourg), the International Court of Justice (The Hague, the Netherlands), the International Criminal Court (The Hague, the Netherlands), the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (Hamburg, Germany), the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (The Hague, the Netherlands), and the Inter-American Court of Human Rights (San José, Costa Rica), and the World Bank.

In addition, we have drawn on publications, conferences, and data produced in the United States by governments, associations of lawyers, architects, judges, and nonprofit entities. Our sources included:

monographs by the Design Excellence Program of the GSA and the brochures for various of the newly built or renovated federal courthouses;

a series of volumes by the GSA on federal building, such as Vision & Voice: Building a Legacy (vol. 1) and Vision & Voice: Changing the Course of Federal Architecture (vols. 1 & 2) (2000–2002); Growth, Efficiency, and Modernism: GSA Buildings of the 1950s, 60s, and 70s (2004); Design Excellence: Policies and Procedures (2005); and the GSA's Design Guide for U.S. Courthouses (2000, 2007); monographs by or about the federal judiciary, including the 1976, 1991, and 2007 editions of U.S. Courts Design Guide of the Judicial Conference of the United States; the Annual Reports of the Attorney General of the United States (1900–1950); the Annual Reports of the Judicial Conference of the United States (1922–1950), and materials from subcommittees of the Judicial Conference such as its Space and Facilities Committee (1990–1995); the Annual Reports of the Director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts (1939–1950); monthly, annual, and special publications of the Federal Judicial Center (FJC), including The Third Branch; The Newsletter of the Federal Courts (1990–1995), its Historic Federal Courthouses online database, its exhibit Constructing Justice: The Architecture of Federal Courthouses; and the annual Year-End Reports issued by the Chief Justice of the United States from 1970 through 1990;

reports by the National Academy of Public Administration and the National Endowment for the Arts, such as Federal Architecture: A Framework for Debate on Interim Report of the Federal Architecture Project (1979), and Federal Architecture: Multiple-Use Facilities: Staff Report for the Federal Architecture Project (1979);

data and reports of the United States Bureau of Justice Statistics; the Congressional Budget Office; the Congressional Research Services; the United States General Accounting Office (subsequently called the United States Government Accountability Office), including a series on courthouse construction and courtroom sharing; reports from other government agencies, such as the Office of Administrative Law Judges, The Federal Administrative Judiciary: Then and Now: A Decade of Change 1990–2000;

Congressional hearings and reports, such as The Final Report of the Supreme Court Building Commission in Connection with the Construction, Equipping, and Furnishing of the United States Supreme Court Building (1935); Art and Government: Report to the President of the Commission on Fine Arts (1962);

publications of the National Center for State Courts, as well as state-specific volumes, such as the Judicial Council of California, Public Hearings Report: Access for Persons with Disabilities (January, 1990); Commission on Public Access to Court Records, Report to the Chief Judge of the State of New York (Abrams Commission, Feb. 1990); annual reports of many states' judiciaries, as well as select transcripts, such as In the Matter of the Memorial Service Honoring James E. Sommerness, Attorney and Counselor, Held Before the Honorable Kenneth E. Sandvik, Judge of the District Court, in the Cook County Court House, June 21, 1999 (Cook County, Minnesota).

We have also used publications and conference materials from organizations of lawyers, professors, judges, and architects. Of special import for this volume are materials by the American Bar Association (ABA), the American Institute of Architects (AIA), the American Law Institute, and the International Association of Procedural Law (IAPL), including:

ABA, Model Codes of Judicial Conduct (1972, 1990, 1997, 2007);

ABA, Coalition for Justice, Special Committee on Funding the Justice System, Saving Our System: A National Overview of the Crisis in America's System of Justice: Report (1992);

Joint Committee on the Design of Courtrooms and Court Facilities, The American Courthouse: Planning and Design for the Judicial Process (Ann Arbor, MI: Edwards Brothers, 1973);

Twenty Years of Courthouse Design Revisited: Supplement to the American Courthouse (Chicago, IL: ABA Judicial Administration Division, National Center for State Courts, State Justice Institute, 1992); Don Harden-bergh, The Courthouse: Planning and Design: A Guide for Court Facilities (Williamsburg, VA: National Center for State Courts, AIA, Conference of State Court Administrators, National Center for Juvenile Justice, and ABA, [illegible]); Don Hardenbergh, Robert W. Tobin, Michael Griebel, and Chang-Ming Yeh, The Courthouse: Planning and Design: A Guide for Court Facilities (Williamsburg, VA: National Center for State Courts, [illegible]); materials presented at conferences and symposia sponsored by the American Institute of Architects (AIA), including its International Conference on Court Design and Planning: Agenda for Affording Excellence: Addressing Court Needs at the Local Level (Phoenix, AZ, [illegible]); and Justice and the City, conference materials (San Diego, CA, [illegible]), presented by the AIA, Committee on Architecture for Justice, in association with the National Center for State Courts and the National Association for Court Management; and commentary by Celeste Bremer and Richard Gilyard, Art in Courthouses: Implications of the Government as Client, from the Sustainable Excellence, Sixth Annual International Conference on Court Design for the AIA (New York, NY, [illegible]); the International Association of Procedural Law (IAPL), The Future of Categories: Categories of the Future (Toronto, Canada, [illegible]).

A few special editions of journals have also informed our work, including Construire pour la justice (Constructing Justice), [illegible] Architecture (May–June [illegible]); and Palazzi di Giustizia (Courthouses), Modiac [illegible] (International Review of Architecture) ([illegible]–[illegible]).

This volume also includes many references to biblical materials, some of which are available through the Yale University online Bible in English Collection. Included in that database are:

The King James Version of the Holy Bible (London, England: Robert Barker, [illegible]);

The Holy Bible Translated from the Latin Vulgat: Diligently compared with the Hebrew, Greek, and other Editions in divers Languages (Richard Challoner, ed., [illegible]);

The Bible: That is, the Holy Scriptures Conteined in the Olde and Newe Testament: Translated According to the Hebrew and Greeks, and Conferred with the Best Translations in Divers Languages (London, England: Christopher Barker, [illegible]);

The Good News Bible with Deuterocanonicals/Apocrypha, Today's English Version (Robert G. Bratcher, trans., New York, NY: American Bible Society, [illegible]);

The Twentieth Century New Testament: A Translation into Modern English Made from the Original Greek (Westcott & Hort's Text) (New York, NY: Fleming H. Revell, [illegible]; revised, [illegible]);

The New English Bible with the Apocrypha (Charles Harold Dodd, ed., Oxford and Cambridge, England: Oxford University Press and Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

We also consulted the Bible Moderne français, [illegible] (Cambridge, MA: Omnisys, [illegible]); Triglot Concordia: The Symbolical Books of the Evangelical Lutheran Church (F. Bente and W. H. T. Dau, trans., St. Louis, MO: Concordia Publishing House, [illegible]); Code of Maimonides (Mishneh Torah) (Yale Judaica Series, Abraham M. Hershman trans., New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, [illegible]); Roman Missal, Compiled by Lawful Authority from the Missale Romanum (Adrian Fortescue, intro., New York, NY: Macmillan, [illegible]); The Holy Qur'an (M. H. Shakir, trans., New York, NY: Tahrike Tarsile Quar'an, [illegible]).

We have also benefited from interviews, in person or by telephone, with Caleb Bach, Jeff Danzinger, Dorothea Rockburne, Jenny Holzer, Ellsworth Kelly, Jan Mitchell, Diana Moore, Ozier Muhammad, and Tom Otterness (all artists whose work is reproduced in this volume), as well as from discussions with numerous judges and justices, court administrators, and government officials in jurisdictions around the world.

Books, Monographs, Articles, and Dissertations

Abbondanza, Roberto. Jurisprudence: The Methodology of Andrea Alciato, in The Late Italian Renaissance, [illegible] (Eric Cochrane, ed., London, England: Macmillan, [illegible]).

Abel, Richard. The Legal Profession in England and Wales (Oxford, England: Blackwell, [illegible]).

[illegible]. English Lawyers: Between Market and State (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Abrams, Brett L. Capital Sporting Grounds: A History of Stadium and Ballpark Construction in Washington, DC (Jefferson, NC: McFarland & Co., [illegible]).

Ackerman, Bruce. We the People, vol. [illegible]: Transformations (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, [illegible]).

Ackerman, Bruce, and James S. Fishkin. Deliberation Day (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, [illegible]).

Ackerman, John M., and Irma E. Sandoval-Ballesteros. The Global Explosion of Freedom of Information Laws, [illegible] Administrative Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Adams, Julia. The Familial State: Ruling Families and Merchant Capitalism in Early Modern Europe (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, [illegible]).

Adcock, F. E. Literary Tradition and Early Greek Code-Makers, [illegible] Cambridge Historical Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Adkins, Nelson F. [illegible]reene Gallecker[illegible]n Earl[illegible]nickerbocker Wit and Poet (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, [illegible]).

Agnew, John A., and James S. Duncan (eds.). The Power of Place: Bringing Together Geographical and Sociological Imaginations (Boston, MA: Unwin Hyman, [illegible]).

Agulhon, Maurice. Marianne into Battle: Republican Imagery and Symbolism in France, [illegible] (Janet Lloyd, trans., Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Alciatus, Andreas. Livret des emblemes de Maistre Andre Alciat, Mis en rime francoise (Paris, France: Chrestien Wechel, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Emblemata, in Opera omnia, vol. [illegible] (Basilae: apud Thomam Guarinum, [illegible]).

[illegible]. The Latin Emblems: Indexes and Emblematicus, vols. [illegible] (Peter M. Daly, ed., Toronto, Canada: University of Toronto Press, [illegible]).

Allott, Philip. The Health of Nations: Society and Law Beyond the State (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Alston, Philip (ed.). The [illegible] and Human Rights (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Alston, Philip, and Olivier de Schutter. Monitoring Fundamental Rights in the [illegible]: The Contribution of the Fundamental Rights Agency (Portland, OR: Hart Publishing, [illegible]).

Altbeker, Antony. A Country at War with Itself: South Africa's Crisis of Crime (Johannesburg, South Africa: Jonathan Ball Publishers, [illegible]).

Alvarez, Jose E. International Organizations as Law-makers (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Amar, Akhil R. The Bill of Rights and the Fourteenth Amendment, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

American Law Institute. A Study of the Business of the Federal Courts, vols. I and II (Philadelphia, PA: American Law Institute, [illegible]).

Anderson, Benedict. Imagined Communities: Reflections on the Origin and Spread of Nationalism (London, England: Verso, [illegible], reissued [illegible]).

Anderson, David. Modern Law of the Sea: Selected Essays (Boston, MA: Martinus Nijhoff, [illegible]).

Anderson, Joseph F. Jr. Hidden from the Public by Order of the Court: The Case Against Government-Enforced Secrecy, [illegible] South Carolina Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Secrecy in the Courts: At the Tipping Point, [illegible] Villanova Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Andrews, Neil. English Civil Procedure: Fundamentals of the New Civil Justice System (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Andrews, William L. The Journey of Iconophiles around New York in Search of the Historical and Picturesque (New York, NY: Gilliss Press, [illegible]).

Anreus, Alejandro. Goya in Spain and Spanish The Years in New York (Albuquerque, NM: University of New Mexico Press, [illegible]).

Aptekar, Jane. Icons of Justice: Iconography and Thematic Imagery in Book [illegible] of the Faerie Queene (New York, NY: Columbia University Press, [illegible]).

Aquinas, Thomas. Disputed Questions on Virtue (Ralph McInerny, trans. and preface, South Bend, IN: St. Augustine's Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. The Cardinal Virtues, Prudence, Justice, Fortitude, and Temperance (Richard J. Regan ed. and trans., Indianapolis, IN: Hackett Publishing, [illegible]).

Archer, Madeline C. The Illustrated Bartsch [illegible], The Italian Masters of the Sixteenth Century (New York, NY: Abaris Books, [illegible]).

Arendt, Hannah. The Origins of Totalitarianism (New York, NY: Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, [illegible]; first published [illegible]).

Armstrong, Isobel. Victorian Glassworlds: Glass Culture and the Imagination [illegible] (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Arnold, Linda. Vulgar and Elegant: Politics and Procedure in Early National Mexico, [illegible] Americas [illegible] ([illegible]).

Arnold, Richard S. Unpublished Opinions: A Comment, [illegible] Journal of Appellate Practice and Process [illegible] ([illegible]).

Asimow, Michael. The Administrative Judiciary: ALJ's in Historical Perspective, [illegible] Journal of the National Association of Administrative Judges [illegible] ([illegible]).

. The Spreading Umbrella: Extending the APA's Adjudication Provisions to All Evidentiary Hearings Required by Statute, Administrative Law Review ().

Askin, Kelly D. Reflections on Some of the Most Significant Achievements of the ICTY, New England Law Review ().

Aste, Richard, Janet Cox-Rearick, and Bertha and Karl Leubsdorf Art Gallery. Giulio Romano, Master Designer: An Exhibition of Drawings in Celebration of the Five Hundredth Anniversary of His Birth (New York, NY and Seattle, WA: Bertha and Karl Leubsdorf Art Gallery, Hunter College of City University of New York and University of Washington Press,).

Astor, Hilary, and Christine M. Chinkin (eds.). Dispute Resolution in Australia (Sydney, Australia: Butterworths,).

Austin, Regina. Sapphire Bound, Wisconsin Law Review .

Bagehot, Walter. The English Constitution (London, England: Oxford University Press, ; reprint by Gaunt, Holmes Beach, FL,).

Bagley, Ayers L., Edward M. Griffin, and Austin J. McLean (eds.). The Telling: Explorations in the Emblem (New York, NY: AMS Press,).

Bailey, Joyce Waddell. José Clemente Orozco (–): Formative Years in the Narrative Graphic Tradition, Latin American Research Review ().

Baker, C. Edwin, Media Concentration and Democracy: Why Ownership Matters (New York, NY: Cambridge University Press,).

Bakhtin, Mikhail. Rabelais and His World (Helene Iswolsky, trans., Bloomington, IN: Indiana University Press,).

Baldus, David C., George Woodworth, David Zuckerman, Neil A. Weiner, and Barbara Broffitt. Racial Discrimination and the Death Penalty in the Post-Furman Era: An Empirical and Legal Overview, with Recent Findings from Philadelphia, Cornell Law Review ().

Bale, Anthony. The Jew in the Medieval Book: English Antisemitisms, (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press,).

Balfe, Judith H., and Margaret J. Wyszomirski. Public Art and Public Policy Journal of Arts Management and Law (Winter).

Balkin, Jack M., & Sanford Levinson, The Processes of Constitutional Change: From Partisan Entrenchment to the National Surveillance State, Fordham Law Review ().

Ball, Milner S. The Play's the Thing: An Unscientific Reflection on Courts under the Rubric of Theater, Stanford Law Review ().

Balousek, Marv. Wisconsin's Historic Courthouses (Oregon, WI: Badger Books,).

Banaszak, Ronald A. Fair Trial Rights of the Accused: A Documentary History (Westport, CT: Greenwood Publishing Group,).

Barak, Aharon. Supreme Court, Term: Foreword: A Judge on Judging: The Role of a Supreme Court in a Democracy, Harvard Law Review ().

Baralt, Guillermo A. History of the Federal Court in Puerto Rico (Janis Palma, trans., Hato Rey, Puerto Rico: Publication Puertorriquenas,).

Barasch, Moshe. Blindness: The History of a Mental Image in Western Thought (New York, NY: Routledge,).

Barnouw, Adriaan J. The Fantasy of Pieter Bruegel (New York, NY: Lear Publishers,).

Barry, Brian. Justice as Impartiality, vol. in A Treatise on Social Justice (Oxford, England: Clarendon Press,).

Bartels, Larry M. Unequal Democracy: The Political Economy of the New Gilded Age (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press,).

Bassett, Debra L., and Rex R. Perschbacher. The End of Law, Boston University Law Review ().

Bassiouni, M. Cherif, and Michael W. Hanna. Ceding the High Ground: The Iraqi High Criminal Court Statute and the Trial of Saddam Hussein, Case Western Reserve Journal of International Law ().

Bate, Heidi E. The Measures of Men: Virtue and the Arts in the Civic Imagery of Sixteenth-Century Nuremberg (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of History, University of California, Berkeley, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

Bath, Michael. Speaking Pictures: English Emblem Books and Renaissance Culture (London, England: Longman,).

Bauer, Carlos G. The Observance of Human Rights and the Structure of the System for Their Protection in the Western Hemisphere, American University Law Review ().

Baum, Lawrence, Sheldon Goldman, and Austin Sarat. The Evolution of Litigation in the Federal Court of Appeals, –, Law & Society Review ().

Beattie, Susan. The New Sculpture (New Haven, CT: Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art and Yale University Press,).

Beck, James. Raphael: The Stanza della Segnatura (New York, NY: George Braziller,).

Beckham, Sue B. Depression Post Office Murals and Southern Culture: A Gentle Reconstruction (Baton Rouge, LA: Louisiana State University Press,).

Bell, John. Judiciaries within Europe: A Comparative Review (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press,).

Bels, Marie. L'image architecturale de la Justice (The Architectural Image of Justice) (Paris, France: Ministère de la Justice, Délégation Générale au Programme Pluriannuel d'Équipement,).

Belting, Hans. The End of the History of Art (Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press,).

Ben-Dor, Oren. Constitutional Limits and the Public Sphere (Oxford, England: Hart Publishing,).

Benhabib, Seyla. The Claims of Culture, Equality and Diversity in the Global Era (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press,).

. The Rights of Others: Aliens, Residents, and Citizens (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press,).

Bentham, Jeremy. The Works of Jeremy Bentham, vols. , , , (John Bowring, ed., Edinburgh, Scotland: William Tait,).

. The Collected Works of Jeremy Bentham: Legislator of the World: Writings on Codification, Law, and Education (Philip Schofield and Jonathan Harris, eds., Oxford, England: Oxford University Press,).

Beresford, Stuart. In Pursuit of International Justice: The First Four-Year Term of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, Tulsa Journal of Comparative & International Law ().

Bergeron, David M. The Elizabethan Lord Mayor's Show, Studies in English Literature, , ().

. English Civic Pageantry (London, England: Edward Arnold,).

Berkowitz, Beth. Negotiating Violence and the Word in Rabbinic Law, Yale Journal of Law & the Humanities ().

Berkson, Larry C., Scott Beller, and Michele Grimaldi. Judicial Selection in the United States: A Compendium of Provisions (Chicago, IL: American Judicature Society,).

Bernstein, Lisa. Opting Out of the Legal System: Extralegal Contractual Relations in the Diamond Industry, Journal of Legal Studies ().

Bibas, Stephanos. Plea Bargaining outside the Shadow of Trial, Harvard Law Review ().

Biddle, George. An American Artist's Story (Boston, MA: Little, Brown and Company,).

Bingham, Lisa Blomgren, Tina Nabatchi, Jeffrey M. Senger, and Michael Scott Jackman. Dispute Resolution and the Vanishing Trial: Comparing Federal Government Litigation and ADR Outcomes, Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution ().

Biscardi, Francine. The Historical Development of the Law Concerning Judicial Report Publication, Law Library Journal ().

Black, Michael. Representations of Justice, Journal of Social Change and Critical Inquiry (online).

Black, Patti C. Art in Mississippi, (Jackson, MS: University Press of Mississippi,).

Blankert, Albert. Gods, Saints and Heroes: Dutch Painting in the Age of Rembrandt (Washington, DC: National Gallery of Art,).

. Ferdinand Bol: Rembrandt's Pupil (Doornspijk, Netherlands: Davaco Publishers,).

Blanning, Tim. The Pursuit of Glory: Europe (New York, NY: Viking,).

Bletter, Rosemarie H. The Interpretation of the Glass Dream: Expressionist Architecture and the History of the Crystal Metaphor, Society of Architectural Historians ().

Bloch, Susan L. The Early Role of the Attorney General in Our Constitutional Scheme: In the Beginning There Was Pragmatism, Duke Law Journal .

Bloomfield, Morton W. The Seven Deadly Sins: An Introduction to the History of a Religious Concept, with Special Reference to Medieval English Literature (East Lansing, MI: Michigan State College Press,).

Blumenson, Eric. The Challenge of a Global Standard of Justice: Peace, Pluralism, and Punishment at the International Criminal Court, Columbia Journal of Transnational Law ().

Bodenhamer, David J. Fair Trial: Rights of the Accused in American History (New York, NY: Oxford University Press,).

Bodin, Jean. Six Books of the Commonwealth (M. J. Tooley, trans. and abridgment, New York, NY: Barnes and Noble,).

. On Sovereignty: Four Chapters from the Six Books of the Commonwealth (Julian H. Franklin, ed. and trans., Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press,).

Bogart, Michele H. In Search of a United Front: American Architectural Sculpture at the Turn of the Century, Winterthur Portolio ().

Boholm, Asa. The Doge of Venice: The Symbolism of State Power in the Renaissance (Gothenburg, Sweden: Institute for Advanced Studies in Cultural Anthropology,).

Bok, Sissela. Kant's Arguments in Support of the Maxim "Do What Is Right Though the World Should Perish," Argumentation ().

Bäcker, Uwe, and Julie A. Hibbard (eds.). Sites of Discourse: Public and Private Spheres: Legal Culture (Amsterdam, Netherlands: Rodopi,).

Bolgar, R. R. (ed.). Classical Influences on European Culture AD (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press,).

Bongiorno, Laurine M. The Theme of the Old and the New Law in the Arena Chapel, Art Bulletin ().

Borchard, Edwin M. The Permanent Court of International Justice, Proceedings of the Academy of Political Science in the City of New York ().

Bourdieu, Pierre. The Force of Law: Toward a Sociology of the Juridical Field, Hastings Law Journal (Richard Terdiman, trans.,).

. Participant Objectivation, Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute ().

Bourdieu, Pierre, and Loïc J. D. Wacquant. An Invitation to Reflexive Sociology (Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press,).

Boyle, Alan E. The Settlement of Disputes Relating to the Law of the Sea and the Environment, International Justice (Kalliopi Koufa, ed.,).

Braithwaite, John. Restorative Justice and Responsive Regulation (New York, NY: Oxford University Press,).

Brant, Sebastian. The Ship of Fools, Translated into Rhyming Couplets with Introduction and Commentary (Edwin H. Zeydel) (New York, NY: Columbia University Press,).

Brazil, Wayne D. Comparing Structures for the Delivery of ADR Services by Courts: Critical Values and Concerns, Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution ().

. Court ADR Years after Pound: Have We Found a Better Way? Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution ().

Brilmayer, Lea. From "Contract" to "Pledge": The Structure of International Human Rights Agreements, British Yearbook of International Law ().

Brinton, Jasper Y. The Mixed Courts of Egypt (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press,).

Brockman, Joan, and Dorothy Chunn (eds.). Investigating Gender Bias: Law, Courts and the Legal Profession (Toronto, Canada: Thompson Educational Publishing,).

Brooks, C. W. Interpersonal Conflict and Social Tension: Civil Litigation in England, –, in The First Modern Society: Essays in English History in Honour of Lawrence Stone (A. L. Beier, David Cannadine, and James M. Rosenheim, eds., Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press,).

Broude, Norma, and Mary D. Garrard (eds.). Feminism and Art History: Questioning the Litany (New York, NY: Harper Row,).

. (eds.). Reclaiming Female Agency: Feminist Art History after Postmodernism (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press,).

Browning, J. Robert. Spectacle and the Public Sphere in Seventeenth-Century England (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of English, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

Bryde, Brun-Otto. International Democratic Constitutionalism, in Towards World Constitutionalism: Issues in the Legal Ordering of the World Community (Ronald St. John Macdonald and Douglas M. Johnson, eds., Boston, MA: Martinus Nijhoff,).

Buchbinder-Green, Barbara J. The Painted Decorations of the Town Hall of Amsterdam (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art History, Northwestern University, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

Bucholz, R. O. "Nothing but Ceremony": Queen Anne and the Limitations of Royal Ritual, Journal of British Studies ().

Buergenthal, Thomas. The American and European Conventions on Human Rights: Similarities and Differences, American University Law Review ().

. Human Rights in the Americas: View from the Inter-American Court, Connecticut Journal of International Law ().

Burbank, Stephen B. The Rules Enabling Act of , University of Pennsylvania Law Review ().

Burbank, Stephen B., and Barry Friedman (eds.). Judicial Independence at the Crossroads: An Interdisciplinary Approach (Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage Publications,).

Burger, Warren E. School for Judges, Federal Rules Decisions ().

Burke, Thomas F. Lawyers, Lawsuits, and Legal Rights: The Battle over Litigation in American Society (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press,).

Burris, Suzanne L. Pieter Bruegel the Elder's Apocalyptic Fortitude (M.A. thesis, University of North Texas, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

Bushong, William B. Glenn Brown, the American Institute of Architects, and the Development of the Civic Core of Washington, D.C., (Ph.D. dissertation, George Washington University, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

Butler, Sara A. Constructing New Deal America: Public Art and Architecture and Institutional Legitimacy (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Architectural History, University of Virginia, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

Bybee, Keith J. (ed.). Bench Press: The Collision of Courts, Politics, and the Media (Stanford, CA: Stanford University Press,).

Cabanne, Pierre. Gérard Fromanger (Paris, France: Expressions Contemporarines,).

Cable, Carole. The Courthouse and the Law Court: Their Design and Construction (Monticello, IL: Vance Bibliographies, Architecture Series: Bibliography [illegible]A-[illegible], [illegible]).

Cabra, Marco G. M. Rights and Duties Established by the American Convention on Human Rights, [illegible] merican [illegible]niversit[illegible] Law [illegible]eview [illegible] ([illegible]).

Caldwell, Wilber W. The Courthouse and the Depot[illegible]The [illegible]rchitecture of [illegible]ope in an [illegible]e of Despair[illegible] Narrative [illegible]uide to [illegible]ailroad [illegible]pan[illegible]sion and [illegible]s [illegible]mpact on Pu[illegible]lic [illegible]rchitecture in [illegible]eor[illegible]ia, [illegible] (Macon, GA: Mercer University Press, [illegible]).

Calhoun, Craig (ed.). [illegible]a[illegible]ermas and the Pu[illegible]lic Sphere* (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]).

Callaghan, James E. Reason and Faith in Renaissance Rome: The Stanza della Segnatura (Ph.D. dissertation, Temple University, Philadelpha, PA, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]).

Calleros, Juan C. The [illegible]nfinished Transition to Democrac[illegible] in Latin [illegible]merica (New York, NY: Routledge, [illegible]).

Camille, Michael. The [illegible]othic [illegible]dol[illegible]deolo[illegible] and [illegible]na[illegible]e[illegible]makin[illegible] in Medieval [illegible]rt (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Cam[illegible]h, H[illegible]ctor A., and Lorenzo Meyer. [illegible]n the Shadow of the Me[illegible]ican [illegible]evolution[illegible] Contemporar[illegible] Me[illegible]ican [illegible]istor[illegible]* [illegible] (Luis A. Fierro, trans., Austin, TX: University of Texas Press, [illegible]).

Campbell, Thomas P. (ed.). Tapestr[illegible] in the Baro[illegible]ue[illegible]Threads of Splen[illegible]dor (New York, NY, and New Haven, CT: Metropolitan Museum of Art and Yale University Press, [illegible]).

Cannadine, David. The Transformation of Civic Ritual in Modern Britain: The Colchester Oyster Feast, [illegible] Past [illegible] Present [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cape, Robert W. Jr. Cicero and the Development of Prudential Practice, in Prudence[illegible]Classical [illegible]irtue, Postmodern Practice (Robert Hariman, ed., University Park, PA: Pennsylvania State University Press, [illegible]).

Capers, I. Bennett. On Justitia, Race, Gender, and Blindness, [illegible] Michi[illegible]an Journal of [illegible]ace and Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Capitanucci, Maria V. Domini[illegible]ue Perrault[illegible]ecent Works (Milan, Italy: Skira editore, [illegible]).

Cappelletti, Mauro (ed.). [illegible]ccess to Justice and the Welfare State (Alphen aan den Rijn, Netherlands: Sijthoff, [illegible]).

Cappelletti, Mauro, and Bryant Garth (eds.). [illegible]ccess to Justice[illegible] World Surve[illegible] (Milan, Italy: Dott. A. Giuffr[illegible] Editore, [illegible]).

Cappio, Gretchen F. Erosion of the Indigenous Right to Negotiate in Australia: Proposed Amendments to the Native Title Act, [illegible] Pacific [illegible]im Law [illegible] Polic[illegible] Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Caron, David D. The Nature of the Iran–United States Claims Tribunal and the Evolving Structure of International Dispute Resolution, [illegible] [illegible]merican Journal of [illegible]nternational Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Carroll, Christina M. An Assessment of the Role and Effectiveness of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda and the Rwandan National Justice System in Dealing with the Mass Atrocities of [illegible], [illegible] Boston [illegible]niversit[illegible]nternational Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Carter, Dan T. Scotts[illegible]oro[illegible] Tra[illegible]ed[illegible] of the [illegible]merican South (Baton Rouge, LA: Louisiana State University Press, [illegible]).

Cassani, Silvia. Luca [illegible]iordano, [illegible] (Naples, Italy: Electra Napoli, [illegible]).

Cerna, Christina M. The Inter-American Commission of Human Rights, [illegible] Connecticut Journal of [illegible]nternational Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Chambers, David S. The [illegible]nperial [illegible]e of [illegible]enice, [illegible] (London, England: Thames [illegible] Hudson).

Chandler, Henry P. Some Major Advances in the Federal Judicial System, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] [illegible]ederal [illegible]ules Decision [illegible] ([illegible]).

Charney, Jonathan I. Is International Law Threatened by Multiple International Tribunals[illegible] [illegible] [illegible]ecueil des Cours [illegible] ([illegible]).

Chase, Oscar G. Law, Culture, and [illegible]itual[illegible]Disputin[illegible] S[illegible]stems in Cross[illegible] Cultural Conte[illegible]t (New York, NY: New York University Press, [illegible]).

Chase, Oscar G., Helen Hershkoff, Linda Silberman, Yasuhei Taniguchi, Vincenzo Varano, and Adrian Zuckerman (eds.). Civil Liti[illegible]ation in Comparative Conte[illegible]t (St. Paul, MN: Thomson West, [illegible]).

Cheney, Liana de Girolami. Giorgio Vasari's Astraea: A Symbol of Justice, [illegible] [illegible]isual [illegible]esources [illegible] ([illegible]).

Christen, Barbara S., and Steven Flanders (eds.). Cass [illegible]il[illegible]ert, Life and Work[illegible]rchitect of the Pu[illegible]lic Domain (New York, NY: W. W. Norton [illegible] Company, [illegible]).

Christin, Olivier. Les [illegible]eu[illegible] pour le croire, les Di[illegible] Commandements en [illegible]ma[illegible]es, [illegible]e[illegible]e Si[illegible]cles (Paris, France: Seuil, [illegible]).

Christopher, Warren, and Richard M. Mosk. The Iranian Hostage Crisis and the Iran–U.S. Claims Tribunal: Implications for International Dispute Resolution and Diplomacy, [illegible] Pepperdine Dispute [illegible]esolution Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Churchill, R. R., and A.V. Lowe. The Law of the Sea (Manchester, England: Manchester University Press, [illegible], [illegible]d ed.).

Cicero. De o[illegible] ciis with an [illegible]n[illegible]lish Translation [illegible] Walter Miller (London, England, and New York, NY: William Heinemann and Putnam, [illegible]).

[illegible] . Cicero in Twent[illegible]in[illegible]ht [illegible]olumes, [illegible] De natura deorum acad[illegible]emica, with an [illegible]n[illegible]lish Translation [illegible] arris [illegible]ackham (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, [illegible]).

Claman, Henry N. Jewish [illegible]na[illegible]es in the Christian Church[illegible]rt as Mir[illegible]ror of the Jewish[illegible]Christian Con[illegible]ict, [illegible] C[illegible] (Macon, GA: Mercer University Press, [illegible]).

Clark, David S. Adjudication to Administration: A Statistical Analysis of Federal District Courts in the Twentieth Century, [illegible] South[illegible]ern California Law [illegible]eview [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible] . Civil Litigation, Access to Justice, and Social Change: Research Issues in Longitudinal Court Studies, [illegible] Southern [illegible]linois [illegible]niver[illegible]sit[illegible] Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]–[illegible]).

[illegible] . Civil and Administrative Courts and Procedure, Supplement to U.S. Law in an Era of Democratization, [illegible] [illegible]merican Journal of Comparative Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Clayton, Martin. Canaletto in [illegible]enice (London, England: Royal Collection Publications, [illegible]).

Clover, Carol J. Regardless of Sex: Men, Women, and Power in Early Northern Europe, [illegible] Speculum [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cobb, Henry N. The Shape of Justice[illegible]Law and [illegible]rchitecture (White Plains, NY: Historical Society of the Courts of New York and Court of Appeals of the State of New York, [illegible]).

Coffee, John C. Jr. Class Action Accountability: Reconciling Exit, Voice, and Loyalty in Representative Litigation, [illegible] Colum[illegible]ia Law [illegible]eview [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cohen, Amy J. Revisiting Against Settlement: Some Reflections on Dispute Resolution and Public Values, [illegible] [illegible]ordham Law [illegible]eview [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cohen, David. [illegible]Hybrid[illegible]Justice in East Timor, Sierra Leone, and Cambodia: [illegible]Lessons Learned[illegible]and Prospects for the Future, [illegible] Stanford Journal of [illegible]nternational Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cohen, Morris L., Robert C. Berring, and Kent C. Olson (eds.). [illegible]ow to [illegible]ind the Law (St. Paul, MN: West, [illegible], [illegible]th ed.).

Cole, Bruce. Sienese Paintin[illegible]rom [illegible]s [illegible]ri[illegible]ins to the [illegible]ifteenth Centur[illegible] (New York, NY: Harper [illegible] Row, [illegible]).

Cole, John, and Francis Cole. [illegible] [illegible]eo[illegible]raph[illegible] of the [illegible]uropean [illegible]nion (London, England: Routledge, [illegible], [illegible]d ed.).

Coleman, Janet (ed.). The [illegible]ndividual in Political Theor[illegible] and Practice (London, England: Clarendon Press, [illegible]).

Coll, Alberto R. Normative Prudence as a Tradition of Statecraft, [illegible] [illegible]thics and [illegible]nternational [illegible]airs [illegible] ([illegible]).

Colton, Judith. Luca Giordano, [illegible]–[illegible], in [illegible] Taste for [illegible]n[illegible]el[illegible] Neapolitan Paintin[illegible]in North [illegible]merica, [illegible] (New Haven, CT: Yale University Art Gallery, [illegible]).

Contini, Francesco, and Giovan F. Lanzara (eds.). [illegible]CT and [illegible]nnovation in the Pu[illegible]lic Sector[illegible]uropean Studies in the Makin[illegible] of [illegible]overn[illegible]ment (Hampshire, England: Palgrave Macmillan, [illegible]).

Contini, Francesco, and Richard Mohr. Judicial Evaluation: Traditions, Innovations and Proposals for Measuring the Quality of Court Performance (Saarbrücken, Germany: VDM Verlag, [illegible]).

Contreras, Belisario R. Tradition and Innovation in New Deal Art (Lewisburg, PA: Bucknell University Press, [illegible]).

Coplin, William D., and J. Martin Rochester. The Permanent Court of International Justice, the International Court of Justice, the League of Nations, and the United Nations: A Comparative Empirical Survey, [illegible] American Political Science Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Corbett, Michael R. Continuity and Change in California Courthouse Design, [illegible]–[illegible], in Courthouses of California: An Illustrated History (Ray McDevitt, ed., San Francisco, CA and Berkeley, CA: California Historical Society and Heyday Books, [illegible]).

Correa, Catalina Pérez. Distrust and Disobedience: Discourse and Practice in the Law of Mexico, [illegible] University of Puerto Rico Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cover, Robert M. The Supreme Court [illegible] Term: Foreword: Nomos and Narrative, [illegible] Harvard Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. The Folktales of Justice: Tales of Jurisdiction, [illegible] Capital University Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Violence and the Word, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cover, Robert M., and T. Alexander Aleinikoff. Dialectical Federalism: Habeas Corpus and the Court, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cover, Robert M., and Owen Fiss (eds.). The Structure of Procedure (Mineola, NY: Foundation Press, [illegible]).

Craig, Lois. The Federal Presence: Architecture, Politics, and Symbols in United States Government Building (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]).

Cranston, Ross. How Law Works: The Machinery and Impact of Civil Justice (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Crary, Jonathan. Techniques of the Observer: On Vision and Modernity in the Nineteenth Century (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Suspensions of Perception: Attention, Spectacle, and Modern Culture (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, [illegible]).

Crockett, George W. Jr. Racism in the Courts, [illegible] Journal of Public Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Crook, J. A. Legal Advocacy in the Roman World (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, [illegible]).

Cross, Marion. Minnesota Courthouses (Minneapolis, MN: National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Minnesota, [illegible]).

Curtis, Dennis E., and Judith Resnik. Images of Justice, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cutler, Brian L., and Steven D. Penrod. Mistaken Identification: The Eyewitness, Psychology, and the Law (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Cutler, Fred. Jeremy Bentham and the Public Opinion Tribunal, [illegible] Public Opinion Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]).

Cuzin, Jean-Pierre. Raphael: His Life and Works (Sarah Brown, trans., Secaucus, NJ: Chartwell Books, [illegible]).

Dakolias, Maria, and Javier Said. Judicial Reform: A Process of Change through Pilot Courts (Washington, DC: International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, [illegible]).

Daly, Peter M. (ed.). Andrea Alciato and the Emblem Tradition: Essays in Honor of Virginia Woods Callahan (New York, NY: AMS Press, [illegible]).

Damaška, Miriam. The Faces of Justice and State Authority: A Comparative Approach to the Legal Process (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, [illegible]).

Dammann, Jens, and Henry Hansmann. Globalizing Commercial Litigation, [illegible] Cornell Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Damrosch, Lori F. (ed.). The International Court of Justice at a Crossroads (Dobbs Ferry, NY: Transnational, [illegible]).

Daskalopoulou-Livada, Phane. The International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, [illegible] International Justice [illegible] (Kalliopi Koufa, ed., [illegible]).

Davies, Geoffrey L. Civil Justice Reform: Some Common Problems, Some Possible Solutions, [illegible] Journal of Judicial Administration [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Civil Justice Reform: Why We Need to Question Some Basic Assumptions, [illegible] Civil Justice Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]).

Davis, Natalie Z. The Gift in Sixteenth-Century France (Madison, WI: University of Wisconsin Press, [illegible]).

de Abranches, Carlos A. Dunshee. The Inter-American Court of Human Rights, [illegible] American University Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

de Búrca, Gráinne, and Joseph Weiler. The European Court of Justice (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

de Bure, Gilles. Dominique Perrault: Court of Justice of the European Communities (Paris, France: Terrail, [illegible]).

de Bustamante, Antonio Sanchez. The World Court (Elizabeth F. Read, trans., New York, NY: Macmillan, [illegible]).

de Lairesse, Gérard. The Art of Painting (London, England: Printed for S. Vandenbergh, [illegible]).

de Montesquieu, Baron (Charles de Secondat). The Spirit of the Laws (Kitchener, Ontario: Batoche, [illegible], reprinting a [illegible] translation by Thomas Nugent).

de Smith, S. A. The Right to a Hearing in English Administrative Law, [illegible] Harvard Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

de Tolnay, Charles. The Drawings of Pieter Bruegel the Elder with a Critical Catalogue (New York, NY: Twin Editions, [illegible]).

de Vries, Lyckle. Gerard de Lairesse: An Artist between Stage and Studio (Amsterdam, Netherlands: Amsterdam University Press, [illegible]).

Dean, Clay, Theresa Fairbanks, and Lisa Pon (eds.). Changing Impressions: Marcantonio Raimondi & Sixteenth-Century Print Connoisseurship (New Haven, CT: Yale University Art Gallery, [illegible]).

Degenaar, Marjolein. Moiré Neurons: Problem: Three Centuries of Discussion on the Perception of Forms (Michael J. Collins, trans., Dordrecht, Netherlands: Kluwer Academic Publishers, [illegible]).

Delanty, Gerard, and Paul R. Jones. European Identity and Architecture, [illegible] European Journal of Social Theory [illegible] ([illegible]).

Demaine, Linda J., and Deborah R. Hensler. "Volunteering" to Arbitrate through Predispute Arbitration Clauses: The Average Consumer's Experience, [illegible] Law and Contemporary Problems [illegible] ([illegible]).

Deonna, Waldemar. La Justice à l'Hôtel de Ville de Genève et la fresque des juges aux mains coupées, [illegible] Revue Suisse d'Art et d'Archéologie [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Les Fresques de la Maison de Ville de Genève, [illegible] Revue Suisse d'Art et d'Archéologie [illegible] ([illegible]).

Depambour Tarride, Laurence. Étude sur les oeuvres créées au titre du [illegible] artistique dans les palais de justice réalisés par la délégation générale au programme pluriannuel d'équipement depuis [illegible] et Essai sur le renouvellement de la symbolique judiciaire (Study Concerning Works Created in Courthouses under the [illegible] Art Provision since [illegible] and Essay on the Renewal of Justice Symbolism) (Paris, France: Agence de Maitrise d'Ouvrage des Travaux du Ministère de la Justice, [illegible]).

Desai, Anuj C. The Transformation of Statutes into Constitutional Law: How Early Post Office Policy Shaped Modern First Amendment Doctrine, [illegible] Pepperdine Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Devereaux, Simon. The City and the Sessions Paper: "Public Justice" in London, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] Journal of British Studies [illegible] ([illegible]).

Dezalay, Yves, and Bryant G. Garth. Dealing in Virtue: International Commercial Arbitration and the Construction of a Transnational Legal Order (Chicago, IL: Chicago University Press, [illegible]).

Diderot, Denis. Oeuvres Complètes (Paris, France: Le Club Français du Livre, [illegible]).

Diodorus. The Historical Library of Diodorus the Sicilian in Fifteen Books to Which Are Added the Fragments of Diodorus (George Booth, trans., London, England: W. McDowell, [illegible]).

Dolovich, Sharon. State Punishment and Private Prisons, ⌧⌧ Duke Law Journal ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Domingo, Pilar. Judicial Independence: The Politics of the Supreme Court in Mexico, ⌧⌧ Journal of Latin ⌧merican Studies ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Donaldson, Ian. The ⌧apes of Lucretia⌧⌧ M⌧th and ⌧s Transformations (Oxford, England: Clarendon Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Dor⌧, Laurie Kratky. Public Courts versus Private Justice: It's Time to Let Some Sun Shine in on Alternative Dispute Resolution, ⌧⌧ Chica⌧o⌧⌧ent Law ⌧eview ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Dougan, Michael. National ⌧emedies ⌧efore the Court of Justice⌧⌧ssues of ⌧armonisation and Di⌧erentiation (Oxford, England: Hart Publishing, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Douzinas, Costas, and Lynda Nead (eds.). Law and the ⌧ma⌧e⌧ The ⌧uthorit⌧ of ⌧rt and the ⌧esthetics of Law (Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Doyle, Richard E. ⌧th⌧⌧s ⌧se and Meanin⌧, ⌧ Stud⌧ in the ⌧reek Poetic Tradition from ⌧omer to ⌧uripides (New York, NY: Fordham University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Draper, Anthony J. ⌧Corruptions in the Administration of Justice⌧: Bentham's Critique of Civil Procedure, ⌧⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧ Journal of Bentham Studies (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

du Bois, Fran⌧ois, and Antje du Bois-Pedain (eds.). Justice and ⌧econ⌧ ciliation in Post⌧⌧partheid South ⌧frica (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Duff, Antony, Lindsay Farmer, Sandra Marshall, and Victor Tadros (eds.). The Trial on Trial, vol. ⌧: Truth and Due Process (Portland, OR: Hart Publishing, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . (eds.). The Trial on Trial, vol. ⌧: Jud⌧ment and Callin⌧ to ⌧ccount (Portland, OR: Hart Publishing, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . (eds.). The Trial on Trial, vol. ⌧: Towards a Normative Theor⌧ of the Criminal Trial (Oxford, England: Hart Publishing, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Dunseath, T. K. Spenser⌧⌧ lle⌧or⌧ of Justice in Book ⌧ive of the ⌧aerie ⌧ueene (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Dykstra, Yoshiko K. Tales of the Compassionate Kannon: The Hasedera Kannon Genki, ⌧⌧ Monumenta Nipponica ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Eber, Dorothy H. ⌧ma⌧es of Justice⌧⌧ Le⌧al ⌧istor⌧ of the Northwest Territories as Traced throu⌧h the ⌧ellowknife Courthouse Collection of ⌧nuit Sculpture (Montreal, Canada: McGill-Queens' University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Edgerton, Samuel Y. Jr. Pictures and Punishment⌧⌧rt and Criminal Prosecution durin⌧ the ⌧lorentine ⌧enaissance (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . When Even Artists Encouraged the Death Penalty: Symposium on the Art of Execution, ⌧⌧ Law and Literature ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Eisenberg, Theodore, and Charlotte Lanvers. What Is the Settlement Rate and Why Should We Care⌧, ⌧ Journal of ⌧mpirical Le⌧al Stud⌧ ies ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Eisenberg, Theodore, Geoffrey P. Miller, and Emily Sherwin. Arbitration's Summer Soldiers: An Empirical Study of Arbitration Clauses in Consumer and Nonconsumer Contracts, ⌧⌧ ⌧niversit⌧ of Michi⌧ ⌧an Journal of Law ⌧eform ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Ellenius, Allan (ed.). ⌧cono⌧raph⌧ Propa⌧anda, and Le⌧itimation (Oxford, England: Clarendon Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Ellickson, Robert. ⌧rder without Law⌧⌧ ow Nei⌧h⌧ors Settle Disputes (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Elliott, E. Donald, and Sanjay A. Narayan. Administrative ⌧Health Courts⌧ for Medical Injury Claims; The Federal Constitutional Issues, ⌧⌧ Journal of ⌧ealth, Politics, Polic⌧ and Law ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Engelmann, Stephen G. ⌧Indirect Legislation⌧: Bentham's Liberal Government, ⌧⌧ Polit⌧ ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Erichson, Howard M. Court-Ordered Confidentiality in Discovery, ⌧⌧ Chica⌧o⌧⌧ent Law ⌧eview ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Ersoy, Ufuk. The Fictive Quality of Glass, ⌧⌧ ar⌧⌧ ⌧rchitectural ⌧esearch ⌧uarterl⌧ ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . Seeing through Glass: The Fictive Role of Glass in Shaping Architecture from Joseph Paxton's Crystal Palace to Bruno Taut's Glashaus (Ph.D. dissertation, University of Pennsylvania School of Architecture, ⌧⌧⌧⌧; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Evans, David. Theatre of Deferral: The Image of the Law and the Architecture of the Inns of Court, ⌧⌧ Law ⌧ Criti⌧ue ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Evans, Michael. Two Sources for Maimed Justice, ⌧⌧ Source: Notes in the ⌧istor⌧ of ⌧rt ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Everson, Norma. Two Bra⌧ilian Capitals⌧⌧ rchitecture and ⌧r⌧anism in ⌧io de Janeiro and Brasilia (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Eyffinger, Arthur. The Peace Palace⌧⌧ esidence for Justice, Domicile of Learnin⌧ (The Hague, Netherlands: Carnegie Foundation, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . The ⌧nternational Court of Justice, ⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧ (Boston, MA: Kluwer Law International, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . The ⌧⌧⌧⌧ a⌧ue Peace Conference⌧⌧The Parliament of Man, the ⌧ederation of the World⌧ (The Hague, Netherlands: Kluwer Law International, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . The Trusteeship of an ⌧deal⌧The Carne⌧ie ⌧oundation, ⌧i⌧nettes of a Centur⌧ (Amsterdam, Netherlands: Joh. Ensched⌧Amsterdam in cooperation with the Carnegie Foundation, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fagan, Jeffrey, and Victoria Malkin. Theorizing Community Justice through Community Courts, ⌧⌧ ⌧ordham ⌧r⌧an Law Journal ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fairweather, Leslie, and Se⌧n McConville (eds.). Prison ⌧rchitecture⌧ Polic⌧, Desi⌧n and ⌧⌧perience (Oxford, England: Architectural Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fallon, Richard H. Jr. Of Legislative Courts, Administrative Agencies, and Article III, ⌧⌧⌧ ⌧arvard Law ⌧eview ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . The ⌧Conservative⌧ Paths of the Rehnquist Court's Federalism Decisions, ⌧⌧ ⌧niversit⌧ of Chica⌧o Law ⌧eview ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fehl, Phillip P. Raphael as a Historian: Poetry and Historical Accuracy in the Sala di Costantino, ⌧⌧ ⌧rti⌧us et ⌧istoriae ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Felstiner, William L. F., Richard L. Abel, and Austin Sarat. The Emergence and Transformation of Disputes: Naming, Blaming, and Claiming . . ., ⌧⌧ Law ⌧ Societ⌧ ⌧eview ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fenster, Mark. The Opacity of Transparency, ⌧⌧ ⌧owa Law ⌧eview ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . Designing Transparency: The ⌧/⌧⌧ Commission and Institutional Form, ⌧⌧ Washin⌧ton and Lee Law ⌧eview ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fidell, Eugene R. Accountability, Transparency ⌧ Public Confidence in the Administration of Military Justice, ⌧⌧ ⌧reen Ba⌧⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fiera, Battisti. De ⌧usticia Pin⌧enda, ⌧n the Paintin⌧ of Justice⌧⌧ Dia⌧ lo⌧ue ⌧etween Mante⌧na and Momus ⌧⌧ Battisti ⌧iera, the Latin Te⌧t of ⌧⌧⌧⌧ ⌧eprinted with Translation, an ⌧ntroduction and Notes ⌧⌧ James Wardrop (London, England: Lion and Unicorn Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fierro, Annette. The ⌧lass State⌧The Technolo⌧⌧ of the Spectacle, Paris ⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧ (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fine, Toni M. A Legislative Analysis of the Demise of the Administrative Conference of the United States, ⌧⌧ ⌧ri⌧ona State Law Jour⌧ nal ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fisch, Jill. Rewriting History: The Eradication of Prior Decisional Law through Settlement and Vacatur, ⌧⌧ Cornell Law ⌧eview ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fish, Peter G. Crises, Politics, and Federal Judicial Reform: The Administrative Office Act of ⌧⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ Journal of Politics ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . ⌧ederal Justice in the Mid⌧⌧ tlantic South⌧⌧ nited States Courts from Mar⌧land to the Carolinas, ⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧⌧ (Washington, DC: Administrative Office of the United States Courts, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fisher, George. The Birth of the Prison Retold, ⌧⌧⌧ ⌧ale Law Journal ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fiss, Owen M. The Political Theory of the Class Action, ⌧⌧ Washin⌧⌧ ton and Lee Law ⌧eview ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . Against Settlement, ⌧⌧ ⌧ale Law Journal ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Flanders, Steven (ed.). Cele⌧ratin⌧ the Courthouse⌧⌧ ⌧uide for ⌧rchi⌧ tects, Their Clients, and the Pu⌧lic (New York, NY: W. W. Norton ⌧ Company, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Fletcher, George P. Basic Concepts of Le⊠al Thou⊠ht (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Folgarait, Leonard. Mural Paintin⊠ and Social ⊠evolution in Me⊠ico, ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠rt of the New ⊠rder (New York, NY: Cambridge University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Foster, Hal. ⊠ecodin⊠s⊠⊠rt, Spectacle, Cultural Politics (Port Townsend, WA: Bay Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Foucault, Michel. Discipline and Punish⊠The Birth of the Prison (Alan Sheridan, trans., New York, NY: Vintage Books, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠d ed.; ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠st ed.).

Fowler, Harriet W. New Deal ⊠rt⊠WP⊠ Works at the ⊠niversit⊠ of ⊠en⊠tuck⊠ (Louisville, KY: University of Kentucky Art Museum, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Fox, Celina. Lord Ma⊠or⊠s Coach (London, England: Museum of London, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Fox, Nancy. Li⊠erties with Li⊠ert⊠⊠The ⊠ascinatin⊠⊠ istor⊠ of ⊠merica⊠s Proudest S⊠m⊠ol (New York, NY: E. P. Dutton, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Fraade, Steven D. Hearing and Seeing at Sinai: Interpretive Trajectories, in The S⊠nificance of Sinai⊠Traditions a⊠out Sinai and Divine ⊠evelation in Judaism and Christianit⊠ (George J. Brooke, Hindy Najman, ⊠ Loren T. Stuckenbruck, eds., Leiden, Netherlands: Brill, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Frankfurter, Felix, and James M. Landis. The Business of the Supreme Court⊠⊠ Stud⊠ in the ⊠ederal Judicial S⊠stem (New York, NY: Macmillan, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Franklin, Julian H. Jean Bodin and the Si⊠teenth Centur⊠⊠evolution in the Methodolo⊠⊠ of Law and ⊠istor⊠ (New York, NY: Columbia University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. Jean Bodin and the ⊠ise of ⊠⊠solutist Theor⊠ (Cambridge, MA: Cambridge University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. Jean Bodin (Aldershot, England and Burlington, VT: Ashgate, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Fraser, Nancy. Rethinking the Public Sphere: A Contribution to the Critique of Actually Existing Democracy, in ⊠a⊠ermas and the Pu⊠lic Sphere (Craig Calhoun, ed., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Freeman, Jody, and Martha Minow (eds.). ⊠overnment ⊠⊠ Contract⊠ ⊠utsourcin⊠ and ⊠merican Democrac⊠ (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Freeman, Rosemary. ⊠n⊠lish ⊠m⊠lem Books (London, England: Chatto ⊠ Windus, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Fremantle, Katharine. The Baro⊠ue Town ⊠ all of ⊠msterdam (Utrecht, Netherlands: Haentjens Dekker ⊠ Gumbert, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. The Open Vierschaar of Amsterdam's Seventeenth-Century Town Hall as a Setting for the City's Justice, ⊠⊠⊠ ud ⊠ olland, ⊠ uan⊠ ter⊠ for Dutch ⊠rt ⊠ istor⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Freschi, Federico. Postapartheid Publics and the Politics of Ornament: Nationalism, Identity, and the Rhetoric of Community in the Decorative Program of the New Constitutional Court, Johannesburg, ⊠⊠ ⊠frica Toda⊠ ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Friedlander, Suzan D. Broome County, New York's Government-Sponsored Post Office Murals of the ⊠⊠⊠⊠'s (M.A. thesis, State University of New York at Binghamton, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Friedman, Barry. Popular Dissatisfaction with the Administration of Justice: A Retrospective (and a Look Ahead), ⊠⊠ ⊠ndiana Law Jour⊠ nal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Friedman, Richard D. Exploring the Future of the Confrontation Clause in Light of Its Past: Grappling with the Meaning of ⊠Testimonial,⊠⊠⊠ Brook⊠n Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Frier, Bruce W. The ⊠ise of the ⊠oman Jurists⊠Studies in Cicero⊠s Pro Caecina (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. Finding a Place for Law in the High Roman Empire, in Spaces of Justice in the ⊠oman World (F. de Angelis, ed., Columbia Studies in the Classical Tradition, New York: Columbia University Press, forthcoming).

Fryd, Vivien G. ⊠rt and ⊠mpire⊠The Politics of ⊠thnicit⊠ in the ⊠nited States Capital, ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; reprint, Athens, OH: Ohio University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Fuller, Lon L. The Forms and Limits of Adjudication, ⊠⊠⊠ arvard Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gagarin, Michael. Dik⊠in the Works and Days, ⊠⊠ Classical Philolo⊠⊠ ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Galanter, Marc. Why the ⊠Haves⊠ Come Out Ahead: Speculations on the Limits of Legal Change, ⊠ Law ⊠ Societ⊠⊠eview ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. The Quality of Settlements, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Journal of Dispute ⊠esolution ⊠⊠.

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. The Vanishing Trial: An Examination of Trials and Related Matters in Federal and State Courts, ⊠ Journal of ⊠mpirical Le⊠al Studies ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gannon, Todd (ed.). The Li⊠ht Construction ⊠eader (New York, NY: Monacelli Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gans, Edwar, and Guido Kisch. The Cambyses Justice Medal, ⊠⊠ ⊠rt Bulletin ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gaonkar, Dilip Parameshwar, with Robert J. McCarthy Jr. Panopticism and Publicity: Bentham's Quest for Transparency, ⊠ Pu⊠lic Culture ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Garapon, Antoine. Bien Ju⊠er⊠⊠ssai sur le rituel ⊠udiciaire (Paris, France: Odile Jacob, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gardner, J. P. (ed.). The ⊠ole and ⊠uture of the ⊠uropean Court of Jus⊠ tice (London, England: British Institute of International and Comparative Law, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Garth, Bryant G. From Civil Litigation to Private Justice: Legal Practice at War with the Profession and Its Values, ⊠⊠ Brook⊠n Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gavison, Ruth. The Role of Courts in Rifted Democracies, ⊠⊠ ⊠srael Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gendel, Milton L. Giotto's Representation of the Seven Virtues and Vices in the Arena Chapel at Padua (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Fine Arts, Columbia University, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Genn, Hazel. Meetin⊠ Le⊠al Needs⊠⊠n ⊠valuation of a Scheme for Personal ⊠⊠ur⊠ ⊠ictims (Oxford, England: SSRC ⊠Social Science Research Council⊠Centre for Socio-Legal Studies, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. Paths to Justice⊠What People Do and Think a⊠out ⊠oin⊠ to Law (Oxford, England: Hart Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. Jud⊠in⊠ Civil Justice⊠The ⊠am⊠n Lectures ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Genn, Hazel, and Yvette Genn. The ⊠⊠ectiveness of ⊠epresentation at Tri⊠unals, ⊠eport to the Lord Chancellor (London, England: Lord Chancellor's Department, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Geyh, Charles G. When Courts and Con⊠ress Collide⊠The Stru⊠⊠le for Control of ⊠merica⊠s Judicial S⊠stem (Ann Arbor, MI: University of Michigan Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠. Preserving Public Confidence in the Courts in an Age of Individual Rights and Public Skepticism, in Bench Press⊠The Collision of Courts, Politics, and the Media (Keith J. Bybee, ed., Stanford, CA: Stanford University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gibson, Alan. Veneration and Vigilance: James Madison and Public Opinion, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ ⊠eview of Politics ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gibson, Walter S. Brue⊠el (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gilbertson, Victor C. Minnesota Courthouses (Lakeville, MN: Galde Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Gilovich, Thomas, Dale W. Griffin, and Daniel Kahneman (eds.). ⊠euristics and Biases⊠The Ps⊠cholo⊠⊠ of ⊠ntuitive Jud⊠ment (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Golan, Steven R. Scenes from Roman Republican History in Seventeenth-Century Dutch Art: Exempla Virtutis for Public and Private Viewing (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art History, University of Kansas, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Goldhaber, Michael D. ⊠ People⊠ ⊠istor⊠ of the ⊠uropean Court of ⊠uman ⊠i⊠hts (New Brunswick, NJ: Rutgers University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Goldschmidt, Maure L. Publicity, Privacy and Secrecy, The Western Political Quarterly ().

Goldsmith, Jack, and Daryl Levinson. Law for States: International Law, Constitutional Law, Public Law, Harvard Law Review ().

Goldstein, Andrew D. Sealing and Revealing, Rethinking the Rules Governing Public Access to Information Generated through Litigation, Chicago-Kent Law Review ().

Gombrich, Ernst. Icones Symbolicae: The Visual Image in Neo-Platonic Thought, Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes ().

. Symbolic Images: Studies in the Art of the Renaissance (Oxford, England: Phaidon, , , rd ed.).

Goode, Luke. Jürgen Habermas: Democracy and the Public Sphere (London, England: Pluto Press,).

Goodrich, Peter. Specters of the Law: Why the History of the Legal Spectacle Has Not Been Written, University of California, Irvine Law Review (forthcoming,).

Goodsell, Charles T. The Social Meaning of Civic Space: Studying Political Authority through Architecture (Lawrence, KS: University Press of Kansas,).

Goossens, Eymert-Jan. Treasures Wrought: Chisel and Brush: The Town Hall of Amsterdam in the Golden Age (Amsterdam and Zwolle, Netherlands: Royal Palace and Waanders Publishers,).

Gordon, Diana R. Transformation and Trouble: Crime, Justice, and Participation in Democratic South Africa (Ann Arbor, MI: University of Michigan Press,).

Graham, Clare. Ordering Law: The Architectural and Social History of the English Law Court to (Aldershot, England: Ashgate,).

Greenberg, Allan. Raising "Temples of Justice": Why Does the Modern Courthouse Fall Short? Judicature ().

Greenberg, Karen J. (ed.). The Torture Debate in America (New York, NY: Cambridge University Press,).

Griffin, James. On Human Rights (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press,).

Grimm, Dieter. The European Court of Justice and National Courts: The German Constitutional Perspective after the Maastricht Decision, Columbia Journal of European Law ().

Groebner, Valentin. Liquid Assets, Dangerous Gifts: Presents and Politics at the End of the Middle Ages (Pamela E. Selwyn, trans., Philadelphia, PA: University of Pennsylvania Press,).

Groenhuis, G. Calvinism and National Consciousness: The Dutch Republic as the New Israel, in Britain and the Netherlands, vol. : Church and State since the Reformation (A. C. Duke and C. A. Tamse, eds., The Hague, Netherlands: Martinus Nijhoff,).

Grossman, Joel B., Herbert M. Kritzer, and Stewart Macaulay. Do the "Haves" Still Come Out Ahead?, Law & Society Review ().

Gurney, George. Sculpture and the Federal Triangle (Washington, DC: Smithsonian Institution Press,).

Guthrie, Chris, Jeffrey J. Rachlinski, and Andrew J. Wistrich. The "Hidden Judiciary": An Empirical Examination of Executive Branch Justice, Duke Law Journal ().

Habermas, Jürgen. The Structural Transformation of the Public Sphere: An Inquiry into a Category of Bourgeois Society (Thomas Burger, trans., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press,).

. Between Facts and Norms: Contributions to a Discourse Theory of Law and Democracy (William Rehg, trans., Cambridge, MA: MIT Press,).

Hacking, Ian. The Emergence of Probability: A Philosophical Study of Early Ideas about Probability, Induction and Statistical Inference (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press,).

Hadfield, Gillian K. Higher Demand, Lower Supply? A Comparative Assessment of the Legal Resource Landscape for Ordinary Americans, Fordham Urban Law Journal ().

Haemmerli, Alice. Whose Who? The Case for a Kantian Right of Publicity, Duke Law Journal ().

Halberstam, Chaya T. Rabbinic Responsibility for Evil: Evidence and Uncertainty (Ph.D. dissertation, Yale University, New Haven, CT, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

Hampshire, Stuart. Innocence and Experience (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press,).

. Justice is Conflict (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press,).

Hancock, Paula M. Transformations in the Iconography of the Mirror in Medieval Art (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art History, Emory University, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

Hanson, Julienne. The Architecture of Justice: Iconography and Space Configuration in the English Law Court Building, Architectural Research Quarterly ().

Harcourt, Bernard E. From the Asylum to the Prison: Rethinking the Incarceration Revolution, Texas Law Review ().

Harju, Virpi. The Artistic Faces of Justice, in Ikeuden Kuvat: Bilden av Rätten och Rättvisan (Helsinki, Finland: Eduskunnan kirjasto, Valtion taidemuseo,).

Harnett, Edward A. Questioning Certiorari: Some Reflections Seventy-Five Years after the Judges' Bill, Columbia Law Review ().

Harris, David J., and Stephen Livingstone (eds.). The Inter-American System of Human Rights (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press,).

Harris, Donald, Mavis Maclean, Hazel Genn, Sally Lloyd-Bostock, Paul Fenn, Peter Corfield, and Yvonne Brittan. Compensation and Support for Illness and Injury (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press,).

Harris, Jonathan. Federal Art and National Culture: The Politics of Identity in New Deal America (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press,).

Hart, H. L. A. Bentham and the United States of America, Journal of Law & Economics ().

Hartt, Frederick. Giulio Romano (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press,).

Havelock, Eric A. The Greek Concept of Justice: From Its Shadow in Homer to Its Substance in Plato (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press,).

Heilbrun, Margaret (ed.). Inventing the Skyline: The Architecture of Cass Gilbert (New York, NY: Columbia University Press,).

Hein, Carola. The Capital of Europe: Architecture and Urban Planning for the European Union (Westport, CT: Praeger,).

Held, Julius. The Oil Sketches of Peter Paul Rubens: A Critical Catalogue, vol. (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press,).

Helfer, Laurence R., and Anne-Marie Slaughter. Why States Create International Tribunals: A Response to Professors Posner and Yoo, California Law Review ().

Helliesen, Sidsel. Thronus Justitiae: A Serie(s) of Pictures of Justice, Oud Holland, Quarterly for Dutch Art History ().

Henkin, Louis. The Age of Rights (New York, NY: Columbia University Press,).

Henkin, Louis, David W. Leebron, Gerald L. Neuman, and Diane F. Orentlicher (eds.). Human Rights (New York, NY: Foundation Press,).

Hensler, Deborah R. Studying Gender Bias in the Courts: Stories and Statistics, Stanford Law Review ().

. The Globalization of Class Actions, Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science (Deborah R. Hensler, Christopher Hodges, and Magdalena Tulibacka, eds.,).

Herlihy, David. Medieval and Renaissance Pistoia: The Social History of an Italian Town, (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press,).

Herman, Susan N. The □ight to a Speed□ and Pu□lic Trial□□ □eference □uide to the □nited States Constitution (Westport, CT: Praeger, □□□□).

Herodotus. The □istories (Aubrey de Selincourt, trans., revised by John Marincola, New York, NY: Penguin Classics, □□□□).

Herpel, J. C., II Het oude Raadhuis van 's-Gravenhage (The Old City Hall of The Hague, Part II) ('s Gravenhage, Netherlands: Uitgave van de Gemeente, □□□□).

Hersak, Dunja. There are Many Kongo Worlds: Particularities of Magico-Religious Beliefs among the Vili and Yombe of Congo-Brazzaville, □□ □frica□Journal of the □nternational □frican □nstitute □□□ (□□□□).

Heydebrand, Wolf, and Carroll Seron. □ationali□in□ Justice□The Polit□ical □conom□ of □ederal District Courts (Albany, NY: State University of New York Press, □□□□).

Higginbotham, Patrick E. So Why Do We Call Them Trial Courts□ (Judge Robert A. Ainsworth, Jr. Memorial Lecture), □□ SM□ Law □eview □□□□ (□□□□).

Higgins, Rosalyn. The ICJ, the ECJ and the Integrity of International Law, □□ □nternational and Comparative Law □uarterl□ □ (□□□□).

□ □ □ . Litigating International Disputes: The Work of the International Court of Justice in a Changing World, □□ Northern □reland Le□al □uarterl□ □□□ (□□□□).

Hill, David J. The Permanent Court of International Justice, □□ □mer□ican Journal of □nternational Law □□□ (□□□□).

Hirschl, Ran. Towards Juristocrac□□The □ri□ins and Conse□uences of the New Constitutionalism (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, □□□□).

Hoagland, Alison K. Buildin□s of □laska (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, □□□□).

Hobsbawm, Eric, and Terence Ranger (eds.). The □nvention of Tradi□tion (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, □□□□).

Hockett, Jeremy. The Murals of Jos□ Clemente Orozco at the Hospicio Cabanas Institute: A Philosophy of Change and the Historical Dialectic (M.A. thesis, Department of Art, Michigan State University, □□□□; UMI Publication No.: AAT □□□□□□□).

Hoffman, Stefan-Ludwig (ed.). □uman □i□hts in the Twentieth Cen□tur□□ Critical □istor□ (New York, NY: Cambridge University Press, forthcoming, □□□□).

Hora, Peggy F., and William G. Schma. Therapeutic Jurisprudence and the Drug Treatment Court Movement: Revolutionizing the Criminal Justice System's Response to Drug Abuse and Crime in America, □□ Notre Dame Law □eview □□□ (□□□□).

Hornby, D. Brock. The Business of the US District Courts, □□ The □reen Ba□□d □□□ (□□□□).

Hornung, Erik. □dea into □ma□e□□ssa□s on □ncient □□□□ptian Thou□ht (Elizabeth Bredeck, trans., New York, NY: Timken Publishers, □□□□).

Hourihane, Colum (ed.). □irtue □ □ice□The Personifications in the □ude□ of Christian □rt (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, □□□□).

Houser, R. E. The Cardinal □irtues□□□uinas, □□ert, and Philip the Chancellor (Toronto, Canada: Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies, □□□□).

Howard, Deborah. Jacopo Sansovino□□ □rchitecture and Patrona□e in □enaissance □enice (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, □□□□).

Hudson, Manley O. The World Court □□□□□□□□□□□ □ and□ook of the Permanent Court of □nternational Justice (Boston, MA: World Peace Foundation, □□□□, □th ed.).

□ □ □ . The Permanent Court of □nternational Justice, □□□□□□□□□□□□ Treatise (New York, NY: Macmillan, □□□□).

Hughes, Charles E. The Permanent Court of International Justice, □□ Proceedin□s of the □cadem□ of Political Science in the Cit□ of New □ork □□□ (□□□□).

Hughes, Gordon. Power's Script: or Jenny Holzer's Art after □Art after Philosophy,' □□ □□ □ford □rt Journal □□□ (□□□□).

Hughes, Langston. The Collected Poems of Lan□ston □u□hes (Arnold Rampersad, ed., New York, NY: Knopf, □□□□).

Huisken, Jacobine E. The □o□al Palace on the Dam in a □istorical □iew (Rollin Cochrane, trans., Amsterdam, Netherlands: De Walburg Pers, □□□□).

Hume, David. Of the First Principles of Government, in □ssa□s, Moral, Political, and Literar□, vol. □ (T. H. Green and T. H. Grose, eds., New York, NY: Longmans, Green and Company, □□□□).

Hunt, Lynn. Hercules and the Radical Image in the French Revolution, □ □epresentations □□ (□□□□).

□ □ □ . □inventin□□ uman □i□hts□□ □istor□ (New York, NY: W. W. Norton □ Company, □□□□).

Issacharoff, Samuel, and Robert H. Klonoff. The Public Value of Settlement, □□ □ordham Law □eview □□□□ (□□□□).

Ittmann, John (ed.). Me□ico and Modern Printmakin□□□ □evolution in the □raphic □rts, □□□□□□□□□□ (New Haven, CT: Philadephia Museum of Art in association with Yale University Press, □□□□).

Jaber al-Alwani, Taha. FATWA Concerning the United States Supreme Courtroom Frieze, □□ Journal of Law and □eli□ion □ (□□□□).

Jackson, John, M□ximo Langer, and Peter Tillers (eds.). Crime, Proce□dure, and □vidence in a Comparative and □nternational Conte□t (Oxford, England: Hart Publishing, □□□□).

Jackson, Elmer C. Jr., and Jacob U. Gordon. □ Search for □□ual Justice □□ □frican□ □merican Law□ers□□ □istor□ of the National Bar □sso□ciation (New York, NY: Vantage Press, □□□□).

Jackson, Vicki C. World Habeas Corpus, □□ Cornell Law □eview □□□ (□□□□).

□ □ □ . Packages of Judicial Independence: The Selection and Tenure of Article III Judges, □□ □ eor□etown Law Journal □□□ (□□□□).

□ □ □ . Constitutional □n□a□ement in a Transnational □ra (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, □□□□).

Jackson, Vicki C., and Judith Resnik (eds.). □ederal Court Stories (New York, NY: Thomson Reuters/Foundation Press, □□□□).

Jacob, Margaret C. Bernard Picart and the Turn toward Modernity, □□ De □chttiende □□□ W □□ (□□□□).

Jacob, Robert. □ma□es de la Justice□□ssai sur □conoc□raphie □udiciare du Mo□en □□e □ □□e Classi□ue (Paris, France: Le L□opard d'Or, □□□□).

□ □ □ . Le jugement de Dieu et la formation de la fonction de juger dans l'histoire europ□enne, □□ □rchives de Philosophie du Droit □□ (□□□□).

Jacobsohn, Gary J. Three Models of Secular Constitutional Development: India, Israel, and the United States, □□ Studies in □merican Political Development □ (□□□□).

Jaconelli, Joseph. Rights Theories and Public Trial, □□ Journal of □pplied Philosoph□ □□□ (□□□□).

James, Ronald M. Temples of Justice□Count□ Courthouses of Nevada (Reno, NV: University of Nevada Press, □□□□).

Jansson, Maija. Matthew Hale on Judges and Judging, □ Journal of Le□al □istor□ □□□ (□□□□).

Jenkins, Marianna. The Iconography of the Hall of the Consistory in the Palazzo Pubblico, Siena, □□ □rt Bulletin □□□ (□□□□).

Jeuland, Emmanuel. Compte rendu de □vers un proc□s civil universel□ Les r□gles transnationales de proc□dure civile de l'American Law Institute,□□ □evue Crit□ue de Droit □nternational Priv□ □□□ (□□□□).

Jochens, Jenny. □ld Norse □ma□es of Women (Philadelphia, PA: University of Pennsylvania Press, □□□□).

John, Richard R. Spreadin□ the News□The □merican Postal S□stem from □ranklin to Morse (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, □□□□).

Johnson, Earl. Justice and □eform□The □ormative □ears of the □meri□can Le□al Services Pro□ram (New Brunswick, NJ: Transaction Publishers, □□□□).

Johnson, Sheri L. Racial Imagery in Criminal Cases, □□ Tulsa Law □eview □□□□ (□□□□).

Jolowicz, J. A. □n Civil Procedure (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, □□□□).

Jonas, Gilbert. Freedom's Sword: The NAACP and the Struggle against Racism in America, 1909–1969 (New York, NY: Routledge, 2001).

Jones, Michael W. George Cruikshank: His Life and London (London, England: Macmillan, 2000).

Joost-Gaugier, Christiane L. The Concord of Law in the Stanza della Segnatura, 1508: Artifexus et Historiae 50 (2002).

———. Raphael's Stanza della Segnatura: Meaning and Invention (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, 1992).

Joselit, David, Joan Simon, and Renata Salecl (eds.). Jenny Holzer (London, England: Phaidon, 1998).

Kagan, Robert A. Adversarial Legalism: The American Way of Law (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 2001).

Kahneman, Daniel, and Cass R. Sunstein. Cognitive Psychology of Moral Intuitions, in Neurobiology of Human Values (Jean-Pierre Changeux, Yves Christen, Antonio Damasio, and Wolf Singer, eds., Berlin, Germany: Springer-Verlag, 2004).

Kakalik, James S., Terence Dunworth, Laural A. Hill, Daniel F. McCaffrey, Marian Oshiro, Nicholas M. Pace, and Mary E. Vaiana. Just, Speedy, and Inexpensive? An Evaluation of Judicial Case Management under the Civil Justice Reform Act (Washington, DC: Rand, Institute for Civil Justice, 1996).

———. An Evaluation of Judicial Case Management under the Civil Justice Reform Act (Washington, DC: Rand, Institute for Civil Justice, 1997).

———. An Evaluation of Mediation and Early Neutral Evaluation under the Civil Justice Reform Act (Washington, DC: Rand, Institute for Civil Justice, 1997).

———. Implementation of the Civil Justice Reform Act in Pilot and Comparison Districts (Washington, DC: Rand, Institute for Civil Justice, 1997).

Kammen, Michael. Temples of Justice: The Iconography of Judgment and American Culture, in Pillars of the Federal Judiciary: Essays on the Judiciary's Act of 1891 (Maeva Marcus, ed., Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, 1992).

Katzenellenbogen, Adolf. Allegories of the Virtues and Vices in Medieval Art (Alan J. P. Crick, trans., New York, NY: W. W. Norton & Company, 1939; reprint of a 1933 monograph).

Katzmann, Robert (ed.). Daniel Patrick Moynihan: The Intellectual in Public Life (Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins University Press, 1998).

Kaul, Hans-Peter. Construction Site for More Justice: The International Criminal Court after Two Years, 98 American Journal of International Law 102 (2004).

Keeton, George W., and Georg Schwarzenberger (eds.). Jeremy Bentham and the Law (Holmes Beach, FL: Gaunt, 1948; reprinted, 1995).

Keith, Damon J. Should Color Blindness and Representativeness Be a Part of American Justice?, 18 Howard Law Journal 1 (1974).

Keller, Helen, and Alec Stone Sweet. A Europe of Rights: The Impact of the ECHR on National Legal Systems (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, 2008).

Kelley, Donald R. Foundations of Modern Historical Scholarship: Language, Law, and History in the French Renaissance (New York, NY: Columbia University Press, 1970).

Kelly, John M. Audi Alteram Partem, 8 Natural Law Forum 103 (1963).

Kelsey, Mavis, P., Sr., and Donald H. Dyal. The Courthouses of Texas: A Guide (College Station, TX: Texas A&M University Press, 1983, 3d ed.).

Kemp, Vicky, and Pascoe Pleasence. Targeting Civil Legal Needs: Matching Services to Needs, 29 Civil Justice Quarterly 1 (2010).

Keohane, Nannerl O. Philosophy and the State in France: The Renaissance to the Enlightenment (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1980).

Kerkvliet, Gerald, and Bert Mellink. The Peace Palace: Housing the Institution of International Law (The Hague, Netherlands: Ando and Carnegie Foundation, 2003).

Kessler, Amalia. Our Inquisitorial Tradition: Equity Procedure, Due Process, and the Search for an Alternative to the Adversarial, 76 Cornell Law Review 1334 (1991).

Kiers, Judikje, and Fieke Tissink. The Color of the Golden Age: Dutch Art of the 17th Century (Zwolle, Netherlands: Waanders Publishers, 2000).

King, Carolyn Dineen. Current Challenges to the Federal Judiciary, 66 Louisiana Law Review 1 (2005).

King, Nancy J. Regulating Settlement: What Is Left of the Rule of Law in the Criminal Process?, 88 DePaul Law Review 1465 (2000).

Kirk, Terry R. Church, State and Architecture: The Palazzo di Giustizia of Nineteenth-Century Rome (Ph.D. dissertation, Columbia University, 1992; UMI Publication No.: AAT 9300000).

Kissel, Otto R. Die Justitia: Gestaltwandlungen einer ein Symbol und seine Darstellung in der Bildenden Kunst (Munich, Germany: Verlag C. H. Beck, 1984).

Klarman, Michael J. From Jim Crow to Civil Rights: The Supreme Court and the Struggle for Racial Equality (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, 2004).

Klein, Arthur H., and Mina C. Klein. Pieter Bruegel the Elder, Artist of Abundance: An Illustrated Portrait of His Life, Era, and Art (New York, NY: Macmillan, 1973).

Klein, Natalie. Dispute Settlement in the UN Convention of the Law of the Sea (New York, NY: Cambridge University Press, 2005).

Kluger, Richard. Simple Justice: The History of Brown v. Board of Education and Black America's Struggle for Equality (New York, NY: Knopf, 1976).

Kohler, Josef, and Willy Scheel (eds.). Die Bambergische Halsgerichtsordnung in die Carolina und andere Vorgängerinnen: Text, Erläuterung, Geschichte, vol. 1 (Aalen, Germany: Scientia Verlag, 1968).

Kohler, Sue A. The Commission of Fine Arts: A Brief History 1910–1990 (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, 1991).

Korshak, Yvonne. The Liberty Cap as a Revolutionary Symbol in America and France, 3 Smithsonian Studies in American Art 73 (1989).

Koschnik, Albrecht. The Democratic Societies of Philadelphia and the Limits of the American Public Sphere, circa 1794–1799, 53 William & Mary Quarterly 633 (1996).

Koskenniemi, Martti. The Gentle Civilizer of Nations: The Rise and Fall of International Law 1870–1960 (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, 2001).

Kosmer, Ellen. A Study of the Style and Iconography of a Thirteenth-Century Sommeil le Roi (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Fine Arts, Yale University, 1990; UMI Publication No.: AAT 9100000).

———. Gardens of Virtue in the Middle Ages, 55 Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes 1 (1992).

Kravitz, Mark R. The Vanishing Trial: A Problem in Need of a Solution, 66 Connecticut Bar Journal 1 (1992).

Kress, Claus. The International Court of Justice and the Elements of the Crime of Genocide, 18 European Journal of International Law 1 (2007).

Kritzer, Herbert M., and Susan S. Silbey (eds.). In Litigation: Do the Waves Still Come Out Ahead? (Stanford, CA: Stanford University Press, 2003).

Krodel, Gottfried G. The Opposition to Roman Law and the Reformation in Germany, 44 Journal of Law and Religion 1 (1978–1979).

Kronman, Anthony J. Alexander Bickel's Philosophy of Prudence, 94 Yale Law Journal 1567 (1985).

Kuijer, Martin. The Blindfold of Lady Justice: Judicial Independence and Impartiality in Light of the Requirements of Article 6 ECHR 1 European Convention on Human Rights (Leiden, Netherlands: Wolf Legal Publishers, 2004).

Kumm, Mattias. Why Europeans Will Not Embrace Constitutional Patriotism, 1 ICON, International Journal of Constitutional Law 1 (2003).

Kuyper, Wouters. The Triumphant Entry of Renaissance Architecture into the Netherlands (Alphen aan den Rijn, Netherlands: Canaletto, [illegible]).

Kymlicka, Will. The Internationalization of Minority Rights, [illegible] International Journal of Constitutional Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Lacey, Nicola. Bentham as Proto-Feminist? Or an Ahistorical Fantasy on 'Anarchical Fallacies,' [illegible] Current Legal Problems [illegible] ([illegible]).

Ladis, Andrew (ed.). The Arena Chapel and the Genius of Giotto (New York, NY: Garland Publishing, [illegible]).

Lande, John. Principles for Policymaking about Collaborative Law and Other ADR Processes, [illegible] Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution [illegible] ([illegible]).

Lane, Kristin A., Jason P. Mitchell, and Mahzarin R. Banaji. Me and My Group: Cultural Status Can Disrupt Cognitive Consistency, [illegible] Social Cognition [illegible] ([illegible]).

Langbein, John H. Prosecuting Crime in the Renaissance: England, Germany, France (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. The Historical Origins of the Sanction of Imprisonment for Serious Crime, [illegible] Journal of Legal Studies [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Torture and the Law of Proof: Europe and England in the Ancien Régime (Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, [illegible]; [illegible], [illegible]d ed.).

[illegible]. Historical Foundations of the Law of Evidence: A View from the Ryder Sources, [illegible] Columbia Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. The Origins of the Adversarial Criminal Trial (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Langer, Maximo. The Rise of Managerial Judging in International Criminal Law, [illegible] American Journal of Comparative Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Langford, Ian. Fair Trial: The History of an Idea, [illegible] Journal of Human Rights [illegible] ([illegible]).

Laqueur, Thomas W. Crowds, Carnival and the State in English Executions, [illegible]–[illegible], in The First Modern Society: Essays in English History in Honour of Lawrence Stone (A. L. Beier, David Cannadine, and James M. Rosenheim, eds., Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Lasok, K. P. E., Timothy Millet, and Anneli Howard. Judicial Control in the [illegible]: Procedures and Principles (Richmond, England: Richmond Law and Tax, [illegible]).

Lasser, Mitchel. Judicial Deliberations: A Comparative Analysis of Judicial Transparency and Legitimacy (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Law-Viljoen, Ben, and Bronwyn Law-Viljoen (eds.). Art and Justice: The Art of the Constitutional Court of South Africa (New York, NY: David Krut Publishing, [illegible]).

Law-Viljoen, Bronwyn (ed.). Light on a Hill: Building the Constitutional Court of South Africa (Parkwood, South Africa: David Krut Publishing, [illegible]).

Lederle, Ursula Grieger. Gerechtigkeitsdarstellungen in deutschen und niederländischen Rathäusern (Representations of Justice in German and Dutch Town Halls) (Ph.D. dissertation, Heidelberg, Germany; University of Heidelberg Press, [illegible]).

Lee, Antoinette. Architects to the Nation: The Rise and Decline of the Supervising Architect's [illegible]ce (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Lee, Roy S. (ed.). The International Criminal Court: The Making of the Rome Statute: Issues, Negotiations, Results (The Hague, Netherlands: Kluwer Law International, [illegible]).

Leers, Andrea P. Japan's Palace of Justice, [illegible] Japan Architect [illegible] ([illegible]).

Lemmings, David. The Independence of the Judiciary in Eighteenth-Century England, in The Life of the Law: Proceedings of the Tenth British Legal History Conference, [illegible]ford [illegible] (Peter Birks, ed., Rio Grande, OH: Hambledon Press, [illegible]).

Lemos, Celina B., and Elizabeth A. Jackson. The Modernization of Brazilian Urban Space as a Political Symbol of the Republic, [illegible] Journal of Decorative and Propaganda Arts [illegible] ([illegible]).

Lender, Mark E. This Honorable Court: The United States District Court for the District of New Jersey [illegible] (New Brunswick, NJ: Rutgers University Press, [illegible]).

Letsas, George. A Theory of Interpretation of the European Convention on Human Rights (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Levin, Hillel Y. Making the Law: Unpublication in the District Courts, [illegible] Villanova Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Levinson, Sanford (ed.). Torture: A Collection (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).n

Levinson, Sanford. Written in Stone: Public Monuments in Changing Societies (Durham, NC: Duke University Press, [illegible]).

Levy, Janey L. The Last Judgment in Early Netherlandish Painting: Faith, Authority, and Charity in the Fifteenth Century, vol. [illegible], [illegible] (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art History, University of Kansas, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]).

Lewis, Anthony. Gideon's Trumpet (New York, NY: Random House, [illegible]).

Lewis, Gillian. Calvinism in Geneva in the Time of Calvin and of Beza ([illegible]–[illegible]), in International Calvinism [illegible] (Menna Prestwich, ed., Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Lindblom, Per Henrik. The New Growing Role of the Courts and the New Functions of Judicial Process: Fact or Flummery?, [illegible] Scandinavian Studies in Law [illegible] (Rosemary Nordström, trans., [illegible]).

[illegible]. ADR: The Opiate of the Legal System? Perspectives on Alternative Dispute Resolution Generally and in Sweden, [illegible] European Review of Private Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Link, Luther. The Devil: A Mask without a Face (London, England: Reaktion Books, [illegible]).

Livy. The Early History of Rome (Aubrey De Sélincourt, trans., Harmondsworth, England: Penguin Books, [illegible]).

Locke, John. An Essay Concerning Human Understanding (Peter H. Nidditch, ed., Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Loeffler, Jane. Architecture of Diplomacy: Building American Embassies (Princeton, NJ: Princeton Architectural Press, [illegible]).

Logan, James K. (ed.). The Federal Courts of the Tenth Circuit: A History (Denver, CO: U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit, [illegible]).

Lombardi, Clark B. Islamic Law in the Jurisprudence of the International Court of Justice: An Analysis, [illegible] Chicago Journal of International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

López, Carlos S. Reformulating Native Title in Mabo's Wake: Aboriginal Sovereignty and Reconciliation in Post-Centenary Australia, [illegible] Tulsa Journal of Comparative [illegible] International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

LoPucki, Lynn M. Court System Transparency, [illegible] Iowa Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Loren, Marisa G. Court Houses in Adelaide, [illegible] (Stepney, Australia: Swift Printing Services, [illegible]).

Lounsbury, Carl R. The Courthouses of Early Virginia: An Architectural History (Charlottesville, VA: University of Virginia Press, [illegible]).

Lowry, Bates. Building a National Image: Architectural Drawings for the American Democracy, [illegible] (Washington, DC: National Building Museum, [illegible], published in conjunction with an exhibition of the same title).

Luban, David. The Publicity Principle, in The Theory of Institutional Design (Robert Goodin, ed., New York, NY: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Lawfare and Legal Ethics at Guantánamo, [illegible] Stanford Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

MacCormick, Neil. Questioning Sovereignty: Law, State and Nation in the European Commonwealth (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

MacGaffey, Wyatt. Fetishism Revisited: Kongo Nkisi in Sociological Perspective, [illegible] Africa: Journal of the International African Institute [illegible] ([illegible]).

. Complexity, Astonishment and Power: The Visual Vocabulary of Kongo Minkisi, Journal of Southern African Studies ().

. Canon and Political Culture: The Conceptual Challenge of the Particular (Bloomington, IN: Indiana University Press,).

MacGaffey, Wyatt, and John M. Janzen. Nkisi Figures of the Bakongo, African Arts ().

Mack, Kenneth. Rethinking Civil Rights Lawyering and Politics in the Era before Brown, Yale Law Journal ().

MacKay, A. Wayne. Framing the Issues for Cameras in the Courtrooms: Redefining Judicial Dignity and Decorum, Dalhousie Law Journal ().

MacKinnon, Catharine. Feminism, Marxism, Method, and the State: Toward Feminist Jurisprudence, Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society ().

Macklem, Patrick. Indigenous Difference and the Constitution of Canada (Toronto, Canada: University of Toronto Press,).

Macneil, Ian R. American Arbitration Law: Reformation, Nationalization, Internationalization (New York, NY: Oxford University Press,).

MacQueen, Hector L. Volume Papers on Public Policy: The Reform of Civil Justice (Edinburgh, Scotland: Edinburgh University Press,).

Madura, Miguel P. We the Court: The European Court of Justice and the European Economic Constitution: A Critical Reading of Article of the EC Treaty (Oxford, England: Hart Publishing,).

Maffei, Stefano. The European Right to Confrontation in Criminal Proceedings: Absent, Anonymous and Vulnerable Witnesses (Groningen, Netherlands: Europa Law Publishing,).

Mâle, Emile. The Gothic Image: Religious Art in France of the Thirteenth Century (Dora Nussey trans., New York, NY: Harper, ; reprint of a volume).

Malleson, Kate. Promoting Judicial Independence in the International Courts: Lessons from the Caribbean, International & Comparative Law Quarterly ().

Mansbridge, Jane. The Descriptive Political Representation of Gender: An Anti-Essentialist Argument, in Gaps in Liberalism: Gaining Women's Voices: Gender Representation in Europe and the United States (Jytte Klausen and Charles S. Maier, eds., New York, NY: Palgrave,).

Marder, Nancy S. The Medical Malpractice Debate: The Jury as Scapegoat, Loyola of Los Angeles Law Review ().

Margulies, Joseph. Guantanamo and the Abuse of Presidential Power (New York, NY: Simon & Schuster,).

Markoff, John. Margins, Centers, and Democracy: The Paradigmatic History of Women's Suffrage, Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society ().

Markovits, Daniel. Adversary Advocacy and the Authority of Adjudication, Fordham Law Review ().

Marks, Thomas. The Languages of Glass, Cambridge Quarterly ().

Marling, Karal A. Wall to Wall America: A Cultural History of Post Office Murals in the Great Depression (Minneapolis, MN: University of Minnesota Press,).

Marmor, Theodore R., and Jerry L. Mashaw (eds.). Social Security: Beyond the Rhetoric of Crisis (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press,).

Maroon, Fred J., and Suzy Maroon. The Supreme Court of the United States (New York, NY: Thomassson-Grant & Lickle and published in cooperation with the Supreme Court Historical Society,).

Martin, Camille. La Maison de Ville de Genève (Geneva, Switzerland: A. Jullien,).

Martin, Peter W. Online Access to Court Records: From Documents to Data, Particulars to Patterns, Villanova Law Review ().

Martinez, Jenny S. Antislavery Courts and the Dawn of International Human Rights Law, Yale Law Journal ().

Mashaw, Jerry L., Bureaucratic Justice: Managing Social Security Disability Claims (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press,).

. Recovering American Administrative Law: Federalist Foundations, –, Yale Law Journal ().

. Administration and "The Democracy": Administrative Law from Jackson to Lincoln, –, Yale Law Journal ().

Mashaw, Jerry L., Charles J. Goetz, Paul R. Verkuil, Milton M. Carrow, Warren F. Schwartz, and Frank I. Goodman. Social Security Hearings and Appeals: A Study of the Social Security Administration Hearing System (Lexington, MA: Lexington Books,).

Masson, Antoine, and Kevin O'Connor (eds.). Representations of Justice (Brussels, Belgium: P. I. E. Peter Lang,).

Maximus, Valerius. Memorable Doings and Sayings (D. R. Shackleton Bailey, trans., Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press,).

Mayer, Jane. The Dark Side: The Inside Story of How the War on Terror Turned into a War on American Ideals (New York, NY: Doubleday,).

McCarthy, Cathy A., and Tara Treacy (eds.). History of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts: Sixty Years of Service to the Federal Judiciary (Washington, DC: Administrative Office of the United States Courts,).

McDevitt, Ray (ed.). Courthouses of California: An Illustrated History (San Francisco, CA and Berkeley, CA: California Historical Society and Heyday Books,).

McDorman, Ted L. Global Ocean Governance and International Adjudicative Dispute Resolution, Ocean and Coastal Management ().

McDowell, Eddie-Sue. Romuald Kraus: Justice and Other Work for the Works Progress Administration, –() (M.A. thesis, Department of Fine Arts, University of Louisville, ; UMI Publication No.: AAT).

McGrath, Elizabeth. Rubens: Subjects from History, vols. & . (London, England: Harvey Miller Publishers,).

McKean, John. Crystal Palace: Joseph Paxton and Charles Fox (London, England: Phaidon,).

McKinzie, Richard D. The New Deal for Artists (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press,).

McLaren, Joseph. Langston Hughes, Folk Dramatist in the Protest Tradition, (Westport, CT: Greenwood Press,).

McNamara, Martha J. From Tavern to Courthouse: Architecture and Ritual in American Law, (Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins University Press,).

McParland, Edward. The Early History of James Gandon's Four Courts, Burlington Magazine ().

Mendelsohn, Oliver, and Laurence W. Maher (eds.). Courts, Tribunals and New Approaches to Justice (Bundoora, Australia: La Trobe University Press,).

Mengin, Christine. Construire Pour Juger. Un Tour de France des Palais de Justice, in Tour de France: Eine historische Rundreise, Festschrift für Rainer Rudemann (Armin Heinen and Dietmar Hüser, eds., Stuttgart, Germany: Franz Steiner Verlag,).

. Deux siècles d'architecture judiciaire aux Etats-Unis et en France, in L'Art et le droit: Mélanges en l'honneur de Pierre-Laurent Frier (Maryse Deguergue, ed., Paris, France: Publications de la Sorbonne,).

Menkel-Meadow, Carrie. Whose Dispute Is It Anyway? A Philosophical and Democratic Defense of Settlement (in Some Cases), Georgetown Law Journal ().

. Restorative Justice: What Is It and Does It Work?, Annual Review of Law and Social Science ().

Merback, Mitchell B. The Thief, the Cross and the Wheel: Pain and the Spectacle of Punishment in Medieval and Renaissance Europe (Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press,).

[illegible]. (ed.). Beyond the Yellow Badge: Anti-Judaism and Antisemitism in Medieval and Early Modern Visual Culture (Boston, MA: Brill, [illegible]).

Merritt, Deborah J., and James J. Brudney. Stalking Secret Law: What Predicts Publication in the United States Courts of Appeals, [illegible] Vanderbilt Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Meyers, Gary D., and Sally Raine. Australian Aboriginal Land Rights in Transition (Part II): The Legislative Response to the High Court's Native Title Decisions in Mabo v. Queensland and Wik v. Queensland, Tulsa Journal of Comparative and International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Michelman, Frank I. The Constitution, Social Rights, and Liberal Political Justification, [illegible] CON, International Journal of Constitutional Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Miele, Chris (ed.). The Supreme Court of the United Kingdom: History, Art, Architecture (London, England: Merrell Publishers, [illegible]).

Miller, William I. Gluttony, [illegible] Representations [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. The Mystery of Courage (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, [illegible]).

Millet, Timothy. The New European Court of First Instance, [illegible] International and Comparative Law Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]).

Minow, Martha. The Judgment of Solomon and the Experience of Justice, in The Structure of Procedure (Robert M. Cover and Owen M. Fiss, eds., Mineola, NY: Foundation Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Between Vengeance and Forgiveness: Facing History after Genocide and Mass Violence (Boston, MA: Beacon Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Partners, Not Rivals: Privatization and the Public Good (Boston, MA: Beacon Press, [illegible]).

Mittelstadt, David. Foundations of Justice: Heritage in Historic Courthouses (Calgary, Canada: University of Calgary Press, [illegible]).

Miziolek, Jerzy. Exempla Iustitiae at Arthur's Court in the Context of Dutch and Flemish, German, and Italian Art, in Netherlandish Artists in Gdańsk in the Time of Hans Vredeman de Vries (Gdańsk, Poland: Museum of the History of the City of Gdańsk, [illegible]).

Mnookin, Jennifer L. The Image of Truth: Photographic Evidence and the Power of Analogy, [illegible] Yale Journal of Law & the Humanities [illegible] ([illegible]).

Mnookin, Robert H., and Lewis Kornhauser. Bargaining in the Shadow of the Law: The Case of Divorce, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Moelands, M. A., and Jacobus Thomas de Smidt (eds.). Weeskschaal Gewaard: De Verzeeldin van Recht en Gerechtigheid in Nederland (The Hague, Netherlands: Jongbloed Juridische Boekhandel en Uitgeverij, [illegible]).

Moffitt, Michael. Three Things to be Against (Settlement Not Included), [illegible] Fordham Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Mohr, Richard. Enduring Signs and Obscure Meanings: Contested Coats of Arms in Australian Jurisdictions, in Contemporary Issues of the Semiotics of Law (Anne Wagner, Tracey Summerfield, and Farid Benevides, eds., Oxford, England: Hart Publishing, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Some Conditions for Culturally Diverse Deliberation, [illegible] Canadian Journal of Law and Society [illegible] ([illegible]).

Moore, John B. The Organization of the Permanent Court of International Justice, [illegible] Columbia Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. (ed.). International Adjudications: Ancient and Modern History and Documents (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, [illegible]; reprint, Buffalo, NY: William S. Hein & Company, [illegible]).

Moorhead, Richard, and Pascoe Pleasence. Access to Justice after Universalism: Introduction, [illegible] Journal of Law and Society [illegible] ([illegible]).

Moreno-Ocampo, Luis. The International Criminal Court: Seeking Global Justice, [illegible] Case Western Reserve Journal of International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Morgan, David, and Sally M. Promey (eds.). The Visual Culture of American Religions (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, [illegible]).

Morgan, Michael J. Molyneux's Question: Vision, Touch and the Philosophy of Perception (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Morris, Jeffrey B. Calm: to Poise the Scales of Justice: History of the Courts of the District of Columbia Circuit (Durham, NC: Carolina Academic Press, [illegible]).

Morrison, Mary J. The Minnesota State Constitution: A Reference Guide (Westport, CT: Greenwood Press, [illegible]).

Motley, Constance Baker. Equal Justice Under Law: An Autobiography (New York, NY: Farrar, Straus and Giroux, [illegible]).

Mountford, Edward W. The New Sessions House, London, [illegible] Architectural Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Muir, Edward. Images of Power: Art and Pageantry in Renaissance Venice, [illegible] American Historical Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Civic Ritual in Renaissance Venice (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, [illegible]).

Muir, Lynette R. The Biblical Drama of Medieval Europe (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Mulcahy, Linda. Architects of Justice: The Politics of Courtroom Design, [illegible] Social & Legal Studies [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Architectural Precedent: The Manchester Assize Courts and Monuments to Law in the Mid-Victorian Era, [illegible] in: Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. The Unbearable Lightness of Being: Shifts towards the Virtual Trial, [illegible] Journal of Law and Society [illegible] ([illegible]).

Müllenbrock, Heinz-Joachim. Public Opinion in Eighteenth-Century England, in Sites of Discourse: Public and Private Spheres: Legal Culture (Uwe Böker and Julie A. Hibbard, eds., Amsterdam, Netherlands: Rodopi, [illegible]).

Mustill, Michael J., and Stewart C. Boyd (eds.). Commercial Arbitration, [illegible] Companion Volume to the Second Edition (Croydon, England: Butterworths, [illegible]).

Mycock, Damon J. The Element of Caricature in the Painting of José Clemente Orozco (M.A. thesis, Duke University, [illegible]).

Naske, Claus M. [illegible] History of the Alaska Federal District Court System, [illegible], and the Creation of the State Court System (Fairbanks, AK: University of Alaska, [illegible]).

Nelson, Daniel Mark. The Priority of Prudence: Virtue and Natural Law in Thomas Aquinas and the Implications for Modern Ethics (University Park, PA: Pennsylvania State University Press, [illegible]).

Neuman, Gerald L. Human Rights and Constitutional Rights: Harmony and Dissonance, [illegible] Stanford Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Import, Export, and Regional Consent in the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, [illegible] European Journal of International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Ngcobo, S. Sandile. Truth, Justice, and Amnesty in South Africa: Sins from the Past and Lessons for the Future, [illegible] Ius Gentium [illegible] ([illegible]).

Nicholls, Robert. The Mocko Jumbie of the U.S. Virgin Islands; History and Antecedents, [illegible] African Arts [illegible] ([illegible]).

Nicolai, Bernd. Orders in Stone: Social Reality and Artistic Approach. The Case of the Strasbourg South Portal, [illegible] Gesta [illegible] ([illegible]).

Nieto-Navia, Rafael. The Inter-American Court of Human Rights, in International Justice (Kalliopi Koufa, ed., Athens, Greece: Sakkoulas Publications, [illegible]).

Noonan, John T. Jr. Bribes (New York, NY: Macmillan, [illegible]).

Nooruddin, Irfan. Blind Justice: Seeing Race and Gender in Cases of Violent Crime, [illegible] Politics & Gender [illegible] ([illegible]).

North, Douglass C., John Joseph Wallis, and Barry R. Weingast. Violence and Social Orders: A Conceptual Framework for Interpreting Recorded Human History (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

North, Helen F. Sophrosyne: Self-Knowledge and Self-Restraint in Greek Literature (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Temperance (Sophrosyne) and the Canon of the Cardinal Virtues, in Dictionary of the History of Ideas: Studies of Selected Pivotal Ideas, vol. IV (Philip P. Wiener, ed., New York, NY: Charles Scribner's Sons, [illegible]).

□ □ □ . □rom M□th to □con□□ e□ections on □ reek □thical Doctrine in Lit□ erature and □ rt (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, □□□□).

Nugent, S. Georgia. □lle□or□ and Poetics□The Structure and □nan□er□ of Prudentius□ □Ps□chomachia□ (Frankfurt, Germany: Verlag Peter Lang, □□□□).

Oberhuber, Konrad (ed.). The □llustrated Bartsch, vol. □□: The Works of Marcantonio □aimondi and of □ is School (New York, NY: Abaris Books, □□□□).

O'Connell, Jeffrey, and Richard F. Bland. Moynihan's Legacy, □□□ Pu□□ lic □nterest □□ (□□□□).

Ohman, Doug, and Mary Logue. Courthouses of Minnesota (St. Paul, MN: Minnesota Historical Society Press, □□□□).

Olsen, Patrice E. □rtifacts of □evolution□□ rchitecture, Societ□ and Pol□ itics in Me□ico Cit□ □□□□□□□□□□ (Lanham, MD: Rowman □ Littlefield, □□□□).

O'Regan, Kate. Human Rights and Democracy□ A New Global Debate: Reflections on the First Ten Years of South Africa's Constitutional Court, □□ □nternational Journal of Le□al □nformation □□□ (□□□□).

O'Reilly, Jennifer. Studies in the □conol□raph□ of the □ irtues and □ ices in the Middle □□es (New York, NY: Garland Publishing, □□□□).

Orenstein, Nadine M. (ed.). Pieter Brue□el the □lder□Drawin□s and Prints, Catalo□ue for the Metropolitan Museum of □ rt □□□□ □□□n□ tion (New York, NY, and New Haven, CT: Metropolitan Museum of Art and Yale University Press, □□□□).

Oseguera, Silvia I. Judicial Reform and Democratization: Mexico in the □□□□s (Ph.D. dissertation, Boston University, □□□□; UMI Publication No.: AAT □□□□□□□, □□□□).

Ostrom, Brian J., Shauna M. Strickland, and Paula L. Hannaford-Agor. Examining Trial Trends in State Courts: □□□□–□□□□, □ Journal of □mpirical Le□al Studies □□□ (□□□□).

Overdiep, G. Justitia, Waar □s □ w Blinddoek□ □ verdruck □ it Pro □□colendo □ure Patrio □□□□□□□□□□ (Groningen, Netherlands: J. B. Wolters, □□□□).

Padoa-Schioppa, Antonio (ed.). Le□islation and Justice (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, □□□□).

Pager, Chet K. W. Blind Justice, Colored Truths and the Veil of Ignorance, □□ Willamette Law □eview □□□ (□□□□).

Panofsky, Erwin. Studies in □conolo□□□□ umanistic Themes in the □rt of the □enaissance (New York, NY: Harper □ Row, □□□□).

Pare, Richard (ed.). Court □ouse□□ Photo□raphic Document (New York, NY: Horizon Press, □□□□).

Parekh, Bhikhu (ed.). Jerem□ Bentham□Ten Critical □ssa□s (London, England: Frank Cass, □□□□).

Park, Marlene, and Gerald E. Markowitz. Democratic □istas□ Post □□ ces and Pu□lic □rt in the New Deal (Philadelphia, PA: Temple University Press, □□□□).

Pasqualucci, Jo M. The Practice and Procedure of the □inter□□ merican Court of □ uman □i□□hts (New York, NY: Cambridge University Press, □□□□).

Paterson, Mark. □Seeing with the Hands□ Blindness, Touch, and the Enlightenment Spatial Imagery, □□ British Journal of □ isual □mpair□ ment □□ (□□□□).

Paulson, Colter. Compliance with Final Judgments of the International Court of Justice since □□□□, □□ □merican Journal of □inter□ national Law □□□ (□□□□).

Paulson, William R. □nli□htenment, □omanticism, and the Blind in □rance (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, □□□□).

Paulsson, Jan. Denial of Justice in □nternational Law (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, □□□□).

Peardon, Thomas P. Bentham's Ideal Republic, □□ Canadian Journal of □conomics and Political Science □□□ (□□□□).

Peckham, Robert. The Federal Judge as a Case Manager: The New Role in Guiding a Case from Filing to Disposition, □□ California Law □eview □□□ (□□□□).

Peers, Steve, and Angela Ward (eds.). The □uropean □nion Charter of □undamental □i□hts□Politics, Law, □ Polic□ (Portland, OR: Hart Publishing, □□□□).

Peeters, Jan, Peter C. Sutton, Eymert-Jan Goossens, and Deirdre Carasso. The □o□al Palace of □msterdam in Paintin□s of the □olden □□e (Zwolle, Netherlands: Waanders Publishers, □□□□).

Perry, Barbara A. The Israeli and United States Supreme Courts: A Comparative Reflection on Their Symbols, Images, and Functions, □□ □eview of Politics □□□ (□□□□).

Peters, Edward M. Prison before the Prison: The Ancient and Medieval Worlds, in The □□ford □istor□ of the Prison□The Practice of Punishment in Western Societ□ (Norval Morris and David J. Rothman, eds., New York, NY: Oxford University Press, □□□□).

Peters, Jane S. (ed.). □□ The □llustrated Bartsch (New York, NY: Abaris Books, □□□□).

Pether, Penelope. Inequitable Injunctions: The Scandal of Private Judging in the U.S. Courts, □□ Stanford Law □eview □□□□ (□□□□).

Pfander, James. □ne Supreme Court□Supremac□ □nferiorit□ and the Judicial Department of the □nited States (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, □□□□).

Pfeiffenberger, Selma. The Iconology of Giotto's Virtues and Vices at Padua (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Fine Arts, Bryn Mawr College, □□□□; UMI Publication No.: AAT □□□□□□□).

Pham, J. Peter. A Viable Model for International Criminal Justice: The Special Court for Sierra Leone, □□ New □ork □nternational Law □eview □□ (□□□□).

Phillips, Claude. Sir Joshua □e□nolds (London, England: Seely and Company, □□□□).

Phillips, Todd S., and Michael A. Griebel. Buildin□ T□pe Basics for Jus□ tice □acilities (Stephen A. Kliment, series ed., Hoboken, NJ: John Wiley □ Sons, □□□□).

Pieper, Josef. The □our Cardinal □irtues□Prudence, Justice, □ortitude, Temperance (Notre Dame, IN: University of Notre Dame Press, □□□□).

Pigler, Andrew. The Importance of Iconographical Exactitude, □□ □rt Bulletin □□□ (□□□□).

Pinch, Geraldine. □□□ptian M□tholo□□□□ □ uide to the □ ods, □ od□ desses, and Traditions of □ ncient □□□pt (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, □□□□).

Pitts, Jennifer. Legislator of the World□ A Rereading of Bentham on Colonies, □□ Political Theor□ □□□ (□□□□).

Plato. □epu□lic (G. M. A. Grube, trans., revision by C. D. C. Reeve, Indianapolis, IN: Hackett, □□□□).

Pleasance, Pascoe, Alexy Buck, Marisol Smith, Nigel Balmer, and Ashish Patel. Needs Assessment and Community Legal Services in England and Wales, □□ □nternational Journal of the Le□al Profession □□□ (□□□□).

Pleister, Wolfgang, and Wolfgang Schild. □echt und □erechti□keit im Spie□el der □urop□ischen □unst (Cologne, Germany: Dumont Buchverlag, □□□□).

Plender, Richard (ed.). □uropean Courts□ Practice and Precedents (London, England: Sweet □ Maxell, □□□□).

Podgor, Ellen S., and Roger Stenson Clark. □nderstandin□ □inter□ national Criminal Law (Newark, NJ: LexisNexis □□□□, □d ed.).

Pollak, Oliver B. □na□es of □merica□ Ne□raska Courthouses□ Con□ tention, Compromise, □ Communit□ (Chicago, IL: Arcadia Publishing, □□□□).

Polzer, Joseph. Ambrogio Lorenzetti's □War and Peace Murals□ Revisited: Contributions to the Meaning of the □Good Government Allegory,□□□ □rti□us et □ istoriae □□ (□□□□).

Pon, Lisa. □aphael, D□rer, and Marcantonio □aimondi□Cop□in□ and the □talian □enaissance Print (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, □□□□).

Pope, Stephen J. (ed.). The □thics of □□uinas (Washington, DC: Georgetown University Press, □□□□).

Posner, Eric A. The International Court of Justice: Voting and Usage Statistics, ⊠⊠ merican Societ⊠ of ⊠nternational Law Proceedin⊠s ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . The Decline of the International Court of Justice, in ⊠nter⊠ national Con⊠ict ⊠esolution (Stefan Voigt, Max Albert, and Dieter Schmidtchen, eds., Tübingen, Germany: Mohr Siebeck, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Posner, Eric A., and Miguel F. P. de Figueiredo. Is the International Court of Justice Biased⊠, ⊠⊠ Journal of Le⊠al Studies ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Posner, Richard A. The ⊠ederal Courts⊠Challen⊠e and ⊠eform (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Post, Robert C. Mr. Taft Becomes Chief Justice, ⊠⊠ ⊠niversit⊠ of Cincinnati Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . ⊠nowin⊠ What We Talk ⊠⊠out⊠⊠⊠pertise, Democrac⊠ and the ⊠irst ⊠mendment (New Haven, CT: Yale Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Post, Robert C., and Reva B. Siegel. Legislative Constitutionalism and Section Five Powers: Policentric Interpretation of the Family and Medical Leave Act, ⊠⊠⊠ ⊠ale Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Postle, Martin. Sir Joshua ⊠e⊠nolds⊠The Su⊠⊠ect Pictures (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Pound, Roscoe. The Causes of Popular Dissatisfaction with the Administration of Justice, ⊠⊠ ⊠merican Law ⊠evew ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠), reprinted from ⊠ ⊠nnual ⊠eport of ⊠merican Bar ⊠ssociation ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠th Conference, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Powell, Robert, and Patrick Bingham-Hall. ⊠assell⊠Poetic Pra⊠matism (Sydney, Australia: Pesaro Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Prak, Maarten. The Dutch ⊠epu⊠lic in the Seventeenth Centur⊠ (Diane Webb, trans., Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Prestwich, Menna (ed.). ⊠nternational Calvinism ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Oxford, England: Clarendon Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Prudentius. Ps⊠chomachia⊠The War of the Soul, or, the Battle of ⊠irtues and ⊠ices⊠ Translated from ⊠un⊠ Prudentius Clemens (London, England: ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Puttfarken, Thomas. David's Brutus and Theories of Pictorial Unity in France, ⊠ ⊠rt ⊠istor⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Quiroga, Cecilia M. The Battle of ⊠uman ⊠i⊠hts⊠⊠ ross, S⊠stematic ⊠io⊠ lations and the ⊠inter⊠⊠merican S⊠stem (Dordrecht, Netherlands: Martinus Nijhoff, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . The Inter-American Commission on Human Rights and the Inter-American Court of Human Rights: Reflections on a Joint Venture, ⊠⊠ ⊠uman ⊠i⊠hts ⊠ uarterl⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Rabb, Theodore K. The Last Da⊠s of the ⊠enaissance and the March to Modernit⊠ (New York, NY: Basic Books, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Rachline, Fran⊠ois. ⊠⊠rard ⊠ arouste, Peindre ⊠ present (Paris, France: Fragments, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Rafii, Keyvan C. Public Buildings and Civic Pride: Town Halls in Northern Germany, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art History, University of Illinois, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; UMI Publication No.: AAT ⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Rajchman, John. Foucault's Art of Seeing, ⊠⊠ ⊠cto⊠er ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Ramji-Nogales, Jaya, Andrew I. Schoenholtz, and Philip G. Schrag. Refugee Roulette: Disparities in Asylum Adjudication, ⊠⊠ Stanford Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Ramos, Efr⊠n Rivera. The Le⊠al Construction of ⊠dentit⊠⊠The Judicial and Social Le⊠ac⊠ of ⊠merican Colonialism in Puerto ⊠ico (Washington, DC: American Psychological Association, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Ramseyer, J. Mark. The Puzzling (In)dependence of Courts: A Comparative Approach, ⊠⊠ Journal of Le⊠al Studies ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Rapp, Stephen J. The Compact Model in International Criminal Justice: The Special Court for Sierra Leone, ⊠⊠ Drake Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Rasmussen, Hjalte. The ⊠uropean Court of Justice (Copenhagen, Denmark: GadJura, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Rawls, John. ⊠ Theor⊠ of Justice (Cambridge, MA: Belknap Press of Harvard University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; ⊠⊠⊠⊠ revised ed.).

Reeder, Robert P. The First Homes of the Supreme Court of the United States, ⊠⊠ Proceedin⊠s of the ⊠merican Philosophical Societ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Reich, Charles. The New Property, ⊠⊠ ⊠ale Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Resnik, Judith. Managerial Judges, ⊠⊠ ⊠arvard Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Due Process: A Public Dimension, ⊠⊠ ⊠niversit⊠ of ⊠lorida Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . On the Bias: Feminist Reconsiderations of the Aspirations for Our Judges, ⊠⊠ Southern California Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . From ⊠Cases⊠ to ⊠Litigation,⊠⊠ Law ⊠ Contemporar⊠ Pro⊠⊠ lems ⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Whose Judgment⊠ Vacating Judgments, Preferences for Settlement, and the Role of Adjudication at the Close of the Twentieth Century, ⊠⊠ ⊠ CL⊠ Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Many Doors⊠ Closing Doors⊠ Alternate Dispute Resolution and Adjudication, ⊠⊠ ⊠hio State Journal on Dispute ⊠esolution ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Asking about Gender in Courts, ⊠⊠ Si⊠ns⊠Journal of Women in Culture and Societ⊠ ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Trial as Error, Jurisdiction as Injury: Transforming the Meaning of Article III, ⊠⊠ ⊠arvard Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . ⊠Uncle Sam Modernizes His Justice System⊠ Inventing the Federal District Courts of the Twentieth Century for the District of Columbia and the Nation, ⊠⊠ ⊠eor⊠etown Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . For Owen M. Fiss: Some Reflections on the Triumph and the Death of Adjudication, ⊠⊠ ⊠niversit⊠ of Miami Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Migrating, Morphing, and Vanishing: The Empirical and Normative Puzzles of Declining Trial Rates in Courts, ⊠ Journal of ⊠mpirical Le⊠al Studies ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Living Their Legal Commitments: Paideic Communities, Courts, and Robert Cover, ⊠⊠ ⊠ale Journal of Law ⊠ the ⊠umani⊠ ties ⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Procedure as Contract, ⊠⊠ Notre Dame Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Interdependent Federal Judiciaries: Puzzling about Why ⊠ How to Value the Independence of Which Judges, ⊠⊠⊠ Daedalus ⊠⊠ (Fall ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . Detention, the War on Terror, and the Federal Courts, ⊠⊠⊠ Colum⊠ia Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Resodihardjo, Sandra L. Crisis and Chan⊠e in the British and Dutch Prison Services⊠⊠ nderstandin⊠ Crisis⊠⊠eform Processes (Burlington, VT: Ashgate, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Reynolds, William L., and William M. Richman. The Non-Precedential Precedent⊠ Limited Publication and No Citation Rules in the United States Courts of Appeals, ⊠⊠ Colum⊠ia Law ⊠eview ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Richardson, Genevra, and Hazel Genn. Tribunals in Transition: Resolution or Adjudication, Pu⊠lic Law ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Richardson, Henry S., and Melissa S. Williams (eds.). Moral ⊠niver⊠ salism and Pluralism (New York, NY: New York University Press, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Ridder, Juliaan H. A. ⊠erechti⊠heidstaferelen ⊠oor Schepenhui⊠en in de ⊠uideli⊠ke Nederlanden in de ⊠⊠de, ⊠⊠de, ⊠n ⊠⊠de ⊠euw (Brussels, Belgium: Paleis der Academi⊠n, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Riley, Terence (ed.). Li⊠ht Construction (New York, NY: Museum of Modern Art, distributed by Harry N. Abrams, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Rimmer, Matthew. Australian Icons: Authenticity Marks and Identity Politics, ⊠ ⊠ndi⊠enous Law Journal ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Ripa, Cesare. ⊠conolo⊠ia (Padua, Italy: Pietro Paolo Tozzi, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; New York, NY, and London, England: Garland Publishing, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . ⊠conolo⊠ia, vols. ⊠, ⊠ (Padua, Italy: Pietro Paolo Tozzi, ⊠⊠⊠⊠; Torino, Italy: F⊠gola editore in Torino, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

⊠ ⊠ ⊠ . ⊠conolo⊠ie (J. Baudoin, ed., Paris, France: Chez Matthieu Guillemot, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

[illegible]. Baroque and Rococo Pictorial Imagery: The [illegible] Hertel Edition of Ripa's Iconologia with [illegible] Engraved Illustrations (Edward A. Maser, ed., New York, NY: Dover Publications, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Iconology: London [illegible] (George Richardson, ed., New York, NY, and London, England: Garland Publishing, [illegible]).

Ripa Van Perugien, Cesare. Iconologia, of Uytbeeldingen des Verstands (Amstelerdam, Netherlands: Dirck Pietersz Pers, [illegible]).

Robbins, Ira P. The Ostrich Instruction: Deliberate Ignorance as a Criminal Mens Rea, [illegible] Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology [illegible] ([illegible]).

Robel, Lauren. The Practice of Precedent: Anastasoff, Noncitation Rules, and the Meaning of Precedent in an Interpretive Community, [illegible] Indiana Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Robert, Christian-Nils. La Justice à Vertu Courtisane et Bourreau (Geneva, Switzerland: George Editeur, [illegible]).

[illegible]. La Justice dans ses décors [illegible] siècles (Geneva, Switzerland: Librairie Droz S. A., [illegible]).

Roberts, Kelyn, and Ruth Weisberg. Medieval Drawing and the Arts of Memory, [illegible] Coranto [illegible] ([illegible]).

Roberts, Simon. "Listing Concentrates the Mind": The English Civil Court as an Arena for Structured Negotiation, [illegible] Oxford Journal of Legal Studies [illegible] ([illegible]).

Rochfort, Desmond. Mexican Muralists: Orozco, Rivera, Siqueiros (San Francisco, CA: Chronicle Books, [illegible]).

Rogers, Catherine A. The Vocation of the International Arbitrator, [illegible] American University International Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Roney, John B., and Martin I. Klauber (eds.). The Identity of Geneva: The Christian Commonwealth, [illegible] (Westport, CT: Greenwood Press, [illegible]).

Rosand, David (ed.). Interpretazioni Veneziane: Studi di Storia Della Arte in Onore di Michelangelo Muraro (Venice, Italy: Arsenale Editrice, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Myths of Venice: The Figuration of a State (Chapel Hill, NC: University of North Carolina Press, [illegible]).

Rosen, Frederick. Jeremy Bentham and Representative Democracy: A Study of the Constitutional Code (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Rosenne, Shabtai. Provisional Measures in International Law: The International Court of Justice and the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Roth, Martha T. Law Collections from Mesopotamia and Asia Minor (Atlanta, GA: Scholars Press, [illegible]).

Roth-Lochner, Barbara. Messieurs de la Justice et leur Grève (Geneva, Switzerland: Société d'histoire et d'archéologie de Genève, [illegible]).

Roth-Lochner, Barbara, and Livio Fornara. The Town Hall of Geneva (Jean Gunn, trans., Geneva, Switzerland: Chancellorie D'Etat, [illegible]).

Rothstein, Bo, and Jan Teorell. What Is Quality of Government? A Theory of Impartial Government Institutions, [illegible] Governance: An International Journal of Policy, Administration and Institutions [illegible] ([illegible]).

Roux, Theunis. Principle and Pragmatism on the Constitutional Court of South Africa, [illegible] I·CON, International Journal of Constitutional Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Rowe, Colin, and Robert Slutzky. Transparency: Literal and Phenomenal, Part I, [illegible] Perspecta [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Transparency: Literal and Phenomenal, Part II, [illegible] Perspecta [illegible] ([illegible]).

Rowe, Nina. Idealization and Subjection at the South Portal of Strasbourg Cathedral, in Beyond the Yellow Badge: Anti-Judaism and Antisemitism in Medieval and Early Modern Visual Culture (Mitchell B. Merback, ed., Leiden, Netherlands: Brill [illegible]).

Rubinstein, Nicholai. Political Ideas in Sienese Art: The Frescoes by Ambrogio Lorenzetti and Taddeo di Bartolo in the Palazzo Pubblico, [illegible] Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes [illegible] ([illegible]).

Russell, Peter H. Recognition: Original Title, The Maya Case and Indigenous Resistance to English-Settler Colonialism (Toronto, Canada: University of Toronto Press, [illegible]).

Sachs, Albie. The Creation of South Africa's Constitution, [illegible] New York Law School Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Sachs, Benjamin. Employment Law as Labor Law, [illegible] Cardozo Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Samaha, Adam M. Undue Process, [illegible] Stanford Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Sander, Frank E. A. Varieties in Dispute Processing, The Pound Conference, [illegible] Federal Rules Decisions [illegible] ([illegible]).

Saunders, Alison. The Sixteenth-Century French Emblem Book: Decorative and Useful Genre (Geneva, Switzerland: Librairie Droz, [illegible]).

Schabas, William. An Introduction to the International Criminal Court (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible], [illegible]d ed.).

Schafran, Lynn H. Gender Equality in the Courts: Still on the Judicial Agenda, [illegible] Judicature [illegible] ([illegible]).

Schama, Simon. The Embarrassment of Riches: An Interpretation of Dutch Culture in the Golden Age (New York, NY: Alfred A. Knopf, [illegible]).

Schatz, Sara, Hugo Concha, and Anna L. M. Kerpel. The Mexican Judicial System: Continuity and Change in a Period of Democratic Consolidation, in Reforming the Administration of Justice in Mexico (Wayne A. Cornelius and David A. Shirk, eds., Notre Dame, IN: University of Notre Dame Press, [illegible]).

Scheerbart, Paul. Glass Architecture (James Palmes trans., New York, NY: Praeger Publishers, [illegible]).

Schiff, Benjamin N. Building the International Criminal Court (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Schlauch, Margaret. The Allegory of Church and Synagogue, [illegible] Speculum [illegible] ([illegible]).

Schmidt, Harry. Jörg Ven Ryven, sein Leben und seine Werke: Ein Beitrag zur Geschichte der Niederländischen Malerei im [illegible] Jahrhundert (Kiel, Germany: Selbstverlag des Verfassers Dr. Harry Schmidt, [illegible]).

Schneider, Laurie (ed.). Giotto in Perspective (Englewood Cliffs, NJ: Prentice-Hall, [illegible]).

Schofield, Philip. Jeremy Bentham: Historical Importance and Contemporary Relevance, in Jeremías Bentham: El Joven Genio Radical, su Presencia en el Rosario (Bogotá, Colombia: Universidad Colegio Mayor de Nuestra Señora del Rosario, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Jeremy Bentham's "Nonsense upon Stilts," [illegible] Utilitas [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Utility and Democracy: The Political Thought of Jeremy Bentham (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Schulte, Constanze. Compliance with Decisions of the International Court of Justice (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Schultz, Ulrike, and Gisela Shaw (eds.). Women in the World's Legal Professions (Portland, OR: Hart Publishing, [illegible]).

Schulz, Juergen. The Communal Buildings of Parma, [illegible] Mitteilungen des Kunsthistorischen Institutes in Florenz [illegible] ([illegible]).

Scott, James B. The Closing of the Central American Court of Justice, [illegible] American Journal of International Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Segal, Ben-Zion, and Levi Gerson (eds.). The Ten Commandments in History and Tradition (Arnold Schwartz, trans., Jerusalem, Israel: Magnes Press, [illegible]).

Seiferth, Wolfgang S. Synagogue and Church in the Middle Ages: Two Symbols in Art and Literature (Lee Chadeayne and Paul Gottwald, trans., New York, NY: Frederick Ungar, [illegible]).

Sen, Amartya. The Idea of Justice (Cambridge, MA: Belknap Press of Harvard University Press, [illegible]).

Senie, Harriet F., and Sally Webster (eds.). Critical Issues in Public Art: Content, Context and Controversy (New York, NY: Harper Collins, [illegible]).

Serebrennikov, Nina E. Pieter Bruegel the Elder's Series of "Virtues" and "Vices" (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of Art, University of North Carolina, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]).

Shand, Peter (ed.). Under the Devils, the Virtues (Auckland, New Zealand: Fortuna Press, [illegible]).

Shapiro, Martin, and Alec Stone Sweet (eds.). On Law, Politics and Judicialization (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Shapiro, Maurice L. The Virtues and Vices in Ambrogio Lorenzetti's Franciscan Martyrdom, [illegible] Art Bulletin [illegible] ([illegible]).

Sharon, Yosef. The Supreme Court Building, Jerusalem (Alexandra Mahler, trans., Jerusalem, Israel: Yad Hanadiv, [illegible]; [illegible], [illegible]d ed.).

Sheehan, Colleen A. Madison v. Hamilton: The Battle over Republicanism and the Role of Public Opinion, [illegible] American Political Science Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Sheingate, Adam. Progressive Publicity and the Origins of Political Consulting, in Building a Business of Politics: The Origins and Development of Political Consulting in the United States (forthcoming, [illegible]).

Shepherd, George B. Fierce Compromise: The Administrative Procedure Act Emerges from New Deal Politics, [illegible] Northwestern Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Shipman, Shirley. Court Approaches to ADR in the Civil Justice System, [illegible] Civil Justice Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]).

Shirk, David A., and Wayne A. Cornelius. Reforming the Administration of Justice in Mexico (Notre Dame, IN: University of Notre Dame Press, [illegible]).

Shnayerson, Robert. The Illustrated History of the Supreme Court of the United States (New York, NY: Harry N. Abrams in association with the Supreme Court Historical Society, [illegible]).

Siegel, Reva B. "The Rule of Love": Wife Beating as Prerogative and Privacy, [illegible] Yale Law Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Silberman, Linda J. Masters and Magistrates Part II: The American Analogue, [illegible] New York University Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Silbey, Susan S., and Patricia Ewick. The Common Place of Law: Stories of Popular Legal Consciousness (Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, [illegible]).

Silbey, Susan S., and Sally E. Merry. What Do Plaintiffs Want? Reexamining the Concept of Dispute, Justice System Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Simmonds, Andrew R. The Blindfold of Justice, [illegible] BYU Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Skinner, Quentin. Ambrogio Lorenzetti: The Artist as Political Philosopher, [illegible] Proceedings of the British Academy [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Liberty Before Liberalism (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Ambrogio Lorenzetti's Buon Governo Frescoes: Two Old Questions, Two New Answers, [illegible] Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes [illegible] ([illegible]).

Sklar, Kathryn Kish, and James Brewer Stewart (eds.). Women's Rights and Transatlantic Antislavery in the Era of Emancipation (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, [illegible]).

Skocpol, Theda. The Tocqueville Problem: Civic Engagement in American Democracy, [illegible] Social Science History [illegible] ([illegible]).

Slanski, Kathryn E. Social Class System and the Economy, in World Eras, vol. [illegible]: Ancient Mesopotamia (Ronald Wallenfels, ed., Farmington, NY: Thomson Gale, [illegible]).

[illegible]. The Mesopotamian "Rod and Ring": Icon of Righteous Kingship and Balance of Power between Palace and Temple, in Regime Change in the Ancient Near East and Egypt: From Sargon of Agade to Saddam Hussein (Special Issue), [illegible] Proceedings of the British Academy [illegible] ([illegible]).

Slaughter, Anne-Marie, Alec Stone Sweet, and Joseph H. H. Weiler (eds.). European Courts and National Courts: Doctrine and Jurisprudence (Oxford, England: Hart Publishing, [illegible]).

Sloane, Robert K. The Courthouses of Maine (Woolwich, ME: Maine Lawyers Review, [illegible]).

Smith, Anthony. National Identity and the Idea of Europe, [illegible] International Affairs [illegible] ([illegible]).

Smith, Darrell Hevenor. The Office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury: History, Activities, and Organization (Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins University Press, [illegible]).

Smith, Katherine Allen. Footprints in Stone: Saint Michael the Archangel as a Medieval Saint, [illegible]–[illegible] (Ph.D. dissertation, Department of History, New York University, New York, NY, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]).

Smith, Macklin. Prudentius' Psychomachia: A Reexamination (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, [illegible]).

Snow, Edward. Inside Bruegel: The Play of Imaginations in Children's Games (New York, NY: North Point Press, [illegible]).

Sourdin, Tania (ed.). Alternative Dispute Resolution and the Courts (Annandale, New South Wales, Australia: Federation Press, [illegible]).

Spierenburg, Pieter. The Spectacle of Suffering: Executions and the Evolution of Repression (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. (ed.). The Emergence of Carceral Institutions: Prisons, Galleys and Lunatic Asylums [illegible], vol. [illegible] (Rotterdam, Netherlands: Eramus University Rotterdam, [illegible]).

[illegible]. The Prison Experience: Disciplinary Institutions and Their Inmates in Modern Europe (New Brunswick, NJ: Rutgers University Press, [illegible]).

Spiermann, Ole. International Legal Argument in the Permanent Court of International Justice: The Rise of the International Judiciary (Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, [illegible]).

Splichal, Slavko. Principles of Publicity and Press Freedom (Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield Publishers, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Bentham, Kant, and the Right to Communicate, [illegible] Critical Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Stafford, Emma. Worshipping Virtues: Personification and the Divine in Ancient Greece (London, England: Duckworth and Classical Press of Wales, [illegible]).

Stahn, Carsten, and Göran Sluiter (eds.). The Emerging Practice of the International Criminal Court (Leiden, Netherlands: Koninklijke Brill, [illegible]).

Starn, Randolph. The Republican Regime of the "Room of Peace" in Siena, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] Representations [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Ambrogio Lorenzetti: The Palazzo Pubblico, Siena (New York, NY: George Braziller, [illegible]).

[illegible]. A Postmodern Renaissance?, [illegible] Renaissance Quarterly [illegible] ([illegible]).

Starr, Sonja B. Rethinking "Effective Remedies": Remedial Deterrence in International Courts, [illegible] New York University Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Steiner, Henry J., Philip Alston, and Ryan Goodman. International Human Rights in Context: Law, Politics, Morals (New York, NY: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Stempel, Jeffrey W. Mandating Minimum Quality in Mass Arbitration, [illegible] University of Cincinnati Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Stern, Robert A. M., Gregory Gilmartin, and John Massengale. New York [illegible] Metropolitan Architecture and Urbanism [illegible] (New York, NY: Rizzoli, [illegible]).

Sternlight, Jean R. Creeping Mandatory Arbitration: Is It Just?, [illegible] Stanford Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Is Alternative Dispute Resolution Consistent with the Rule of Law? Lessons from Abroad, [illegible] DePaul Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Stevens, Robert. The Independence of the Judiciary: The View from the Lord Chancellor's [illegible]ce (Oxford, England: Clarendon Press, [illegible]).

Storing, Herbert J. The Complete Anti-Federalist (Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, [illegible]).

Strath, Bo. A European Identity: To the Historical Limits of a Concept, [illegible] European Journal of Social Theory [illegible] ([illegible]).

Strauss, Gerald. Law, Resistance, and the State: The Opposition to Roman Law in Reformation Germany (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, [illegible]).

Strauss, Walter L. (ed.). The Complete Engravings, Etchings and Drypoints of Albrecht Dürer (New York, NY: Dover Publications, [illegible]).

[illegible]. (ed.). The Illustrated Bartsch, vol. [illegible]: Sixteenth Century German Artists: Albrecht Dürer (New York, NY: Abaris Books, [illegible]).

Strelein, Lisa. Compromised Jurisprudence: Native Title Cases since Mabo (Canberra, Australia: Aboriginal Studies Press, [illegible]).

Subrin, Stephen N. How Equity Conquered Common Law: The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure in Historical Perspective, [illegible] University of Pennsylvania Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Sugarman, David. Images of Law: Legal Buildings, Englishness and the Reproduction of Power, in Rechtssymbolik und Wertevermittlung: The Symbolism of Justice and the Conveyance of Moral Values, [illegible] Schriften zur europäischen Rechts- und Verfassungsgeschichte [illegible] (Berlin, Germany: Duncker & Humblot, [illegible]).

Svensson-McCarthy, Anna-Lena. The International Law of Human Rights and States of Exception: With Special Reference to the Travaux Preparatories and Case-Law of the International Monitoring Organs (The Hague, Netherlands: Martinus Nijhoff, [illegible]).

Sweet, Alec Stone. Governing with Judges: Constitutional Politics in Europe (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

[illegible]. The Judicial Construction of Europe (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Tachau, Katherine H. Vision and Certitude in the Age of Ockham: Optics, Epistemology and the Foundations of Semantics, [illegible] (Leiden, Netherlands: Brill, [illegible]).

Taft, William H. Adequate Machinery for the Judicial Business: Address before the Judicial Section of the American Bar Association, Aug. [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] BA Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Taft, William H. Possible and Needed Reforms in Administration of Justice in the Federal Courts, [illegible]th Conference Annual Report A.B.A. [illegible] ([illegible]); reprint, [illegible] BA Journal [illegible] ([illegible]).

Tanis, James, and Daniel S. Horst. Images of Discord: A Graphic Interpretation of the Pennsylvania Decades of the Eighteen Years' War (Grand Rapids, MI: William B. Eerdmans in arrangement with Bryn Mawr College, [illegible]).

Taslitz, Andrew E. Racial Blindsight: The Absurdity of Color-Blind Criminal Justice, [illegible] Ohio State Journal of Criminal Law [illegible] ([illegible]).

Taut, Bruno. Alpine Architecture (Shirley Palmer, trans., New York, NY: Praeger, [illegible]).

Taylor, Katherine Fischer. In the Theatre of Criminal Justice: The Palais de Justice in Second Empire Paris (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, [illegible]).

Teitel, Ruti G. Transitional Justice (Oxford: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Tepper, Steven J. Unfamiliar Objects in Familiar Places: The Public Response to Art-in-Architecture, [illegible] International Journal of Cultural Policy [illegible] ([illegible]).

Teubner, Gunther. After Privatisation? The Many Autonomies of Private Law, [illegible] Current Legal Problems [illegible] ([illegible]).

Thalacker, Donald W. The Place of Art in the World of Architecture (New York, NY: Chelsea House Publishers, [illegible]).

Thompson, Robert F. Kongo Power Figure, in Perspectives: Angles on African Art (New York, NY: Center for African Art and Harry N. Abrams, [illegible]).

[illegible]. Illuminating Spirits: Astonishment and Power at the National Museum of African Art, [illegible] African Arts [illegible] ([illegible]).

Thrane, Susan W. County Courthouses of Ohio (Bloomington, IN: Indiana University Press, [illegible]).

Thurley, Simon. Hampton Court: A Social and Architectural History (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, [illegible]).

Tierney, John T. The [illegible] Postal Service: Status and Prospects of a Public Enterprise (Dover, MA: Auburn House Publishing, [illegible]).

Tipton, Susan. Res Publica Bene Ordinata: Repräsentationsspiegel und Bilder vom Guten Regiment, Rathausdekorationen in der Frühen Neuzeit (Hildesheim, Germany: Georg Olms Verlag, [illegible]).

Tittler, Robert. Architecture and Power: The Town Hall and the English Urban Community c. [illegible] (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, [illegible]).

Traver, Hope. The Four Daughters of God: A Study of the Versions of This Allegory with Especial Reference to Those in Latin, French, and English (Ph.D. dissertation, Bryn Mawr College, Philadelphia, PA: John C. Winston [illegible]).

Troescher, Georg. Welt-Gerichts-Bilder in Rathäusern und Gerichtsstätten, vol. [illegible] of West German Yearbook for Art History (Frankfurt, Germany: Prestel-Vertel, GMBH, [illegible]).

Tuve, Rosemond. Notes on the Virtues and Vices, pt. [illegible], [illegible] Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Notes on the Virtues and Vices, pt. [illegible], [illegible] Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Allegorical Images: Some Mediaeval Books and Their Posterity (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, [illegible]).

Twining, William. Theories of Evidence: Bentham and Wigmore (London, England: Weidenfeld & Nicolson, [illegible]).

Tyler, Tom. Social Justice: Outcome and Procedure, [illegible] International Journal of Psychology [illegible] ([illegible]).

Underwood, David. Oscar Niemeyer and Brazilian Free-Form Modernism (New York, NY: George Braziller, [illegible]).

Uyl, Douglas J. den. The Virtue of Prudence (New York, NY: Peter Lang, [illegible]).

van Cleve, John. Sebastian Brant's The Ship of Fools in Critical Perspective, [illegible] (Columbia, SC: Camden House, [illegible]).

van de Steeg, Marianne. Rethinking the Conditions for a Public Sphere in the European Union, [illegible] European Journal of Social Theory [illegible] ([illegible]).

van der Stock, Jan. Cornelis Matsys: [illegible] oeuvre graphique [illegible] (Eugène Rouir, trans., Brussels, Belgium: Bibliothèque Royale Albert Ier, [illegible]).

van der Velden, Hugo. Cambyses for Example: The Origins and Function of an Exemplum Iustitiae in Netherlandish Art of the Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries, [illegible] Simiolus: Netherlands Quarterly for the History of Art ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Cambyses Reconsidered: Gerard David's Exemplum Iustitiae for Bruges Town Hall, [illegible] Simiolus: Netherlands Quarterly for the History of Art [illegible] ([illegible]).

van Krieken, Peter J., and David McKay (eds.). The Value: Legal Capital of the World (The Hague, Netherlands: T.M.C. Asser Press, [illegible]).

van Miegroet, Hans J. Gerard David (ca. [illegible]–[illegible]): Patronage and Artistic Preeminence at Bruges (Ph.D. dissertation, University of California at Santa Barbara, [illegible]; UMI Publication No.: AAT [illegible]).

[illegible]. Gerard David's Justice of Cambyses: Exemplum Iustitiae or Political Allegory?, [illegible] Simiolus: Netherlands Quarterly for the History of Art [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Gerard David (Antwerp, Belgium: Mercatorfonds, [illegible]).

Vargas, Jorge A. The Rebirth of the Supreme Court of Mexico: An Appraisal of President Zedillo's Judicial Reform of [illegible], [illegible] American University Journal of International Law & Policy [illegible] ([illegible]).

Veall, Donald. The Popular Movement for Law Reform, [illegible] (Oxford, England: Oxford Clarendon Press, [illegible]).

Veldman, Ilja M. Familiar Customs and Exotic Rituals: Picart's Illustrations for Cérémonies et coutumes religieuses de tous les peoples, [illegible] Simiolus: Netherlands Quarterly for the History of Art [illegible] ([illegible]).

Verkuil, Paul R. Reflections upon the Federal Administrative Judiciary, [illegible] CLA Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

[illegible]. Public Law Limitations on Privatization of Government Functions, [illegible] North Carolina Law Review [illegible] ([illegible]).

Vermeule, Adrian. Veil of Ignorance Rules in Constitutional Law, ⍰⍰⍰ ⍰ale Law Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Vidler, Anthony. Fantasy, the Uncanny and Surrealist Theories of Architecture, ⍰ Papers of Surrealism (Winter ⍰⍰⍰⍰) (online).

Virden, William L. Cornerstones and Communities⍰ ⍰ ⍰istorical ⍰verview of Colorado⍰ Count⍰ Seats and Courthouses (Loveland, CO: Rodgers ⍰ Nelsen, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Vlaardingerbroek, Pieter. The Town Hall of Amsterdam, the Construction of the Town Hall, Its Conversion into a Royal Palace and Restoration (Ph.D. dissertation, University of Utrecht, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Volavkova, Zdenka. Nkisi Figures of the Lower Congo, ⍰⍰frican ⍰rts ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Volcansek, Mary L. Judicial Misconduct⍰⍰ Cross⍰National Compari⍰son (Gainsville, FL: University of Florida Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

von Schwarzenberg, Johann Freiherr. Bam⍰er⍰ische Peinliche ⍰als⍰ ⍰erichtsordnun⍰ ⍰Bam⍰er⍰ensis⍰ vols. ⍰–⍰ (Mainz, Germany: Johann Sch⍰ffer, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Waddell, Gene, and Rhodri Windsor Liscombe. ⍰o⍰ert Mills⍰ Court⍰houses and Jails ⍰of South Carolina⍰ (Easley, SC: Southern Historical Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wald, Patricia M. International Criminal Courts: Some Kudos and Concerns, ⍰⍰⍰ Proceedin⍰s of the ⍰merican Philosophical Societ⍰ ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Walker, Janet, and Oscar G. Chase (eds.). Common Law, Civil Law and the ⍰uture of Cate⍰ories (Ontario, Can.: LexisNexis, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Walker, Neil. Beyond Boundary Disputes and Basic Grids: Mapping the Global Disorder of Normative Orders, ⍰ ⍰⍰C⍰ N, ⍰nternational Journal of Constitutional Law ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Ward, Angela. Judicial ⍰eview and the ⍰i⍰⍰hts of Private Parties in ⍰⍰ Law (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰d ed.).

Warner, Marina. ⍰lone of ⍰ll ⍰er Se⍰⍰The M⍰th and the Cult of the ⍰in⍰ ⍰in Mar⍰ (New York, NY: Vintage Books, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

⍰ ⍰ ⍰ . Monuments and Maidens⍰ The ⍰lle⍰or⍰ of the ⍰emale ⍰orm (New York, NY: Atheneum, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wasby, Stephen L., and Martha Humphries Ginn. Triage in Appellate Courts: Cross-Level Comparison, ⍰⍰ Judicature ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Watkin, Thomas G. ⍰The Powers That Be Are Seated⍰: Symbolism in English Law and the English Legal System, in ⍰echts⍰⍰m⍰olik und Wertevermittlun⍰⍰ ⍰The S⍰m⍰olism of Jusice and the Conve⍰ance of Moral ⍰alues⍰ (Reinder Schultze ed., Berlin, Germany: Duncker and Humblot, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Weale, W. H. James. ⍰erard David⍰ ⍰Painter and ⍰luminator (London, England: Seeley ⍰ Company, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Weinrib, Lorraine E. The Supreme Court of Canada in the Age of Rights: Constitutional Democracy, the Rule of Law and Fundamental Rights under Canada's Constitution, ⍰⍰ Canadian Bar ⍰eview ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Weisser, Michael R. Crime and Punishment in ⍰ar⍰ Modern ⍰urope (Atlantic Highlands, NJ: Humanities Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Welch, Michael. Guant⍰namo Bay as a Foucauldian Phenomenon: An Analysis of Penal Discourse, Technologies and Resistance, ⍰⍰ Prison Journal ⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

West, Robin L. Pro⍰ressive Constitutionalism⍰⍰ ⍰econstructin⍰ the ⍰our⍰teenth ⍰mendment (Durham, NC: Duke University Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wetenhall, John. Camelot's Legacy to Public Art: Aesthetic Ideology in the New Frontier, ⍰⍰ ⍰rt Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wheeler, Russell R. ⍰ New Jud⍰⍰ ⍰ntroduction to ⍰ederal Judi⍰cial ⍰dministration (Washington, DC: Federal Judicial Center, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wheeler, Russell R., and Cynthia Harrison. Creatin⍰ the ⍰ederal Judi⍰cial S⍰stem (Washington, DC: Federal Judicial Center, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰d ed.).

Whitman, James Q. The Moral Menace of Roman Law and the Making of Commerce: Some Dutch Evidence, ⍰⍰⍰ ⍰ale Law Journal ⍰⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

⍰ ⍰ ⍰ . Ancient Rights and Wrongs: At the Origins of Law and the State: Supervision of Violence, Mutilation of Bodies, or Setting of Prices⍰, ⍰⍰⍰ Chica⍰o⍰⍰ent Law ⍰eview ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wildhaber, Luzius. The ⍰uropean Court of ⍰uman ⍰i⍰⍰hts, ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰ ⍰istor⍰, ⍰chievements, ⍰eform* (Kehl, Germany: N. P. Engel, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Will, Hubert L., Robert R. Merhige Jr., and Alvin B. Rubin. The Role of the Judge in the Settlement Process, ⍰⍰ ⍰ederal ⍰ules Decisions ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Williamson, Chilton. Bentham Looks at America, ⍰⍰ Political Science ⍰uarter⍰ ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wiltenburg, Joy. The Carolina and the Culture of the Common Man: Revisiting the Imperial Penal Code of ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰⍰ ⍰enaissance ⍰uar⍰terl⍰ ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wind, Edgar. Platonic Justice, Designed by Raphael, ⍰ Journal of the War⍰ur⍰ and Courtauld ⍰nstitutes ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

⍰ ⍰ ⍰ . The Four Elements in Raphael's ⍰Stanza della Segnatura,⍰ ⍰ Journal of the War⍰ur⍰ and Courtauld ⍰nstitutes ⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

⍰ ⍰ ⍰ . Pa⍰an M⍰steries in the ⍰enaissance (London, England: Faber and Faber, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Winick, Bruce J., and David B. Wexler. Drug Treatment Court: Therapeutic Jurisprudence Applied ⍰⍰ Touro Law ⍰eview ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Winkle, John W., III. Interbranch Politics: The Administrative Office of U.S. Courts as Liaison, ⍰⍰ Justice S⍰stem Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wippman, David. The Costs of International Justice, ⍰⍰⍰ ⍰merican Journal of ⍰nternational Law ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Witt, John F. Crystal Eastman and the International Beginnings of American Civil Liberties, ⍰⍰ Duke Law Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Wolfrum, Rüdiger, and Ulrike Deutsch (eds.). The ⍰uropean Court of ⍰uman ⍰i⍰⍰hts ⍰verwhelmed ⍰⍰⍰ ⍰pplications⍰ Pro⍰lems and Possi⍰le Solutions (Berlin, Germany: Springer, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Woodlock, Douglas P. The ⍰Peculiar Embarrassment⍰: An Architectural History of the Federal Courts in Massachusetts, ⍰⍰ Massa⍰chusetts Law ⍰eview ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Woods, Mary N. The First American Architectural Journals: The Profession's Voice, ⍰⍰ Journal of the Societ⍰ of ⍰rchitectural ⍰istorians ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

⍰ ⍰ ⍰ . ⍰rom Craft to Profession⍰ The Practice of ⍰rchitecture in Nineteenth⍰Centur⍰ ⍰merica (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Woolf, Harry, Michael McKenzie, Peter MacMahon, Colm O'Cinneide, and Laura Clarke. Review of the Working Methods of the European Court of Human Rights, ⍰⍰ ⍰uman ⍰i⍰⍰hts Law Journal ⍰⍰⍰ (December ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Woolman, Stuart, Michael Bishop, and Theunis Roux (eds.). Consti⍰tutional Law of South ⍰frica (Cape Town, South Africa: Juta ⍰ Company, ⍰⍰⍰⍰, ⍰d ed.).

Wyszomirski, Margaret J. Congress, Presidents, and the Arts: Collaboration and Struggle, ⍰⍰⍰ ⍰nnals of the ⍰merican ⍰cadem⍰ of Polit⍰ical and Social Science ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Yacobi, Haim. Form Follows Metaphors: A Critical Discourse Analysis of the Construction of the Israeli Supreme Court Building in Jerusalem, ⍰ Journal of ⍰rchitecture ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Yeazell, Stephen C. The Misunderstood Consequences of Modern Civil Process, ⍰⍰⍰⍰ Wisconsin Law ⍰eview ⍰⍰⍰.

⍰ ⍰ ⍰ . Re-financing Civil Litigation, ⍰⍰ DePaul Law ⍰eview ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Zander, Michael. The Government's Plans on Civil Justice, ⍰⍰ Modern Law ⍰eview ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

⍰ ⍰ ⍰ . The Government's Plans on Legal Aid and Conditional Fees, ⍰⍰ Modern Law ⍰eview ⍰⍰⍰ (⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Zapalac, Kristin E. S. ⍰⍰n ⍰ is ⍰na⍰e and Likeness⍰⍰ Political ⍰conо⍰ra⍰ph⍰ and ⍰eli⍰ious Chan⍰e in ⍰e⍰ens⍰ur⍰, ⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰⍰ (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Zaret, David. ⍰ri⍰ins of Democratic Culture⍰ Printin⍰, Petitions, and the Pu⍰lic Sphere in ⍰ar⍰⍰ Modern ⍰n⍰land (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, ⍰⍰⍰⍰).

Ziolkowski, Theodore. The Figure of Justice in Western Art and Literature, ⌧⌧ ⌧nmunkwahak⌧The Journal of ⌧ umanities ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ ⌧ ⌧ . The Mirror of Justice⌧ Literar⌧ ⌧e⌧lections of Le⌧al Crises (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Zoller, Elisabeth. ⌧ntroduction to Pu⌧lic Law⌧⌧ Comparative Stud⌧ (Leiden, Netherlands: Martinus Nijhoff, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Zuckerman, Adrian A. S. Civil Procedure (London, England: Lexis-Nexis, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Zuckerman, Adrian A. S., and Ross Cranston (eds.). ⌧eform of Civil Procedure⌧⌧ssa⌧s on ⌧⌧ccess to Justice⌧ (Oxford, England: Oxford University Press, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Zuckert, Michael, Who Is Publius⌧ The Debate Over the Constitution and the American Revolution, in ⌧nli⌧ntenin⌧ ⌧evolutions⌧⌧ssa⌧s in ⌧onor of ⌧alph Lerner (Svetozar Minkov and St⌧phane Douard, eds., Lanham, MD: Lexington Books, ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Zupnick, Irving. Bruegel and the Revolt of the Netherlands, ⌧⌧ ⌧rt Journal ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Caselaw

United States Cases

⌧ke v⌧⌧ klahoma, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧rar v⌧⌧ shcroft, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧d Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧) (en banc).
⌧shcroft v⌧⌧⌧al, ⌧⌧⌧ S. Ct. ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ssociated Press v⌧Department of Defense, ⌧⌧⌧ F. Supp. ⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (S.D.N.Y. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Ballard v⌧Commissioner of ⌧nternal ⌧evenue, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Bell ⌧tlantic Corp⌧v⌧Twom⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Bismullah v⌧⌧ ates, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (D.C. Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Boddie v⌧Connecticut, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Boumediene v⌧Bush, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Brown v⌧Board of ⌧ducation, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Bucke⌧e Check Cashin⌧, ⌧nc v⌧Carde⌧na, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Cale⌧ v⌧⌧ ulfstream ⌧erospace Corp⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧th Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Carde⌧na v⌧Bucke⌧e Check Cashin⌧, ⌧nc⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ So. ⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (Fla. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Care⌧ v⌧Musladin, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Caritativo v⌧California, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Catchpole v⌧Brannon, ⌧⌧ Cal. App. ⌧th ⌧⌧⌧ (Cal. Ct. App. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Chene⌧ v⌧⌧⌧District Court, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Chene⌧ v⌧⌧⌧District Court, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (Scalia, J.) (memorandum).
Circuit Cit⌧ Stores, ⌧nc v⌧⌧ dams, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧th Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Circuit Cit⌧ Stores, ⌧nc v⌧⌧ dams, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Commodit⌧⌧utures Tradin⌧ Commission v⌧Schor, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Connecticut Department of Pu⌧lic Safet⌧ v⌧Doe, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Count⌧ of ⌧lle⌧hen⌧ v⌧⌧ merican Civil Li⌧erties ⌧ nion, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Co⌧ v⌧Louisiana, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Crawford v⌧Washin⌧ton, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Crowell v⌧Benson, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Davidson v⌧New ⌧ rleans, ⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Dav⌧⌧ ⌧⌧ecutors v⌧⌧law, ⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Dean Witter ⌧e⌧nolds, ⌧nc v⌧B⌧rd, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Detroit ⌧ree Press v⌧⌧ shcroft, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧th Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Dusen⌧er ⌧ v⌧⌧ nited States, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧stelle v⌧Williams, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧⌧ parte ⌧ uirin, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ederal Power Commission v⌧Tuscarora ⌧ndian Nation, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ entr⌧ v⌧Superior Court, ⌧⌧⌧ P. ⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (Cal. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ erman⌧⌧ merican ⌧nsurance Co⌧v⌧⌧therton, ⌧⌧ N.W. ⌧⌧⌧ (Neb. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ ideon v⌧Wainwri⌧ht, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ ilmer v⌧⌧nterstate⌧Johnson Lane Corp⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ lidden Co⌧v⌧⌧ danok, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ old⌧er ⌧ v⌧⌧ ell⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ overnment of ⌧ ir⌧in ⌧slands v⌧Charleswell, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧d Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ rannis v⌧⌧ rdean, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ reen Tree ⌧inancial Corp⌧v⌧Ba⌧⌧le, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ reen Tree ⌧inancial Corp⌧⌧ ⌧ la⌧ama v⌧⌧ andolph, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ uerini Stone Co⌧v⌧P⌧⌧Carlin Construction Co⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ uerini Stone Co⌧v⌧P⌧⌧Carlin Construction Co⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ all Street ⌧ ssociates, L⌧L⌧C v⌧Mattel, ⌧nc⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ amdan v⌧⌧ umsfeld, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ amdi v⌧⌧ umsfeld, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ artford Courant Co⌧v⌧Pelle⌧rino, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧ (⌧d Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ a⌧⌧urn⌧ Case, ⌧ U.S. (⌧ Dall.) ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧⌧eria Credit Bureau, ⌧nc v⌧Cin⌧ular Wireless, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧th Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧linois v⌧⌧ llen, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧n re ⌧ uant⌧namo Detainee Cases, ⌧⌧⌧ F. Supp. ⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (D.D.C. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧n re Maron v⌧Silver, ⌧⌧⌧ N.E. ⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (N.Y. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧n re Swan, ⌧⌧⌧ F. Supp. ⌧⌧⌧ (C.D. Cal. ⌧⌧⌧⌧), rev'd sub nom. ⌧ nited States v⌧Wunsch, ⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧th Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Johnson v⌧⌧ ir⌧inia, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Laird v⌧Tatum, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Laird v⌧Tatum, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧) (Rehnquist, J.) (memorandum).
Lassiter v⌧Department of Social Services, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Mallor⌧ v⌧⌧ arkness, ⌧⌧⌧ F. Supp. ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (S.D. Fla. ⌧⌧⌧⌧), aff'd, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧th Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Mar⌧ur ⌧ v⌧Madison, ⌧ U.S. (⌧ Cranch) ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Mathews v⌧⌧ldrid⌧e, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
McCleske⌧ v⌧⌧ emp, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
McCrear⌧ Count⌧, ⌧ entuck⌧ v⌧⌧ merican Civil Li⌧erties ⌧ nion, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Mitsu⌧ishi Motors Corp⌧v⌧Soler Chr⌧sler⌧P⌧mouth, ⌧nc⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
M⌧L⌧B v⌧S⌧L⌧J⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Moore v⌧Dempse⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Mullane v⌧Central ⌧ anover Bank ⌧ Trust Co⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Murra⌧⌧ Lessee v⌧⌧ o⌧oken Land ⌧ ⌧nprovement Co⌧, ⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
NBC Su⌧sidiar⌧⌧ NBC⌧I⌧⌧ ⌧nc v⌧Superior Court, ⌧⌧ Cal. ⌧th ⌧⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
North Jerse⌧ Media ⌧ roup, ⌧nc v⌧⌧ shcroft, ⌧⌧⌧ F.⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧d Cir. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ rtwein v⌧Schwa⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Parents ⌧nvolved in Communit⌧ Schools v⌧Seattle School District No⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
People e⌧ rel⌧Burris v⌧⌧an, ⌧⌧⌧ N.E. ⌧d. ⌧⌧⌧ (Ill. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Pless⌧ v⌧⌧er⌧uson, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Powell v⌧⌧ llstate ⌧nsurance Co⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ So. ⌧d ⌧⌧⌧ (Fla. ⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Press⌧⌧nterprise Co⌧v⌧Superior Court, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Press⌧⌧nterprise Co⌧v⌧Superior Court, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Preston v⌧⌧errer, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ichmond Newspapers, ⌧nc v⌧⌧ ir⌧inia, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧odri⌧ue⌧ de ⌧ ui⌧as v⌧Shearson⌧⌧ merican ⌧⌧press, ⌧nc⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧oe v⌧Wade, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
⌧ushen v⌧Spain, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Sanche⌧⌧Llamas v⌧⌧ re⌧on, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Seattle Times Co⌧v⌧⌧hinehart, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Sheppard v⌧Ma⌧well, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Southland Corp⌧v⌧⌧ eatin⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).
Stump v⌧Sparkman, ⌧⌧⌧ U.S. ⌧⌧⌧ (⌧⌧⌧⌧).

Tennessee v. Lane, ___ U.S. ___ (____).
Tume v. ___hio, ___ U.S. ___ (____). ___nited States v. Will, ___ U.S. ___ (____). ___an ___rden v. Perry, ___ U.S. ___ (____).
Wilkinson v. ___ustin, ___ U.S. ___ (____).
Wilko v. Swan, ___ U.S. ___ (____).

Non–United States Cases

___nderson on Behalf of the Spinifex People v. State of Western ___ustralia ____ F.C.R. ____; available at ____ WL _____ (Australia).
___rnelova ___liev v. Bul___aria, App. No. _____/__ (Eur. Ct. H.R. ____).
___vena and ___ther Me___ican Nationals (Me___ico v. ___nited States), ____ I.C.J. __ (Mar. __).
Bosnia and ___er___ovina v. Ser___ia and Montene___ro, ____ I.C.J. __ (Feb. __).
Boswell's Case, (____) __ Eng. Rep. ___ (K.B.).
Botmeh and ___lami v. ___nited ___in___dom, App. No. _____/__, __ Eur. H. R. Rep. ___ (____).
Caesar v. Trinidad and To___a___o, ____ Inter-Am. Ct. H.R. (ser. C) No. ___ (Mar. __).
Case _____, Parti ___colo___iste ___Les ___erts v. Parliament, ____ E.C.R. ____.
Case C_____, ___llon v. ___ccrin___ton & ___ossendale Colle___e, ____ E.C.R. I-____.
Case C_____, Commission v. ___reland, ____ E.C.R. I-____.
Case T_____, ___rance v. ___viation v. Commission, ____ E.C.R. II-____.
Costa ___ica v. Nicara___ua, Cent. Am. Ct. J. (____); reprint, __ American Journal of International Law ___ (____).
Dimes v. ___rand Junction Canal, __ Eng. Rep. ___ (H.L. ____).
Doctors for Life ___nternational v. Speaker of the National ___ssem___ and ___thers, ____ (__) BCLR ____ (CC) (South Africa).
Doran v. ___reland, ____ Eur. Ct. H.R. ____.
Dr. Bonham's Case, (____) __ Eng. Rep. ___ (K.B.).
Dud___eon v. ___nited ___in___dom, __ Eur. Ct. H.R. (ser. A) (____).
Dunnett v. ___ailtrack PLC, _____ EWCA (Civ.) ___; _____ W.L.R. ____. ___l Salvador v. Nicara___ua, Cent. Am. Ct. J. (____); reprint, __ American Journal of International Law ___ (____).
___ v. Turke___, ____ Eur. Ct. H.R. ____. ___older v. ___nited ___in___dom, Judgment, __ Eur. Ct. H.R. (ser. A) (____). ___alse v. Milton ___e___nes ___eneral N___ S Trust, _____ EWCA (Civ) ___. ___ickman v. Blake Lapthorn, _____ EWHC __ (QB). ___onduras v. Salvador and ___uatemala, Cent. Am. Ct. J. (____); reprint, __ American Journal of International Law ___ (____).
___urst v. Leemin___, _____ EWHC ___ (Ch).
___vcher Bronstein v. Peru, ____ Inter-Am. Ct. H.R. (ser. C) No. __ (Feb. __).
Jussila v. ___inland, __ Eur. Ct. H.R. __ (____). ___ni v. ___erman___, __ Eur. H.R. Rep. ___ (ser. A) (____).
La___rand Case (___erman v. ___nited States), ____ I.C.J. ___ (June __).
Le Compte, ___an Leuven & De Me___ere v. Bel___ium, __ Eur. Ct. H.R. (ser. A) (____).
Lust___ Prean and Beckett v. ___nited ___in___dom, __ Eur. H.R. Rep. ___ (____).
Ma___o v. ___ueensland (___) (____) ___ C.L.R. __ (Australia).
Matatiele Municipalit___ and ___thers v. President of the ___epu___lic of South ___frica and ___thers, ____ (__) BCLR __ (CC) (South Africa).
Matthews v. ___nited ___in___dom, __ Eur. Ct. H.R. ___ (____).
Merafon___ Demarcation ___orum and ___thers v. President of the ___epu___lic of South ___frica and ___thers, ____ (__) SA ___ (CC) (South Africa).
Micallef v. Malta, ____ Eur. Ct. H.R. __.
Militar___ and Paramilitar___ ___ctivities (Nicara___ua v. ___nited States), ____ I.C.J. __ (June __).
Nachova v. Bul___aria (No___), App. Nos. _____/__ and _____/__, __ Eur. H.R. Rep. ___ (____).
Nuclear Tests (___ustralia v. ___rance), ____ I.C.J. ___, ___ (Dec. __).
Prosecutor v. ___unarac, ___ovac & ___ukovic, Case Nos. IT-__-__-T and IT-__-__/__-T, Judgment (Feb. __, ____) (ICTY). ___v. ___askin, (____) ___ Eng. Rep. ____ (K.B.).
___v. ___overnors of Darlin___ton School, (____) ___ Eng. Rep. ___ (Q.B.).
___v. Lord Chancellor, e___ parte Witham, _____ Q.B. ___.
___v. Wilson, (____) ___ Eng. Rep. ___.
___eference re ___emuneration of Jud___es of the Provincial Court of Prince ___dward ___sland, _____ S.C.R. ___ (Canada).
___iepan v. ___ustria, App. No. _____/__, ECHR ____-XII.
___o___al Bank of Canada Trust Corporation Ltd. v. Secretar___ of State for Defence, _____ EWHC ____ (Ch.).
Shin___a v. State and The Societ___ of ___dvocates ___Pietermarit___ur___ Bar, ____ (___) BLCR ___ (CC) (South Africa).
Shira___ama Shokusan Co. Ltd. v. Danovo Ltd., _____ EWHC ____ (Ch.); _____ W.L.R. ____.
Smith and ___rad___ v. ___nited ___in___dom, App. Nos. _____/__ and _____/__, __ Eur. H.R. Rep. ___ (____).
Somerset v. Stewart, (____) __ Eng. Rep. ___ (K.B.); __ Howell's State Trials ___, __.
Stanle___ Merv___n, ___drian ___oun___, and Livin___ston West and ___thers on ___ehalf of the Peoples of the N___aan___at___arra Lands v. Western ___ustralia and ___thers, _____ F.C.R. ___ (Australia).
The Cordillera of the ___ndes Boundar___ Case (___r___entina, Chile), Nov. __, ____, ___ Reports of International Arbitral Awards __ (____).
TW v. Malta, ___pp. No. _____/__, __ Eur. H.R. Rep. ___ (____).
Western ___ustralia v. Commonwealth, (____) ___ C.L.R. ___ (Australia).
Western ___ustralia v. Ward, (____) ___ C.L.R. ___ (Australia).
___von Neptune v. ___aiti, ____ Inter-Am. Ct. H.R. (ser. C) No. ___ (May __).

International Conventions and Treaties

Agreement between the Government of the Republic of Costa Rica and the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Sept. __, ____, reprinted in Inter-American Yearbook on Human Rights ____ at ___, ___ (Dordrecht, Netherlands: Martinus Nijhoff Publishers, ____).

Agreement between the United Nations and Government of Sierra Leone on the Establishment of a Special Court for Sierra Leone, U.N.–Sierra Leone, Jan. __, ____, Appendix II, U.N. Doc. S/____/___.

Agreement Relating to the Implementation of Part XI of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea of __ December ____, July __, ____, ____ U.N.T.S. __.

American Declaration of the Rights and Duties of Man, O.A.S. Res. XXX, International Conference of American States, __th Conf., O.A.S. Doc. OEA/ser. L./ V./I.__ rev. (May __, ____).

Charter of the Organization of American States, Apr. __, ____, __ U.S.T. ____, ___ U.N.T.S. __ (entered into force Dec. __, ____).

Convention for the Creation of an International Criminal Court, opened for signature Nov. __, ____, __ League of Nations Official Journal __ (____) (never entered into force).

Convention for the Establishment of a Central American Court of Justice, Dec. __, ____, __ U.S.T. ____.

Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, Dec. __, ____, __ U.N.T.S. ___.

Convention Respecting the Laws and Customs of War on Land, Oct. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

Council of Europe, Committee of Ministers, Resolution of the Committee of Ministers on Judgments Revealing an Underlying Systemic Problem, ⊠⊠⊠th Sess., Res. (⊠⊠⊠⊠) ⊠ (May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Council of Europe, Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Nov. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, E.T.S. No. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

Council of Europe, Protocol No. ⊠⊠ to the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, Amending the Control System of the Convention, May ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, C.E.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, G.A. Res. ⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠, U.N. Doc. A/RES/⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠ (Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Declaration on the Rights of Persons Belonging to National or Ethnic, Religious and Linguistic Minorities, G.A. Res. ⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠, Annex, U.N. Doc. A/RES/⊠⊠/⊠⊠⊠/Annex (Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Geneva Convention for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Wounded and Sick in Armed Forces in the Field, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ U.S.T. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠.

Geneva Convention for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Wounded, Sick and Shipwrecked Members of Armed Forces at Sea, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠.

Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

Geneva Convention Relative to the Treatment of Prisoners of War, Aug. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ U.S.T. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

Inter-American Convention for the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Persons with Disabilities, June ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, AG/RES. ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (XXIX-O/⊠⊠).

Inter-American Convention on the Forced Disappearance of Persons, June ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, OAS Doc. OEA/Ser.P/AG/Doc. ⊠⊠⊠⊠/⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠), reprinted in ⊠⊠ I.L.M. ⊠⊠⊠⊠.

Inter-American Convention on the Prevention, Punishment and Eradication of Violence against Women, June ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ U.S.T. ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠.

Inter-American Convention to Prevent and Punish Torture, Dec. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, O.A.S.T.S. No. ⊠⊠, reprinted in ⊠⊠ I.L.M. ⊠⊠⊠.

International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, G.A. Res. ⊠⊠⊠⊠A (XXI), U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Organization of American States, American Convention on Human Rights, Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Buenos Aires, Feb. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. ⊠-A.

Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Cartagena de Indias, Dec. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. ⊠⊠.

Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Managua, June ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. A-⊠⊠.

Protocol of Amendment to the Charter of the Organization of American States, Protocol of Washington, Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, O.A.S. Treaty Series No. A-⊠⊠.

Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court, July ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠.

Statute of the Council of Europe, May ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Europe T.S. ⊠, ⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

Statute of the Inter-American Court on Human Rights, O.A.S. Res. ⊠⊠⊠ (IX-⊠/⊠⊠), O.A.S. Off. Rec. OEA/Ser.P/IX.⊠.⊠/⊠⊠, vol. ⊠, at ⊠⊠, Inter-Am. Ct. H.R. ⊠⊠, OEA/Ser.L/V.III.⊠ doc.⊠⊠ corr.⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Treaty Establishing the European Coal and Steel Community, Apr. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

Treaty Establishing the European Economic Community, Mar. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠.

Treaty for the Abolition of the Slave Trade, Britain–Spain, Sept. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ British Foreign and State Papers ⊠⊠.

Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation, United States–Great Britain, Nov. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ Stat. ⊠⊠⊠.

Treaty on European Union, Feb. ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, O.J. (C ⊠⊠⊠) ⊠, reprinted in ⊠⊠ I.L.M. ⊠⊠⊠ (⊠⊠⊠⊠).

United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ U.N.T.S. ⊠⊠⊠.

Universal Declaration of Human Rights, G.A. Res. ⊠⊠⊠A, U.N. GAOR, ⊠d Sess., ⊠st plenary meeting, U.N. Doc. A/⊠⊠⊠ (Dec. ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠).

Painters, Printmakers, and Engravers

Alciatus, Andreas: The ☒ood Prince in his Council, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Arnaud, Maryvonne: Stories, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Bach, Caleb Ives: The ☒☒ects of ☒ ood and Bad ☒ overnment, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒

Bartlett, Ivan (attributed): Mural, Old Ada County Courthouse, Ada, Idaho, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Bol, Ferdinand: Moses Descends from Mount Sinai, circa ☒☒☒☒–☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Canaletto, Giovanni Antonio: The Basin of San Marco with the Bucintoro, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Cauduro, Rafael: The ☒ istor☒ of Justice in Me☒ico☒☒ ☒ape and Corrupt Processes, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒; ☒ ☒ape, Corrupt Processes, and Skulls, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒; ☒ Torture, ☒ omicide, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Courtroom Scene with Last Jud☒ment and Portrait of Niclas Stro☒el, fifteenth century, ☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Couvert, Pascal: ☒ rosse Cloche (☒ reat Bell), circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒

Cruikshank, George: Lord Ma☒or☒ Da☒, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

David, Gerard: The Justice (Jud☒ment) of Cam☒☒ses (diptych), ☒ rrest of the Corrupt Jud☒e, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒☒; ☒la☒in☒ of the Corrupt Jud☒e, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Dürer, Albrecht (attributed): The ☒ool Blind☒ foldin☒ Justice, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Dutch Law and Practice in Civil and Criminal Matters (Pract☒cke der nederlansche rechten van de da☒heli☒ksche soo civile als criminele ☒uestien), engraved title page, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, ☒☒☒

Galle, Philip (attributed): Justice, circa ☒☒☒☒, after a ☒☒☒☒ drawing by Pieter Bruegel the Elder, ☒☒

Garouste, G☒rard: Pacte entre ☒homme et la soci☒☒ (Pact Between Man and Societ☒), ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, ☒☒☒

Giglio, Cesar: Les Ju☒es au☒ mains coup☒es (Jud☒es with Their ☒ ands Cut ☒ ☒), circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Giordano, Luca: ☒ lle☒oria della ☒ uisti☒ia oppressa (Justice Disarmed), circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Hambourg, Andr☒: Justice and Peace, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒

Hirsch, Stefan: Justice as Protector and ☒ven☒er, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Holzer, Jenny: ☒nstallation for the Nantes Courthouse, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒; ☒nstallation for the Sacramento Court☒ house, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒

Kelly, Ellsworth: The Boston Panels, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Krehbiel, Albert H.: Precedent, Justice, and ☒ecord, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒

Lorenzetti, Ambrogio: ☒ lle☒or☒ of ☒ ood ☒ overnment, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒; ☒ lle☒or☒ of Bad ☒ overnment, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒

Maat, detail from the Papyrus Nodjnet, Book of the Dead, circa ☒☒☒☒ BCE, ☒☒, color plate ☒

Master of the Zurich Carnation: Saint Michael Wei☒hin☒ the Souls at the Last Jud☒ment, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒

Matsys, Cornelis: ☒usticia (Justice), circa ☒☒☒☒–☒☒☒☒, ☒, ☒☒☒; Justice and Prudence, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒

☒Mesopotamian Scales☒ Akkadian period, circa ☒☒☒☒–☒☒☒☒ BCE, ☒☒, color plate ☒

Mural with Justice Surrounded ☒☒ from Left to ☒i☒ht, ☒ ristotle, ☒ ir☒il, Cicero and ☒ lanus (Peinture murales avec la Justice entour☒e de ☒auche ☒ droite d☒ ristote, ☒ ir☒ile, Cic☒ron et ☒ lanus), circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Orozco, Jos☒ Clemente: Las ☒ i☒ue☒as Nacionales (National Wealth), ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒; La Justicia (Justice), ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒; ☒ south wall, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒; ☒ south wall (detail), ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Ovens, Jürgen: Justice (or Prudence, Justice, and Peace), ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Picart, Bernard: Traite☒ de Pai☒ (Peace Treaties), ☒☒☒☒, frontispiece, Jean Dumont, Corps universel diplomati☒ue du droit des ☒ens, ☒☒☒

Portrait of World☒ Justice (Mundanae iustitiae e☒ ☒ies) in Joost de Damhoudere's Le☒al Practice in Civil Matters, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Raimondi, Marcantonio: ☒ortitudo (☒ortitude), circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, ☒☒☒

Raphael: Justice, ☒☒☒☒–☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Reynolds, Joshua: Justice, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Rockburne, Dorothea: The ☒ irtues of ☒ ood ☒ overnment, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒

Romano, Giulio: Justice, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Rosse, Herman: Justice, ceiling ornament, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Rubens, Peter Paul: ☒ lle☒or☒ of Justice, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Simkhovitch, Simka: Pursuits of Life in Mississippi, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, ☒☒☒, color plate ☒☒

Szmuk, Peter: The S☒m☒ols, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒☒

The Tri☒unal of ☒ools, from the Bam☒er☒ensis, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Veneziano, Agostino: Prudence, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, ☒☒☒; Temperance, ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒, ☒☒☒

Verrio, Antonio: ☒ ueen ☒ nne as Justice, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Sculptors

Allward, Walter S.: ☒☒ ST☒T☒☒, ☒☒☒☒, ☒

Brooks, Jim, and Judy Brooks: Lad☒ Justice Luc☒, ☒☒☒☒, ☒, color plate ☒

Bucintoro with Justice, maquette of the bow, ☒☒

Ceschiatti, Alfredo: Justice, ☒☒☒☒, ☒

Dixey, John: Justice, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒

☒cclesia, Strasbourg Cathedral, circa ☒☒☒☒, ☒☒

Eicholtz, William: Lad☒ of Justice, ☒☒☒☒, ☒

Entsuba, Katsuzou: Justice, ☒☒☒☒, ☒

Frazier, Malcolm (design by his father, Bernard Frazier): Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠
Harman, Jack: Themis, ⊠ oddess of Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠
Kraus, Romuald: Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Lad⊠ Justice, High Court of Zambia, Lusaka, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠ Mitchell, Jan R.: Lad⊠ of Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠; Moco Jum⊠ie, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; ⊠eachin⊠ Man, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Moore, Diana K.: Lad⊠ Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Nail ⊠i⊠ure, Kongo, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ O'Connor, Andrew: Peace Throu⊠h Justice, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Otterness, Tom: Law of Nature⊠⊠ Cat on Trial, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠; ⊠ Tree of ⊠nowled⊠e, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Papaconstantinou, Maria I.: Themis, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠
Pomeroy, Frederick William: Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠
Quellinus, Artus: Brutus, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; ⊠in⊠ Solomon⊠ Justice, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Justice and Prudence (East wall of the Tribunal), ⊠⊠; Justice, Wealth, ⊠etri⊠ution, ⊠reed, and ⊠nv⊠, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Prudence and Justice, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; ⊠aleucus, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ Sansovino, Jacopo: ⊠enetia⊠⊠ustitia (⊠enice as Justice), ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠
Statuary on the roof of the New York State Supreme Court, Appellate Division, First Judicial Department, New York City, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
S⊠na⊠o⊠a, Strasbourg Cathedral, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ Themis, Constitutional Court of the Azerbaijan Republic, ⊠ van Nost the Younger, John: Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ ⊠ene⊠ia sotto forma di ⊠ iusti⊠ia (⊠enice in the ⊠orm of Justice), bow of a Bucintoro, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠
von Post Totten, Vicken: Darkness, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; Li⊠ht, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠

Photographers

Black, Laurie: Cat on Trial, in Law of Nature, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Tom Otterness), ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Brundige, Elizabeth: Lad⊠ Justice, ⊠
Bryant, Richard: Courtroom interior, Supreme Court of Israel, Jerusalem, Israel, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; entrance, Supreme Court of Israel, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Buckland, Angela: Cell block in the interior courtyard, Old Fort Prison within the Constitutional Court and Complex of South Africa, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠; Constitutional Court of South Africa, foyer, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; Constitutional Court of South Africa, facade, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Burnett, Maria E.: Court tower and barbed wire, Constitutional Court of South Africa, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; interior view from an Old Fort Prison cell within the Constitutional Court and Complex of South Africa, Johannesburg, South Africa, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Clift, William: Justice, Pitkin County Courthouse, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠
Crum, Travis: Camp Justice, Guant⊠namo Bay, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; Logo, Department of Defense, Office of Military Commissions, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Curtis, Dennis E., and Judith Resnik: Construction site, Court of Justice of the European Communities, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; courtroom, Cook County Courthouse, Grand Marais, Minnesota, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; Justice, view from the inner court (John van Nost the Younger), ⊠⊠; Justice, view from the street (John van Nost the Younger), ⊠⊠
Curtis-Resnik, Jonathan: Courtyard of the Arches, Supreme Court of Israel, Jerusalem, Israel, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; mosaic from the Hamat Gader synagogue, Supreme Court of Israel, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; plaque at entrance, Supreme Court of Israel, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; The S⊠m⊠ols, Supreme Court of Israel, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; The S⊠m⊠ols (detail), Supreme Court of Israel, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
D-Vorm, Leidschendam, the Netherlands: Great Hall, Peace Palace, International Court of Justice, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Ermansons, Teodors: Brochure for Lady Justice banner exhibit, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Esch, Hans Georg: Exterior, International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, Hamburg, Germany, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Fein, Michael: Supreme Court of Israel, Jerusalem, Israel, ⊠⊠⊠; interior corridor, ⊠⊠⊠
Fessy, G.: Mesh above the Grand Courtroom of the Court of Justice of the European Communities, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; interior of the Great Courtroom of the Court of Justice of the European Communities, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠; towers of the Court of Justice of the European Communities, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Fisher, Jon: New York State Supreme Court, Appellate Division, First Judicial Department, New York City, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; statuary on the roof of the New York State Supreme Court, Appellate Division, First Judicial Department, New York City, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Gilyard, Glenn: James A. Sommerness Memorial, Cook County Courthouse, Grand Marais, Minnesota, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Grooms, Thomas: John Joseph Moakley United States Courthouse, in United States Courthouse Buildings and Renovations: A Sampling, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Herbert, Gerald: Demonstrators on the plaza and steps of the United States Supreme Court, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Hesmerg, Erik, and Petra Hesmerg: Brutus, west wall of the Tribunal, Amsterdam Town Hall, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Artus Quellinus), ⊠⊠; east wall of the Tribunal with Justice and Prudence, Amsterdam Town Hall, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Artus Quellinus), ⊠⊠; interior of Tribunal, Amsterdam Town Hall, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Artus Quellinus), ⊠⊠; Justice, ⊠⊠; ⊠in⊠ Solomon⊠ Justice, Amsterdam Town Hall, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Artus Quellinus), ⊠⊠; ⊠aleucus, west wall of the Tribunal, Amsterdam Town Hall, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Artus Quellinus), ⊠⊠
Hosefros, Paul: Mural, Old Ada County Courthouse, Ada, Idaho, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (attributed to Ivan Bartlett), ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Irwin, Ken: Lad⊠ of Justice (William Eicholtz), ⊠
Jackson, Wm. Henry: United States Post Office, Denver, Colorado, ⊠⊠⊠
Johnson, Don: The ⊠irtues of ⊠ood ⊠overn⊠ ment, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, color plate ⊠
Lac⊠ne, Chryst⊠le: Pacte entre ⊠omme et la soci⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (G⊠rard Garouste), ⊠⊠⊠; Pacte entre ⊠omme et la soci⊠⊠ (detail), ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (G⊠rard Garouste), ⊠⊠⊠
Landreville, Philippe: ⊠⊠ ST⊠T⊠⊠ (Walter S. Allward), ⊠
Larsen, Steffen: Lad⊠ of Justice (Jan R. Mitchell), ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠; Moco Jum⊠ie (Jan R. Mitchell), ⊠⊠⊠; ⊠eachin⊠ Man (Jan R. Mitchell), ⊠⊠⊠
Lednum, Taylor: United States Courthouse Buildings and Renovations: A Sampling, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠: ⊠ Alfonse D'Amato United States Courthouse, Central Islip, New York; ⊠ United States Courthouse, Corpus Christi, Texas; ⊠ Spottswood W. Robinson III and Robert R. Merhige Jr. Federal Courthouse, Richmond, Virginia; ⊠ United States Courthouse, Tallahassee, Florida; ⊠ Wilkie D. Ferguson, Jr. United States Courthouse, Miami, Florida; ⊠ William B. Bryant United States Courthouse Annex, Washington D.C., ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Linden, Mikael: Helsinki District Court, Helsinki, Finland, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Long, Lois: The Contemplation of Justice and the inscription ⊠Equal Justice under Law⊠ United States Supreme Court, Washington, D.C., ⊠⊠⊠
Martin Saunders Photography: Commonwealth Law Courts, Melbourne, Australia, ⊠⊠⊠
Mathers, Michael: Tree of ⊠nowled⊠e (detail) (Tom Otterness), ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
McIlwain, Mary: Atrium, Commonwealth Law Courts, Melbourne, Australia, ⊠⊠⊠
Montagn⊠, Caroline: ⊠rosse Cloche (Pascal Couvert), ⊠⊠⊠

Monthiers, Jean-Marie: Exterior, Palais de Justice, Bordeaux, France, ⧫⧫⧫; Palais de Justice, Melun, France: ⧫ Exterior, ⧫⧫⧫; ⧫ Stories (Maryvonne Arnaud), ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫
Muhammad, Ozier: ⧫Mural of Saddam Hussein with the scales of justice,⧫ ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫
Nicholls, Robert W.: Mystical Mocko Jumbies, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫
Noce, David D.: Thomas F. Eagleton Federal Courthouse, St. Louis, Missouri, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Ohman, Doug: Cook County Courthouse, Grand Marais, Minnesota, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫
Ooms, Frank: Wayne Lyman Morse United States Courthouse, in United States Courthouse Buildings and Renovations: A Sampling, ⧫⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫
Otterness, Tom: Tree of ⧫nowled⧫e in Law of Nature, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; Tree of ⧫nowled⧫e (detail), ⧫⧫⧫
Richards, Paul J.: Outer fence and guard tower, U.S. Naval Station in Guant⧫namo Bay (Camps ⧫ and ⧫ at Camp Delta), Cuba, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Rosand, David: ⧫enetia⧫⧫ıustitia (⧫enice as Justice) (Jacopo Sansovino), ⧫⧫
Rosenthal, Steve: John Joseph Moakley United States Courthouse, Boston, Massachusetts: ⧫ The Boston Panels, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Ellsworth Kelly), ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; ⧫ Exterior, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; ⧫ Great Hall, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; ⧫ Interior of a courtroom, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫
Ruault, Philippe: ⧫nstallation for the Nantes Courthouse, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Jenny Holzer), ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫
Sheppard, Bob: Federal Court of Australia sitting in Parntirrpi Bore Outstation, Great Victoria Desert, Australia, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Silverman, Steve: Grand Forks Post Office and Federal Courthouse, Grand Forks, North Dakota, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Tiainen, Jussi: Helsinki District Court, Helsinki, Finland, interior, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; a courtroom, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Wallocha, Stephan: Oral proceedings, International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Weltin, Sandro: European Court of Human Rights, Strasbourg, France, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Wheeler, Nick: Lad⧫ Justice, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Diana K. Moore), ⧫⧫⧫, detail, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; Warren B. Rudman Courthouse, ⧫⧫⧫
Wogenscky, Olivier: Nantes, salle d'audience (courtroom) ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; Palais de Justice, Fort de France, Martinique, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; Palais de Justice, Nantes, France, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, color plates ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫; Parlement de Bretagne, Rennes, France, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫

Cartoonists

Allen, Ivan: ⧫Justice in the Cross Hairs,⧫ ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (The ⧫conomist), xviii
Bartkus, Ray: Cartoon accompanying the article ⧫A Trial for Chinese Justice,⧫⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Wall Street Journal), ⧫
Conrad, Paul: ⧫Alternative to Roe vs. Wade,⧫ ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Los ⧫n⧫eles Times), ⧫
Danziger, Jeff: ⧫Don't Worry, She's Blind,⧫ ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (New York Times Syndicate), ⧫⧫⧫
Emerson: ⧫Critics charge that recent decisions manifest a blind disregard for the Constitution,⧫⧫⧫⧫⧫ (⧫acts ⧫orum News), ⧫

Buildings

Australia

Commonwealth Law Courts, Melbourne, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (HASSELL: Tim Shannon and Paul Katsieris), ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Federal Court of Australia, sitting at the Great Victoria Desert, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Supreme Court of Victoria, Melbourne, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Alfred Louis Smith), ⧫⧫⧫; courtroom, ⧫⧫⧫

Costa Rica

Inter-American Court of Human Rights, San Jos⧫, circa ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; courtroom, ⧫⧫⧫
Palacio de la Paz (Central American Court of Justice), Cartago, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫

Egypt

Mixed Courts of Egypt, Alexandria, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫

Finland

Helsinki District Court, Helsinki, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Tuomo Siitonen Architects), ⧫⧫⧫; interior and courtroom, ⧫⧫⧫

France

European Court of Human Rights, Strasbourg, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Richard Rogers), ⧫⧫⧫
Palais de Justice, Bordeaux, France, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Richard Rogers), ⧫⧫⧫
Palais de Justice, Fort de France, Martinique, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Paul Chemetov and Borja Huidobro), ⧫⧫⧫
Palais de Justice, Melun, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Fran⧫oise Jorda and Gilles Perraudin), ⧫⧫⧫
Palais de Justice, Nantes, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Jean Nouvel), ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ color plate ⧫⧫; salle des pas perdus (foyer), ⧫⧫⧫; salle d'audience (courtroom), ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫
Parlement de Bretagne, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Alain-Charles Perrot), ⧫⧫⧫

Germany

International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, Hamburg, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Baron Alexander Freiherr von Branca and Baroness Emanuela Freiin von Branca), aerial view, ⧫⧫⧫; exterior, ⧫⧫⧫

Israel

Supreme Court of Israel, Jerusalem, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Ada Karmi-Melamede and Ram Karmi), ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; courtroom interior, ⧫⧫⧫; Courtyard of the Arches, ⧫⧫⧫; interior corridor, ⧫⧫⧫

Japan

Supreme Court of Japan, Tokyo, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Shinichi Okada), ⧫

Luxembourg

European Court of Justice of the European Communities: construction site, ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; Erasmus Building, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Bohdan Paczowski, Paul Fritsch, Jean Herr, and Gilbert Huyberechts), ⧫⧫⧫; the Great Courtroom, Court of Justice of the European Communities, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; Le Palais, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Jean-Paul Conzemius, Fran⧫ois Jamagne, and Michel Vander Elst), ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; main courtroom, Le Palais, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; towers of the Court of Justice of the European Communities, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Dominique Perrault), ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫

Mexico

Supreme Court of Justice, interior murals, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, color plates ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫

The Netherlands

Amsterdam Town Hall (Royal Palace), ⧫⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Jacob van Campen), ⧫⧫; east wall of the Tribunal (Vierschaar), ⧫⧫; interior of the Tribunal, ⧫⧫; west wall of the Tribunal, ⧫⧫
International Criminal Court, interim premises, The Hague, circa ⧫⧫⧫⧫: a courtroom, ⧫⧫⧫; exterior, ⧫⧫⧫
Peace Palace, International Court of Justice, The Hague, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Louis M. Cordonnier), ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; Annex to the Peace Palace, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Brouwer and Deurvorst), ⧫⧫⧫; Great Hall of Justice, ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫; inner courtyard of the Peace Palace with polar bear fountain, circa ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; main staircase, ⧫⧫⧫; sitting in the Great Hall, ⧫⧫⧫; Small Hall of Justice, ⧫⧫⧫
Town Hall, Gouda, ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (Jan Keldermans), ⧫⧫⧫

South Africa

Constitutional Court of South Africa, Johannesburg, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Janina Masojada, Andrew Makin, OMM Design Workshop, and Paul Wygers): cell block in the interior courtyard, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠; court tower, ⊠⊠⊠; facade, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠; foyer, ⊠⊠⊠; interior view from an Old Fort Prison cell, ⊠⊠⊠

United States

⊠ederal

Dolley Madison House, Washington, D.C., ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Federal Building, United States Post Office, and Courthouse, Missoula, Montana, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (James Knox Taylor), ⊠⊠⊠
Grand Forks Post Office and Federal Courthouse, Grand Forks, North Dakota, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (James Knox Taylor), ⊠⊠⊠
John Joseph Moakley United States Courthouse, Boston, Massachusetts, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Henry N. Cobb), ⊠⊠⊠
Joint Task Force (JTF) Guant⊠namo Commissions Building, Guant⊠namo Bay, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, building, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; Camp Justice, ⊠⊠⊠; entrance, ⊠⊠⊠; Hearing Room Interior, ⊠⊠⊠; outer fence and guard tower, ⊠⊠⊠
Thomas F. Eagleton Federal Courthouse, St. Louis, Missouri, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Hellmuth, Obata ⊠ Kassabaum Inc.), ⊠⊠⊠
Thurgood Marshall Federal Judiciary Building, Washington, D.C., ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Lee/Timchula Architects), ⊠⊠⊠
United States Court House and Post Office, Des Moines, Iowa, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Alfred B. Mullett), ⊠⊠⊠
United States Courthouse, New York City, New York, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Cass Gilbert), ⊠⊠⊠ United States Courthouse and Jail, Fairbanks, Alaska, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ United States Custom House, Galveston, Texas, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Ammi B. Young), ⊠⊠⊠
United States Post Office (United States Court House and Post Office), Denver, Colorado, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Mi⊠ in E. Bell and Will A. Freret), ⊠⊠⊠
United States Post Office and Courthouse, Denver, Colorado, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Tracy, Swartwout ⊠ Litchfield), ⊠⊠⊠
United States Post Office and Courthouse, San Juan, Puerto Rico, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (James Knox Taylor), ⊠⊠⊠
United States Post Office and Custom House, San Diego, California, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (James Knox Taylor), ⊠⊠⊠
United States Post Office, Court House, and Custom House, Biloxi, Mississippi, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (James Knox Taylor), ⊠⊠⊠
United States Supreme Court, Washington, D.C., ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Cass Gilbert), ⊠⊠⊠
Warren B. Rudman Federal Courthouse, Concord, New Hampshire, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (John D. Detley), ⊠⊠⊠

State

Cook County Courthouse, Grand Marais, Minnesota, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (Kelly and Lignell), ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
New York State Supreme Court, Appellate Division, First Judicial Department, New York City, New York, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (James Brown Lord), ⊠⊠⊠
Pitkin County Courthouse, Aspen, Colorado, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠ (William Quay), ⊠⊠

Logos and Seals

Logo of the Department of Defense, Office of Military Commissions, ⊠⊠⊠ Logo of the European Court of Justice, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Logo of the International Court of Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Logo of the International Criminal Court, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Logo of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Logo of the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Logo of the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Logo of the Judicial Council of the National Bar Association, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Logo of the Permanent Court of Arbitration after October ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Logo of the Permanent Court of Arbitration before October ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Logo of the Special Court for Sierra Leone, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Provisional Seal of the Iraqi Special Tribunal, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠

Brochures and Other Objects

Brochure cover, Edward T. Gignoux United States Courthouse, Portland, Maine, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (photographer, Don Johnson; artist, Dorothea Rockburne), ⊠⊠, color plate ⊠
Brochure cover, Mexico's Supreme Court of Justice, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ (design: Teresa Lim⊠n Garcia/Retorno Tassier; artist: Jos⊠ Clemente Orozco), ⊠⊠⊠
Brochure for Lady Justice banner exhibit, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, color plate ⊠⊠
Calendar, Ministry of Justice, Government of the Azerbaijan Republic, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠
Certificate awarding Andrew Carnegie honorary membership in the Dutch Society Vrede door Recht, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Decorative cloth with repeated pattern of the High Court of Zambia's figure Lad⊠ Justice, circa ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠, color plate ⊠ Images of pages from the website of the U.S. Department of Defense, DefenseLINK News Closed-circuit television system, Joint Task Force Guant⊠namo, hearing room, ⊠⊠⊠; Joint Task Force Guant⊠namo Commissions Building at Guant⊠namo Bay, ⊠⊠⊠

Graphs and Charts

Article III Authorized Judgeships: District, Circuit, and Supreme Courts, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Authorized Judgeships in Federal Courts and in Federal Agencies as of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Budget d'investissement ⊠⊠⊠⊠, from Annual Report of Agence Publique pour l'Immobilier de la Justice (APIJ), in the Agence de Ma⊠trise d'Ouvrage des Travaux du Minist⊠re de la Justice (AMTOMJ), ⊠⊠⊠
Civil and Criminal Filings in United States District Courts: ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Civil and Criminal Trial Rates, United States Federal Courts, ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Construction and/or Site ⊠ Design Projects, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ to Present, in The Third Branch⊠ Newsletter of the ⊠ederal Courts, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Estimate of Evidentiary Proceedings in Federal Courts and in Four Federal Agencies, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Example of cellular phone contract, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
The Judicial Dollar, Annual Report of the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
The Judicial Dollar, Annual Report of the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠
Regional and International Courts: Budgets in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ Regional and International Courts: Pending Caseloads in ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠

Page numbers for entries in figures are followed by an f and those for entries in notes by an n.

ABA. See American Bar Association
Abolition of Forced Labor Convention (□□□□), □□□ Abolition of the Slave Trade, Treaty for the (Great Britain–Spain, □□□□), □□□, □□□n□ abortion rights, □f, □, □□□n□□
Abraham, Stephen, □□□
Abstinence (Virtue), □. See also Virtues abstraction: in Kelly's Boston panels, □□□–□□□; public art controversies over, □□□–□□□, □□□n□□□; and representational art, evolution of preference for, □□□–□□□; in Rockburne's artwork, □□, □□□n□□□; in WPA art, □□□, □□□n□□
Abu Ghraib prison (Iraq), □□□
Academy of Architecture for Justice (AAJ), □□□, □□□, □□□n□□. See also American Institute of Architects accessibility, physical: of adjudication, □□□–□□□, □□□–□□□, □□□–□□□; of administrative adjudication, □□□–□□□; of alternative dispute resolution, □□□–□□□; of European Court of Human Rights, □□□; of French courts, □□□–□□□; of Guant□namo Bay, □□□–□□□; of interior spaces, □□□–□□□, □□□–□□□; of Israeli Supreme Court, □□□–□□□; of Minnesota county courts, □□□–□□□; of South Africa's Constitutional Court, □□□–□□□; of U.S. courthouses, □□□, □□□n□□; of U.S. federal buildings, □□□–□□□, □□□f, □□□n□□□. See also courthouse security; public access to courts access to courts: alternative forms of, role of, □□, □□□; architecture and, xv, □□, □□□, □□□, □□□–□□□, □□□–□□□, □□□, □□□, □□□; audience and, □□–□□, □□□; critics of expanded, □□□; common law rights to, □□□, □□□–□□□; constitutional rights to, □□□–□□□, □□□, □□□; convention rights to, □□, □□□–□□□, □□□; decline of, □□–□□, □□□, □□□–□□□, □□□; disability and, □□□–□□□, □□□, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□; empirical studies of, □□□; equality and, □□, □□, □□□–□□□, □□□; fees charged for (See user fees); financial assistance for (See legal aid); glass as symbol of, □□, □□□, □□□–□□□, □□□; to international courts, □□□, □□□, □□□–□□□; lawyers' role in, □□□; by public (See public access); for terrorist suspects, □□, □□□; transnational, presumption of, □□, □□□ Access to Justice Act of □□□□ (UK), □□□, □□□n□□□ access to justice movement, □□□, □□□n□□
Ackerman, Bruce, □□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□
ACLU. See American Civil Liberties Union
Act of Settlement of □□□□ (England), □□, □□, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□□
Adams, John, □□□, □□□n□□
Ad Hoc Committee on Government Office Space (U.S.), □□□–□□□, □□□–□□□, □□□n□□□. See also Moynihan, Daniel Patrick adjudication, □□□–□□□; alternatives to, □□□ (See also alternative dispute resolution); and arbitration, □□□, □□□; as contributor to democracy, □□, □□□–□□□; constraint of power through, □□□, □□□; critics of current system of, □□□; decline of, □□–□□, □□□, □□□, □□□; demand and capacity in, □□□–□□□; effects on democracy, □□–□□, □□□–□□□; empirical studies of need for, □□□; fairness in, □□□; □hear the other side□ in, □□, □□□–□□□; as indicator of governance, □□□; individuals' access to (See access to courts); judicial independence in, □□□–□□□; pillars of, □□, □□, □□□, □□□; as proto-democratic, xv, □□, □□□; task forces on, □□□, □□□–□□□, □□□; U.N. principles of, □□□n□□. See accessibility, physical; privatization of adjudication; public access to courts ad litem judges, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□□ administrative agencies: adjudication by, □□□–□□□; evidentiary hearings in, □□□, □□□–□□□, □□□f; facilities for, □□□, □□□; and Guant□namo Bay, □□□; number of judges in, □□□, □□□f; public access to, □□□–□□□; publication of decisions of, □□□; rise of, □□–□□, □□□, □□□f, □□□
Administrative Conference of the United States (ACUS), □□□n□□□ administrative judges, □□□, □□□ administrative law judges (ALJs), □□□, □□□f, □□□, □□□n□□□. See also administrative agencies; tribunals Administrative Office (AO) of the United States Courts: on air conditioning, □□□n□□; annual reports of, □□□, □□□f, □□□f; budget of, □□□, □□□n□□; data collection by, □□□, □□□n□□; directors of, □□□, □□□n□□□; Dolley Madison House as headquarters of, □□□, □□□f; establishment of, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□; on federal courtroom space, □□□; functions of, □□□, □□□; □ S□ Des□n □ uides and, □□□, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□; GSA in conflict with, □□□; Marshall Building headquarters of, □□□–□□□; on need for courthouse construction, □□□, □□□–□□□; Office of Legislative Affairs of, □□□n□□; on rent costs, □□□–□□□, □□□f, □□□f, □□□–□□□; role in courthouse construction, □□□–□□□, □□□n□□; Space and Facilities Division of, □□□, □□□n□□; staff of, number of, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□□; on weighted caseloads, □□□n□□
Administrative Procedure Act (APA) of □□□□ (U.S.), □□□, □□□, □□□n□□□ Administrative Review Board (ARB) (classification of detainees in Guant□namo Bay), □□□, □□□–□□□, □□□nn□□□–□□□, □□□n□□□ administrators, court: in national courthouse construction, □□□; types of, □□□. See also Administrative Office (AO) of the United States Courts; Agence de Ma□rise d'Ouvrage des Travaux du Minist□re de la Justice; Conference of Court Public Information Officers; Conference of Senior Circuit Judges; Conference of State Court administrators (continued)

Administrators; Judicial Conference of the United States
ADR. See alternative dispute resolution advisory opinions: of Inter-American Court of Human Rights, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; of International Court of Justice, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; of International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; of Permanent Court of International Justice, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
⧫eneid (Virgil), ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Aequitas (Virtue), ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫. See also equity; justice; Virtues Aeschylus, ⧫resteia, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫ affirmative action, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
African Americans: ⧫colored⧫ terminology for, ⧫⧫⧫; depictions of, in courts, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; fair treatment of, in courts, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; in Judicial Council of National Bar Association, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; as jurors, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in National Bar Association, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; racism against (See racial discrimination; racial segregation)
African art, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; influence on Virgin Islands, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫
Agence de Ma⧫trise d'Ouvrage des Travaux du Minist⧫re de la Justice (AMOTMJ), ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫ agencies. See administrative agencies, administrative law judges, tribunals
AIA. See American Institute of Architects
AiA. See Art-in-Architecture
Aiken (South Carolina), Charles E. Simons Jr. Federal Courthouse in, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Hirsch's ⧫Mulatto⧫ Justice mural in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f ⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫ air conditioning, in federal courthouses, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; JCUS Committee on, ⧫⧫⧫ Aitken, Robert, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Aix-en-Provence (France), courthouse at prison site in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Akkadian language and period, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, color plate ⧫. See also Babylonia; Mesopotamia al-Alwani, Taha Jaber, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Alaska: federal courts in, ⧫⧫⧫; judicial system of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; statehood for, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Albert the Great, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Alberti, Leon Battista, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Albertus Magnus, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Alciatus, Andreas: on blindness, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫; The ⧫ood Prince in his Council, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫; and handless judges, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; ⧫nde⧫ ⧫m⧫lemati⧫cus, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; and legal humanism, ⧫⧫; life of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Plutarch as source for, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; on power of judges, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; as source for Ripa's ⧫onolo⧫ia, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Virtues depicted by, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Alexander III (Pope), ⧫⧫–⧫⧫
Alexander the Great, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
⧫le⧫andreis (Walter of Ch⧫tillon), ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Alfred A. Arraj U.S. Courthouse (Colorado), ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
ALI. See American Law Institute
ALJs. See administrative law judges
Allegories and allegorical figures: Batavians, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Brutus, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫; Conspirac⧫ of Claudius Civilis, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Consul Luscinus, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Consul Marcus Curius Dentatus, ⧫⧫; Herkinbald, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Judgment of Cambyses, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; Lucretia, ⧫⧫; Momus, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; Solomon, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; Trajan, ⧫⧫; Zaleucus, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫. *See also e⧫empla virtutis⧫ e⧫emplum iustitiae⧫*Fiera, Battista allegories of good and bad government, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; in European town halls, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in Vatican, ⧫⧫. See also Bach, Caleb Ives; Lorenzetti, Ambrogio; Rockburne, Dorothea; Siena
Allen, Ivan, xviii, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫
Allentown (Pennsylvania), Edward N. Cahn Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫ allocution, right of, ⧫⧫⧫ Allott, Philip, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Allward, Walter S., ⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫ al Qaeda, as enemy combatants, ⧫⧫⧫. See also Guant⧫namo Bay alternative dispute resolution (ADR), ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; in administrative agencies, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; in Australia, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; confidentiality in, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; conflict avoidance in, ⧫⧫⧫; courthouse suites for, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; and courtroom sharing, ⧫⧫⧫; within courts, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; critics of, ⧫⧫⧫; definition of, ⧫⧫⧫; in Europe, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; government regulation of, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; and Guant⧫namo Bay, ⧫⧫⧫; impact on cases, ⧫⧫⧫; impact on courts, ⧫⧫⧫; judges as managers of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; lawyers' role in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; mandatory private, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; modes of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; professionalization of, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; promoters of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; public access to, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; reasons for supporting, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; rise in support for and use of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; in United Kingdom, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; in United States, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫. See also arbitration; case management; managerial judges; mediation; settlement
Altzenbach, Gerhard, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
American Arbitration Association, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
American Architectural Foundation, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
American Association of Law Schools, ⧫⧫⧫
American Bar Association (ABA): alternative dispute resolution and, ⧫⧫⧫; Canons of Judicial Ethics, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on court budgets, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; on court reform, ⧫⧫⧫; enforcement of codes of conduct of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; establishment of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; mission of, ⧫⧫⧫; Model Code of Judicial Conduct, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on Permanent Court of International Justice, ⧫⧫⧫
American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
American Convention on Human Rights (ACHR), ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
American Declaration of the Rights and Duties of Man (⧫⧫⧫⧫), ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
American Institute of Architects (AIA): Academy of Architecture for Justice associated with, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; and Art-in-Architecture (AiA), ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on art in federal buildings, ⧫⧫⧫; development of professional reputation of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; establishment of, ⧫⧫⧫; Justice ⧫acilities ⧫eview by, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; knowledge communities of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; lobbying for federal patronage by, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; membership of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; mission of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; and Parks Commission, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Peck in, ⧫⧫⧫ American Institute of International Law, ⧫⧫⧫
American Law Institute, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
American Sculpture Society. See National Sculpture Society
American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
American Society of International Law, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Americans with Disabilities Act of ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (U.S.), ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Amersfoort Town Hall (Netherlands), ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫. See also town halls
Amity, Commerce and Navigation, Treaty of (United States–Great Britain, ⧫⧫⧫⧫) (the Jay Treaty), ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫
Amnesty International, ⧫⧫⧫
AMOTMJ. See Agence de Ma⧫trise d'Ouvrage des Travaux du Minist⧫re de la Justice amparo procedure (Mexico), ⧫⧫⧫
Amsterdam (Netherlands): administration of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; approach to architecture in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; burgomasters' role in, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Central Station in, ⧫⧫⧫; civic buildings in, ⧫⧫; Dam Square in, ⧫⧫; Maid of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫; New Exchange at, ⧫⧫⧫; population of, ⧫⧫; Rijksmuseum in, ⧫⧫⧫; seal of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Town Hall in (See Amsterdam Town Hall); townscapes of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Amsterdam Royal Palace. See Amsterdam Town Hall
Amsterdam Town Hall, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; approach to design of, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; authority motif in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; blindfold in, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫; Blinding of Zaleucus in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; burgomasters' role in, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Campen as architect of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Citizens' Hall of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫; classical and religious themes in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫;

construction of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; and death sentences, rituals of, [illegible]–[illegible]; as eighth wonder of the world, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; exterior of, [illegible]f, [illegible]; "hear the other side" in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Judgment of Brutus in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; Judgment of Solomon in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; Justice depicted in, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]; Last Judgment in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; Magistrates' Chamber of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; multiple functions of, [illegible]–[illegible]; original building of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; pain motif in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Peace Palace compared to, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; prosperity and, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; public executions and, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; as Royal Palace, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; torture in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Tribunal (Vierschaar) of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; Virtues depicted in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; zodiac in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also town halls

Ancien Régime, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

Anderson, Benedict, [illegible]

Andrews, Carol, [illegible]n[illegible]

Anger (Vice), [illegible]. See also Vices; Psychomachia animals: in French imagery, [illegible]; in Justice iconography, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Otterness's artwork, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Crane(s); Dog(s); Eagle(s); Ostrich(es); Snakes and serpents

Anne, Queen of England: accession of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; at Hampton Court Palace, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; as Justice, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; power of, [illegible]n[illegible]; Verrio's painting of, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]

Anthony, Susan B., quotation from, [illegible] anti-federalism, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] anti-Semitism, [illegible]–[illegible] anti-slavery courts, [illegible]–[illegible]

Antoninus Pius, Emperor of Rome, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

Antwerp Court House (Belgium), [illegible]n[illegible]. See also town halls appellate courts, U.S.: number of filings in, [illegible], [illegible]; number of judges in, [illegible]; settlements in, [illegible]–[illegible] appointment of judges: economic influences in, [illegible]; merit selection commissions in, [illegible]; public's role in, [illegible]

Aptekar, Jane, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

Aquinas, Thomas: on distributive and commutative justice, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; interpretation of Aristotle by, [illegible]–[illegible]; and Siena, [illegible]n[illegible]; on theories of justice, [illegible]–[illegible]; on Virtues, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] arbitration: compared to adjudication, [illegible], [illegible]; competition among providers of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; confidentiality in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; court-annexed, [illegible]; definition of, [illegible]; in England, [illegible]–[illegible]; government regulation of, [illegible]; international use of, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; mandatory private, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; mixed, [illegible]; of territorial disputes, [illegible]; U.N. rules for, [illegible]; use of term, [illegible]; voluntary, [illegible]

Arbitration, Permanent Court of. See Permanent Court of Arbitration

Arbitration Acts (UK): of [illegible], [illegible]; of [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]

Arbitration Fairness Act of [illegible] (proposed legislation, U.S.), [illegible]n[illegible] architect(s): courthouses known by name of, [illegible]; etymology of term, [illegible]n[illegible]; development of courthouse specialty of, [illegible]; as federal judiciary staff, [illegible]n[illegible]; in GSA Design Excellence Program, [illegible]; in juries for architectural competitions, [illegible]; lobbying by, [illegible]; in national courthouse construction, [illegible]; professionalization of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in public art selection, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Architect of the Capitol; Bell, Mi[illegible] in E.; Branca, Alexander Freiherr von; Branca, Emanuela Freiin von; Chemetov, Paul; Ciriani, Henri; Cobb, Harry; Conzemius, Jean-Paul; Cordonnier, Louis M.; Detley, John D.; Elst, Michel Vander; Freret, Will A.; Fritsch, Paul; Garc[illegible]a, Antonio Mu[illegible]oz; Gaudin, Henri; Gilbert, Cass; HASSELL; Hellmuth, Obata [illegible] Kassbaum; Herr, Jean; Huidobro, Borja; Huyberechts, Gilbert; Jamagne, Francois; Jorda, Francoise; Karmi, Ram; Karmi-Melamade, Ada; Katsieris, Paul; Keldermans, Jan; Kelly and Lignell; Kohn, Bernard; Lee/Timchula; Lord, James Brown; Makin, Andrew; Masojada, Janina; Mullett, Alfred B.; Nouvel, Jean; OMM Design Workshop; Paczowski, Bohdan; Parraudin, Gilles; Perrault, Dominique; Perrot, Alain-Charles; Rogers, Richard; Shannon, Tim; Smith, Alfred Lewis; Stern, Robert; Supervising Architect, Office of the; Taylor, James Knox; Tracy, Swartwout [illegible] Litchfield; Urban Solutions; Wygers, Paul; Tuomo Siitonen; Young, Ammi B.

Architect of the Capitol, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

Architectural Barriers Act of [illegible] (U.S.), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

architectural competitions: in France, [illegible]–[illegible]; in GSA Design Excellence Program, [illegible]–[illegible]; for International Criminal Court design, [illegible]–[illegible]; for International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in Israel, [illegible]–[illegible]; for Mexican Supreme Court design, [illegible]–[illegible]; origins of paradigm of, [illegible]–[illegible]; for Peace Palace design, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; for South African Constitutional Court design, [illegible]; for U.S. federal buildings, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible] architectural critics: on Australian courthouses, [illegible]–[illegible]; on European Court of Human Rights, [illegible], [illegible]; on European Court of Justice, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; on Finnish courthouses, [illegible]; on French courthouses, [illegible], [illegible]; on Israeli Supreme Court, [illegible]–[illegible]; on Mexican Supreme Court, [illegible]; on modern courthouses, [illegible], [illegible]; NEA as, [illegible]–[illegible]; on Peace Palace, [illegible], [illegible]; on South African Constitutional Court, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; on U.S. Supreme Court, [illegible]–[illegible]

Architectural League, [illegible]n[illegible] architectural styles: Art Deco, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Beaux Arts, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Byzantine, [illegible]; Classical, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Classical Revival, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; Flemish Gothic, [illegible]; French Second Empire, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Gothic, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Greek Revival, [illegible]; High Renaissance Dutch, [illegible]; International, [illegible], [illegible]; Italianate, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Moorish, [illegible]; national, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Neoclassical, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Neo-Gothic, [illegible]; Renaissance Revival, [illegible], [illegible]; Romanesque, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Russian Constructivism, [illegible]; Second Renaissance Revival, [illegible]n[illegible]; Spanish Colonial Revival, [illegible]; Victorian, [illegible] architecture: art in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Bentham on publicity through, [illegible]; values in, [illegible]. See also courthouse architecture

Arendt, Hannah, [illegible]

Aristotle: and camera obscura, [illegible]n[illegible]; on common good, [illegible]; Ethics, [illegible]; on friendship, [illegible]; in Geneva, [illegible]; in Holzer's artwork, [illegible]; Nicomachean Ethics, [illegible]; in Siena, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Thomas Aquinas on, [illegible]–[illegible]; on Virtues, [illegible]

Arnaud, Maryvonne, [illegible], [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]

Arnold, Linda, [illegible]

art: as feature of architecture, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]. See also public art

Art Deco architectural style, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]

Art Digest, [illegible]

Art-in-Architecture (AiA) (U.S.), [illegible]–[illegible]; administration of, [illegible]; and American Institute of Architects (AIA), [illegible]n[illegible]; artists involved in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Caleb Bach in, [illegible]–[illegible]; community involvement in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; controversy in, [illegible]–[illegible]; diversity in, [illegible], [illegible]; establishment of, [illegible]; French set-aside program and, [illegible]–[illegible]; Jenny Holzer in, [illegible]–[illegible]; impact of, [illegible], [illegible]; Ellsworth Kelly in, [illegible]–[illegible]; local history in, [illegible]; mission of, [illegible]; Jan Mitchell's Justice sculpture in Virgin Islands under,[illegible]; Diana Moore in, [illegible]–[illegible]; Tom Otterness in, [illegible]–[illegible]; Dorothea Rockburne in, [illegible]–[illegible]; selection criteria of, [illegible]–[illegible]; selection process of, [illegible], [illegible]; set-asides and, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; as successor to WPA, [illegible] artist(s): in Art-in-Architecture, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible],[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in European Court of Justice, [illegible]–[illegible]; freedom of, in WPA, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in French courthouses, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Mexico, [illegible]–[illegible]; in public art selection panels, [illegible]n[illegible]; in South Africa, [illegible] artistic patronage: in France, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; in Mexico, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; in Renaissance Europe, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯–▯▯; in South Africa, ▯▯▯; in U.S., ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯

Artists' Union of Baltimore, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯
▯rts and the National ▯overnment, The (Heckscher), ▯▯▯
Ascension Day, Doges' Venetian ceremony, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Aspen (Colorado), Pitkin County Courthouse in, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯f
Assembly of States Parties (ASP), of International Criminal Court, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯
Association of Federal Architects, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Astraea (goddess), ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯. See deities astronomy, in Mesopotamia, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Atlas, in Amsterdam Town Hall, ▯▯–▯▯
Atthenont, Jean-Pierre, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Attorney General, Office of, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; federal filings reported by, ▯▯▯ audience: and access to courts, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯▯; attention of, ▯▯▯; limits on size of, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; location of, in courthouses, ▯▯▯; need for regulation of, ▯▯▯; power of, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; of public executions, ▯▯▯. See also accessibility, physical; Bentham, Jeremy; public access audi et alteram partem▯See ▯hear the other side▯ auditors, Bentham on, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯
Augsburg Town Hall, ▯▯▯n▯▯. See also town halls
Augustus (emperor of Rome), ▯▯▯n▯▯
Australia: alternative dispute resolution in, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; architectural critics on courthouses of, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; Coat of Arms of, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; courthouse construction in, ▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; European colonization of, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; Federal Court of, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯f; High Court of, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; Justice imagery in, ▯–▯; Ngaanyatjarra Peoples of, land claims of, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; open air courts in, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯f, ▯▯▯; women in legal profession in, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯. See also Brisbane; Canberra; Gibson Desert Nature Reserve; Great Victoria Desert; Melbourne; Parntirrpi Bore Outstation auto▯de▯f▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯ autumnal equinox, ▯▯. See also equinox; scales; zodiac
Avarice (Vice), ▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯. See also Vices
▯ver▯ v▯▯ eor▯ia, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Avignon (France), Palais de Justice in, ▯▯▯ ▯vila Camacho, Manuel, ▯▯▯
Azerbaijan, Constitutional Court of, ▯, ▯f, ▯f, ▯▯▯n▯

Babylonia, ▯▯–▯▯; Code of Hammurabi in, ▯▯; rod and ring in imagery of, ▯▯; rulers' role in legal system of, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯; scales in imagery of, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯f, color plate ▯; seals of, ▯▯, ▯▯f, ▯▯▯n▯, color plate ▯; Shamash in, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯; as source of Justice iconography, ▯▯–▯▯; sun gods of, ▯▯; zodiac in imagery of, ▯▯. See also Akkadian language and period
Bach, Caleb Ives, xvi, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯f, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, color plate ▯. See also allegories of good and bad government
Backer, Adriaan, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Baker, C. Edwin, ▯▯▯ Bakhtin, Mikhail, ▯▯▯
balance(s), ▯▯–▯▯; in Babylonian imagery, ▯▯–▯▯; in Bible, ▯▯–▯▯; in Christian imagery, ▯▯–▯▯; in Egyptian imagery, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯▯; in Koran, ▯▯; in Kraus's Newark Justice sculpture, ▯▯▯; in logos of Justice, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; as scales, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; use of term, ▯▯▯n▯▯; in zodiac, ▯▯–▯▯. See also Justice; Koran; Maat; Mesopotamia; Scales; St. Michael Baltimore (Maryland), abstract art in, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Bamberg (Germany): legal code of, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯f, ▯▯▯nn▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯nn▯▯–▯▯; Synagoga in Cathedral of, ▯▯ Bam▯er▯ensis Constitutio Criminales (▯▯▯▯), ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯f, ▯▯▯nn▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯nn▯▯–▯▯ bandages, on eyes, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯. See also blindfold; blindness; Synagoga and Ecclesia; The Tri▯unal of ▯ools bankruptcy judges, U.S.: creation of position, ▯▯▯; evidentiary hearings before, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯f; growth in number of, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯f; selection of, ▯▯▯ Barak, Aharon, xvi, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Barasch, Moshe, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯. See also blindness bar associations. See American Bar Association; International Bar Association; National Bar Association; task forces on fairness in courts (U.S. and Canada)
Bardot, Brigitte, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Barnes, Edward Larrabee, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Barry, Brian, ▯▯▯
Bartkus, Ray, ▯f, ▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Bartlett, Ivan, ▯▯▯f, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
baseball stadiums, glass in, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Basel Town Hall: Charondas of Catanea in, ▯▯; Last Judgment in, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; Zaleucus in, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯. See also town hall(s)
Batavians, The, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Bate, Heidi Eberhardt, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Bath, Michael, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Baucus, Max, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Baudrillard, Jean, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Baumgarten, Paul, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Bautzen Town Hall, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯. See also town halls
Beaune, Colette, ▯▯▯n▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Beaux Arts architectural style, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Beccafumi, Domenico, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Beham, Hans Sebald, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Belgium: Saint Michael in, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Bell, John, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Bell, Mi▯ in E., ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯f, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Bell ▯tlantic Corp▯v▯Twom▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Bels, Marie, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Benedictus Deus, ▯▯
Benhabib, Seyla, xvi, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Bentham, Jeremy: on auditors, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; on codification of law, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; on conciliation courts, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; court reforms advocated by, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; on courtrooms, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; on democracy, ▯▯▯; on Equal Justice Fund, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; Habermas on, ▯▯▯; on judicatories, ▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯; on legal aid, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; on natural rights as ▯nonsense upon stilts▯ ▯▯▯; on open air courts, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; Panopticon prison design of, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; on press, role of, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; Principles of Judicial Procedure, ▯▯▯; on privacy, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯; on publicity, xv, ▯▯, ▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; Public Opinion Tribunal of, ▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; on public sphere, ▯▯▯; on universal suffrage, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Benveniste, Emile, ▯▯▯n▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Berckheyde, Gerrit, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Bergeron, David M., ▯▯▯nn▯▯▯–▯▯▯
Berkeley, John, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Berlant, Tony, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Berlin, Isaiah, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Berlin Wall, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Besan▯on (France), Palais de Justice in, ▯▯▯ Besnard, Albert, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Bet Alpha Synagogue, ▯▯▯n▯▯. See also mosaics
Betsky, Aaron, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯
Better Business Bureau, ▯▯▯nn▯▯▯–▯▯▯
Between ▯acts and Norms (Jürgen Habermas), ▯▯▯n▯▯▯ bias: implicit, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; judicial, task forces on, ▯▯▯, ▯▯▯–▯▯▯, ▯▯▯; juror, ▯▯▯. See also judge(s): appearance of impartiality
Bibas, Stephanos, ▯▯▯n▯▯
Bible: Amsterdam Town Hall influenced by, ▯▯; blindness in, ▯▯–▯▯; Cardinal Virtues in, ▯▯▯n▯▯; in Damhoudere's Pra▯is rerum criminalium, ▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; evidentiary standards in, ▯▯; Four Daughters of God in, ▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯; Gift Virtues in, ▯▯▯n▯▯; and Giglio's handless judges, ▯▯; in Last Judgment iconography, ▯▯–▯▯, ▯▯▯n▯▯▯; scales of justice in, ▯▯; Theological Virtues in, ▯▯▯n▯▯. See also Chroni▯cles, ▯▯▯Deuteronom▯▯▯▯odus▯▯saiah, Book of▯Jo▯, Book of▯Judith▯▯in▯s, ▯▯ Last Judgment; Mark, ▯ospel of▯Matthew, ▯ospel of▯Moses; New Testament; Old Testament; Prover▯s, Book of▯Psalms▯ ▯omans▯Samuel, ▯▯Solomon, Judgment of; Thessalonians, ▯irst ▯pistle to▯Wisdom, Book of

Bibliotheca historica (Diodorus), [illegible]
Biddle, Francis, [illegible]
Biddle, George: career of, [illegible]; in Commission on Art and Government, [illegible]; Mexican muralists and, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Mexican Supreme Court murals by, [illegible]; Orozco and, [illegible]; in Works Project Administration, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] bilateral investment treaties (BITs), [illegible]
Bilbo, Theodore G., [illegible]
Bill of Rights, South African, [illegible], [illegible]
Bill of Rights, U.S.: freedom of press in, [illegible]; in Supreme Court building, [illegible], [illegible] Biloxi (Mississippi): City Hall of, [illegible]; U.S. Post Office, Court House, and Custom House in, [illegible] birds: in Justice iconography, [illegible]; in Tom Otterness's artwork, [illegible]. See also crane(s); eagle(s); ostrich(es)
Black, Hugo: in Holzer's Sacramento installation, [illegible], [illegible]; on protests at courthouses, [illegible]
Black, Michael, xvi, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Black Death of [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Blake, Peter, [illegible]
Blankert, Albert, [illegible]
Bletter, Rosemarie Haag, [illegible], [illegible] blindfold(s), [illegible], [illegible]; in Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible], [illegible]; in Bamberg Ensis Constitutio Criminales, [illegible]; as bandage, [illegible]; and blindness, [illegible]; in Brant's The Ship of Fools, [illegible]; in Bruegel's artwork, [illegible]; in Damhoudere's Praxis rerum criminalium, [illegible]; in Danziger's cartoon, [illegible]; debate over meaning of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; of Eros, [illegible]; evolution of meaning of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; fools' use of, [illegible], [illegible]; of Fortuna, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Hughes (Langston) on, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; and judicial independence, [illegible], [illegible]; Justice without, prevalence of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in London Justices, [illegible], [illegible]; in Lutheranism, [illegible], [illegible]; modern use of, [illegible], [illegible]; in Moore's (Diana) artwork, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in Orozco's murals, [illegible]; and ostrich motif, [illegible]; and racial discrimination, [illegible]; and Rawls's veil of ignorance, [illegible]; in Ripa's Iconologia, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; self-imposed, [illegible]; as symbol of blindness, [illegible]; as symbol of disability, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; as symbol of humility, [illegible], [illegible]; as symbol of impartiality, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; as symbol of judicial error, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; of Synagoga, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See also bandages; blindness blindness (sightlessness), [illegible], [illegible]; in Alciatus's The Good Prince in his Council, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; as asset, [illegible]; in Bible, [illegible]; blindfold as symbol of, [illegible]; compared to blindfolded, [illegible], [illegible]; in Brant's The Ship of Fools, [illegible], [illegible]; and bribery, [illegible]; cataracts and, [illegible], [illegible]; debate over meaning of, [illegible], [illegible]; in Diderot's analysis, [illegible]; as disability, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; fairness and, [illegible]; Hughes (Langston) on, [illegible], [illegible]; of impartiality, [illegible]; of indifference, [illegible]; medical cures for, [illegible]; metaphoric, [illegible]; in Molyneux's problem, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; negative connotations of, [illegible]; positive connotations of, [illegible], [illegible]; in Reynolds's artwork, [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]; in Ripa's Iconologia, [illegible]; of Theban judges, [illegible]; transnationality of metaphors of, [illegible]; U.S. Supreme Court on, [illegible]; willful, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See also bandages; blindfolds; color-blindness
Bloch, Susan Low, [illegible]
Bodin, Jean, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Bogotá (Colombia), Palace of Justice in, [illegible]
Boise (Idaho), Ada County Courthouse in, WPA mural in, [illegible], color plate [illegible]
Bol, Ferdinand: Amsterdam Town Hall painting by, [illegible], [illegible]; life of, [illegible]; Peace Palace paintings by, [illegible], [illegible]
Bolivar, Simon, [illegible] book(s): in iconography of Justice, [illegible], [illegible]; illuminated, [illegible]; in Middle Ages, [illegible]
Book of the Dead: last judgment in, [illegible], [illegible]; Nedjmet copy of, [illegible], [illegible]; origins of, [illegible]; scales in, [illegible], color plate [illegible]; title of, [illegible]; versions of, [illegible]
BOORA Architects Inc., [illegible]
Bordeaux Palais de Justice (France): Couvert's bell in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; design of, [illegible], [illegible]
Bosch, Hieronymus, [illegible]
Boshoff, Willem, [illegible]
Bosnia and Herzegovina: in International Court of Justice, [illegible], [illegible]; war crimes in, [illegible], [illegible]
Boston (Massachusetts): colonial courthouses in, [illegible]; Custom House in, [illegible], [illegible]; John F. Kennedy Federal Building in, [illegible]
Boston (Massachusetts), John Joseph Moakley U.S. Courthouse in: courtrooms of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]; design of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]; educational programs in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; and GSA excellence in design standard, [illegible]; federal trials in, number of, [illegible], [illegible]; Kelly's panels in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]. See also Breyer, Stephen; Cobb, Henry N.; Kelly, Ellsworth; Woodlock, Douglas Boston Bar Association, [illegible]
Bourdieu, Pierre, [illegible]
Boutin, Bernard L., [illegible], [illegible]
Bowman, Jeffrey, report on appellate procedure in UK of, [illegible]
Bowring, John, [illegible], [illegible]. See also Bentham, Jeremy Boyle, Anthony J., [illegible]
Braij, Jan de, [illegible], [illegible]
Braij, Salomon de, [illegible]
Branca, Alexander Freiherr von, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Branca, Emanuela Freiin von, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Brandon, S. G. F., [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Brant, Sebastian: life of, [illegible], [illegible]; The Ship of Fools, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Brasilia (Brazil), governmental complex in, [illegible]
Brazil, Supreme Court of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Breslau Town Hall, Last Judgment in, [illegible], [illegible]
Breyer, Stephen, xvi; on color-blindness, [illegible]; and complaints against judges, [illegible]; in design of Boston federal courthouse, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; and GSA excellence in design standard, [illegible]; on role of courts, [illegible]; on United States Supreme Court building, [illegible] bribery: admonishments against, [illegible]; anti-corruption themes and Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible]; Bamberg Ensis Constitutio Criminales in, [illegible], [illegible]; and corruption motif, [illegible], [illegible]; definitions and complexities of, [illegible]; handless judges warning against, [illegible]; and judicial subservience to rulers, [illegible]; in Last Judgment, [illegible]; Plutarch on, [illegible]; regulation of, [illegible], [illegible]; remuneration as, [illegible]; sightless judges warning against, [illegible]. See also court budgets; Davis, Natalie; gifts; judicial disqualification; Tumey v. Ohio
Briefes (John Noonan), [illegible]
Briggs, Torzillo, [illegible]
Brigham, John, [illegible], [illegible]
Brinton, Jasper Yeates, [illegible]
Brisbane (Australia), Supreme Court of Queensland in, [illegible], [illegible]
Britain, [illegible]; Australia colonized by, [illegible], [illegible]; in Jay Treaty, [illegible]; Queen Anne as Justice in, [illegible], [illegible]; slave trade in, [illegible], [illegible]. See also England; United Kingdom; Wales; Woolf, Harry, Woolf Reforms
British Columbia (Canada), Vancouver Law Courts in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Brocksberger, Melchior, [illegible]
Brooks, Jim, [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]
Brooks, Judy, [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]
Broomfield, Robert C., [illegible]
Brouwer and Deurvorst, [illegible], [illegible]
Brown, Glenn, [illegible]
Brown v. Board of Education, [illegible], [illegible]
Bruce, Edward, [illegible], [illegible]

Bruegel, Pieter, the Elder: blindfold in works of, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧; life of, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; Virtues and Vices series by, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also Galle, Philip Bruges (Belgium), Maximilian of Austria in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Bruges Town Hall: Cambyses in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧f, color plates ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧; Last Judgment in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also town halls
Brussels (Belgium), Saint Michael in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Brussels Town Hall, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; Cambyses in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; Trajan and Herkinbald in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also town halls
Brutus (Voltaire), ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Brutus, Lucius Junius, Judgment of: in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧; story of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Bry, Theodor de, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Bryan–Chamorro, treaty of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Bucher, Carl, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Bucintoro (Doges' barge), ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧: Canaletto's depictions of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; ceremonies and, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; Doges' procession in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f
Buckeye Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegna, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Buckley, Charles A., ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ budget(s): court outputs linked to, ⌧⌧⌧; fines in (See user fees); of international and regional courts, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; maldistribution of resources in, ⌧⌧⌧; modern shortfalls in, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; separation of powers in, ⌧⌧⌧; subservience to rulers and, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ Buenos Aires, Protocol of, ⌧⌧⌧ Buergenthal, Thomas, xvi, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ building materials: brick, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; glass, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; stone, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧
Buon, Bartolomeo, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Bureau of Prisons, U.S., ⌧⌧⌧
Burger, Warren: on courtroom sharing, ⌧⌧⌧; on courtroom size, ⌧⌧⌧; and ⌧ S⌧ Desi⌧n ⌧ uides, ⌧⌧⌧ burgomasters (Amsterdam), ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Burke, Edmund, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Burke, Thomas Frederick, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Burnham, Daniel H.: in Commission on Fine Arts, ⌧⌧⌧; in Parks Commission, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; and Union Station, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Burnham, David, ⌧⌧⌧
Bush, George W.: access to information about energy policy under, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; Guant⌧namo Bay under, ⌧⌧⌧; International Criminal Court and, ⌧⌧⌧
Butler, Sara Amelia, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Byard, Paul Spencer: on modern courthouses, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; on U.S. Supreme Court building, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Bynum, Caroline Walker, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Byzantine architectural style, ⌧⌧⌧

Caille, Emmanuel, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Calder⌧n Fournier, Rafael ⌧ ngel, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Calendario, Filippo, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ calendars: Christian, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; Jewish, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; justice iconography in Azerbaijan, ⌧, ⌧f; Mesopotamian, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
calendar systems in courts, master compared to individual, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
California: accessibility of courthouses in, ⌧⌧⌧; number of courthouses in, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; prisons in, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; protests at courthouses in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; racial segregation in, ⌧⌧⌧; rent-a-judge program in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧. See also specific cities
Callaghan, James E., ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧
Calvinism: in Geneva, ⌧⌧; in Netherlands, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧
Cambodia: Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; sculpture of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Cambyses: in Bruges Town Hall, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧f, color plates ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧; in Danish tapestry, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; Herodotus on, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧; life of, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧ camera obscura, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ campaign contributions, to judges, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Campbell, Harry, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Campbell, Robert, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Campen, Jacob van: Amsterdam Town Hall designed by, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; architectural philosophy of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; art designed by, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧; artworks by, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; Haarlem Town Hall designed by, ⌧⌧; life of, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Camp Justice, at Guant⌧namo Bay, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f
Canada: public art funding in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; inquiry into racism in courts of, ⌧⌧⌧ Canadian Supreme Court, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧; on judicial salaries, ⌧⌧⌧; judicial selection for, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; justice displayed outside of, ⌧, ⌧f; television broadcast of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Canaletto (Giovanni Antonio Canal), ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Canberra (Australia), High Court of Australia in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Cannadine, David, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧
Canons of Judicial Ethics (American Bar Association), ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ Caperton v. Masse⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ capital punishment. See death penalty; executions Cappelletti, Mauro, ⌧⌧⌧
C⌧rdenas, L⌧zaro, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧
Cardinal Virtues, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧; in battle (psychomachia), ⌧; diversity in depictions of, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; as four corners, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; compared to Gift Virtues, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; hierarchy of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; history of, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; Justice as, ⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; meaning of term, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; meaning of Virtues, ⌧⌧⌧; modern need for understanding of, ⌧⌧⌧; origins of, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; in Oxford's New College Chapel, ⌧⌧; Renaissance depictions of, ⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; in Sienese frescoes, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; in Vatican, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. See also Fortitude; Justice; Prudence; Temperance; Virtues
Caribbean Court of Justice, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Caritativo v. California, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Carlhian, Jean Paul, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Carnegie, Andrew: bust of, in Peace Palace, ⌧⌧⌧; Central American Court of Justice funded by, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; education work of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧; Peace Palace funded by, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; Permanent Court of Arbitration supported by, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; in Vrede door Recht, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f
Carnegie Foundation: on Peace Palace design, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; Peace Palace owned by, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ Carolina⌧See Consitutio Criminalis Carolina
Cartago (Costa Rica), Palacio de la Paz in, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧f. See also Central American Court of Justice
Carter, Jimmy, and Inter-American Court of Human Rights, ⌧⌧⌧
Carter, Robert, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Carteret, George, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Carteret, Philip, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ cartoons, ⌧–⌧; by Allen, xviii; by Bartkus, ⌧f, ⌧; by Conrad, ⌧f, ⌧; by Danziger, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧; in ⌧acts ⌧orum News (Emerson), ⌧–⌧, ⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; by Schultz, ⌧, ⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, color plate ⌧ caryatids, ⌧⌧ case dispositions, in evaluation of judges, ⌧⌧⌧ caseloads: of international and regional courts, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f; weighted, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧. See also dockets; filings case management, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also ADR; managerial judges; settlement; Woolf, Harry: Woolf Reforms Cassell v. Te⌧as, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Casta, Laetitia, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Catullus, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Cauduro, Rafael, xvi; artistic work of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; Mexican Supreme Court murals by, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, color plates ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧
⌧Causes of Popular Dissatisfaction with the Administration of Justice, The⌧ (Roscoe Pound), ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ cell phone contracts, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ censorship of press, at Guant⌧namo Bay, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Center for Constitutional Rights (U.S.), ⌧⌧⌧

Center for Design Excellence and the Arts (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚ Central American Court of Justice (CACJ), ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚; building housing, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f; Carnegie's funding of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; caseload of, ⬚⬚⬚; challenges faced by, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; dissolution of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; as first permanent international court, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; impact of, ⬚⬚⬚; individual access to, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; judges serving in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚⬚⬚; mission of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; successors to, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ certiorari, petition for (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Ceschiatti, Alfredo, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Chamber of Commerce, U.S., ⬚⬚⬚
Chandler, Henry, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Chanukah displays, in public buildings, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Charity (Virtue): in hierarchy of Virtues, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; light associated with, ⬚⬚; as Theological Virtue, ⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Virtues
Charles I, King of England, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Charles II, King of England, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Charles V, Holy Roman Emperor, ⬚⬚
Charles VII, King of France, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Charondas of Catanea, ⬚⬚
Charter of the English Colony of West New Jersey (⬚⬚⬚⬚), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Chastity (Virtue), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Virtues
Chaucer, Geoffrey, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Chemetov, Paul, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Cheney, Dick, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Chenev ⬚n re, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Chicago (Illinois): Social Security Administration building in, ⬚⬚⬚; World's Fair, influence on architecture in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Chile, in dispute with Argentina, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Chisholm v⬚ eor⬚ia, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Christian calendar, Saint Michael in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Christian imagery: African art and, ⬚⬚⬚; blindfold in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; cross in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; Ecclesia in, ⬚⬚; fasces in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; ostriches in, ⬚⬚; Saint Michael in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; scales in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; sight and light in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Sol Justitiae in, ⬚⬚; Synagoga in, ⬚⬚; in Venice, ⬚⬚. See also scales
Christianity, civic, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Christian theology: Ascension in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; body and soul in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; last judgment in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Virtues in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Christmas displays, in public buildings, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Chronicles ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ church and state: interconnections in Medieval towns, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; separation of, in France, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in U.S., ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ churches: Last Judgment in, ⬚⬚; multiple functions of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Synagoga and Ecclesia in, ⬚⬚; and town halls, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Churchill, Winston, ⬚⬚⬚
Cicero: in Damhoudere's Pra⬚is rerum crimi⬚nalium, ⬚⬚; De le⬚⬚us, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; De natura deorum, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; and Denver federal building, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; De o⬚ ciis, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in Geneva, ⬚⬚; Laelius de ⬚micitia, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in Mexican Supreme Court murals, ⬚⬚⬚; in Siena, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; on temperantia, ⬚⬚⬚; on theories of justice, ⬚⬚; on Virtues, ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Cipriani, Giovanni Battista, ⬚⬚
Circuit Cit⬚ Stores, ⬚nc⬚ vs⬚ dams, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ circuit court judges: district judges as, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in Judicial Conference of the United States, ⬚⬚⬚; Supreme Court justices as, ⬚⬚⬚ circuit courts, U.S., establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ circuit riding: by Australian Federal Court, ⬚⬚⬚; in England, ⬚⬚⬚; by U.S. Supreme Court, ⬚⬚⬚ circulation routes: in federal courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in prisons, ⬚⬚⬚. See also courthouse security; segregation by roles Ciriani, Henri, ⬚⬚⬚ citation, of unpublished opinions, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
City Beautiful Movement, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ civic buildings: definition of, ⬚⬚; compared to public buildings, ⬚⬚. See also specific cities and t⬚pes of ⬚uildin⬚s
civic Christianity, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ civic spaces, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; civic identities in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; intermingling of religious spaces and, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; rise of, in Europe, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also courthouse(s); custom houses; post offices; public spheres; town halls civil appeals management plans, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ civil cases: alternative dispute resolution's impact on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; expansion of rights in, ⬚⬚⬚; number of filings, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; openness of, ⬚⬚⬚; settlement in, ⬚⬚⬚; trial rates for, in U.S. federal courts, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f
Civil Justice Reform Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ civil justice reforms: in England, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in Europe, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in United States, ⬚⬚⬚ civil law countries: France as, ⬚⬚⬚; traditions mixed with common law and, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ Civil Procedure, Federal Rules of (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ civil procedure, transnational, ⬚⬚⬚
Civil Rights Acts (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚
Civil Rights movement (U.S.): in Jackson (Mississippi), ⬚⬚⬚; Supreme Court in, ⬚⬚⬚ Civil Rights Procedures Protection Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S., proposed legislation), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Civil Service Tribunal, of European Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Civil War, American: concept of fairness after, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; courthouse construction during, ⬚⬚⬚; federal jurisdiction after, ⬚⬚⬚; in Galveston, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Military Reconstruction Act after, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Claims, Court of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Clark, David S., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Clark, Kenneth B., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Clark, Tanner, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ class actions, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Classical architectural style, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Classical Revival architectural style, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ clay tablets, Mesopotamian legal system and, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ clerks' offices, ⬚⬚⬚; in France, as administrative space, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Clift, William, xvi, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Clinton, William, and International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚
Clyde S. Cahill Memorial Park (St. Louis, Missouri), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ coaches, in Lord Mayor's Show, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ coats of arms: of Australia, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Virtues depicted in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also emu; kangaroo Cobb, Henry N.: Boston courthouse designed by, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; firm of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; on Kelly's Boston panels, ⬚⬚⬚ codification: of law, Bentham on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; of visual imagery, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚ Cody, Bill, ⬚⬚⬚
cognitive sciences, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Cohen, Amy, ⬚⬚⬚ coins: Medieval, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Roman, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; U.S., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Coke, Edward, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Cold War: and Commission on Art and Government, ⬚⬚⬚; glass architecture in, ⬚⬚⬚; and Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture, ⬚⬚⬚; need for international criminal court in, ⬚⬚⬚; support for art in, ⬚⬚⬚ Collaborative Projects Inc. (Colab), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also Holzer, Jenny; Otterness, Tom Collcutt, Thomas Edward, ⬚⬚⬚
Cologne Town Hall, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also town halls colonial America, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; public access to courts in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; public and social traditions in courthouses of, ⬚⬚⬚ Colonna, Francesco, ⬚ ⬚pnerotomachia Poliphili, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Colorado. See Aspen; Denver color-blindness, ⬚⬚; in European Court of Human Rights and European Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚; metaphor of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; U.S. Supreme Court on, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚

Combatant Status Review Tribunal (CSRT) (Guant⊠namo Bay), ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Comic ⊠lmanack (magazine), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Commission v⊠reland, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Commission on Art and Government (U.S.), ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Commission on Fine Arts, U.S., ⊠⊠; establishment of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; mission of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠nn⊠⊠–⊠⊠; on Washington, D.C., buildings, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Commission on Systemic Racism in the Ontario Criminal Justice System, ⊠⊠ Commission on the Limits of the Continental Shelf, ⊠⊠ common law: Bentham's critique of English, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; judicial conduct in, ⊠⊠; public access to courts and, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ common law countries: compared to civil law countries, ⊠⊠; courtroom layouts in, ⊠⊠ Communism: and ⊠acts ⊠orum News, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; in Kraus's Newark Justice sculpture, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; and U.S. Supreme Court justices, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; in WPA artworks, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠. See also Works Project Administration Community Arts Panel, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ community involvement, in Art-in-Architecture, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ community justice centers, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ commutative justice, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ complementarity principle, in International Criminal Court jurisdiction, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ conciliation courts, Bentham on, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Concord (Virtue), ⊠⊠. See also Virtues
Concord (New Hampshire), Warren B. Rudman United States Courthouse in, Moore's (Diana) sculpture in, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠f, ⊠⊠f
Conference of American States, ⊠⊠
Conference of Court Public Information Officers (U.S.), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ Conference of European Constitutional Courts, ⊠⊠n⊠. See also specific courts
Conference of Senior Circuit Judges, ⊠⊠. See also Judicial Conference of the United States Conference of State Court Administrators (U.S.), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ confidentiality, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; in alternative dispute resolution, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; in arbitration and mediation, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; in settlement, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠. See also privacy; secrecy Confrontation Clause of U.S. Constitution, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ confrontation of witnesses, right to, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠nn⊠⊠–⊠⊠
Congress, U.S.: on administrative agency adjudication, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; on air conditioning in courthouses, ⊠⊠; civil justice reforms by, ⊠⊠; Commission on Fine Arts established by, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; on cost of courthouses, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; court system established by, ⊠⊠; on enemy combatants, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; expansion of rights by, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; federal buildings named after members of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; in federal construction, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; on federal jurisdiction, ⊠⊠; GSA oversight by, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; GSA reports to, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; on Guant⊠namo Bay, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠; Legal Services Corporation established by, ⊠⊠; on postal service, ⊠⊠; public disclosure obligations of, ⊠⊠; rent subsidies from, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; on Supreme Court caseload, ⊠⊠. See also House of Representatives; Senate
Congressional Budget Office (CBO), U.S., ⊠⊠
Connecticut: gender bias task force in, ⊠⊠ Connolly, Denis, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Conrad, Paul, ⊠f, ⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Consitutio Criminalis Carolina (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Constitutions, of states of the United States: Delaware Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, public access to courts in, ⊠⊠; Georgia Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, free press guaranteed by, ⊠⊠; judicial independence in, ⊠⊠; Massachusetts Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, judicial impartiality in, ⊠⊠, judicial independence in, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, separation of powers in, ⊠⊠; Nebraska Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, access to courts guaranteed by, ⊠⊠; public access to courts in, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ (Delaware Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ (Alabama Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Connecticut Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Florida Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Indiana Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Kansas Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Louisiana Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Mississippi Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Nebraska Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, North Carolina Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Ohio Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠, Pennsylvania Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Tennessee Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, Texas Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠); separation of powers in, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ (North Carolina Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ (Georgia Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ (Maryland Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ (New Hampshire Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ (Virginia Constitution of ⊠⊠⊠⊠) consular courts, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠ consumer contracts, alternative dispute resolution of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ contentious cases: definitions of, ⊠⊠; in International Court of Justice, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; in Inter-American Court of Justice, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; in Permanent Court of International Justice, ⊠⊠ Continental Shelf, Commission on the Limits of the, ⊠⊠ Contini, Francesco, ⊠⊠nn⊠⊠–⊠⊠ contempt powers, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ contracts, private arbitration of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠ convention(s), European Court of Justice in interpretation of, ⊠⊠; Arms Convention of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Convention for the Creation of an International Criminal Court (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠; Convention for the Establishment of a Central American Court of Justice (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; Convention for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; Convention Respecting the Laws and Customs of War on Land (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; Geneva Convention, for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Wounded and Sick in Armed Forces in the Field, ⊠⊠, for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Wounded, Sick and Shipwrecked Members of Armed Forces at Sea, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, Relative to the Treatment of Prisoners of War (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; Hague Convention of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Hague Convention of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Inter-American Convention, for the Elimination on All Forms of Discrimination against Persons with Disabilities (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠, on the Forced Disappearance of Persons (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠, on the Prevention, Punishment and Eradication of Violence against Women ⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠, to Prevent and Punish Torture (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠; United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, ⊠⊠⊠⊠ Implementation Agreement ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, Seabed Disputes Chamber ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. See also treaties Conzemius, Jean-Paul, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠f
Cordonnier, Louis M.: life of, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; Peace Palace design by, ⊠⊠f, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠ cornucopia, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Corps universel diplomati⊠ue du droit des ⊠ens (Jean Dumont), ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠f Correa, Charles, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Cosmos Club, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Coss⊠o Diaz, Jos⊠ Ram⊠n, xvi, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠
Costa Rica: Central American Court of Justice meeting in, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; role in Inter-American Court of Human Rights, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. See also Central American Court of Justice; Inter-American Court of Human Rights
Coughlin, Charles E., ⊠⊠
Council of Europe: budget of, ⊠⊠; establishment of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; European Convention on Human Rights in, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; European Court of Human Rights under, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; European Judicial Network established by, ⊠⊠n⊠⊠; Member States of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; compared to Organization of American States, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠; Strasbourg as headquarters of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠

Council of Fine Arts, U.S., ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Council on American-Islamic Relations, ⬚⬚ counsel, right to: Sixth Amendment (U.S.) on, ⬚⬚; U.S. Supreme Court on, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also legal aid county courthouses, U.S.: decline of, ⬚⬚; diversity of architectural styles of, ⬚⬚; compared to European town halls, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; multiplication of uses of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; as seats of power, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Count⬚ of ⬚lle⬚hen⬚ v⬚ merican Civil L⬚er⬚ties ⬚ nion, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Courage (Virtue), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Virtues court(s): demand and capacity of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; democracy's relationship to, xv–xvi, ⬚⬚; individual access to justice through (See access); maldistribution of resources for, ⬚⬚; meaning of term, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; public access to proceedings of (See public access); symbolic character of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; use of term, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; vulnerability of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚ court administrators: in national courthouse construction, ⬚⬚; types of, ⬚⬚ court days, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚ court design guides, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in France, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in U.S., ⬚⬚–⬚⬚ court documents: online access to, ⬚⬚; public access to, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; sealing of, ⬚⬚ court halls. See town halls courthouse(s), ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; architecture of (See courthouse architecture); decline in use of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; emptiness of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; evolution from town halls to, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; future of, ⬚⬚; and law enforcement centers, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; in legitimacy of judges' authority, ⬚⬚; multi-door, ⬚⬚; multiplication of uses of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; need for new iconography for, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; origins of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; prisons' relationship with, ⬚⬚; prisons reunified with, ⬚⬚; public and social traditions in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; as purpose-built structures, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; symbolic character of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; symbolic use of, ⬚⬚; virtual encounters in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; as zones of authority, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚ courthouse architecture, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; alternative dispute resolution in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; development of styles of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; and energy conservation, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; glass in, prevalence of, xv, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; glass in, symbolism of, xv, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; history on display in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; identifiable as courthouses, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; interior design of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; interior segregation in (See segregation by roles); international idiom of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; in judicial power, ⬚⬚; local government power in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; office space in, ⬚⬚. See also court design guides; courthouse security courthouse security: in European Court of Human Rights, ⬚⬚; with glass architecture, ⬚⬚; in International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚; in International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, ⬚⬚; in Israeli Supreme Court, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; in United States Supreme Court, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also trois flux, les court marshals, U.S., ⬚⬚n⬚⬚ Court of Justice of the European Communities. See European Court of Justice court quarters, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚ court reform(s): American Bar Association on, ⬚⬚; Bentham on, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in England and Wales, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in Europe, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in Mexico, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚–⬚⬚; overview of contemporary approaches to, ⬚⬚ courtroom(s): conventionality of modern, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; decline in use of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; elevation of judges in, ⬚⬚; interior design of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; Last Judgment images in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚. See also court design guides Court Room Facilities and Design, JCUS Committee on, ⬚⬚ courts-martial, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Couvert, Pascal, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Cover, Robert, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Covington Post Office and Courthouse (Kentucky), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Co⬚ v⬚Louisiana, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Craig, Lois, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; ⬚ederal Pres⬚ence, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
crane(s), as attributes of justice and vigilance, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Cranston, Randall, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Crary, Jonathan, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚ crime, representations of in courthouses: in Aiken, South Carolina, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in Mexico, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in South Africa, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚ crimes against humanity, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; definitions of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; in former Yugoslavia, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚; international law on, ⬚⬚; origin of concept, ⬚⬚; in Rwanda, ⬚⬚; in Sierra Leone, ⬚⬚; in World War II, ⬚⬚ criminal cases: alternative dispute resolution's impact on, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; expansion of rights in, ⬚⬚; number of filings, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚–⬚⬚; settlement in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; trial rates for, in U.S. federal courts, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f criminal courts and tribunals, international, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; and Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚⬚; infrastructure of, ⬚⬚; public access to, ⬚⬚; staff of, ⬚⬚; U.N. creation of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; after World War II, ⬚⬚
Crockett, George W., and National Bar Association ⬚⬚–⬚⬚ cross: in Bruegel's artwork, ⬚⬚; in French imagery, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚ crucifix and images of the crucifixion, in French courtrooms, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Cruikshank, George, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Cupid, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Eros; putti custom houses, U.S., construction of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚ Customs Service, U.S., ⬚⬚

Dalsgaard, Sven, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Dambiermont, Mary, ⬚⬚
Damhoudere, Joost de: life of, ⬚⬚; Pra⬚is rerum civilum, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; Pra⬚is rerum criminalium, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Daniels, Mitchell, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Dante Alighieri: Divine Comed⬚, ⬚⬚; ⬚nferno, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚
Danto, Arthur, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Danzig (Poland). See Gda⬚sk
Danziger, Jeffrey, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Dartmouth College, ⬚⬚
Davey, Peter, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
David, Gerard: Cambyses in works of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, color plates ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; life of, ⬚⬚n⬚
David, Jacques-Louis, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Davies, John, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Davies, Ronald, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Davis, Howard McParlin, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Davis, Morris, ⬚⬚
Davis, Natalie Zemon, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also bribes; gifts
Davis v⬚Washin⬚ton, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
De architecturae li⬚ri decem (Vitruvius), ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Death and Life of ⬚reat ⬚merican Cities (Jacob), ⬚⬚n⬚⬚ death penalty: in Minnesota, ⬚⬚; racial discrimination in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in United Kingdom, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also executions de Beauvoir, Simone, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚
Deceit (Vice), ⬚. See also Vices Declaration of Independence, U.S.: federal judiciary in, ⬚⬚; judicial subservience in, ⬚⬚ Declaration of Sentiments (⬚⬚⬚⬚), ⬚⬚
Declaration of the Rights and Duties of Man (⬚⬚⬚⬚), ⬚⬚
Declaration of the Rights of Man and of the Citizen (⬚⬚⬚⬚), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, Draft (⬚⬚⬚⬚), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Declaration on the Rights of Persons Belonging to National or Ethnic, Religious and Linguistic Minorities (⬚⬚⬚⬚), ⬚⬚ Defense Department, U.S.: on classification of Guant⬚namo detainees, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in decline of adjudication, ⬚⬚; Guant⬚namo Bay established by, ⬚⬚; on number of Guant⬚namo detainees, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; on press coverage of Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚; seal of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚ de Gaulle, Charles, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚ deities, Egyptian: Maat, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚n⬚⬚, deities, Egyptian (continued) [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Osiris, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Ra, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Thoth, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible] deities, Greek: Astraea, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Dik[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Hermes, [illegible], [illegible]; Themis, [illegible]f, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Zeus, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] deities, Roman: [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Iustitia, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

De [illegible]usticia Pin[illegible]enda [illegible] n the Paintin[illegible] of Justice[illegible] (Fiera), [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Delacroix, Eug[illegible]ne, [illegible]. See also Marianne
Delaware, [illegible] Constitution of, [illegible]
De le[illegible]us (Cicero), [illegible]n[illegible]
Delf, Dirk van, [illegible]
Demaine, Linda J., [illegible]n[illegible] demand, for adjudication, [illegible]–[illegible] democracy: adjudication as contributor to, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; adjudication as practice of, [illegible]–[illegible]; adjudication as proto-form of, xv, [illegible], [illegible]; adjudication transformed by, xv, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; Bentham on, [illegible]; challenges to, [illegible]–[illegible]; courts' relationship to, xv–xvi, [illegible]; definition of, [illegible]; in French courthouses, [illegible]; glass as metaphor for, [illegible]; iconography of, [illegible]; and public sphere, [illegible]–[illegible]; transparency of, [illegible] democratic iterations, [illegible] demos[illegible]definitions of, [illegible]; European Court of Justice as contributing to, [illegible]–[illegible]
De natura deorum (Cicero), [illegible]n[illegible]
Denmark: Cambyses in tapestry of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; conciliation courts in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Dentatus, Marcus Curius, [illegible]
Denver (Colorado): Alfred A. Arraj U.S. Courthouse in, [illegible]n[illegible]; U.S. Post Office and Courthouse in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; U.S. Post Office in, [illegible], [illegible]f
De o[illegible] ciis (Cicero), [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Deonna, Waldemar, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Descartes, Ren[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Desch[illegible]nes, Jules, [illegible]n[illegible]
Design Excellence Program. See General Services Administration Design Excellence Program
Des Moines (Iowa), U.S. Court House and Post Office in, [illegible], [illegible]f Despair (Vice), [illegible]. See also Vices
Detley, John D., [illegible]f
Deuteronom[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Devereaux, Simon, [illegible]n[illegible]
Devil, the: iconography and, [illegible]n[illegible]; Saint Michael and, [illegible]n[illegible]; Virtues and, [illegible]n[illegible]
Dezalay, Yves, [illegible]
Diderot, Denis: Lettre sur les aveu[illegible]les [illegible] [illegible]usa[illegible]e de ceu[illegible] [illegible]ui voient, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; life of, [illegible]n[illegible]; Promenade d[illegible]un scepti[illegible]ue, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Diest Town Hall (Belgium), [illegible]n[illegible]
Dieude-Defly, August, [illegible]n[illegible]
Dik[illegible] (goddess): in origins of Justice iconography, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; Roman version of, [illegible]; sword of, [illegible]
Dill, Guy, [illegible]
Diodorus Siculus, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Bi[illegible]liotheca historica, [illegible]
Dionysius of Halicarnassus, [illegible] disabilities, access for persons with. See accessibility disability: blindfold as symbol of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; blindness as, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Disarmament Conference ([illegible]), [illegible]
Discipline (Virtue), [illegible]. See also Virtues
Discipline and Punish (Foucault), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Discord (Vice), [illegible]. See also Vices discovery process in litigation, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] discrimination. See access to courts; gender bias; race and ethnic bias task forces; racial discrimination dispute resolution (DR), competition among providers of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See also alternative dispute resolution disqualification of judges: criteria for, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; method of, [illegible]. See also judges, recusal distribution of resources, judicial. See budgets distributive justice, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] district courts, U.S., [illegible]–[illegible] district judges, U.S., [illegible]–[illegible] diversity: in French iconography, [illegible]–[illegible]; as goal of Art-in-Architecture, [illegible], [illegible]; as goal of GSA Design Excellence Program, [illegible]; in International Criminal Court, [illegible]; in law schools, [illegible]; in legal profession, [illegible]
Divinarum institutionum (Lactantius), [illegible]
Divine Comed[illegible] (Dante), [illegible] divine imagery: in allegories of government, [illegible]–[illegible]; in animal symbols, [illegible]; in French courthouses, [illegible]; in Last Judgments, [illegible]–[illegible]; in non-Christian traditions, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Orozco's murals, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; regarding sight and blindness, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Amsterdam; Amsterdam Town Hall, classical and religious themes in, Last Judgment in; Christian imagery; Saint Michael divine law and justice, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in Damhoudere, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Dürer, [illegible]; in Fiera, [illegible]–[illegible]; and human law, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in Raphael's Justice, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Ripa, [illegible]–[illegible]; in The Ship of [illegible]ools, [illegible]–[illegible] Dixey, John, [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible] dockets: evolution in content of U.S., [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; expansion of rights in U.S. and, [illegible]–[illegible]; size of dog(s): in Australia's open court, [illegible]; in Damhoudere's Pra[illegible]is rerum criminalium, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in Ripa's [illegible]conolo[illegible]ia, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; as symbol of friendship, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in Zutphen's Dutch Law and Practice in Civil and Criminal Matters, [illegible] Doges: in Bucintoro, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; role of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Venice domestic violence: gender bias in courts and, [illegible]; public access to courts in understanding of, [illegible]
Domingo, Pilar, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Donaldson, Ian, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Donnelly, John, Jr., [illegible]n[illegible]
Dove, Rita, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
DR. See dispute resolution
Draper, Anthony J., [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] drapes: over Ada County Courthouse WPA mural, [illegible]; over Hirsch's [illegible]Mulatto[illegible] Justice mural, [illegible]–[illegible]; over Nicholas II's portrait, [illegible], [illegible]; over Simkhovich's Mississippi Justice mural, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] drug courts, [illegible]
Drummond, Eric, [illegible]
Drysdall, Denis, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Dublin (Ireland): Castle of, [illegible]; Four Courts in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; seat of authority in, [illegible]–[illegible] due process: in administrative agency adjudication, [illegible]; in Bible, [illegible]n[illegible]; definitions of, [illegible]n[illegible]; evolution of concept of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in France, [illegible]; [illegible]hear the other side[illegible] in, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; and prison garb, [illegible]; procedural and substantive, [illegible]; statutory entitlements as property under, [illegible]; in U.S. Constitution, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; U.S. Supreme Court on, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Duff, James C., [illegible], [illegible]
Dumont, Jean, Corps universel diplomati[illegible]ue du droit des [illegible]ens, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f. See also Permanent Court of Arbitration
Dunseath, T. K., [illegible]n[illegible]
Duquesnoy, Fran[illegible]ois, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Dürer, Albrecht: blindfolded Justice attributed to, [illegible], [illegible]f; in Brant's The Ship of [illegible]ools, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; and bribery, [illegible]; Cardinal Virtues depicted by, [illegible]n[illegible]; Last Judgment depicted by, [illegible]n[illegible]; Sol Justitiae depicted by, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; zodiac depicted by, [illegible]n[illegible]
Dutch Law and Practice in Civil and Criminal Matters (Zutphen), [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]
Dutch Republic, [illegible]n[illegible]
DYPSA (architectural firm), [illegible]n[illegible]

Eagle(s): in Justice iconography, [illegible]; in U.S. seals, [illegible]–[illegible]
Eagleton, Thomas F., [illegible]
Eastland, James O., [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Ecclesia. See Synagoga and Ecclesia
ECHR. See European Convention on Human Rights
ECJ. See European Court of Justice
[illegible]conomist, The, xviii*f,* [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

ECSC. See European Coal and Steel Community
ECtHR. See European Court of Human Rights
Edgerton, Samuel Y., Jr., ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚ education, judicial: by Federal Judicial Center (U.S.), ⬚; formal, in U.S., ⬚, ⬚; on gender bias, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; on management of cases, ⬚; visual arts in, ⬚ education of public: in Boston's federal courthouse, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; through open courts, ⬚; through visual arts, ⬚, ⬚. See also Bentham, Jeremy Edward VII, King of England, ⬚, ⬚
E-Government Act of ⬚ (U.S.), ⬚
Egypt: Saint Michael in, ⬚; Mixed Courts of, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚, ⬚; ostrich feathers in, ⬚, ⬚–⬚; scales in imagery of, ⬚–⬚; sight in, ⬚; as source of Justice iconography, ⬚, ⬚–⬚. See also Book of the Dead⬚Maat
Egyptian gods: in last judgment, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; sun, ⬚. See also Maat
Eicholtz, William, ⬚f, ⬚n⬚
Eisenberg, Theodore, ⬚n⬚
Eisenhower, Dwight D., and Commission on Fine Arts, ⬚, ⬚
Eladari, Ren⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚ election of judges: campaign contributions in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; public power over judges through, ⬚ Eleventh Amendment of U.S. Constitution, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Elizabeth I, Queen of England, ⬚, ⬚n⬚. See also Astraea
Ellis, William, ⬚n⬚
El Salvador, ⬚, ⬚
Elst, Michel Vander, ⬚, ⬚f embassies, architecture of, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚ emblem(s): coining of term, ⬚; definition of, ⬚n⬚; Virtues in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚. See also Alciatus, Andreas; logo(s); Ripa, Cesare Emden Town Hall: Judgment of Brutus in, ⬚n⬚; Last Judgment in, ⬚n⬚. See also town halls
Emerson, Ralph Waldo, ⬚. See also prudence employment contracts, alternative dispute resolution of, ⬚, ⬚ emu, in Australian coat of arms, ⬚ Endispute, ⬚ enemy combatants: access to courts for, ⬚; decline of adjudication and, ⬚, ⬚; definition of, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; establishment of class of, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; Geneva Conventions and, ⬚n⬚; lawful and unlawful, ⬚n⬚. See also Guant⬚namo Bay England, ⬚–⬚; Act of Settlement (⬚) in, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; alternative dispute resolution in, ⬚–⬚; Brutus's story in, ⬚; civic ceremonies in, ⬚–⬚, ⬚f, ⬚; corruption in, ⬚; courthouses of (See English courthouses); fairness in, ⬚; glass in architecture of, ⬚, ⬚; ⬚hear the other side⬚ in, ⬚, ⬚; human rights in, ⬚; judicial independence in, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚; legal aid in, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚; Lord Mayor's Show in, ⬚–⬚, ⬚f; Saint Michael in, ⬚n⬚; prisons in, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; procedural rules encouraging settlements in, ⬚, ⬚; protection of judges in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; Protestant sovereigns of, ⬚n⬚; public executions in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; seat of authority in, ⬚; slavery in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; Supreme Court of, ⬚, ⬚; Synagoga in, ⬚; torture in, ⬚; town halls of, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; transnational arbitration in, ⬚–⬚; trials in, decline in number of, ⬚; tribunals in, ⬚. See also Britain; London; Woolf, Harry England Reform Act of ⬚, ⬚ English courthouses: courtroom layouts in, ⬚; design guides for, ⬚nn⬚–⬚; fees for access to, ⬚n⬚; glass in, ⬚; late twentieth-century construction of, ⬚; meaning of architecture of, ⬚, ⬚; user fees for access to, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Entsuba, Katsuzou, ⬚f, ⬚n⬚
Environment and Public Works, Senate Committee on, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Envy (Vice), ⬚. See also Vices equal access. See access to courts
Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (U.S.), ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚ equality: evolution of concept of, xv, xvi, ⬚, ⬚; failures in, ⬚; fairness and, ⬚; of participants in courts, ⬚–⬚; in Renaissance, ⬚
Equal Justice Fund, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚. See also Bentham, Jeremy; legal aid ⬚Equal Justice Under Law⬚ on U.S. Supreme Court, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
⬚ual Justice ⬚ nder Law (Constance Baker Motley), ⬚, ⬚
Equal Protection Clause (U.S. Constitution), ⬚, ⬚
Equity (Virtue), ⬚n⬚. See also Virtues
Equity Rules, U.S. Federal, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Erasmus, ⬚; and European Court of Justice, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Erickson, Arthur, ⬚n⬚
Ernst and Young, ⬚
Eros, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚. See also blindfold; cupid; putti
Ersoy, Ufuk, ⬚n⬚
Escuela Nacional Preparatoria, ⬚. See also Orozco, Jos⬚ Clemente
⬚stelle v.⬚Williams, ⬚n⬚ ⬚thics (Aristotle), ⬚ ethics, judicial: American Bar Association on, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚; ⬚appearance⬚ standard in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; in debate over Scalia's recusal, ⬚–⬚; development of, ⬚–⬚, ⬚–⬚; task forces on bias and, ⬚, ⬚–⬚ Eunomia (goddess), ⬚
Europe: alternative dispute resolution in, ⬚–⬚; art of, in relation to African art, ⬚; Australia colonized by, ⬚; civic spaces in, rise of, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚; constitution of, proposed, ⬚; dispersal of institutional sites in, ⬚; Luxembourg as Judicial Capital of, ⬚; Parliament of, ⬚, ⬚; postal services in, ⬚; prisons in, history of, ⬚–⬚, ⬚–⬚nn⬚–⬚. See also European Court of Human Rights; European Court of Justice
Europe, Council of. See Council of Europe
European Coal and Steel Community (ECSC), ⬚, ⬚n⬚
European Coal and Steel Community Treaty (⬚), ⬚n⬚
European Commission on Human Rights: abolition of, ⬚; establishment of, ⬚; functions of, ⬚; compared to Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, ⬚–⬚
European Community (EC): and Council of Europe, ⬚; expansion of, ⬚, ⬚; and jurisdiction of ECJ, ⬚. See also European Union
European Convention Human Rights Act of ⬚ (Ireland), ⬚
European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) (⬚), ⬚–⬚; compared to American Convention on Human Rights, ⬚; Article ⬚ of, ⬚, ⬚–⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; in England, ⬚; evidentiary standards in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; ⬚hear the other side⬚ in, ⬚; mediation and, ⬚; provisions of, ⬚; public access to courts in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR), ⬚–⬚; blindness metaphor in, ⬚; budget of, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚f; caseload of, ⬚–⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; challenges faced by, ⬚–⬚; establishment of, ⬚; and European Court of Justice, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; ⬚hear the other side⬚ in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; impact of, ⬚, ⬚; individual access to, ⬚, ⬚; and Inter-American Court of Human Rights, ⬚–⬚, ⬚–⬚; judges serving in, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚, ⬚; mission of, ⬚; number of filings in, ⬚–⬚, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚; public access to, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; staff of, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR) building, ⬚–⬚, ⬚f; architectural critics on, ⬚, ⬚; art in, ⬚; budget for, ⬚, ⬚; construction of, ⬚; interior design of, ⬚; original, ⬚n⬚; public space in, ⬚; Rogers as architect of, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚–⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
European Court of Justice (ECJ), ⬚–⬚; blindness metaphor in, ⬚; budget of, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚f; caseload of, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚f; Civil Service Tribunal in, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; Court of First Instance in,

European Court of Justice (continued) [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; debate about role of, [illegible]; as demos, [illegible]; establishment of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; and European Court of Human Rights, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; expansion of mission and staff of, [illegible]–[illegible]; "hear the other side" in, [illegible]; impact of law of, [illegible], [illegible]; judges serving in, [illegible], [illegible]; jurisdiction of, [illegible], [illegible]; languages used in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; lawyers in, [illegible]; logo of, [illegible], [illegible]f; Member States of, [illegible], [illegible]; name of, [illegible]n[illegible]; number of filings in, [illegible]; procedural framework of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; public access to, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; public awareness of, [illegible]–[illegible]
European Court of Justice (ECJ) buildings, [illegible]–[illegible]; Annex C, [illegible]; architectural critics on, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; art in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; budget for, [illegible], [illegible]; Erasmus Building, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; Hambourg's murals in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; interior design of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]–[illegible], color plate [illegible]; Le Palais, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, color plates [illegible], [illegible]; need for, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; original villa, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Perrault as architect of, [illegible]–[illegible]; Thomas More Building, [illegible]; Towers, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; visitors to, [illegible]–[illegible]
European Declaration on the Rights of Man and Fundamental Freedoms ([illegible]), [illegible]. See also European Convention on Human Rights
European Economic Community, Treaty Establishing the ([illegible]), [illegible]n[illegible]
European Judicial Network, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
European Union (EU): and Council of Europe, [illegible]; expansion of, [illegible]; and jurisdiction of ECJ, [illegible]; mediation in, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also European Community
European Union, Treaty on. See Maastricht Treaty
Evans, Michael, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] even-handedness: blindfold as symbol of, [illegible]; blindness associated with, [illegible]; bribery and, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Ripa's [illegible]onolo[illegible]ia, [illegible]–[illegible]
Evers, Medgar, [illegible] evidentiary hearings: in administrative agencies, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; definition of, [illegible]n[illegible]; in U.S. federal courts, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f evidentiary standards: in Bible, [illegible]; in European Convention on Human Rights, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; at Guant[illegible]namo Bay, [illegible]; hearsay in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
e[illegible] ae[illegible]uo et [illegible]ono, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] executions, public: in Amsterdam, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; history of, [illegible]; in Iraq, of Hussein, [illegible]; meaning of, [illegible]; at U.S. county courthouses, [illegible]. See also death penalty Executive Branch, U.S.: alternative dispute resolution in, [illegible]; on cost of courthouses, [illegible]–[illegible]; on judicial requests for courthouses, [illegible]–[illegible]
e[illegible]empla virtutis, [illegible]; in Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also allegories and allegorical figures
e[illegible]emplum iustitiae, [illegible], [illegible]. See also allegories and allegorical figures; Brutus; Cambyses; Solomon; Zaleucus [illegible]odus, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Bible ex parte contact, [illegible], [illegible] extrajudicial procedures, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia, [illegible]n[illegible]
Extravagance (Vice), [illegible]. See also Vices Eyck, Jan Van, [illegible]n[illegible] eye(s): of God, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; of Horus, [illegible]n[illegible]; of Justice, [illegible], [illegible]; of Maat, [illegible]n[illegible]. See also blindness; sight eyewitnesses identifications, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also witnesses
Eyffinger, Arthur, xvi, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

Fabri, Adh[illegible]mar, [illegible] fact-finding, by administrative agencies, [illegible]
[illegible]acts [illegible]orum News (magazine): cartoons in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]; opening and closure of, [illegible]n[illegible]
[illegible]aerie [illegible] ueene, The (Edmund Spenser), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Astraea; Elizabeth I Fairbanks (Alaska), U.S. Courthouse and Jail in, [illegible], [illegible]f fairness: blindness and, [illegible]–[illegible]; evolution of concept of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; fundamental, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; of government policies, [illegible]; social movements challenging, [illegible]–[illegible]; use of term, [illegible]; U.S. Supreme Court on, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] fair procedures, use of term, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] fair trials: at Guant[illegible]namo Bay, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; use of term, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Faith: crane associated with, [illegible]; as Theological Virtue, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Virtues Fake, Guy L., [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] family: courts, [illegible]; law, [illegible]
[illegible]ann[illegible] (Fitz-Greene Halleck), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Farley, Marilyn, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] fasces: as attribute of Justice, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; history of use of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in U.S. Supreme Court building, [illegible] Fear of God, as Gift Virtue, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] feather(s): ostrich, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; symbolic meanings of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Febvre, Lucien, [illegible]n[illegible]
Federal Advisory Committee Act (U.S.), [illegible]
Federal Appendix, [illegible]n[illegible]
Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) of [illegible] (U.S.), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
[illegible]ederal [illegible]rchitect (magazine), [illegible]n[illegible]
Federal Building Fund (U.S.), [illegible] federal buildings, U.S., [illegible]–[illegible]; accessibility of, [illegible]–[illegible]; architectural style of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; art in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; budget for, [illegible]–[illegible]; competitions for design of, [illegible]; complaints about style of, [illegible]–[illegible]; cooperative use of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; cost of, GSA concern with, [illegible]; court quarters in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; energy conservation in, [illegible]; GSA Design Excellence Program for, [illegible]–[illegible]; Guiding Principles for, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; historic buildings reused as, [illegible]; multi-use, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; naming of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; NEA as architectural critic of, [illegible]–[illegible]; nineteenth-century construction of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; and Office of the Chief Architect, [illegible], [illegible]; and Office of the Supervising Architect, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; outsourcing design of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; real estate occupied by, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; security in, [illegible]; twentieth-century construction of, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; uniformity of, opposition to, [illegible], [illegible]. See also custom houses; federal courthouses; General Services Administration; post offices Federal Claims, U.S. Court of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] federal court(s), U.S.: administration of (See federal court administration); alternative dispute resolution in, [illegible]; decline in number of trials in, [illegible], [illegible]f; establishment of, [illegible]–[illegible]; in establishment of national legal regime, [illegible]; evidentiary hearings in, number of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; expansion of jurisdiction of, [illegible], [illegible]; expansion of rights in, [illegible]–[illegible]; long-range planning for, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; number of filings in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]; settlement rates in, [illegible]; state procedural rules in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; television broadcast of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; terrorist suspects tried in, [illegible] federal court administration (U.S.): development of internal apparatus of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; by Interior Department, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; by Justice Department, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; by Treasury Department, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Administrative Office (AO) of the United States Courts federal courthouse(s), U.S.: air conditioning in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; alternative dispute resolution suites in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; amount of space used by, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; art in, [illegible]–[illegible]; awards for design of, [illegible]; circulation routes in, [illegible]–[illegible]; construction of (See federal courthouse construction); compared to court quarters in federal buildings, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; courtrooms within (See federal courtrooms); compared to French courthouses, [illegible]; interior design of, cost of, [illegible]; multiplication of uses of, [illegible]; naming of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; needed and unneeded space in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; racial segregation in, [illegible]; renting of, [illegible]–[illegible]; segregation by roles in, [illegible]–[illegible]; sharing of space in, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible],

[illegible]; space emergency in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; space utilization in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; windows in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] federal courthouse construction (U.S.), [illegible]–[illegible]; AO on need for, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; AO's role in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; architects for, selection of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; budget for, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Constitution on, [illegible]; cost of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; GSA Design Excellence Program for, [illegible]; GSA's role in, problems with, [illegible]–[illegible]; Guiding Principles for, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; JCUS design manual for, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; judicial leadership on need for, [illegible]–[illegible]; lobbying for, [illegible], [illegible]; long-range planning for, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; nineteenth-century, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; origins of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; patronage in, [illegible]–[illegible]; private and public design of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; real estate acquisition for, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; compared to renting, [illegible]; resistance to paying for, [illegible]–[illegible]; security in, [illegible], [illegible]; twentieth-century, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]. See also General Services Administration federal courthouse design guides (U.S.). See [illegible] S[illegible] Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uides[illegible]United States Courts Design Guide federal courtrooms (U.S.): decline in use of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; [illegible] S[illegible] Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uides on, [illegible]; latent and actual use of, [illegible]; layout of, [illegible], [illegible]; non-trial uses of, [illegible]; seats in, number of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; sharing of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; size of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; [illegible]Courts Desi[illegible]n [illegible]uide on, [illegible]–[illegible]; utilization of, studies of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Federal Design Improvement Program of NEA (U.S.), [illegible]
Federal Equity Rules, U.S., [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] federal judges, U.S.: administrative support for, [illegible]; criticism of, [illegible]; end of isolation of, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; [illegible]lying squadron[illegible] of, [illegible], [illegible]; impeachment of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; life tenure of, [illegible], [illegible]; murder of, [illegible]n[illegible]; need for additional, [illegible]; number of, in [illegible]s, [illegible]; number of, in [illegible]s, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; number of, in [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f; oath of office for, [illegible]; politics of selecting, [illegible]; salaries of, [illegible]; Senate confirmation of, [illegible]; size of chambers of, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; Taft's agenda for, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; trials per year, [illegible]; workload of, measurement of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Federal Judicial Center (FJC) (U.S.): on courtroom utilization and sharing, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; establishment of, [illegible]; functions of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Marshall Building headquarters of, [illegible] federal judiciary budget (U.S.): for courthouse construction, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; compared to demand for services, [illegible]; compared to federal workforce, [illegible]; for rent, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; size of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; summary of allocation of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f federal judiciary employees, U.S.: architects, [illegible]n[illegible]; courthouse space needed for, [illegible]n[illegible]; number of, in [illegible]s, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; number of, in [illegible]s, [illegible] [illegible]ederal Presence (Lois Craig), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] federal prisons, U.S., history of, [illegible]–[illegible]
Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (U.S.), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Federal Triangle, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Federal Works Agency (U.S.), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Work Projects Administration federated nations, judicial systems of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] fees. See user fees
Feilden[illegible] Mawson LLP, [illegible]n[illegible]
Feiner, Ed: as Chief Architect of GSA, [illegible]; on excellence in design, [illegible]n[illegible]; influence of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Ferdinand VI, King of Spain, [illegible]n[illegible]
Ferry, Jules, [illegible]
Fiera, Battista: De [illegible]usticia Pin[illegible]enda [illegible] n the Paintin[illegible] of Justice[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; description of Mantua by, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; life of, [illegible]. See also Mantegna, Andrea; Momus
Fierro, Annette, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also glass Fifth Amendment of U.S. Constitution, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] filings, number of: in regional and international courts, [illegible]; international increase in, [illegible]; in U.S. federal courts, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in U.S. state courts, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] Filippine, Edward L., [illegible]n[illegible] financial interests of judges: as reason for disqualification and recusal, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Tume[illegible] hio
Fine Arts Commission, U.S. See Commission on Fine Arts Fine Arts in New Federal Buildings program (U.S.), GSA, [illegible] fines. See user fees
Finland: architectural critics on courthouses of, [illegible]; courtroom layouts in, [illegible]; public art funding in, [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Helsinki
First Amendment of U.S. Constitution, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
First Instance, Court of, of European Court of Justice, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
First Judiciary Act. See Judiciary Act of [illegible] (U.S.)
Fishkin, James S., [illegible]n[illegible]
Flemish Gothic architectural style, [illegible]
Flinck, Govaert, [illegible]
Florence (Italy), Sienese rivalry with, [illegible]
Flores, Leopoldo, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Florida: bias task forces in, [illegible]; court budgets in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; public access to alternative dispute resolution data in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; user fees in, [illegible]
FOIA. See Freedom of Information Act
Foley, William E., [illegible]n[illegible] fools: judges as, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Justice blindfolded by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f
Fort-de-France (Martinique), Palais de Justice in, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible] Fortitude (Virtue): and Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; as Cardinal Virtue, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; depictions of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; as Gift Virtue, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; meaning of, [illegible]. See also Virtues fortune (Fortuna), [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; blindfold of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] forum selection clauses, [illegible]
Foucault, Michel: Discipline and Punish, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; on fissures in law's authority, [illegible]; and open courts, [illegible]–[illegible]; on privatization of punishment, [illegible], [illegible]; and South Africa, [illegible]; on spectacles, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; on surveillance, xv, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Four Daughters of God, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Justice; Mercy; Peace; Truth; Virtues Fourteenth Amendment of U.S. Constitution: and concept of fairness, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Due Process Clause of, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; Equal Protection Clause of, [illegible], [illegible]
Fox, Charles, [illegible]n[illegible]
Fraade, Steven D., xvi, [illegible]n[illegible]
France: admonitions against bribery in, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; Ancien R[illegible]gime of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; architectural styles of, [illegible]; art in (See French public art); Brutus's story in, [illegible]; conciliation courts in, [illegible]; Conseil Constitutionnel of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Cour de cassation in, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; court administrators in, [illegible]n[illegible]; courthouses of (See French courthouses); courthouse architecture, [illegible]–[illegible]; due process in, [illegible]; in European Court of Human Rights, [illegible]; gifts to judges in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; glass in architecture of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; history of, in public art, [illegible]–[illegible]; judicial system of, [illegible]; July Revolution ([illegible]) in, [illegible]; Marianne in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Saint Michael in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; National Assembly of, [illegible]; prisons of (See French prisons); separation of church and state in, [illegible]n[illegible]; slave trade in, [illegible]n[illegible]; Synagoga in, [illegible], [illegible]f; trees in imagery of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]. See also specific cities and courts

Frankfurt-am-Main (Germany), "hear the other side" in, [illegible]
Frankfurter, Felix: blindness metaphor used by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; on "hear the other side," [illegible]; in Holzer's Sacramento installation, [illegible], [illegible]
Franklin, Benjamin, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Franklin, Julian, [illegible], [illegible]
Fraser, Nancy, xvi, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See also Habermas, Jürgen; participatory parity; public spheres
Frazier, Bernard, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Frazier, Malcolm, [illegible], [illegible]
Frederick II, King of Denmark, [illegible]
Frederick Barbarossa (Holy Roman Emperor), [illegible], [illegible]
Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) (U.S.), [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible] freedom of press. See press, freedom of Freeman, Jody, [illegible], [illegible]
Fremantle, Katharine, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
French, Daniel Chester, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
French courthouses (Palais de Justice), [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; AMOTMJ's role in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; architects of, selection of, [illegible]; architectural critics on, [illegible], [illegible]; architectural style of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; art in, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in Avignon, [illegible]; in Besançon, [illegible]; in Bordeaux, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; compared to commercial buildings, [illegible]; crucifix and images of crucifixion in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; design guide for, [illegible]; in Fort-de-France, [illegible]; goals for, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; in Grenoble, [illegible]; history of, [illegible]–[illegible]; interior design of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; judges' roles in, [illegible]; legibility of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; location of, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; long-term planning for, [illegible], [illegible]; in Melun, [illegible]; in Nantes, [illegible]–[illegible]; need for additional, [illegible]; office space in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in Pontoise, [illegible]; public and private space in, [illegible], [illegible]; in Rennes, [illegible], [illegible]; salles d'audience (courtrooms) of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; salles des pas perdus of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; segregated spaces in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; compared to U.S. courthouses, [illegible]
French Declaration of the Rights of Man and of the Citizen ([illegible]), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
French Ministry of Justice: on Building Program, [illegible]–[illegible]; and [illegible] decoratif, [illegible]–[illegible]; on Holzer's Nantes installation, [illegible], [illegible]; and Nantes Courthouse, [illegible]–[illegible]; role in courthouse construction, [illegible]–[illegible]
French prisons: budget for, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; construction of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; reused as courthouses, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; separate facilities for, origins of, [illegible]
French public art, [illegible]–[illegible]; French history in, [illegible]–[illegible]; history of, [illegible]; selection process for, [illegible]; set-asides for ([illegible] decoratif), [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; survey of, [illegible]–[illegible]
French Republic, seal of, [illegible]
French Revolution, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
French Second Empire architectural style, [illegible], [illegible]
Freret, Will A., [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Freschi, Federico, [illegible]
Friedlander, Suzan D., [illegible]
Frieman, Ziva, [illegible]
Friendship, [illegible], [illegible]; dog as symbol of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; as reason for recusal, [illegible]–[illegible]
Fuller, Lon, [illegible], [illegible]
Fundamental Laws of West New Jersey ([illegible]), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] furnishings: in Finnish courthouses, [illegible]; in French courthouses, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Israeli Supreme Court, [illegible]; in national courthouses, [illegible]; in U.S. courthouses, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]

Galanter, Marc, xvi, [illegible]
Galle, Philip, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See also Bruegel, Pieter
Gallegos, Salvador, [illegible]
Galveston (Texas): Civil War in, [illegible], [illegible]; U.S. Custom House in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Galvez, Daniel, [illegible], [illegible]
Gandhi, Mahatma: bust of, in Peace Palace, [illegible]; imprisonment of, [illegible]
Gandhi, Salil K., [illegible]
Gandon, James, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
GAO. See Government Accountability Office
Garapon, Antoine, xvi, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]
Garouste, Gérard: career of, [illegible]; Lyon installation by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Garth, Bryant, [illegible], [illegible]
Gates, Robert, [illegible]
Gaudin, Henri, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Gdańsk Town Hall (Poland), [illegible], [illegible]. See also town halls Gellius, Aulus: on images of Justicia, [illegible]; in Ripa's Iconologia, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] gender: intersection of race and, [illegible]; of judges, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; of Justice, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; of litigants, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; and sexism, use of terms, [illegible]; and sexuality of Virtues and Vices, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; and war crimes, [illegible] gender bias: courts as source of, [illegible], [illegible]; judicial education on, [illegible], [illegible]; task forces on, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
General Accounting Office (GAO), U.S. See Government Accountability Office
General Peace Convention ([illegible]), [illegible]
General Services Administration (GSA), U.S.: on Boston federal courthouse, [illegible]; Center for Design Excellence and the Arts in, [illegible]; congressional oversight of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in cooperative use of federal buildings, [illegible]; cost as primary concern of, [illegible]; design guides by (See [illegible] Design Guides); establishment of, [illegible]; in federal courthouse construction, [illegible]; federal real estate overseen by, [illegible], [illegible]; Fine Arts in New Federal Buildings program of, [illegible]; functions of, [illegible], [illegible]; on Grand Forks federal building, [illegible], [illegible]; on Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; on Hirsch's "Mulatto" Justice mural, [illegible], [illegible]; on Holzer's Sacramento installation, [illegible]; on Kelly's Boston panels, [illegible], [illegible]; mission statement of, [illegible]; on Mitchell's Saint Croix sculpture, [illegible], [illegible]; on Moore's (Diana) Concord Justice sculpture, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in naming of federal buildings, [illegible], [illegible]; Office of the Chief Architect in, [illegible], [illegible]; Office of the Supervising Architect in, [illegible], [illegible]; Office of Management and Budget and, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; [illegible] klahoma Tribute, [illegible]; origins of public art projects of, [illegible]; on Otterness's Portland sculptures, [illegible]–[illegible]; problems with service of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; rent calculation by, [illegible]; rent paid to, [illegible]–[illegible]; on St. Louis federal courthouse, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; security as focus of, [illegible]; selection criteria of, [illegible]; on Simkhovich's Mississippi Justice mural, [illegible], [illegible]; Standards for Federal Architecture of, [illegible]. See also Art-in-Architecture Program; public art; Public Buildings Service; Supervising Architect, Office of the General Services Administration (GSA) Design Awards: establishment of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; to Moore (Diana), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; problems with, [illegible], [illegible]
General Services Administration (GSA) Design Excellence Program: diversity as goal of, [illegible]; establishment of, [illegible]–[illegible]; excellence in design standard in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; mission of, [illegible]; peer review in, [illegible]; security in, [illegible]; selection criteria of, [illegible], [illegible]; selection process of, [illegible]; success of, [illegible], [illegible]
Genet, Jean-Philippe, [illegible]
Geneva (Switzerland): admonitions against bribery in, [illegible]–[illegible]; Calvinism in, [illegible]; General Council of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; independence of, [illegible]; population of, [illegible]
Geneva (Switzerland), Town Hall in: handless judges in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; images of Justice in, ⬚, ⬚f; images of pain in, ⬚. See also Giglio, C⬚sar

Geneva Convention(s): adoption of, ⬚, ⬚; and Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚n⬚; in International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, ⬚n⬚; in International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, ⬚; on prisoners of war, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Genn, Hazel, xvi, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚nn⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚nn⬚–⬚ genocide: convention of ⬚ on, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; definition of, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; in International Criminal Court, ⬚; in Kosovo, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
George, Prince of Denmark, ⬚nn⬚–⬚
George III, King of England, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Georgia: ⬚ Constitution of, ⬚, ⬚; race in death penalty in, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚
Germany: handless judges in, ⬚–⬚; ⬚hear the other side⬚ in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; Last Judgment images in, ⬚, ⬚; legal code of cities within, ⬚–⬚; legal system within, ⬚; public art funding in, ⬚n⬚; Synagoga in cities of, ⬚, ⬚; in U.N. Convention on the Law of the Sea, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; women legal students in, ⬚n⬚. See also specific cities
Germany, Constitutional Court of: establishment of, ⬚n⬚; glass in design of, ⬚, ⬚; public access to, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Gertner, Nancy, ⬚n⬚
⬚esta ⬚omanorum, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Geyh, Charles, ⬚n⬚
Gibson, James L., ⬚n⬚
Gibson Desert Nature Reserve (Australia), ⬚, ⬚n⬚ ⬚ideon v⬚Wainwri⬚ht, ⬚ gifts: in France, ⬚–⬚, ⬚–⬚; from judges, ⬚; to judges, ⬚–⬚, ⬚–⬚, ⬚; compared to user fees, ⬚. See also Davis, Natalie Zemon Gift Virtues, ⬚–⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚. See also Fortitude; Knowledge; Piety; Prudence; Understanding; Wisdom; Virtues
Giglio, C⬚sar, handless judges of, ⬚–⬚, ⬚f. See also Geneva (Switzerland), Town Hall in Gilbert, Cass: in Commission on Fine Arts, ⬚; death of, ⬚n⬚; life of, ⬚n⬚; political views of, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; Supreme Court building designed by, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚; Thurgood Marshall Courthouse designed by, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚, ⬚; Weinman's friezes used by, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Ginsburg, Ruth Bader, xvi: on accessibility of courts, ⬚n⬚; on litigants' access to courts, ⬚; on South African Constitutional Court building, ⬚
Giordano, Luca: Justice depicted by, ⬚–⬚, ⬚f, ⬚; life of, ⬚, ⬚nn⬚–⬚
Giotto: and Lorenzetti's frescoes, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; Padua frescoes by, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; punishment in works of, ⬚n⬚; Synagoga depicted by, ⬚n⬚
Girardet, Alain, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Glaberson, William, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, Glancey, Jonathan, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
glass, ⬚–⬚; ballistic-resistant, ⬚; in European Court of Human Rights, ⬚; facades of, ⬚; in Finnish courthouses, ⬚; in French courthouses, ⬚; functions of, ⬚; in German Constitutional Court, ⬚, ⬚; as metaphor for democracy, ⬚; opaque, ⬚; in other types of architecture, ⬚; politics of, ⬚–⬚; prevalence in courthouse architecture, xv, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚; in South African Constitutional Court, ⬚–⬚, ⬚; as symbol of access to courts, ⬚–⬚, ⬚; as symbol of transparency, xv, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚–⬚, ⬚; technological improvements in, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
⬚lassroth v⬚Moore, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Gluttony (Vice), ⬚. See also Vices gods and goddesses. See deities Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Goldberg, Arthur, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Goldberger, Paul, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
⬚old⬚er⬚ v⬚⬚ell⬚, ⬚nn⬚–⬚
Goldstein, Mark L., ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Gombrich, Ernst, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Goodhue, Betram Grosvenor, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Goodrich, Lloyd, ⬚n⬚
Goodsell, Charles T., ⬚n⬚
Goossens, Eymert-Jan, xvi, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Gordon, Daniel, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Gorky, Arshile, ⬚n⬚
Gortyn Code, ⬚
Gothic architectural style, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Gouda (Netherlands): ⬚hear the other side⬚ in Town Hall of, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚; St. Janskirk in, ⬚n⬚
Government Accountability Office (GAO), U.S.: change to name of, ⬚; on cost of courthouse construction, ⬚n⬚; on judicial task forces, ⬚; on rent costs, ⬚; on workload of federal judges, ⬚n⬚
Government Office Space, Ad Hoc Committee on, ⬚–⬚, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚
⬚overnment of ⬚irgin ⬚slands v⬚Charleswell, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Graham, Clare, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Grand Forks (North Dakota), Post Office and Federal Courthouse in, ⬚, ⬚f
Grand Marais (Minnesota), Cook County Courthouse in, ⬚–⬚, ⬚f, ⬚f, ⬚f, ⬚, color plates ⬚, ⬚
⬚rand Pro⬚ets, of George Mitterrand, ⬚, ⬚n⬚ Grass, Roger, ⬚n⬚
Graz Town Hall (Austria), Last Judgment in, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚n⬚, color plate ⬚. See also town halls
Great Britain. See Britain
Great Seal of the United States, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Great Victoria Desert (Australia), ⬚–⬚, ⬚f
Greece, ancient: concept of justice in, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; goddesses of, ⬚–⬚; ⬚hear the other side⬚ in, ⬚; images of Virtues in, ⬚n⬚; and Saint Michael, ⬚; in origins of Justice iconography, ⬚–⬚; role of courts in, ⬚n⬚
Greed (Vice), ⬚. See also Vices Greek Revival architectural style, ⬚ green buildings: European Court of Human Rights as, ⬚; French courthouses as, ⬚n⬚; national courthouses (U.S.) as, ⬚; South African Constitutional Court as, ⬚ Greene, Frank, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
Greenhouse, Linda, xvi, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚
⬚reen Tree ⬚inancial Corporation⬚⬚ la⬚ama v⬚⬚andolph, ⬚n⬚
⬚reen Tree ⬚inancial Corporation v⬚Ba⬚⬚le, ⬚n⬚
Gregory I, Pope, ⬚, ⬚n⬚
Grenoble (France), Palais de Justice in, ⬚ Groebner, Valentin, ⬚n⬚
Groenhuis, G., ⬚n⬚
Grooms, Thomas, xvi, ⬚
Grotius, Hugo, The Law of War and Peace, ⬚
GSA. See General Services Administration
⬚S⬚ Desi⬚n ⬚uides, ⬚–⬚; ⬚ edition of, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; ⬚ edition of, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚; relationship to U.S. Courts Design Guide, ⬚–⬚; security in, ⬚ Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚–⬚; administrative review process at, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚nn⬚–⬚; and alternative dispute resolution, ⬚; and Associated Press efforts to access information, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚; classification of detainees at, ⬚–⬚, ⬚nn⬚–⬚; closure of, debate over, ⬚; connotations of, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; court facilities at, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚f, ⬚f; in decline of adjudication, ⬚; detention facilities at, ⬚, ⬚f; establishment of, ⬚; Geneva Conventions and, ⬚n⬚; history of naval base at, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; ⬚Honor Bound to Defend Freedom⬚ at, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; identification of detainees at, ⬚n⬚; Joint Task Force building at, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚, ⬚f; judicial independence at, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; legality of detention at, ⬚; logo of, ⬚–⬚, ⬚f; Military Commissions at, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚; number of detainees at, ⬚, ⬚n⬚; oath taken by officials at, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚; opposition to, ⬚, ⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; press coverage of, ⬚–⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚, ⬚n⬚; problems with procedures at,

Guant□namo Bay (continued)
□□□; public access to, □□□–□□□, □□□, □□□n□□□; secrecy at, □□□–□□□, □□□; transfer of detainees out of, □□□n□□□; treatment of detainees at, □□□, □□□; tribunals at, □□, □□□n□; U.S. Supreme Court on, □□□, □□□, □□□n□, □□□n□□□. See also Combatant Status Review Tribunal Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture (□□□□ report) (U.S.), □□□–□□□, □□□, □□□n□□□; influence of Cold War on, □□□. See also General Services Administration; Moynihan, Daniel Patrick guild-halls. See town halls
Gulfport (Mississippi), Dan M. Russell Jr. Federal Building and Courthouse in, □□□ Haarlem Town Hall, □□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□

Haas, Richard, □□□n□□□ habeas corpus: in U.S. federal courts, □□□; at Guant□namo Bay, □□□; world, □□□
Habermas, Jürgen: Between □acts and Norms, □□□n□□□; on press, □□□, □□□n□□□; on public sphere, xv, □□□, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□□
Hachlili, Rachel, □□□n□□
Hacking, Ian, □□□n□□
Hadrian, Emperor of Rome, □□, □□□n□□□
Hague, The (Netherlands): Alexanderkazerne in, □□□; International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda in, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□; International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia in, □□□. See also International Criminal Court; Peace Palace; Permanent Court of Arbitration; Permanent Court of International Justice
Hague Academy of International Law, □□□, □□□, □□□
Hague Peace Conferences of □□□□ and □□□□, □□□, □□□ Hale, Matthew, □□□, □□□n□□□
Hall, Marcia, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□
Halleck, Fitz-Greene, □anr□ □, □□□n□□
Hambourg, Andr□, □□□–□□□, □□□f, □□□n□□□, color plate □□
Hamburg (Germany): history of, □□□–□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□; Last Judgment in courtrooms of, □□, □□□n□□□; role in International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, □□□–□□□, □□□. See also International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea
Hammurabi, King of Babylonia, □□, □□□n□
Hammurabi, Code of: in Holzer's Nantes installation, □□□; in Iraqi Special Tribunal logo, □□□; Shamash in, □□; stele of, □□, □□, □□□–□□□n□–□. See also Babylonia; Mesopotamia Hampshire, Stuart, □□□, □□□n□□ handless judges, □□–□□, □□f, □□□; see also Les Juges aux mains coup□es Hanfmann, George M. A., □□□n□□
Hanoteau, Claude, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□
Harbison, Craig, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□
Hardenbergh, Don, □□□n□□, □□□n□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□, □□□
Harding, Warren G., □□□, □□□
Harff, Arnold von, □□□n□□□
Harlan, John Marshall, □□, □□□, □□□n□□
Harlem Renaissance, □□□n□□□
Harman, Jack, □□f, □□, □□□n□□□
Harrison, Jane Ellen, □□□nn□□–□□
Harrison, Susan, xvi, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□
HASSELL (architectural firm), □□□, □□□f, □□□f
Hatfield, Mark O., □□□n□□□ Haviland, John, □□□ hearing officers, □□, □□□, □□□f, □□□–□□□. See also ad litem judges; administrative law judges; judges hearings. See evidentiary hearings hearsay evidence, □□□, □□□n□□□
□hear the other side□ audi et alteram partem□ □□□–□□□; in Amsterdam Town Hall, □□, □□, □□□; in English law, □□□, □□□; evolution of meaning of, □□□–□□□; compared to □Honor Bound to Defend Freedom,□ □□□; in Illinois Supreme Court, □□□, □□□f, □□□; in international courts, □□□; origins of concept, □□, □□□, □□□n□, □□□n□; public access and, □□□; relationship to due process, □□, □□□–□□□; in Renaissance town halls, □□, □□□, □□□; in U.S. law, □□□–□□□; U.S. Supreme Court on, □□□, □□□n□□
Heckscher, August: The □rts and the National □overnment, □□□; life of, □□□n□□□
Held, Julius, □□□nn□□□–□□□
Hellmuth, Obata □ Kassbaum, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□
Helsinki (Finland), District Court in, □□□, □□□f, □□□f, □□□
Henkin, Louis, □□□, □□□n□□□
Henry VII, King of England, □□
Hensler, Deborah R., xvii, □□□n□□, □□□n□□□
Hercules (mythic figure), □□□n□□
Herkinbald, Judgment of, □□–□□, □□□n□□□
Herlihy, David, □□□n□□□
Hermes (god), □□, □□□. See also deities, Greek Herodotus, □ istoriae, □□, □□
Herr, Jean, □□□f, □□□n□□
Hertel, Johann George, □□□n□□
Hesiod, □□□n□□
□ ier□□phica (Horapollo), □□, □□□n□□, □□□nn□□□–□□□, □□□n□□□
Higginbotham, Patrick E., □□□n□□
Higgins, Rosalyn, □□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□
High Renaissance Dutch architectural style, □□□
Hirsch, Stefan: life of, □□□, □□□n□□; □Mulatto□ Justice mural by, □□, □□□–□□□, □□□f, □□□, color plate □□
□ istoriae (Herodotus), □□, □□
Historical Society of the Courts of New York, □□□ historic preservation of courts, □□□–□□□
Hitchcock, Alfred, □□□
Hodgins, Robert, □□□
Hogarth, William, □□, □□□n□□□
Holbein, Hans, □□, □□, □□□n□□□
Holbein, Hans, the Younger, □□□n□□□
Holmes, Oliver Wendell, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□
Holy Roman Empire, □□
Holy Trinity, □□. See also Damhoudere, Joost de; Last Judgment
Holzer, Jenny, xvii; aphorisms of, □□□, □□□–□□□; on Art-in-Architecture administration, □□□; career of, □□□–□□□, □□□n□□□; Nantes installation by, □□□, □□□–□□□, □□□f, □□□n□□□, color plate □□; radicalism of, □□□, □□□n□□□; Sacramento installation by, □□□, □□□–□□□, □□□f, □□□
Homer: blindness and, □□, □□□n□□; □iad, □□, □□, □□, □□□n□□; □ d□sse□, □□
□Honor Bound to Defend Freedom,□ at Guant□namo Bay, □□□, □□□n□□□
Hoover, Herbert, and Permanent Court of International Justice, □□□
Hope, as Theological Virtue, □, □□□n□□. See also Virtues
Horapollo, □ ier□□phica, □□, □□□n□□, □□□nn□□□–□□□, □□□n□□□
Horn, Milton, □□□
Hornby, Brock, xvii, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□
Hornung, Erik, □□□n□□
Horus, eye of, □□□n□□
House of Representatives, U.S.: Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds of, □□□; Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of, □□□, □□□n□□□
Houser, R. Edward, □□□n□□
Howard, John, □□□
Hudson, A. B., □□□n□□□
Hudson, Manley O., □□□n□□□, □□□–□□□nn□□□–□□□
Hughes, Charles Evans: appointment as Chief Justice, □□□n□□; on Permanent Court of International Justice, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□; on Weinman's friezes for Supreme Court, □□□nn□□□–□□□
Hughes, Langston, □□□–□□□; on blindfold, □□, □□, □□, □□□–□□□, □□□f; on blindness, □□, □□; in Harlem Renaissance, □□□n□□□; Justice (poem), □□□, □□□n□□□; and National Bar Association, □□□–□□□, □□□f; Scotts□oro Limited, □□□, □□□n□□□
Hugo, Victor, □□□, □□□
Huidobro, Borja, □□□f, □□□n□□□ humanity, crimes against. See crimes against humanity human law, compared to divine law, □□, □□, □□–□□, □□–□□, □□–□□ human rights, □□□–□□□; challenge of defining violations of, □□□; and sovereignty, □□□–□□□; after World Wars I and II, □□□, □□□–□□□. See also European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR); European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR); Inter-American Convention on Human Rights; Inter-American Court of Human Rights Human Rights Act of □□□□ (UK), □□□, □□□ human rights commissions. See European Commission on Human Rights; Inter-American Commission on Human Rights human rights conventions. See European Convention on Human Rights; Inter-American Convention on Human Rights human rights courts. See European Court of Human Rights; Inter-American Court of Human Rights human rights declarations, legal effects of, [illegible]. See also specific declarations

Human Rights Watch, [illegible]
Hume, David, [illegible] humility, blindfold as symbol of, [illegible]
Humility (Virtue), [illegible]. See also Virtues
Humphrey, Herman Leon, [illegible]
Humphrey, Hubert, [illegible]
Hunt, Haroldson Lafayette, [illegible]
Huron (South Dakota), public art in, [illegible]
Hussein, Saddam: broadcast of the execution of, [illegible]; mural of, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]
Huyberechts, Gilbert, [illegible]f, [illegible] hybridization, of courts, [illegible]
[illegible]pnerotomachia Poliphili (Colonna), [illegible]

IACHR. See Inter-American Commission on Human Rights
IACtHR. See Inter-American Court of Human Rights
IBA. See International Bar Association
[illegible]eria Credit Bureau, [illegible], [illegible]Cin[illegible]ular Wireless, [illegible]
ICC. See International Criminal Court
Iceland, Supreme Court of, [illegible]
ICJ. See International Court of Justice iconography: of democratic adjudication, [illegible]; French traditions of, [illegible]; of Justice (See Justice, attributes and symbols of); in Peace Palace, [illegible]. See also Alciatus, Andreas; Ripa, Cesare [illegible]onolo[illegible]ia (Ripa): Alciatus as source for, [illegible]; Amsterdam Town Hall influenced by, [illegible]; animals in, [illegible]; birds in, [illegible]; blindfold in, [illegible]; on blindness, [illegible]; Cambyses in, [illegible]; codification of visual imagery in, [illegible]; cornucopia in, [illegible]; corruption in, [illegible]; diversity of Justices in, [illegible]; diversity of Virtues in, [illegible]; Divine Justice (Giustitia Divina) in, [illegible]; Dutch edition of ([illegible]), [illegible]; editions of, [illegible]; English edition of (Richardson, [illegible]), [illegible]; even-handedness in, [illegible]; French edition (Baudoin, [illegible]) of, [illegible]; Hertel-Maser edition ([illegible]) of, [illegible]; illustrations added to, [illegible]; Justice according to Aulus Gellius in, [illegible]; Justice of Pausanias in the Eliaci (Giustitia di Pausania ne gl'Eliaci) in, [illegible]; Justice on the medals of Hadrian, Antoninus Pius, and Alexander (Giustitia delle Medaglie d'Adriano, d'Antonio Pio, [illegible] d'Alessandro) in, [illegible]; lictor rods in, [illegible]; ostrich in, [illegible], [illegible]; Padua edition ([illegible]) of, [illegible]; Padua edition ([illegible]) of, [illegible]; Phrygian cap in, [illegible]; publication of, [illegible]; Reynolds influenced by, [illegible]; Rigorous Justice (Giustitia Rigorosa) in, [illegible]; Rome edition ([illegible]) of, [illegible]; Strict Justice (Giustitia Retta) in, [illegible]; Temperance in, [illegible]
iconophobia, [illegible]
ICSID. See International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes
ICTR. See International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda
ICTY. See International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia Idaho courthouses: depictions of Native Americans in, [illegible]. See also Boise identity politics: French symbol Marianne as exemplar of, [illegible]; in Justice iconography, [illegible]; in legal profession, [illegible]
Idolatry (Vice), [illegible]. See also Vices
Ignorance (Vice): blindfold associated with, [illegible]; as Vice, [illegible]. See also knowledge; veil of ignorance; Vices
[illegible]iad (Homer), [illegible]
Ilkar, H[illegible]ne, [illegible]
Illinois, Supreme Court of, [illegible]f, [illegible]. See also Chicago illuminated manuscripts, [illegible]
Immigration and Naturalization Service, U.S., [illegible]f, [illegible] immigration judges and tribunals, U.S., [illegible] immunity of judges, [illegible]; in relationship to subservience, [illegible] impartiality: blindfold as symbol of, [illegible]; blindness of, [illegible]; of jurors, [illegible] impartiality of judges: appearance of, [illegible]; reasons for questioning, [illegible]; task forces on problems with, [illegible]. See also Canons of Judicial Ethics; judges impeachment of judges [illegible]. See also judges implicit bias, [illegible] incarceration. See prison(s)
Inconstancy (Vice), [illegible]
[illegible]nde[illegible]m[illegible]lematicus (Alciatus): codification of visual imagery in, [illegible]; editions of, [illegible]; publication of, [illegible] indigenous rights: in Australia, [illegible]; to land, [illegible]; rise of international recognition of, [illegible]; United Nations on, [illegible]
In[illegible]s de la Cruz, [illegible]
[illegible]nferno (Dante), [illegible]
Infidelity (Vice), [illegible]. See also Vices information: freedom of, [illegible]; probative value of, [illegible]. See also Bentham, Jeremy; publicity information officers, public, [illegible]. See also administrators; court injustice (Vice): blindness of, [illegible]; on display in Mexican Supreme Court, [illegible]; on display in South African Constitutional Court, [illegible]. See also Vices Inns of Courts (England), [illegible]
Inquisition, [illegible]
Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (IACHR): authority of, [illegible]; budget of, [illegible]f; caseload of, [illegible]f; challenges faced by, [illegible]; establishment of, [illegible]; and European Commission on Human Rights, [illegible]; judicial selection for, [illegible]; on Mexican police brutality, [illegible]; mission of, [illegible]; on United States, [illegible]
Inter-American Court of Human Rights (IACtHR), [illegible]; authority of, [illegible]; budget of, [illegible]f; caseload of, [illegible]f; establishment of, [illegible]; and European Court of Human Rights, [illegible]; [illegible]hear the other side[illegible] in, [illegible]; impact of, [illegible]; as international court, [illegible]; judges serving in, [illegible]; jurisdiction of, [illegible]; number of filings in, [illegible]; staff of, [illegible]
Inter-American Court of Human Rights (IACtHR) building, [illegible]f, [illegible]; courtrooms of, [illegible]f
Inter-American Development Bank, [illegible]
Inter-American Juridical Committee, [illegible]
Interior Department, U.S., federal court administration under, [illegible] international arbitration, in England, [illegible]
International architectural style, [illegible]
International Bar Association (IBA), [illegible]
International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID), [illegible] International Council for Commercial Arbitration, [illegible] international court(s), [illegible]; authority of, [illegible]; budgets of, [illegible]f; caseloads of, [illegible]f; contentious cases in, [illegible]; criminal (See criminal courts and tribunals); [illegible]hear the other side[illegible] in, [illegible]; history of, [illegible]; judicial selection in, [illegible]; jurisdiction of, [illegible]; languages used by, [illegible]; logos of, [illegible]; mixed courts as, [illegible]; nationality of judges in, [illegible]; politics of, [illegible]; public access to, [illegible]; staff of, [illegible]; use of term, [illegible]. See also specific courts international courthouses: architectural styles of, [illegible]; competitions for design of, [illegible]; construction of, [illegible]; host countries' involvement in, [illegible]. See also specific [illegible]uildin[illegible]s

International Court of Justice (ICJ), ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; authority of, ⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; caseload of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; compliance with rulings of, ⬚⬚⬚; enforcement of rulings of, ⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; facilities of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; ⬚hear the other side⬚in, ⬚⬚⬚; impact of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; and International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; judicial selection for, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; law of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; logo of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; maritime disputes in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; membership of, ⬚⬚⬚; mission of, ⬚⬚⬚; Nicaragua case in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; number of filings in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; rent paid by, ⬚⬚⬚; staff of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; as successor to PCIJ, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (⬚⬚⬚⬚), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
International Criminal Court (ICC), ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Assembly of States Parties of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; authority of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; housing for, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; caseload of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; impact of, ⬚⬚⬚; Inter-Organ Committee on the Permanent Premises of, ⬚⬚⬚; investigations of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Israel in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; jail space of, ⬚⬚⬚; judges serving in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; languages used in, ⬚⬚⬚; logo of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; mission of, ⬚⬚⬚; need for, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Pre-Trial Chambers of, ⬚⬚⬚; public access to, ⬚⬚⬚; Rome Statute of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; staff of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; Trust Fund for Victims in, ⬚⬚⬚; U.S. participation in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; women lawyers, judges, and victims in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR), ⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; caseload of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚; and International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚; judges serving in, ⬚⬚⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; languages used in, ⬚⬚⬚; logo of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; mission of, ⬚⬚⬚; staff of, ⬚⬚⬚ International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY), ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; building housing, ⬚⬚⬚; caseload of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; courtroom layout of, ⬚⬚⬚; dissolution of, ⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚; impact of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; and International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚; judges serving in, ⬚⬚⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; languages used in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; logo of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; mission of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; public access to, ⬚⬚⬚; security in, ⬚⬚⬚; staff of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; television broadcast of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ international law: codification of, ⬚⬚⬚; on crimes against humanity, ⬚⬚⬚; Hague Academy of, ⬚⬚⬚; history of development of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in international courts, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; meanings of, ⬚⬚⬚; in Permanent Court of International Justice, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; South African Constitution on, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; after World War II, ⬚⬚⬚
International Law Association, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
International Law Commission (ILC), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
International League of Peace and Freedom, ⬚⬚⬚
International Military Tribunal, ⬚⬚⬚
International Military Tribune for the Far East (Tokyo Tribunal), ⬚⬚⬚
International Seabed Authority, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (ITLOS), ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; authority of, ⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; caseload of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; cost of using, ⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; impact of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; and International Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; and International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚; judicial selection for, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; logo of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; Mox Plant case in, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; and Native National Title Tribunal, ⬚⬚⬚; need for, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; procedural framework of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; release proceedings of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Sai⬚a Case in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Seabed Disputes Chamber of, ⬚⬚⬚; special chambers of, ⬚⬚⬚ International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (ITLOS) building: art in, ⬚⬚⬚; budget for, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; competition for design of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; construction of, ⬚⬚⬚; design of, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚; selection of site for, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ International Union of Architects, ⬚⬚⬚ internet: court opinions published via, ⬚⬚⬚; public access to courts through, ⬚⬚⬚ Inter-Organ Committee on the Permanent Premises, of International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚ investment pricing policy, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Iran: Code of Hammurabi in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚; hostage crisis in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Khuzestan province of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚
Iran–United States Claims Tribunal, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also Permanent Court of Arbitration Iraq: Abu Ghraib prison in, ⬚⬚⬚; Hussein's execution in, ⬚⬚⬚; Hussein's mural in, ⬚–⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; U.S.-led war in (⬚⬚⬚⬚–), ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Iraqi High Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚
Iraqi Special Tribunal: history of, ⬚⬚⬚; Provisional Seal of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f
Iredell, James, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Ireland: English and Irish law in, ⬚⬚; European Convention Human Rights Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; Inns of Courts in, ⬚⬚; in International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Saint Michael in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; seat of authority in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚. See also Dublin Isaac (biblical figure), ⬚⬚
Isaiah (biblical figure), ⬚⬚
⬚saiah, Book of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
⬚sis and ⬚ siris (Plutarch), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Islam: images of Muhammad in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; law of, ⬚⬚⬚; stereotypes about, ⬚⬚⬚ isolation, in prisons, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Israel: architectural styles in, ⬚⬚⬚; in International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; judicial system of, ⬚⬚⬚; Knesset of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Netherlands as new, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; number and type of judges in, ⬚⬚⬚; population of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; prisons in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Venice as new, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; women in legal profession in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; zodiac mosaics in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Jerusalem
Israeli Supreme Court: decisions by, ⬚⬚⬚; judges of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; number of filings in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; on private prisons, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Israeli Supreme Court building, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; architectural critics on, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; competition for design of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; construction of, ⬚⬚; courtroom layout in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Courtyard of the Arches in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; exterior design of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; funding for, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; goals for, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; interior design of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; Jewish Heritage Museum in, ⬚⬚⬚; Karmi-Melamade and Karmi as architects of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; location of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; mosaics in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; security at, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; The S⬚m⬚ols in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f
Italianate architectural style, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Italian Renaissance. See Renaissance
Italy: civic spaces in, rise of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in European Court of Human Rights, ⬚⬚⬚; Saint Michael in, ⬚⬚, .⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; prisons in, history of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; public art funding in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Florence; Padua; Ravenna; Rome; Siena; Torcello ITLOS. See International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea ius, translations of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Iustitia (goddess/virtue): modern depictions of, ⬚, ⬚f; in origins of Justice iconography, ⬚⬚. See also Virtues

Jackson (Mississippi): James O. Eastland U.S. Courthouse in, Simkhovich's Justice mural in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, color plate ⬚⬚; race relations in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Jackson, Vicki C., xvii, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Jacobs, Jane, Death and Life of ⬚ reat ⬚ meri⬚ can Cities, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Jacob, Robert, xvii, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚

jails. See prison(s)
Jamagne, Fran⊠ois, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠f
JAMS. See Judicial Arbitration Mediation Services
Janus, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
Japan, Supreme Court of, ⊠, ⊠f, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Jay, Martin, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Jay Treaty, ⊠⊠⊠
Jefferson, Thomas, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Jerusalem: architectural styles in, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; Roman cardo of, ⊠⊠⊠. See also Israeli Supreme Court building
Jervais, Thomas, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Jessup, Philip, ⊠⊠⊠
Jesus: Ascension of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; Saint Michael in images of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠f; in Nicene Creed, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; Second Coming of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠. See also Last Judgment
Jewish calendar, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Jo⊠, Book of⊠blindness in, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; scales of justice in, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Johannesburg (South Africa), Old Fort Prison in, ⊠⊠⊠. See also South African Constitutional Court
John, Richard R., ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
Johnson, Earl, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠
Johnson, Ford T., Jr., ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠
Johnson, Lyndon B., and National Endowment for Arts ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
Joint Task Force (JTF), at Guant⊠namo Bay, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠f, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠f
Joost-Gaugier, Christiane L., ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠nn⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
Jourda, Fran⊠oise, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠f, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
JRent database, ⊠⊠⊠
Judaism: calendar of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; Synagoga used as symbol of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; synagogues, zodiac mosaics in, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
judge(s): accountability of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; in alternative dispute resolution, role of, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; alternative dispute resolution promoted by, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; appearance of impartiality of, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; appearance of impropriety of, ⊠⊠⊠; appointment of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; architecture in power of, ⊠⊠; Bentham on publicity for, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; bribery (See bribery, admonitions against); and codes of judicial conduct, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠nn⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; complaints against, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; conduct codes of, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠nn⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; in courthouse architecture, ⊠⊠⊠; critiques of courts by, ⊠⊠⊠; disqualification of, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; election of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; ethics for, codes of, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; evolution of role of, xv, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; as fools, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠f; gifts from, ⊠⊠; gifts to, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; ⊠hear the other side⊠ concept for, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; immunity of, ⊠⊠⊠; impartiality of (See impartiality); impeachment of, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; independence of (See independence); international, ⊠⊠⊠; judging of (See judging of judges); legitimacy of power of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; life tenure for, establishment of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; in national courthouse construction, ⊠⊠⊠; nationality of (See nationality); obedience of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; pain caused by and to, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; performance reviews of, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; prudence in, ⊠⊠⊠; public assessment of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; punishment of, threat of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; removal from cases, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠ (See also recusal); Renaissance, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; secularization of, ⊠⊠; as servants of rulers, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. See also bribery, admonitions against; judicial disqualification; judicial ethics Judge ⊠ Co., ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. See Bentham, Jeremy judging of judges, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; Last Judgment in, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; performance evaluations in, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; by the public, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠ judgment: after death (See Last Judgment); and impartiality, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; knowledge and, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; senses in, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; sight and, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠. See also Diderot, Denis; Rawls, John judicatories, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠. See also Bentham, Jeremy Judicial Arbitration Mediation Services (JAMS), ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
Judicial Conference of the United States (JCUS): annual reports of, ⊠⊠⊠; and Administrative Office, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; courthouse design manual by, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; on courtroom size and sharing, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; establishment of, ⊠⊠⊠; on goals for facilities, ⊠⊠⊠; on judicial outsourcing, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; membership of, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; mission of, ⊠⊠⊠; on naming of federal buildings, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; on need for court quarters, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; on rent costs, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; role in courthouse construction, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; on security issues, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; on unpublished opinions, ⊠⊠⊠. See also ⊠ S⊠ Desi⊠n ⊠ uides⊠ ⊠⊠⊠Court⊠ Desi⊠n ⊠ uide Judicial Conference of the United States (JCUS) Committees: on Air Conditioning, ⊠⊠⊠; on the Budget, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; on Court Room Facilities and Design, ⊠⊠⊠; on Postwar Building Plans for the Quarters of the United States Courts, ⊠⊠⊠; and security, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; on Space and Facilities, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠ judicial disqualification. See disqualification of judges Judicial Dollar (U.S.), ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠f, ⊠⊠⊠f judicial education. See education, judicial judicial ethics, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ judicial independence: Bentham's publicity and, ⊠⊠⊠; blindfold associated with, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; in complexity of adjudication, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; contemporary threats to, ⊠⊠⊠; in England, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; in English Act of Settlement (⊠⊠⊠⊠), ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; relationship to funding and budget, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; at Guant⊠namo Bay, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; in Mexico, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; origins and rise of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; in Permanent Court of International Justice, ⊠⊠⊠; political culture and, ⊠⊠⊠; public access and, ⊠⊠⊠; in South Africa, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; subservience to rulers and, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; in U.S. state and federal constitutions, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. See also separation of powers judicial review: by European Court of Justice, ⊠⊠⊠; by Mexican Supreme Court, ⊠⊠⊠; U.S. Supreme Court on, ⊠⊠⊠ Judicial salaries, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Judicial subservience, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠; bribery and, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; in Cambyses story, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; gifts and, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; handless judges and, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; in Renaissance, ⊠⊠; to rulers, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠. See also judicial independence
Judicial Watch, ⊠⊠⊠
Judiciary Acts (U.S.): of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; of ⊠⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Judith (biblical figure), ⊠⊠
Julius II, Pope, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
Juncker, Jean-Claude, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Junius, Franciscus, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
juror(s): design of jury boxes for, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; location of, in courtrooms, ⊠⊠⊠; ostrich charge in instructions to, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠ juror selection: impartiality in, ⊠⊠⊠; racial discrimination in, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; U.S. Constitution on, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠ jury trial, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; origins of right to, ⊠⊠⊠; publicity and, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠ ⊠us co⊠ens, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠
Jussila v⊠⊠inland, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠
Justice as Cardinal Virtue, ⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠f, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; in battle (psychomachia), ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; canonical elements of, creation of, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; folktales of, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; in Four Daughters of God, ⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠; in hierarchy of Virtues, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠. See also Virtues Justice, personifications, representations, and attributes of: animals associated with, ⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠, ⊠⊠⊠n⊠⊠⊠; in Australia, ⊠, ⊠f; from Babylonia, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; in civic spaces, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; conflicts over, ⊠⊠⊠–⊠⊠⊠; from Egypt, ⊠⊠, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; equal access and, ⊠⊠; in Europe, ⊠, ⊠f, ⊠f; gender of, ⊠⊠; from Greek and Roman goddesses, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; handless, ⊠⊠; in Japan, ⊠, ⊠f; in media, ⊠–⊠; in North America, ⊠, ⊠f; compared to other Virtues, ⊠–⊠⊠; in pop culture, ⊠–⊠; public dismay with, ⊠⊠⊠; reasons for rise of, ⊠⊠; and St. Michael, ⊠⊠–⊠⊠; ubiquity of,

Justice (continued)
[illegible]–[illegible]. See also Alciatus, Andreas; [illegible]aerie [illegible] ueene; Justice as Cardinal Virtue; Ripa, Cesare; specific attri[illegible]utes: blindfold; cornucopia; dog; fasces; ostrich; scales; snake; sword
Justice, theories of, [illegible]–[illegible]; Aquinas on, [illegible]–[illegible]; Aristotle on, [illegible]–[illegible]; Cicero on, [illegible]; distributive/commutative, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; diversity of, [illegible], [illegible]; diversity of, historical reduction in, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; divine [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; earthly [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; evolution of meaning of, xv; harmonic, [illegible]; Latini on, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; need for renewal of, [illegible]–[illegible]; Plato on, [illegible], [illegible]; Rawls on, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Justice (Langston Hughes), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Justice as [illegible]mpartialit[illegible] (Brian Barry), [illegible]
Justice Department, U.S.: establishment of, [illegible]; federal court administration under, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; immigration judges in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Torture Memos of, [illegible], [illegible]
Justice [illegible]acilities [illegible]eview, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Justicia (Justitia) (Iustitia) (goddess): cult of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; origins of, [illegible]; Roman depictions of, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Justinian Code, [illegible]

Kampen Town Hall, Last Judgment in, [illegible]n[illegible] kangaroo, in Australian Coat of Arms, [illegible]
Kannon (Kwannon) figures, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kansas: judicial budget shortfalls in, [illegible]; Kansas City, Haas's installation in federal courthouse in, [illegible]n[illegible]; Supreme Court of, [illegible]. See also Topeka
Kant, Immanuel: publicity principle of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; and Rawls, [illegible]n[illegible]
Karmi, Ram: Israeli Supreme Court building designed by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]f
Karmi-Melamade, Ada: Israeli Supreme Court building designed by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]f
Kathrada, Ahmed, [illegible]
Katsieris, Paul, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f
Katzenellenbogen, Adolf, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Kaye, Judith, xvii, [illegible]n[illegible]
Keith, Damon, [illegible]n[illegible]
Keldermans, Jan, [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kelly, Ellsworth: Boston panels by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]; life of, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kelly, John, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Kelly and Lignell, [illegible]
Kennedy, Anthony, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Kennedy, John F.: Ad Hoc Committee on Government Office Space under, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; assassination of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; on public art, [illegible]–[illegible]; public art under, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also National Endowment for the Arts
Kennedy, R[illegible]is[illegible]n, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kentucky: Covington Post Office and Courthouse in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Ten Commandments in, [illegible]
Kenyon, Lloyd, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Kessler, Amalia, [illegible]
[illegible] in[illegible]s, [illegible] (biblical book), [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Kirk, Terry Rossi, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Kirkland, Larry, [illegible]
Kissel, Otto Rudolf, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Knight, Roy F., [illegible]n[illegible] knowledge: as Gift Virtue, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; judgment and, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; public, through access to courts, [illegible]–[illegible]; senses in, [illegible]–[illegible]; sight and, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in trials, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Virtues
Koh, Tommy, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kohler, Josef, [illegible]–[illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Kohn, Bernard, [illegible]
Kohn Pedersen Fox Associates, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kongo figure, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kony, Joseph, [illegible]n[illegible]
Koran: and depictions of Mohammad, [illegible]–[illegible]; scales of justice in, [illegible]. See also balance(s)
Kosmer, Ellen, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kosovo, [illegible]
Kraus, Henry, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kraus, Romuald: awards won by, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Communism and, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; life of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Newark Justice sculpture by, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible], color plate [illegible]; photo of, [illegible]f
Kravitz, Mark R., [illegible]n[illegible]
Krehbiel, Albert Henry, [illegible]n[illegible]
Kwannon figures. See Kannon figures

Lacey, Nicola, xvii, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Lactantius, Divinarum institutionum, [illegible]
Lacy, William N., [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Laelius de [illegible]micitia (Cicero), [illegible]n[illegible]
Lafayette (Louisiana), Moore's sculpture in, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
La Fontaine, Jean de, [illegible]
Laienspie[illegible]el (Ulrich Tengler), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Lairesse, Gerard de, [illegible], [illegible]
Lamanda, Vincent, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] land claims of indigenous peoples, [illegible]–[illegible]
Lane, George, [illegible]
Langbein, John, xvii, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Langdon, Stephen, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Langford, Ian, [illegible]n[illegible]
Lanni, Arianna, [illegible]n[illegible]
Laqueur, Thomas W., [illegible]n[illegible]
Largesse (Virtue), [illegible]. See also Virtues
Lasser, Mitchel, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible], [illegible]
Last Judgment: in Book of the Dead, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; in Christian theology, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Last Judgment images: in Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in Bam[illegible]er[illegible]ensis Con[illegible]stitutio Criminales, [illegible]; bribery in, [illegible]; in churches, [illegible]; in courtrooms, [illegible], [illegible]; decline of, [illegible]; development of iconography of, [illegible]–[illegible]; inscriptions in, [illegible]; as metaphor for judging, [illegible]–[illegible]; Saint Michael in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; in Renaissance, [illegible]; secular, [illegible]n[illegible]; in town halls, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Virgin Mary in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Virtues in, [illegible]
Latini, Brunetto, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Latrobe, Benjamin Henry, [illegible] law enforcement centers, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] law of nations, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also international law law of the sea: history of, [illegible]–[illegible]; Jamaica conference on, [illegible]; U.N. on, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea; United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea; United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea Law of War and Peace, The (Grotius), [illegible] law schools: clinical programs of, [illegible]; graduate and undergraduate, [illegible]n[illegible]; legal education before, [illegible]n[illegible]; minorities in, [illegible] lawyers: alternative dispute resolution and, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; association of African American (National Bar Association), [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in construction of national courthouses, [illegible]; courthouse construction influenced by, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in European Court of Justice, [illegible]; expansion of role of, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; in Fiera's De [illegible]usticia Pin[illegible]enda, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in Hirsch's [illegible]Mulatto[illegible] Justice mural, [illegible]; in Holzer's Nantes installation, [illegible]; international, [illegible]; in Israeli Supreme Court, [illegible]; in legal aid programs, [illegible]; minority, rise of, [illegible]; nationalization of profession of, [illegible]; plea bargaining by, [illegible]; in pretrial conferences, [illegible]; pro bono, [illegible]; as public defenders, [illegible], [illegible]; salaries of, compared to those of judges, [illegible]; segregation of spaces for, [illegible]–[illegible]; U.S. federal, [illegible] League of Nations: on law of the sea, [illegible]; logo of, [illegible]; on need for international court, [illegible]; on need for international criminal court, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Permanent Court of International Justice lease-purchase contracts, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Lechery (Vice), [illegible]. See also Vices
Lederle, Ursula Grieger, [illegible]n[illegible]
Ledoux, Claude Nicolas, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Lee, Clarence A., Jr., [illegible]n[illegible]

Lee, M. Owen, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Leers, Andrea, xvii, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lee/Timchula, ⌧⌧⌧f
legal aid, ⌧⌧⌧; Bentham's proposal for, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; decline in funding for, ⌧⌧⌧; in Minnesota, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; in United Kingdom, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; in United States, expansion and limits of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧. See also legal profession; legal services Legal Aid Society, ⌧⌧⌧ legal needs studies, ⌧⌧⌧
legal profession: identity politics in, ⌧⌧⌧; minorities in, ⌧⌧⌧; pro bono work of, ⌧⌧⌧; public interest law and, ⌧⌧⌧; and public defenders, origins of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧. See also judge(s); lawyers
Legal Services Corporation (U.S.), ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧
Le⌧al Times (magazine), ⌧⌧⌧
Le Goff, Jacques, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lehmbruck, Wilhelm, ⌧⌧⌧
Leiden (town hall), Judgment of Brutus in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also town halls
Lemaire, Philippe, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Lemkin, Raphael, ⌧⌧⌧
Lender, Mark Edward, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Leonardo da Vinci, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Leo X, Pope, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Lesser, Guy, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧
Lettre sur les aveu⌧les ⌧ ⌧usa⌧e de ceu⌧ ⌧ui voient ⌧⌧n ⌧ssa⌧ on Blindness in a Letter to a Person of Distinction⌧(Diderot), ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧
Levinson, Bernard M., ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Leviticus, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Levy, Janey L., ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Levy, Marin K., ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Liberality (Virtue), ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ liberty: Phrygian cap as symbol of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; on U.S. coins, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ Liberty, Statue of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Libra (constellation), ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Lichocka, Barbara, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ lictor rods, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧. See also fasces
Lieber, Francis, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; Code of, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lievens, Jan, ⌧⌧
Life magazine, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lim⌧n Garcia, Teresa, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Link, Luther, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ literacy: and postal services, ⌧⌧⌧; and visual arts, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ litigants: aid for (See legal aid); economic sanctions on, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; in pretrial conferences, ⌧⌧⌧; public relations used by, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; self-representation by, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧. See also access to courts Livy, ⌧⌧
local governments: power of, in courthouse architecture, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; seats of power in courthouses, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧. See also county courthouses
Locke, John, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Loe⌧ er, Jane, xvii, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ logo(s): of Camp Justice in Guant⌧namo Bay, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f; of international and regional courts, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; of South African Constitutional Court, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ London (England): Central Criminal Court (New Sessions House / Old Bailey) in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; Clerkenwell Green in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; County Council of, ⌧⌧; Crystal Palace in, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧; General Peace Convention (⌧⌧⌧⌧) in, ⌧⌧⌧; glass in architecture of, ⌧⌧⌧; Hampton Court Palace in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; Lord Mayor's Show in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f; Middlesex Guildhall in, ⌧⌧⌧; publication of court proceedings in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; seat of authority in, ⌧⌧; St. Paul's Cathedral in, ⌧⌧; Supreme Court in, ⌧⌧⌧; transnational arbitration in, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; Westminster Abbey in, ⌧⌧ London, Treaty of (⌧⌧⌧⌧), ⌧⌧⌧ Londo⌧o, Roberto, ⌧⌧⌧
Long, Lois, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lon⌧ ⌧an⌧e Plan of the ⌧nited States Courts, ⌧⌧⌧
Lord, James Brown, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lord Chancellor, end of position of (U.K.), ⌧⌧⌧
Lord Mayor's Show (London), ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lorenzetti, Ambrogio: blindfold in works of, ⌧⌧; death of, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; influence of on Bach and Rockburne, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; Siena frescoes by, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, color plates ⌧, ⌧
Loros (garment), ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Los Angeles (California), Roybal Federal Building in, Otterness's sculptures in, ⌧⌧⌧ Los ⌧n⌧eles Times, ⌧f, ⌧
Lothar, Emperor, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧
Louis IX, King of France, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧
Louis XI, King of France, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Louis XII, King of France, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lounsbury, Carl R., ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧
Louvain Town Hall, Last Judgment in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ Louverissen, Jan, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ love, blindfold associated with, ⌧⌧ Love (Virtue), ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧. See also Cupid; Eros; Virtues
Lowry, Bates, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Loyalty (Virtue), ⌧. See also Virtues
Luban, David, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lucian, ⌧⌧
Lucifer of Cagliari, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧
Lucretia (mythic figure), ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Ludovico II Gonzaga, Marquis of Mantua, ⌧⌧
Luke, ⌧ ospel of, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Lüneberg Town Hall, Last Judgment in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also town halls
Lurcat, Jean, ⌧⌧⌧
Luscinus, Consul, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Lust (Vice), ⌧. See also Vices
Luther, Martin, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Lutheranism: blindfold in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; Last Judgment in, ⌧⌧ Luxembourg (city): architectural styles in, ⌧⌧⌧; European Coal and Steel Community in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; as Judicial Capital of Europe, ⌧⌧⌧; Kirchberg Plateau in, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; population of, ⌧⌧⌧. See also European Court of Justice lynching, depictions of, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧
Lyon (France), Palais de Justice in, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧
Lyon, Hamash, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧

Maastricht Town Hall, Last Judgment in, ⌧⌧
Maastricht Treaty (⌧⌧⌧⌧), ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Maat: balance and, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; in Book of the Dead, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f; eye of, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; as Justice, ⌧⌧; in last judgment, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧; meanings of term, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; ostrich feathers and, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧; as source of Justice iconography, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧. See also balance; scales
Ma⌧o v⌧⌧ ueensland ⌧Ma⌧o ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧
MacArthur, Douglas, ⌧⌧⌧
MacGaffey, Wyatt, xvii, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Machiavelli, Niccol⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Macklin, James, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧
Macrobius, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Madigan, Edwards, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Madison, Dolley, ⌧⌧⌧; and Dolley Madison House, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Madison, James: on codification of law, ⌧⌧⌧; on public opinion, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; on public sphere, ⌧⌧⌧
Madriz, Jos⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Maduro, Miguel P., xvii, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧;
Maffei, Stefano, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Magdeburg (Germany), Last Judgment in courtrooms of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Magdeburg Mandate (Law), ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ magistrate judges, U.S.: creation of position, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; evidentiary hearings before, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f; functions of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; growth in number of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f; selection of, ⌧⌧⌧ Magna Carta, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Magnanimity (Virtue), ⌧–⌧. See also Virtues Maid of Amsterdam, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧ mail. See postal services
Maillol, Aristide, ⌧⌧⌧
Maimonides, Code of, ⌧⌧⌧
Maine, judicial budget shortfalls in, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧. See also Portland
Makin, Andrew, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
M⌧le, Emile, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Malkin, William, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Malraux, Andr⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Malti-Douglas, Fedwa, xvii, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ managerial judges: in England, ⌧⌧⌧; in U.S., ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧. See also ADR; case management; settlement; Woolf, Harry: Woolf Reforms

Manchester (England), glass in courthouses of, ⬚⬚⬚ Mancini, Anna, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ mandamus, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
mandatory private arbitration, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Mandela, Nelson: bust of, in Peace Palace, ⬚⬚⬚; imprisonment of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Mangin, Joseph Francois, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Mantegna, Andrea, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ manuscripts, illuminated, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Manz⬚, Giacomo, ⬚⬚⬚
Mar⬚ur⬚ v⬚Madison, ⬚⬚⬚
Marcel, Alexander, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Marianne (French symbol), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; identity politics and, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚. See also Delacroix, Eug⬚ne marine hospitals (U.S.), construction of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Mark, ⬚ospel of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Markovits, Daniel, xvii, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Marling, Karal A., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Marsh, Malcolm, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Marshall, Anthony J., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Marshall, John, ⬚⬚⬚
Marshall, Margaret, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Marshall, Thurgood: death of, ⬚⬚⬚; U.S. federal building named after, ⬚⬚⬚; U.S. federal courthouse named after, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in NAACP, ⬚⬚⬚
Martin, Camille, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚
Martin, Fletcher, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Martin, H⬚nri-Jean, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Martinez, Jenny S., ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Martinique. See Fort-de-France; Palais de Justice.
Maryland, Baltimore, abstract art in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Maser, Edward A., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Mashaw, Jerry, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Masojada, Janina, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Mason, Judith, ⬚⬚⬚
Massachusetts: caseload of courts in, ⬚⬚⬚; colonial courthouses in, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Constitution of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; county courthouses in, ⬚⬚⬚; federal trials in, number of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; fugitive slaves in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; judicial independence in, ⬚⬚⬚; local rules on settlement in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; peace movement in, ⬚⬚⬚; recordkeeping in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Supreme Court of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Boston
Master of the Zurich Carnation, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, color plate ⬚
Mathias, Stephen, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Matsui, Robert T., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Matsys, Cornelis, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Matsys, Quentin, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Matthew, ⬚ospel of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Matthew Bender Publishing House, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Mawson, Thomas, Peace Palace gardens by, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Maximilian (Archduke of Austria), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Mayne, Thom, ⬚⬚⬚
McAllister, Ward, Jr., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
McCardle, ⬚⬚ Parte, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
McCarthy, Joseph, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
McCleske⬚ v⬚⬚ emp, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
McComb, John, Jr., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
McCormick, Michael, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
McCrear⬚ Count⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, v⬚⬚ merican Civil Li⬚⬚ erties ⬚ nion, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
McCurry, Margaret, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
McDevitt, Ray, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
McGrath, Elizabeth, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
McKim, Charles F., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
McMillan, James, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
McNamara, Martha J., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
McVeigh, Timothy, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Mecham, Leonidas Ralph, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ media: impact of courts on, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; publication of judicial opinions, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; vulnerability of the press, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ mediation: court-annexed arbitration compared to, ⬚⬚⬚; of cross-border disputes, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in England, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in Europe, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; government regulation of, ⬚⬚⬚; rates of use of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also alternative dispute resolution Medici, Marie de, Rubens's paintings of, ⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Medici family, ostrich in emblems of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Medieval period. See Middle Ages
Meier, Richard, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Melbourne (Australia): Commonwealth Law Courts in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f; Victoria County Court in, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚; Victoria Supreme Court in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f
Melun (France), Palais de Justice in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, color plate ⬚⬚
Memora⬚le Doin⬚s and Sa⬚in⬚s (Valerius), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Mengin, Christine, xvii, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Menkel-Meadow, Carrie, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Merback, Mitchell B., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Mercury (god), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
⬚Mercury dime⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Mercy (Virtue), ⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also Four Daughters of God; Virtues merit selection commissions, ⬚⬚⬚
Merson, Olivier, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Mervyn, Stanley, ⬚⬚⬚
Mesopotamia: calendar of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; legal system of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; scales in imagery of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; zodiac in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Babylonia
Metamorphoses (Ovid), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Metzger, Ernest, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Mexican muralist movement: Biddle's interest in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Cauduro relationship to, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Hirsch influenced by, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; origins of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; Orozco in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Rivera, Diego; Siqueiros, David Alfaro
Mexican Revolution, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Mexican Supreme Court, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; C⬚rdenas's reforms to, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; caseload of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; judicial review by, ⬚⬚⬚; justices of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Zedillo's reforms to, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Mexican Supreme Court building, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; architectural critics on, ⬚⬚⬚; Biddle's murals in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; brochures of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚; Cauduro's murals in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, color plates ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; competition for design of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; construction of, ⬚⬚⬚; history on display in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; lessons learned from, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; location of, ⬚⬚⬚; name of, ⬚⬚⬚; Orozco's murals in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, color plates ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; as performance venue, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Mexico: amparo procedure in, ⬚⬚⬚; constitutions of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; court reforms in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; crime in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; history of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; independence for, ⬚⬚⬚; judicial independence in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; judicial system of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; number of judges in, ⬚⬚⬚; public art in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Mexico City: Conference of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ in, ⬚⬚⬚; muralist movement in, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Mexican Supreme Court
Michelangelo, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Michigan: judicial budget shortfalls in, ⬚⬚⬚; racial bias task force in, ⬚⬚⬚ Middle Ages: Christianity and, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; civic spaces in, rise of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; coins of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; legal systems in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Saint Michael in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; population of cities in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; prisons in, ⬚⬚⬚; punishment in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Virtues in, ⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Miegroet, Hans J. van, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Mies van der Rohe, Ludwig, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Military Commission Order No. ⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ military commissions, at Guant⬚namo Bay (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Military Commissions Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ military courts, U.S.: courts-martial procedures in, ⬚⬚⬚; and Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; terrorist suspects in, ⬚⬚⬚ Military Reconstruction Act (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Miller, Geoffrey P., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚

Miller, William, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Millet, Francis D., [illegible]n[illegible]
Mills, Robert: as Architect of Public Buildings (U.S.), [illegible]; post office designed by, [illegible]; segregation of spaces by, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Milo[illegible]evic, Slobodan, [illegible]
Milton, John: blindness and, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Paradise Lost, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Minnesota: [illegible] Constitution of, [illegible]–[illegible]; courthouses of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; history of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; judicial system of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; legal aid in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Native Americans in, [illegible], [illegible]. See also Grand Marais minorities: in Art-in-Architecture program, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; judicial task forces on, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; in legal profession, rise of, [illegible]
Minow, Martha, xvii, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Mir[illegible], Joan, [illegible]n[illegible] mirrors: Prudence and, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; symbolic meaning of, [illegible]n[illegible]; Virtues and, [illegible]n[illegible]
Miss, Mary, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Mississippi: race relations in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; WPA artworks in, [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Biloxi; Gulfport; Jackson
Missoula (Montana), U.S. Post Office and Courthouse in, [illegible], [illegible]f
Missouri: number of federal trials in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Supreme Court of, [illegible].
Mitchell, Jan R.: Justice sculpture by, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; life of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Moco Jumbie sculpture by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; Reaching Man sculpture by, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]
Mitterrand, Fran[illegible]ois: and European Court of Human Rights building, [illegible]n[illegible]; [illegible]rand Pro[illegible]ts of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] mixed arbitrations, [illegible] mixed courts, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]. See also anti-slavery courts; international courts; regional courts
Mixed Courts of Egypt, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]
Moakley, John Joseph, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moco Jumbie (legendary figure), [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]
Model Code of Judicial Conduct, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Canons of Judicial Ethics; judges
Modesty (Virtue), [illegible]
Mohr, Richard, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Moinard, Marc, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moira, Gerald, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moita (Portugal), Judgment of Solomon in, [illegible]n[illegible]
Molyneux, William, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; and Molyneux's problem, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]. See also Diderot
Momus, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Mondale, Joan, [illegible]n[illegible]
Monod, Paul, [illegible]n[illegible]
Mons Town Hall, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Montesquieu, Charles de, [illegible], [illegible]; The Spirit of Laws, [illegible]
Mont-St.-Michel, abbey at, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Monthiers, Jean-Marie, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moore, Charles, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moore, Diana K., xvii: Concord Justice sculpture by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; GSA Design Award to, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Lafayette Justice sculpture by, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; life of, [illegible]n[illegible]; Newark Justice sculpture by, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moore, John Bassett, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moore v. Dempsey, [illegible]n[illegible]
Moravec, Joseph, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moreno Ocampo, Luis, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Morgan, Michael J., [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] mosaics: in Israeli Supreme Court building, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]; Jewish zodiac, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; in Peace Palace, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moses (biblical figure): in Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; blindness and, [illegible]; in European Court of Justice buildings, [illegible]; in Peace Palace, [illegible]; tablets of, [illegible]n[illegible]; in U.S. Supreme Court building, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; veiled, [illegible]
Motherwell, Robert, [illegible], [illegible]
Motley, Constance Baker: [illegible]ual Justice [illegible] under Law, [illegible], [illegible]; trying a case in Jackson federal courthouse, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; on Simkhovich's Mississippi Justice mural, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Mountford, Edward W., [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Mowbray, H. Siddons, [illegible]n[illegible]
Mox Plant case, in International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Moynihan, Daniel Patrick: in Ad Hoc Committee on Government Office Space, [illegible]–[illegible]; on great architecture, [illegible]n[illegible]; on GSA role in courthouse construction, [illegible]–[illegible]; Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; impact of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; life of, [illegible]n[illegible]; on Oklahoma City bombing, [illegible]; and Washington's Marshall Building, [illegible], [illegible]. See also Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture
Mtintso, Thenjiwe, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Muhammad, images of: Muslim ban on, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; in U.S. Supreme Court, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Muhammad, Ozier, [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]
Muir, Edward, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
[illegible]mulatto[illegible] Justice, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Mullett, Alfred B.: buildings designed by, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]; as Supervising Architect, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] multi-door courthouses, [illegible] multi-jurisdictional venues. See international court(s) Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency, [illegible] multi-national courts. See international court(s); mixed courts.
multi-occupant facilities, [illegible] multi-track cases, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Municipal Art Society of New York, [illegible]
Mu[illegible]oz Garc[illegible]a, Antonio, [illegible]–[illegible]
Münster, Peace of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Münster Town Hall, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] mural(s): in Ada County Courthouse, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Geneva Town Hall, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in Illinois Supreme Court Building, [illegible]; depicting Saddam Hussein, [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Cauduro, Rafael (Mexico); Hirsch, Stefan (South Carolina); Lorenzetti, Ambrogio (Siena); Mexican muralist movement; Orozco, Jos[illegible] Clemente (Mexico); Rockburne, Dorothea (Maine); Simkhovitch, Simka(Mississippi)
Muratore, Giorgio, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Murillo, Gerardo, [illegible]
Museveni, Yoweri, [illegible]n[illegible]
Myrdal, Gunnar, [illegible]n[illegible]

NAACP. See National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
Nachova v. Bul[illegible]aria, [illegible]n[illegible]
Nahon, Brigitte, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Nail Figure (Kongo), [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]
Nantes (France), Palais de Justice in: design of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, color plates [illegible], [illegible]; Jenny Holzer's installation at, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible], color plate [illegible]; Jean Nouvel as architect of, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Napoleon, Louis, King of the Netherlands, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Nash, Roy, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Naske, Claus-M., [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
National Academy of Design (U.S.), [illegible]
National Academy of Public Administration (U.S.), [illegible]
National Arts and Cultural Development Act of [illegible] (U.S.), [illegible]n[illegible]
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), [illegible]; on Stefan Hirsch's [illegible]Mulatto[illegible] Justice mural, [illegible]; Legal Defense Fund of, [illegible], [illegible]
National Bar Association (U.S.): establishment of, [illegible]; on judicial bias, [illegible]; Judicial Council of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; membership of, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; mission of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
National Center for State Courts (U.S.), [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

National Centre for Social Research (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚ National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ national courthouse(s), ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; competition for design of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; construction of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; courtroom layouts in, ⬚⬚⬚; design manuals for, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; global market in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; homogenization of, ⬚⬚⬚; long-term planning for, ⬚⬚⬚; public art in, ⬚⬚⬚. See also specific countries and courts
National Design Museum (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚
National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) (U.S.): as architectural critic, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in Art-in-Architecture selection process, ⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; design award program of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Federal Design Improvement Program of, ⬚⬚⬚; in GSA selection process, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; mission of, ⬚⬚⬚; Task Force on Federal Architecture, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
National Foundation on the Arts (NFA) and the Humanities Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ National Historic Preservation Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚ nationality of judges: in International Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚; in International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, ⬚⬚⬚; in International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, ⬚⬚⬚; in Permanent Court of International Justice, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
National Judicial Education Program to Promote Equality of Women and Men in the Courts (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ National Organization for Women (U.S.), Legal Defense and Education Fund of, ⬚⬚⬚ National Sculpture Society (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Native Americans: in Ada County Courthouse WPA mural, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; controversies over depictions of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in Minnesota, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; segregation of, in courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚
Native National Title Tribunal (NNTT), ⬚⬚⬚
Native Son (Richard Wright), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Native Title Act (NTA) of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (Australia), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Navarro y Avil⬚s S. A., ⬚⬚⬚
Ndwandwe, Phila, ⬚⬚⬚
Nebraska: county courthouses in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; federal courthouses in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; mandatory arbitration in, ⬚⬚⬚; State Capitol building of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Supreme Court of, ⬚⬚⬚ Nelson, William, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Neoclassical architectural style, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Neo-Gothic architectural style, ⬚⬚⬚
Netherlands: architecture of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; cultural identity of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; as Dutch Republic, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; ⬚hear the other side⬚ in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; as new Israel, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Peace Palace funding from, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; public art funding in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Virgin Islands under, ⬚⬚⬚; wealth of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also specific cities
Nevada, courthouses as seat of power in, ⬚⬚⬚
Newark (New Jersey), Martin Luther King Jr. Federal Building and Courthouse in, Moore's Justice sculpture in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; U.S. Federal Courthouse and Post Office in: Kraus's Justice sculpture in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, color plate ⬚⬚; Totten's medallions in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f
New Deal: federal courthouse construction in, ⬚⬚⬚; Gilbert's opposition to, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; public art in, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Works Project Administration
New Hampshire: judicial budget shortfalls in, ⬚⬚⬚; Warren B. Rudman United States Courthouse in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f
New Jersey, Supreme Court of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚.
New Jerse⬚ v⬚New ⬚ork, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ newspapers: circulation of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in development of public opinion, ⬚⬚⬚; growth of, ⬚⬚⬚; Madison on, ⬚⬚⬚; vulnerability of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚. See also cartoons; media; press
New Testament: blindness in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; Ecclesia as symbol of, ⬚⬚; glass architecture in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in images of Justice, ⬚⬚; Saint Michael in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Ten Commandments in, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Bible; specific ⬚ooks
New York City: Bronx County Courthouse in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Center for Architecture in, ⬚⬚⬚; City Hall in, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Daniel P. Moynihan U.S. Courthouse (Pearl Street) in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Legal Aid Society in, ⬚⬚⬚; Manhattan criminal court in, ⬚⬚; Museum of Modern Art in, ⬚⬚⬚; New York County Courthouse in, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Seagram Building in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Supreme Court meeting in, ⬚⬚⬚; Thurgood Marshall U.S. Courthouse (Foley Square) in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
New York State: bias task forces in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; diversity of architectural styles in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, color plate ⬚⬚; judicial salaries in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; peace movement in, ⬚⬚⬚; seal of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
New York State, courthouses with Justice in: Appellate Division (First Department), Borough Hall, Bronx County Courthouse, Chenango County Courthouse, Court of Appeals Hall, Kings County Courthouse, Montgomery County Courthouse, New York County Courthouse, Onondaga County Courthouse, Ontario County Courthouse, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division: building, ⬚⬚⬚; Muhammad statue in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; mural in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; sculptures in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
New York Task Force on Women in the Courts, ⬚⬚⬚
*New ⬚ork Times⬚*on Hussein mural, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; on Kraus's Justice sculpture, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; on New York City Hall, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; on New York Muhammad statue, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; on Peace Palace design, ⬚⬚⬚
Ngaanyatjarra Council, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Ngaanyatjarra Peoples, land claims of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ Nicaragua: in Central American Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in International Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nicara⬚ua v⬚⬚nited States of ⬚merica, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nice (France), Palais de Justice in, ⬚⬚⬚ Nicene Creed of ⬚⬚⬚ CE, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Nicholas, David, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nicholas II, Czar of Russia, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Nicholls, Robert, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nichols, Terry, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nicomachean ⬚thics (Aristotle), ⬚⬚
Niehaus, Charles, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nielsen, Jack, ⬚⬚⬚
Niemeyer, Oscar, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Nine (the), in Siena, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Ninth Circuit, U.S.: gender bias task force of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; on television broadcasts, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nishizawa, Luis, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ nkisi (pl. minkisi) figure, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nochlin, Linda, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Noguchi, Isamu, ⬚⬚⬚
Nolan-Haley, Jacqueline, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Noonan, John, Bri⬚es, ⬚⬚
Normandy (France), Saint Michael in, ⬚⬚ Norse texts, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
North, Anthony, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
North, Douglass C., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
North, Helen, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
North Carolina, ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Constitution of, ⬚⬚⬚ Norton, Eleanor Holmes, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Norway, public art funding in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Nost, John van, the Younger, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nouvel, Jean: in France's ⬚rand Pro⬚ets, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; and Jenny Holzer's installation, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; and International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea building, ⬚⬚⬚; Nantes courthouse designed by, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚; Pritzker Prize to, ⬚⬚⬚ Nuremberg Council, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Nuremberg Town Hall: bribery in images in, ⬚⬚; ⬚hear the other side⬚ in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚; Judgment of Brutus in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Last Judgment in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Nuremberg Trials, ⬚⬚⬚

OAS. See Organization of American States oaths: at Guantánamo Bay, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; of U.S. federal judges, [illegible]
Obama, Barack, and detention at Guantánamo Bay, [illegible]
Obata, Gyo, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Obedience (Virtue), [illegible]. See also Virtues Obregón, Álvaro, [illegible] observers: participatory, [illegible]–[illegible]; and spectators, [illegible], [illegible]; subjectivity of, [illegible], [illegible] occhi miri (piercing eyes), [illegible]
Ockham, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
O'Connor, Andrew, [illegible], [illegible]f
O'Donnell, Bernard, [illegible]
O'Dowd, Gwen, [illegible]n[illegible]
Odysseia (Homer), [illegible]
Oedipus Rex (Sophocles), [illegible]
Office of Management and Budget (OMB), U.S., [illegible], [illegible] office space, in courthouses, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Ohio: county courthouses in, [illegible]; supermax prison in, [illegible]; Supreme Court of, [illegible]; user fees in, [illegible]
Okada, Shin'ichi, [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]
Oklahoma City, Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in, [illegible] bombing of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Oklahoma Tribune, [illegible]n (GSA publication), [illegible]
Old Bailey (London, England), [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Oldenburg, Claes, [illegible]
Old Testament: blindness in, [illegible]–[illegible]; glass architecture (Solomon's Palace) in, [illegible]n[illegible]; in images of Justice, [illegible]; Israeli Supreme Court building and, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Saint Michael and, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Synagoga as symbol of, [illegible]; Ten Commandments and, [illegible]. See also Bible; specific books
Olmsted, Frederick Law, Jr., [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Olsen, Patrice Elizabeth, [illegible]nn[illegible], [illegible]
Olympic Committee, Court of Arbitration of, [illegible]
OMM Design Workshop, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible] open air courts: in Australia, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; Bentham on, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; lessons learned from, [illegible]–[illegible]; of Louis IX, [illegible], [illegible] open courts: Bentham on, [illegible]–[illegible]; origins and rise of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Constitutions, of states of the United States; convention(s); public access to courts open-eyed Justice, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. See also blindfold(s) opinions: advisory, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; online, [illegible]; unpublished, [illegible] oral arguments in courts, decline of, [illegible]
Orange County (California), Crystal Cathedral in, [illegible]n[illegible]
O'Reilly, Jennifer, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Oresteia (Aeschylus), [illegible]n[illegible]
Organization of American States (OAS): amendments to charter of, [illegible]n[illegible]; American Convention on Human Rights in, [illegible]; and Council of Europe, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; establishment of, [illegible]; on human rights, [illegible]–[illegible]; Inter-American Commission on Human Rights as organ of, [illegible]; Inter-American Court of Human Rights established by, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Orozco, José Clemente: and Biddle, [illegible]n[illegible]; Hirsch influenced by, [illegible]n[illegible]; life of, [illegible]; in Mexican muralist movement, [illegible], [illegible]; Mexican Supreme Court murals by, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible], color plates [illegible], [illegible]; in United States, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Ortiz Mayaqoitia, Guillermo I, xvii, [illegible]
Osiris (god), [illegible] ostrich(es): digestion of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; eggs of, in Christianity, [illegible]; Egyptian views on, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in Giordano's artwork, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; in Justice iconography, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; in Ripa's Iconologia, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in Romano's artwork, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; Virtues associated with, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] ostrich charge, in jury instructions, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Otterness, Tom, xvii, [illegible]–[illegible]; animals as motif in work of, [illegible]–[illegible]; on Art-in-Architecture review process, [illegible]n[illegible]; career of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Los Angeles sculptures by, [illegible]; Portland sculptures by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]; Sacramento sculptures by, [illegible]–[illegible]
Oudenaarde Town Hall (Holland), [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] outsourcing: of federal building design, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; of government services, [illegible]; modes of, [illegible]. See also alternative dispute resolution
Ovens, Jurgen: Amsterdam Town Hall painting by, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; life of, [illegible]n[illegible]
Ovid: on Janus, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Metamorphoses, [illegible]n[illegible]
Oxford University, New College Chapel at, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f package guilty pleas, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]

Padua (Italy): civic space in, [illegible]–[illegible]; Giotto's frescoes in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] pageantry: civic, types of, [illegible]n[illegible]; in England, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Venice, [illegible]–[illegible] pain: caused by judges, [illegible]; of judging, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; of Justice, [illegible]–[illegible]
Palais de Justices. See French courthouses Palazzo Pubblico of Siena. See Siena, Palazzo Pubblico of Pan-American Conference of [illegible], [illegible]
Panofsky, Erwin: on blindfolds, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; on blindness, [illegible]; on Brant's The Ship of Fools, [illegible]n[illegible]; on Graz Town Hall, [illegible]; on Palazzo Pubblico of Siena, [illegible]n[illegible]
Panopticon, Bentham's design for, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Papaconstantinou, Maria I., [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]
Papier, Hans-Jürgen, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Paradise Lost (Milton), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Parents Involved in Community Schools v. Seattle School District No. [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Paris (France): Bibliothèque Nationale de France in, [illegible]; Cartier Foundation in, [illegible]; Cathedral of Notre Dame in, [illegible]; Georges Pompidou Centre in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Grand Palais in, [illegible]; Musée du Quai Branly in, [illegible]n[illegible]; Palais de Justice in, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Palais Royal in, [illegible]n[illegible]; peace congress ([illegible]) in, [illegible]
Parks Commission (U.S.), [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] Parntirrpi Bore Outstation (Australia), [illegible], [illegible]f partiality. See bias; impartiality participatory parity, xvi, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]. See also Fraser, Nancy Patience (Virtue), [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]. See also Virtues patronage: through Art-in-Architecture, [illegible]; in U.S. federal construction, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]
Paulson, William R., [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Pausanias, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Peace (Virtue): in Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in battle (psychomachia), [illegible]; in European Court of Justice buildings, [illegible]; in Four Daughters of God, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in hierarchy of Virtues, [illegible]; in Sienese frescoes, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]. See also Virtues
Peace Convention, General ([illegible]), [illegible]
Peace Palace (The Hague), [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; Annex to, [illegible], [illegible]f; architectural critics on, [illegible], [illegible]; architectural style of, [illegible], [illegible]; art in, [illegible]; Carnegie Library at, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]; competition for design of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; construction of, [illegible], [illegible]; courts housed in, [illegible] (See also International Court of Justice; Permanent Court of Arbitration; Permanent Court of International Justice); funding sources for, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; gardens of, [illegible], [illegible]; Great Hall of Justice in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; Hague Academy of International Law at, [illegible], [illegible]; interior design of, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; international contributions to, [illegible]; name of, [illegible], [illegible]; Nicholas II's portrait in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; origins of, [illegible]–[illegible]; size of, [illegible], [illegible]; Small Hall of Justice in, [illegible], [illegible]f; windows of, [illegible], [illegible]f
Peck, Robert A., [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Pelli, Cesar, [illegible]n[illegible] penitentiaries, origins of, [illegible]
Pennsylvania: prisons in, [illegible], [illegible]. See also Allentown; Philadelphia

Permanent Court of Arbitration (PCA), [illegible]; authority of, [illegible]; building housing (See Peace Palace); Carnegie's support for, [illegible]; caseload of, [illegible]; competitors of, [illegible]; critics of, [illegible]; establishment of, [illegible]; facilities of, [illegible]; in Iran hostage crisis, [illegible]; law of, [illegible]; logo of, [illegible]; members of, [illegible]; mission of, [illegible]; name of, [illegible]; and Native National Title Tribunal, [illegible]; Nicholas II in, [illegible]; and Permanent Court of International Justice, [illegible]; practices of, [illegible]; privacy in, [illegible]; use of term "court" by, [illegible]. See also Peace Palace
Permanent Court of International Justice (PCIJ) (World Court), [illegible]; advisory opinions of, [illegible]; authority of, [illegible]; budget of, [illegible]; building housing (See Peace Palace); caseload of, [illegible]; dissolution of, [illegible]; enforcement of rulings of, [illegible]; establishment of, [illegible]; impact of, [illegible]; and International Court of Justice, [illegible]; International Court of Justice as successor to, [illegible]; judges serving in, [illegible]; jurisdiction of, [illegible]; law of, [illegible]; mission of, [illegible]; nationality of judges in, [illegible]; U.S. in, [illegible]. See also Peace Palace
Perraudin, Gilles, [illegible]
Perrault, Dominique, [illegible]
Perrot, Alain-Charles, [illegible]
Perry, Barbara, [illegible]
Perry, Mary Phillips, [illegible]
Perugino, Pietro, [illegible]
Peters, Edward M., [illegible]
Pfeiffenberger, Selma, [illegible]
Philadelphia (Pennsylvania): prisons in, [illegible]; public art in, [illegible]; Supreme Court meeting in, [illegible] photography, use in court, [illegible]
Phrygian cap, [illegible]
Picart, Bernard, [illegible]
Pierguidi, Stefano, [illegible]
Piety, as Gift Virtue, [illegible]. See also Virtues Pinch, Geraldine, [illegible] piracy, international prohibition on, [illegible]
Piso Caesoninus, Lucius Calpurnius, [illegible]
Pistoria, [illegible]
Pius VI, Pope, [illegible]
Piza Escalante, Rodolfo, [illegible]
Plato: blindness of Homer and, [illegible]; on Justice, [illegible]; Momus on, [illegible]; Republic, [illegible]; on Virtues, [illegible] plea bargaining, [illegible]
Pleister, Wolfgang, [illegible]
Plessy v. Ferguson, [illegible]
Pliny, [illegible]
plop art, [illegible]
Plumbers Guild of London, [illegible]
Plutarch: on Brutus, [illegible]; Pais and Pasiris, [illegible]; as source for Alciatus, [illegible]; as source for Geneva frescoes, [illegible]; as source for Ripa's Iconologia, [illegible]; on Theban judges, [illegible]
Poland: in European Court of Human Rights, [illegible]; image of handless judges in, [illegible]. See also specific cities politics: of glass architecture, [illegible]; of international courts, [illegible]; and judicial independence, [illegible]; of public access to courts, [illegible]; in WPA artworks, [illegible]
Pomeroy, Frederick William, [illegible]
Pontoise (France), Palais de Justice in, [illegible] pop culture: Guantánamo Bay in, [illegible]; representations of Justice in, [illegible] pope(s): decoration of the Vatican, Raphael and, [illegible]; Venice's relationship to, [illegible]. See also Fiera, Battista pork-barreling, in federal construction (U.S.), [illegible]
Porta, Giambattista Della, [illegible]
Porter, Jean, [illegible]
Porter, Katherine Ann, The Ship of Fools, [illegible]
Portland (Maine): allegories of good and bad government in, [illegible]; federal courthouse in, [illegible] Portland (Oregon), Mark O. Hatfield U.S. Courthouse in, Otterness's sculptures in, [illegible], color plate [illegible] positivism, [illegible]
Posner, Eric A., [illegible]
Post, Robert, xvii, [illegible]
Postal Policy Act of [illegible] (U.S), [illegible] postal services: Bentham on, [illegible]; European, [illegible]; subsidies for, [illegible]; and transportation, [illegible]; U.S., [illegible]; vulnerability of, [illegible]
Postle, Martin, [illegible]
Post Office Act of [illegible] (U.S.), [illegible]
Post Office Department, U.S.: establishment of, [illegible]; land of, for federal courthouses, [illegible] post offices, U.S.: closures of, [illegible]; Constitution on, [illegible]; functions of, [illegible]; naming of, [illegible]; purpose-built structures for, [illegible]; twentieth-century construction of, [illegible]; vulnerability of, [illegible] post offices and court houses (U.S.): [illegible]. See also Biloxi (Mississippi), U.S. Post Office, Court House, and Custom House; Covington Post Office and Courthouse (Kentucky); Denver (Colorado), U.S. Post Office and Courthouse; Des Moines (Iowa), U.S. Court House and Post Office; Galveston (Texas), U.S. Custom House; Grand Forks (North Dakota), Post Office and Federal Courthouse; Missoula (Montana), U.S. Post Office and Courthouse; Newark (New Jersey), U.S. Federal Courthouse and Post Office; San Diego (California), U.S. Post Office and Customs House; Windsor (Vermont), Courthouse and Post Office Postwar Building Plans for the Quarters of the United States Courts, JCUS Committee on, [illegible]
Pound, Roscoe, [illegible]
Prak, Maarten, [illegible]
Praxis rerum civilum ("Legal Practice in Civil Matters") (Damhoudere), [illegible]
Praxis rerum criminalium ("Legal Practice in Criminal Matters") (Damhoudere), [illegible] precedent, unpublished opinions as, [illegible] press: on alternative dispute resolution, [illegible]; Bentham on role of, [illegible]; in courthouse architecture, [illegible]; growth of, [illegible]; on Guantánamo Bay, [illegible]; in public opinion, [illegible]; public relations of, [illegible]; representations of Justice in, [illegible]; subsidies for, [illegible]; trials covered by, [illegible]; vulnerability of, [illegible]. See also media; open courts; publicity press, freedom of: Bentham on, [illegible]; Madison on, [illegible]; at Guantánamo Bay, [illegible]; in U.S., establishment of, [illegible]
Pre-Trial Chambers (PTC), of International Criminal Court, [illegible] pretrial conferences, [illegible]. See also managerial judges; settlement Pride (Vice), [illegible]. See also Vices Principles of Judicial Procedure (Bentham), [illegible] printing presses, [illegible] prison(s), [illegible]; Academy of Architecture for Justice on, [illegible]; architectural style of, [illegible]; Bentham's design for, [illegible]; construction boom in, [illegible]; cost of, [illegible]; courthouses' relationship with, [illegible]; courthouses reunified with, [illegible]; evolution of design of, [illegible]; goals of, [illegible]; history of, [illegible]; international incarceration rates in, [illegible]; isolation in, [illegible]; overcrowding in, [illegible]; prison-industrial complex and, [illegible]; private cells in, [illegible]; privately run, [illegible]; public punishment and, [illegible]; as purpose-built structures, [illegible]; rise in number of, [illegible]; separate facilities for, origins of, [illegible]; short-term and long-term confinement in, [illegible]; supermax, [illegible]. See also Foucault, Michel; Guantánamo Bay prisoners: classification of, ⬚⬚⬚; clothing of, ⬚⬚⬚; cost per, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; international increase in number of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ prisoners of war, Geneva Conventions on, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚

Prison Litigation Reform Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ Pritzker Prize: to Nouvel, ⬚⬚⬚; to Rogers, ⬚⬚⬚ privacy: in alternative dispute resolution, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; Bentham on, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; of Permanent Court of Arbitration proceedings, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also confidentiality; secrecy private prisons, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ private providers, of alternative dispute resolution, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ privatization of adjudication, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; Foucault and, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; implications of, xv, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; methods of, ⬚⬚⬚; reasons for, ⬚⬚. See also alternative dispute resolution procedural due process, ⬚⬚⬚
procedural rules: civil, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; criminal, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; critics of, ⬚⬚⬚; English revision of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; settlements encouraged by, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; U.S. federal courts using state, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Promenade d⬚un sceptique (Promenade of a Skeptic) (Diderot), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ property: deprivation of, and fairness, ⬚⬚⬚; statutory entitlements as, ⬚⬚⬚ Prophets, The (Koran), ⬚⬚⬚ prosecutors: in International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; plea bargaining by, ⬚⬚⬚ pro se representation, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Protection of the Essential Rights of Man (⬚⬚⬚⬚), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ protest(s), popular: at U.S. courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; near U.S. post offices, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Prover⬚s, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Prudence (Virtue): in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f; as Cardinal Virtue, ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; depictions of, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; as Gift Virtue, ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in hierarchy of Virtues, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; meaning of, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Virtues
Prudentius, Ps⬚chomachia, ⬚–⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Prussia: blindfold in, ⬚⬚; public sphere in, ⬚⬚⬚ Psalms⬚blindness in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Four Daughters of God in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; and Giglio's handless judges, ⬚⬚; and Israeli Supreme Court building, ⬚⬚⬚; in Last Judgment iconography, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; scales of justice in, ⬚⬚ Ps⬚chomachia (Prudentius), ⬚–⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ psychopomp, Saint Michael as, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ psychostasy, in Last Judgment, ⬚⬚⬚ public access to alternative dispute resolution, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ public access to courts, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in administrative agencies, ⬚⬚⬚; Bentham on, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; to court documents, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; decline of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; evolution of right of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in government legitimacy, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; government policies influenced by, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; at Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; interaction among participants in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; international criminal, ⬚⬚⬚; as political choice, ⬚⬚⬚; in private arbitration, ⬚⬚⬚; public knowledge gained through, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; public relations and, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in South Africa, ⬚⬚⬚; through technology, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Bentham, Jeremy; state(s), U.S.; United States Constitution; specific courts public art: in Canadian Supreme Court, ⬚, ⬚f; in European Court of Human Rights, ⬚⬚⬚; in European Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; as feature of architecture, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in France, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; international summary of funding for, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, ⬚⬚⬚; in Israeli Supreme Court, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in Mexican Supreme Court, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in Mexico, attitudes toward, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in national courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚; in Peace Palace, ⬚⬚⬚; in South African Constitutional Court, ⬚⬚⬚ public art, in U.S.: abstraction in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; architects' role in selection of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in federal buildings, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in federal courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Guiding Principles for Federal Architecture on, ⬚⬚⬚; public dismay with, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; public's role in selection of, ⬚⬚⬚; in Sacramento (California), ⬚⬚⬚; Supreme Court on religious imagery in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; values in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; through WPA, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Art-in-Architecture public art controversies: in U.S., ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in France, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in ⬚⬚⬚⬚s, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in ⬚⬚⬚⬚s and ⬚⬚⬚⬚s, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in Art-in-Architecture, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; changes to commissions caused by, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; over abstract art, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; over Ada County Courthouse WPA mural, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; over Hirsch's ⬚Mulatto⬚ Justice mural, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; over Kraus's Newark Justice sculpture, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; over Mitchell's Saint Croix sculpture, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; over New York Muhammad statue, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; over Simkhovich's Mississippi Justice mural, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; over Weinman's Supreme Court Muhammad frieze, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ public art funding (set-asides) in U.S.: amount of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; through Art-in-Architecture, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Commission on Art and Government on, ⬚⬚⬚; competitions for, through Treasury Department, ⬚⬚⬚; debate during Cold War over, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; under Kennedy, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; revisions to process of awarding, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ publication: of administrative agency decisions, ⬚⬚⬚; of court proceedings, requirements for, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; of opinions, decline of, ⬚⬚⬚ public buildings: accessibility of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; compared to civic buildings, ⬚⬚; definition of, ⬚⬚; Guiding Principles for, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; religious imagery in, challenges to, ⬚⬚⬚; Ten Commandments in, ⬚⬚⬚; values in architecture of, ⬚⬚⬚. See also civic spaces; specific t⬚pes of ⬚uildin⬚s
Public Buildings Act (U.S.): of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Public Buildings Administration, Office of the Supervising Architect moved to, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ Public Buildings and Grounds, House Committee on, ⬚⬚⬚ Public Buildings Commission (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚
Public Buildings Cooperative Use Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Public Buildings Reform Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ Public Buildings Service: and air conditioning in federal courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚; cooperative use and, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; federal courthouses prioritized by, ⬚⬚⬚; JCUS design manual published by, ⬚⬚⬚; Peck as Commissioner of, ⬚⬚⬚ public disclosure obligations, in U.S., ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ public discourses, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Fraser; Habermas; Post public information officers, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Public school, segregation in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ publicity: Bentham on, xv, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; decline of, ⬚⬚⬚; exceptions to need for, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; functions of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; government legitimacy through, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; government use of, ⬚⬚⬚; for judges, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Kant on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; for legislators, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in public opinion, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; punishment influenced by, ⬚⬚⬚; Rawls on, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; and truth, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also public access to courts public opinion: Bentham ⬚n, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Habermas on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; on judges, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; Madison on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; press in development of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; on public art, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ (See also public art controversies); publicity's influence on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; role in government, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; on South African Constitutional Court, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Public Opinion Tribunal, of Bentham, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ public relations: in courts, [illegible]; of press, [illegible] public spheres: and adjudication, [illegible]; Bentham on, [illegible]; construction of, [illegible]; definition of, [illegible]; development of, [illegible], [illegible]; Fraser on, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Habermas on, xv, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; litigation in, [illegible]; public art controversies in, [illegible]. See also civic spaces Puerto Rico: judicial system of, [illegible]. See also San Juan punishment: evolution of modes of, [illegible]; of judges, threat of, [illegible]; in Middle Ages, [illegible], [illegible]; privatization of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; public, Foucault on, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; publicity's influence on, [illegible]; purposes of, [illegible]; scales in, [illegible]. See also death penalty; prison(s) purgatory, in Christian theology, [illegible]

Puttfarken, Thomas, [illegible] putti, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]

Quay, William, [illegible], [illegible]
Quellinus, Artus: Amsterdam Town Hall sculptures by, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; life of, [illegible]
Qur'an. See Koran

Ra (god), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See deities Rabb, Theodore K., [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] race: intersection of gender and, [illegible]; of Justice, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; social construction of, [illegible] race and ethnic bias task forces, [illegible], [illegible] race and conflict over art: in Mississippi, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in South Carolina, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in Saint Croix, [illegible] racial discrimination: blindfold and, [illegible]; courts as source of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; in death penalty, [illegible]; in jury selection, [illegible], [illegible]; in law enforcement, [illegible]; reverse, [illegible], [illegible]; in sentencing, [illegible], [illegible]; task forces on, in courts, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] racial segregation: in courthouses, [illegible], [illegible]; in schools, [illegible], [illegible]; U.S. Supreme Court on, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] racial stereotypes, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Raffaello Sanzio da Urbino. See Raphael
Rafuse, Rosemary, [illegible]
Raimondi, Marcantonio, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Ramos, Ismael, [illegible], [illegible]
Ramseyer, Mark, xvii, [illegible], [illegible]
Rao, P. Chandreskhara, [illegible] rapes, mass, as crimes against humanity, [illegible]
Raphael: Saint Michael depicted by, [illegible]; Reynolds influenced by, [illegible]; Virtues depicted by, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]. See also Vatican rationality, blindfold as symbol of, [illegible]
Ravenna (Italy), Church of St. Apollinare Nuovo in, [illegible], [illegible]
Rawls, John: on hierarchy of Virtues, [illegible]; on original position, [illegible]; Theory of Justice, [illegible]; on veil of ignorance, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] realism, in WPA art, [illegible]
Rear Window (film), [illegible] recordkeeping: in courthouses, [illegible], [illegible]; by U.S. federal courts, [illegible], [illegible] recusal(s): criteria for, [illegible], [illegible]; financial interests as reason for, [illegible], [illegible]; friendship as reason for, [illegible]; of Scalia, debate over, [illegible]
Red and the Black, The (Stendhal), [illegible]
Red Cross and Red Crescent, [illegible]
Red scare, in Work Projects Administration, [illegible], [illegible]
Reed, Alma, [illegible], [illegible]
Reformation: blindfold in, [illegible]; iconophobia of, [illegible]; Last Judgment images in, decline of, [illegible]
Regan, Richard J., [illegible], [illegible]
Regensburg (Germany), Lutheranism in, [illegible]
Regensburg Town Hall, [illegible]; handless judges in, [illegible]; Last Judgment in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See town hall(s) regional courts, [illegible]; budgets of, [illegible], [illegible]; caseloads of, [illegible], [illegible]; competition for design of, [illegible]; construction of, [illegible]; logos of, [illegible]; mixed courts as, [illegible]. See also international court(s); specific courts registry: in Israel, [illegible], [illegible]; Permanent Court of Arbitration as, [illegible]
Rehabilitation Act of [illegible], [illegible]
Rehnquist, William: on accessibility of courts, [illegible]; and access to courts, [illegible]; and complaints against judges, [illegible]; on congressional funding for federal courthouses, [illegible]; on courtroom size and sharing, [illegible], [illegible]; on GSA as landlord, [illegible]; impact on federal courthouses, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; recusal requested of, [illegible]; on religious imagery in public art, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Reich, Charles, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Reiner, Erica, [illegible], [illegible] religious imagery: in French courthouses, [illegible]; U.S. Supreme Court on public displays of, [illegible], [illegible]. See also Christian imagery; Jewish imagery; Islam: images of Muhammad religious life, and civic life, intermingling of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Rembrandt, and Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Renaissance, Italian: Cardinal Virtues in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; fasces in, [illegible]; "hear the other side" in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Saint Michael in, [illegible]; pain of Justice depicted in, [illegible]; state legitimacy in, [illegible]; town halls of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; Virtues in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Renaissance Revival architectural style, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Rennes (France), Parlement de Bretagne in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] rent-a-judge program, [illegible], [illegible] renting of federal courthouses, [illegible]; budget for, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]; cap on cost of, [illegible], [illegible]; congressional subsidies for, [illegible]; compared to construction of courthouses, [illegible]; formulas for calculation of, [illegible] Republic (Plato), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] reservations: in Central American Court of Justice, [illegible]; definition of, [illegible]; in International Court of Justice, [illegible], [illegible]; in Permanent Court of International Justice, [illegible]; on United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, [illegible] resources, maldistribution of, [illegible]. See also budget(s) restorative justice, [illegible]
Resurrection, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See also Last Judgment Revelation, Book of, [illegible] reverse discrimination, [illegible], [illegible]
Reykjavik (Iceland), Supreme Court in, [illegible], [illegible]
Reynolds, Beatrice, [illegible]
Reynolds, Joshua: balance in works of, [illegible], [illegible]; Justice in New College Chapel, Oxford, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], color plate [illegible]; life of, [illegible]; sight and blindness in works of, [illegible]
Richardson, George, edition of Ripa's Iconologia by, [illegible], [illegible]
Rieder, Georg, [illegible]
Riess, Jonathan B., [illegible] right(s): age of, [illegible]; evolution of rites into, xv, [illegible], [illegible]; international movement toward expansion of, [illegible]; in U.S. federal courts, [illegible]. See also human rights, conventions Ripa, Cesare: on blindness, [illegible]; on elephants, [illegible]; Giordano influenced by, [illegible], [illegible]; and handless judges, [illegible]; life of, [illegible], [illegible]; on ostriches, [illegible], [illegible]; Virtues depicted by, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]. See also Alciatus, Andreas; Iconologia; Justice, personifications, representations, and attributes of rituals: in English town halls, [illegible]; in Venice, [illegible]
Rivera, Diego, [illegible]. See also Mexican muralist movement Rivonia Trialists, [illegible], [illegible] roads, postal services and, [illegible], [illegible]
Robert, Christian-Nils, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]
Roberts, John G.: on color-blindness, [illegible], [illegible]; on judicial salaries, [illegible]; on rent costs, [illegible], [illegible]
Roberts, Simon, xvii, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]

Robinson, Davis R., ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rochberg, Francesca, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Rockburne, Dorothea, xvii, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫. See also allegories of good and bad government rod(s): Babylonian, ⧫⧫; Roman, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Rode, Martin van, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Rodr⧫guez, Antonio, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rodr⧫quez, Mario, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
⧫oe v⧫Wade, ⧫f, ⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Rogers, Catherine, ⧫⧫⧫
Rogers, Isaiah, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rogers, Richard: Antwerp Court House by, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Bordeaux Palais de Justice by, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; European Court of Human Rights building by, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; fame of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in France's ⧫rand Pro⧫ets, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Georges Pompidou Centre by, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; and International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea building, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Pritzker Prize to, ⧫⧫⧫ Roman Empire: coins of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; emperors of, ⧫⧫; images of Justicia in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Justinian Code in, ⧫⧫; Virtues in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Romanesque architectural style, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Roman law: compared to customary law, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; German adoption of, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫ Romano, Giulio: Justice depicted by, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫; life of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Virtues depicted by, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Romanoski, Mark, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Roman Republic: Brutus in, ⧫⧫; images of Justice in, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
⧫omans (biblical book), ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Rome (Italy), Palazzo di Giustizia in, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Rome, ancient: in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; calendar of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; goddesses of, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; ⧫hear the other side⧫ in, ⧫⧫⧫; legal system of, ⧫⧫; and Saint Michael, ⧫⧫; in origins of Justice iconography, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫; public trials in, ⧫⧫⧫; sun gods of, ⧫⧫. See also deities, Roman Rome Statute, of International Criminal Court, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Roosevelt, Franklin Delano: court-packing attempt by, ⧫⧫⧫; public hostility toward programs of, ⧫⧫⧫; Works Project Administration established by, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫. See also New Deal
Roosevelt, Theodore, and publicity, ⧫⧫⧫
Root, Elihu: career of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in establishment of Central American Court of Justice, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in Hague Peace Conference of ⧫⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; on Permanent Court of International Justice, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rosand, David, xvii, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rosen, Frederick, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rosse, Herman, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, color plate ⧫⧫
Roth, Jane R., ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rothe, Johannes, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫
Rothschild, Dorothy de, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rothschild family, ⧫⧫⧫
Roubert, Jean-Loup, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rousseau, Jean-Jacques, ⧫⧫⧫
Rowan, Edward B., ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Rowe, Nina, xvii, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫
Royal Academy of the Arts, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫ royale imagery, in French courthouses, ⧫⧫⧫
Roybal, Edward, ⧫⧫⧫
Rubens, Peter Paul: Cambyses depicted by, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Campen as disciple of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Ecclesia depicted by, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; paintings of Marie de Medici by, ⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; snakes associated with Justice by, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, color plate ⧫⧫
Rubinstein, Nicolai, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Ruckstuhl, Frederick Wellington, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Rudhardt, Jean, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Rules Enabling Act of ⧫⧫⧫⧫ (U.S.), ⧫⧫⧫
Rules on the Taking of Evidence in International Commercial Arbitration, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Ruskin, John, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Russia: in European Court of Human Rights, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; show-trials in, ⧫⧫⧫ Russian Constructivism architectural style, ⧫⧫⧫
Russian Revolution (⧫⧫⧫⧫), ⧫⧫⧫
Rutledge, Wiley, ⧫⧫⧫
Rwanda: crimes against humanity in, ⧫⧫⧫; in Holzer's Nantes installation, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫. See also International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda
Ryssdal, Rolv, ⧫⧫⧫

Saarinen, Eliel, ⧫⧫⧫
Sachs, Albie, xvii, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫. See also South African Constitutional Court Sacramento (California), U.S. Courthouse in: Holzer's installation in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫; Otterness's sculptures in, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫ Saenredam, Pieter, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Safdie, Moshe, ⧫⧫⧫
Sai⧫a Case, in International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Saint Ambrose, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Saint Anselm, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Saint Augustine: and ⧫hear the other side⧫ ⧫⧫⧫; on Last Judgment, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; life of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫; on temperance, ⧫⧫⧫; on weighing of souls, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Saint Croix (Virgin Islands), Almeric L. Christian Federal Building in, Mitchell's Justice sculpture in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, color plate ⧫⧫
Saint George, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Saint Gregory, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Saint Michael ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; Bible on, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; cult of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; duties of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; in France, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; in Last Judgment, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, color plate ⧫; as psychopomp, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; scales of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; sword of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫. See also balance(s), scale(s)
Saint Paul, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Saint-Gaudens, Augustus, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
St. Louis (Missouri), Thomas F. Eagleton Federal Courthouse in, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫ salaries, judicial: in Inter-American Court of Human Rights, ⧫⧫⧫; compared to other professions, ⧫⧫⧫; separation of powers in setting of, ⧫⧫⧫; subservience to rulers and, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; for U.S. federal judges, ⧫⧫⧫
salas de los pasos perdidos, ⧫⧫⧫ salles d'audience (courtrooms), ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫ salles des pas perdus, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫ Sallust, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
salvation: in Christian theology, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; of judges, ⧫⧫
Sambin, Hugues, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Samuel, ⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
San Diego (California), U.S. Post Office and Customs House in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f
San Jos⧫ (Costa Rica). See Central American Court of Justice; Inter-American Court of Human Rights
San Juan (Puerto Rico), Jos⧫ V. Toledo Federal Building in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f
San Rafael (California), Marin County Civic Center in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Sansovino, Jacopo, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Santa Fe (New Mexico), Palace of Governors in, ⧫⧫⧫ Santander, Francisco, ⧫⧫⧫
Sappho, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Sargent, John Singer, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Sargon of Akkad, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫ satire: Bruegel's Virtues and Vices series as, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Fiera's De ⧫usticia Pin⧫enda as, ⧫⧫ Saunders, Alison, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Sbriccoli, Mario, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫ scales, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; in Babylonian imagery, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, color plate ⧫; in Christian imagery, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; in commerce, ⧫⧫; in Egyptian imagery, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; and ⧫hear the other side⧫ concept, ⧫⧫⧫; in international court logos, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; in Justice iconography, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; in Koran, ⧫⧫; in New Testament, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; in Old Testament, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫. See also balances; Koran; Maat; Saint Michael; Shamash Scalia, Antonin: Vice President Cheney's relationship with and debate over recusal of, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Scamozzi, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Schama, Simon, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Schechter, Stuart, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫

Scheel, Willy, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧
Scheerbart, Paul, ⌧⌧⌧
Schiff, Benjamin, ⌧⌧⌧
Schild, Wolfgang, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Schmidt Hammer Lassen / Bosch ⌧ Fjord, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧
Schofield, Philip, xvi, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also Bentham
Schuck, Peter, xvii, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Schuer, Theodorus Vander, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Schultz, Charles, ⌧, ⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, color plate ⌧
Schulz, Juergen, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Schumann, Robert, ⌧⌧⌧
Schwarz, Hans, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Schwarzenberg, Johann Freiherr zu, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Schwechten, Franz, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Schwendtner, Isaac, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Scottsboro Boys, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also Hughes, Langston Scotts⌧oro Limited (Langston Hughes), ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
SCSL. See Special Court for Sierra Leone
Sculpture Society, ⌧⌧⌧. See also City Beautiful Movement
Seabed Authority, International, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Seabed Disputes Chamber, of International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, ⌧⌧⌧ seal(s): of Amsterdam, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; of Babylonia, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧, color plate ⌧; of French Republic, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; of New York State, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; of United States, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; of U.S. Defense Department, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ seats of power: in England, ⌧⌧; in Ireland, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; U.S. courthouses as, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ Seattle (Washington): allegories of good and bad government in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; federal courthouse in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Second Renaissance Revival architectural style, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧ secrecy: at Guant⌧namo Bay, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; in voting, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧. See also confidentiality; privacy security: See courthouse security security, in U.S. federal buildings: budget for, ⌧⌧⌧; cost of, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; in courthouse construction, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; GSA focus on, ⌧⌧⌧; JCUS on, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; rise of concerns about, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; separate circulation routes in, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧ Seeber, Christine, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ Sefola, Harald, ⌧⌧⌧ segregation, racial. See racial segregation segregation by roles, ⌧⌧⌧; in French courthouses (trois flux), ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; functions of, ⌧⌧⌧; in Israeli Supreme Court, ⌧⌧⌧; in prisons, ⌧⌧⌧; in U.S. courthouses, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧ self-representation in court, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧
Semper, Emmanuel, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Sen, Amartya, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Senate, U.S.: Committee on Environment and Public Works of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; on Denver federal building, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; federal judges confirmed by, ⌧⌧⌧; Parks Commission of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; on Permanent Court of International Justice, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; on waste in federal courthouse construction, ⌧⌧⌧
Seneca: on Cambyses, ⌧⌧; in Holzer's Sacramento installation, ⌧⌧⌧; Medea, ⌧⌧⌧ sensory perception, amodal and intermodal, ⌧⌧ sentencing: racial discrimination in, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; right of allocution in, ⌧⌧⌧ separation of powers: in Bible, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; blindfold and, ⌧⌧; in judicial budgets, ⌧⌧⌧; origins of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ Sepphoris Synagogue, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
September ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧⌧, terrorist attacks: conflict about adjudication after, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; security concerns after, ⌧⌧⌧. See also Guant⌧namo Bay
Serbia and Montenegro, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Serra, Richard, ⌧⌧⌧ Sessions Paper, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Seth (god), ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
settlement(s): in criminal cases, ⌧⌧⌧; judges' role in, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; procedural rules encouraging, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; public access to information about, ⌧⌧⌧; requirements for discussion of, ⌧⌧⌧; in U.S. federal appellate courts, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; U.S. rates of, ⌧⌧⌧. See also alternative dispute resolution; managerial judges
Seven Deadly Sins, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Seventh Amendment of U.S. Constitution, ⌧⌧⌧ sexual violence: as crime against humanity, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧; publicity for, ⌧⌧⌧; as war crime, ⌧⌧⌧
Seyssel, Claude, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Shamash (god), ⌧⌧; in Babylonian imagery, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧; in Babylonian legal system, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; in Iraqi Special Tribunal logo, ⌧⌧⌧. See also Babylonia
Shamgar, Meir, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Shannon, Tim, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧f
Shao, Jude, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
shasharu (tool), ⌧⌧. See also Shamash
Shearman, John, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Shepherd, Leslie, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Shepley Bulfinch Richardson and Abbott (architectural firm), ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Sherwin, Emily, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Shipman, Shirley, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Ship of ⌧ools, The (Sebastian Brant), ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧ Ship of ⌧ools, The (Katherine Ann Porter), ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ show trials, ⌧⌧⌧
Shuster, Bill, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Siegel, Reva, xvii, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Siena (Italy), ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; allegories of good and bad government in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; art commissions in, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; civic space in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; fall of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; and Geneva, ⌧⌧; legal system of, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; the Nine in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also Lorenzetti, Ambrogio
Siena, Palazzo Pubblico of, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; construction of, ⌧⌧; functions of, ⌧⌧; Judgment of Brutus in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; Lorenzetti's frescoes in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, color plates ⌧, ⌧; the Nine in, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; other frescoes in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; compared to Peace Palace, ⌧⌧⌧
Sierra Club Judicial Watch, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧
Sierra Leone, crimes against humanity in, ⌧⌧⌧. See also Special Court for Sierra Leone sight: in hierarchy of senses, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; and judgment, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧; in Justice iconography, ⌧⌧; and knowledge, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; import of, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; in Reynolds's artwork, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧f, color plate ⌧⌧; value of, ⌧⌧ Siitonen, Tuomo, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧f
Silbey, Susan, xvii, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Simkhovich, Simka: life of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; Mississippi Justice mural by, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧f, ⌧⌧⌧, color plate ⌧⌧
Simmonds, Andrew R., ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Simon, Louis A., ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Simons, Charles E., Jr., ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Simplicity (Virtue), ⌧. See also Virtues sin(s): in Christian theology, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧; Seven Deadly, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Siqueiros, David Alfaro, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧. See also Mexican muralist movement Sisamnes (judge): in Bruges Town Hall, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧; story of, ⌧⌧–⌧⌧ Sisulu, Walter, ⌧⌧⌧
⌧situations⌧ in International Criminal Court, ⌧⌧⌧
Sixteenth Amendment of U.S. Constitution, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Sixth Amendment of U.S. Constitution: access to courts in, ⌧⌧⌧; ⌧hear the other side⌧ in, ⌧⌧⌧; jurors in, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; right to the ⌧assistance of counsel⌧ in, ⌧⌧⌧
Skinner, Quentin, ⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧
Skouris, Vassilios, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧
Slanski, Kathryn E., xvii, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧ slavery: anti-slavery courts on, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; in Britain, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧nn⌧–⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; end of, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧⌧⌧; fugitive slaves, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; proposed depiction of, in U.S. Courthouse, Virgin Islands, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧; in Virgin Islands, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧
Slave Trade, Treaty for the Abolition of the (Great Britain–Spain, ⌧⌧⌧⌧), ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧n⌧
Slave Trade Tribunals, ⌧⌧⌧–⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧, ⌧⌧⌧. See also mixed courts

Sloth (Vice), ⬚. See also Vices small claims cases, ⬚⬚⬚
Smith, Alfred Louis, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Smith, Thomas Gordon, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ snakes and serpents: and Saint Michael, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in Otterness's artwork, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in Ripa's ⬚onolo⬚ia, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in Rubens's artwork, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, color plate ⬚⬚; symbolic meanings of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Snow, Edward, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Sobriety (Virtue), ⬚. See also Virtues
Social Security Administration (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; adjudication and, ⬚⬚⬚ Sohn, Louis, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Sol Justitiae, ⬚⬚; Christian embrace of, ⬚⬚; Dürer's depiction of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in International Court of Justice logo, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Solomon: glass in palace of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Judgment of, in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚; ubiquity of image of Judgment of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Solomon, Book of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Solomon, Jay, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Solon, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Solzhenitsyn, Aleksandr, ⬚⬚⬚
Somerset⬚ Case ⬚Somerset v.⬚Stewart⬚ ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Somme le roi, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Sommerness, James A., ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚f, color plate ⬚⬚
Sophocles, ⬚ edipus ⬚e⬚, ⬚⬚ sophros⬚ne, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Virtues soul, in Christian theology, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Souter, David: on accessibility of courts, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; on Ten Commandments displays, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
South Africa: Apartheid era in, ⬚⬚⬚; ⬚⬚⬚⬚ Constitution of, ⬚⬚⬚; crime in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; end of Apartheid in, ⬚⬚⬚; international law in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; judicial independence in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; judicial system of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; post-Apartheid era in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; public access to courts in, ⬚⬚⬚; Truth and Reconciliation Commission in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
South African Constitutional Court, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; challenges facing, ⬚⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚; impact of, ⬚⬚⬚; jurisdiction of, ⬚⬚⬚; logo of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; public opinion on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; social rights in, ⬚⬚⬚
South African Constitutional Court building, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; architectural critics on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; art in, ⬚⬚⬚; budget of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; competition for design of, ⬚⬚⬚; exterior design of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, color plates ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; glass in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; goals of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; history on display in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; interior design of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; lessons learned from, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; library of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; at Old Fort Prison site, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; as performance venue, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; size of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
South African Institute of Architects, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
South Carolina. See Aiken South Dakota, public art in, ⬚⬚⬚ space emergency, judicial (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Spain: Constitutional Court of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; glass architecture in, ⬚⬚⬚; Inquisition of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Last Judgment images in, ⬚⬚; Supreme Court of, public access to, ⬚⬚⬚ Spanish Colonial Revival architectural style, ⬚⬚⬚
Special Court for Sierra Leone (SCSL), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ special masters, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Specter, Arlen, ⬚⬚⬚
Spenser, Edmund, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; The ⬚aerie ⬚ ueene, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Spielmann, Dean, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Spierenburg, Pieter, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Spirit of Laws, The (Montesquieu), ⬚⬚⬚
Springfield (Illinois), Illinois Supreme Court in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚
Springfield (Massachusetts), federal court in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Spurgeon, Charles, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Srebrenica massacre of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Stafford, Emma, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Stafford, Robert, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ stained-glass windows: in New College Chapel (Reynolds), ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in Peace Palace, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Stalpaert, Daniel, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Stanton, Elizabeth Cady, quotation from, ⬚⬚⬚ Starn, Randolph, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ state(s), U.S.: constitutions: freedom of press in, ⬚⬚⬚, public access to courts in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, role of judges in, ⬚⬚⬚; federal buildings requested by, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; history and development of courts in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; prisons of, ⬚⬚⬚; on public access to alternative dispute resolution data, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; sovereign immunity of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ state court(s), U.S.: accessibility of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; budget shortfalls in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; demand and capacity of, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; U.S. federal courts using procedural rules of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; local rules of, ⬚⬚⬚; growth of, ⬚⬚⬚; number of filings in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; number of trials in, ⬚⬚⬚; racial segregation in, ⬚⬚⬚; supreme courts: race and ethnic bias task forces in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, salaries for justices of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; television broadcast of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; user fees for, ⬚⬚⬚; vulnerability of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ State Department, U.S., in federal court administration, ⬚⬚⬚ state supreme courts, U.S.: race and ethnic bias task forces in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; salaries for justices of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ statutory judges (U.S.), compared with constitutional judges, ⬚⬚⬚
Stead, William, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Steamboat Safety Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Stendhal, The ⬚ed and the Black, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ stereotypes: effects in court of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; gender, ⬚⬚⬚; racial, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; religious, ⬚⬚⬚ Stern, Robert, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Steur, J. A. G. van der, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚
Stevens, John Paul: on accessibility of courts, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; on religious imagery in public art, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Stilwell, Gary A., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Stockade, Nicolaes van Helt, ⬚⬚
Stone, Harlan Fiske, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Stone v.⬚⬚ raham, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Strachan, Douglas, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Strand, Mark, ⬚⬚⬚
Strasbourg (France): Council of Europe in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; European Parliament in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; Palais de l'Europe in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also European Court of Human Rights
Strasbourg Cathedral, Synagoga and Ecclesia in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Strauss, Gerald, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Strobel, Niclas, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ subsidies, government: for legal aid, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; for postal services, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; for U.S. federal courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ substantive due process, ⬚⬚⬚ suffrage: universal, ⬚⬚⬚; for women, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Sugarman, George, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Sukenik, Eleazar, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
sun gods, ⬚⬚. See also Shamash; Sol Justitiae
Sunshine in Litigation Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (Florida), ⬚⬚⬚
Sunshine in Litigation Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S. proposal), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Sunshine in the Courtroom Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S. proposal), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
supermax prisons, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Supervising Architect, Office of the (U.S.): establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; federal building construction under, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in General Services Administration, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; growth in size of, ⬚⬚⬚; private architects working with, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in Public Buildings Administration, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Section of Fine Arts' conflicts with, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in Treasury Department, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; waste in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also Bell, Mi⬚ in E.; Freret, Will A.; Taylor, James Knox; Young, Ammi B supranational courts, ⬚⬚⬚. See also international courts; mixed courts; regional courts supreme courts. See specific countries and states surveillance: in Bentham's Panopticon, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; Foucault on, xv, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; at Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in supermax prisons, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚

Susa (Iran), Code of Hammurabi in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Suttner, Bertha von, ⬚⬚⬚
Sweden, public art funding in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Switzerland. See Geneva sword(s): in Justice iconography, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; of Saint Michael, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; in Muhammad images, ⬚⬚⬚ Sybil of Erythraea (prophetess), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Syme, Ronald, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Synagoga and Ecclesia: blindfold in depictions of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚; symbolic meaning of, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; Virtues in depictions of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also blindfolds synagogues, zodiac mosaics in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Syria, torture in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Szambien, Werner, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Szmuk, Peter, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f tablets: in Jewish imagery, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Mesopotamian legal system on, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚

Tachau, Katherine H., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Taddeo di Bartolo, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Taft, William Howard: appointment as Chief Justice, ⬚⬚⬚; and Commission on Fine Arts, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; death of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; on federal judges, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; judicial innovations of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; on Supreme Court building, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; on Supreme Court caseload, ⬚⬚⬚; on user fees, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Taliban, as enemy combatants, ⬚⬚⬚
Tamariz, Ernesto, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Tanzania, International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda in, ⬚⬚⬚ tapestries: Danish, Cambyses in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in European Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚; in Peace Palace, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Rubens's design for, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in South African Constitutional Court, ⬚⬚⬚
tarot cards, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Tarride, Laurence Depambour, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Tarsney Act of ⬚⬚⬚⬚ (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Task Force on Correctional Architecture (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Task Force on Federal Architecture, NEA (U.S.), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ task forces on fairness in courts (U.S. and Canada), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Taslitz, Andrew E., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Tasso, Torquato, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Tatti, Jacopo. See Sansovino, Jacopo
Taut, Bruno, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ taverns, colonial American courts in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Tax Court, U.S., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Taylor, Charles, in Special Court for Sierra Leone, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Taylor, James Knox: buildings designed by, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Gilbert's partnership with, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; as Supervising Architect, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Taylor, Katherine Fischer, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Taylor, Robert, ⬚⬚ technology: public access to courts through, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; video recordings, dissemination of, ⬚⬚⬚; virtual encounters through, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also media; press; publication of court reports; Saddam Hussein; video television broadcasts, ⬚⬚⬚; of Canadian Supreme Court, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; of Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; of International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; of U.S. federal courts, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; of U.S. state courts, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; U.S. Supreme Court on, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ Temperance (Virtue): in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⬚⬚; attributes of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; as Cardinal Virtue, ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; depictions of, ⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in hierarchy of Virtues, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; meaning of, ⬚⬚⬚; Plato on, ⬚⬚. See also Virtues temperantia, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Sophrosyne Temples of Justice, U.S. courthouses as, ⬚⬚⬚ Ten Commandments: in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚; blindness and, ⬚⬚; in Justice images, ⬚⬚; tablets of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; U.S. Supreme Court on displays of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Tengler, Ulrich, Laienspie⬚el, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Tennessee v⬚Lane, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ Tepper, Steven J., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ terra nullius, ⬚⬚⬚ territorial disputes, arbitration of, ⬚⬚⬚ terrorism, glass architecture and, ⬚⬚⬚ terrorist suspects: access to courts for, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; detention of (See Guant⬚namo Bay); in U.S. federal courts, ⬚⬚⬚
Teubner, Gunther, ⬚⬚⬚
Texas: statehood for, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Ten Commandments in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also Galveston Thacker, Philip Gerald, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ theatres of justice, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Bentham, Jeremy Theban judges, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also handless judges
Themis (goddess): modern depictions of, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚; in origins of Justice iconography, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; Roman version of, ⬚⬚; Temple of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Theological Virtues, ⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚; in allegories of good and bad government, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; in Oxford's New College Chapel, ⬚⬚. See also Charity; Faith; Hope; Virtues Theology, discipline of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Theor⬚ of Justice, ⬚ (Rawls), ⬚⬚
Thessalonians, ⬚irst ⬚pistle to, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Third Branch, The (newsletter), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f
Thom, Bing, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Thomas, Clarence: on accessibility of courts, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; on color-blindness, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Thomas, Évelyne, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Thompson, Robert, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Thoth (god), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also Maat
Throne Baldachin (Danish tapestry), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Thronus Justitiae (Wtewael), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Thurley, Simon, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Thurmond, Strom, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Tiarini, Alessandro, ⬚⬚⬚
Tiberius (Emperor), ⬚⬚
Time Ma⬚a⬚ine, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Tipton, Susan, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Tittler, Robert, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚–⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Titus (Emperor), ⬚⬚
Tjoflat, Gerald Bard, xvii, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
toads, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Tokyo, Supreme Court of Japan in, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Tokyo Tribunal, ⬚⬚⬚
Tolnay, Charles de, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Topeka (Kansas), Kansas Judicial Center in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Torah, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Bible; Old Testament
Torcello (Italy), ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ torture: in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; definitions of, ⬚⬚⬚; at Guant⬚namo Bay, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; history of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; by Mexican police, ⬚⬚⬚; oversight of, ⬚⬚⬚; of terrorist suspects, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Torture Memos (U.S), ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Totten, George O., Jr., ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Totten, Samuel, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ Totten, Vicken von Post, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f town hall(s): allegories of good and bad government in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; alternative terms for, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚; Augsburg, ⬚⬚; Basel, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Bautzen, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Breslau, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚; Bruges, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Brussels, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚; Cambyses's story in, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; commerce in, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; and churches, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Cologne, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; cost of construction of, ⬚⬚⬚; decline of, ⬚⬚; Emden, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; evolution of courthouses from, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; Gda⬚sk (Danzig),

□□, □□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□; Geneva, □□, □□–□□, □□f, □□f, □□, □□, □□□; Graz, □□, □□□n□□□; Haarlem, □□, □□□n□□□; Kampen, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□; Last Judgment images in, □□, □□, □□–□□, □□□n□□□; Louvain, □□□n□□□; Lüneburg, □□, □□□n□□□; Maastricht, □□, □□; Mons, □□; motivations for building, □□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□; multiple functions of, □□, □□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□; Münster, □□□n□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□; Nuremberg, □□, □□, □□□n□□□; public and social traditions in, □□□–□□□; Regensburg, □□, □□, □□□n□□□; religious spaces in, □□, □□□n□□□; Renaissance, □□, □□–□□, □□□; rise of, □□, □□; Tübingen, □□; Ulm, □□; Virtues depicted on, □□. See also Amsterdam town hall
Tracy, Evarts, □□□n□□□
Tracy, Swartwout, □ Litchfield, □□□f, □□□n□□□ traffic laws, □□□, □□□n□□□
Trajan, Judgment of, □□ Transactional Records Access Clearinghouse (TRAC), □□□ transnational arbitration, in England, □□□–□□□ transnational courts. See mixed courts; international court(s); regional courts transportation, postal services and, □□□, □□□n□□□
Transportation and Infrastructure, House Committee on, □□□, □□□n□□□
Treasury Department, U.S.: commissions in New Jersey by, □□□, □□□n□□; establishment of, □□□; federal construction under, □□□–□□□; federal court administration under, □□□; Section of Fine Arts in, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□□; Section of Painting and Sculpture in, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□□. See also Supervising Architect, Office of the treaties: bilateral investment, □□□; European Court of Justice in interpretation of, □□□; □□□□ Maastricht Treaty, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□; Treaty Establishing the European Coal and Steel Community, □□□n□□; Treaty Establishing the European Economic Community, □□□n□□, □□□n□□; Treaty for the Abolition of the Slave Trade, Britain–Spain, □□□n□; Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation, United States–Great Britain, □□□, □□□n□; Treaty on European Union, □□□n□□. See also convention(s) treaty court, International Criminal Court as, □□□; International Law of the Sea and, □□□ tree(s): in French imagery, □□□, □□□, □□□, □□□nn□□□–□□□; of Justice, □□□, □□□nn□□□–□□□; in South African Constitutional Court logo, □□□; symbolic meaning of, □□□; of Virtues, □, □□□, □□□n□□ trial(s): alternative dispute resolution's impact on, □□□, □□□n□□; average length of (U.S.), □□□n□□; decline in rates of (U.S.), □□, □□□–□□□, □□□f; fair, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□□; in England, □□□, □□□–□□□; jury, origins of right to, □□□; knowledge allowed in, □□□–□□□; as marker of governance, □□□; press coverage of, □□□–□□□; prison uniforms in, □□□; public, origins of, □□–□□, □□□–□□□; public relations in, □□□–□□□ tribunals: access to, □□; Combatant Status Review Tribunal, □□□–□□□; in England, □□□; European Court of Justice, □□□–□□□; European Court of Human Rights, □□□–□□□; history of, □□□; Inter-American Court of Human Rights, □□□–□□□, □□□n□□□; International Criminal Court, □□□–□□□; International Court of Justice, □□□–□□□; International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, □□□–□□□; International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, □□□; Iran–U.S. Claims Tribunal, □□□–□□□; Iraqi Special Tribunal, □□□–□□□; International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea, □□□–□□□; Native National Title Tribunal, □□□; Permanent Court of Arbitration, □□□–□□□; privatization of adjudication through, □□; Public Opinion Tribunal (Bentham), □□, □□□–□□□; as purpose-built structures, □□; Slave Trade Tribunals, □□□, □□□; Social Security Appeals Tribunal, □□□; Special Court for Sierra Leone, □□□, □□□, □□□f, □□□, □□□f, □□□, □□□f, □□□n□□□, □□□nn□□□–□□□; The Tri□unal of □ools, □□–□□; U.N. creation of, □□□, □□□–□□□; after World War II, □□□. See also administrative law judges Trindade, Ant□nio A. Can□ado, □□□
Troescher, Georg, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□ trois flux, les, □□□, □□□. See also courthouse security; French courthouses Truth (Virtue), □, □□□n□□; in Four Daughters of God, □, □□, □□, □□, □□, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□. See also Virtues Truth and Reconciliation Commission (South Africa), □□□, □□□, □□□n□□□ truth and reconciliation commissions: and international criminal courts, □□□, □□□; restorative justice through, □□□ Tübingen Town Hall, □□
Tuerk, Helmut, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□
Tume□ v□□ hio, □□, □□□n□□. See also judicial impartiality
Tuthill, Louisa, □□□n□□□
Tutu, Desmond, □□□n□□□
Tuve, Rosemond, □□□n□□, □□□n□□, □□□n□□□
Twining, William, □□□, □□□n□□□, □□□n□□□ two-faced Justice, □□, □□, □□□n□□□. See also Damhoudere, Joost de; Janus Tyldesley, Joyce, □□□n□□ tyranny, in allegories of good and bad government, □□, □□. See also Lorenzetti, Amrogio; Bach, Caleb; Rockburne, Dorothea Ucl□s, Alberto, □□□n□□□
UDHR. See Universal Declaration of Human Rights
Ulm Town Hall, □□; handless judges in, □□□n□□. See also town hall(s)
U.N. See United Nations
UNCITRAL. See United Nations Commission for International Trade Law
UNCLOS. See United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea; United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea
Understanding (Virtue), □, □□□n□□. See also Virtues
Uniform Mediation Act of □□□□, □□□n□□
United Kingdom (UK): alternative dispute resolution in, □□□; death penalty in, □□□n□□□; Human Rights Act of □□□□ in, □□□; legal aid in, □□□, □□□–□□□; Supreme Court of, □□□, □□□n□□□; women in legal profession in, □□□n□□□. See also Britain; England; Wales
United Nations (U.N.): adjudication principles adopted by, □□□n□□; annual budget of, □□□; arbitration rules by, □□□; Charter of (□□□□), □□□; establishment of, □□□; on indigenous rights, □□□, □□□n□□□; International Law Commission of, □□□, □□□, □□□–□□□; on judicial independence, □□□; judicial organ of (See International Court of Justice); logo of, □□□, □□□n□□□; on Mexican legal profession, □□□; tribunals created by, □□□, □□□–□□□; U.S. participation in, □□□
United Nations Commission for International Trade Law (UNCITRAL), □□□, □□□
United Nations Commission on Human Rights, □□□n□□□
United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS), □□□
United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS), □□□–□□□; German participation in, □□□, □□□, □□□n□□□; Implementation Agreement (□□□□) on, □□□, □□□; Permanent Court of Arbitration and, □□□; U.S. participation in, □□□, □□□. See also International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea
United Nations Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (□□□□), □□□
United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Persons Belonging to National or Ethnic, Religious and Linguistic Minorities (□□□□), □□□
United Nations International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (□□□□), □□, □□□
United Nations Rapporteur on Torture, □□□
United Nations Report on Detainees, □□□n□□□
United Nations Security Council: in International Court of Justice, □□□; in International Criminal Court, □□□–□□□, □□□, □□□; tribunals created by, □□□, □□□–□□□

United Nations Special Rapporteur for the Independence of Judges and Lawyers, ⧫⧫⧫
United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
United States: in American Convention on Human Rights, ⧫⧫⧫; in Central American Court of Justice, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; coins of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; colonial, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; as common law federation, ⧫⧫⧫; courthouses of (See United States courthouses); custom houses in, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; diversity jurisdiction in, ⧫⧫⧫; fairness in, ⧫⧫⧫; federal courts in national legal regime of, ⧫⧫⧫; ⧫hear the other side⧫ in, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; in International Court of Justice, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in International Criminal Court, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; in Iran hostage crisis, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in Iraq war, ⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; in Jay Treaty, ⧫⧫⧫; judges of (See United States judges); law in identity of, ⧫⧫⧫; legal aid in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; in Permanent Court of International Justice, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; population of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; prisons in, history of, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; Seal of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in U.N. Convention on the Law of the Sea, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
United States Congress. See Congress, U.S.
United States Constitution: access to courts in, ⧫⧫⧫; and agency adjudication, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; anti-federalist writings on, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Article III of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; color-blindness of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; Confrontation Clause of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; due process in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; federal construction in, ⧫⧫⧫; ⧫hear the other side⧫ in, ⧫⧫⧫; judicial independence in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; judicial role in, ⧫⧫⧫; jurors in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; life tenure for judges in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; the people in, ⧫⧫; on post offices, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; press freedom in, ⧫⧫⧫; on public disclosure obligations, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; right to counsel in, ⧫⧫⧫. See also specific amendments
United States courthouses, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; colonial, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; debt caused by construction of, ⧫⧫⧫; diversity of architectural styles of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫f, color plate ⧫⧫; homogenization of design of, ⧫⧫⧫; lawyers' influence on, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; location of, meaning behind, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; protests at, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫; public and social traditions in, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; as purpose-built structures, ⧫⧫⧫; rise in number of, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; as seats of power, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; segregation by race in, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; segregation by role in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫. See also county courthouses; federal courthouses; state courthouses
⧫nited States Courts Desi⧫n ⧫uide, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; ⧫⧫⧫⧫ edition of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫; ⧫⧫⧫⧫ edition of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; ⧫⧫⧫⧫ edition of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; on alternative dispute resolution suites, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; on sharing of space, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫. See also ⧫ S⧫ Desi⧫n ⧫ uides⧫Judicial Conference of the United States
United States judges: federal buildings named after, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; gender, ethnic, and racial diversity and, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; number of, ⧫⧫; ratio of population to, ⧫⧫⧫; separate circulation routes for, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫.
United States Supreme Court: on abortion rights, ⧫f, ⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; on accessibility of courts, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on agency adjudication, ⧫⧫⧫; on arbitration contracts, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on blindness, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; building of (See United States Supreme Court building); on campaign contributions to judges, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; caseload of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫; on Civil Rights movement, ⧫⧫⧫; on color-blindness, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on Confrontation Clause, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on counsel, right to, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on Court of Claims, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; court-packing attempt in, ⧫⧫⧫; on discovery, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; docket of, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; on due process, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; establishment of, ⧫⧫⧫; on fairness, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Federal Rules of Civil Procedure issued by, ⧫⧫⧫; on Guant⧫namo Bay, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on International Court of Justice rulings, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on judicial review, ⧫⧫⧫; jurisdiction of, ⧫⧫⧫; justices of (See United States Supreme Court justices); on mandatory private arbitration, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; number of employees of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Office of the Curator, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; original jurisdiction of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; on post offices, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on protests at courthouses, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫–⧫⧫; on racial segregation, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; on racism in death penalty, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on racism in jury selection, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on recusal, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on religious imagery, public displays of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; on supermax prisons, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on television broadcasts, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on Ten Commandments displays, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; on testimonial statements, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on user fees, ⧫⧫. See also specific cases
United States Supreme Court building, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f; Administrative Office in, ⧫⧫⧫; architectural critics on, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; cost of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; design and construction of, ⧫⧫⧫; ⧫Equal Justice Under Law⧫ inscription on, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Gilbert as architect of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; Justice sculptures in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; lack of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; need for, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; open front plaza, closing of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; renovation of, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; security in, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Weinman's Muhammad frieze in, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
United States Supreme Court justices: cartoon depictions of, ⧫–⧫, ⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; chambers for retired, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in circuit court, ⧫⧫⧫; in Judicial Conference of the United States, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; role in case selection, ⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; timeline of Chief Justices, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫. See also specific ⧫ustices
Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) (⧫⧫⧫⧫), ⧫⧫⧫; adoption of, ⧫⧫⧫; judicial independence in, ⧫⧫⧫; in Lyon Palais de Justice, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫ University College London, ⧫⧫⧫ unlawful belligerents, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫ unlawful enemy combatants. See enemy combatants unpublished opinions, ⧫⧫⧫
Urban I, Pope, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
urban renewal and U.S. federal building, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Urban Solutions, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Urbina, Salvador, ⧫⧫⧫ user fees: in English courts, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; in full-cost pricing, ⧫⧫; compared to gifts, ⧫⧫; history of, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; lowering of, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫; in U.S. courts, ⧫⧫⧫
Utu. See Babylonia; Mesopotamia; Shamash

V⧫h⧫kallio, V⧫in⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ Valdes, Francisco G., ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Valencia, Daniel V., ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Valerius Maximus, Memora⧫le Doin⧫s and Sa⧫in⧫s⧫and Amsterdam Town Hall, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; on Brutus, ⧫⧫; on Cambyses, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; on Zaleucus, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Vallarta, Ignacio L., ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Van Cleve, John, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Van Devanter, Willis, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Vandeveld, Darrel, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
⧫vanishing trial,⧫ ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫. See also Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR); settlement VanNatta, John, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
⧫an ⧫ rden v⧫Perr⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫ Vasari, Giorgio, ⧫⧫
Vasconcelos, Jos⧫, ⧫⧫⧫
Vasconi, Claude, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Vatican: Last Judgment depicted in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Sala di Constantino in, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Sistine Chapel of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Stanza della Segnatura in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫; Stanza dell'Incendio in, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫; Virtues depicted in, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Veall, Donald, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Veere City Hall, ⧫⧫
Veil: blindness associated with, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫; and Moses, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫ veil of ignorance, Rawls on, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫⧫ Velden, Hugo van der, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫⧫
Veneziano, Agostino, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫n⧫⧫
Venice, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫; Basilica of San Marco in, ⧫⧫; Bucintoro in, ⧫⧫–⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫⧫nn⧫⧫⧫–⧫⧫⧫; Canaletto's depictions of, ⧫⧫, ⧫⧫f, ⧫⧫,

[illegible]n[illegible]; Christian imagery in, [illegible]; civic space in, [illegible]; decline of, [illegible]n[illegible]; Doges' role in, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; as Justice, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]f; Loggetta of San Marco in, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; as [illegible]New Rome,[illegible] [illegible]–[illegible]; republican government of, [illegible]; role of Justice iconography in, [illegible]–[illegible]
Vennekool, Jacov, [illegible]n[illegible]
Venus (goddess), [illegible]
Vermont, judicial budget shortfalls in, [illegible]. See also Windsor
Verrio, Antonio: life of, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; painting of Anne of England by, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
Veterans' Affairs, U.S. Department of, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]
Veterans Claims, Court of Appeals for, [illegible]n[illegible] Vices: in allegories of good and bad government, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in battle (psychomachia), [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]n[illegible]–[illegible]; Bruegel's series of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; gender of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Mantegna's depiction of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in Orozco's murals, [illegible], [illegible]; Renaissance depictions of, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Sienese frescoes, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in U.S. Supreme Court building, [illegible]. See also Anger; Avarice; Deceit; Despair; Discord; Envy; Extravagance; Gluttony; Greed; Idolatry; Inconstancy; Infidelity; Lechery; Lust; Pride; Ps[illegible]chomachia; Sloth vicinage, [illegible] victims, in International Criminal Court, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Victoria, [illegible]
Victoria County (Australia): Victoria County Courthouse, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]; Victoria Supreme Court, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]f
Victorian architectural style, [illegible]
Vietnam War, [illegible]n[illegible]
Vigilance (Virtue): in Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; cranes associated with, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Vinson, Frederick, [illegible]n[illegible]
Virgil, [illegible]eneid, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Virginia: colonial courthouses in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; Hanover County Courthouse in, [illegible]; racial segregation in courthouses of, [illegible]–[illegible]
Virgin Islands: Africa in history of, [illegible]–[illegible]; federal court in, [illegible]; Moco Jumbie in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, color plate [illegible]; territorial judges in, [illegible]; U.S. purchase of, [illegible]. See also Saint Croix
[illegible]ir[illegible]in [illegible]slands Business Journal, [illegible]–[illegible]
Virgin Mary: in Last Judgment images, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Saint Michael and, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; as patron of Siena, [illegible]n[illegible]; in Venice, [illegible]
Virtues: in allegories of good and bad government, [illegible]–[illegible]; in Amsterdam Town Hall, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]; in battle (psychomachia), [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]n[illegible]–[illegible]; Bruegel's series of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Cardinal (See Cardinal Virtues); in Christian theology, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in European Court of Justice, [illegible]; Four Daughters of God, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; gender of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Gift (See Gift Virtues), [illegible]n[illegible]; hierarchy of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]; Ladders of, [illegible]; Mantegna's depiction of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; modern need for understanding of, [illegible], [illegible]; in Peace Palace, [illegible]; Plato on, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in Renaissance, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]; in Roman Empire, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Sophrosyne, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Theological (See Theological Virtues); tree of, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; in U.S. Supreme Court building, [illegible]; in Vatican, [illegible], [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]. See also Abstinence; Aequitas; Charity; Chastity; Concord; Courage; Discipline; Equity; Fortitude; Humility; Justice; Largesse; Liberality; Love; Loyalty; Magnanimity; Mercy; Modesty; Patience; Obedience; Peace; Prudence; Ps[illegible]chomachia; Simplicity; Sobriety; Temperance; Truth; Understanding; Vigilance; Wisdom
Vitruvius, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; De architecturae li[illegible]ri decem, [illegible]n[illegible] Vittoria, Alessandro, [illegible]n[illegible] voir dire, [illegible]
Volavkova, Zdenka, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Volcker, Paul, on judicial salaries, [illegible]
Voltaire, Brutus, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] voluntary arbitration, history of, [illegible]. See also arbitration; Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Vondel, Joost van den, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]–[illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible]
vonRoenn, Kenneth F., Jr., [illegible]n[illegible]
Vos, Jan, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Vos, Marten de, [illegible]
Vrede door Recht, [illegible], [illegible]f
Vukas, Budislav, [illegible]n[illegible]

Wackenhut Corrections Corporation, [illegible]
Wagner, Otto, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Wales: design guides for courthouses of, [illegible]n[illegible]; procedural rules encouraging settlements in, [illegible], [illegible]
Walker, Garth, [illegible]n[illegible]
Wallace, George, [illegible]
Wallis, John Joseph, [illegible]n[illegible]
Wall Street Journal, [illegible]f, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Walter, Francis E., [illegible]n[illegible]
Walter of Ch[illegible]tillon, [illegible]le[illegible]andreis, [illegible]n[illegible]
Walzer, Michael, [illegible]n[illegible] war, laws of: Geneva Conventions on (See Geneva Convention); Lieber Code on rules of, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; as right of states, [illegible]. See also tribunals war crimes: gender and, [illegible]; in International Criminal Court, [illegible]; in World War II, [illegible]. See also crimes against humanity
Wardrop, James, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Ware, W. R., [illegible]n[illegible]
Warner, Marina, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Warren, Earl: appointment as Chief Justice, [illegible]n[illegible]; cartoon depictions of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]; and Civil Rights movement, [illegible]; in Judicial Conference of the United States, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Warren, Marilyn, xvii, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] warrior(s), Saint Michael as, [illegible], [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Washington (state). See Seattle
Washington, D.C.: baseball stadium in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Capitol building in, [illegible]; City Hall of, [illegible]n[illegible]; Commission on Fine Arts' focus on, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Dolley Madison House in, [illegible], [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]; establishment of court system in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; federal courthouse in, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Inter-American Commission on Human Rights meeting in, [illegible]; Inter-American Court of Human Rights meeting in, [illegible]; origins of federal buildings in, [illegible]–[illegible]; Supreme Court's move to, [illegible]; Thurgood Marshall Federal Judiciary Building in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]f; Union Station in, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]; Washington Monument in, [illegible]. See also United States Supreme Court building
Washin[illegible]ton Post, [illegible]n[illegible]
Weale, James, [illegible]nn[illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Wearin, Otha, [illegible]n[illegible]
Weber, Max, [illegible] wedding poems, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible] weighted caseloads, [illegible]n[illegible]
Weil Arets Architects [illegible] Associates, [illegible]
Weingast, Barry R., [illegible]n[illegible]
Weinman, Adolph A.: life of, [illegible]n[illegible]; Supreme Court Muhammad frieze by, [illegible]–[illegible]
Weinraub, Bernard, [illegible]f, [illegible]n[illegible]
Weisberg, Ruth, xvii, [illegible]n[illegible]
Weisser, Michael R., [illegible]n[illegible]
Welch, Michael, [illegible]n[illegible]
Wendt, Franz, [illegible]n[illegible]
Wercollier, Lucien, [illegible]n[illegible]
West, Livingston, [illegible]
Western Australia, State of, [illegible]–[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
West New Jersey, Charter or Fundamental Laws of ([illegible]), [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Wetenhall, John, [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Weyden, Rogier van der, [illegible]
Wheless, Joseph, [illegible]n[illegible]
White, Andrew, [illegible]n[illegible]
White, Byron R., [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
White, John, [illegible]n[illegible]
White, Walter, [illegible]
Whitman, James, [illegible]n[illegible]
Wiarda, Gerard, [illegible]
Wickersham, James, [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Wienecke, Johannes Cornelis, [illegible]n[illegible]
Wikler, Norma Juliet, [illegible]n[illegible]
Wildhaber, Luzius, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible]n[illegible], [illegible]n[illegible]
Wilfold, Michael, [illegible]

Wilhelmina, Queen of Netherlands, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ willful blindness doctrine, ⬚⬚⬚
William III, King of England, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
William Mitchell College of Law, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, color plate ⬚
Wilner, Gabriel M., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Wilson, James, ⬚⬚⬚
Wilson, Woodrow, ⬚⬚⬚
Wilson-Chevalier, Kathleen, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Wind, Edgar, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ windows: in federal courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in Peace Palace, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f; stained-glass, ⬚⬚
Windsor (Vermont), Courthouse and Post Office in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Winkle, John W., III, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Winner, Matthias, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Wippman, David, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Wisdom (Virtue): as Gift Virtue, ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in hierarchy of Virtues, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; meaning of, ⬚⬚⬚; in Palazzo Pubblico of Siena, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Plato on, ⬚⬚; Solomon associated with, ⬚⬚ Wisdom, Book of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Wit, Jacob de, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ witnesses: Bible on, ⬚⬚; confrontation of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; examination of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; identifications by, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; location of, in courtrooms, ⬚⬚⬚; testimonial statements of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also Virtues
Wodehouse, Lawrence, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Wolfrum, Rüdiger, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Wolfson, Harry A., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Wolgemut, Michael, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ women: in Art-in-Architecture, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; controversies over depictions of, ⬚⬚⬚; discrimination against (See gender bias); equal access for, ⬚⬚; violence against (See domestic violence; sexual violence); Virtues depicted as, ⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ women lawyers and judges: in International Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚; in International Criminal Court, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; on judicial bias, ⬚⬚⬚; rise of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚ women's rights: Bentham on, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; and conflict over Marianne as symbol of, ⬚⬚⬚; in Holzer's Sacramento installation, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; and human rights, ⬚⬚⬚; influence on content of litigation, ⬚⬚⬚; intersectionality and, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚ women's suffrage, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Woodard, Roger D., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Woodlock, Douglas, xvii; on courtroom design, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in design of Boston federal courthouse, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; and GSA excellence in design standard, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Woods, Mary, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Woolf, Harry: on European Court of Human Rights, xvii, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; Woolf Reforms, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚. See also Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR); case management
Wordsworth, William, ⬚⬚
Work Projects Administration (WPA): Art-in-Architecture as successor to, ⬚⬚⬚; artistic freedom in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Biddle in, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; changes to program of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; diversity of artists in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; establishment of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; leadership of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; mission of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; Mississippi projects of, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in New Deal, ⬚⬚⬚; number of artworks created under, ⬚⬚⬚; proposed and final designs in, ⬚⬚⬚; selection criteria of, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also communism, concern about; public art; specific artists
World Bank, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See also International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes
World Court. See Permanent Court of International Justice World Trade Organization (WTO): Appellate Body of, ⬚⬚⬚; Dispute Settlement Understanding of, ⬚⬚⬚ World War I: human rights after, ⬚⬚⬚; peace movement interrupted by, ⬚⬚⬚ World War II: criminal tribunals after, ⬚⬚⬚; and federal courthouses, ⬚⬚⬚; human rights after, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; unlawful belligerents in, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Wren, Christopher, ⬚⬚
Wright, Frank Lloyd, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Wright, Richard, Native Son, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Wtewael, Joachim, Thronus Justitiae, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
WTO. See World Trade Organization
Wygers, Paul, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚

Yacobi, Haim, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Yad Hanadiv Foundation, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Young, Adrian, ⬚⬚⬚
Young, Ammi B., ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Yugoslavia: crimes against humanity in, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚; in International Court of Justice, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚. See also International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia

Zaleucus, Blinding of: in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⬚⬚–⬚⬚, ⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚; in Haarlem Town Hall, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; in Renaissance town halls, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚; story of, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚ Zambia, High Court of, ⬚, ⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚
Zambia Association of Women Judges, ⬚, ⬚f, color plate ⬚
Zapalac, Kristin E. S., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Zedillo, Ernesto, ⬚⬚⬚–⬚⬚⬚
Zelay-Coronado, Jorge Luis, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Zeus (god), ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚. See deities Zeydel, Edwin H., ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚
Ziolkowski, Theodore, xvii, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚ zodiac: in Amsterdam Town Hall, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in Mesopotamia, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚; in synagogue mosaics, ⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚nn⬚⬚–⬚⬚
Zola, Émile, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚
Zoller, Elisabeth, xvii, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚
Zuckert, Michael, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Zulberty, Michel, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Zuraw, Shelley E., ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚
Zutphen, Bernhard van, Dutch Law and Practice in Civil and Criminal Matters, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚, ⬚⬚⬚f, ⬚⬚⬚n⬚⬚⬚

Judith Resnik is the Arthur Liman Professor of Law Dennis Curtis is Clinical Professor of Law Emeritus at Yale Law School

THE RELATIONSHIP between courts and democracy is the central question of this book. The authors explore the evolution of adjudication into its modern form by mapping the remarkable run of the political icon of Justice and by tracing the development of public spaces dedicated to justice—courthouses.

Resnik and Curtis analyze how Renaissance "rites" of judgment turned into democratic "rights," requiring governments to protect judicial independence and to provide open and public hearings. Courts developed, alongside the press and the postal services, as mechanisms for building the public sphere and for calling the government to account. During the twentieth century, all persons gained access to rights of fair treatment in courts.

Today, however, private processes are replacing public ones, as public and private sectors promote settlement, devolve decision-making to agencies, and outsource judgments to arbitrators and mediators. Often clad in glass to mark justice's transparency, new courthouse designs celebrate adjudication without reflecting on the problems of access, injustice, opacity, and the complexity of rendering impartial judgments.

With more than 220 images, readers can see both the longevity of aspirations for the Virtue Justice and the transformation of courts, as well as understand that, while venerable, courts are also vulnerable institutions that ought (like the post and the press) not be taken for granted. The argument is that the movement away from public adjudication is a problem for democracies because adjudication has important contributions to make to democracy.

FRONT COVER ILLUSTRATION

Lady of Justice, William Eicholtz, 2002, Victoria County Court, Melbourne, Australia. Photographer: Ken Irwin. Photograph reproduced with the permission of the sculptor and the Liberty Group, owner and manager of the Victoria County Court Facility.

SPINE ILLUSTRATIONS

Saint Michael Weighing the Souls at the Last Judgment, Master of the Zurich Carnation, circa 1500, Kunsthaus, Zurich, Switzerland. Copyright: Bridgeman-Giraudon / Art Resource, New York, N.Y.

The Peace Palace, International Court of Justice, The Hague, the Netherlands. Architect: Louis M. Cordonnier, 1913. Photograph reproduced courtesy of the Carnegie Foundation.

Lady Justice, Diana K. Moore, 1996, Warren B. Rudman Federal Courthouse, Concord, New Hampshire. Photographer: Nick Wheeler. Photograph provided by the architectural firm of Shepley Bulfinch Richardson and Abbott. The image is reproduced courtesy of the artist and with the permission of the architectural firm.

BACK COVER ILLUSTRATION

Torture, Homicide (panel): The History of Justice in Mexico, Rafael Cauduro, 2009, stairway, Mexico Supreme Court of Justice. Image reproduced with the permission of Minister Guillermo I. Ortiz Mayagoitia, President of the Supreme Court, and in conformity with Article 83 of the Federal Law of Author Rights and in virtue of the patrimonial rights of the court.

When first published in 2011, praises flowed from across disciplines and oceans.

"This book is a richly documented study of the iconography of Justice, from Antiquity through its medieval personification as a Cardinal Virtue to the emergence of her figure as an independent icon of a social value. Tracing the continuing resonance of that figure to the modern courtroom and in the public imagination, Representing Justice demonstrates the power of an image to embody ideals and, when those ideals are ignored, to stand as an indictment of injustice."

—DAVID ROSAND, Meyer Schapiro Professor of Art History Emeritus, Columbia University

"The scope of the book is breathtaking. Through the iconography of justice, Resnik and Curtis chart the history of courts and public justice and compellingly make the case for the central role of adjudication to democracy. The combination of haunting and often visceral imagery with powerful analysis makes the book both a joy to read and an inspiration."

—PROFESSOR DAME HAZEL GENN, Dean of the Faculty of Laws, University College London (UCL)

"Representing Justice is a fascinating and ambitious study of the iconography of justice and what it reveals about attitudes towards a just society, impartiality, and authority, from the Renaissance to the Mexican Muralists. In this engaging and eminently readable book, the authors show how emblems, icons, and courthouses vividly embody the fundamentally democratic process of adjudication."

—RUTH WEISBERG, Roski School of Fine Arts, University of Southern California

"In this visually stunning and provocative book, Judith Resnik and Dennis Curtis lead us to think in new ways about justice as symbol, justice as reality, and the connections as well as the distance between the two."

—LINDA GREENHOUSE, Clinical Lecturer in Law and Senior Research Scholar in Law at Yale Law School

"How did a blindfolded lady holding scales became the ubiquitous image of justice? How have designs and decorations of spaces defined and redefined adjudication? Assembling monumental research, Resnik and Curtis powerfully show how images and buildings reflect and shape local and international justice across human history and how privatized dispute resolution, security concerns, and diminishing community participation erode the ideal and reality of courts' justice."

—MARTHA MINOW, Former Dean of Harvard Law School and the 300th Anniversary University Professor at Harvard University

"This is a profoundly original and rich book. By looking at the public iconography of justice, the book maps the evolution of courts and their relationship with public power and democracy as it has never been done. In this instance, an image is indeed worth a thousand words. Judith Resnik and Dennis Curtis offer us the images and articulate the words."

—MIGUEL POIARES MADURO, Professor and Director of the Global Governance Programme, European University Institute, Villa La Pagliaiuola

"Resnik and Curtis provide a stunning tour of the iconography and architecture of justice. Bristling with insights and steeped in learning, Representing Justice casts the relationship of democracy, justice, and law in an entirely new light. Both gripping narrative and deep meditation, there is no other book remotely like it."

—NANCY FRASER, Henry A. & Louise Loeb Professor of Political and Social Science, New School for Social Research

"This is an extraordinary book. It combines iconography of justice and claims about judges, courts, and democracy. With a deep sense of art and law, the reader is guided through the comparative history of judging, courts, and their role in society as manifested through the history of art and architecture. The book is a glorious proof that when judges sit at trial they stand on trial."

—AHARON BARAK, Former Chief Justice of Israel

octoberworks.com

ISBN 978-1-7321801-9-2

9 781732 180192 >